To Kim F. and Lorraine J. — Your friendship means a lot to me — love Kellie T.

Maxine — I'm sorry. You didn't deserve ... Please talk to me. — You know

Cool Kell — We should have no problem starting off on the RIGHT foot — N. Louise

Bon — I I love love double double Chex Chex, it's it's better better than the rest rest.

Dave — Would you rather kiss a elephant between the legs or a rabbit between the ears?

Dave "The Stripper" G. — Thought I disappeared, huh! WRONG!! So ... Remember that Sports Illustrated issue?! Does your woman meet your expectations like you hoped she would? I guess now you're not going to be a pigs farmer. By the way, "Congratulations" on your poems. I told you they were good, but No you wouldn't listen to me!! — Guess Who?

Skipper — What's that thing, I saw? Trying to hide it, huh! There's a first for everything!! Good luck these next four weeks. Don't stress too much. — Beany

Pokey and Boone — Thanks for the Charlottesville weekend. It was an eventful and interesting weekend!! "Humpback" is going to have to do without y'all, huh!! Just four more weeks. I'll miss y'all! — Beany

To 7th Floor Curry — Here is your personal. Believe it or not I can write. Keep up the activity on the hall. You all are the best floor on Campus. — Your beloved R. A.

Maxine — I'll get you back for that R. I. weekend baby! I owe you one. If you want me you know where to find me "Madina." — Love, Your R. and R

Coach — I promise no more fish or skateboarding on computers, Prince Songs, or serious questions. — From A chair without legs

Steve — Thanks for the ... Well, you know! — Your Bud

Melinda M. — Congratulations on your 23 loss. Keep up the great work, I know you can do it!! You can smile now that Hash will be coming back. Good luck in "Principles" and the rest of your classes. Just FOUR more weeks left!!! — Beany

Amy — Don't you just love playing Scooby Doo Detectives! — Love, Becky

To Allyson, Stacy, and Janice — Guys we've been through some rough times, and the semester is almost over. Our hall is falling apart enough, so let's try and hang in there, okay?! — Love, Cathy TEKS — Thanks for the best parties on campus. See ya next one, haven't missed one yet!

Just a reminder — The Great American Smokeout is November 15. Be sure to observe it! — L.C.S.

Beth — Good luck this week with initiation. Keep smilin' because you will be a great ΣΣΣ sister! I'll be thinking about you. — Stacey

Tracy B. — Thanks so much for all your hard work and support on the hall. The board looks great! — Thanks again, Stacey

SMC — You've got baaad breath and bo-dy ordor! Just kidding — Good luck with Σ initiation. — Love, LMM

"Sloozy Suz" — Hands off! Fiction and reality are not the same. — The Ones who know

Wanted: "Hateful" ant-eater Time: 11:30 p.m. Place: Will let you decide!! "Discretion" a must!! Respond to "ant-won" Box 291

SWF looking for SWM who is an anthropology major, has blond hair, usually doesn't wear shoes, and loves surfing. Will arrange home cooked meal upon request, but only if you provide pillows. — from a friend who attended field school with you.

Many thanks to Alpha Phi Omega for volunteering to help distribute the student phone books last week. Your time is greatly appreciated! — Ken and Mike

Bradley — I know the rest of this semester will be great for you. Just a few more weeks and we'll be home. Keep smiling because your smile is scintillating.

South Ruffner Sweetheart — I know sometimes life can be so ruff, but remember that Cool Kell and I are here for you — S.R.A.

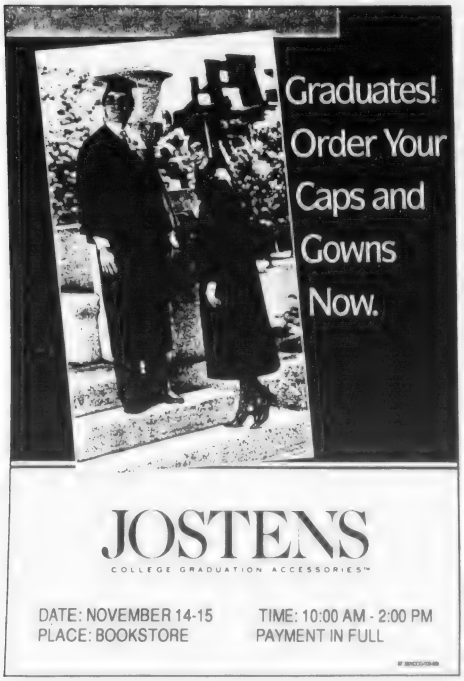
To Alpha Psi Omega — We are getting alot accomplished, let's keep the theatre spirit going and remember what Alpha Psi Omega is all about — Chris

Virginian Staff: You guys are awesome! Thanks for your great help. LCW

Amy – Your Big Sis is watching! Tau Love

Kathy B. – Congratulations! Karen

Tracy – Alpha Gam is behind you. Keep smiling and work hard. Love ya Amy L



Monica – Alpha Gam loves you. You know what I went through, but it is worth it. Keep smiling and everything will work out. Please call me. I think you're the greatest!! Love ya, Amy L.

Cheryl – You're a great kid! Keep up the work! A.f Love and Mine. Amy L.

Kristin _ Talk to him! Love your roomie

Hey Goo-Queens – We ain't licked yet. The big bomb has yet to drop. Hats off to the tape trick, but we've only just begun. Hoodoo-Goodudes

To the twins in Frazer – Two roommates desperately seeking your affection. Signed – needing your warm bodies in our beds at night.

SPORTS

Eagles Upend Lancers 2-1 in VISA Championship

A successful season ended on a down note for the Longwood soccer team Saturday when an inspired effort came up short in the Virginia Intercollegiate Soccer Association title game. Rival Mary Washington held off the Lancers for a 2-1 win and the VISA title.

It was a bitter disappointment for Longwood, and in particular for four seniors who played their last college game. Seniors Ray Jones, Mitch Rubin, Nils McCarty and Rodney Funk played on teams which compiled a record of 50-24-4. Longwood qualified for the VISA Playoffs three of four years, but was unable to win a title.

Spurred on by several hundred vocal fans Saturday, Longwood fought back from a 1-0 halftime deficit behind a furious attack in the second period. Even after a rapid-fire series of point-blank shots failed to cross the Mary Washington goal, the Lancers continued to attack. Longwood tied the count with 25 minutes left as Brendan Nash headed in a corner kick by Jones.

"I can't believe some of those balls didn't go in," said Lancer coach Stan Cieplinski. "It was a rough game, but we played well."

Mary Washington held off the Longwood comeback and got the game-winner with 18:39 left. Junior Bill Gavin scored a pair of goals to lead the Eagles.

Mary Washington, which won its third VISA title since 1984, ended the year with a 13-5-2 record. The Eagles had 11 shots to 10 for Longwood. The Lancers finished with an 11-6-1 mark. Longwood had beaten Mary Washington 1-0 in the regular season.

Seniors Ray Jones and mitch Rubin, sophomore Brendan Nash and freshmen Ross Johnson and Paul Hogan have been named to the VISA Eastern Division All-Star team. The five will play for the East in the VISA All-Star game in December.

Jones, who finished his career with a school record 70 goals and 43 assists was named all-division for the fourth straight year. Rubin, who had three goals and three assists this year, was chosen for the second time.

Johnson was Longwood's second-leading scorer with five goals and two assists. A standout on defense, Nash also scored four goals. Hogan logged seven shutoffs, while holding the opposition to 22 goals in 17 games. He had a goals against average of 1.33.

Haller, McCarty Co-Players Of The Week

Junior wrestler Kevin Haller and senior soccer player Nils McCarty turned in outstanding performances in their sports last weekend and have been named co-Longwood College Players of the Week for the period Nov. 4-11. Player of the Week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.

Haller, in his third year with the Lancer grapplers, won all four of his matches at the Virginia Military Institute Tournament Sunday, finishing first in the 118-pound class. On crutches until recently with a sprained ankle, Haller won despite the fact that he hadn't been able to practice in two weeks.

"I wrestled Kevin at VMI because I thought he needed some time on the mat before the Tech match [Virginia Tech at Longwood, Nov. 15]," said Nelson. "I only expected him to last one match, but he looked so sharp I decided to let him continue."

Haller, a graduate of Garfield High, has a 32-27-1 career mark. He was 13-9-1 last year.

Playing in his final college game, senior back Nils McCarty turned in perhaps the top performance of his four-year career Saturday in Longwood's 2-1 loss to Mary Washington in the Virginia Intercollegiate Soccer Association title game. McCarty was all over the field, making key defensive stops and leading the Lancer offense down field as well.

A 5-10, 165-pounder, McCarty saved two goals in the first half, darting in at the last second to boot away seemingly sure-fire Mary Washington shots. In the second half he brought the ball downfield several times, igniting Longwood onslaughts near the Eagle goal.

"McCarty had a tremendous game, both offensively and defensively," said Lancer coach Stan Cieplinski. "He came up with a couple of big saves and penetrated well in the second half."

A graduate of Gaithersburg High School, McCarty finished his career with seven goals and five assists. He played in 58 games for the Lancers over the past three years. He's a business major.

KEVIN HALLER

NILS McCARTY

Lancer Basketball Season Begins With Par-Bil's Tip-Off

After weeks of playing against themselves, the Longwood men's basketball team will have a chance to face some outside competition Friday when the 1990-91 season kicks off in the eighth Par-Bil's Tip-Off Tournament at Longwood.

The Lancers will play Mercy College at 7 Friday in the tournament opener while Lenoir-Rhyne and Francis Marion, a pair of teams who topped the 20-win plateau last year, square off at 9:00. The consolation and championship games are slated for 6:30 and 8:30 Saturday night.

Cheyney University beat the Lancers 69-64 in last year's tournament championship. The Lancers had won the title three years in a row prior to 1989. Par-Bil's Food Store of Farmville is sponsoring the event for the eighth year.

First year coach Ron Carr says his team is making some strides in preseason workouts.

"We're starting to make some progress, but it's hard to assess our chances, because I don't know much about the competition," said Carr. "Depth and consistency are the big questions. We look very good at times and very poor at times.

"We have some talented players, but they've never had to carry a team before. They're going to have to step forward and be leaders. We have so many new players, a new coach and a new system, but we're beginning to play together as a team."

Carr expects junior Joe Lowe and senior Billy Dunn to start at guard; senior Keith Katimer and sophomore Eric Letts at forward, and senior Greg Holloway at center. Dunn and Holloway were starters a year ago.

Forward Byan Weaver, a 6-5 sophomore, has been slowed by a sprained ankle, but should be available for at least limited duty. Juniors Travis Bohrer, Jay Bunnell, sophomore Keith Crabtree and freshman Michael Druitt are also expected to see action off the bench.

Wrestlers Hit Mat Against Va. Tech Thursday

By CHARLEY JACOBS

The Longwood wrestling team hit the mat in two tournaments spanning three days last weekend in a prelude to its first home match Thursday when Virginia Tech visits Lancer Hall at 7:00.

Competition began Friday night at the Pembroke State University Tournament and continued through Saturday. After the conclusion of the Pembroke Tournament, the team traveled to VMI Sunday for a meet sponsored for freshman and other young wrestlers.

The team struggled at Pembroke, with only two wrestlers placing in their weight classes. Sean House finished with a record of 4-2 for fourth place at 134. Charlie Parker placed second at 177 with a record of 3-1.

"I was not too pleased with the way we wrestled at Pembroke," explained head coach Steve Nelson. "But it was the first time this season that we had to make weight and wrestle the same night. That probably explains why we were so flat."

Sunday, the team traveled to Lexington to participate in the VMI Freshman Tournament. While dubbed a contest for freshmen, the tournament is open to wrestlers of any age, and gives younger, less experienced wrestlers a chance to gain more experience early in the season.

Junior Kevin Haller posted a 4-0 record in the 118 pound weight class and garnered first place honors. Haller, who has been sidelined for nearly two weeks with a sprained ankle and has been unable to practice, was expected to last only one match.

"I wrestled Kevin at VMI because I thought he needed some time on the mat before the Tech match [Virginia Tech at Longwood, Nov. 15]," said Nelson. "I only expected him to last one match, but he looked so sharp I decided to let him continue."

Also performing well at VMI were Mark Harris at 150 and Keith Goff at 158, who both finished the day 3-1 for third place in their weight classes.

Longwood hosts its first match of the season against Virginia Tech Thursday, scheduled for 7:00 p.m. in Lancer Hall.

CLASSIFIEDS

-FREE-
PREGNANCY
TEST

All services confidential.
Same day results.
SOUTHSIDE PREGNANCY CENTER
24-HOUR HOTLINE
392-8483

FAST FUNDRAISING PROGRAM

$1000 IN JUST ONE WEEK.

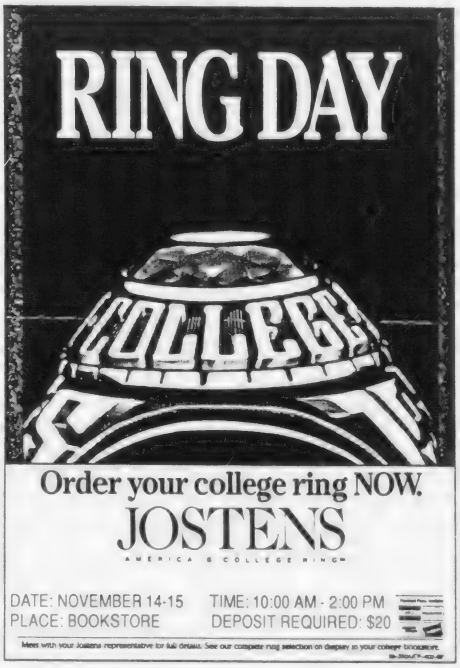
Earn up to $1000 in one week for your campus organization.

Plus a chance at $5000 more!

This program works! No investment needed.

Call 1-800-932-0528 Ext. 50

HELP WANTED



WANTED ENTHUSIASTIC INDIVIDUAL or student organization to promote spring break destinations for 1991. Earn commissions, free trips and valuable work experience. Apply Now! Call Student Travel Service at 1-800-265-1799.

HELP WANTED

SPRING BREAK 1991 — Individual or student organization needed to promote spring break trips. Earn money, free trips, and valuable work experience. Call Now Inter-Campus Program 1-800-327-6013.

HELP NEEDED to set up the spring floor for the gymnastic team on Mondays and Fridays. Earn $15 a night. For more details, call Beth at 392-6287.

SPRING BREAK CAMPUS SALES REPRESENTATIVES NEEDED — Free trip (Bahamas, Bermuda, Cancun, Jamaica, Rio), plus commission on sales, make your own hours, no money required. Horizon Unlimited Travel, 804-358-0172.

Order your college ring NOW.
JOSTENS
AMERICA'S COLLEGE RING

DATE: NOVEMBER 14-15 TIME: 10:00 AM - 2:00 PM
PLACE: BOOKSTORE DEPOSIT REQUIRED: $20

Meet with your Jostens representative for full details. See our complete ring selection on display in your college bookstore.

Short Notice

The Red Cross Blood Mobile, sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity will be held November 28th from 12 to 6 p.m. in the Red, White, and Green Room. Sign ups are November 12-15 during lunch and dinner hours in the New Smoker. All are welcome!

SMART — Student managed Academic Residential Tutoring is a new student support program sponsored by the Learning Center and the Cunninghams Hall Council to help you with your academic needs. Whether you need a tutor or study companions, we can help! Sessions will be offered throughout the year in the Cunninghams. For more information, check the bulletin board in the Main Cunningham Lobby or call Roger Hanna - 3002 or Scott Lissner 2391.

Beginning November 26 the Library's hours will be extended to 12 midnight Sunday through Thursday. During December 8-13 the library will be open every day until 12 midnight.

S-UN Movies, Die Harder: Die Hard II starring Bruce Willis will play Tuesday, November 13 at 9 p.m. in the Gold Room. The Hunt For Red October starring Sean Connery will play Friday, November 16 at 8 p.m. and Monday, November 19 at 9 p.m. in the Gold Room of Lankford Student Union. Admission is free!

Pre-order your yearbook today only $20. As of Jan. 1, 1991 the yearbook will cost $25. Mail check payable to the Virginian to Longwood College, Box 1134, include campus phone and box number. Thanks, Virginian Staff

Notice: We still have copies of the 1989-90 yearbook for sale $22. Send check to: Virginian, Box 1134, (Longwood) or come by Publications Office on T-TR 1:30-2:30.

Tonight at the Songwriters Association at Longwood meeting:

The BIG Boys
Columbia Records
A look at today's top record label

Plus: Special guest speaker talks about his experiences in sending demos to major labels, including Mercury-Polygram records

Meeting every Monday night 7:00, Gold Room

Don't forget to complete your RA/Desk Services evalutions this week. Return them to your RA or REC by Friday, November 16.

We recently received a request from Sleepy Hollow Manor Recreation Center which concerns the last wish of a seven (7) year old boy, Craig Shergold, who has a brain tumor and very little time to live. Craig's wish, as expressed to the Children's Wish Foundation, is to have an entry in the Guiness Book of World Records for the largest number of "Get Well Wishers" ever by any individual.

We would like to ask you to please take a moment to send a card to Craig at:

Craig Shergold, c/o Children's Wish Foundation, 3200 Perimeter Center, East, Atlanta, GA 30346

Xtra-Xtra!! — Lost: 1 Essentials of Managerial Finance Textbook was left in Post Office area by "Grave" mistake on Wednesday, Nov. 7 between 9:25-9:45 p.m. If found Please return ASAP!! Name, room and dorm number, and box number are in book. Will be eternally grateful!!

EXAMINATION SCHEDULE
FALL SEMESTER - 1990

Students having three examinations on one day may take one of the examinations during a scheduled makeup period. The instructor works out the arrangements with the student.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 8 — READING DAY

EXAM DAY/DATE	9-12	2-5	7-10
MONDAY DECEMBER 10	ENGLISH 051, 100,101 CONFLICT OR MAKEUP	M/W/F 11:30	M/W/F/ 1:30 AND MONDAY EVENING CLASSES
TUESDAY DECEMBER 11	M/W/F/ 9:30	T/R 11:20	T/R 3:55 AND TUESDAY EVENING CLASSES
WEDNESDAY DECEMBER 12	T/R 9:55	M/W/F 12:30	M/W/F/ 4:30 AND WEDNESDAY EVENING CLASSES
THURSDAY DECEMBER 13	M/W/F 8:30	T/R 2:30	M/W/F/ 2:30 AND THURSDAY EVENING CLASSES
FRIDAY DECEMBER 14	T/R 8:30	M/W/F/ 10:30	M/W/F 3:30 AND CONFLICT OR MAKEUP

The ROTUNDA

LONGWOOD COLLEGE

Vol. 70 No. 6 | November 19, 1990 | Farmville, VA

Photo credit: Judi Weiler

The Longwood Players have yet another success in their production of "Pygmalion."

Adolescent Control Topic Of Research

By TODD M. HALEY

As an Assistant Professor here at Longwood and a clinical psychologist, Dr. David B. Stein has written a book, Controlling the Difficult Adolescent: The R.E.S.T. Program

The R.E.S.T. (Real Economy System for Teens) program is "intended to 'put the brakes on the difficult adolescent so that more traditional communicative and cognitive methods have a better chance of succeeding," writes Dr. Stein.

The four basic Home rules of the program are hygiene, chores, verbal and physical abuse, and safety.

"Hygiene simply stated means clean room, clean kid by a specific time each day states Stein. Stein believes that on weekdays the specific time should be before going to school, and on weekends, allowances for sleeping in should be made. Once the time is set, Stein says to stick to it with no exceptions.

"One of the best things we can do for our children is to teach them to take care of themselves," believes Stein. Stein recommends that we teach children and teenagers basic skills, such as shopping, cleaning, paying bills, and doing the household budget.

"The chore rule means that the teenager is to do at least one major chore and several minor chores each day of the week," Stein comments.

Verbal abuse is common among teenagers and though physical abuse is rare, it does happen, says Stein; Verbal abuse or physical abuse should not be allowed to continue.

Stein recommends that for safety reasons, teenagers should have a set curfew each day; "I have little trouble with a 12:30 a.m. or 1:00 a.m. time limit on Friday or Saturday."

Level I of the program consists of a daily allowance pro-

(Continued on page 4)

Par-Bil's Tipoff: Longwood Finishes Second

By HOKE CURRIE

The 1990 Par-Bil's Tip-Off Tournament was a series of highs and lows for the Longwood basketball team. Unfortunately for the Lancers, the "low" part came in the second half of the championship game.

After breezing past outmanned Mercy College 87-47 in the tourney opener Friday night, the Lancers made just six of 30 field goal attempts (20 percent) in the second half of the title tilt, enabling Lenoir-Rhyne to come back from an eight-point halftime deficit and take a 64-55 victory.

The Bears, pre-tourney favorites in the minds of many, also landed four spots on the six-player all-tournament team (see below).

Lenoir-Rhyne had advanced to the finals with a 75-69 win over Francis Marion Friday night. Finishing third in the eighth Par-Bil's tourney were the Patriots, who routed Mercy 76-50 in the consolation game Saturday night.

A big "high" for the Lancers came in the first half of Saturday's title game. Playing with great intensity, Longwood stormed out to a 23-8 lead as seniors Keith Latimer and Greg Holloway dominated the inside. Holloway scored nine of the Lancers' first 23 points and Latimer had four. Longwood had a 27-16 edge on the boards by halftime.

Holloway ended the first half with 12 points and seven rebounds, but failed to score the rest of the way. Latimer had 10 of his 13 points in the opening period. Senior guard Billy Dunn was tops in scoring for the game with 16 points, but made just five of 20 shots from the floor.

"All in all, we did pretty well to stay in the championship game while shooting just 31 percent. For us to take the next step up we have to be able to concentrate for longer periods of time and get something out of each possession. We need to be more consistent over the whole game, rather than (trying to win it) all at once."

In Friday's opener Letts canned four of six 3-pointers in the first half enroute to a career high 14 points. He also led the squad with eight rebounds. Joining him in double figures were Dunn with 12 points, Bryan Weaver with 10 points and six rebounds and freshman Reggie Turner with 13 points. Turner, who suffered a mouth injury Saturday night, hit five of six shots from the floor and three of four free throws.

Longwood led 49-22 at the half. All 12 Lancer cagers played nine or more minutes in the contest.

In the championship game Weaver had an amazing nine rebounds in just 10 minutes of action, but failed to score.

Next up for Longwood is the Alabama-Huntsville Arby's Tournament Friday and Saturday in Huntsville. The Lancers play Columbus in the opening round while UAH takes on Berry. Next Monday night at 7:30, Longwood will host Virginia Wesleyan.

Four of six spots on the Par-Bil's Tip-Off All-Tournament team belonged to tourney champ Lenoir-Rhyne. Point guard Jody Petty, who had 24 points, 11 assists and seven steals in the two games, was voted the Most Valuable Player. Bear teammates John Jones (26 points, 13 rebounds), Keith Clarke (24 points, 11 rebounds) and Jason Coleman (29 points, 7 rebounds)also made All-Tournament.

Lenior-Rhyne chipped away at the early 15-point deficit behind the play of all-tournament choices Jody Petty, Keith Clarke, Jason Coleman and John Jones. By halftime, the Bears trailed by just 37-29.

Just before the half, Lancer guard Joe Lowe, twisted his ankle after attempting a free throw. Lowe, the team's floor general, sat out the entire second half because of the injury, crippling Longwood's offense. He should be able to play this week.

"Joe would have made a big difference for us, particularly on key possessions in the second half," said Lancer coach Ron Carr. "We missed his experience. Joe get the ball to the right man at the proper time."

It was Lenoir-Rhyne which dominated inside play in the second half. The Bears outscored Longwood 15-3 in the first five minutes of the half, turning an eight-point deficit into a 44-40 lead. The Lancers never led again as shot after shot clanged off the rim. A Dunn 3-pointer tied the count at 48-48 with 6:15 to go but the victors quickly regained the edge.

With the Bears shutting down the inside, Dunn and

Continued on Page 7

THE ROTUNDA WISHES EVERYONE A SAFE AND HAPPY TURKEY DAY!

CONTENTS

Commentary....2
News....3
Features....4,5
Personals....6
Sports....7
Classifieds....8

COMMENTARY

A Cry For Freedom

By ANTHONY TASSA
Junior

The American people are once again being told by the government of the United States that war may be necessary in order to preserve the freedoms and liberties which democracy allows. Once again, American men and women are being sent to a far away land with the possibility that war could break out at any moment plainly staring them in the faces. Lives may be lost, dreams shattered, and mountains of humanity may crumble, toppling endlessly into the void, but for what purpose may these things occur? Where is the fight and what is it all about?

When the United States entered World War II, the reason was clearly to fight against a power that had attacked our territory and certainly threatened freedom and liberty in every way. We were fighting against the powers of fascism and the evils of an insane madman. Korea and Viet Nam were wars, clouded by mystery, shrouded in the label "Police action," and there was no clear-cut purpose for our presence in either of those places other than the idea that we were fighting against communist aggression, protecting us from the possibility of the domino effect theory becoming reality. We were reacting to the paranoia created by a senator and his witch hunt; his inquisition. There has even been talk that war profiteering by high ranking United States officials played a major role in both conflicts and many, many lives were lost.

If history has taught us anything, it has taught us that we should learn from our mistakes. There was no clear-cut purpose for Korea or Viet Nam and the only things that emerged from them were madness and murder. We are now faced with the Persian Gulf situation and the only reason that has been clearly stated for our being there is to preserve the interests of fat, sloppy, slovenly, disgustingly greedy individuals who, through their manipulation of the puppet government of the United States, would rather risk the lives of a few thousand American soldiers than give up the weekend trip to Palm Springs. We may face war so that the aristocracy of our country does not have to suffer a financial setback. Human life is being placed in lower standing than the almighty dollar.

In a time when the so-called adults of this country are too concerned with the price of gas, and the possibility of a recession, we are seeing what spineless creatures the thirty-something, wonder years generation has spawned. They have decided that it is more important to keep the BMW running with a full tank of inexpensive gasoline than to give young Americans a chance at a free and happy life, as was the hope of our forefathers and the cause for which they gave their lives.

The time has come and something must be done by the youth of this nation. We must remember our freedom, our lives, our friend's lives, our brothers already in the gulf, those that gave their lives in the past, and our country's future, and if the only people that will benefit from an invasion of the Persian Gulf are those that care for nothing other than money and themselves, it must end now! We must not sit passively still! Complacency will only lead to the annihilation of thousands of young Americans!

We, the younger generation, must accept what has become our fight and stand up for our rights as individuals. Before we go wandering into the valley of the shadow of death to fight a war that means nothing to us, we must understand thoroughly what our purpose is. Should we willingly be the pawns of a government ruled by the rich of this country? Should we play puppet for those that desire money over anything else? If every American were willing to sacrifice a little of their financial standing and share with others, would there even be a need for our presence in the Persian Gulf?

Many people argue that it is a matter of preserving national freedom and worldwide security from the clutches of an insane madman. If this is the case, and this is the only reason for our presence over there, then we should support our brothers in this cause, but if money plays a single part in this situation the conflict must be sorely condemned. If our presence in the Persian Gulf is merely to support the financial interests of the richest of the American population, then the time has come for the youth to take a stand and rise up against the powers that be. All red, yellow, black, and white, united as one, hoping for a better and freer, unified country where all have equal opportunities and the whims and desires of the reigning money-mongers have no influence over the political thinkers of the country.

Changes In Chi Walks

Tuesday night, November 6, CHI walked as announced by the presence of a blue carnation on the first table in the upper dining hall. A couple aspects of the walk stood out as being different, though. The time for CHI walks has in recent years been established around 11 p.m., but in years past Longwood students didn't know when to expect a walk, at times waiting until 4 a.m. Staying up until 4 is a little bit much to expect of students both watching and walking, but just as Tuesday's walk was at 12:09, the unpredictable nature of CHI may make the time for subsequent walks a bit erratic.

Another change in Tuesday's walk was the ashing of the CHI symbol in front of Curry and Frazier. This seemingly strange addition was an attempt to draw the attention of Longwood students, faculty, and staff to this symbol which stands for the spirit of CHI. Let us remind you CHI is but a small representation of the entire body of Longwood. Please acknowledge the symbols across the entire campus. Your respect is something greatly valued.

Be prepared for more innovations, in some cases bringing back old traditions, and in others establishing new ones. In this the 90th anniversary of CHI (est. October 15, 1900) we're proud to still be able to say, "The spirit of CHI walks on".

A member of CHI '91

Quotable:

"My first wish is to see this plague of mankind — war — banished from the earth."

—George Washington

The ROTUNDA

Box 1133
Longwood College
Farmville, Va. 23901

Editor-In-Chief
Monica Y. Gilbert

News Editor
Beth A. Lord

Features Editor
Lindy Seymore

Sports Editor
Charlie Fultz

Photography Editor
Judi Weller

Layout Editor
Sarah Whiteside

Business Manager
Anita Owens

Advertising Manager
Bradley Owen

Faculty Advisor
Barbara LaJaunie

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed or printed neatly. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is 3:00 p.m. Friday prior to the Monday publication date and these should be placed in the envelope on the Publication door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by midnight Sunday.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an American Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

NEWS

Crime On Campus

By Denise Daubenspeck

Part 1 of a 2 Part Series

According to a report in USA Today, a college student becomes the victim of a violent act every 25 minutes.

St. Peter's College, West VA — a wrestler raped a student. The victim transferred due to the incident.

Lehigh University, PA — an undergraduate teacher victimized two students while they were taking showers. The undergraduate was allowed to stay at the university. The victims were never asked if his staying bothered them.

Lehigh University, PA — Jeanne, a student, was brutally raped and murdered in a residence hall in 1986.

Jeanne was the daughter of Connie and Howard Clery. The Clerys spoke of this incident during the Associated Collegiate Press/College Media Advisers (ACP/CMA) Press Conference concerning Crime on Campus in early November.

Since their daughter's murder, they have founded the Security on Campus, Inc., a center for those interested in the problem and lobbied for a national law requiring colleges to open campus security records.

"The Student Privacy Act of 1960 was used to secure student records, and is now used to hide criminal acts," said Howard Clery.

The Student Right to Know Act of 1990 would affect colleges and universities that receive federal funding. These schools would be required to publish crime statistics and campus security policies annually.

Colleges and universities would begin collecting the campus crime data on September 1, 1991, and publish the first reports which would include statistics of murder, rape, robbery, burglary, aggravated assault, drug abuse, weapon possessions, liquor law violations, and motor-vehicle theft on campus. This information must be made available to prospective and current students, as well as college employees.

The bill also includes a provision that would permit but not require colleges to disclose the results of campus disciplinary proceedings to victims of violent crimes.

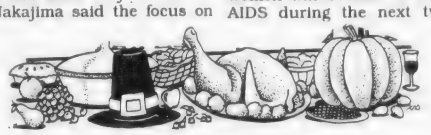
Representative Bill Goodling and Senator Arlen Specter were the first to introduce the Crime Awareness and Campus Security provision in the House and Senate less than a year ago.

"I want this bill to awaken students and make them safer," said Specter.

This act has already passed both the House and Senate by unanimous voice votes and awaits the President's signature.

The Security on Campus, Inc. "Will continue to fight even if our bill is passed," commented Howard Clery.

3rd Annual World AIDS Day - Dec. 1st



By DR. CHRYSTYNA KOSARCHYN
and
DR. PAT SHANK

December 1 will mark the third annual observance of World AIDS Day. Over 150 countries around the world including the United States have designated this day to draw public attention to the AIDS pandemic. World AIDS Day originates with the World Health Organization (WHO), specialized health agency of the United Nations, and is sponsored in the United States by the American Association for World Health. Since December 1 falls on a Saturday in 1990, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services has designated Monday, December 3 as the date for National HIV and AIDS Awareness Day. Formerly, National AIDS Awareness Day was observed in October. It was moved to December 3 to coordinate with World AIDS Day and to focus national AIDS education and prevention efforts.

Dr. Hiroshi Nakajima, Director General of WHO has announced that "Women and AIDS" will be the theme for World AIDS Day 1990. Dr. Nakajima said the focus on women on December 1, 1990 will reflect the increasing impact of AIDS on women, not only as a medical problem, but in terms of the crucial role women play in preventing infection with HIV and caring for HIV-infected people with AIDS. World AIDS Day 1990 will also draw attention to the special concerns related to HIV/AIDS and pregnancy, childbirth and raising children.

Worldwide, WHO estimates that eight to ten million people are now infected with HIV. Of these HIV-infected people, a total of over three million are women. During the 1980's, an estimated 600,000 people developed AIDS and over 150,000 were women. As a consequence, WHO estimates that during the 1980's up to 200,000 infants world-wide became HIV infected through perinatal (mother-to-infant) transmission. Projections based on the number of people currently infected with HIV indicate that 500,000 people will develop AIDS during the years 1990 and 1991 alone; of these, about 200,000 will be women. Therefore, more women will become ill with AIDS during the next two years than developed AIDS during the past decade. HIV/AIDS does not only affect women as a medical problem, however. HIV/AIDS affects women as care providers, health workers, educators and mothers.

Others will be touched by the AIDS epidemic when partners, family members and friends become infected with HIV. By highlighting the impact of HIV/AIDS on women in our country and around the world, World AIDS Day and National HIV and AIDS Awareness Day will expand and strengthen the worldwide effort to stop AIDS. At present, the only way to prevent AIDS is to educate people about the risky behaviors, sexual intercourse with infected partners and I-V drug use, that transmit the AIDS virus from person to person.

Board of Visitor's Member Planning International Business Seminars

Linda E. Sydnor, a member of Longwood College's Board of Visitors and director of institutional affairs, special projects and college events at Emory and Henry College, is planning an International Business Seminar at several locations in Europe during the month of June 1991.

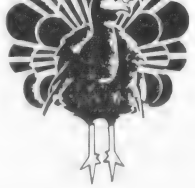
Business people and college students are invited to participate in the seminar, which will focus on international management, operations, information systems, and finance.

Participants will meet and interact with European students, American business people located in Europe, foreign business management and manufacturing managers, American and foreign commercial officers, and foreign trade consultants.

The schedule will include business meetings and workshops in Berlin, Moscow, and London and Grantham, England. The group will visit stock exchanges, European university business schools and intern programs, port authorities, and banks.

Persons interested in participating in the seminar may obtain more information by writing Mrs. Sydnor in care of the President's Office at Longwood or the Office of Institutional Affairs, Emory and Henry College, Emory, VA 24327.

Mrs. Sydnor is a principal in Virginia International Enterprises, Inc., of Emory. The company specializes in marketing and managing export of products and technology from Virginia to Eastern and Western Europe, Japan, and Thailand.



Earlier this month, Mrs. Sydnor was planner and moderator of a session on "Strategic Planning in Virginia Public and Private Colleges and Universities" at the annual meeting of the Virginia Association of Management, Analysis and Planning. The meeting was held in Williamsburg on Nov. 8 and 9.

In October, she participated in the 15th annual joint meeting of the Southeast US-Japan Association and Japan-US Southeast Association, held in Atlanta. She was a member of the Virginia delegation to this meeting by invitation of Governor L. Douglas Wilder.

Mrs. Sydnor received her B.A. degree from Emory and Henry College in 1965, a diploma from the Goethe Language Institute in West Germany in 1968, the M.S. in education from Longwood in 1978, and a second master's degree in business administration from the College of William and Mary in 1989.

She is a member of the American Association of Exporters and Importers, the National Association of Women Business Owners, the American Council on Education's National Identification Program for the Advancement of Women in Higher Education, and several other organizations.

Mrs. Sydnor was appointed to a four-year term on Longwood's governing board in 1985 by Governor Charles Robb. She is presently serving a second term upon reappointment by Governor Wilder.

PERSONALS

"Sloozy Suz" — Try to stay on your end of the hall, or better yet, find another hall!! Ha, Ha, Ha!!! — Sincerely, The Ones Who Know, The Ones Who Know

Many thanks to the Curry Hall Council and all the Curry students who sponsored the Halloween celebration. You did an outstanding job!

Dave "The Stripper" G — I heard you didn't like the personal last week! I also hear you're blaming someone who isn't even doing this. You'll never guess who I am. By the way, which DO you prefer the elephant or the rabbit? Do you and your girlfriend do "knock'n Boots"? Have a great Thanksgiving Break!! — Guess Who

To "Guess Who" — Are you obsessed with Dave "The Stripper" G, or what? Grow up and get a life of your own! — "His Woman"

"Guess Who" — "Guess What?" With every note I get, the more you let me know your identity is not safe. I thought I'd tell you so. For I think a time will come, and you will painly see. That the game is over. I know your identity. — Dave "The Stripper" G.

Dear Diary — I'm suddenly feeling a strange attraction to a girl named Maria. — Sincerely, Laura Palmer

4th Floor Curry — Hope you guys have a great Thanksgiving break — Moose

Dearest Amy Birindelli — We would like to wish you a very happy 19th birthday. π Love and hugs — Bill and Chuck

Hey Bozos! — Yeah you guys — K, S and S!! You guys are great friends. Have a WONDERFUL Thanksgiving break. Just remember pranks are done in fun. Smile guys! — Beany

T. — Stairs to the past, is where you'll hunt, to find this doll. Up they lead, to where who knows. Once they stop. No where to go. — CHI 91

Hey ARAT — Congrats on Tri-Sig initiation. Hope you had a good time Saturday night.

Lost: Navy blue L. L. Bean backpack. Left in the Dining Hall on Friday evening, Nov. 16. Contents included 5th grader's papers, books, etc. Reward offered if found. Call 395-2155.

PJP — Thanks for all of the advice. You are one of a kind and I'll never forget you!! Take care of yourself and keep in touch. — Someone who will always care

To the pledges of Alpha Gamma Delta — You all are doing a great job with everything! Keep up all your hard work and keep getting those interviews. We love you. Loyalty in Eπ — the Sisters of Alpha Gamma Delta

Hollie Phelps — Thanks for all the wonderful things you do. You mean a lot to me and I love you! — Ar love Polly

To all New EK Initiates — Congratulations on your initiation! The sisters are very proud to have you as our new initiates. You guys are awesome! — The Sisters of Sigma Kappa

Faye — You are the best roommate ever. Thanks for putting up with the belligerent cow!! — Love, Mel

Skipper and Beany — You have been the best suitemates (and friends) we could have hoped for. Don't think that just because we won't live here next semester that we can't still get you. We have left Herman to haunt you. — Love always, Boone

SVT — We've been through so much together, I can't imagine what we would have done without each other. Thanks for the memories. I'm sure we have a lot more good times ahead of us. — Friends Forever! JKB.

Jen — Hey initiate! Next time you do the "wild thing" with Robert, do it a little louder! That way we can all enjoy it! — Love ya! Liz and Kar

Whiteside is the right side for honor board.

Linda — I'm glad you found that great boyfriend, you definitely deserve him. Gotta love them roses, too! — Amy

April — You'd better stay away from them Frat boys. Remember what you already have waiting for you. But, then again ... you can still have fun! — Amy

Jen K. — You seen any Tater Skin lately? There's plenty of other things around here to help you pass your time, and I'm sure you've found them! — Amy

Cox 227 — Hey girls! I'm glad we all came back this year. All we are missing is Stretch and Jo! — Love ya, Amy

Jen D. — You need to come visit me soon. Remember that I do have some decent people living on my hall! What do you think? — Amy

Norma — Remember: Don't wear your purple bra with a white shirt! You could get into trouble. — Luv ya! Liz and Kar

Kar — Hey roomie! You're the best! This semester has been awesome. Remember: watch out for flying water! And the camera? And those jerks: Snob and sig? How stupid were we? Oh well! — Love, Liz

Karen — Next time try Gold Circle. It's transparent and why else would Jen give it to you? — Liz

Boone — It's almost over!! I guess we can't give up now. Thanks for putting up with me for 3-1/2 years! It's been interesting — Pokey

Beany — The weekend in Charlottesville was great. I'm sure we will do it again. Are you going to give Daryl his picture? Don't worry he's really harmless! — Pokey and Boone

To the Alpha Gam Pledges — Sunday night was beautiful. Thank you for touching a sister's heart.

To Mr. Grand — Wish I could be with you on your 22nd birthday. However, I do have a whole semester to get the task accomplish. Happy birthday — Sign Cutey Pie

Terrordome — Congratulations on your acceptance to VCU!! We wish you all the luck, cause we know you're going to need it! We will miss partyin' with you! — O-Nice and Trouble T.

Happy Thanksgiving — To all you Turkeys! — Gobble Gobble

Trouble T. and Terrordome — Have a great Thanksgiving and don't get into any trouble!! Oh, I forget — that's asking alot from you two!! — O-Nice!

James Trent, (Grand) — Have a Happy Thanksgiving and a great 22nd birthday!! — Dorrie

Bob — Let's make a midnight run tonight! What? Forget the test! I'll DRIVE! Looks like a wreck, feels like a sneaker!

Sushi — Things change — Grow with them and make them what you want them to be. Hang in there, you have many who care! — Kat

The unicycle Man wears flip-flops with no big toe! — PB's RH

Mr. U Man — Can't wait to take you home! — Your Campfire girl

Hey Blondie! Sorry Higgi keeps waking you up!!! Don't go blowing away on me! You're looking awesome!

Congratulations New ΣK Initiates! We love you Dana, Kati, Shannon, Tammy, Diane, Ann, Jenifer and Megan!!

Squak!!! — Loved that trip to Tech! ... pullover ... dubee, my Radford man, Perinis, Steele ... Vio ... Cocktails, 1991 here we come!!

Bonnie — I'll get it right this time: II love love double double chex chex its its better better than than the the rest rest. So ruff — We have heat!!

Martha — I am boy that want share feeling and emotion, pain and pleasure. Will you be connection? — Wang Chiling

To the Saxaphone player from DE — I may be uneducated, but I know what makes me happy! "Ooh, You're Gold!!!" — Love, The Blonde

LaVonda — Congratulations on making it into APO!! I am so proud of my roomie!! — Love you! Dorrill

The 4, Misfits — You are finally on Omega Essence!! I am happy to say you are my sisters!! I know the fun is just beginning — Faye

Congratulations to Susan A., Beth, Tara, Susan C., Ginny, Janice, Beckey, Jennifer, Donnis, Michele, and Karen on their initiation to Sigma Sigma Sigma. We love you very much!

PB and J — Butter me!! — Your Muffin

ΔΔπ sisters — I believe in you. Thanks — Baby Pi Trish

CHC — stop ... Curry Time, Ice Ice Curry! Thanks, your unorganized Prez.

To my big sis Julie — Glad you're my big sis ... Does this mean I get all of your "hand me down?" If so, what's S.C. doing Saturday night? — Your I'll sis Trish

To the one liner queen — You're Horrible! I'm over that bridge 'cause it doesn't walk the dog. Smile! — Your cute roomie

I love my adpi pledge sisters — Your all Cool — Trish

Thanx a lot Rotunda staff! We're almost half way through but we still have a lot to do. I couldn't do it without you. - Monica

COMING SOON...

Sell

Book$

for

Ca$h

BRING THEM TO

LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE

Mon., Dec. 10 Thru Fri., Dec. 14, 1990

9:00 A.M. - 5:00 P.M.

SPORTS

Lady Lancers Split Games

Courtesy of Public Affairs

The Longwood women's basketball team split a pair of games last weekend in their opening contests of the season when they traveled to Shippensburg University (Pa.) to participate in the Shippensburg Tip-Off Tournament.

Friday afternoon, Longwood lost the opening game to Pace University (N.Y.) 70-67, but rebounded on Saturday with a 108-45 drubbing of Concordia College (N.Y.).

As is the case with most tournaments, the home team arranged the brackets to their own advantage. Shippensburg played host to Concordia, 1-20 last season, in the first round, and matched Longwood with Pace, a team that posted a 23-7 record last year under the direction of new head coach Allison Jones. Despite the loss of four starters to graduation, Pace still posed a considerable threat.

"The loss of four of their starters didn't mean anything to me," commented head coach Shirley Duncan. "All the players the pace coach returned had lots of playing time last season.

"I really thought Pace was going to be a tough game. Any team we play from the north is usually aggressive and hard nosed, and Pace proved that again."

With the exception of junior Teresa Carter and senior co-captain Carmille Barnette, Longwood was simply dismal the first half. Carter shot 3-6 from the floor and Barnette sunk 6-10 including two three-pointers. The two accounted for 22 of Longwood's 32 halftime points. The remainder of the team recorded an embarrassing 18 percent from the floor for an overall team total of 34.2 percent for the half. Red-hot Pace dropped in 62.1 percent of their shots.

"We missed a lot of easy shots today," said Duncan. "Some players were just not as productive today as they usually are. We must have a third or fourth player in double figures [in order to win]."

Other than Barnette, who was 11-19 from the floor, 3-4 from behind the three-point arc, and 7-8 from the free-throw line, junior co-captain Salene Green was the only other player in double figures, scoring 12 points.

Longwood trailed the Lady Setters 32-41 at halftime, but closed to within one with 2:30 remaining in the game. A string of fouls and a traveling call allowed Pace to rebuild the lead to six points with only 10 seconds remaining. A last second 3-pointer by Barnette set the margin of victory at three points.

"I'm not disappointed," concluded Duncan, "but I'm not happy with the fact that we didn't take charge of the game. We gave up too many fast break points.

"The coaches are still learning a lot about this team and the character of the individuals. When we know what each can give, we'll play better as a team. But we can't give up games while we're learning."

The loss to Pace meant Longwood would be matched against Concordia, who lost to Shippensburg in Friday's second game. Concordia, a team that posted a 1-20 record last year, was Shippensburg's ticket to the championship game and an almost certain victory for Longwood in the consolation bracket. Shippensburg eventually lost the championship game to Pace 67-59.

At the final buzzer, the Lady Lancers had posted a new single game record for points, defeating the Lady Clippers 108-45. Longwood's previous high of 104 points was recorded twice, once against North Carolina Wesleyan and once against Bennett, both during the 1988-89 season.

Barnette led the Lady Lancers again, stuffing in 33 points and grabbing 10 rebounds. Joining her with double digit points were senior Ann Callaham with 24 and junior Cassie Mullenix with 13.

"We played in control against Concordia," commented Duncan. "We also had an opportunity to play everyone and see the team in several combinations."

A difference in the second game was the improved shooting, which rose from 35 percent in the first game to 53 percent in the second. Duncan was able to utilize her whole bench against Concordia, and all 12 players scored.

For her scoring prowess in both games, Barnette was named to the five-member All-Tournament team.

The Lady Lancers take a 1-1 record into their first home game of the season Tuesday against Elon College. The game is scheduled for 7:30 in Lancer Hall. Longwood hosts Millersville Sunday at 3:00.

Barnette Named Player Of The Week

Courtesy of Public Affairs

CARMILLE BARNETTE

Senior basketball player Carmille Barnette opened her season as the Lady Lancers starting power forward with two outstanding performances and has been named Longwood College Player of the Week for the period of Nov. 11-18. It marks the seventh time Barnette has earned this recognition. Player of the Week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.

The 5-10 Barnette, a co-captain of the 1990-91 squad, led the Longwood cagers in both scoring and rebounds in two games played in the Shippensburg University (Pa.) Tip-Off Tournament last weekend.

In the Friday afternoon 70-67 loss to Pace University (N.Y.), Barnette was 11 of 19 from the floor, 3 of 4 from behind the three-point arc, and 7 of 8 from the charity stripe for a total of 32 points. She also recorded 13 rebounds, three steals, and one blocked shot. During the consolation game played Saturday afternoon, Barnette scored 33 points, sinking 15 of 19 from the floor, including two of two from three-point land, to lead Longwood in a trouncing of Concordia College (N.Y.) 108-45. Included in her statistics for the day were 10 rebounds, six steals, five assists, and one blocked shot. For her achievements, Barnette was named to the five member All-Tournament team.

A graduate of Bluestone High School, Barnette averaged 28.4 points and 13.8 rebounds per game last year and was the only junior named to the Division II All-America team.

Longwood Wrestlers Fall To Virginia Tech

By MARK KIRK

Longwood's wrestling team opened the home portion of their 1990-91 schedule Wednesday night in Lancer Hall, dropping a dual match against in-state rival Virginia Tech.

The Lancers put up a hard fight in most of the matches against the Division I Hokies before falling 33-9. Most of the matches were up in the air until the third period, when the stronger Tech wrestlers took over and pulled out the victory.

"The kids didn't give up and only gave up two pins," said Longwood coach Steve Nelson. "Virginia Tech was able to dominate us in the third period because of their superiority on the mat. They were just able to wear us out in the end."

Winning matches for the Lancers were sophomore Adrian Joye at 126 and sophomore Mark Harris at 142. Joye defeated Bryan Silvis 14-5 as he dominated the match from the start. Harris crushed Namo Tanaka 19-4, winning the match on a technical fall.

Continued on page 8

Par-Bil's

(Continued from page 1)

Eric Letts were a combined 4-18 in the second half, shooting mostly from outside. After canning seven of 13 three-point attempts Friday night, Longwood made just three of 13 Saturday.

"I thought we played hard and made some improvement," said Carr, "but I was disappointed with our shot selection and our physical conditioning. It looked like we ran out of gas in the second half.

Named from Longwood were Dunn and Holloway. Dunn totaled 28 points in the two games, along with 10 rebounds, five assists and three steals. Holloway had 19 points and 14 rebounds.

Rugby Players Eat Their Dead

By SARA PARKER

Yes Longwood, there is a Women's Rugby Football Club, and we are fourth in the state. October 28 and 29, the Longwood College Women's Rugby Football Club (along with the Men's Rugby Club) went to Lake Taylor High School in Norfolk for the Ed and Sandy Lee Cup, which is the Virginia State Rugby tournament. Although we lost to JMU (7-4) and William and Mary (12-4), our club played strongly. Unfortunately we were outmatched by clubs that had more experience, and we had to shuffle positions just before the games as a result of losing several key players to injury or illness. However, we showed great potential, and next semester should be a winning season, especially if we play as we did against ODU.

Longwood shut out ODU (18-0) in a beautiful game that demonstrated the high level of play we are capable of with teamwork and the true desire to win. Having spectators to cheer us on helps us keep our winning attitude, so come support the LCWRFC next semester, and watch them dominate women's rugby in Virginia.

CLASSIFIEDS

HELP WANTED

SPRING BREAK 1991 — Individual or student organization needed to promote spring break trips. Earn money, free trips, and valuable work experience. Call Now Inter-Campus Program 1-800-327-6013.

HELP NEEDED to set up the spring floor for the gymnastic team on Mondays and Fridays. Earn $15 a night. For more details, call Beth at 392-6287.

WANTED ENTHUSIASTIC INDIVIDUAL or student organization to promote spring break destinations for 1991. Earn commissions, free trips and valuable work experience. Apply Now! Call Student Travel Service at 1-800-265-1799.

SPRING BREAK CAMPUS SALES REPRESENTATIVES NEEDED — Free trip (Bahamas, Bermuda, Cancun, Jamaica, Rio), plus commission on sales, make your own hours, no money required. Horizon Unlimited Travel, 804-358-0172.

FAST FUNDRAISING PROGRAM

$1000 IN JUST ONE WEEK

Earn up to $1000 in one week for your campus organization.

Plus a chance at $5000 more!

This program works! No investment needed.

Call 1-800-932-0528 Ext. 50

THE FIGHT AGAINST CANCER ALSO CALLS FOR A NAVEL BATTLE.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

Short Notice

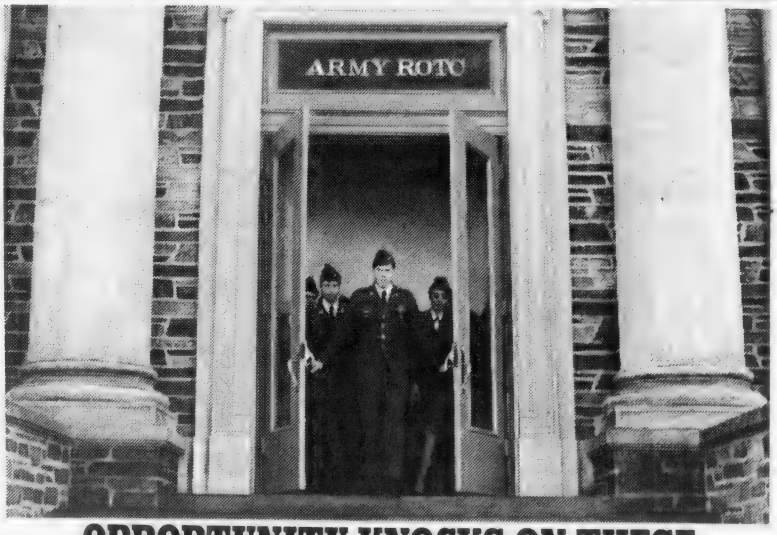
Attention Seniors — There will be a Senior Class meeting on Monday, November 26, at 9:30 in the Commons Room. The meeting will be concerning, senior ball, senior gift, and activities prior to May graduation.

There will be an organizational meeting for the Holocaust program on December 4, at 12:45 p.m. at the Episcopal Campus Ministry Center, 400 High St. Lunch will be served and all are welcome to attend.

Event: Edie Brickell and New Bohemians
Date: Monday, November 26, 1990
Time: 8 p.m.
Contact: Mark Perthel, Chesapeake Concerts, 5203 Leesburg Pike, Suite 604, Falls Church, VA 22041, 703/824-1525
Ticket Prices: $18.50
Sale Date: Now

Wrestling

Continued from page 7



"Mark Harris wrestled very intelligently and dominated his match. He is one of our leaders and he showed it," explained Nelson, whose team is now 0-1 in dual meets this year. "Adrian Joye also wrestled a really good match and did very well."

Another interesting match involved Longwood sophomore Sean House and Virginia Tech's Rob Henesy in the 134 weight class. In a tough, physical match, Henesy edged House 11-9. Longwood sophomore Greg Marshall also wrestled a unique match moving up two weight classes to replace the injured Doug Hartley at 190. Marshall put in a valiant effort before losing to the physically superior Jeff Stanley of Virginia Tech 7-1.

"Sean House wrestled really hard. He was involved in a very physical match against the defending state runner-up," said Nelson. "Greg Marshall also put in a very good effort to avoid a pin after moving up two weight classes. He usually wrestles at 158, so I'm very proud of him."

Longwood returns to action in a match with Newport News Apprentice in Lancer Hall Nov. 28 at 7 p.m.

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS ON THESE DOORS FIRST.

Why? Because Army ROTC helps you develop management and leadership skills. Builds your self-confidence. And makes you a desirable candidate in the job market.

There's no obligation until your junior year, but stick with it and you'll have what it takes to succeed — while you're in college and once you graduate.

LEADERSHIP EXCELLENCE

ARMY ROTC

THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

Contact: Captain Carson- 395-2238

The ROTUNDA

LONGWOOD COLLEGE

Vol. [illegible] December 3, 1990 Farmville, VA

Crime On Campus

Part Two Of Two Part Series

BY DENISE DAUBENSPECK

"Longwood is relatively safe, it's better on campus than in the community," said James Huskey, Chief of Campus Police.

During 1988 and 1989 there were 212 cases of larceny, 2 forcible rapes, 2 aggrivated assaults, 1 motor vehicle theft. There were no reports of murders, robberies, or arson.

"Statistics can be misleading. If crime statistics are low, it gives people a false sense of security. If statistics are high, people think crime is rampant," Huskey remarked. "It's good that students know about crime on campus, but I don't want students having a false sense of security or being mislead by statistics," added Huskey.

After a crime is reported, copies of the police report are sent to William Dorrill, President, Phyllis Mable, Vice President of Student Affairs Sue Saunders, Dean of Students, and any other administration whose area would be affected by the crime.

"Petty larceny occurs more because of the abundance of electronic equipment, such as TV, stereos, computers, etc. Assaults are less likely to occur because more people are moving around," commented Huskey. Many things have been done to reduce crime on campus, including better lighting, and the installment of emergency phones and new security system. Currently the lights in front of the Cunninghams, Wheeler, and Cox are being looked at for improvement. Another request will be for some to be cut back.

The 1990 crime statistics will be available in March of 1991.

This year's Angel Tree — presented by the Peer Helpers.

Lancers Have Win Streak

By HOKE CURRIE

Off to its best start in recent years, Longwood's men's basketball team notched a pair of wins in the Subway Doubleheader Friday and Saturday, beating Wingate 69-62 at home and Wesley 72-42 at Hampden-Sydney. The 6-1 Lancers have now won five in a row heading into a road tilt at Ferrum Monday night.

Hampden-Sydney, co-host of the Subway-sponsored event, also won twice over the weekend, beating Wesley 79-61 and Wingate 83-80. The Tigers are 5-1 with three straight wins.

Leading the Lancers were sophomore forward Eric Letts and senior forward Keith Latimer. Letts pumped in 15 points in both doubleheader contests, hitting 6 of 12 shots from 3-point territory. Latimer had 20 points and 19 rebounds in the two games while hitting 6 of 11 shots from the floor and 8 of 12 free throws.

While Letts and Latimer led the way, the Lancers got contributions from a number of players. Longwood, starting slowly, led Wesley by just 28-27 at the half Saturday night. Early in the second half, Letts, Latimer and guard Joe Lowe led a surge which carried LC to victory.

Latimer scored 12 points after intermission, Letts 7 and Lowe came up with several steals to fuel the Lancer break. Lowe tied his career high for steals with 5 and added 6 points, and 2 assists. Longwood also made 21 of 25 free throws in the second half (28-36 overall).

Continued on Page 7

EXAMINATION SCHEDULE
FALL SEMESTER - 1990

Students having three examinations on one day may take one of the examinations during a scheduled makeup period. The instructor works out the arrangements with the student.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 8 — READING DAY

EXAM DAY/DATE	9:12	2:5	7:10
MONDAY DECEMBER 10	ENGLISH 051 100.10* COUR. OTR MAKE-UP	M.W.F 11:30	M.W.F 7:20 AND MONDAY EVENING CLASSES
TUESDAY DECEMBER 11	M.W.F 9:30	T.R 11:20	T.R 7:15 AND TUESDAY EVENING CLASSES
WEDNESDAY DECEMBER 12	T.R 9:55	M.W.F 12:30	M.W.F 4:30 AND WEDNESDAY EVENING CLASSES
THURSDAY DECEMBER 13	M.W.F 8:30	T.R 2:30	M.W.F 5:55 AND THURSDAY EVENING CLASSES
FRIDAY DECEMBER 14	T.R 8:00	M.W.F 10:30	M.W.F 6:25 AND COURSE OR MAKE-UP

Look for changes next semester in the new and improved ROTUNDA!

United Way Nets Over $1,600

Thanks to Longwood's Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity and the efforts of numerous volunteers, the Prince Edward County United Way received more than $1,600 donations over the weekend at the Subway Doubleheader.

Longwood and Hampden-Sydney Colleges, hosts of the doubleheader, observed United Way Night at basketball games Friday and Saturday with fans being asked for a donation as the price of admission. In addition, TKE presented an $800 donation to the United Way at halftime of the Longwood-Wingate game Friday night. The TKE's also donated the proceeds from concession sales at Friday night's games.

Joyce Eggleston and Debbie Epperson of the Prince Edward County United Way, who helped coordinate the project, expressed thanks to the volunteers who collected funds over the weekend.

"We really appreciate the support of the basketball fans who made the donations," said Eggleston. "It was great for Longwood and Hampden-Sydney to support the project. We also want to thank the TKE's, the Panhellenic and Interfraternity Councils at Longwood, and Robin Hunnicutt, United Way Night co-ordinator, who made the whole thing possible."

CONTENTS

COMMENTARY

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Anthony Tassa's "Cry for Freedom" is something worth striving for; unfortunately it is incredibly oversimplified. Governments and countries do not run on peace and love: If they did, we would all be living in Utopia. Luckily, the United States government has checks and balances. True they don't always work, but for a country this size; they work remarkably well: The founding fathers had great foresight into the greed and avarice of mankind, thus in many instances the greed of different factions of government have been used to make our government stronger. As long as men are driven by power and as long as we have checks and balances, it will be difficult for a powerful dictator to gain control of the government. The United States economy is heavily dependent upon foreign oil, because of this, troops are deployed in Saudi Arabia: My brother is included amongst those troops. I will not begin to speak of the situation as right or wrong; I don't have enough facts. What I do argue is that the thirty-something generation is not spineless; they are realistic. If you were thirty-five with two kids, a mortgage and car payments you might be a little scared of a recession too. Unfortunately, families cannot live on seven dollars a week (the cost of a case of Beast.) Students and youth are naturally quicker to condemn adults. As youth, we have much less to worry about. I do not condemn Tony, I just ask for a little broadness of view. There is no evil mass of thirty year olds out there who exist only to crush the little guy. In fact, if I'm not mistaken, many of those "spineless creatures" were heavily involved in the effort to end the Vietnam war. I would like to see Tony's viewpoint when he is "thrity-something."

Burton

Dear Editor:

I am writing to express a concern of mine aroused by an article I read in the Rotunda, Nov. 5. Once again Longwood has embraced an organization conducive to blatant segregation. Statements such as "a graduate sorority for BLACK women who were in the field of business" are a frustration to me. I can't imagine the horrified response an organization would receive were it developed for WHITE businesswomen.

I came to Longwood in the Spring of 1987 along with a black high school friend very dear to me. From that time on he has doubted my friendship and questioned racial differences never before recognized between us; these differences he admits were brought about by the separatist views of the black community at Longwood. My first semester suitemate, a black girl, alienated herself from the other five in the suite who were white. Only because of my persistence did she eventually even speak to me; our conversations were restricted to the privacy of our rooms though — in public she never could acknowledge me. Now three years later, I have black friends here at Longwood, but these are people to whom our difference in color has meant no more than the shape of our noses. Most importantly they don't expect of me an attitude stereotypical of whites 30 years ago.

I'll be the first to admit that for centuries the black race in America has received a tremendous amount of unjust persecution, but much of the bad feelings of today are initiated by exclusion on the part of blacks. I wonder do the bylaws and constitutions of those segregated campus organizations clearly state what race may be accepted? This further creates a separation not only of color but of culture; there is so much we could learn of each other if only given the opportunity.

I believe a greater comfort than commiseration may be found in communion. We can't change the past but we can mold and direct, with our attitudes, the long lives ahead of us.

REBECCA TODD, Senior

Editorial Response

To Rebecca Todd:

I too believe that we all need to work together towards greater understanding and caring about each other but look into all the organizations before picking out just one.

"Blatant segregation" is not how I would describe the organization that you are referring to. As a member of this organization, Iota Phi Lambda Sorority, Inc., I can tell you with certainty that we are not a biased group. The statement that we were founded as a "graduate sorority for black women who were in the field of business", is a statement of fact. This is what happened 61 years ago and black women are whom it was founded for. However, if you read the very next line, it says: "It has now come to include women who are professionals in all fields." Notice that race is not mentioned. This is once again a statement of fact and the fact is that we have white sisters. They are working towards the same goal as the black sisters which is to help young black women achieve success in the professional world. That is the main goal of our sorority and it doesn't matter what race you are, as long as you are willing to help in that goal.

I cannot speak for everyone, only myself and my feelings but this is one part of the racial issue that I grow tired of. Some blacks may actually be "excluding" themselves from the rest of the world but most are not. Having black organizations or any other type of organization that is mainly for one group is a way of bonding with those closest to you. It promotes unity and understanding within your own group so that you can face the negatives of the world and make a change. It is only when that group becomes hostile and it uses stereotypes of another group as its focus goal that you should become worried. Those are the types of actions that we need to ban together to fight. Those are the types of people that still have power and that is the real issue.

Monica Gilbert
Junior

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE ROTUNDA!

For more information:
Contact Brad Owen
Phone (804) 395-2120 or 395-3253

Box 1133
Farmville, VA 23901

The ROTUNDA

Box 1133
Longwood College
Farmville, Va. 23901

Editor-In-Chief
Monica Y. Gilbert

News Editor
Beth A. Lord

Features Editor
Lindy Seymore

Sports Editor
Charlie Fultz

Photography Editor
Judi Weller

Layout Editor
Sarah Whiteside

Business Manager
Anita Owens

Advertising Manager
Bradley Owen

Faculty Advisor
Barbara LaJaunie

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed or printed neatly. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is 3:00 p.m. Friday prior to the Monday publication date and these should be placed in the envelope on the Publication door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by midnight Sunday.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an American Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

NEWS

Increase In Tuition Is Problem Throughout

By AMY HUDSON

(CPS) — Students will be paying higher prices for classes, some as soon as next month, various campuses have announced.

The funding emergencies that have crippled states across the country have forced a number of campuses to impose unusual tuition hikes.

As a result, hundreds of thousands of students will be writing bigger tuition checks for spring term than they wrote for fall term.

Massachusetts students will take the biggest hit, paying as much as $625 more for spring semester at most of the commonwealth's public campuses. It could have been worse. Voters Nov. 6 defeated a proposal that would have rolled back all taxes and fees to 1988 levels.

In New York, North Carolina, California and Virginia, students at some campuses will pay more this spring in the form of emergency fees, tuition increases or special "user" fees for anything from health care to the right to use computer labs.

Additionally, students at the University of North Dakota, St. Cloud State University in Minnesota, Loyola University in New Orleans and the University of California-Davis could end up paying more this spring for various services.

"There's going to be some (more) for sure," declared Richard Novak of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities, a Washington, D.C.-based group.

Many students, however, resent the increases, saying they've been unfairly targeted.

"Every time we pay more, we don't get anything back," complained Massachusetts College of Arts student Kirsten Friar.

Others say the campuses should trim the budget by cutting jobs of high-paid administrators.

Higher Fees, Too

"It's really obvious there is a lot of fat at the administrative level," said David Topitzer, a student government member at the University of Massachusetts-Boston, whose spring tuition bill is up $400 over fall's.

Following a "temporary legislative surcharge" of $41.50 levied on all students in the University of North Carolina system, students at Appalachian State University may be hit with a $270 increase in fees for athletics, health services, student activities, student union expansion and textbook rental.

The tuition hike would help offset an anticipated cut in funds as the state tries to reduce spending to close a growing budget gap.

Public campuses in Virginia were the first to announce mid-year tuition hikes, hoping to plug a $1.4 billion hole in their two-year budget.

The price hikes in Massachusetts were emergency measures, maintained Peter Chisholm of the state's Board of Regents.

Over the last three years, he noted, state funding for higher education there has dropped by $160-$170 million. This year across-the-board cuts, coupled with budget revisions, have left the state's 29 campuses with a $50 million shortfall.

"Only in the most dire situations do they occur," said Novak of the price hikes.

A Tax Problem

By all accounts, this is one of the most dire years on record in terms of state funding of higher education.

The rate of increase in state support for higher education is at a 30-year low, according to a mid-October study by the Center for Higher Education at Illinois State University.

States will spend $40.8 billion in 1990-91, 11.6 percent more than they did two years ago. It's barely enough to keep up with inflation, the study found.

Many state legislatures, hurt by slowing sales tax revenues, lower-than-expected income tax receipts and slow economic growth, don't have as much money to allocate as they'd anticipated.

If anything, emergency price hikes often help send a message to the public and state legislators about the situation in higher education, Novak said.

In Illinois, he said, wildly unpopular budget cuts that forced mid-year tuition hikes two years ago prompted state legislators to implement a temporary increase in the state income tax. The new tax in turn amounted to a 22-percent two-year rise in state support for higher education.

The mid-year price hike, Novak said, "definitely played a part."

Shred Center.

Enjoy winter's newest challenge, Snowboard Skiing at Massanutten. Hone your skills as you rip from peak to base. Show your skills on our challenging half pipe.

Snowboard skiing is permitted on all open slopes and trails, including our two new slopes from the top of the mountain. Lessons and limited rentals are also available.

College Twilight skiing rates ($12) apply on Monday and Friday. With your valid college ID and this ad, lift tickets to snowboard ski are just $10.

Come ski what's new at Massanutten.

MASSANUTTEN

10 Miles East of Harrisonburg, Virginia on Route 33

El Cabrito's

392-4104 Mexican Restaurant S. Main St. Farmville

COUPON

BUY 1 TACO- GET 2 FREE!

El Cabrito's

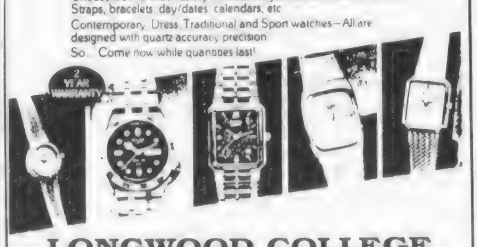
We Deliver From 5 p.m. - 11 p.m.! CALL 392-4104

SOUTH MAIN STREET, FARMVILLE

(Next door to Subway and across from the highrises at Longwood.)

BULOVA'S WATCH BONANZA

UNBELIEVABLE SAVINGS!



YOUR CHOICE $59.99

REGULARLY UP TO $295.00

Choose from a wide variety of Bulova styles for both men and women. Straps, bracelets, day/dates, calendars, etc.

Contemporary, Dress, Traditional and Sport watches—All are designed with quartz accuracy, precision

So... Come now while quantities last!

LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE

Hours Monday - Friday 8-5, Phone 395-2084

FEATURES

Company Of Dancers Concert

The Longwood College Company of Dancers will present their annual fall concert on Thursday and Friday evenings, Nov. 29 and 30, at 8 o'clock in the Dance Studio of Lancer Hall. The performances are open to the public free of charge.

The program will feature a variety of dance styles, several choreographed by student members of the company.

"50s Rock," choreographed by Betsy Gee and Niki Smith, is based on popular dances of the 1950s and early 1960s. "Footloose and Fanci Free" is a tap number choreographed by Kerensa Mohney.

"Ghost" is a modern ballet with storyline based on a dream. Karla Marotta choreographed the ballet and dances the part of a dreamer who interacts with both good and bad ghosts.

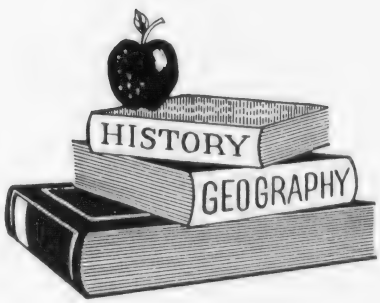
The entire Dance Company and director Nelson Neal will dance "Typically Western," choreographed by Ann Czompo, a member of the dance faculty at the State University of New York, College at Cortland.

A takeoff on Agnes de-Mille's classic ballet titled Rodeo, the western dance includes five "episodes"--Morning on the Ranch, Saturday Night at the Saloon, Hoedown (square dance), Train Robbery, and Rodeo and Finale. Dr. Neal dances the part of a bronc buster, the same role he danced during his student days at Cortland.

The final dance on the program is "Blues in the Night," choreographed by Sam Holley, a faculty member at Chowan Junior College in Nortl; Carolina.

Members of the Dance Company, in addition to those already mentioned, are Jill Hartt, Michelle McKay, Sheri Parks, Ricky Parham (student at Hampden-Sydney), Angie Sawyer, Fran Siebert, Amy Smith, and Larry Wylie.

Lisa Edmonds shows her ability to laugh in the face of fear. The Bloodmobile was sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity.



Sell Book$ for Ca$h

BRING THEM TO:

LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE

MONDAY, DECEMBER 10 THRU FRIDAY, DECEMBER 14

9:00 A.M. - 5:00 P.M.

Phone 395-2084

FEATURES

Candlelight Concert

Courtesy of Public Affairs

Two performances of Longwood College's Candlelight Christmas Concert will be presented on Tuesday, Dec. 4, in Wygal Recital Hall. Performance times are 5 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Admission to the concerts is free, but tickets are required. To obtain tickets, call the Longwood Music Department office at 395-2502.

The performances will feature Longwood's Concert Choir and Camerata Singers, directed by Dr. Donald Trott; the Handbell Ensembles, directed by Dr. Paul Hesselink; and the Brass Ensemble, directed by Dr. Gordon Ring.

The program will include many traditional Christmas favorites - "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen," "Here We Go A-Caroling," "Beautiful Savior," "The Coventry Carol," "Sleigh Bells," "Angel's Carol," "Silent Night," and others.

CPCC's Holiday Helpful Tips

Office of Career Planning and Placement

Not that you haven't already thought up lots to do, but the month-long break offers an excellent opportunity to do one or more of the following:

1) Interview friends, acquaintances, alumni, parents of friends, friends of parents, etc. for information on their fields or organizations. A set of guidelines on Informational Interviewing is available in the CPPC Career Library.

2) Use CPPC's Alumni Network, Longwood alumni willing to assist you in gaining career information and possible job leads.

3) Arrange actual job interviews with prospective employers of your choice, if you're already past step #1.

4) Conduct employer/career field research at your local library. Directories of all sorts exist — just ask the reference librarian for assistance.

5) Work on your resume, if you haven't already done so.

6) Develop a job objective. If you don't know what you want to do, now is the time for some serious thought. Steps #1 and #2 would be helpful in this process. An additional idea is to ask one of your contacts (from step #1) if you could "shadow" him/her for part or all of a day at the workplace.

This experience could give you some exposure to a work setting, a chance to ask questions/receive answers, and a first-hand opportunity to observe daily activities in that particular organization. Even if you decide that the job is not for you, you will have made that decision in a timely fashion.

Good Luck and Good Hunting

LC's Authors Series Presents O'Grady And His Poetry

Courtesy of Public Affairs

Longwood College's Authors Series will present Tom O'Grady, reading from his poetry, on Wednesday, Dec. 5, at 8 p.m. in Wygal Auditorium. The reading is open to the public free of charge.

Poet-in-residence at Hampden-Sydney College, O'Grady is founder and editor of the Hampden-Sydney Poetry Review. His poetry collections include Establishing A Vineyard, The Farmville Elegies, and In the Room of the Just Born. In addition, his poems and essays have been published in hundreds of anthologies, magazines, and newspapers.

Winner of the Virginia Prize for Poetry in 1989, O'Grady was nominated for the Pulitzer Prize that same year. He also received the 1989-90 Teacher of the Arts Award from the National Foundation for Advancement in the Arts.

He has taught and given lectures and readings at numerous schools and colleges in the U.S. and in Mexico, Czechoslovakia, Belgium, France, and Scotland.

A graduate of the University of Baltimore, O'Grady received his master's degree in English from Johns Hopkins University and has done additional graduate study in American and English literature at the University of Delaware.

Owner and vintner of Rose Bower Winery, he has received various wine-making awards, including a gold medal for his 1982 Chardonnay.

AST Leads In Conference

By the Ladies of Alpha Sigma Tau

The Alpha Sigma Taus attended a Regional Leadership Workshop the weekend of November 16-18. The event was hosted by the Alpha Lambda chapter of AST at Radford University. The participants included Karen Brandt, Christie Champion, Elyse Englehart, Kathy McMahon, Megan Janney, Mish Williamson, Susannah Pinch, Laura McDowell, Christy Boger, Beth Hutson, Kirsten Kelley and Jen Dooley. Nine other chapters of Alpha Sigma Tau from around the region attended, as well as their National Officers, Council and Staff. The Alpha Taus spent a fun and exciting weekend learning and sharing the values of sisterhood.

Workshops were held on Rush, Panhellenic, the pledge period, time management, and a chapter management workshop given by their National President, Miss Patricia Nayle. Banquets, candlelights, sharing of skits, songs and sisterhood were also enjoyed by the Alpha Taus. The weekend was concluded with an awards ceremony in which Longwood's chapter was presented with Best Performance and Most Outgoing Chapter. Congratulations Alpha Taus!!

Short Notice

The Songwriters Association at Longwood will have a Christmas party Monday, December 3, 7:00, Gold Room.

Come celebrate the Christmas season! Bring yourself, a friend, or some of your favorite Christmas music. If you have a demo tape, bring that too! Special feature - Tempest and their Christmas album "Rockin' Holidaze".

The President of the VA Watercolor Society, Betty Calabira, will give a lecture and slide show entitled, "The Watercolor Connection," sponsored by Central VA Arts in cooperation with Longwood College.

Date: Sunday, Dec. 9th
Location: Bedford Auditorium

Time: 3 p.m.
Admission free!

Students, staff and faculty are invited to attend.

Kings Dominion

Is Now Hiring
for 1991 Weekend and Summer Jobs
During
SPECIAL INTERVIEW DAYS

Interviews will be held at the Kings Dominion Personnel Office on Wednesday, December 26 — Saturday, December 29, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. and Monday, December 31, 9 a.m.-3 p.m.

Interview hours after January 2: Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Kings Dominion Offers Excellent Benefits:

- Great pay rate
- Employee activities
- Opportunities to advance
- Bus transportation available from designated areas
- Help with carpools
- Time off for vacation
- Weekly schedules of 20-40 hours during the summer
- Clean costume provided daily
- Opportunities to fulfill internship requirements
- Discounts on merchandise
- Unlimited use of the park
- Complimentary tickets
- Credit for marketing and cooperative education programs

For more information or employment brochure, call 8-5 p.m. Kings Dominion Personnel Department P.O. Box 2000 • Doswell, VA 23047 • 804/876-5061 ext. 661

PERSONALS

Chit-Chat: Watch out for all those men! You're still not a grown-up, you know. I'm watching out for you. Wear turtle necks often and do well on exams. — Alpha Tau Love, Chuckles

Karen, Elyse, and Christie — What a sightseeing road trip we had! Thanks for the inspirations and the laughs. — Alpha Tau Love, Wilson Pillips on the rocks

Mel — You're awesome! I love being your roommate, even though you're nuts. Two snaps, a twist and a kiss — stop can't touch this! — Love, Faye

Go Greek Spring Sorority Rush, January 27 through February 2, 1991.

Go Greek Spring Fraternity Rush. January 28 through February 1, 1991.

Interested in learning more about Spring Sorority Rush? Come to the Panhellenic Rush Information Night, Thursday, December 6, at 7 p.m. in the Gold Room. For more information call the Greek Affairs Office at 2118.

Hey Bozos! How was your break?! Well just 2 more weeks left and there will only be one bozo left (Ha! Ha!) I'll miss you two guys (Boone and Pokey) and you BETTER come and visit. Skipper, just remember you have a roommate to talk to if you ever need someone to talk to! Have an awesome Christmas break and graduation!!!. — Beany

Brad, Dave and Karen — Good luck on EXAMS. Have a safe and fun Christmas break. — Tammy

To the Women's Rugby Team! (and Glenn) — Anyone remember the end of the year party? I sure don't. Nice chin-up bar. Wow! Hey Glenn — did I see you? Ha! Ha! It was a great season. Can't wait till next semester! See ya'll later! — Kimmy

KTM — Go lumberjack, go! How's the toy? Watch out for those long blonde hairs, and don't forget to fix that loft ... thank God for that middle brace! Remember a roll of t.p. next outing to D.T.s! Happy holidays, 'ya pud ... okay, so maybe I'll miss you a little. — RA

ORG — Tell Chi-Chi to take a break over Christmas! How about those bed time stories? Ho! Ho! Ho! — Love, — Growth and Chocolate

Bubba — If you used Velveeta your doily would not be dirty. — Bubba

Monica Craft — You are the greatest kid ever! You make me very proud! — Love, Your Sister — Mom

Dave — I hope you enjoyed the whipped cream on your face. Thanks for the rose. — Bennie Pumpkinhead!!

So Ruff — Hang in there — Christmas Break is coming soon. — Nancy and Cool Kel

Larry — And she takes the turn smoothly only to hit the flagman. Oh well, we still made it back to Longwood.

Margaret — How's Jersey in the Summertime?

Hawlee — I know that we have disagreements — too many, but we've had alot of good times together! You're very special, and you're a darn good roomie.

P.S. Please don't slam the door, when I'm asleep — just joking! — Love, Me

Kathryn — Should I charge your parents for the deep-down shine! — U-man

Dave "The Stripper" G. — Thank you for the personal last week, it was my first one. By the way! Tell YOUR WOMEN that I'm not obsessed with you and that I could also be a male having some fun with a friend. Like I said before this is only done in fun and if I have been "hitting below the belt" then I'm sorry. If this really bothers you, then I'll stop. Just remember that you'll never know who I am and that you will hurt alot of people if you guess wrong. Until next time. — Guess Who?

Stephanie Powell — Remember everything I said about the guys at H-SC? Well, I take it back! Not all of them are bad. Thanks for making me see things in a different light (and thanks to Lauri Labyak for introducing me to Scott). You have been such a good friend and sister. Congratulations on graduation. I'll miss you. ΣK love and especially mine — Sharon

Kevin — Here's to more of our late night study sessions, and "defacing, of signs", and star-gazing (no more bruises, okay?)... so maybe you are a little corny ... But I dig 'ya! — RA

Puddles — Hey, hon! Hit it hard or don't hit it at all!! Thanks for everything! Love ya, dude! — Chill

1990-91 Gymnastics Team — You're looking great guys! Let's go for it next Friday and show Longwood how gymnastics is really done! — Love ya'll!! — Chill

Herb — Want to hide in my closet? You're the greatest — even if you do rag on me a lot! I love you! — Ann

Kellie — The time is almost here. Hang in there. — Chris

Tammy — Keep up the good work and know your questions. — Chris

John — One more semester and I'm all yours. I love you. — Chris

Christy — Good luck, I know you can do it. — Chris

Delta Sigma Pi Pledges — Know your questions, it is almost over. — Chris

AST — there is no over choice.

Rocco — We've been looking around campus for a guy who is honest, smart, and cute and we've found you. You've won the best scam on campus award ... watch out!

Kathy B. — Congratulations on winning Women's Poll. Thanks for all you've contributed to our trophy points! Keep it up next semester. — Alpha Tau Love, The Sister of AΣT

Dear CHI — I want to thank you for my CHI. I found it November 3rd at 11 p.m. I was very excited and will treasure it and Longwood always. — Heidi Lee

To all new officers of ArΔ — the old officers and the rest of your sisters have all the faith in the world in you. Good luck and Congrats! Loyalty in Eπ — Polly

Attention Longwood — Does this sound possible a guy F "Sloozy" 48 — unproportional, huh? The ones who know the ones who know, the ones who know

Curry 5th — Only 1 week of classes left, good luck on exams. — Jeff

Suzzie — Have you heard the rumors. — Mr. U Know Who

Dipwit — We know the truth. — Chris, Carol and Michele

Michele — Do you know what you need? — Chris and Carol

Carol — Hey, Now!

To the new Zeta E.C. — Congratulations! You guys are going to do a great job next semester! We love you and Good Luck! Zeta love — The old E. C.

Zeta Sisters and Pledges — BEWARE! It's getting hot and some of you are going to FRY! Burn Zetas Burn! — The Seniors

Scott (in Frazer — You know who you are), Thanks for the dinner date we never had. I know you are shy but this is ridiculous! — See ya around You know who

Sugar Bear and "A" — Yoo hoo — "A", try not to be so hyper this week! You have your Δ back now — so calm down your driving me crazy. Sugar Bear, stop procrastinating! I guess you're going to have to since the semester is almost over. Nice camping trip! — Kimmy

Bree — I mong-l-gong-hong-tong bong-e hong-o-rong-nong-yong. Yong-o-u cong-a-nong cong-hong-e-cong-kong. (whirlpool) — Peanut.

Karen Lombardo — Have a wonderful week and good luck on your upcoming exams! — Love, Your Secret Santa

Mot — You make me smile all the time, just because you're a great person. — Smiley

To the Geezer, Honey Bunches — Think about Friday morning and "Black Dog". December 9th, look out! — Love, The Youthful Nut Clusters

To Our Brothers on 7th Frazer B+M — Thanks for the good times, and let's keep them coming. You are the greatest. We love you!! — Love Always — Your 7th Frazer Sisters H+K

To All Alpha Gams — Good luck on exams. And have a safe and Merry Christmas! — Love Sarah Louise

Bub — I can't wait to open inspiration. I love you! — Dee

To the pledges of ArΔ — You did a GREAT job at Lip Sync and made us all very proud! We love you! Keep up the good work! — The sisters of ArΔ

Mr. Unicycle Man — Congrats on ΔYk!

Edwin — Drink the toast and down the cup and drink to bones that turn to dust. — Puppy

Here I am. Waiting and watching. You never know ... — Dagger

Hey U — I'd check those cute little puddles before you play in them! — Campfire girl

To the pledges of Zeta — Congratulation on winning the Lip Sync! Four in a row!! Way to go! Good luck on finals. Make those grades for initiation next semester. You all are wonderful and we love you! Zeta love — The Sisters

Sarah D. and Jen S. — Congratulations on making Honor and Judicial Boards!

Trish — Pride of the Yankees, Roomie from hell (or New York) — Never play leapfrog with a unicorn — Gracias. Arigato. Merci. Danke Rufen sie Kidd Er haben hunger — K.

The AAE concert party has come and gone. Frazer Hall Council would like to thank the Longwood students for making it a resounding success. In all, over 400 people came for a night of Ruse Rock Rastafari Reggae.

On behalf of Frazer Hall Council, I would like to thank Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity for loaning Frazer $350 in order to pay the band. Sigma Phi Epsilon also helped unload and load the tremendous amount of SOUND equipment for the 5,000 watt jam and worked the refreshment booth for Frazer-Hall council. Both SPE and AΣI had open chapter room parties to contribute to the great turn-out in the Frazer Commons Room. Thanks again to everyone for making the party the biggest and best event ever sponsored by a hall council. The student union and student affairs were very instrumental in alloting funds for the event and Frazer Hall Council would like to thank them both for their monetary contributions. Thanks are also due to Mike Herndon, R.A.L. for Frazer for his cooperation. Well wishes for the success of the party.

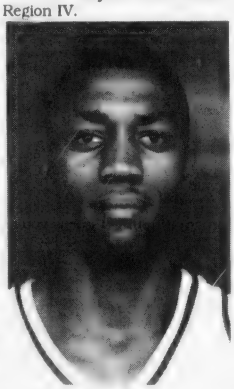
Frazer Hall Council

SPORTS

Latimer Named Player Of Week

Courtesy of Sports Information

Senior Keith Latimer led the Longwood men's basketball team to three victories last week with his scoring, rebounding and all-around hustle. For his performance, Latimer has been named Longwood College Player of the Week for the period of Nov. 25-Dec. 2. Player of the Week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.



Latimer, a 6-5 forward, tossed in 32 points and grabbed 26 rebounds in Longwood wins over Virginia Wesleyan (72-67), Wingate (69-62) and Wesley (72-42) last week. He added four steals, and hit 12 of 21 field goals.

"Keith's rebounding has made a big difference in our defense," said Lancer coach Ron Carr. "He has played particularly hard recently."

A starter for the first time this season, Latimer is averaging 11.1 points and 8.9 rebounds for the 6-1 Lancers. The team leader in field goal percentage, he has hit 30 of 53 shots from the floor for 56.6 percent. Longwood's leading rebounder in four of seven games, he has had a career-high 12 rebounds twice.

Saturday night, in the win over Wesley, Keith had 14 points, 10 rebounds, two steals and a blocked shot. He also scored crucial buckets at key times in close wins over Virginia Wesleyan and Wingate.

Latimer, a business major, averaged over 20 points per game at Graham High School for coach Gary Williams. The leading scorer in the Southwest District his senior year, he was voted All-District, All-Area and Player of the Year in Region IV.

KEITH LATIMER

Lancer Grapplers Have 2-2 Week

MARK HARRIS

By CHARLEY JACOBS

The Longwood wrestlers, who belted visiting Newport News Apprentice 36-8, spent Saturday at the North Carolina State Duals where they were pitted against Winston-Salem State, Campbell, and The Citadel. The Lancers were defeated by Campbell 35-13 and the Citadel 48-0, but pinned Winston-Salem 32-24.

Adrian Joye was one of Longwood's top wrestlers Saturday, notching a record of 1-2. He leveled Winston-Salem's 134 pounder 12-1. At 126, he was defeated 3-2 by Scott Baker of The Citadel, and 10-7 by Paul Renaurd of Campbell.

"Adrian wrestled Baker tough and also faced Campbell's best," commented head coach Steve Nelson. "He did well in both matches. Baker is one of the best around at 134."

Mark Harris also wrestled well at 142 pounds, with a 2-1 record for the weekend. Harris defeated Tom Jacobs of Campbell 12-0 and wrestled to victory against Winston-Salem 13-3. His sole defeat was a 7-2 loss against The Citadel.

The Lancers travel to Lexington Tuesday to take the mat against the Keydets of VMI. This weekend, Longwood will wrestle at the Davidson College Duals.

LC Gymnasts Prepared For Intersquad Meet

By MARK KIRK

Longwood's Gymnastics team enters a new season Friday as they take part in an intersquad meet in Lancer Hall at 4 p.m. There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend.

The Lancers will enter the campaign with a new coach in Beth Evangelista, who was hired in September to replace Ruth Budd. Evangelista comes to Longwood after participating in gymnastics at William & Mary the past four years.

Evangelista expects the Lancers to be led by senior Natalie Taylor, junior Cheryl Cole, and sophomores Beth Risley and Danielle Williams. Cole and Williams will serve as the team's co-captains this season.

Other members of the team this year will be sophomores Jennifer Bradner and Susan Airing, and freshmen Marci Anzelmo, Laura Hill, and Allyson Price.

"We have some good athletes on the team, but we're very young," said Evangelista. "I'm new here, so this meet will give me a chance to see how the team looks in actual competition."

Lancers Win

Continued from Page 1

"Latimer's rebounding and Lowe's steal got us going in the second half," said Carr, "and Letts shot the ball well. In the second half the effort and intensity we got were as good as we've had this year. It was also good that we got to play a lot of people."

In all, 11 players scored for Longwood with reserves Reggie Turner and Travis Bohrer scoring 8 and 7 points. Bryan Weaver had 5 points and 9 rebounds off the bench.

Longwood's ability to hit free throws under pressure and slow down Wingate's high-scoring offense were key factors in Friday night's 69-62 win. Lowe and Billy Dunn combined to hit 7 of 8 from the charity stripe in the last 44 seconds after the Bulldogs closed within two at 58-56. Lowe also threw a long pass to Letts for a layup as the Lancers outscored Wingate 11-6 in the final minute of play.

The Lancers took control of the game in the first half, surging to a 35-19 edge behind strong defense and board work. The Bulldogs went scoreless for a 10-minute stretch, enabling Longwood to go on a 15-0 run. LC increased an 18-16 edge to a 33-16 margin before the Wingate drought ended.

"We did a good job in the first half of controlling the tempo," said Carr. "We contested their 3-point attempts, denied them transition baskets and beat them badly on the boards. In the second half we were very tentative and let them get going."

Turner, Greg Holloway and Letts kept the Lancers ahead during the Bulldog comeback. First Turner with five straight points, then Holloway with eight in a row and then Letts with five put Longwood up 53-41 with 8:46 left.

Then the Bulldogs reeled off nine straight points to close within 53-50 at the 4:57 mark. A pair of Buckets by Latimer and a Turner free throw kept Longwood on top until the game was settled in the final moments.

Dunn, the Lancers' top free throw shooter at 81.8 percent, went to the line three straight times in the last 32 seconds, nailing 5 of 6.

ITZA COUPON

BUY 2 ITZA PIZZAS, GET 1 FREE

Valid December 1 to December 14.

ITZA COUPON

FREE ITZA PIZZA TOPPING WITH THE PURCHASE OF 2 ITZA PIZZA SLICES.

Valid December 1 to December 14.

ITZA COUPON

FREE 16 OZ. COKE WITH THE PURCHASE OF 2 ITZA PIZZA SLICES.

11:00 PM - 2:00 PM; 5:00 PM - 7:00 PM

Valid December 1 to December 14.

LANCER CAFE - 395-2121

CLASSIFIEDS

More Short Notice

The Cunningham Greatest Lecture Series will offer two special programs this week. On Tuesday, December 4th at 7 p.m., Frank Howe (Dept. of Education and Human Services) will present "How Your Parents Got So Stupid When You Turned Fifteen." Featured in his discussion will be an examination of separation and individuation issues during adolscence and how these issues manifest themselves in the parent-child interaction. The dynamics of divorce and blended families will also be covered. On Wednesday, December 5th at 8 p.m. Dave Rettig (Director of Housing), will give a one lesson review of basic skiing techinques and fundamentals in "Dryland Ski School". Highlights will include proper clothing, equipment, and a demonstration of how to fall safely. Both programs will be held on the 4th floor of South Cunningham and free refreshments will be available.

There will be an organizational meeting for the Holocaust program on December 4. at 12:45 p.m. at the Episcopal Campus Ministry Center, 400 High St. Lunch will be served and all are welcome to attend.

SMART — Student Managed Academic Residential Tutoring is a new student support program sponsored by the Learning Center and the Cunninghams Hall Council to help you with your academic needs. Whether you need a tutor or study companion, we can help! Sessions will be offered throughout the year in the Cunninghams. For more information, check the bulletin board in the Main Cunningham Lobby or call Roger Hanna 3002 or Scott Lissner 2391.

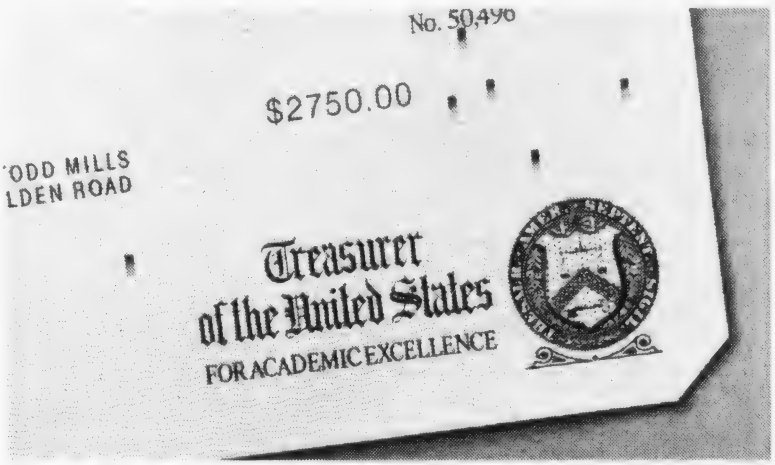
Iota Phi Lambda Sorority Inc. will be sponsoring a Gospel Concert on Wednesday, December 5th at 7:30 in Jarman Auditorium. Featured will be Willie Neal Johnson and those Red Hot Gospel Keynotes and Super Star Tommie Ellison and The Sensational Singing Stars. Extra added attraction will be the A.B.S. Choir. Tickets are $6 in advance, $7 at the door, $3 for children under 12 and $5 for senior citizens. For more information cor act Chucky Reid 392-5974 or any sister of Iota Phi Lambda.

A contest is being held to raise "Get Well Wishes" for Craig Shergold. He is a seven year old boy with a brain tumor and a wish to get in the Guiness Book of World Records.

Address all cards to: Craig Shergold, c/o Children's Wish Foundation, 3200 Perimeter Center, East Atlanta, GA 30346

Turn in all cards to RA's. The floor that submits the most cards will win $100.

Note: You may send more than one card.



Cruise Ship Jobs
HIRING Men - Women. Summer/ Year Round. PHOTOGRAPHERS, TOUR GUIDES, RECREATION PERSONNEL Excellent pay plus FREE travel. Caribbean, Hawaii, Bahamas, South Pacific, Mexico
CALL NOW! Call refundable
1-206-736-0775, Ext. 600N

HELP WANTED

SPRING BREAK 1991 — Individual or student organization needed to promote spring break trips. Earn money, free trips, and valuable work experience. Call Now Inter-Campus Program 1-800-327-6013.

WANTED ENTHUSIASTIC INDIVIDUAL or student organization to promote spring break destinations for 1991. Earn commissions, free trips and valuable work experience. Apply Now! Call Student Travel Service at 1-800-265-1799.

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

YOUR UNCLE WANTS TO PAY FOR COLLEGE.
BUT ONLY IF YOU'RE GOOD ENOUGH.

Army ROTC offers qualified students two- and three-year scholarships that pay for full tuition and required educational fees and provide an allowance for textbooks and supplies.

You'll also receive up to a $1000 grant each school year the scholarship is in effect. So find out today if you qualify.

ARMY ROTC
THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.
Contact: Captain Carson- 395-2238

-FREE-
PREGNANCY
TEST
All services confidential.
Same day results.
SOUTHSIDE PREGNANCY CENTER
24-HOUR HOTLINE
392-8483

The Rotunda

70-71

January 28, 1991

to

April 22, 1992

C B² A B¹ B¹ A B²

INSIDE:

Test Your News I.Q. page 2

Making Sense Of The Sixties page 2

Seniors Pay The Price page 3

CONTENTS

Editorials 2
News 2
Features 3
Sports 4
Classifieds 4
Personals 4

The ROTUNDA

Vol. 70 No. 8 | LONGWOOD COLLEGE | Farmville, Virginia

Longwood Community Reacts To Crisis

Students Answer Call

By MONICA Y. GILBERT
Editor-In-Chief

The signs are everywhere.

Dorm halls are decorated with yellow ribbons and U.S. flags. Names of those that we know and love are posted on the bulletin boards whether they are friends or family.

It is not often talked about in the open, but behind closed doors, everyone keeps constant watch; worry becomes a silent companion. This is the one thing that most of us never thought we would see but it is here and we are coping in our own ways.

For the most part, war is a new concept to us. We've heard all the stories from family members and learned about battles long past in history class.

We even knew that on the average, every generation has gone through a war and that our time would come, but the realization of war is much more overwhelming than we could ever have known.

And we, as a community, are much more involved than we could ever wanted to be.

Although the war is as close as the nearest television set or newspaper, we still feel safe knowing the distance between here and the Persian Gulf. But for many of us, that distance is the most unbearable part of the whole ordeal.

Longwood has six students who were called to active duty that we know of, and there is always the possibility of that list growing.

So far those called include: Richard Adams, sophomore history major; Kelly Moran, junior biology major; Brian Cope, Donna Wyche; Steven Kendall; and Jason Houtz.

The families of all of these students are in good spirits although none of them has any idea when their son or daughter is coming home.

For Donna Wyche, however, the situation is not as drastic. She is working at Bethesda Hospital in Maryland and has been since August. She is one of the many medical personnel brought in to replace nurses and doctors in that hospital. But within that same family, Donna has a sister in the military who is currently stationed in England.

The others are all in the Persian Gulf. Brian has been there since August; Jason left the Saturday after Thanksgiving and Kelly and Richard have been gone since December 8 and 26, 1990, respectively.

The feelings of their families range. War was always a possibility but there was always hope that it wouldn't come, they say.

Kelly's mother said she felt it was "always in the back of the mind when they first sign up, but you don't think about it much." She describes this war as "a necessary evil."

"I don't like what's happening but I think we should support them."

Brian's mother said she thinks somewhat along the same lines, "I don't like what's happening but I think we should support them."

Support is just what they have been getting. Jason's mother knows that "war is a different experience for a college student" and she is very pleased with the response from Longwood and wishes to thank everyone for their calls and support.

Richard's mother has joined the Military Support Network which opposes war but feels that "since there is war, we want the best for our troops when they come home." The lack of jobs and the ability for them to continue their educations are some of the main problems the support network will be trying to fight. The last time Mrs. Adams said she heard from Richard was over a week ago but he sounded good and she emphasized how much he loves Longwood.

"He can't wait to get back," she said. Richard is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity and wrote that he wanted the sororities here to write to the men over there because of the lack of mail that some of them receive.

In response to this crisis, one of the coping mechanisms established for the Longwood and Farmville communities is the prayer vigil which is at 1 p.m. every day in the Rotunda. The response has been good and building every day.

The vigils started Monday, January 14 and there were between 20 to 25 people that first day. There have been as many as 100 to 110 people in one day.

Reverend Allen Breckenridge, one of the initiators of this vigil, says that the intention of the vigil is to provide a place where community can get together regardless of opinions. He said he considers it a safe place and hopes that through this effort, community can be built in the college.

(Continued on page 2)

TIE A YELLOW RIBBON — Longwood shows its support for U. S. troops in the Persian Gulf with ribbons like this one on the tree near the fountain behind Ruffner.

Survey Supports War

The decision to send troops to the Persian Gulf is supported by most LW students, faculty and staff according to an unofficial campus survey on Wednesday.

"I'm glad they're finally taking action," said Tammy Belton, freshman.

Ms. Belton was one of 52 people polled by the journalism class Jan. 23.

Thirty-two of the people surveyed said they agreed with the U.S. decision to send soldiers to the Persian Gulf. In contrast, 19 people reported that they opposed this decision. One person was undecided.

There were other possibilities which weren't tried," said Steve Gibbons, junior, one of those in opposition.

In response to questions about women's role in the Persian Gulf, 25 said they approved of women in combat there, 21 disapproved, and six were undecided.

"I just don't think they are capable of surviving because of their unfamiliarity with wartime tactics," commented Sam Tuck, junior.

When asked about the drafting of women 35 of those polled indicated they would not favor that policy. Fourteen said they would approve, and three were undecided.

"If the draft is reinstated, the majority of draftees should go into administration and behind the scenes work," Mark Kolesha, senior.

The story and survey conducted are by the English 110 Journalism Class.

Veteran Compares Iraq to Vietnam

By PATRICK CARR

Dr. Thomas A. Dukes, associate professor of Marketing and Chair, said he believed there are both similarities and differences between Vietnam and Desert Storm.

"There are some real fundament differences," he said. "Most obvious is that Iraq is a desert war and vietnam was a jungle war. The Armed Forces of today are all volunteer, as opposed to Vietnam when the draft was imposed."

"In Vietnam," he continued, "partially because of the policy, there was a rotation period where they (the troops) rotated in and out. Today the troops that are over there are there for the duration."

He explained that this time unlike Vietnam, the United States has a very clear mandate supported by both houses of Congress with the Persian Gulf situation. In Vietnam there was the Tonka in Gulf Resolution, but we already had troops and advisors in action when this was passed.

Dr. Dukes, an advisor in Vietnam, worked with Task Force 116, Special Boot Squadron 22, underwater Demalition team 12 and Navy Seal team 1.

In an interview Thursday afternoon, he said he believed the public is too ready to make a comparison between Vietnam and the war against Iraq.

"Before a shot was fired by the United States," he said, "we had congressional backing and a United Nations mandate with Vietnam we were dealing with S.E.A.T.O. (South East Asian Treaty Organization) signals.

"Before a shot was fired by the United States we had congressional backing and a United Nations mandate."

"In this war with Iraq there is a specific operation, specific goals, specific strategies and specific resources. There is also a clear plan as far as being an end.

"He commented, both events were wars and the United States was involved in both of them, but that is the closest one will get to any true comparison.

Dr. Dukes explained how the air warfare was different in Vietnam than in Iraq. "Today there is much more coordination between Navy Air, Air Force Air, and Army Air, to use each weapons system to its optium. "In Vietnam air power was used for ground support and B-52 raids," he explained. The Iraq war has not come to the situation where the aircrafts are used for air support."

Dr. Dukes said he feared that the public has become "desensitized" as a result of the sudden and continuous report-

(Continued on page 2)

NEWS

Students

(Continued from page 1)

The vigils are a joint effort of the Rev. Breckenridge, the Office of Student Affairs, and other departments of the college.

"It is not just for religious people," he commented. Rev. Breckenridge said he feels that at a time such as this, the clergy are there "to minister to people during a time of crisis ... to bring hope during a hopeless time."

Personally, he said he is not happy with the situation. He reported mixed feelings: "I want to support the troops and all involved but I am concerned that it could have been avoided."

He said he feels that the government should have addressed the issues that could lead to war such as the border disputes between Kuwait and Iraq. But it is too late now.

"We failed as a people to do what Jesus called us to do ... make peace not war. We need to care for each other now and after the war."

Photo Credit: Judi Weller

Students, faculty, staff, and administration gather daily for remembrance of those in the Persian Gulf.

News I.Q.

1. Jan. 16, 1991, DESERT SHIELD became_____?

2. Who are the three U. S. allies that helped lead the initial assault on Iraq?

3. Who is Tariq Aziz?

4. What countries border the Persian Gulf?

5. Who is Perez de Cuellar?

6. Who is the U. S. Secretary of Defense?

Answers on page 4.

Veteran

(Continued from page 1)

ing during the first several hours of the attack. Now, he said he believes the public is ignoring or avoiding the issue.

"There was a overload as far as media coverage," he explained. "Many networks were reporting information that was not confirmed then later retracting it."

He commented that television as a means of communication is so instantaneous that much of the public, as well as himself, would rather read about the events in the newspaper because there margin of error is smaller.

"The news is not as up to date, but is most reliable," he said.

Dr. Dukes explained that any disruption in the enemy's forces is to our benefit." "If the roads are destroyed," he said, "than it will limit the mobility of their ground troops and hurt their moral."

"This constant bombardment will cause fatigue. The airstrike is doing what it was intended to do."

Dr. Dukes made a comparison in relating these two events, Vietnam and Desert Storm, to comparing two political leaders' terms of office. "One leader's term was during a stable economy while the second's was during an economic depression."

Making Sense Of The Sixties

By TRACEY M. ARMWOOD

"I don't think some people today realize the sacrifices that were made," commented Edna Allen-Bledsoe, Longwood associate Professor of Social Work, on the PBS series, "Making Sense of the Sixties," broadcasted last week.

Mrs. Allen-Bledsoe and Longwood Director of Minority Affairs, Brenda Cross talked about their experiences with activism in the '60's. The series sought to examine events of the decade through those who lived it.

Mrs. Cross was contacted a year ago by the producers of the six-hour television series to identify Farmville residents, who were involved with the racial integration of local schools.

She was also featured in the program discussing her college experiences during that decade.

"The seed of my activism was planted in those four years," Mrs. Cross reflected after the program was shown.

"We could have easily had our heads bashed in by a nightstick or they could have turned the hoses on us." She described her participation in marches as a

(Continued on page 3)

ROTC Cadets Remain Home

By ANNE DODSON

The present situation in the Middle East is having a tremendous effect on the world, and Longwood College is no exception. Every student is aware of the events taking place in the Persian Gulf, especially the ROTC department and Department of Military Science.

According to Capt Jayne Carson, of Longwood's ROTC program, ROTC cadets will not be called up for duty. Students who are in the reserves can be called up.

All cadets must finish their training at school, then participate in training for their specified field before they will take part in the war or any kind of conflict.

On the other hand, all the officers in the ROTC and Military Science department said they volunteered to go to Saudi Arabia to help the war efforts, but the government decided they were needed here to continue to train future officers.

Sgt. Terry Ramsey said he felt "guilty" being in a "safe secure area" while his friends he has trained with are over there.

He said he feels he could be utilizing the training [he's] had over there." Capt. Gary Wittekind said his feelings are similar to Sgt. Ramsey. "I feel bad or guilty; their doing their part, and we've got a job here, an important job."

Both men said they were trained to be in combat and are prepared to take part.

Sgt. Ramsey who's been in the Army for 17 years, has "seen combat in Grenada" and claims its "always in the back of your mind when your training."

Because the war is a highly sensative situation, the departments are not at liberty to answer certain lines of questioning. Any views expressed are that of the individual and do not necessarily represent official information stated by the United States of America.

EDITORIALS

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

This is my second year at Longwood and last semester I was trying to think of some way to become involved and meet new people on campus. I decided to Rush and if I liked it — join a sorority. I was so excited about becoming a part of a sisterhood. I understand sororities to be close-knit groups of life — long friends who support and care for one another. Isn't that what sisterhood is about? Well, all those who are considering rushing this semester please read what I'm about to write and think very seriously about the pros and cons of joining a sorority. At the end of last semester I was surprised to find that sisterhood could be just the opposite of what I thought it to be. My roommate was suspended after many years of dedication to her sorority. Why? Well, simply because she had to work to put herself through college due to her parents' separation which caused her to miss meetings and other events. (All but one were excused.) Not to mention the fact that she has an ulcer and was very ill last semester. Some of her sisters heard she had dropped out of school, some weren't sure but nobody bothered to call or come by or even find out what was going on. Everyone should jump at the chance to be a part of a group who does not even know if you are attending school. I realize that not all sororities are like this and I am mostly writing this in hopes that this one sorority will reevaluate their sisterhood. Maybe being non-Greek does not give me the right to condemn. All I know is when my roommate needed support and omfort from her sisterhood, the, turned their backs on her. I'm not even a sister and I knew more about what was going on in her life than they did. If I am wrong, then I stand corrected. I just thought that sisters were supposed to be like family. If that's family — I'll do without!

Sincerely,
Sherry Stewart

Editorial

Longwood College is a school that can take pride in knowing that they turn out some of the best teachers in the state. I am basically a Philadelphian and I know a couple of administrators from another college that know of Longwood and speak highly of it. That's all well and good but the best teacher as well as the best educated person is the one with the knowledge and experience in as many different areas as possible. With this in mind, there is a great opportunity that has opened for Longwood students but I doubt that there are many people that know about it. The opportunity I speak of is the new African-American History course that is now a part of our curriculum. It is labeled as History 320 and it is taught by a new adjunct professor to the history department, Mrs. Yvonne Bridgeforth. This is the type of course that is beneficial to us all, no matter what race, but we risk losing it because of the small amount of student interest. This cannot be totally blamed on anyone. The course was just recently approved and added at a time when most people had already signed up for classes. I can speak for many people when I say that I would dearly love to take this class but it was too late when I found out about it. Hopefully, I will get the opportunity next semester and if you would like this opportunity, express your interest to Mrs. Brenda Cross, Director of Minority Affairs or Ms. Margaret Hale-Smith, Advising Counselor for Minority Affairs in Learning Center. With our support we can hold on to something that can prove to be beneficial in the future and maybe even bring understanding to place where desire to learn is supposed to be the key factor.

Quotable:

"War is at best barbarism... Its glory is all moonshine. It is only those who have neither fired a shot nor heard the shrieks and groans of the wounded who cry aloud for blood, more vengeance, more desolation. War is hell."

—Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman

PLAY YOUR PART

American Red Cross

BE A RED CROSS VOLUNTEER

KINGS DOMINION

AUDITIONS

SINGERS • DANCERS • INSTRUMENTALISTS
SPECIALTY ACTS • TECHNICIANS/WARDROBE

Kings Productions, the world's #1 producer of entertainment, is holding auditions for the 1991 season at KINGS DOMINION, Richmond, Virginia. A variety of positions are available and a travel fee will be paid to employees who must travel more than 250 miles to the park.

RICHMOND, VIRGINIA
Sunday, February 3, 1991
Kings Dominion
Mason Dixon Music Hall
1-3 p.m. Singers
4-5 p.m. Dancers
1-5 p.m. Instrumentalists,
Specialty Acts, Technicians

For additional information call:
Kings Dominion Entertainment Dept. 804/876-5141
Kings Productions 800/544-5464

KINGS ISLAND • KINGS DOMINION • CAROWINDS
GREAT AMERICA • CANADA'S WONDERLAND
©Kings Productions

The ROTUNDA

Box 1133
Longwood College
Farmville, Va. 23901

THE STAFF:

Editor-In-Chief Monica Y. Gilbert

Features Editor Lindy Seymore

Sports Editor Charlie Fultz

Photography Editor Judi Weller

Layout Editor Sarah Whiteside

Business Manager Anita Owens

Advertising Manager Bradley Owen

Faculty Advisor Barbara LaJaunie

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed or printed neatly. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is 3:00 p.m. Friday prior to the Monday publication date and these should be placed in the envelope on the Publication door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by midnight Sunday.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an American Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

FEATURES

Sixties

(Continued from 2)

"risk". "We felt some safety in number ... we drew courage from each other."

In the broadcast Mrs. Bledsoe stressed the importance of education. In a interview following the television series she expressed the same beliefs about education.

"Today's kids take an education for granted. It's just something to do until something else comes along. For us it was a means to an end, a way to get somewhere else."

She explained that education in the '60's was a rarity. "When things are hard to get it has more value."

She summed up her feeling by saying," If you have something inside of you that's yours, no one can get to that."

Other Farmville area residents featured on the program were Charles White, retired teacher and author; Edwilda Isaac; Lyllie Williams; and Prince Edward County School Administrator, Thomas Mayfield.

They talked about the hardships of being black during that era and any achievement was a result a struggle.

Mrs. Bledsoe added, "we knew it (hard times) wasn't going to last forever; kids would come out of that tar paper shack and be eligible for college."

"Steel Magnolias" At State Theater

By ANN RENEE HEIM

Farmville's Waterworks Players at the State Theater in town, will be opening on Friday, Feb. 15. The show will run on February 15 and 16 and the 22nd and 23rd and student discount night will be provided on Thursday, Feb. 14..

A story about everyday life's pleasures and pain, Steel Magnolias centers around Shelby Eatenton, a small town girl whose one desire is to have a child and live a "normal" life. Because she is diabetic, these wishes conflict with those of her mother, M'Lynn, who only wants the best for her daughter. As the story unfolds, Trury, a town hairdresser, Annelle, her assistant, Claire, the previous first-lady of the town, and Ouiser, a cynnical, upper class southern woman add laughs and character to this heartwarming true story written first hand by Robert Harling.

Courtesy of Student Union

Jeff Dunham and Peanut, shown here with S-UN President Sarah Raffetto, start the S-UN entertainment semester with a bang.

-FREE-
PREGNANCY
TEST
All services confidential.
Same day results.
SOUTHSIDE PREGNANCY
CENTER
24-HOUR HOTLINE
392-8483

Shannon Gardner Elected SGA President

Shannon Gardner, a sophomore from Purcellville, is the new president of the Student Government Association.

Ms. Gardner was elected SGA president in late November and was inaugurated Dec. 6, replacing Brad Pomp. Her term runs through December 1991.

A native and lifelong resident of Loudoun County, Ms. Gardner is a 1988 graduate of Loudoun Valley High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Gardner.

After graduating from high school, she worked in the office of a Purcellville family practitioner for a year before entering Longwood.

Ms. Gardner, 20, is majoring in political science and minoring in history. She is considering a teaching career on the secondary level.

At Longwood, she was freshman class president last year and had been sophomore class president, but she had to relinquish that position upon her election as SGA president. She will continue to serve as student representative to the Student Life Committee. Her biggest goal is to involve more students in student government.

Photo Credit: Judi Weller

The newly elected president of the student government is Shannon Gardner.

Seniors Pay The Price

By Dionne Fox

The tradition continues. Each year, many seniors may find themselves in a financial chokehold trying to cover the costs that go along with being a senior. Aside from the usual expenses such as tuition and books, a senior may spend over $400 extra for anything from a college ring to his or her own sheepskin. The average senior has to pay $35 for his/her cap and gown, $20 for the degree, another $35 for announcements and about $180 more if he/she wants a college ring. If a senior plans to further his or her education, then the high costs of applications will be added.

Then there are specialty tests, another expensive item for which seniors may have to pay. These are tests that show how knowledgeable they are in their field or major. Karen Brown, a senior who is an English major, said she will have to take the NTE (National Teacher's Examination) along with the other specialty tests. The total costs of her tests will be $105. Brown remarked, "it's great being a senior and all, but it seems as though everything that I need costs so much."

Dr. Sue Saunders, Longwood Dean of Students, said that she has not had any seniors come to her with a problem involving the cost; but suggested for any students in such a predicament, or those who will soon become seniors, plan ahead for these expenses and save extra money during the summer. She said she assumes some students ask their parents to cover the extra costs or ask their friends and relatives to contribute money for graduation instead of buying graduation presents.

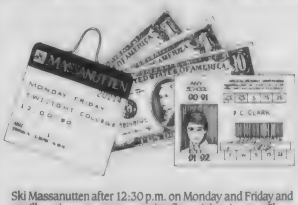
Without even mentioning the expenses of the senior ball, which is just around the corner, the final year of college can be expensive.

$ 35	Cap and gown
20	Degree
35	Announcements
180	College Ring
$270	Graduation Costs
+
105	Specialty Tests (Estimated)
$375

Longwood Forensics Finish Ninth

The Longwood College Forensic Team has been on the road during the semester break, attending two tournaments in New York City. St. John's University and New York University were host to tournaments that attracted teams from the University of Texas, Wichita State University, University of Wisconsin, Cornell, Emerson College, and fifteen other universities.

George Mason University won the SWEEPSTAKES at both colleges with the University of Texas placing second. At the St. John's Tournament, Longwood College finished in ninth place.



Vern Williamson, a senior from Chester, made a strong showing in dramatic interpretatin with a sixth place finish. In poetry Brandi Poling, a freshman from Winchester, captured an eighth place with Ethan Yonker, a freshman from Gallop, New Mexico in ninth place in prose reading. Other Longwood students on the team were Nathan Wade, freshman from Gallop, New Mexico; Dawn Pohl, junior from Farmville; Stacey Custer, freshman from Roanoke, and Christy Crews, junior from Keysville. These students contributed to the total points generated by our team. These students were accompanied to New York by William Lynn, Dudley Sauve, and Dr. Nancy Haga.

Photo Credit: Judi Weller

The Forensics Team: (left to right, first row) Vern Williamson, Brandi Poling, Dawn Pohl, Stacy Custer, Christy Crews, (2nd row) Nathan Wade and Ethan Yonker.

Student Aid.

Ski Massanutten after 12:30 p.m. on Monday and Friday and you'll receive some money-saving financial assistance. Show us your valid college ID — full or part time — and purchase your lift ticket for just $12 and rent your equipment for $10.

Bring us this ad and we'll aid you even more with an additional $2 off your lift ticket.

So find some friends, tear out this ad and come to Massanutten on Monday or Friday. You'll enjoy the best twilight skiing value in the area when you ski our two new slopes and ride our new "Quad" chairlift for just $10.

MASSANUTTEN
10 Miles East of Harrisonburg, Virginia on Route 33

Valid 1991 Ski Season only. May not be used with other discounts. Not available on holidays

The Bulletin Board

SGA invites all students to Dr. Dorrill's State of The College Address on Monday, February 4 at 6:00 p.m. in the Gold Room. Important issues will be discussed, so please plan to attend.

Please review this information about requirements for our Rotunda Editor. If you want to apply, then please pick up an application in Phyllis Mable's office; complete, and return it by February 4. The editor will be selected by the Longwood Publications Board.

The following criteria must be met by applicants for the position of editor of "The Rotunda," "The Virginian," and "Gyre."

A. Applicant must be a full-time undergraduate student at Longwood College, i.e., be enrolled in the equivalent of no less than 12 semester hours at the time of application and during term of appointment.

B. Shall be a student in good standing, i.e., not be on academic or disciplinary probation.

C. Shall have posted no less than a 2.5 grade point average in the semester immediately preceding selection to the position of editor, and shall have no less than a 2.5 cumulative grade point average.

D. Shall not have an elective or appointive position in student government during tenure as editor.

The International Studies Program will present a lecture by Dr. Robert J. Smith, professor and former chair of the Anthropology Department at Cornell University.

He will be discussing the role of culture in U.S.-Japanese trade friction.

The lecture will be given at 8 p.m., Feb. 20, 1991, in the Prince Edward Room. It is free and open to the public.

Tues., Jan. 29 — Domino's Pizza recruiter for management trainee - Seniors sign up for interviews in CPPC Main Office.

Workshop 1 p.m. resume writing - Sign up in CPPC office or come at appointed time.

Financial Aid Fair, 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. Rotunda.

Wed., Jan. 30 — Scholarship Meeting 7 p.m., Hiner Rm 209; The Dept. of Military Science will have information concerning eligibility, benefits, and obligation. All students are welcome.

Black History Month Feature Attraction

The Student Union Film Committee proudly presents its special feature for Black History Month...GLORY! Playing Friday, Feb. 1 at 8 p.m. and Monday, Feb. 4, at 9:30 p.m. in the Lankford Student Union Gold Room.

SPORTS

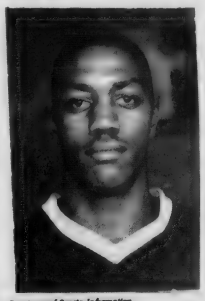
Longwood Shoots Down Firebirds 87-85

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Longwood's men's basketball team finally won a close one Saturday night and put an end to a five-game post-Christmas losing streak.

Guard Joe Lowe and forward Keith Latimer combined to score 30 of Longwood's 47 second half points and hit the key shots in the final two minutes as the Lancers rallied past homestanding District of Columbia 87-85.

Longwood, now 8-10, trailed for most of the game, at times by as many as 13 points, but refused to fold in the final, frantic moments. Soph Eric Letts gave the Lancers their first lead on a bank shot with 2:46 left 79-78. Firebird guard Keith Goodie, who scored 21 points, answered with a pair of free throws 42 seconds later to put his team back on top 80-79.

Lowe seemingly accepted Goodie's challenge for a dual between the team's point guards. The Lancer junior hit a pair from the foul line to put Longwood in the lead 81-80. Goodie answered with an outside shot at the one minute mark for an 82-81 Firebird edge.



Working against full-court pressure, Lowe weaved his way down the court and drove in for a layup with 47 seconds left to put Longwood ahead 83-82. UDC blinked first in this battle to the wire as forward Greg McCants was called for walking. Lowe went back to the line and hit both ends of a two-shot opportunity for an 85-82 Lancer lead at 0:28.

Lowe ended the night with 14 points, five assists and just one turnover. He also hit two 3-point shots and scored six of Longwood's last eight points. Latimer scored 19 of his career high 20 points in the second half and added eight rebounds. He was 8 of 11 from the floor.

Billy Dunn added 18 points, six rebounds, three assists and two steals. Dunn hit four of six from 3-point range. Bryan Weaver totaled 13 points and six rebounds while Greg Holloway had nine points and nine rebounds.

Goodie missed a 3-point try with 16 seconds to go and Latimer got the rebound. The 6-5 senior then dropped in two free throws for an 87-82 edge and Longwood held on despite Goodie's 3-pointer with six seconds to go.

"Tonight was probably our best team effort since we won two games in Alabama (Nov. 23-24)," said Longwood coach Ron Carr. We had a lot of people contribute. We played well and played hard."

Courtesy of Sports Information

KEITH LATIMER

West Chester Topples Longwood Gymnasts

By Mark Kirk,
Longwood College Student

Despite a spirited effort which kept the total score close throughout the meet, Longwood's gymnastics team dropped a 173.4-169.3 decision to West Chester University Saturday afternoon in Lancer Hall and fell to 0-2 for the season.

The Lady Lancers improved on last week's season opening score of 166.8 against Radford by adding some improved individual performances, especially in floor exercise and vault.

West Chester's Alicia Hopke totaled 35.35 to finish first in all-around, while Longwood sophomore Danielle Williams finished second overall and first among the Lady Lancers with a total of 35.0. Williams's score was her best as a collegian and one of the Longwood's highest all-around scores in recent years.

"I was relatively pleased with our performance," said Longwood coach Beth Evangelista. "We were able to improve on our team score from last week, which was pleasing. Unfortunately, we had a rough time on the bars, so we'll have to work on that event some more."

Longwood also received all-around scores from sophomore Beth Risley, who followed last week's team high total; of 34.3 with a score of 34.5; senior Natalie Taylor, 33.85; freshman Laura Hill, 33.2; and freshman Marci Anzelmo, 30.2.

Junior Cheryl Cole and sophomore Jennifer Bradner also competed for the Lady Lancers but neither took part in all four events.

Top scores in each event were in by Hopke and Williams on floor exercise, 9.15; Hopke on uneven bars, 8.95; West Chester's Lisa Discovich on beam, 8.85; and Hopke, Taylor, and West Chester's Amy Fleming on vault, 9.1. Longwood's high score on uneven bars was turned in by Risley, 8.7 while Hill had the best score for the Lady Lancers on beam with an 8.7.

Longwood will head to the road for the first time this season Friday at North Carolina State, followed by two more road meets against Navy, Feb. 9 and at Towson State for Towson Invitational, Feb. 16, before returning home Feb. 22 against William & Mary.

Courtesy of Sports Information

DANIELLE WILLIAMS

LC Wrestlers Host Lancer Duals

The Longwood College wrestling team welcomes seven squads of grapplers to Farmville this Saturday to participate in the Lancer Duals Wrestling Tournament. The Lancers, who finished third last weekend at the Washington and Lee Invitational Tournament, hope to improve upon last year's fifth place finish in the Duals.

The Lancers will showcase the talents of several outstanding wrestlers. Kevin McSherry, this week's Longwood Player of the Week, will attempt to maintain the momentum he began last weekend. McSherry was the champion at 158 at Washington and Lee, posting a 3-0 record, to bring his season tally to 15-11. Sean House also garnered top honors at Washington and Lee, winning three decisions at 132, pushing his season record to 12-6.

Featured in the 1991 meet is nationally ranked Pembroke State University which brings junior Duane Wilson to the mat. Wilson was the 1989 Division II All-American and Regional Champion at 118. Joining Pembroke will be Chowan College, George Mason University, James Madison University, Newport News Apprentice, VA State University, and Wilkes Community College.

Action begins at 9 a.m. and continues through the sixth and final round which is scheduled for 6 p.m. The meet is free and open to the public.

Courtesy of Sports Information

KEVIN MCSHERRY

CLASSIFIEDS/PERSONALS

HELP WANTED

FREE SPRING BREAK VACATION! Organize a small group or campus-wide event! Earn high commissions and free trips! CALL 800-826-9100.

Lost And Found

Found: Watch in front of Cox last semester. Call Monica at 3030 if you think it's yours.

Need to buy or sell a book? Need a ride home? Or maybe you want to find a home for that puppy you found. You can reach them all in the classifieds. Deadline for Monday's issue is 1:00 p.m. Friday.

WLCX 90.1 FM — The Voice of Longwood returns to the air waves 6 p.m. to 12 midnight seven days a week! Be sure to tune in early on Tuesdays at 4 p.m. for the TDK New Music Report.

Your Alternative Music Station — WLCX!

Josh and Julie — They came to your door and now you're famous. — U.

Dave — I will miss you so much while I'm gone. I'll be back alot! — I love you! — Beth

I want to wish all the ZETA pledges Good Luck this week; especially LP!!

M.M. — Good luck on exams! Congratulations on your announcement! Keep up the good work. Good luck and have fun student teaching! — Tammy

Boone — Happy birthday! Hope you get everything worked out. Good luck!! — The Elite

Dear Timothy — The times we have spent together have meant everything to me — I love you and will miss you terribly when I'm gone. — Love, Monique

Nikki — Congratulations on becoming a fellow Geister! I can't think of a more deserving person, but my little sister! Yack'em Shiackin — Booty yack'em! — Love always, Martin

Sigma Kappa — Here's wishing you more then good luck with Rush - here's hoping you have a great time showing everyone those #3's! You're all so special and I miss each one of you! — In EK Love, Martin

Skipper — What's that "thang" that I see on you? Told you I would bug you about it! Want some cheese pizza combos? Don't STRESS and get some sleep!! Thank you for taking care of OUR friend while I'm gone! — Your Roomie

P.S. ———— Alert! ———— — Alert!!

Charles — Always and forever, I'll be yours. — Love, Karen

Bec — Welcome Back! I'm glad you had an AWESOME break with lumpy. A-WA-WA-WA-WA

P.S. You're a great roomie! — Love ya, Lib

PK 85 — Do you think you're gonna need a U-Haul it to go to the Omni? Ha-Ha — Love ya, — Your Pi

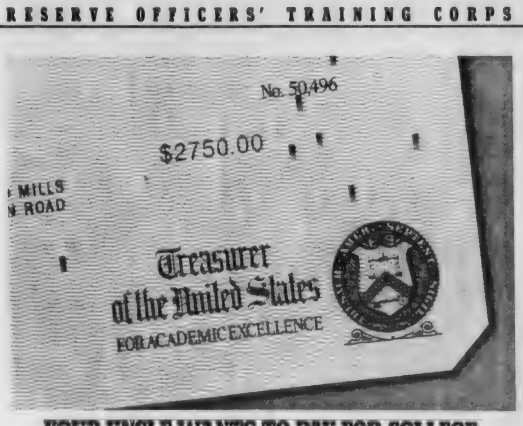
Becky — May 13 is coming soon. Watch out Nordic Empress here we come! I'll miss you sooo much. You are sooo special. — I love you — your favorite ΣΣΣ

Lib — Together we will make it. May 13 — Bahamas here we come! — I love you B. F.

Neil — Start being good! I am proud of you! — Love your #2 girl

Dave — Welcome back! Thanks for the Awesome skins gift — it's GREAT. — Love ya, Squibby

Longwood Leadership Conference



The Longwood Leadership Conference is being held at the Holiday Inn in Virginia Beach. Its location on the Atlantic Ocean makes it an ideal setting for a stimulating experience as well as provide alternative opportunities to relax in your free time.

The conferences will be held from February 8th to 10th and will cost $75 per student for all conference costs, including boarding (double occupancy), 4 meals, transportation, and workshops, etc. As in the past, your student organization may be willing to cover all or part of your conference fee. Please consult with your organization officers.

Applications are available at the Information Desk (Union) or at the Office of Student Development (French 106).

Deadline for applications is January 31, 1991.

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

YOUR UNCLE WANTS TO PAY FOR COLLEGE. BUT ONLY IF YOU'RE GOOD ENOUGH.

Army ROTC offers qualified students with good grades scholarships that pay tuition and most educational fees and provide an allowance for textbooks and supplies.

You'll also receive up to a $1000 grant each school year the scholarship is in effect. Find out today if you qualify.

ARMY ROTC

THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

FIND OUT MORE AT THE INFORMATION MEETING, JANUARY 30, 1991, 7 P.M., ROOM 209, HINER BLD., LONGWOOD COLLEGE OR CONTACT CAPTAIN CLAYTON, 395-2137/2134

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE ROTUNDA!

For more information:
Contact Brad Owen
Phone (804) 395-2120 or 395-3253

Box 1133
Farmville, VA 23901

Answers:

1. Desert Storm
2. Britain, Saudi Arabia, and Kuwait
3. Foreign Minister of Iraq
4. Iran, Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Kuwait, Iraq, United Arab Emirates
5. Sec. Gen. of the United Nations.
6. Dick Cheney

Rating Yourself:

5-6 Consider yourself well informed and an asset to your community.

3-4 This is average but you are in college now and you want to look like you aren't wasting your parents' money.

1-2 Turn on the TV or pick up a newspaper once in awhile. You're missing out!

0 - Did you know there was a war going on? Get with the program!

INSIDE: French Professor Becomes U.S. Citizen

CONTENTS

Editorials 2
News.....2
Features 3
Sports 4
Classifieds.....4
Personals.....4

The ROTUNDA

Vol. 70 No. 9 | February 5, 1991 | Farmville, Virginia

Honors Program Undergoes Changes

By HEIDI LEE

"I need some student input," stated Dr. Sandra Breil in her newsletter announcing the upcoming Honors Program meeting.

All Honors students are invited to the meeting in Jeffers Auditorium, Tuesday, February 5, at 1:30 p.m. Topics to be discussed include what courses and events the students want scheduled, finding out how to better communicate within the group, and seeing if they can meet regularly.

Back in the 1920s the Honors Program was started, then in 1981 it was revised by Dr. John Field. He was in charge till January 1990 when Dr. Breil took over. Currently there are 98 students enrolled in the Honors program.

Since being the Director Dr. Breil has been getting acquainted with the position and has made some changes. First, she changed the name from the Arts and Science Honors Program to the Longwood Honors Program. With this change all students could be included not just those in Arts and Sciences. In addition, she is reawarding unused scholarships. There are 20, five for each class.

Dr. Breil said she would like to see more students involved in the Honors Program. Anyone with a 3.25 grade point average can be involved. In order to

(Continued on page 2)

Photo Credit: Monica Gilbert

New pledge sister, come on down! The sororities held WALK this past weekend to end a week of rushing. Now comes the hard part, pledging!

SGA Update

By DENISE DAUBENSPECK

The Student Government Association (SGA) met to discuss the State of the College Address, the add/drop fee the Longwood Leadership Conference, the Mid-Winter Ball, and town parking stickers.

President Dorrill will present the State of the College address tonight at 6 p.m. in the Gold Room.

Following Dr. Dorrill's address, there will be an open forum in Conference Room I to discuss raising student fees. All students are welcome to attend.

Dr. Stuart will hold a question and answer session regarding the new add/drop fee, on February 5, at 8:30 in the Gold Room.

The SGA voted to start a petition to fight the add/drop fee.

SGA members discussed the Leadership Conference to be held in VA Beach and ways of improving future conferences. At the time of the meeting, only six students had applied. Last year, close to 50 students attended the conference.

Although every member of the faculty and student body was invited to the mid-winter ball, only 275 couples will be admitted due to fire regulations. There are limited tickets available. Tickets may be picked up at the Student Union Information booth. Each student can only pick up two tickets.

The SGA announced that college students living on campus will not be required to buy town stickers after July, 1991.

N.C. State Downs Longwood Gymnasts

By Mark Kirk
Longwood College Student

Longwood College's gymnastics team ran into a huge obstacle in North Carolina Friday night, falling behind early and eventually dropping a 180.35-160.90 decision to powerful Division I North Carolina State.

The Lady Lancers were placed in a hole almost immediately as senior Natalie Taylor failed to make the trip due to illness and junior Cheryl Cole sprained her ankle on uneven bars and was unable to compete in the other three events. Cole's status for upcoming meets is listed as day to day.

"We had to overcome several obstacles, such as losing Natalie and Cheryl, and that was hard to do because N.C. State has a great team," said Lady Lancer coach Beth Evangelista, whose team falls to 0-3 on the year. "I thought there were several parts of our performance that improved. Hopefully, we can perform the same way against Navy next Saturday."

"Laura had a really good meet, and she was our most consistent performer," said Evangelista. "Her floor routine was excellent, and her bar routine was also much better. Danielle and Beth also turned in very solid performances."

North Carolina State's Carey Butler won the all-around title with a combined score of 36.7, while teammate Karen Chester finished in second with a 35.2. Longwood sophomore Danielle Williams captured top honors for her team with a 34.45, which landed her in third place overall. Lady Lancer sophomore Beth Risley was fourth overall at 34.3.

Freshman Laura Hill also turned in a strong meet for Longwood, finishing with an all-around score of 33.55 for third on the team.

Freshman Marci Anzelmo also performed all-around, turning in a score of 29.45. Sophomore Jennifer Bradner replaced Cole in the lineup after uneven bars and competed in the final three events.

N.C. State's Butler finished first in floor exercise at 9.6 and uneven bars at 9.35, while Chester captured top honors in vault with a 9.5 and teammate Kerri Moreno had high score on beam at 9.4.

Top scores for Longwood in each event were turned in by Risley on vault, 8.9; Williams on bars, 9.15; Risley and Hill on beam, 8.95; and Hill and Williams on floor exercise, 8.65.

Longwood returns to action Saturday when they take to the road against Navy.

Profiles of Black Americans

All profiles are taken from I Dream A World: Portraits of Black Women Who Changed America by Brian Lanker.

Angela Davis was one of the most publicized political activists of the 1960's and 1970's. The subject of a nationwide police hunt after she was implicated in the 1970 Soledad Brothers shooting, she was imprisoned, tried, and acquitted in 1972. Her autobiography was published in 1974; her historical study, Women, Race and Class, in 1982. She teaches philosophy, aesthetics, and women's studies (particularly the historical contributions of black women) at San Francisco State University and the San Francisco Art Institute.

Help Get Valentines To The Gulf

By BRAD OWEN AND SHERRY SWINSON

Would you like to cheer up a serviceman's day and give our troops a big morale booster?

The people at Recycled Paper Products, Inc., and Paiges of Farmville had you in mind when they decided to co-sponsor the Desert Storm Valentine's Day Project.

Recycled Paper Products, Inc., the fourth largest card company in the world and the only major greeting card company to print a complete line of cards on recycled paper, has donated 600 free Valentine cards to Paige's. The holiday greeting cards are to be given away to those sending cards to men and women serving in the Gulf. The company has shipped hundreds of thousands of the Valentines to shops who carry their products all over the country as free giveaways to customers.

In addition, the card company sent 250,000 free Valentine cards to the Persian Gulf through the Veterans of Foreign Wars, so that soldiers could send Valentines to loved ones back home.

The project is aimed at keeping the "spirits high among American soldiers in the Persian Gulf," according to the national card company.

Joyce Eggleston, owner of Paige's, echoed that sentiment, "I'd hate to be over there on Valentine's Day and not be remembered."

To insure that the cards get to members of the armed forces in the Persian Gulf, Ms. Eggleston is providing the postage for each of the cards mailed.

She urges people with loved ones serving in the Gulf to come in and send one of the dozens of different cards.

"Even if you don't know anyone over there, stop in and we have the address for 'any serviceman,'" she said. "I hope we'll give away every one of these cards and that every man and woman serving over there is remembered during this holiday."

Messages on the cards are varied, from "I Love You" to "Hi, Happy Valentine's Day!"

The following is a short list of some of the members of the Longwood community who have been called to active duty.

Richard Adams
231-31-1325
Delta Company
2nd LAI Batallion
FPO New York, NY 09502-0204

Brian Cope
BQ60 Box 37
NNMC
8901 Wisconsin Avenue
Bethesda, MD 20889-5000

Corporal Jason E. Houts
230-33-1815
H and S Company S-4
2nd LAI Batallion
Marine Division, FMF
FPO New York, NY 09502-0204

Donna C. Wyche
1812 Idlewood Avenue
Richmond, VA 23234
(military address unavailable)

Steven K. Kendall
P.O. Box 2323
Appomattox, VA 24522
(military address unavailable)

Kelly L. Moran
6619 Brookshire Drive
Richmond, VA 23234
(military address unavailable)

Lancelot A. James
732 Lincoln Avenue
Virginia Beach, VA 23452
(military address unavailable)

(Continued on page 2)

NEWS

Photo Credit: Judi Weller

Newly initiated Geist Members who will be taking over the position next year.

Quotable:

. "It is well that war is so terrible or we should grow too fond of it."

—Robert E. Lee

Valentines

(Continued from page 1)

Jerdon Durham
4540 Centralia Road
Chester, VA 23831
(military address unavailable)

Ms. Eggleston encourages Valentine senders to hurry in, so that the heartfelt messages might arrive in the Gulf sometime close the holiday.

"Even if they don't get their Valentines right on the 14th, they'll still know someone was thinking of them when they do receive them!" noted Ms. Eggleston.

Honors

(Continued from page 1)

graduate from the program, eight honors classes must be taken with three being in the 300 level. Also, two years of a foreign language must be taken.

"People have been wonderful about offering courses," said Dr. Breil. Even though, she has been pleased with the response, she would like more classes offered especially at the 300 level. Although most honors classes are in the Liberal Arts fields, there has been an economics honors class and an honors education class is in process.

French Professor Becomes U.S. Citizen

By BARB SANTMIRE

The United States got a brand new citizen last month. Her name is Sonja Moore, and she is a French instructor at Longwood. Mrs. Moore, a native of England, became an American citizen January 16, 1991 in the Richmond Federal Court.

Mrs. Moore came to the US in August 1982 on an F-1 visa as a student at Pennsylvania State. She immigrated to be with her future husband, Dr. Frank Moore, whom she had met while teaching in France.

The naturalization process began last August when Mrs. Moore went to Norfolk's Immigration and Naturalization Service to apply for citizenship.

"There were a lot of forms to fill out. They also required two pictures of me that had to follow certain requirements and an interview where they questioned me about American government," she said.

About four months later she was notified by mail to report to the Richmond Federal Courthouse where she and 52 others became citizens in a legal ceremony which included, among other things, an oath of allegiance and a recitation of the Pledge for Allegiance.

Mrs. Moore, when asked how she felt regarding her new status, replied, "I'm prepared to pledge my allegiance to the United States, but that doesn't mean that I'll agree with everything they do, like any American."

EDITORIALS

Letters To The Editor

Persian Gulf Worries

Dear Editor,

I am concerned about two things which relate to the "War in the Gulf." First, I don't understand why Saddam would want to dump "millions of gallons of crude oil" into the Persian Gulf. What military purpose does this serve? The only result I can think of is that other Gulf countries will get very "upset".

Last Friday, while in the cafe watching CNN, I first saw the pictures of the oil slick. I was shocked and disgusted to say the least. What kind of man are we dealing with? Who in their right mind would dump oil into any body of water? Even if we could begin cleaning it all up, the ecosystem would still be severely damaged.

Isn't Saddam stabbing his own country in the back? Surely Iraq gets some food out of the Gulf. How long will Saddam's countrymen put up with such insanity?

Saddam claims he wants to get to heaven. I am in total favor of making sure he does very, very soon. There is no room on this earth for him.

Dear Editor,

What really is going on in the Persian Gulf? Besides knowing the suffering caused, lives taken, and the possibly irreversable negative effects on the environment, I don't think many of us really know what is going on.

They have told us that we are there to liberate Kuwait. If this is the case, what about Lithuania, South Africa, and Tibet (to name a few). Where were we when the students in Tinanamen Square were masacred? What about destroying the ancient rainforests, or other areas of the environment that we are steadily destroying? Why have we made The Persian Gulf our business, but have turned our back on many other major injustices around the world, and in our own country?

In 1990, The Exxon Corporation net profited $13 million a day, and The Chevron Corp. $7 million a day. For each corporation, profits were highest in the last quarter of 1990 (which is, ironically when American troops started occupying The Persian Gulf). If money talks, I can't help but think George Bush was listening.

They tell us there is a threat that Sadam Hussain will launch an attack on the allied nations with his arsenal of varied weapons. What they don't tell us is that most of Sadam Hussain's weapons came from the United States. The United States is the world's largest maker and seller of weapons. They say we sold these weapons to make friendly relations. To me, friendly relations are: feeding the hungry, and sheltering the homeless of the world. (Unfortunately, there is no profit in that!)

My second concern has to do with the anti-war protests in this country. I firmly agree with the right of free speech. However, I believe that supporting our troops, friends and relatives, is more important at the moment. Nobody wants to go to war. Certainly the troops and their families don't. Unfortunately we have to at times.

Yes, this does involve the oil issue to an extent. The Middle East controls approximately 66% of the world's oil. Our allies in Europe and Japan rely almost entirely on that oil. It is our duty as a world power to protect that region from Saddam.

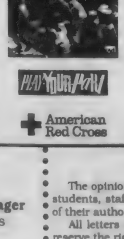
The war also involves aggression. Iraq invaded Kuwait on August 2. Repeated warnings and sanctions were sounded. Instead of heading these warnings, Saddam continued his brutal ideas. Kuwaitis were murdered, tortured, and raped. If that's not wrong will somebody please tell me what is wrong.

Iraq has gotten off lucky so far. If we hadn't been able to keep Isreal out of this, Iraq would be a wasteland by now. Don't forget — Israel has nuclear capabilities. Hopefully nuclear weapons and chemical and biological weapons will not be used. Unfortunately this situation is very unpredictable.

Whenever I see peace demonstrations on TV, I become ill. As I said before, nobody wants war. It seems obvious that peace has no chance as long as Saddam remains in power.

There will be civilian casualties. Civilians are vital to the maintenance of any military force. Somebody has to make the weapons, clothing, etc. Those who live near "military targets" should understand that death is very possible.

In closing I would like to reaffirm my full and total support for President Bush and the allied forces. I hope we emerge victorious soon and that the troops, our friends, and relatives return quickly and safely. May the world remember what happens and learn from it.



Sincerely,
Ed Faust

P.S. Suck Rocks, Saddam!!

I am not for or against our troops (my fellow Americans), nor am I for or against Sadam Hussain's army (my fellow brothers around the world). Instead, my heartfelt compassion goes out to all the people who have to witness the horrors of war first hand. My question is, to the people of this country, and to the people of the world: What are we being taken for by the people who run our governments.

Before Vietnam we were told that we were going in there to protect freedom and justice for the world, we were also told that it wouldn't take long. I know they said we'd be in and out of The Persian Gulf in less than a week, and now they're talking about scaling it up more. Once we send ground troops in, we'll have a lot of body bags coming back.

In truth and justice
Jake Devaney
Farmville, VA

PEACE THROUGH POWER

American Red Cross

Greek Affairs

Dear Editor:

I would sincerely like to respond to the article written by Sherry Stewart. I am a senior as well as a Greek. Over the years I have witnessed the editorials written between Greeks and non-Greeks. Many of these conflicts are filled with lack of communication and compassion.

First I would like to address the all encompassing issue of responsibility. We all have a responsibility in any organization to which we may commit ourselves as well as a responsibility to ourselves as individuals and to fulfilling our needs. Joining a Greek organization means that one has committed herself to contributing to the whole of the group. This would entail attending meetings regularly, honoring financial obligations, participating in functions, and so on. At times these commitments can become trying in many respects but the fact still remains, it is a responsibility. When somebody needs help in fulfilling her obligation, she needs to ask for help. Fraternities and sororities do not have formal training in mindreading. Ever since I have been a member of a sorority, and as far back as any of my sisters can remember, we have had meetings on the same night every week. When I was working to put myself through college I knew that one night a week I would have to be at a meeting, thus every Sunday night I got off from work. In most sororities, there is a national governing body that defines a policy concerning absenteeism by which each sorority must abide. It is not up to any one member to decide the limits or consequences of missing meetings.

A second issue is dedication. A decision to become Greek also means giving of yourself as well as receiving. Sororities are all what one makes of them. If I attend every meeting and pay my dues but do not give of myself then my efforts are worthless and rewards minimal. Time does not make a sister. Sisters and brothers come from the heart.

Finally, the issue of sisterhood. A "sorority" is an organization. "Sisters" are people. There are good things and not so good things about all people no matter if you meet them in a sorority or in an elevator. Being a sister to someone does not necessitate that she will be your best and closest friend. I do not tell my sisters everything about myself but I am always welcomed to. Maybe your friend cut herself off from her sorority or did not make an effort to maintain her friendships with them. All I know is that sisterhood as well as friendships take effort and cooperation from everyone in order to be a part of the "family."

If I need support and comfort and if I feel that I am not receiving what I need from another person, I am not beneath asking for it. People can't give me what they don't know I need (and there is no such thing as they "should have" known; this is reality). It is nice that you care so much for your friend but please know that being suspended from a sorority is not as simple as you have expressed. Unfortunately, being non-Greek means that you really can only know one side of the situation.

Ayme Curlee

Time Runs Out

Dear Editor:

There seems to be a common problem arising on the Longwood campus this semester and it has many students and professors quite upset. It's a simple problem that could be easily solved if professors would simply pay attention to their watches as class nears its end and allow students to leave on time. This semester I have two classes where the professors knowingly hold class 5 min. late. The act itself doesn't bother me. What does bother me and many, many others, is the fact that because one professor chooses to hold class 5 min. late, students are late to their next class.

One of the professors, whose name I will not mention, said on Monday "I know I've been keeping you late these past few days, but I'll make it up to you." That's fine. It is possible for him to make it up to the students, but what's not possible to make up is the class time lost by the next professor who cannot begin class on time without multitudes of students entering class late.

It seems that it all boils down to mutual respect among professors. One class is just as important as the next, and professors need to remember this. Students can't get to class on time unless professors let us out on time, (with the exception of an 8:30) so please respect your co-workers and students and let class out on time! Ten minutes were allotted between classes for a reason. Let's not use that ten minutes for the wrong reason!

The ROTUNDA

Box 1133
Longwood College
Farmville, Va. 23901

THE STAFF:

Editor-In-Chief Monica Y. Gilbert

Photography Editor Judi Weller

Business Manager Anita Owens

Features Editor Lindy Seymore

Layout Editor Sarah Whiteside

Advertising Manager Bradley Owen

Sports Editor Charlie Fultz

Layout Assistant Deborah Wilson

Faculty Advisor Barbara LaJaunie

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed or printed neatly. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is 3:00 p.m. Friday prior to the Monday publication date and these should be placed in the envelope on the Publication door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by midnight Sunday.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an American Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

FEATURES

Violinist To Give Concert

Maria Bachmann, a young violinist who is making it big on the concert stages of the world, will be featured in the next Chamber Music concert at Longwood College.

The concert will be Monday evening, February 11, at 8 o'clock in Wygal Auditorium. Admission is free.

Ms. Bachmann's accompanist is pianist Jon Klibonoff, a faculty member at Hunter College in New York City. He has performed throughout the U.S. and abroad as a recitalist, orchestra soloist, and chamber musician.

Their program will include "The Chaconne" from J. S. Bach's Partita No. 2 in D minor; one of the Mozart Sonatas for piano and violin; Brahms' Sonata No. 3 in D minor; and a contemporary piece entitled "Clockwork," published in 1989 by Sebastian Currier.

Ms. Bachmann has won numerous competitions, including first prize in the 1986 Concert Artists Guild New York Competition and the 1983 Fritz Kreisler International Violin Competition in Vienna.

She has performed in the most prestigious concert halls in this country and in Paris, Rome, Budapest, Shanghai, Tokyo, and other cities worldwide.

The New York Times has described Ms. Bachmann as "a violinist of soul and patrician refinement ... She has the strength, agility and precision that we have come to expect from a modern violinist, yet her playing has an affecting warmth that is distinctly unusual."

A Strings magazine reviewer said she "plays with the easy assurance born of confidence in one's technical mastery ... and there is about her something irresistibly genuine, honest, and spontaneous." The Washington Post said "her most impressive gift seems to be finding the essentially musical in everything she touches."

Ms. Bachmann grew up in a musical family in Philadelphia and began playing the violin at age seven. She received her bachelor's degree and certificate of professional studies from the Curtis Institute of Music. She now lives in Manhattan.

She plays an American contemporary violin by Sergio Peresson.

The final two concerts in this year's Chamber Music Series at Longwood will feature repeat performances by the Richmond-based Roxbury Chamber Players (March 11) and the Shanghai Quartet, in residence for a second season at the University of Richmond (April 8).

Courtesy of Public Affairs

Maria Bachmann is featured next week in Wygal Auditorium

$35,000
BEFORE YOU GRADUATE

Start your technical career now, while you're still in school and earn as much as $1,300 monthly, plus bonuses, in the Navy Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate Program. Earn up to $35,000 and never wear a uniform until after you graduate. Today, the Navy operates more than half the nuclear reactors in the U.S. and is a recognized leader in their development and operation.

REQUIREMENTS

- United States citizen.
- Have completed sophomore year, majoring in engineering, math, physics or chemistry.
- Minimum 3.0 GPA.
- Have completed one year of calculus and calculus-based physics.
- No more than 26 years old at time of graduation.
- Meet Navy's physical standards.

FOR MORE INFORMATION:

With no obligation call Lt. Tom Tshontikidis 1-800-533-1657.

NAVY OFFICER You and the Navy. Full Speed Ahead.

Longwood Players Start Season With "The Foreigner"

The Longwood Players are firing up for their first production of the Spring Semester with The Foreigner.

Showing at Jarman Auditorium, The Foreigner will run from Thursday, February 27 to Saturday, March 2. Cast by Pamela Arkin, the show's talent will include Joe Servis, Ethan Yonkers, Anthony Tassa, Amy Church, David Richards, Vern Williamson, and Andrew Wheeler and several others.

The Foreigner is a comedy written by Larry Shue, a native Virginian who died in a plane crash at the age of 34.

Director Arkin says she is proud of her production thus far: "Oh I think it's coming along great! It's a comedy and we're having fun."

Arkin, an ad-junct to the Theatre Department faculty expressed the difficulty in the casting of this show: "It was very tough because we had so many [students] who could have played so many parts. It was a very difficult decision."

Joe Servis who plays Charlie, the foreigner, is working on his first lead at Longwood. "I'm really excited and a little intimidated," he said. "I definitely have my work cut out for me. I'm going to try to surprise some people."

Servis is a sophomore History major who has been seen at Longwood as Friar Lawrence in Romeo and Juliet and as a soldier in Journey of the Fifth Horse and has also acted in several productions at the State Theatre in Farmville.

The cast of eleven consists of ten Longwood players. All who have been onstage here before with the exception of Ethan Yonkers, a transfer student from the University of Kentucky at Lexington.

"Working with the Longwood Players is truly a learning experience for me," said Yonkers, a freshman Theatre major. "I've worked on this play before and, I'm getting a whole new outlook on it." Yonkers has also performed in plays such as God, The Wizard of Oz, On Golden Pond, The Zoo Story, and several others.

The entire cast is looking forward to the show. Said Servis, "It's a comedy, but it has some really nice moments as well. There's much more to it than simply slapstick. I think it'll turn out very well. It's an excellent cast. If you like to laugh, it's definitely a show to see."

The Bulletin Board

The following information is courtesy of Public Affairs and The Office of Career Planning and Placement.

"Job Search" Workshops

Resume Writing
Tuesday, January 29, 1 p.m.
Monday, February 18, 4 p.m.
Thursday, February 28, 1 p.m.
Wednesday, March 27, 5 p.m.
Monday, April 8, 4 p.m.
Tuesday, April 16, 1 p.m.

Cover Letter Writing
Thursday, January 31, 1 p.m.
Wednesday, February 20, 5 p.m.
Tuesday, March 5, 4 p.m.
Thursday, April 4, 1 p.m.
Monday, April 15, 4 p.m.

Interviewing Skills
Monday, February 4, 5 p.m.
Tuesday, February 19, 1 p.m.
Thursday, March 7, 1 p.m.
Thursday, March 28, 4 p.m.
Wednesday, April 10, 4 p.m.
Tuesday, April 23, 1 p.m.

Job Search Skills*
Monday, February 11, 4 p.m.
Thursday, February 21, 1 p.m.
Tuesday, March 5, 1 p.m.
Wednesday, April 3, 5 p.m.
Thursday, April 18, 1 p.m.

Workshops usually last just over an hour.

Plan ahead, look over listing and choose workshops that fit your schedule.

*Videotapes on interviewing and job search skills are also available for your convenience.

Ask CPPC Staff for assistance.

Stop by CPPC to reserve a space for workshops

All workshops meet in CPPC - 2nd Floor South Ruffner

Career Exploration Series: Have you conducted thoughtful career planning? Do you know the type of job to seek when you graduate? If no, then attend this series. Tues. and Thurs., Feb. 5, 7, 12 and 14; 1-2 p.m., CPPC. This series is for all students, freshmen through seniors.

Recruiters: Southern States, Tues., Feb. 12 (sales/management); Peebles Department Store, Wed., Feb. 13 (management trainee). Seniors come by CPPC main office immediately to sign-up for interviews. Some require pre-selection by employer based on resume.

Workshops: Interviewing Skills - Mon., Feb. 4, at 5 p.m. Come by CPPC to sign-up for workshops in advance or just come at the appointed time.

January 28, Colonial Heights Schools, teaching; January 29, Dominos Pizza, management trainee; February 6, Virginia Beach City Schools, teaching; February 12, Southern States, sales/management; February 13, Peebles Department Store, management trainee; March 12, Defense Logistics Agency, comptrs./tech.; March 13, F. N. Wolf, stock broker trainee.

Seniors, come by CPPC immediately if you are interested in interviewing with any of the above recruiters. Sign-ups on a first come, first serve basis. You must have resume (data form for teachers) complete in order to sign-up.

III Annual Bodybuilding Competition will be held on Tues., Feb. 5, at 8 p.m., Jarman Auditorium. Admission is $1 for students/faculty and $3 for public.

Cunninghams Greatest Lecture Series: Tues., Feb. 5, at 7 p.m., 4th Floor S. Cunn. Dr. Wayne O'Brien, Dir., of Counseling Services will discuss, "Being a Male Can be Hazardous to your Health." Wed., Feb. 6, at 7; 4th Floor S. Cunn. Dr. James Helms, Dept., of History and Political Science will offer his views on the importance of the Declaration of Independence in "The Greatest Political Document Ever Written."

The International Studies Program will present a lecture by Dr. Robert J. Smith, professor and former chair of the Anthropology Department at Cornell University.

He will be discussing the role of culture in U.S.-Japanese trade friction.

The lecture will be given at 8 p.m., Feb. 20, 1991, in the Prince Edward Room. It is free and open to the public.

Attention Seniors: The swimming test will be offered one Friday each month at 3 p.m.

Attention All Freshman Council Members:

Our 1st meeting of the 2nd semester will be held on Tues., Feb. 12 at 8 p.m. in Conf. Rm. 2 of the Student Union. Hope to see you there! Thanks Jason Walker

S-UN To Sponsor "Night At The Apollo"

The Student Union Board's Cultural Unification Committee will sponsor "Night At the Apollo" at 7:30 p.m., February 9, 1991, in the Commons Room.

"Night At the Apollo" is a take-off from the "Showtime At the Apollo" at the Apollo Theater in Harlem, New York, on 253 W 125th Street.

The Apollo Theater, when it opened in 1914, served as a resource of great importance in the promotion of aspiring black artists. For the past century, it has proven to be a source of opportunity for those to whom other sources were blocked and unavailable. It also showcased the new talent of minorities in what was called "Amateur Night" competition. Those who were successful at the Apollo would receive a $15 prize and a week of performing at the Apollo.

The success of the Apollo Theater has produced some of the finest entertainers in the world such as Stevie Wonder, Billie Holiday, The Jackson Five, Gladys Knight and the Pips, Stephanie Mills and Luther Vandross. It has been said, "If you can make it at the Apollo, you can make it anywhere." Therefore, the Cultural Unification Committee will pay tribute to those who paved the way for perspective black artists.

The Cultural Unification Committee is following the Apollo's tradition of awarding prizes according to crowd approval! All students are encouraged to "showcase" their talent and bring friends to come and cheer them on.

S-UN Feature Attraction

The Student Union Film Committee is proud to present GLORY! Playing Monday, Feb. 4 at 9:30 p.m. Also, playing on Friday, Feb. 8 at 8 p.m. and Monday, Feb. 11 at 9 p.m. is ARACHNOPHOBIA!

All showings in the Gold Room.

SPORTS

Latimer Coming On Strong

By HOKE CURRIE
Sports Information

It's a three-and-a-half hour drive from Keith Latimer's hometown of Bluefield, to Farmville and Longwood College. He figures it's about 200 miles.

Latimer's point production for the Longwood men's basketball team has increased about that much this season. On the court the former high school high jumper is soaring.

Latimer, a 6-5, 190 pounder, has already scored more points in 1990-91 (203) than in his previous three years (180). And, over the past four games, three of them Longwood victories, he has been just short of phenomenal.

A talented all-around athlete who starred in basketball and track at Graham High School, Latimer has scored 69 points, grabbed 32 rebounds, shot 63.6 percent from the floor and 72.2 percent from the free throw line in the last four games. He's averaging 17.3 points and eight boards during that stretch, and has scored a career high 20 points twice.

Keyed by Latimer, Longwood has won three straight, beating District of Columbia 87-85, Elon 69-63 and Wednesday night UNC Greensboro 64059. Heading into a game at Queens (N.C.) College Saturday night, the Lancers had evened their record at 10-10, after dipping to 7-10 with five straight losses since play resumed in January.

Lancer coach Ron Carr is quick to point to Latimer as the main reason for Longwood's recent winning ways.

"He (Latimer) is the key to our turning things around," said Carr, a former assistant at Virginia Tech. "The last four games, he has gone in battling. Keith is starting to play to his strengths. His teammates are gaining confidence in him and getting the ball to him in scoring position. I've been real pleased with his hustle. He's been playing real hard on the boards."

More Aggressive

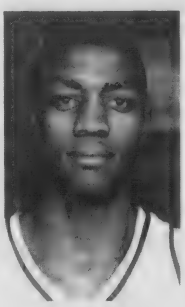
Latimer says he has become more aggressive offensively of late.

"Before I would only shoot if I was wide open," he explained.

"In the last couple of games I've been using more moves to score and handling the ball better. Take last night (UNCG game), for example. When I got the ball in the lane, a couple of guys collapsed on me, but I made a move and tried to score. First semester I probably would have passed the ball back outside.

"I feel that I've been playing harder lately. When things weren't going to well after we came back from Christmas, I didn't seem to care as much as I used to. Then I decided I was going to go all out."

"Over my first three seasons, I knew that most of the time I would get taken out of the game when I made a mistake," Latimer explained. "I feel more relaxed with the ball this year and I have a little more confidence. We have more freedom to do things in our offense now, as opposed to the last couple of years when we used more of a set offense."



Latimer was used almost strictly as a reserve before moving into the starting lineup in this, his final season. He averaged 3.0 points and 2.6 rebounds per game over his first three seasons, but is currently scoring 10.7 points per game and pulling down 7.3 rebounds per contest.

Increased playing time has had a lot to do with Latimer's improved statistics, and he also feels more relaxed now that he's a starter.

High Expectations

Ron Carr is in his first year as head coach at Longwood after replacing former coach Cal Luther in August. The new Lancer mentor says he had high expectations for Latimer after seeing him play for the first time in the fall.

"As soon as I got here and saw Keith play, I thought 'here's a guy with talent and ability'," Carr recalls. "He was inconsistent in the early part of the season, but now he's learning to play through his mistakes."

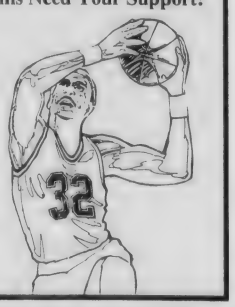
KEITH LATIMER

Latimer had 19 points and 12 rebounds in a November victory over Columbus College as Longwood got off to a 6-1 start. The Lancers slumped to 7-5 at the Christmas break and then dropped their first five games in January. Now the team is bouncing back behind Latimer and has hopes of finishing with a winning season.

"We want to lose no more than two games the rest of the way," said Latimer," and I want to keep my scoring and rebounding averages up."

Latimer is on schedule to graduate in May with a degree in business. His concentration is in finance.

Reflecting back on his college basketball career, Latimer says one of the things he has enjoyed the most is the travel. Longwood has played games as far south as Florida, as far west as Kentucky and as far north as New York.



"I've been a lot of places I wouldn't have gone without basketball. College has been an interesting experience."

Longwood Basketball

Catch the Lancers
February 6 at 7:30
as they battle the Trojans of Virginia State
and
The Lady Lancers
versus Wofford at 5:15

Join Us! The Teams Need Your Support!

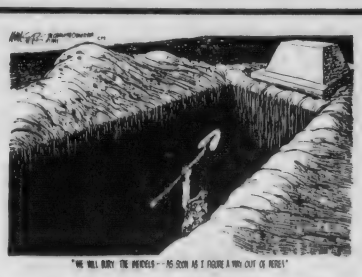
Remaining Home Games
February 9 at 3:00 Lady Lancers vs. Queens
February 17 at 2:00 Lady Lancers vs. U. of Pitt-Johnstown
February 18 at 7:30 Lancers vs. Barton College
February 21 at 7:30 Lancers vs. U. District of Columbia
February 23 at 2:00 Lancers vs. U. Pitt-Johnstown

CLASSIFIEDS/PERSONALS

Get Your Valentines In Early!

Deadline Feb. 8th.

Need to buy or sell a book? Need a ride home? Or maybe you want to find a home for that puppy you found. You can reach them all in the classifieds. Deadline for Monday's issue is 1:00 p.m. Friday.



Lost And Found

Found: Watch in front of Cox last semester. Call Monica at 3030 if you think it's yours.

WLCX 90.1 FM — The Voice of Longwood returns to the air waves 6 p.m. to 12 midnight seven days a week! Be sure to tune in early on Tuesdays at 4 p.m. for the TDK New Music Report.

Your Alternative Music Station — WLCX!

SGA invites all students to Dr. Dorrill's State of The College Address on Monday, February 4 at 6:00 p.m. in the Gold Room. Important issues will be discussed, so please plan to attend.

Wendy G. — I don't know you well, but you have changed my life in ways I can't explain; You're my inspiration! — A Secret Admirer

Gwen, Monica and The Gang — Thanks for being great friends and Practical Jokers. — Love you Wendy Sue

(Hinsonian Child and Lil' Miss Niss) — Hinsonian Child and Lil Miss Niss Mokin and Tokin' chillin' to the Wall. You know we're the coolest kids of all! — Beanie Weenies

P.S. Hinson — No Beanie Weenies for you!

Ladies of Longwood — T'is the season for the hunt to begin. — Love, the great white Booty Hunter and his band of Merry Men.

John Devaney — The tables are turned. I challenge you now. — YKW

Dave — What were you doing in the lounge?!

Lori — You're a goob, but you're still my favorite roommate! — Love Julianna

We love our ten new babies! And our 4 toddlers! — Σ Love - Tri-Sigma

S.G. — Lori knows you are scamming on her!

S.G. — Lori wants to meet you - SOON!

CHUGS — Hang in there for your last semester. You have a lot of support from my side of the street. — Love, Chuckles

Betsy Gee — We think you're cool! — Love Lori and Julianna

Alpha Taus — I am very proud of you guys and I thank God for each and every one of you. — Tau love, Kathy M.

Weev — Heavy D once told me Love is the best t'ing that a (Wo)man could have; and if t'is is true, I (wo)man wanna know. — Angel Blue

Blue Moon — 41 days from today! Watch out MYB, here we come. We'll lounge during the day, and tear up the town at night. Heh, we might even let the guys in on the fun. — Skeeter

Stacy — Our senior year, which we thought would never get here, is gradually coming to an end. Good luck student teaching. I'm sure you'll do a wonderful job. Enjoy the time away and have fun! I will miss you (ex-"roomie") and I'm sure I won't be the only one. — Love ya, Valerie

To color — Happy 5th Anniversary! (Feb 7) I'm so glad we've made it! I love you! — Yours, Shelby E.

To my brother — Anthony Errin McQuaige — Tony, my prayers are with you. You are a survivor with plenty of strength, and that's what you can count on to get you through this crisis. I love you so very much big brother. — Love always, Lil Sis Gwen

Jenny Tomko — Thanks so much for lending an hear, and for helping me with Grammar. That is one class I have to study for everyday. — Gwen McQuaige

Monte, LaQuita, Wendy — Thanks for the being you! — "Tweetz" Tweety

To my dear Sisters of Sigma Kappa — Thank you ever so much for your enthusiasm throughout rush! You all hold a special place in my heart! Smiles and hugs. —Shelly Stringer

I love my little sis! — Σ love, Julianna

LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE

VALUABLE PHOTO COUPON

$1.00 OFF

COLOR DEVELOPING AND PRINTING

35MM, 110, 126, DISC,
C-41 PROCESS
EXPIRES 2-28-91

Kodak

Shred Center.

Enjoy winter's newest challenge, Snowboard Skiing at Massanutten. Hone your skills as you rip from peak to base. Show your skills on our challenging half pipe.

Snowboard skiing is permitted on all open slopes and trails, including our two new slopes from the top of the mountain. Lessons and limited rentals are also available.

College Twilight skiing rates, $12, apply, on Monday and Friday. With your valid college ID and this ad, lift tickets to snowboard skiers are just $10.

Come ski what's new at Massanutten.

MASSANUTTEN
10 Miles East of Harrisonburg, Virginia on Route 33

INSIDE:

Honor Symposium Raises Important Issues

CONTENTS

News.....2
Features.....3
Sports.....3
Classifieds.....4
Personals.....4

The ROTUNDA

VOL. 70 NO. 10 | FEBRUARY 11, 1991 | LONGWOOD COLLEGE | Farmville, Virginia

Black History Recognized

By TAMMY LEE

Black history month is being recognized by Longwood College according to director of minority affairs, Brenda Cross, in an interview on Monday.

"Black history month isn't just for blacks. Black history month is for everybody," said Mrs. Cross.

Cross encouraged attendance by all at the many upcoming events planned for black history month. Some of these events include a lecture on myths about black history, a video on racism on campus and a book discussion on black men.

One such lecture given by Dr. Horace C. Boyer on Feb. 4 was entitled "Old Ship of Zion: African - American Gospel Music". This lecture was quite interesting and informative to both blacks and whites who attended.

In response to a question about the importance of other cultures learning about black culture, Cross said "The better

(Continued on page 4)

Photo Credit: Monica Y. Gilbert

Dr. Dorrill's State of the College Address told of the negative and positive aspects of the current financial crisis.

President Addresses State of College

By MONICA Y. GILBERT
Editor-in-Chief

"It is a time of great strain for all of us at the college," so stated Dr. Dorrill at the State of the College address sponsored by the SGA this past Monday night. For the most part, Dr. Dorrill addressed the financial strain in relation to Longwood which he considered to be parallel to the Great Depression. In comparison to other schools, however, "we fared better than almost any other public institution."

In total budget cuts, 16 percent of the finances given to Longwood were cut which resulted in a loss for many departments at Longwood. There was a 20 percent reduction in salaries for all staff, including the president. Other results were those such as reductions in computer lab and library hours, layoffs of parttime staff, reductions in operating budgets, reductions in equipment expenditures, and reduction in funds for the library. The largest cut came from Academic Affairs with a loss of $403,502 and the smallest cut came from the president's office with a loss of $86,186 and 2 staff positions.

The president counterbalanced these negative results with many positive aspects, saying that there were no layoffs of faculty or fulltime staff. Although there are currently 12 fulltime positions which will be temporarily empty. He maintained that there will be no increase in class sizes, no further cuts in library acquisitions, no reduction in scholarship aid, and no midyear increase in tuition or fees.

On a lighter note, Dr. Dorrill mentioned some of the changes that will occur at Longwood in the future such as the start of a new dorm with an estimated completion date of June 1992. It is expected that moving into the new library will happen over spring break and in explanation of the new police cars, the president added that the cars were ordered a year ago and were just recently delivered. He was pleased that this spring's enrollment was the highest ever with 3,085 students and that the retention rate of the students was

(Continued on page 2)

Farmville Bus System

By SHERRY GATEWOOD

The Farmville Area Bus is an experimental mass transportation system, the first of its kind in Virginia.

First proposed by Town Manager Gerry Spates, its purpose is to move area residents as well as Longwood and Hampden-Sydney students throughout Farmville and its surrounding areas.

The Virginia Department of Transportation first sent a consultant to Farmville to assess the possible need for a bus system. The consultant surveyed townspeople as well as students, faculty, and staff of both colleges about their opinion of this idea. He found that such a system would be welcome.

Mike Socha, the Farmville Bus manager, says that "It is the only one of its kind in Virginia". It is an "established, fixed route system", which means that there are set stops, routes, and times which do not change.

The money which keeps the bus going is composed of contributions from Longwood, Hampden-Sydney, the town of Farmville, federal grants, and state funding.

There are two bus routes and nine drivers who presently operate the system. It runs until 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday and until 2 a.m. on Friday and Saturday nights.

The bus has two lines, a red line and a blue line. The red line is used primarily by college students because it goes to the main shopping centers. The blue line goes to the golf course, the rugby field, the cabin, and other outlying areas.

Students of both colleges ride free with their school ID. Senior Citizens can also get a free ride card from the town manager. The charge for anyone outside of these two groups is 25 cents.

Both the town of Farmville and the two colleges have separate goals for the bus service.

In town, its purpose is to help those who do not have licenses or cars. Also, it brings more workers and shoppers to the downtown businesses.

For students, since Longwood freshmen are not allowed to have cars on campus, this is an alternative to walking or having to find a ride.

The townspeople compose the largest ridership by far, followed by Hampden-Sydney and then Longwood. Rick Hurley, Vice President for Business and Legislative Affairs says that there are a few possible reasons for Longwood's slow rate.

Perhaps because we are so close to the downtown area already or because the system has just recently started were two suggested ideas. He says "I would like to see Longwood students use it because you are paying for it".

Socha is working to make the system as safe as possible. By installing seat belts on the buses and requiring that his drivers do safety checks every four hours, he says, "there is a huge safety factor".

All drivers must have a commercial driver's license, complete a safe driver course designed for this system, and attend weekly meetings from which no driver is exempt.

In such meetings, problems, requests, and new policies are discussed. The buses and their drivers are constantly evaluated to make sure that the system is running smoothly and efficiently.

However, despite these measures, says Socha, college student "ridership in my opinion has not been overly impressive."

One issue students have brought to his attention is the "no freshman cars on campus" rule. Socha says that many students feel threatened, believing that this is just one more step towards revoking all vehicle privileges.

Socha claims that this fear is completely unfounded. He feels the bus is a safer alternative where matters of alcohol and safety are concerned. One can ride the bus to and from D.T. Bradley's or Hampden-Sydney College and not worry about having to drive.

Socha understands that some people may prefer to drive and this if fine, but others may not. He simply says, "It's there and you might want to use it."

As of Friday Feb. 1, 1991, the Farmville Bus had transported 6,000 people since its beginning on August 20, 1990. This is the equivalent of moving the entire student population of Longwood 3 times and Hampden-Sydney 6 times. Socha says, "we are moving more people than we ever anticipated."

He comments, "even if I was not an affiliate with the bus system, I would have to be an advocate for it."

Happy Valentine's Day To You And Yours!

Profiles of Black Americans

All profiles are taken from I Dream A World: Portraits of Black Women Who Changed America by Brian Lanker.

ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON was the first woman to chair the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission; she served during the Carter Administration from 1977 to 1981. A constitutional and civil rights lawyer, she worked with the American Civil Liberties Union before being appointed to head the New York City Commission on Human Rights in 1970. She is a graduate of Antioch College and Yale University, and has been a professor at the Georgetown University Law Center since 1982.

NEWS

Honor Symposium Raises Important Issues

By BETTY BRYANT

What is honor? Where does it come from, and how far does it go?

Longwood College students, faculty, and staff spent a recent Friday evening and all day Saturday discussing questions like these. The Honor Symposium marked the 80th birthday of Longwood's Honor Code.

During the first week of each academic year at Longwood, new students sign the Honor Code. Each student pledges "to govern my college life according to its standards and to accept my responsibility for helping others to do so, and with sensitive regard for my college, to live by the Honor Code at all times and to see that others do likewise."

The Student Handbook spells out the Honor Code Standards and Regulations. Its fundamental provisions strictly forbid lying, cheating, stealing, and plagiarism, while encouraging high standards of integrity and an atmosphere of trust.

Most written work for Longwood classes and all tests and exams must be "pledged" with the following statement: "I have neither given nor received help on this work nor am I aware of any infraction of the Honor Code."

One of the guest speakers for the symposium – Dr. D. Parker Young from the University of Georgia – said honor codes have a long tradition, dating back to the early 1800s, but there are not many of them left in higher education. "There may not be any west of the Mississippi," he said.

Longwood's code is even more rare because it is student-enforced, Dr. Young said.

The Honor Board at Longwood, consisting of 12 members elected from the student body, hears all alleged Honor Code violations, makes judgments, and determines appropriate disciplinary sanctions.

The four major penalties are dismissal from the College; suspension for a specified period of time, usually a semester or a year; disciplinary probation for a specified time; and "admonition," which puts the student in a warning status.

In addition to one or more of these penalties, the Honor Board may impose a fine, work assignment, loss of privileges, or payment of restitution to the College or to a person or organization.

Dr. Young, who is a past president of the National Organization on Legal Problems of Education, said the honor codes that are most often in the news and in the courts "have only one penalty for cheating – expulsion from the institution. The University of Virginia and many of the military schools, including West Point and VMI, have such codes."

His opinion is that "these extremely strict honor systems lose credibility, because students will not report their peers if they know the result will be expulsion."

Greg Calder, a member of Longwood's Honor Board, agrees with the stern view.

"If a person has cheated, I think he or she should go," Calder said. "I probably have the lowest grade point average in this room, but I earned it honestly. It isn't right that someone might graduate with a better academic record – and maybe get a better job – by cheating."

Laura Seargeant said that "many reasons and circumstances contribute to behavior, and people can learn from their mistakes. Is it honorable not to give someone a second chance?"

"Don't worry," Calder responded. "That's why our Honor Board has 12 members. Some are hard-liners like I am, and some are bleeding-heart- do-gooders. So we have a balance."

In defining honor for the group, Dr. Young contrasted it with reputation.

"Your reputation is what others think you are," he said. "Honor or integrity is what you really are. "It's what guides your actions when no one is watching and when there is no reward involved. It needs no rules imposed from the outside."

He added that honor is "a larger concept" than honesty. "You can be honest in the technical sense by not breaking a rule or law and still be dishonorable because you have broken your own principles."

Honor is composed of many virtues, Dr. Young said, including truthfulness, courage, empathy, tolerance, and loyalty.

"In making decisions we sometimes must give priority to one virtue over the others," he said.

He quoted Dr. Derek Bok, former president of Harvard University, who said there are two parts to living honorably: having the ability to perceive a situation from all sides, to think about it and make a decision; and, developing the character to put decisions about what is right into practice.

"We learn to live honorably by practice, by doing the right thing in every situation," Dr. Young said. "And honor codes remind us that we really are honest and honorable people. A free and open society needs a high degree of ethical behavior because trust is essential. Even the perception that honor is eroding can do considerable damage."

The group discussed several case studies. One scenario concerned a young woman who is planning to be married in two weeks. She overhears some coworkers talking about her fiance's affair with another woman.

The bride-to-be goes to her best friend and asks if she knows anything about the fiance's actions. The friend has known about the affair for some time. Should she tell what she knows, even if it will devastate her friend?

"This one is clear," said Chris Parks. "The bride-to-be needs to know what's going on before she marries this guy and then may have to go through a divorce."

Zhan Caplan agreed. "The friend should be very sure of the facts," he said. "If she is, then she has to tell the truth."

Brian Crutchfield said it would be "very hard to add to a friend's pain, but not knowing the truth would be more painful for her in the long run."

Another scenario dealt with using a fake ID to get into a party and secure alcoholic drinks.

"Kids don't seem to give this much thought, and they do it all the time," said Dr. Dean Palmer, professor of business at Longwood and adviser to the Honor Board. "It is a serious offense, a legal misdemeanor. College officials are required to report cases of illegal drinking to the authorities."

In addition to possible legal penalties, such as fines and loss of driver's license, students convicted of using fake IDs can lose all scholarship and grant aid.

The group debated whether or not two or more students working together on homework constituted academic cheating. The consensus among students in the group was that this practice is not cheating.

Dr. Robert Webber, professor of mathematics and computer science at Longwood, told the students to read the Honor Board's definitions more carefully.

"According to the section on academic cheating, students must have prior permission from their professors before collaborating with each other in preparing written work," he said. "Even if you go to the Learning Center to ask for help from a tutor, you must have permission from your instructor."

Dr. Sandra Breil, associate professor of biology, said she encourages students to discuss and compare results when working in the lab. "I think this helps them learn," she said, "but when they get to the point of writing their lab reports, I expect them to work alone."

She and Dr. Webber agreed that professors should tell their students whether or not they can work together on homework and should explain, particularly to freshmen, their views on plagiarism.

"These things should be included in the course syllabus," Dr. Webber said. "But if it isn't, it's up to the students to ask."

The case study that generated the most animated debate concerned a student who found $10 missing from her purse. She asked her roommate about it and was told that the roommate had "borrowed" the money and would return it as soon as she received a check from home.

Three weeks go by and the money still has not been returned. Should the student report her roommate to the Honor Board for stealing?

The answer was a resounding 'yes,' except for one faculty member who said, "Don't roommates borrow things from each other all the time? We're talking about an insignificant amount of money. I would chalk it up to experience and get a new roommate!"

Student response was immediate and emphatic. "Ten dollars is not insignificant when you're a poverty-stricken student," said Polly Hathaway. "We do borrow things from roommates, but not without asking in advance or leaving a note."

Marianne Moffat said, "A roommate is a very big part of your life at college. She has access to everything you own, to what you say, and even to what you think. You have to be able to trust your roommate."

Dr. Palmer told the group that there is a marked difference, from a faculty standpoint, between colleges with honor systems and those without."

I taught at four Western colleges before coming to Virginia," he said. "None of them had honor systems. Professors there had to act like policemen, and many of the students seemed to regard cheating as a game – a game they could win by fooling the professor."

The second part of Longwood's honor pledge makes all students responsible for maintaining a community of trust on campus.

"It's part of your contract with the College to report infractions of the Honor Code," Dr. Palmer said. "If you don't do this, the system falls apart. It's the students in every class that make Longwood's system work."

Students in the group agreed unanimously that it is "a scary, stressful thing" to write someone up for an Honor Code violation.

"Part of the stress here at Longwood is that it's a small community," Ms. Hathaway said. "You probably will see the person you have reported every day."

Calder wrapped it up. "If we don't take a stand somewhere, then what does Longwood College mean? If we don't insist on honorable behavior we will cheapen the whole community and the Longwood degree."

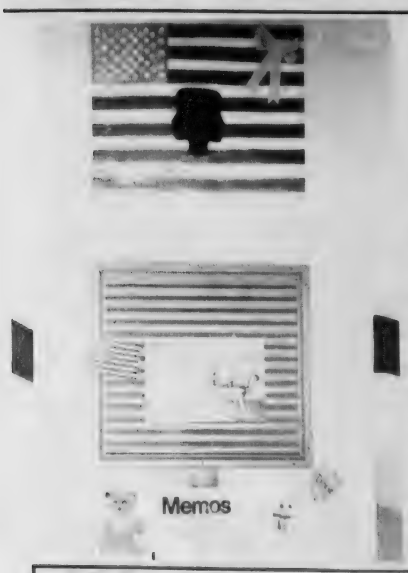
When you party remember to...

PARTY Smart®

Don't get wrecked. If you're not sober – or you're not sure – let someone else do the driving.

A message provided by this newspaper and Beer Drinkers of America

BEER DRINKERS OF AMERICA
PARTY•SMART



National Headquarters
150 Paularino Ave., Suite 190
Costa Mesa, CA 92626
714/557-2337
1-800-441-2337

Beer Drinkers of America is a non-profit consumer membership organization open only to persons over the age of 21

(Continued from page 1)

high citing the students overall approval of the academics.

All in all, Dr. Dorrill hopes that "we will be able to remain optimistic but realistic." He believes that we have surmounted the cuts and that they haven't done serious damage. He endeavors to keep Longwood resilient despite the cuts and pledged his best efforts to seek lost funding in renovation of Grainger, reasonable increases in tuition and fees, and communication with the student body in which he will be soliciting responses in the process of changing strategy.

OCPP Offers Externships

By HEIDI LEE

This spring the Career Planning and Placement Center is offering externships for Juniors and Seniors.

"It's an excellent program," said Bill Froude, assistant director of the CPPC.

The students decide what companies they are interested in doing externships with and bring their ideas to the CPPC. There the student will fill out a Student Profile form. Then the CPPC will make first contact with the companies of interest for the students.

According to Froude, the initial contact is the hardest step and that is why CPPC will make it. After they find a company that is interested, they will give them the student profile. Then it is the student's and company's responsibility to work out all the details.

For example, the time of the externship is suggested to take place either over Spring Break or the week after Commencement. If these times do not suit, the student can arrange another time with the company.

An externship is someone working for a short time – a weekend to a week – with a company without pay or credit. It is just a hands-on experience, unlike an internship in which you either receive pay or earn credit.

This program existed three or four years ago and is now being brought back. Froude said he sees the program as an excellent opportunity for Juniors and Seniors to meet contacts in companies, and to decide if a career field is for them.

Photo Credit: Monica Y. Gilbert

Longwood has various ways of showing community during this time of war. Pictured is a bulletin board from 2nd floor Main Cunningham.

Student Aid.

Ski Massanutten after 12:30 p.m. on Monday and Friday and you'll receive some money-saving financial assistance. Show us your valid college ID—full or part time—and purchase your lift ticket for just $12 and rent your equipment for $10.

Bring us this ad and we'll aid you even more with an additional $2 off your lift ticket.

So find some friends, tear out this ad and come to Massanutten on Monday or Friday. You'll enjoy the best twilight skiing value in the area when you ski our two new slopes and ride our new "Quad" chairlift for just $10.

MASSANUTTEN
10 Miles East of Harrisonburg, Virginia on Route 33

Valid 1991 Ski Season only. May not be used with other discounts. Not available on holidays.

The ROTUNDA
Box 1133
Longwood College
Farmville, Va. 23901

THE STAFF:

Editor-In-Chief Monica Y. Gilbert
Photography Editor Judi Weller
Business Manager Anita Owens
Features Editor Lindy Seymore
Layout Editor Sarah Whiteside
Advertising Manager Bradley Owen
Sports Editor Charlie Fultz
Layout Assistant Deborah Wilson
Faculty Advisor Barbara LaJaunie

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed or printed neatly. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is 3:00 p.m. Friday prior to the Monday publication date and these should be placed in the envelope on the Publication door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by midnight Sunday.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an American Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

FEATURES

Willy Porter — Monday, February 11 at 8:00 p.m. in the Lancer Cafe. Admission is free. This event is sponsored by S-UN Board.

Longwood Hosts Choral Festival

Longwood College will host an Intercollegiate Choral Festival on Saturday, Feb. 16.

Four visiting choirs will join Longwood's choral groups for rehearsals that afternoon. At 7:30 Saturday evening in Iler Gymnasium, the choirs will present a concert that is open to the public free of charge.

Iler Gymnasium is located on Pine Street, across from the Lankford Building. "We needed a fairly large hall that is appropriate for a cappella choral singing, and the gym is a natural choice," said Dr. Donald Trott, director of Longwood's choral groups. "There will be ample seating for the audience."

The Collegium Chorus and Concert Choir from Virginia Tech, the Roanoke College Choir, the George Mason University Concert Choir, and Longwood's Concert Choir and Camerata Singers will participate in the Festival.

Each group will perform a 15-minute segment alone. The program will conclude with the combined chorus (some 243 voices) performing "The Last Words of David" by Randall Thompson and "Make Our Garden Grow" from Candide by Leonard Bernstein.

The Festival is sponsored by the Virginia Chapter of the American Choral Directors Association.

The Bulletin Board

The following information is courtesy of Public Affairs and The Office of Career Planning and Placement.

In this day of an ever-changing work environment, it is more important than ever to conduct some thoughtful career planning. Leaving your career development to chance could result in you finding yourself in a dead-end job. Worse yet, you may find yourself unemployed for a long period simply because you lack direction in your career. Ask yourself these questions: "What is keeping me from making logical plans for my future? Why am I kidding myself by saying 'I think about it after I graduate'."

This semester, CPPC is sponsoring two workshop series that can take you through the logical steps for planning your future. Pick one that best fits your schedule:

SERIES #1: Tuesday and Thursdays, February 5, 7, 12, 14; 1-2 p.m. in the Career Library, CPPC.

SERIES #2: Mondays and Wednesdays, March 4, 6, 11, 13; 5-6 p.m. also in the Career Library.

Come to CPPC immediately and sign-up. Space is limited. The workshop series are for all students, freshmen through seniors. Take advantage of the free career counseling — after you graduate, you would pay $$ for the service anywhere else. If you are a senior without direction, it is especially vital for you!

"Ugliest Professor Contest"

Vote for the professor with the ugliest face.

Get 1 vote for 25¢, get 3 votes for 50¢.

Sponsored by AMA

Cast you vote today in Hiner

All Students — Steel Magnolias opens on Friday, Feb. 15 and runs the 16, 22 and 23, at the State Theatre. All shows at 8 p.m. A student discount night will be provided on the 14 for only $3! Come and join the fun!

Attention all New Kids Fans!

If you've got "The Right Stuff", then "tonight" we'll be "Hangin' Tough" in the Gold Room, 7 p.m.

Come down and voice your opinion on the N.K. O.T.B. of Beantown.

So stop playing those games!! Cause they don't need none and neither do we.

All African American Students: You are invited to attend the second annual Roanoke Regional Job Fair for Black College Students, hosted by Roanoke Valley area employers. The job fair will be held Feb. 25, 12:30 p.m.-4 p.m. at the Roanoke Civic Center. Learn about current and future job possibilities with these businesses. Stop by CPPC.

Recruiters: Southern States, Tues., Feb. 12 (sales/management); Peebles Department Store, Wed., Feb. 13 (management trainee). Seniors come by Office to sign-up for interviews. Some require pre-selection by employer based on resume.

Kappa Delta Pi, an international honor society for elementary and secondary education majors, is now accepting applications for new membership. Members of Kappa Delta Pi are committed to promoting excellence in the field of education. Membership into the organization requires that a student be currently enrolled in or have previously accumulated at least 12 credit hours or education courses, and possess a G.P.A. of 3.25 or better. Kappa Delta Pi sponsors activities to increase professional awareness, some of which include special guest speakers, the sponsoring activities for school age students within the surrounding community, tutoring, and much, much more! Applications for membership may be picked up in Wynne 105C or 306 South Cunningham. Deadline for return is Friday, April 12.

Attention All Students

Those of you with family members and friends serving in the military may now accept a collect call from them and have the $10 Service fee waived. In order to have this fee waived, you must call #2606 within 24 hours and give the date, time of call, and your extension number.

There will be a meeting tonight at 7 in the R/W/G room for non-greek ladies interested in Iota Phi Lambda Sorority, Inc.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE ROTUNDA!

For more information:
Contact Brad Owen
Phone (804) 395-2120 or 395-3253

Box 1133
Farmville, VA 23901

SPORTS

Longwood Gymnasts Drop Decision To Navy

By MARK KIRK

Longwood's gymnastics team continued to struggle Saturday night, coming out on the short end of a 171.95-162.75 score against Navy. The Lady Lancers are now 0-4 under first year coach Beth Evangelista.

Longwood started out strong with a combined score of 43.65 on vault, but the availability of only five healthy gymnasts eventually wore down the Lady Lancers. Senior Natalie Taylor missed her second straight meet due to illness, while junior Cheryl Cole was unable to perform because of an injured ankle.

"I thought we did well, especially when you consider that we only had five people for the meet," said Evangelista. "We didn't have a sixth person who could perform and allow us to drop one score. Every person's score counted so we had no room for error and that hurt us."

Navy's Michelle Reyes captured individual honors with an all-around total of 37.15, while Lady Lancer sophomore Danielle Williams finished second with a 34.80.

Sophomore Beth Risley also enjoyed a good all-around meet for Longwood, finishing with a score of 34.30.

Other all-around scores for Longwood were turned in by freshman Laura Hill, 33.95; freshman Marci Anzelmo, 29.95; and sophomore Jennifer Bradner 29.75.

"Danielle performed like we're used to seeing her perform, and Beth turned in another consistent performance," said Evangelista. "Laura also did well, especially on beam, and Marci was solid as well."

"I was also pleased with Jennifer, because she had not taken part on bars this year and she was able to do well in that event. She really improved all of her routines."

Top scores for Longwood in each event were by Williams on vault, 8.95, and floor exercise, 9.0; Risley on uneven bars, 8.6; and Hill on balance beam, 8.75.

Longwood will remain on the road for its next meet on Saturday at Towson State before returning home on February 22 to face William & Mary.

Lady Lancers Dethrone Queens

By CHARLEY JACOBS

The Longwood women's basketball team extended its win streak to two games Saturday, dropping the visiting Royals of Queens College 76-73 in Lancer Hall. The Lady Lancers, who lost the first meeting between the two teams 85-78 in January, used a 10-0 run early in the second half to send the Royals back to Charlotte with their second straight loss.

Longwood, which led for less than a minute during the opening period, trailed the Royals by as many as six with under five minutes to play in the half. The Royals, who average 5.3 three-pointers per game, tossed in 10 treys on 27 attempts for the day.

But the Lady Lancers closed the gap with four consecutive buckets by freshman Ana Litton and jogged off the maple at intermission with score deadlocked at 39-39.

Longwood opened the second stanza outscoring Queens 20-10 in the opening eight minutes of the period, including a 10 point run, before the Royals bench closed the floodgates with a timeout. The run was propelled by consecutive steals from freshman Cassie Ensley, and juniors Cassie Mullenix and Salene Green.

"We added a new option to our offense," explained head coach Shirley Duncan. "This is the part of the season where we're seeing teams for a second time and they're seeing us for a second time. The new facet of the offense gives us something they haven't seen before. I think it has helped the team alot."

Green led the second half charge with 14 of her 21 team-leading points, including seven of eight from the charity stripe. Green also led the Lady Lancers on the boards with 17 rebounds.

"Salene has really been doing a good job for us the last few games," added Duncan. "She's really a steadying factor on the floor."

Also in double figure were senior Ann Callaham with 15 points, Mullenix with 13, and Ensley with 11.

The Lady Lancers hosted Wofford College in Lancer Hall Wednesday night, toppling the physical Lady Terriers 69-68.

Wofford, which earlier in the season had defeated Longwood in Spartanburg 91-85 in overtime, wanted to make it 2-0 for the season. With less than four minutes to play, the Lady Terriers had cut an 11 point Lady Lancer halftime lead to five points, 67-62. Sophomore Mandy Evans bucket put Longwood up 69-62, but Wofford made a final run closing the gap to 69-68.

Trailing by one with less than 30 seconds, Wofford had several opportunities to pull ahead of the Lady Lancers. A misfired jump shot by the Terriers resulted in three offensive rebounds, but they could not stuff in the go ahead bucket.

Ensley and Mullenix led the way for Longwood, pumping 16 points apiece. Also in double figures were Green with 14 and sophomore Mandy Evans with 11. Tops in rebounds was junior Heather Green with 10.

The Lady Lancers take a week break before returning to action Sunday Feb. 17 when they host the Lady Mountain Cats of the Pittsburgh-Johnstown at 2 p.m. in Lancer Hall.

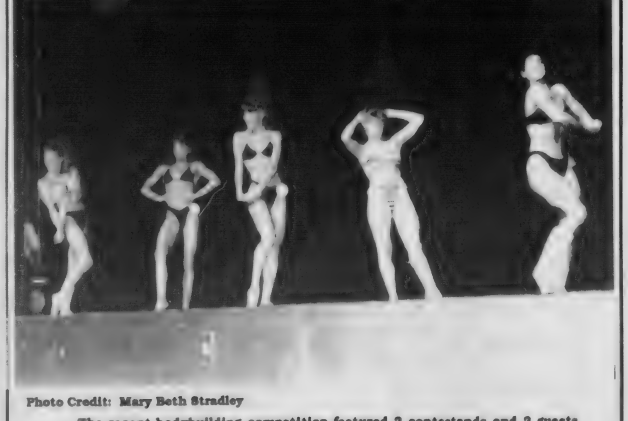


Photo Credit: Mary Beth Stradley

The recent bodybuilding competition featured 2 contestands and 2 guests. Shown from left to right are: Teri Riemondy, Marci Anzelmo (winner of the women's division), Laurie McKean, Danielle Williams, and Julie Moore. In the Men's Division, Mike Carter is the lightweight champion and James Herzog is the heavyweight champion and Mr. Longwood.

CLASSIFIEDS/PERSONALS

-FREE-
PREGNANCY
TEST
All services confidential.
Same day results.
SOUTHSIDE PREGNANCY
CENTER
24-HOUR HOTLINE
392-8483

Need to buy or sell a book? Need a ride home? Or maybe you want to find a home for that puppy you found. You can reach them all in the classifieds. Deadline for Monday's issue is 1:00 p.m. Friday.

S-UN Film Committee Feature Attraction

Terror spiders are here! ARACHNOPHOBIA playing on Monday, Feb. 11 directly following a special presentation of MR. DESTINY starting at 8 p.m. in the Gold Room!

Also playing on Friday, Feb. 15 at 8 p.m. in Lancer Café and Monday, Feb. 18 at 9 p.m. in the Gold Room, it's GHOST! Ghost posters will be given as door prizes as supplies last.

WLCX 90.1 FM — The Voice of Longwood returns to the air waves 6 p.m. to 12 midnight seven days a week! Be sure to tune in early on Tuesdays at 4 p.m. for the TDK New Music Report.

Your Alternative Music Station — WLCX!

Corrections

Proper photo credit is given to Kent Booty for his picture of the new SGA President and Judi Weller for her picture of the yellow ribbon. Both were in the January 28th issue. We apologize for any inconvenience this may have caused.

Lost And Found

Lost: Ladies gold watch. Lost Thurs. at lunch. Reward offered!! Please call 3949.

LONGWOOD COLLEGE
BOOKSTORE
OPEN MONDAY-FRIDAY 8-5 P.M.
PHONE 392-2084

We Support
Our Troops In The Gulf!

COME IN TODAY AND RECEIVE 1
FREE PATRIOTIC
REMINGTON INK PEN!
(With any purchase of $5.00 or more.)

Trash, Kaaatie, Kathy, and Krispy — Take it downtown! Happy Valentine's Day! Have a good one. Stop by later? — Lazy, PS 84

Jeni-Curry 511 — Remember that Friday. I am still intellectually erect. Call me

Tammy — Thanks for the personals. Here is one for you. Good luck these next 10 weeks. I will miss you and Steff. Be good and keep out of trouble. — Mindy M.

Blue Moon — 34 days to go. The sun, beach, hot tubs, indoor pool, nightclubs. We're gonna do it all. P.S. Thanx for putting up with me while I was sick. — Skeeter

Yo Suzie — Bear with me — I know I make life difficult, but look at it this way — It's always interesting. — K.

Congratulations to all the body builders! Lookin' good. — A Fan

3rd Floor French — It's a nice place to visit, but I'm glad I don't live there! — Yolanda

To the Social Butterfly — Happy birthday!!! It's sooo much fun being your roommate, because there is never a dull moment. Thanks for putting up with the insomnia and my "hyper" attacks. Don't forget to "lay down those serious moves" this summer! — Your roommate "Sneezy"

To the sisters of Sigma Kappa — You did a great job with Rush! I'm so proud of you! You are great! — E Love, Sherri

Happy birthday Lashawn Key! — You're the best roommate ever. 21 years and you're still going strong! — Love, Monica

Sweetness — I love you! — Sharnise

Happy Valentine's Day Sweetness! — Sharnise

Hey Dork — No more cocky K. It's straight A's all the way. Last semester was great, BUT this one's going to be "GREATER". This semester it's revenge of the dorks! So keep your nose in the books and your eye on the bench. —MNA Love "E"

Troop and J. P. W. — How long's it been now? You've come a long way babies!! Happy Valentine's Day! — Love, Troop 2

Hey African Queens — Things are looking up and the sky's the limit. If we remain the same, things will change. Keep on steppin'! Iota love forever! — Zenobia

Neil Scott Hakel — Stop it, cut it out, you make me sweat. It happened once, shame on you. Goodbye — Me

Third Floor Curry — Happy Mardi Gras!!! — Ed

Michael D. — Main Cunninghams are you am "Angry Young Man" or just a "Rebel without a cause"? I wonder what mysteries reside behind your emigmatic eyes! Happy Valentine's Day — A Secret Admirer

Franki — Congrats on pledging ΑράΙΙ! — Love your sis' mom.

GG — Do you mind if I ... Uh ... You know what and where? You can do it too! — AH

Jenn — You mean everything to me and I'll never stop loving you. You're the greatest. — Always, Me

Kathryn — Happy V-Day — Mr. U

Marieka — Yes — You are the greatest.

Hey Derick! — You wanted a Valentine? You've got one! (It is BETWIXT two other personals). — A friend

Jerry — Happy Valentine Day! I love you now and forever — Love, Laura

Tracey (Shawanda) — No more than 3 for you! Next time you feel that way — STOP! Welcome to legality! — Michelle (Yolanda)

I'm so happy to have each and every one of our new Sigma Kappa pledges. Congratulations to Jennifer, Lisa, Whitney, Judi, Jennifer, and Dawn. EK love and mine. — Your Advisor Sherri

Laura — I'm so glad that you pledged Delta Zeta! You're great and I can't wait to tell you who I am! — ΔZ love and mine, Your Big Sis

Girls of 334 and 335 — I'm sorry I've been such a "meanie" lately. Bear with me please — I'm trying. I just guess PMS got the best of me this time. I'm very sorry! I really do love you guys! — Gamma Love

JSR — You are very special to me! Thanks for all of the memorable times, I know that there will be many more. Please remember that I will always be here for you. — Amy

Tau Kappa Epsilon would like to congratulate the new members of its MU Associate Member class! Good luck guys!

David — Thanks for the great friendship we have developed. Hope you find it in your heart to forgive me and remain my "BUDDY." — Love ya still, Your "Wolf" Pledge! And you KNOW who I am.

Hey U — Next time you go off road watch out for harmless bushes! P.S. Always carry a sleeping bag. P.P.S. We love Tom

Sue — Happy Valentine's Day — Love, Ed

$33,000 PART TIME
IN-STATE TUITION RATES FOR ALL

You don't have to be from Virginia to take advantage of the best deal around in tuition assistance. When you join a local unit of the Virginia Army National Guard you qualify for in-state rates, and you can tap into our unbeatable package of pay and education benefits that can add up to as much as $33,000!

All of this for just one weekend a month and two weeks a year after initial training. We even have a special summer training program for college students that will get the money flowing fast!

It's real, and it's right now. But don't delay or you might miss your chance this summer. Call now.

VIRGINIA ARMY NATIONAL GUARD

SERGEANT
FIRST CLASS
FRANK LOVERDE
FARMVILLE
392-8004

VIRGINIA ARMY NATIONAL GUARD

Black History

(Continued from page 1)

they understand the black culture, the better they'll be able to work with and in some cases supervise them in the work place."

Mrs. Cross made a final statement concerning the controversy about having black history month. "Although we are focusing on achievements by blacks in February, black history month, it is also important to remember black history throughout the year. Every month is American history Western culture month. One month is the least we can do to acknowledge what blacks have done for our country."

INSIDE:

Historian Speaks On "Myths Of Black History"

Taxes And The Working Student

CONTENTS

Editorials 2
News.....2
Features.....3
Sports 4
Classifieds.....4
Personals.....4

The ROTUNDA

Vol. 70 No. 11 | February 18, 1991 | LONGWOOD COLLEGE | Farmville, Virginia

Are We Ready?

If Draft Is Reinstated, Few Options Will Be Available

(CPS) — As the war in the Persian Gulf enters its third week, still no one in Washington, D.C., is willing to do much more than guess if Congress will reinstate the military draft.

The only certain thing is that young American men who don't want to fight will have few sanctuaries to which to turn.

Most of the escape routes have, in effect, been closed.

"I see huge, huge problems" for people trying to escape the draft, said Conrad Joyner, a political science professor at the University of Arizona.

Canada, where many U.S. draft dodgers fled during the Vietnam War, no longer will help. Since the war in Vietnam ended, Canada has passed immigration and employment laws that make it virtually impossible for draft refugees to live there today.

Campuses also provided a safe harbor during most of the Vietnam war, when a "student deferment" from the draft helped thousands of men keep from having to go into the armed forces as long as they were registered for a small load of college courses.

Now there's no such thing as a student deferment, although collegians would be allowed to finish their semester before having to report. College seniors would be allowed to finish their academic year.

Young men who can prove to their local draft board they are homosexual or a conscientious objector can get out of serving, though it will take some effort.

"Nobody is yet speaking of reinstituting the draft, but if the war goes beyond 90 days, it would be seriously discussed, if not necessarily adopted."

But do these men and their families even need to be worried about the draft?

"Nobody is yet speaking of reinstituting the draft, but if the war goes beyond 90 days, it would be seriously discussed, if not necessarily adopted," Rep. Henry Hyde, R.-Ill., a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, told the Associated Press.

"Right now I would say we really don't know," admitted Cord Bruegmann, a staff member of the CCCO, a draft and military counseling agency based in Philadelphia.

"The likelihood has increased" since the war started, but not in a way that people should be overly worried, Bruegmann added.

Most U.S. government officials consistently have denied the draft will be imposed.

The first step would be holding a lottery to decide which of the 1.8 million 20-year-old men in the U.S. would be drafted first.

As late as Jan. 17, the Selective Service issued a statement stating "the agency has no indication that a draft is needed. Neither Congress, the White House nor the Department of Defense indicates a draft is under consideration, and the president has said a draft is not necessary."

Yet not all U.S. government officials are discounting the possibility.

And Arizona's Joyner thinks if the war escalates to prolonged ground fighting, a draft will be needed to support and replenish the troops. "I see it coming."

While many oppose instituting the draft, the University of Michigan's student newspaper has called for reinstatement.

"However unjust the war might be, the greater injustice lies in the fact that the poor and people of color continue to shoulder the majority of the fighting," said an editorial in the Michigan Daily.

"If the sons and daughters of our president and members of Congress were required to fight alongside the others in Saudi Arabia, these officials might act with a little more hesitation," it continued.

It would take a congressional vote to reinstate the draft, and the selection could start within hours of approval.

The lottery would be open to the public, held in an auditorium where Selective Service officials would have two clear drums.

One drum would hold 365 slips of paper (366 if it is a leap year) imprinted with the dates of the year. The other drum would hold slips numbered one through 365 or 366. A draft official would then draw a slip from each drum, matching a date to a number. Men turning 20 on the date drawn with the number 1 would be called first.

Photo Courtesy of the Department of Military Science

ROTC Cadets (left to right): James Herzog, Mark Veno, Matt Fletcher. Winter Survival Training was held at Norwich University in Vermont.

Winter Training Weekend

By LIZ RUSSELL

On February 8-10, ROTC Cadets: Josh Diamond, Matt Fletcher, David Haugh, James Herzog, and Mark Veno went to Norwich University in Vermont. Cadets from Longwood as well as other schools learned cold weather training and survival techniques. Temperatures were very cold: 5° in the morning and 30° in the afternoon. There was 6-7 inches of snow on the ground.

Cadets learned how to wear and use snow shoes, how to build fires in a cold weather situation, how to build snow shelters, and different ways of keeping warm. They also learned the symptoms and treatments of cold weather injuries.

I talked to the cadets about their weekend. James Herzog said, "The training was educational and challenging. It was a lot of fun, even though it was very cold." Josh Diamond said, "I wish it would have been colder, so that we could have used all our equipment and techniques that we had learned." And David Haugh expressed his thoughts: "This weekend I learned a great deal about myself as a person. Even though I may never need to use what I have learned, the confidence I gained from this weekend may be used in future experiences in life."

All profiles are taken from I Dream A World: Portraits of Black Women Who Changed America by Brian Lanker.

Profiles of Black Americans

CHARLAYNE HUNTER was one of two black students to desegregate the University of Georgia in Athens in 1961. She worked as a journalist for The New Yorker and The New York Times before joining The MacNeil/Lehrer News Hour as National Correspondent in 1978. She has received two Emmy Awards and in 1986 was the recipient of the George Foster Peabody Award for Excellence in Broadcast Journalism for "A Partheid's People," a report on South Africa.

New Smoking Restrictions

By K. M. COOKE

"Smoking in the workplace," a new policy still in the draft stage, has received mixed support from Longwood faculty, staff and students.

The policy would allow for any person smoking in a designated nonsmoking area of the workplace to be fined up to $25 under the Virginia Clean Indoor Air Act. Employees of the college may also be subject to suspension if they are repeat offenders.

Areas of the Longwood campus that may be designated nosmoking areas include: Jarman Auditorium, Lancer Gymnasium, the Computer Center, the Rotunda, and the library, as well as all classrooms and reception areas. Private offices and employee and student lounges will be set aside for smoking.

"I think that if you are a smoker you should be allowed to smoke in your own office or in designated areas, but I prefer not to have it around me," said Sandi Covington, a staff member of the Financial Aid Office.

In a memorandum distributed to the college council by Richard Hurley, vice-president of business and legislative affairs, the proposed policy states the need to respect the rights of smokers as well as nonsmokers.

"I am pleased that this proposal is coming up for scrutiny and debate and consideration," said Dr. Jordan, who smokes a pipe.

"This is the kind of thing that if it snuck up behind you, it would really be dramatic."

People interviewed showed support for a smoking policy with designated no-smoking areas, but many said they felt that a simple request for a smoker to refrain is all that is needed to enforce such a policy.

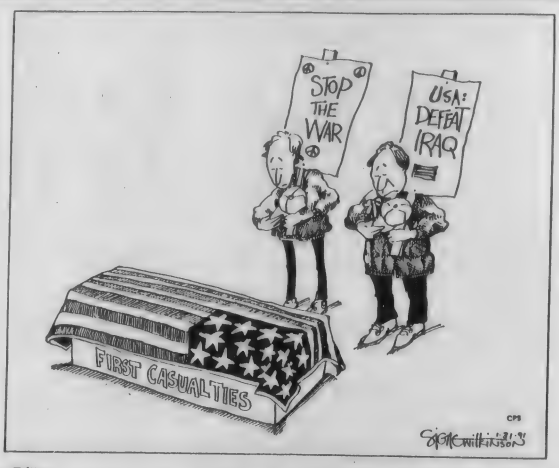
Ashton Echols, a student who smokes said about smoker's rights: "I think if the tobacco companies would finally come right out and say that smoking causes cancer, then smoking would be illegal. But as long as smoking is legal I don't think people should be punished for it."

James W. Jordan, PhD. commented on the enforcement of the new policy: "Suspension from one's livelihood as a result of a second infraction of the proposed regulation seems to me to be an exceeding strict penalty for this behavior."

EDITORIALS

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor-In-Chief:



As a student at Longwood, it has come to my attention that there are definitely some of us that do not fit into the social genre. We have organizations on Longwood's campus that fit into everyone's lifestyle. From Greek Life, Media Groups, to the Performing Arts, Professional Honor Societies, and even Religious Associations. But one lifestyle that I feel [is ignored] as well as some other students, is that of lesbians and gays.

I for one, get weary of traveling to functions at other schools that have campus organizations for lesbians and gays. Meanwhile, me and several of my close friends on campus meet once every two weeks just to discuss current issues and events. We talk about forming study sessions, what is going on at other schools, and even go out to dinner once in a while.

Longwood has a reputation of once being an all women's institution and then going coed in 1971. "Why not break new ground in 1991, by organizing a lesbian and gay campus organization?" We are not looking for any fanfare, like t-shirts or buttons, or even a seat on the Greek Council. Just a discreet, but accessible place for students to meet and talk.

With the encouragement of faculty and staff, this idea can become something positive for those students who feel isolated and not understood. I hope before I graduate, that we can have some kind of plan implemented in which students can call a hotline (like Peer Helpers) or even have a formal place to meet whether it be off or on campus. Longwood is a terrific institution in which to live and learn and I have no intention of transferring to any other place of higher education. It has come to my belief that if you want something bad enough, you must give it 100% in order to achieve that goal.

Sincerely,
A Concerned Student

Dear Editor,

The Longwood Dining Service is in need for a variety of changes. Even though it is very hard to service that much food for so many people every day, they need to change their ways.

As you go through the line to get your food, you have some choices, a variety of entrees and some side dishes. The problem is that the portion of the entrees are little in number, and are not able to fill the average person up. If you have ever tried to get two entrees, you know what a sin that is! ! ! ! Why can't I have a grilled cheese sandwich and chicken strips in the same meal? Is that so wrong? I keep forgetting that I paid to eat here and still I can't get what I want.

If you want to get two entrees you have to finish eating your food and then venture down to the line again and get the other entree. Many times the line for seconds is too long, and the line for people getting served is even longer. Maybe if the portions that we received were greater, then the line for seconds wouldn't be long, but of course that isn't allowed.

Downstairs at the Rotunda Market in the deli line, why can't I get two types of meats on my sandwich? It would save more money to do this than to have people going back for two sandwiches. The Rotunda Market is not as bad as the Dining Hall, but both places need improvement.

I understand that they are trying to balance the meals out, but I paid for this and if I want it, then I should be able to get it. How would it feel if you ordered a pizza and wanted pepperoni and sausage on your pizza, but they told you that you could only have one topping because it was not possible for you to get two toppings on the same pizza.

You would be pretty mad because you are going to pay for the pizza and if you want two toppings then you should be able to have two toppings. But here at Longwood, Eggs Benedict and bacon are not allowed on the same plate because the Eggs Benedict has ham on it. This logic makes no sense to me at all, and if I am going to keep paying my money to attend this school, and to pay for my food then I should be able to receive what I want at dinner.

Anonymous

NEWS

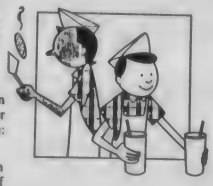
Taxes And The Working Student

Printed from the 1991 Tax Supplement from the I.R.S.

Students who have part-time or summer jobs need to think about more than what hours they should work or how to spend their earnings. High on their list of considerations should be whether to have taxes withheld.

Some of the many things which affect the need for withholding are:

- How much will the student make at this and any other job during the year?
- Does the student have a savings account or other investments which produce income?
- Does (or will) the student have a scholarship which will be partially or fully taxable during the year?
- Can the student be claimed as a dependent on someone else's tax return?



Each of these factors should be considered when students fill out Form W-4, "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate," to determine how much, if any, tax should be withheld from each pay check.

In general, a single student who can be claimed as a dependent by another person will owe no taxes if he or she:

- Does not have more than $500 in total income, some part or all of which is unearned income; or
- Is under age 24 at the end of the calendar year and earns up to $3,250 in wages, tips and taxable scholarships, provided he or she has no unearned income such as interest or dividends; or
- Is 24 or older at the end of the calendar year, has no unearned income, and earns less than $2,050.

Students who are 24 or older at the end of the calendar year and earn $2,050 or more can no longer be claimed as dependents on another person's return.

For more information, Form W-4 and Publication 4, Student's Guide to Federal Income Tax, may be obtained by calling the Internal Revenue Service at 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

College Experts Denounce President Bush's 1992 Budget

By Jaret Selberg and Amy Hudson

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CPS) – President Bush's proposed budget for the federal government, unveiled Feb. 4, calls for bigger grants for the poorest students, but would stop more than 400,000 other students from getting grants at all.

It would also make it virtually impossible for certain students who now get federal college loans to get other types of aid.

The budget, campus money experts add, might well decrease the number of work-study jobs students can get.

"He's robbing one set of students to let others get more money," complained Edward Elmendorf of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities.

"What we are basically doing is changing the mix," budget director Richard Darman said at a Senate Budget Committee hearing Feb. 5. "A person from a little bit higher income (family) is taking a little bit more in loans."

The administration proposed increasing funding for existing programs by $63 million, or less than 1 percent. In all, it wants to spend $29.6 billion on education during the Oct. 1, 1991-Sept. 30, 1992 fiscal year. The 3.5 percent increase amounts to $753 million more than in 1991.

The increase falls short of the nation's inflation rate, which the Office of Management and Budget has projected at 4.4 percent.

"The net is what you are taking away from students," Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., told Darman at the budget hearing.

"We're a little disappointed, to say the least," said Dallas Martin, head of the national Association of Financial Aid Administrators (NASFAA), based in Washington, D.C.

400,000 Students Cut

"If you happen to be very, very poor, it's good. If you're simply poor, you lose."

At the Senate hearing, Sen. Trent Lott, R-Miss., was worried about another class of students. "The big emphasis is that we need to make more grants available to the poor, and I understand that, but I am concerned about the middle-income students," he said.

Under the proposed budget, the maximum Pell Grant award will jump from $2,400 to $3,700 and the minimum award from $200 to $400.

However, only students from families with incomes under $10,000 a year could get Pell Grants. That could eliminate at least 400,000 students from the program, forcing them to apply for loans.

"I have mixed feelings," said Vicki Atkinson, financial aid director at Utah State University. "The truly poor really do need bigger grants, yet I hate to see some of the middle-class students get shut out."

Work-study jobs also would be harder to get under the proposal, which would cut more than $16.5 million from the College Work Study program and decrease the portion of work study wages the federal government will fund.

The administration wants to pay for 50 percent of a work study salary, down from 70 percent this year.

To pay the extra money or replace grants to certain students, colleges wouldn't be able to ask their state legislatures for more funds, Elmendorf noted.

"Thirty states are already in trouble," he said. "They're not likely to reach deeper into their pockets."

"I'm sure the university would try to meet that 50 percent (mark) j, but that would be very difficult," Utah State's Atkinson said. "We're in a real tough time here."

In other words, if campuses need more money they are going to have to ask students for it by raising tuition.

Overall, Bush's $1.4 trillion budget would result in a $280.9 billion deficit — lower than this year's but still the second highest in the nation's history — with the full costs of the Persian Gulf War and the bailout of the savings and loan industry still unknown.

As it is, the government will be forced to borrow one of every five dollars it will spend in 1992.

The budget proposal boosts total federal spending by 2.6 percent. It would increase current spending for 250 federal programs, including housing, transportation and space exploration.

It would eliminate more than 238 other programs, ranging from new public housing construction to student financial programs, to save $4.6 billion. In addition, 109 programs, including urban mass transit and Amtrak subsidies, would suffer reductions totaling $8.3 billion.

"I can't believe Congress is going to find this an attractive budget," Martin said. "I doubt most of these recommendations will be enacted."

The ROTUNDA
Box 1133
Longwood College
Farmville, Va. 23901

THE STAFF:

Editor-In-Chief Monica Y. Gilbert
Photography Editor Judi Weller
Business Manager Anita Owens
Features Editor Lindy Seymore
Layout Editor Sarah Whiteside
Advertising Manager Bradley Owen
Sports Editor Charlie Fultz
Layout Assistant Deborah Wilson
Faculty Advisor Barbara LaJaunie

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed or printed neatly. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is 3:00 p.m. Friday prior to the Monday publication date and these should be placed in the envelope on the Publication door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by midnight Sunday.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an American Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

FEATURES

Historian Will Discuss "Myths of Black History"

Courtesy of Public Affairs

Dr. Edgar A. Toppin, professor of history and Dean of the Graduate School at Virginia State University, will give a lecture at Longwood College on Thursday, Feb. 21, at 1 p.m. in Wygal Auditorium.

His topic is "Myths of Black History." The lecture is a feature of Longwood's observance of Black History Month and is open to the public free of charge.

Toppin has written nine books, including a widely-used textbook entitled The Black American in United States History. He also co-authored a best-selling history textbook for elementary schools, entitled The United States and Its Neighbors.

His television program, "Americans from Africa," has been shown in schools and colleges and on educational television stations throughout the U.S. He gave nine of the 108 lectures on the CBS "Black Heritage" television series.

And his articles on "Blacks in America: Then and Now" were featured in 1971 in The Christian Science Monitor. After that, the series of 15 articles was syndicated and reprinted in newspapers in this country and abroad.

Toppin has held many posts, including national president of the Association for the Study of Afro-American Life and History and state chairman of the Virginia Foundation for the Humanities and Public Policy. He was appointed by Governors Robb and Baliles to the Governor's Fellows Program Committee and the Governor's Task Force on Science and Technology.

In 1971, Governor Holton named him a Distinguished Virginian.

Toppin was born in New York City but has made his home in Virginia since 1964. He holds bachelor's and master's degrees in history from Howard University in Washington, DC, and the Ph.D. in history from Northwestern University.

His teaching career began in 1953 and included appointments at colleges and universities in Alabama, North Carolina, and Ohio before he came to Virginia State in 1964.

Toppin has been a visiting professor at several universities and held the James Pinckney Harrison Endowed Chair in History at the College of William and Mary during the 1985-86 year.

He became Dean of Virginia State's Graduate School in 1979. He also served as Provost and Academic Vice President there from 1987 to 1989.

Lady Lancers Dismantled By UPJ

The Longwood women's basketball team, in its final home game of the season, was pounced on by the visiting Lady Mountain Cats of Pittsburgh-Johnstown Sunday afternoon in Lancer Hall, dropping a lopsided decision 86-48.

UPJ, ranked number five in Division II with a 23-1 record, lost its first contest of the season Saturday night at UNC Greensboro. The Lady Mountain Cats, obviously concerned about dropping two games on their southern swing, employed a full court press and fast break offense from the opening tip to the final whistle.

The Lady Lancers looked sharp during the opening minutes of play, however, breaking the tenacious press and controlling the explosive offense of the Mountain Cats. Longwood trailed by only five, 18-13, when UPJ called a timeout to stop the clock with 13 minutes remaining in the opening period.

After the break, the UPJ squad rattled off 26 unanswered points as Longwood was mired in a nine minute scoring drought. At intermission the Lady Lancers trailed 51-23. The second half results were slightly better, as the beleaguered Longwood defense held UPJ to 35 points, but added only 25 on the offensive half of the court. The 86-48 final tally dealt Longwood its second worst defeat of the season, notching the team's record at 10-14.

Shooting a dismal 19-66 from the floor, the Lady Lancers were led by freshman Cassie Ensley who dropped in 10 points before exiting the game with five fouls. Junior Cassie Mullenix added seven points and senior Ann Callaham, junior Salene Green, and sophomore Cari Dellinger all contributed six. Tops in rebounds was Teresa Carter with six.

The Lady Lancers return to action Tuesday evening as they travel to Lynchburg to take the floor against the Lady Flames of Liberty University in a game scheduled for 7:30. Longwood winds up its season with games at USC Spartansburg Saturday and at Navy next Monday.

Intramurals Update

"WINNERS"

1. Leaders in All Sports Trophy points

Men-1st – Alpha Sigma Phi – 61; 2nd – Phi Kappa Pi – 26;

Women-1st – Alpha Sigma Tau – 26; 2nd – Alpha Gamma Delta – 11.

2. Schick 3-on-3 Basketball Tournamnt.

"Shane" – This team will go to George Washington University March 26 to compete in Regional tournament (Shane Stoner, Pete Rymshaw, Alex Kubala, Shawn Jones)

3. Weekend Cord Volleyball Tournament – ASA/SPE Captain Sandy Alford

4. Women's Basketball – T.G.I.F.

"IN PROGRESS"

1. Men's Basketball - 14 teams-tournament 1/2 completed events

2. Dual Superstars – 9 sports after 3 (tug-a-war, 2-On-2 basketball and billiards) leaders are: Men: Porter/Burnes - 9 pts.

Women: Scott/ Vester - 9 pts.

Events left: Badminton, 2-On-2 volleyball, weight lifting, swim relays, softball throw.

3. Men's Ping Pong – 24 entered - Tim Maynard and Mike Paschall are leading. Finals this week.

4. Racquetball - 45 entered tournament - just underway.

5. Foulshooting – 19 men, 10 women - "Shoot Off" tonight (Monday)

The Bulletin Board

The following information is courtesy of Public Affairs and The Office of Career Planning and Placement.

In this day of an ever-changing work environment, it is more important than ever to conduct some thoughtful career planning. Leaving your career development to chance could result in you finding yourself in a dead-end job. Worse yet, you may find yourself unemployed for a long period simply because you lack direction in your career. Ask yourself these questions: "What is keeping me from making logical plans for my future? Why am I kidding myself by saying 'I think about it after I graduate'."

This semester, CPPC is sponsoring two workshop series that can take you through the logical steps for planning your future. One is past but there is still time to plan for the other.

SERIES #2: Mondays and Wednesdays, March 4, 6, 11, 13; 5-6 p.m. also in the Career Library.

Come to CPPC immediately and sign-up. Space is limited. The workshop series are for all students, freshmen through seniors. Take advantage of the free career counseling — after you graduate, you would pay $$ for the service anywhere else. If you are a senior without direction, it is especially vital for you!

Attention All Students

Those of you with family members and friends serving in the military may now accept a collect call from them and have the $10 Service fee waived. In order to have this fee waived, you must call #2606 within 24 hours and give the date, time of call, and your extension number.

CAMP INTERVIEW DAY — Interested in a summer camp job? Come meet Camp Directors and a display of camp programs... Thurs., Feb. 28 in the Lankford Gold Room.

Do you have a special interest, talent, or hobby? Would you like to live on a residence hall floor with others who share that interest? Then, create a special interest house!

Special Interest Houses are student-created living areas designed to promote greater awareness or involvement in a specific topic. Activities and programs are related to the area of interest. Ideas for Special interest Houses are only as limited as your imagination. Examples include community service, current events, sports, music, international studies — you name it!

In order to create these special environments, interested students must complete an application, and receive approval from a sub-committee of the residence life work group. An information meeting will be held on Wednesday, February 20 at 7:30 p.m. Persons interested should plan on attending or pick up an application in the Dean of Students Office.

"Ugliest Professor Contest"

Vote for the professor with the uglest face.

Get 1 vote for 25¢, get 3 votes for 50¢.

Sponsored by AMA

Cast you vote today in Hiner

All African American Students: You are invited to attend the second annual Roanoke Regional Job Fair for Black College Students, hosted by Roanoke Valley area employers. The job fair will be held Feb. 25, 12:30 p.m.-4 p.m. at the Roanoke Civic Center. Learn about current and future job possibilities with these businesses. Stop by CPPC.

Kappa Delta Pi, an international honor society for elementary and secondary education majors, is now accepting applications for new membership. Members of Kappa Delta Pi are committed to promoting excellence in the field of education. Membership into the organization requires that a student be currently enrolled in or have previously accumulated at least 12 credit hours or education courses, and possess a G.P.A. of 3.25 or better. Kappa Delta Pi sponsors activities to increase professional awareness, some of which include special guest speakers, the sponsoring activities for school age students within the surrounding community, tutoring, and much, much more! Applications for membership may be picked up in Wynne 105C or 306 South Cunningham. Deadline for return is Friday, April 12.

Meeting to discuss raising student activity fees will be held on February 18, in Conference Room III at 5:30 p.m. during the SGA meeting.

Psi Chi, the National Honor Society for Psychology majors and minors, is now accepting applications. Applications may be picked up in the psychology office on the third floor of East Ruffner and must be returned to the psychology office by 3 p.m. February 27.

To be selected, applicants must meet the requirements of having a 3.0 in their psychology major or minor and they must be in the top 35% of their class.

Psi Chi members initiated last December 3 include: Susan Atkinson, Jennifer Elmire, Holly Coffman, Dina Dawson, Kim DeRonda, Lourrie Lyn Duddridge, Kelli Evans, Betsy Gee, Kristi George, Tina Gewerth, Michelle Hall, Agustus Harper, Tisha Hayes, Susie Lloyd, Marianne Moffat, Krista Lyn Ottey, Anita Owens, Stacey Pierce, Karen Rothschild, Kris Rossi, Karen Smith and Karen Watts.

S-UN Film Committee Feature Attraction

GHOST, starring heart throb Patrick Swayze, will play on Monday, Feb. 18 at 9 p.m. in the Gold Room.

Playing on Friday, Feb. 22 at 8 p.m. and Monday, Feb. 25 at 9 p.m. in Lancer Café, it's NAVY SEALS!

* Poster Update - Edward Scissorhands will replace Exorcist III on the schedule.

Shred Center.

Enjoy winter's newest challenge, Snowboard Skiing at Massanutten. Hone your skills as you rip from peak to base. Show your skills on our challenging half pipe.

Snowboard skiing is permitted on all open slopes and trails, including our two new slopes from the top of the mountain. Lessons and limited rentals are also available.

College Twilight skiing rates ($12) apply on Monday and Friday. With your valid college ID and this ad, lift tickets to snowboard ski are just $10.

Come ski what's new at Massanutten.

MASSANUTTEN

10 Miles East of Harrisonburg, Virginia on Route 33

$33,000 PART TIME

IN-STATE TUITION RATES FOR ALL

You don't have to be from Virginia to take advantage of the best deal around in tuition assistance. When you join a local unit of the Virginia Army National Guard you qualify for in-state rates, and you can tap into our unbeatable package of pay and education benefits that can add up to as much as $33,000!

All of this for just one weekend a month and two weeks a year after initial training. We even have a special summer training program for college students that will get the money flowing fast!

It's real, and it's right now. But don't delay or you might miss your chance this summer. Call now.

VIRGINIA ARMY NATIONAL GUARD

SERGEANT
FIRST CLASS
FRANK LOVERDE
FARMVILLE
392-8004

VIRGINIA ARMY NATIONAL GUARD

SPORTS

Baseball Lancers Shooting For Playoffs

Make no mistake about it, the main goal for the 1991 Longwood baseball team is to return to the NCAA Division II Playoffs. Coach Buddy Bolding feels his team has a solid chance to qualify for NCAA play for the first time since 1987.

"We are hopeful that we can contend for top honors in Division II," says Bolding, who ranks sixth among Division II coaches in winning percentage. "We have our eyes on a bid to the South Atlantic Region Tournament."

After competing for the playoffs in the North Atlantic Region for the past three years, Longwood has been switched back to the South Atlantic which has a number of strong Division II teams in North and South Carolina as well as Georgia and Virginia.

Six Starters Back

Six starters and 12 lettermen are back. Topping the list is senior pitcher Dennis Hale, 11-0 with a 2.45 earned run average a year ago. Senior Matt Carlisle, 3-1, 3.44 e.r.a., is also back. Hale and Carlisle have accounted for 29 wins over three seasons. The senior duo should stabilize a young pitching staff.

Anchoring the outfield will be senior centerfielder Eric Hutzler, .343, 6 homers, 13 stolen bases, a captain along with Hale and junior catcher Scott Abell. Hutzler has improved each season. Coach Bolding expects 1991 to be his best.

Abell, who drove in a team high 39 runs last season, ranks among the top catchers in Longwood history. He hit six homers and nine doubles a year ago, while showing the ability to come through at crunch time.

Photo Courtesy of the Sports Information Office

1991 Longwood Baseball Team - First row (l to r) Wayne Weaver, Chris Peebles, Jimmy Nichols, Todd Bowman, Eric Hill, Bill Reeves, Chris Mullins. Second row- Mike Adams, Kyle Weaver, Matt Carlisle, Nealan Chandler, Chris Porter, John Hutzler, Bill Martz. Third row - Scott Abell, Terry Taylor, Mike Tucker, Eric Hutzler, Shawn Jones, Dennis Hale, Head Coach Buddy Bolding.

Sophomores Mike Tucker, .318, 8 homers, 17 RBI, and Terry Taylor, .347, 6 homers, 23 RBI, are back to take care of shortstop and third base, respectively. After solid rookie years, they should be even better.

Speedy Shawn Jones, 9-12 stolen bases, returns in left field. Junior Chris Porter, .333, 17 RBI, 5 doubles, 3 homers, will provide a productive bat at the designated hitter position. At second base, John Hutzler, .410, 6 RBI, will get a shot at replacing former standout Pete Criscione.

Freshman To Start At First Base

Bolding expects freshman Bill Martz, 6-0, 230, to start at first base and sophomore Todd Bowman, 6-1, 210, to get the nod in right field. Martz and Bowman are power hitters who should help the Lancers improve on the 1990 total of 35 homers.

Senior Nealan Chandler, a reserve outfielder and pinch hitter, can also hit with power. Freshman Bill Reeves, who is recovering from a hand injury, will shore up the outfield when he's healthy. Reserve infielder Eric Hill is another newcomer on the squad.

In addition to Hale and Carlisle, Bolding can count on veteran pitchers Kyle Weaver and Mike Adams. Weaver, 2-1 last season, is improving rapidly and Adams has potential. Newcomers on the mound include senior Chris Mullins, 6-4, 190, and sophomore Jimmy Nichols, 6-6, 205. Mullins, a member of the Lancer basketball team two years, is expected to help, while Nichols could be a pleasant surprise, after transferring from East Tennessee State.

Also new to the squad are sophomore Chris Peebles and freshman Wayne Weaver who must improve to have a major impact on the season.

32 Home Games Scheduled

Longwood has 32 home games scheduled for 1991, perhaps the most home contests ever. The Lancers, however will be facing 43 games against Division I, II or NAIA squads.

"We should have more power than a year ago," says Bolding. "We also have good speed and a fine team attitude. The early part of the schedule is demanding, but if we get 100 percent effort from every player, we should be improved. This team has the potential to return to the playoffs. That's what we're shooting for."

Gymnasts 6th At Towson Invitational

By MARK KIRK

Longwood's gymnastics team ventured up to Towson, Md. Saturday for the six team Towson State Invitational, but struggled against a strong Division I field and finished in sixth place with a team score of 165.10.

Host Towson State placed first with a score of 188.40, outdistancing runnerup California-Santa Barbara's total of 183.05. Rounding out the team scores were Temple, 181.85; Radford, 179.85; Cortland, 174.75; and Longwood.

Kim O'Keefe of Towson State captured individual all-around honors with a total of 38.15, followed by teammate Anne Sugden at 37.35.

The Lady Lancers were led by freshman Laura Hill with a score of 33.70. She was closely followed by senior Natalie Taylor at 33.60 and sophomores Beth Risley and Danielle Williams, both at 33.45.

Sophomore Jennifer Bradner also competed all-around, finishing at 29.75, while freshman Marci Anzelmo took part in three of the four events.

Individual winners of each event were O'Keefe and Temple's Sandra Mitchill on vault, 9.40; O'Keefe and Sugden on bars, 9.70; and Towson State's Janine Spezio on beam, 9.75, and floor exercise, 9.75.

Placing first in each event for the Lady Lancers were Taylor, Williams, Hill, and Risley on vault, 8.85; Risley on bars, 8.60; and Hill on beam, 8.20, and floor exercise, 9.05.

Longwood returns home for its next meet on Friday night against William Mary at 7:30 in Lancer Hall.

Longwood's men's basketball team, looking to end a five-game losing streak, will close out its season this week with a trio of home contests. The Lancers took a 10-15 mark into a game with Barton College Monday night.

Thursday the Lancers host District of Columbia at 7:30 when Boys' Dixie Youth Night will be observed. All Dixie Youth players and coaches will receive free admission to the contest and there will be a halftime exhibition between the Lancers and Pistons from the 8-10 year-old league. Dixie Youth players must wear their game jerseys to gain free admission.

Saturday afternoon at 2, Longwood will host Pittsburgh-Johnstown with Parent-Senior Day being observed. Parents of Longwood players, and Lancer seniors Billy Dunn, Keith Latimer and Greg Holloway will be honored in pre-game ceremonies before their contest in Lancer Hall.

At halftime of Saturday's contest, two-round trip tickets to anywhere in the continental United States will be given away in the Southside Travel-U.S. Air Fly-Away For Spring Break contest. The contest will basically involve trying to throw a paper airplane into a barrel. Southside Travel Agency of Farmville and U.S. Air are co-sponsoring the contest.

At 5 Saturday afternoon, Longwood will host the fourth Lancer Basketball Alumni contest with such former stars as Kevin Jefferson and Doug Poppe slated to return to Lancer Hall for an inter-alumni clash. The game is open to the public at no charge.

CLASSIFIEDS/PERSONALS

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED — Looking for Albegra and Physics tutor. Available on Friday afternoon and/or weekends. If interested, contact Teri @ 392-8361. Fee will be discussed.

RIDE NEEDED

Needed — Ride to & from Hampton, weekend of Fri., Feb. 22. Can leave anytime Fri. after 1:20 p.m. & can return anytime Sunday or early Monday morning. Will help w/Gas$$. Call Stephanie @ 3171.

FOR SALE

FOR SALE — Elementary Statistics, Leon F. Marzillier w/computer disk, Asking price $35.00 and Using Minitab, Jonathon K. Trower (for Business 170). Brand new. Asking price $25. Will accept best offer. Call Stephanie @ 3171.

FAST FUNDRAISING PROGRAM

$1000 IN JUST ONE WEEK.

Earn up to $1000 in one week for your campus organization.

Plus a chance at $5000 more!

This program works! No investment needed.

Call 1-800-932-0528 Ext. 50

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE ROTUNDA!

For more information:
Contact Brad Owen
Phone (804) 395-2120 or 395-3253

Box 1133
Farmville, VA 23901

LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE

OPEN MONDAY-FRIDAY 8A.M.-5 P.M.

PHONE 395-2084

25% OFF ALL GREEK MERCHANDISE!

(Keychains, pens, pencils, paddles, wooden letters, can huggies, cups, hats, stickers, buttons, and sunglasses.)

SALE GOOD THRU FRIDAY, FEB. 22ND.

Jay W. — Cheer up, buddy! If you need to talk or visit, just remember two doors down. Our door is always open. Even for you, Mike. — Tam and Steff

Mish — Calvin and Hobbes, Word association, balloons, road trips. My house during exams (Thanks for pushing us out!), balloons, it wasn't ... Thank God, it wasn't ... 3 meals in one day, you can't always get what you want, but I want it anyway, dust mites, cooking lessons, hopefully there will be many more to come. — Lovage, Sue

P.S. Stop laughing at me — the visitor.

Dear Great White Booty Hunter — please don't tempt us anymore.

Hey Todd! — Thought I'd drop you this little note to cheer your day. You're the best! — Love ya, Dana

Indira and Annamaria — Well what is there to say? I love you two for being the best friends anyone could ask for. Thanks for always being there for me. — Your friend, Lucille

Blue Moon — 27 days left to go! It's getting real close. We will have a blast, I guarantee it, even if mine doesn't go. Til next week. — Skeeter

Asia — Thanks for being the perfect roommate. I want to wish you all the luck in the future. Good luck! — Your roommate, Lucille

Skipper (Stacey??) — Having problems with your pants?! You were lucky this time, wait for next time. Last women - can you fit yet? — Beany

K.P. and M.P. — "What's all of that vibrating - I thought you had a DILDO? (not a vibrator)" GOTCHA — Your lovable neighbors

P.S. Good job in getting Steff back!

Kandi — Happy 22nd birthday Roomie. I love ya — ΔZ love and all of mine — Tricia

Kandi Kloxz — To my favorite friend and sister. Happy 22nd birthday! I love you. — Karen D.

Congratulations to the new pledges of Alpha Phi Omega — Cheryl, Elisa, Shelly, Daniel, Carlisa, Scott, Brad, Darren, Angela, John, and Missy.

Ma — Happy 21st beauty!!!! You are the greatest!!!!! I have the best best friend in the whole world!!!! Everybody should be as lucky!!!! Thanks for always being there for me and for putting up with it all!!!! — Love, Whit

Danny — I finally got a letter from Janice! — Irene

Carlisa — I'm so glad you're my little brother! Good luck in pledging APO — Love, Irene

Passe #3! — The Steelers were once a good team although everyone knows that the 49ers could take them up. — Passe #2

Stacy, Judy and Jen — Y'all are all awesome! I love you guys! ΔZ love and mine, Kim

Tricia — You are the best roomie a girl could hope for! I love you so much! — ΔZ love and mine, Kandi

All ΔZ pledges — you are awesome — ΔZO Julie

Future Sped Teacher — You've got to stop skipping the weekends! You'll miss all the fun times! We'll keep you out of trouble! Ha! — Your Fellow Tacos!

P.S. (And you know it ain't Tacos!)

Mary Miller — You are an awesome little sister. I can't wait until you know who I am! You are an awesome ΔZ! — ΔZ love and mine, Your Big Sis

To the new Baby Pis — The sisters of Alpha Delta Pi would like to say hello to all our Baby Pis. We are so proud of all of you! Keep up the great work!

Superflirt — Hey! Welcome to Mu-Mu-Chi! And this is just the beginning! More fun is in store! Love ya! — Your Sistas

Swayze, Jesus, and Big Red — Miss ya'll this semester! It's just not the same! Come party with us sometime! Love ya'll — The Samoans

Pluto and Lost Boy — Have you been tied up lately? Watch out for those orange extension cords! Next time we'll try handcuffs. Love ya'll! — The Samoans

The Four Horseman — Yo' Homeboys! Enjoying partying with ya'll! "I Never" No More!! Switch!! Love ya'll! — The Samoans

Kim S. — You are an awesome little sister! — ΔZ love, Your Big Sis

Congratulations to Betsy Gee, Danielle Manfre, Carolyn Nelson, and Karen Valentine. We love you and are so proud of your accomplishments! — The Sisters of Alpha Sigma Alpha

Amy Kappell — You're doing an awesome job and you're a great little sister. I love you — ΔZ love your big sis

Michelle Lebo — Keep up the good work! I'm very proud of you. — ΔZ love, Your big sis

Whitney Thomas — I love you and thank you for everything! You were the Best Big Sis! — Lisa

Amy Langley — Yahoo! You're the best! Keep smiling and your chin up! — Love, Your big sis

Michelle Lebo — Congratulations! I'm here for you! — Your Sunshine Sis

Sharon Kay — How's life? Happy belated Valentine's Day!

INSIDE: Special Interest Housing Offered | AIDS Update | Lecture on Drug and Alcohol Abuse

CONTENTS

Editorials 2
News.....2
Features.....3
Sports 4
Classifieds.....4
Personals.....4

The ROTUNDA

Vol. 70 No. 12 | February 25, 1991 LONGWOOD COLLEGE | Farmville, Virginia

Earth Club Initiates Recycling

One student organization at Longwood College is doing more than simply talking about the threat to the environment. The Earth Club is doing something about it.

The club, formed at the beginning of the fall semester, already has initiated a campus-wide aluminum recycling program, and persuaded the ARA dining service to switch from nonrecyclable steel cans to aluminum cans in vending machines, and to substitute styrofoam plates, which are non-biodegradable, in Lancer Cafe.

"We're an awareness club; we're out to make people aware of the environment," said Jon Brown, the club's founder and president. "That's the solution. Then they'll start caring more."

"Unfortunately, a lot of people see the Earth Club and say, 'Oh, let them do it,' but we're all in this together," added Brown, a sophomore from Fairfax. "More people need to work together. Unfortunately, some almost see us as the opposition, like we're scolding them. We're trying to be a unifying force."

The Club meets each Thursday at 7 p.m. in the television lounge in French. The Club has about 25 active members, Brown said.

Aluminum recycling had been "nonexistent" before the club started encouraging students last semester to deposit their soda and beer cans in bags that had been donated by the Reynolds Metals Company and placed on residence hall floors, Brown said.

"It was difficult at first to get started," he said. "We talked to resident assistants, who held hall meetings to spread the word. One other member and I got a special license to drive the Longwood van; we drive all around the campus about once a week, picking up the cans. We take them to the Reynolds recycling center in town and are paid 23 cents per pound."

The college has bought 100 44-gallon containers that will soon replace the bags. Earth Club members painted each receptacle.

"These receptacles are not as messy as the bags; plus, since there's a hole in the top, you can only deposit cans and not trash," Brown said. "We average collecting 100 to 150 pounds a week. The new system might boost that to 250 pounds. We've had a good response with our aluminum recycling. The times are changing; people are more environmentally aware. They realize it's not a joke anymore."

BIG SWITCH

All vending machines on campus, which are managed by an ARA division, had switched completely from steel cans to aluminum cans by the end of last November, said John Brady, Longwood's dining service manager. Lancer Cafe recently switched from styrofoam plates to heavy-paper plates, also at the urging of Earth Club members.

"There's no market for recycling steel cans; it's cheaper to make new ones than to recycle them," Brown said. "Unfortunately, 75 percent of Pepsi products in Farmville still are in steel cans, and most people don't know how detrimental that is to the environment. On campus, it's all aluminum, which also makes it easier for us since we don't have to weed the steel cans out."

Brown thinks the dining hall should stop using paper bags for french fries. "You have that bag for no more than 30 minutes and throw it away. We should use more things, like plates, that can be washed and reused."

Brady, however, said that if baskets were used in lieu of the bags, "some would get broken and others would probably disappear. But the most important reason we use the paper bags is simply cost-efficiency. We would consider alternatives, but the cost of something else probably would prohibit it."

Another simple way to conserve natural resources is to put a stop to junk mail, Brown said.

"All you have to do is tell the Post Office you don't want it, and abut 75 percent of all junk mail won't reach your house. We can save 500 million trees a year by doing that. And for the Sunday newspaper, some 500,000 trees are cut down. We can reduce that number by recycling and also by sharing. If you want to look at the Sunday paper, you could borrow it from a friend or read it in the library."

TEAM EFFORT

The club wants to coordinate its efforts with college and Town of Farmville officials. David DeWald, Longwood's physical plant director, said he hopes to have a campus-wide recycling center operating by this summer. The center will be a "collection and disposal" site for aluminum, newspapers, cardboard, and paper products such as computer paper, he said.

Cardboard will be given to the Town, and the other items will be sold commercially, said DeWald, adding that this program in its "early stages of development." The Physical Plant staff will collect recyclable items around campus, and there will be "collection stations" in various offices, he said.

The State has mandated that localities recycle at least 10 percent of their solid waste by the end of 1991; 15 percent by the end of 1993; and 25 percent by the end of 1995, said a spokesman for the state Department of Waste Management. State colleges and universities have to be part of that effort.

The environmental movement often is misunderstood, said Brown.

"We're not extremists; we're not against technology," he said. "We realize, for example, that the United States cannot do without sewage treatment plants. We want to work with technology."

"The ball's already rolling. There are as many means to solve the problem as there are

(continued on page 2)

Photo Credit: Judi Weller

Check your bottle at the door. For this year's Mid-Winter's Ball, alcohol registration was required for all those wishing to add that "special touch" to the evening.

Fear Of Crime Grips Campus

By Sherry Gatewood

On the evening of Thursday, February 14, a female student was attacked in the stairwell of one of the dormitories on our campus. The case is currently under investigation by campus police, but the assailant has not yet been positively identified. The alleged attacker entered the building through a propped door.

There have been recent rumors that crime is running rampant on Longwood's campus. Mike Herndon, the Resident Education Coordinator of Frazer dormitory says that while there have been "some serious isolated incidents on campus, but a lot of things that have happened are exaggerated."

"On a whole I wouldn't say that crime is on the rise during this semester," says Herndon, "most of the things that have happened because students haven't been taking precaution."

Although rumors spread quickly on small campuses, such as Longwood's, "at least it's got people scared and they are beginning to wake up" remarks Herndon.

However, "let's take some proactive steps to make sure that crime does not escalate," says Herndon. Students need to use basic common sense; lock suite and room doors, don't prop doors leading into the residence halls, and don't walk around campus, especially at night, alone. This also includes reporting any suspicious activity to campus police, REC's or other building staff.

Part of the difficulty in apprehending offenders and thieves is that students either fail to report the incidents or they wait until the next day to tell someone. The longer students wait to report such incidents, the harder it is for campus police to trace the perpetrator.

Herndon says that only a few weeks ago when he was making rounds and checking the building, he saw a suite and room door standing open with nobody inside. This is an open invitation for anyone passing by to enter

(continued on page 2)

Profiles of Black Americans

DOROTHY HEIGHT has been the president of the National Council of Negro Women since 1957. The Council, founded in 1935 by Mary McLeod Bethune, is a coalition of over thirty organizations representing four million women.

Ms. Height earned a bachelor's and a master's degree in social work from New York University. After a career of thirty-three years with the YWCA, she retired in 1977. Dorothy Height organized the drive to erect a statue of Mary McLeod Bethune, which became the first monument to a black American in a public park in Washington, D.C.

Civility Week

By JENNY TOLLEY

From March 1 through March 10, Longwood will be observing Civility Week and National Collegiate Drug Awareness Week. Civility Week and National Collegiate Drug Awareness Week. Civility Week is a new observance at Longwood. It was originated by students and faculty in the School of Education. Students and the Office of Student Affairs have planned a variety of activities.

On Friday, March 1, at 8 p.m., Civility Week kicks off with Casino Night. Games such as Pictionary, Win, Lose, or Draw, and Spades will be offered. There will also be bowling and a band. The program will run until 1 a.m. This event is sponsored by the Student Union Board, Student Services, and the VIEW team.

On Sunday, March 3, Mike Green will present "Kegs-Kicks-Competition" at 6:30 p.m. in the Curry/Frazer Commons Room. This program is sponsored by the Athletic Department and Student Affairs.

Monday, March 4, a Student Appreciation Dinner will be held at Blackwell Dining Hall from 4:30-6:30 p.m. On this night, faculty and staff will show their appreciation to students.

Two programs have been planned for Tuesday, March 5. The first is the 4th Annual HIV/AIDS Update. Dr. Richard Keeling will speak at 1 p.m. in Jarman. This program is sponsored by the Student Health Service. The second program is "Communities of Civility" by James W. Dyke, Jr., Secretary of Education, Commonwealth of Virginia. Mr. Dyke will speak at 7 p.m. in Jarman.

On Wednesday, March 6, a Longwood/Farmville Panel will meet at 7 p.m. in Wygal to discuss, "Promoting Positive College/Community Relations".

Three events have been planned for Thursday, March 7. A Community Service Fair will be held from 12:30-2 p.m. This is an opportunity for students to learn about opportunities for service and involvement in Farmville. The Greek Affairs Office sponsored the second program which will be held at 11:15 p.m. in Jarman. Eileen Stevens will present "Death By Hazing". This program is about a mother who would not accept the explanation that her son's death was an accident. The third event planned for Thursday will be held at 1 p.m. in Bedford. Mary Futrell, a prominent educator, will present "Are We Ready for the 21st Century?". Ms. Futrell will discuss modern challenges that everyone faces in today's. This event is sponsored by the Simkins Lecture Series and the School of Education and Human Services.

Bertice Berry, a comedienne, will come to Lancer Cafe at 8 p.m. on Friday, March 8. Ms. Berry's jokes convey positive messages about loving each other and living in harmony — whether black, white, male, or female. This program is sponsored by the Association for Black Students.

(continued on page 2)

EDITORIALS

Letters To The Editor

The Rotunda reserves the right to refuse any future editorials that are not signed. We will not print your name should you wish it not to be, but the original letter must be signed.

To the Editor of the Rotunda:

This letter is in regard to the article on New Smoking Restrictions by K. M. Cooke. I am very much in favor of these proposed restrictions because I am a nonsmoker, but I do know what it is like to be a smoker. I quit after one year and it was hard. Even though I am a nonsmoker, I do believe in smokers rights. It is a persons freedom of choice to smoke. What I do not agree with is some attitudes smokers take when nonsmoking areas are instigated. First let us look at some of the facts about smoking... One — Smoking is unhealthy. Period. Smoking of any kind, especially cigarettes, is the intentional asphyxiation of the respiratory system. Two — While smoking is not a proven cause of cancer, and probably never will be, it compounds the probable risk of developing various types of cancer. Three — Smoking has adverse effects on the heart muscle in that the asphyxiation effect causes the heart to work harder, not to mention the lungs, while oxygen is cut off from the blood stream. And Four — smoking is harmful to others around the smoker due to the second hand smoke.

With regards to the Smoking Restrictions, smokers should not feel they are being 'punished' as stated by another student in last weeks issue. An example of punishment and unfair ruling would be if any and all smoking was prohibited in all campus buildings, including residence halls and offices. These restrictions really are to protect those people who choose not to smoke and also the area or building they are in. Rather think of these restrictions as imposed consideration and school safety up-grades.

Sincerely,
Evelyn E. Sell

To the Editor-In-Chief:

In response to a gay and lesbian organization, I applaud the suggestion and the student.

It is my understanding that the counseling service is willing to offer the opportunity for a gay and lesbian support group. It could be organized in a way that the persons involved would be known only to the members of the group.

Please, for those interested, I understand your feelings and concerns, and ask that you contact:

Counseling Services (located in French)
Longwood College
395-2409

Sincerely,
Another Concerned Student

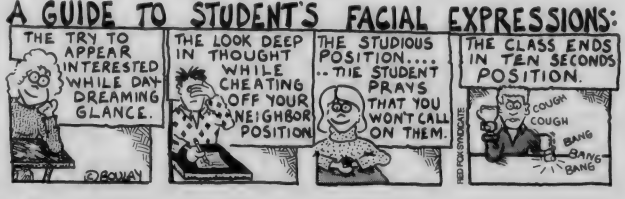
Dear Editor,

I am writing in response to the concerned student who expressed his or her feelings on having a gay/lesbian campus organization. I personally feel that it does not take the support of a faculty or staff member to start such an organization, but those people who feel strongly enough to initiate it themselves.

Many organizations begin just this way. Express your feelings and objectives first, and advisors will come later. If there isn't a faculty or staff member interested at first, who cares, at least you and your friends can and will be recognized.

If you and your friends are not ashamed of your sexual preference but believe in it enough to be recognized then you should have signed your name. There may be other students on this campus that feel the same way and signing your name could be the first step. Put a note in the personals setting up a time and meeting place and those who are interested will show up. There are many rooms available on this campus, even classrooms could be used.

Organizations such as the Earth Club, LAVA and LURE got started this way. People with similar interests came together and their club began. (No fanfare, buttons or T-shirts, just people meeting together expressing their opinions.



I wanted to comment on your attitude that you do not belong in the "social genre." Are your only interests that of being gay or lesbian? It does not matter if one is black or white, male or female, shy or outgoing, or homosexual or heterosexual, there is a place and organization for anyone who has something to offer.

You stated in your latter that if you believe in something bad enough, you must give 100 percent in order to achieve it. Well give it your 100 percent. I don't think that gays and lesbians are ignored on Longwood's campus, it's just that no one who believes in what you do has had the courage to stand up and make people aware.

It's up to you, this is your chance to be recognized and noticed.

Sincerely,
Jennifer Cole
A supportive, heterosexual student

Quotable:

"My first wish is to see this plague of mankind — war — banished from the earth."

—George Washington

NEWS

Photo Courtesy of Public Affairs

Pictured is Jon Brown, President of the Earth Club with one of the 44 gallon containers that will be placed on residence hall floors to collect aluminum cans for recycling.

Earth Club

(continued from page 1)

people in the world. It's going to happen either because people want it to happen or because it has to happen – people might wake up one day and find a dump in their backyard."

Brown transferred to Longwood last year from Keystone College in Pennsylvania, where he was involved with a group that hosted a delegation of about 20 Soviet environmentalists in April 1990.

"We were the only school in the country to do that," he said of their visit. "Their problems are 100 times worse than ours, and their methods are primitive. They have no concept of how to recycle or how to conserve water."

Differences exist among environmentally concerned persons as to the extent of the problem, Brown said. "I see the environment as an enormous problem, but one that can be solved. Some people get angry, but being angry doesn't solve anything."

Crime

(continued from page 1)

and steal radios, televisions and other items, or to hide and wait for the resident to return. "Locks are no good if we don't use them," he says.

A lot of controversy has centered around the use of the security doors which block entrance doors to the dormitories. Mike Herndon says that many students have complained that these doors are inconvenient and a hassle, but since news of the stairwell attack has circulated, there have been no more complaints.

The offices of the Dean of Students, Vice President for Student Affairs, Housing, and campus police have launched a safety campaign to remind students about campus safety. They have been distributing fliers and stickers containing safety tips and procedures. Herndon says that it is all basically common sense, "but we have a lot of people who are not operating under common sense and they need to be reminded."

Civility

(continued from page 1)

Civility Week wraps up on Sunday, March 10 with an educational drama about A.I.D.S. entitled "If You Won't Be Noble, I Won't Be Brave". This program will be presented by the Family Service of Central Virginia and will be held at 3:30 p.m. in the Red/White/Green Rooms in Lankford.

Aids Update

Longwood College's 4th Annual HIV/AIDS Update by Dr. Richard Keeling will be on Tuesday, March 5, at 1 p.m. in Jarman Auditorium.

Dr. Keeling is Director of Student Health at the University of Virginia and Chairman of the American College Health Association's Task Force on AIDS. A co-founder of Health Advocates, he has helped numerous public and private organizations with their AIDS-education efforts and has addressed millions of young people at universities, colleges, and high schools nationwide.

Dr. Keeling's audiovisual presentation will include the latest statistics on HIV/AIDS, results of medical and social research, and new medical strategies that can help people with HIV infection stay healthy longer. He will explain "risk behaviors" and give information on AIDS service organizations that can provide additional information and support.

Dr. Keeling's visit to Longwood is sponsored by Student Health Services and is open to all of the College community and the public free of charge.

Dr. Keeling is a nationally recognized expert on AIDS and HIV infection, the human immunodeficiency virus that causes AIDS. Chairman of the National AIDS Network since 1989, he was principal investigator for a nationwide study of HIV infection among college students, financed by a $500,000 grant from the national Centers for Disease Control.

He has been a consultant on AIDS education and ministry to the National Education Association, Medical Society of Virginia, Episcopal Diocese of Virginia, and hundreds of colleges and schools. He has published more than 30 articles, reports, and book chapters on medical and social issues related to AIDS, education and prevention, and advice for parents.

Civility Week
And National Collegiate Drug Awareness Week
"A campus where academic and social success is possible for everyone"
Schedule Of Events

Friday, March 1

Casino Night
Weekend Program: Pictionary; Win, Lose, or Draw;
Spades; Bowling; Band in the Red/White/Green Rooms, 8 p.m. until 1 a.m. (sponsored by the Student Union Board, Student Services, and the VIEW Team)

Sunday, March 3

Mike Green
"Kegs-Kicks-Competition"
An honest message about safe, responsible drinking.
6:30 p.m., Curry/ Frazer Commons Room (sponsored by the Athletic Department and Student Affairs)

Monday, March 4

Student Appreciation Dinner
An occasion for faculty and staff to show their appreciation to student.
4:30-6:30 p.m., Blackwell Dining Hall

The ROTUNDA
Box 1133
Longwood College
Farmville, Va. 23901

THE STAFF:

Editor-In-Chief
Monica Y. Gilbert

Photography Editor
Judi Weller

Business Manager
Anita Owens

Features Editor
Lindy Seymore

Layout Editor
Sarah Whiteside

Advertising Manager
Bradley Owen

Sports Editor
Charlie Fultz

Layout Assistant
Deborah Wilson

Faculty Advisor
Barbara LaJaunie

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed or printed neatly. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is 3:00 p.m. Friday prior to the Monday publication date and these should be placed in the envelope on the Publication door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by midnight Sunday.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an American Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

FEATURES

Lecture To Be Given On Drug And Alcohol Abuse

By JOHN D. BENTON

Mike Green represents a unique resource for drug and alcohol intervention with student-athletes. His background as an athlete, coach, and educator gives him a special ability to relate to young athletes and his experience as a recovering alcoholic gives him firsthand knowledge of the dangers of alcohol and drug abuse.

Mr. Green's goal is to educate, and his message of moderation avoids moralizing. Mike's program, in the words of one student, "informs you how not to drink" and stresses the athletes responsibility to peers as a role model.

A leader in the movement to bring drug and alcohol education to students at all levels, Mike has developed programs for students from pre-school through college age. Since its founding four years ago, Collegiate Consultants on Drugs and Alcohol has been at the forefront in the development of college drug and alcohol programs — making presentations at over 400 colleges nationwide. Mike has also presented expert testimony before the U.S. House of Representatives Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control.

Mr. Green will be making his presentation on March 3 at 7 p.m. in the Curry-Frazer commons room.

(Source: Collegiate Consultants on Drugs and Alcohol)

TRYOUTS

for

EURIPIDES' ELECTRA

Monday and Tuesday, March 4 and 5, 1991, Jarman Auditorium

THE CHARACTERS

A PEASANT
ELECTRA
ORESTES.
PYLADES
CHORUS OF SEVEN ARGIVE WOMEN
OLD MAN
MESSENGER
CLYTEMNESTRA
THE DIOSCURI (CASTOR & POLYDEUCES)
ATTENDANTS AND TROJAN SLAVES

THE CREWS

COSTUMES
HOUSE LIGHTS
MAKEUP
PROPERTIES
PUBLICITY
SET
SOUND
STAGE

Monday: 7:30-9:30 EVERYONE WELCOME Tuesday: 8:00-10:00

Actors: Please prepare a 1-minute audition piece.
Pylades and Polydeuces are mute parts.
Chorus of Argive Women and Electra must be able to sing in tune.

Honors Banquet To Be Held In April

By CHRISTOPHER JONES

Longwood College will be sponsoring its seventh annual Honors Banquet on April 10, at 5:30 p.m. in the Blackwell Dining Hall. The purpose of this banquet, as stated in Donald Stuart's February 18 letter to the college faculty, is "... to recognize students with high academic achievements." Students to receive awards will receive invitations through the campus mail. The letter also asked the faculty to review the awards being given out, and to make certain that they possessed the two following criteria:

"1. This award must be for high academic achievement rather than for service to the college, financial need, etc.

2. The award must be a surprise for the recipient — i.e. not previously announced."

S-UN Film Committee Feature Attraction

Playing on Monday, Feb. 25 at 9 p.m. in Lancer Café, it's NAVY SEALS!

While you're having fun during Casino Night be sure to stop by the café at 8 p.m. for DUCK TALES & THE JETSONS on Friday, March 1. They will also be playing Monday, March 4 at 9 p.m. in the café!

Fashion Show

The Well Dressed Professional

Wednesday, February 27

7:00

Gold Room

Sponsors: Panhellenic Council & CPPC

Free Admission Door Prizes

The Bulletin Board

The following information is courtesy of Public Affairs and The Office of Career Planning and Placement.

The Yearbook Staff will be selling space for personal messages in the Virginian during lunch and dinner in the new smoker on Tuesday 2-26, Wednesday 2-27, and Thursday 2-28. Cost is 10¢ per character. Please type message and send it to The Virginian Box 1134. Include a check or money order payable to the Virginian. Please include your name and box number. — Thanks, Virginian Staff

Don't Miss Mishu — The world's smallest Yugoslavian Monkey Trainer and his famous monkey "Jo Jo" at Lancer Cafe, Feb. 26.

Excellence Under Construction: Place your order today for a 1991 yearbook. Deadline to buy is March 1, 1991. Cost $25. Send check payable to Virginian Box 1134 Longwood. Thanks Yearbook Staff!

Kappa Delta will be having its Shamrock Project for the National Committee for the prevention of Child Abuse starting March 9. Please look for "Change for Children" cans at your local businesses.

Summer School Financial Aid Applications can be picked up in the Financial Aid office March 1. They must be completed and returned to the FAO no later than April 1.

Weight Lifters of Longwood College

Would you like to see new equipment in the weight room? Do you want to find out more about different lifting techniques or bodybuilding? How about nutrition? If so ... JOIN the Weight Lifters Club and help us achieve these goals. Interest meeting will be held in Lancer on March 5, 1991 at 7:30 in room 203 Lancer.

Have an interest in arranging on nutrition, or training techniques; specific topics that interest you? If so come to the meeting on March 5 at 7:30 and see how.

"The Library will close at 12 noon on Friday, March 15, and will reopen on Monday, March 25, at 8 a.m. During this time the move to the new library building will take place."

If anyone has convocation pictures they would like to donate to the yearbook, please send to Virginian Box 1134. It will be greatly appreciated. Thanks!

Do you like to DANCE?!? — Well, the Lancer Dancers are having Tryouts! The 1st practice is Wed., February 27 from 7-9 p.m. in the Dance Studio in Lancer. Please come. If you have any questions, call Jo I at 3276.

NOTICE: There is still time! If you did not get your picture in the yearbook class section... Don't fret. Send a clear picture of yourself and one or more other person(s) with your names to The Virginian Box 1134. Cannot guarantee the return of pix. Thanks, Staff

Wed., Feb. 27, 7 p.m. in Gold Room

Panhellenic Council and CPPC are sponsoring "The Well-Dressed Professional" Fashion Show.

Thurs., March 7th, 1:15 in Jarman

IFC and Panhel are sponsoring Eilleen Stevens, Founder of C.H.U.C.K. (Comm. to Halt Useless College Killings.)

*Are you interested in spending a few days or a week with an employer who can share insights about a particular career, field, or organization?

*Do you want to make contacts for future employment?

*Do you want to find out if you are heading down the right career path?

If you answered "yes" to any or all of the above questions, then you should consider participating in the CPPC SPRING EXTERN PROGRAM. Here is how it works:

1. You come by CPPC with ideas of employers/organizations with whom you feel an externship would be valuable.

2. CPPC Staff makes the initial contact with the employers/organizations of your choice and determines if a placement is possible.

3. If yes, then an employer will be selected with a specific contact person. This person will receive instructions from CPPC staff about the program and information about you.

4. You then phone the "contact person" and together you define the details of the externship (how long, exact dates and times, etc.).

There are two externship times that are recommended, Spring Break – March 18-22 and the week following Commencement – May 13-17. Which you choose is up to you and the employer. During the externship, you'll spend time shadowing the employer, asking questions, and possibly working on simple tasks. There are no fees, salaries, or grades – both you and the employer are volunteering to participate. An externship is an excellent way of determining if a career path is right for you.

Come by CPPC for further information.

Author Finds Virginia Connection

By THERESA SAKIEWICZ

Writer Donald Harington had no idea that he had any connection with Joe Giarratano, a convicted murderer and rapist who was recently given a conditional pardon by the governor.

Monday, Harington read an excerpt from his upcoming novel The Choiring of the Trees to a standing-room-only crowd in Wygal Auditorium.

The novel by the Arkansas writer takes place in the mythical town of Stay More where a group of people have gathered to witness the execution of an Ozark mountaineer convicted of raping a 13-year-old girl.

The Choiring of the Trees, the author explained, is divided into "on" and "off" sections, corresponding to the electric switch used in executions.

Harington read only from the "on" sections Monday night, commenting that the "off" sections were rather "dull."

One audience member asked Harington if he had been aware that Giarratano was facing execution at this time. The novelist replied no, but said that he was "probably sent here by some higher power."

"That's a coincidence," commented Harington.

Special Interest Housing Offered

You could live on a hall with residents that have similar interests such as sports, hobbies, majors or community service. Longwood has two special interest houses which are F.R.E.S.H. and I.S.H.

F.R.E.S.H which stands for Friendship, Recreation, Education, Service, and House. The members of this hall best describes themselves as a family. It has been located on third floor Curry for two years. This is a diverse group featuring gymnasts, baseball players, and field hockey players. This hall also has members involved in Alpha Phi Omega, Sororities, Earth Club, theater, Delta Sigma Pi, and intramurals. This hall gave a breakfast for the children whose families are served by D.A.Y., Domestic Assistance for you agency in Farmville.

I.S.H. which stands for International Studies Hall is devoted to members who have an interest on third floor Main Cunningham for three years. This hall has English, French, Spanish and other majors living on it. They describe themselves as a close-knit family.

Applications are still available for special interest houses. Applications can be picked up at the Dean of Students Office. Applications are due by March 7, 1991.

SALE! SALE! SALE! SALE! SALE! SALE! SALE! SALE! SALE! SALE!

SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE

25% OFF

REGULAR AND SALE PRICED ITEMS

ENTIRE IN-STORE STOCK OF CLOTHING

Sweatshirts - Sweatpants
Boxers - T-Shirts
Children's Clothing - Shorts
And More!

LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE

PHONE 395-2084

Sale good thru Friday, March 1, 1991

SALE! SALE! SALE! SALE! SALE! SALE! SALE! SALE! SALE! SALE!

CLASSIFIEDS/PERSONALS

FOR SALE

FOR SALE — Elementary Statistics, Leon F. Marzillier w/computer disk. Asking price $35.00 and Using Minitab, Jonathon K. Trower (for Business 170). Brand new. Asking price $25. Will accept best offer. Call Stephanie @ 3171.

1984 Honda, 125 Aero scooter. Only 700 miles on motor, $150. Call 392-6561.

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED — Looking for Albegra and Physics tutor. Available on Friday afternoon and/or weekends. If interested, contact Teri @ 392-8361. Fee will be discussed.

SERVICES

Do you need a paper typed? $1.50/pg. plus title pge FREE! I'll need at least one week and your handwriting should be as legible as possible. Call Stephanie 3171.

SWINDLERS ARE CALLING

To protect against fraud in telemarketing, call NFA for your free brochure.
800-621-3570
800-572-9400 (in Illinois)

CAMP INTERVIEW DAY

Interested in a summer camp job? Come meet Camp Directors and a display of camp programs...

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28
in the
LANKFORD GOLD ROOM

FAST FUNDRAISING PROGRAM

$1000 IN JUST ONE WEEK

Earn up to $1000 in one week for your campus organization.

Plus a chance at $5000 more!

This program works! No investment needed.

Call 1-800-932-0528 Ext. 50

-FREE-PREGNANCY TEST

All services confidential. Same day results.
SOUTHSIDE PREGNANCY CENTER
24-HOUR HOTLINE
392-8483

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE ROTUNDA!

For more information:
Contact Brad Owen
Phone (804) 395-2120 or 395-3253

Box 1133
Farmville, VA 23901

WLCX 90.1 FM — The Voice of Longwood returns to the air waves 6 p.m. to 12 midnight seven days a week! Be sure to tune in early on Tuesdays at 4 p.m. for the TDK New Music Report.

Your Alternative Music Station — WLCX!

Because college is not a spectator sport ... Be an R.A.! Resident Assistant Applications for 1991-92 school year available now at Dean of Students Office. Applications due March 7.

John Wilkerson, Congratulations on your acceptance to MCV. I wish you the best of luck and I know you'll succeed. Love Lindy

Barbara Z — Way to go! See, I told you you could do it! A big ΔΠΓ salute to you! Tennyson and Byron would be proud! — Your 412 buddy

Susie-Q — Tri-Sigma is so lucky to have a wonderful pledge like you and I am three times as lucky 'cause you're my very own little sister. You're a special girl and I love you alot. — Your Big Sister Marianne

Monica Craft — Thank you for being the BEST! Have a great week! I love you! Loyally in ETT — Martha

Thanks to all Longwood Ambassadors who made our ball so much fun!

Robyn Willhide — You are a terrific grandchild! Keep smiling! — Love, Martha

To all Key West Bound Alpha Gams (Holly H., Too!) — It won't be long now! — Love, Martha

Cast and Crew of The Foreigner — Break a Leg! — Love, Sharon

To the other two of Triple Trouble — Look! No more list! — Sharon

E.U.C. Gang — You guys keep up the good work! Four deadlines to go. See you soon — Linda

Kappa Delta would like to recognize its 12 new pledges: Cassie Cohen, April Crawley, Amy Poteat, Amanda Janie, Jenny Ihlenburg, Cynthia Harper, Denise Hailey, Heather Nickerson, Suzie Pruess, Michelle Lee, Carol Melnek, and Teresa Blackwell. We love you! — The Sisters of Kδ

Blue Moon — 20 days to partyin' around the clock for a full week. We're gonna tear the place up. — Skeeter

Sister Newby — Has thou left thine Nunnery in the pursuit of God? — Freetz

Rm 278 + 279 — Nappies you guys are the best. We love the best time with you all. (Stop by anytime or just hang in the hall with us.) — R.S. and T.B.

Tammy — I am so excited to see you as an Alpha Gam! I love you, and you are a great roomie! — Alpha Gam Love Tracy

Mary and Shari — Congratulations on becoming supervisors! That's awesome! I'm really glad to be your roomie. I love you both! — Laura Coming Soon! Tau Kappa Epsilon's 3rd Annual Safe Sex Party! March 9, 1991. Ask any Teke brother for details!

To: My Big STUD — There was only one star out last night ... I'll let you know if my wish comes true — love, you know who.

Trent — How many secret admirers do you have?

Roomie — What's up? Have any more natural gas leaks? Hope you have a great week! — Yours truly, Home Slice

Deb — You're the greatest roomie in the world. Thanks for everything. — Love Steph

Jennifer, Wendy and Laura — Anne, You're the best sweetmates anyone could ask for! — Love, Stephanie

BTW — Love ya — Guess Who

Hey Kelli M. — You are a great big sis — I'm so glad you are mine. Thank you for everything. I can't wait until we get to know each other better. Remember W. M. and K. are watching you! ΔZ — Love, Your Little Sis

Robin — You're a great roomie. Have fun this weekend with Paul and Pete. Study hard and stop staying up so late with you know who down the hall. — Love your roomie, T.B.

Damon Lindsay-Head — Thanks for making the party sound! — Ms. White-head

Cassie — Hope that you had a good weekend. — Vic

Amy's plural — You two are the best. I love you all to death. We need to hang together more often (Amy's plural, Robin and I). We need to get Amy S. to stay here and party with us at least once this semester. Good luck and study hard. — I'm watching you!

Congratulations to our new initiates and associates of ΔΠΓ: Kimberly, Debra, David, Cathy, Jennifer, Caren and Barbara! We are so proud of you and your academic excellence! Good Job! — Katherin

G. Betsy is the best roommate!

Tammy — You're awesome and we love you! — Your Sister Moms

The U.S. American Flags on campus are being hung wrong!! — Stars are in the upper left not right corner.

Damon Lindsay — Thank you so much for helping to make our Valentine's Dance a success. We wouldn't have been able to "Jam" without you. — The Sisters of Alpha Gamma Delta

Exploder — Smile! Cheer up Life ain't all bad. The best come to those who wait. — Skeete and Blue Moon

1990-91 Gymnastics Team — Thanx so much for everything you've done for me. You guys are the greatest! I'm so glad to be a part of the team! Best of luck the rest of the season. Luv Ya! — Laura

Beth — You are a great KID! I am so excited that we get along so well. I missed you this weekend, but we will make-up for this week. I love you! — Alpha Gam Love Tracy

Kappa Delta would like to announce its newest sisters Heather Babbitt, Betsy Butler, Katherine Caricofe, Karen Dickenson, Jennifer Sisterman, Wendy Touchstone, Lisa Traylor, Amanda Walton, Kim Mraz, Katy Wright, Leslie Hafer, Alicia Hewett, and Mandi Ping. Congratulations! A.O.T. — Love your sisters!

Gonzo — Thanks so much for the flower! You are a great friend and I love you! — Love Punch bug

Skeeter — Glad you're feeling better, but the true road to a recovery from life is only 3 weeks away. To more fun times, bonding nights, and "popcorn dreams! — Blue moon

Fuzzy Pink Slippers — Keep the back door open and the plastic bag on your head. Your closet or mine? — Fred

LeaAnne and Dawn — How much would you pay for a Reese's cup? As much as I did! — Leslie

SPORTS

Harris Qualifies For Nationals

Courtesy Sports Information

Mark Harris, a sophomore on the Longwood College wrestling team, won both his matches at 142 pounds at the NCAA Division II Southern Regional last weekend at Pembroke State, garnering the regional title and earning a bid to the Division II National Championships. For his efforts, Harris has been named Longwood College Player of the Week for the period of Feb. 17-24. Player of the Week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.

This marks the fourth consecutive year a Lancer has qualified for the national tournament. The Division II Championship will be held this weekend, hosted by North Dakota State University in Fargo. Weigh-in will take place Thursday, and matches will begin Friday morning and continue through Saturday evening.

Harris, 22-11-1, trailed both his seven minute matches until the waning moments. In the opening round, Harris trailed last season's regional champion Silas Carter of Virginia State 6-4. With under a minuted remaining in the third period, Harris was awarded two points for a reversal and three points for a near fall just as the buzzer sounded to win the match 9-8.

"Mark runs everyday and is just in terrific shape," commented head coach Steve Nelson. "He's not bigger or stronger than the kids he wrestles, just in better shape. Both his opponents just gassed at six and a half minutes and Mark won because he wrestled the whole seven."

In the title match, Harris fell behind early, and trailed Danny Morneault of Pembroke 4-2 in the third period. With 1:20 remaining, Harris put Morneault on his back and held him there until the final horn sounded for a three point near fall and the championship.

For his performance, Harris was named the Outstanding Wrestler of the tournament.

A native of Norfolk, Harris graduated from Norview High School.

MARK HARRIS

Lancers Top Pitt-Johnstown

Courtesy Sports Information

Seniors Keith Latimer and Billy Dunn played leading roles as Longwood closed out its 1990-91 men's basketball season with a 92-85 victory over Pittsburgh-Johnstown in Lancer Hall Saturday afternoon. LC ended the campaign with a 11-17 record.

Dunn pumped in 20 points with four 3-point field goals in just 26 minutes on the court and Latimer had an eye-popping 18 rebounds to go with 19 points. Junior Joe Lowe, who scored 14 points in the second half, totaled 20 for the game with eight assists. Soph Bryan Weaver had a career high 18 points and nine boards. Freshman Michael Druitt came off the bench to score eight points.

Longwood dominated the rebounding, pulling down 43 compared to the Mountain Cats' 22. Lancer board work was decisive in the second half as Latimer and Weaver paced the home team to a 24-9 edge.

The Lancers, who ended a seven game losing streak with the win, fought back from an early deficit to lead 49-44 at halftime Saturday. Pitt-Johnstown, now 9-16 rallied to go on top 79-78 with 5:20 left on a bucket by Robert Shanahan. Then Lowe and Latimer combined to score eight straight points for an 86-79 Longwood lead and UPJ got no closer than five the rest of the way.

Lancers Fall to UDC

Longwood dropped a 71-68 decision in overtime Thursday night to visiting District of Columbia. It was the fourth time this season the Lancers have lost in extra periods.

Latimer hit the front end of a one-and-one with no time remaining to tie the game at 66-66 and bring on the extra period. The 6-5 senior, who scored 16 points and grabbed eight rebounds, could have won the game, but missed his second shot.

Dunn scored 18 points for the Lancers, while Keith Crabtree had nine, Eric Letts eight and Reggie Turner eight.

Intramurals Update

Men's Basketball
A League - 1st Place - Royal Beaver
B League - 1st Place - Hack Pack

Men's Racquetball
Top Four: Eric Watkins, Frank Moore, Nils McCarty and Kevin Chalmers

Women's Racquetball
1st Place - Shelly Stansbary

Campus Champs Head To GWU

Courtesy Sports Information

One male basketball team from Longwood College will compete with up to 50 other area colleges and universities during the Schick Super Hoops Regional Festival at George Washington University on March 23.

The men's team, including Shane Stover, Pete Rymshaw, Lamar Barret and Charles Gergary advanced the intercollegiate tournament by virtue of recently winning the on-campus Schick Super Hoops 3-on-3 Basketball Tournament.

The top two male and female teams at the Regional Festival will advance to play for, the championship at a nearby NBA arena during half-time of an NBA game. Winning teams receive K•Swiss™ basketball shoes, Schick Slim Twin Disposable Razors, a t-shirt, gym shorts, a hooded sweatshirt and the NBA's hottest new video, "Ultimate Defenders of Sport."

In addition to participating in the double-elimination Regional Festival, each player will also compete in the "K•Swiss Shootout" – a shooting contest in which players making shots from five designated spots on the court in the shortest amount of time win pairs of K•Swiss™ basketball shoes. Top scoring individuals and teams will receive prizes.

Schick Super Hoops is the country's largest college recreational sports program with more than 800 participating schools and 200,000 students. Regional Festivals are conducted at 22 sites nationwide. Finals are staged at 18 NBA arenas.

Because college is not A Spectator Sport...
Be A
Resident Assistant!
Sunday, March 3
3:30-5:00
Wheeler Hall Lounge

Applications available after February 24 at Information Sessions, in Dean of Students Office, and from RECs.

Equestrians Ride To Regionals

By LISA LOCKWOOD

Carey Seitz, Kirsten Hite and Page Perry qualified for the regional competition to be held at Goucher College, Maryland in April. The team placed fifth out of ten colleges competing at UVA on the 16th of February.

With the help of our coach, Mary Whitlock, Kirsten Hite advanced to a higher division in the Flat Class. The Flat Class is judged on how well the rider can ride the horse and still look good. Carey Seitz also moved up a division in the Flat Class. Page Perry advanced from advanced walk-trot to Beginning Walk-Trot-Canter.

On February 23, the Equestrian Team will be showing at Sweet Briar for the last competition of the season. Then Page, Kirsten, and Carey will be showing in April for Regionals. When they do well at regionals, they will advance to Zone competition and then onto nationals.

INSIDE: "The Foreigner" Review Civility Week Speakers

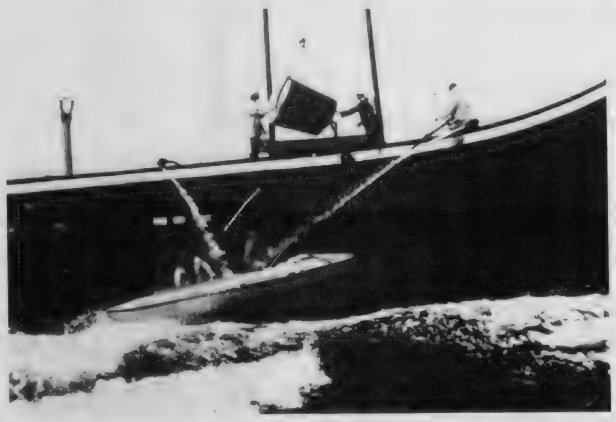
CONTENTS

Editorials 2
News 2
Features 3
Sports 4
Classifieds 4
Personals 4

The ROTUNDA

Vol. 70 No. 12 | March 4, 1991 | LONGWOOD COLLEGE | Farmville, Virginia

Student Union To Host Greenpeace Lecture



Courtesy Student Union

On Wednesday, March 6, 1991, at 8 p.m. in the Gold Room of Lankford Building the Student Union Board will present Christopher Childs whose lecture and slide show is entitled "GREENPEACE: Past, Present, and Future." The 1991 Nature of the year. "Greenpeace is the international organization known to the world over for their non-violent confrontational approach to protecting and preserving the fragile, interconnected web of life on our planet." The following was provided by the Greenpeace organization.

"Greenpeace. We began over 15 years ago by opposing nuclear weapons testing on Amchitka Island in Alaska. You probably first became aware of us during our campaigns to protect whales and seals. The huge whaling ship, the small zodiac, the explosive harpoon — these images are indelibly inked into the public consciousness, but we're not satisfied. Because everywhere we look, an any part of the planet, we see new threats to the environment. So we've expanded our compaigns. You'll see our name linked with opposition to illegal pesticide export to the Third World; the protection of the last unspoiled continent, Antarctica; and the elimination of nuclear weapons at sea.

We have seen that life can be preserved by nonviolent confrontation — what the Quakers call 'bearing witness.' A person who bears witness to an injustice takes responsibility for that awareness and acts to stop the crime. Through direct action, members of Greenpeace seek to stop violence against the earth without committing acts of violence ourselves. We commit our ships, our voices, our work, our creativity, and, ultimately, our lives, for the protection of all species.

In order to influence national and international environmental policy, Greenpeace researchers document the scientific, political and financial roots of ecological problems. We prepare educational films, papers and articles for use in the United Nations, the U.S. Congress, the media and the classroom.

GREENPEACE. The international organization with a non-violent approach to preserving life on our planet.

Greenpeace. We'll continue to protect marine mammals and their habitants; we'll be there to stop the chemical poisoning of our earth, air, and water; and we'll work towards ending the manufacture and testing of nuclear weapons. But we want more. And we need your help to get it. Help us go beyond our horizon. Because what we'll find is a green and peaceful planet for all of us to enjoy."

All are welcome and admission is free.

Security Doors Pose Problem For Many

By ANN RENEE HEIM

Security on campus has always been one of the major concerns of the Longwood College Police Department. The installation of the new security doors has prompted an acute awareness for the need of raised security here.

This issue didn't seem to be so great back when Longwood was an all-female school. According to John Thompson, a Longwood policeman, all doors to the buildings were locked at 8 p.m. Until then, one was able to go in and out of the buildings as she pleased. The students were all to be in bed by 10 p.m. — no exceptions.

When Longwood went co-ed, things changed, including the crime rate. Today, said Thompson, on a good month, only about 15 to 20 reports of larceny are reported. This was a primary reason for the installation of the new security system.

The major purpose of the system is to keep nonauthorized people from entering the residence halls in which they do not belong. Said Officer Thompson, "It only works as well as the students want it to."

The most bothersome problem facing the system is that in some cases the keys do not work, causing students to prop these doors. Gregg Baird, a concerned student said, "It completely undermines the system. If the purpose is to keep unauthorized students out of the building, then why are we propping open our doors and letting them in?"

Propping doors is now a judicial offense. According to Thompson, anyone seen propping a door can be put on probation, be sentenced to do community services at Longwood, or they can be suspended. If a student has a problem with his key, he should report it to his R.E.C.

One major argument against the new doors is related to the safety of women walking alone. If something were to happen, persons only have access to their own dorm, and would be unable to get inside another for safety. In response to this, Officer Thompson said, "A female has no business walking at night by herself."

Longwood offers an escort service for students at night. Thompson said that males may be turned down depending upon the circumstances, but a woman needing an escort is never to be denied, as he stressed, "Do not walk alone."

The escorts used, according to Thompson, are male students whose backgrounds have been checked by the police. "These students are here for the safety of other students, use them," said Thompson.

Our police department has many of the same capabilities as any other police department, including the power of arrest. If a situation were to arise that would require more manpower than Longwood can provide, they can call in the Farmville Police Department, and even the State Police in the area. Thompson reported that most cases ending in arrest, whether it be theft, assault, or rape, are followed through by the arresting officer until it is out of their hands, and in those of the court system.

If a student is arrested at Longwood, though he is a student, he will be held in the Piedmont Regional Jail outside of Farmville until bail is set and posted. Said Thompson, "Even though you are a student, you still have to obey the law just like anyone else."

THE ORDER OF OMEGA presented its first New Member Academy on Sunday, February 24th. The purpose of this activity was to bring the new members of the Greek system together to work as one entity and to increase Greek unity. Dr. James Crowl and Mary Kaye Benton both spoke during the activity about very important issues dealing with pledging and time management, respectively. The New Member Academy is a great way for students that are new to the Greek system to become acquainted with Greek life and to help facilitate their transition into new organizations.

Lifeguard Saves Life

By CHRISTOPHER JONES

On Sunday, February 10, 1991, a life was saved at Lancer pool. Michael Leggiardro, the lifeguard on duty at the time of the accident, relays the incident as follows:

"... each save that I make is more important to me than the last because I feel as if I am making a difference in the future."

Leggiardro, a lifeguard for three years, did not realize at first that he was witnessing a potential death. He says that he saw a black man and his two friends horseplaying in the deep end. The black man, who could not swim, swallowed some water and began choking and panicking. Leggiardro, who had his eyes on the man for the entire time, thought for a moment that the man was only kidding. When he saw that he was mistaken, however, he dove in after the man, slipped his arms around the man's chest and carried him back to the shallow end where they could both stand.

Leggiardro admits he was afraid for the man's life and afraid that he would not be able to save him. The man was quite large and heavy, and he struggled and kicked as Leggiardro carried him to safety. The time was 4:30 p.m.

When asked how he felt about this ordeal, Leggiardro simply said: "I know my job as a lifeguard is to save people from drowning, but each save that I make is more important to me than the last because I feel as if I am making a difference in the future."

ROTC Cadets Learn Land Navigation

By KEN DeWITT

On Sunday, 24 February ROTC Cadets: James Tierney, Carolyn Komich, Ken DeWitt, Donald Bobbitt, Chris Corizzo, and Greg Crow, joined up with the Advanced Course Cadets for a nice walk through the woods at Ft. Pickett's Land Navigation course. Land Navigation is the fine art of going from one point in the woods to another (without getting lost!).

To start off the day, everybody determined how many steps they took over a 100 meter course. The number of steps (or paces) gave the Cadets their "pace count," so they would know when they walked a 100 meters in the woods. Then, armed with a map of the area and a compass, these brave souls went tromping through swamps and over creeks to find their elusive prey a four foot stake marked with a letter!

After combating several natural obstacles and walking over six miles, up and down hills, the weary Cadets ended their "nature walk." After finding several different points, they proved to themselves that they could navigate through the forest. In asking Greg Crow his opinion of the experience, he said, "Good time — and it felt great to find a post!" Then Chris Corizzo added, "I got lost because of inexperience, but Captain Wittekind, being the great leader that he is, taught us great secrets about Land Nav."

Overall Longwood cadets spent an enjoyable day gaining experience and learning more about the challenges of land navigation.

Pictured left to right are: Cadets James Tierney, Carolyn Komich, Chris Corizzo and Will Gaines. All wanting to start off the land navigation course on the right foot!

EDITORIALS

Letters To The Editor

The Rotunda reserves the right to refuse any future editorials that are not signed. We will not print your name should you wish it not to be, but the original letter must be signed.

This Letter to the Editor is actually aimed at the members of the Judicial Board. I have a motion that you should seriously consider. Instead of having so many judgements (Guilty, Probation, Extenuating Circumstances, and Expulsion) why not simply do away with the Not Guilty and Guilty with Extenuating circumstances. Since these two judgements are never used, why keep them on the books. It's obvious that the idea of Justice is outdated, much like the blue laws. It's time to do away the outdated and out-of-style idea of fair play. I know it is difficult for you to accept that you are a tyrannical organization, but like homosexuals coming out of the closet; once you do, you will feel much better. Again, I encourage you take my advice.

Burton

To The Editor,

We are all in this together, whether we all know it, or not. The Gaia Theory, which is becoming more widely accepted by scientists currently, explains the earth as one huge living organism, each part interconnected, inter-related, and inter-dependent. Look around, life seeps through the cracks in infinite forms, all growing and evolving. If you prescribe to the evolutionist theory, you can see how we have grown from the simplest one-celled organism to a complex living being. No matter what you believe about our origin, I think you would agree that no matter how or why we are here we must not destroy the land we inhabit for in doing so, we may destroy ourselves and all life on this planet.

You create your own reality, if you think you will fail a test, you probably won't study, and most likely you will indeed fail. What you believe to be true, you often create to be true in your life. Many people believe that the end of the world is near, while many other people realize that an end also means a new beginning. It would seem that if more people thought there was no hope and didn't do anything to help out, then the weight of the scale might fall on their side and that destiny could prevail. But if many people realized that they could create hope, and do something about the environmental problems we face, the scale would fall on their side.

The changes you make in your own life can be an example to others. By being aware and doing your small part you can make a wonderful change. The earth club meets on Thursdays at 7 p.m. in French Soda Lounge. We would greatly appreciate anything (time, information, smiling faces, warm hearts) you could contribute. Please help us help all of us, and have fun doing it!

Sincerely,
Jake Devaney
Earth Club

Dear Editor,

I'm writing this article in response to the "Fear of Crime Grips Campus" article in last week's Rotunda. I've heard the rumors about the attacks/robberies, seen bushes being cut down, and have also seen signs around campus warning students not to walk alone. To me, these signs are saying that the crime on campus is getting worse; but we, the students, are not being told.

When hearing about these particular incidents and also having my R.A. come put a lock doors/windows sign on my door and seeing that the Longwood Bookstore is now selling mace, the administrators cannot convince me that crime is not becoming a problem at this school. I feel that the students have the right to know that the percentage of the crime rate on campus. The students do not need to know the people involved, the place, or time.

If the students are more aware of the crime rate percentage, then the campus would have a lot more people "OPERATING under common sense." I know for a fact that I would be more careful. I used to feel safe on campus until this school year.

A Concerned Student,
Tammy Heim

In Memoriam

Keren Rams

February 9, 1966 - February 8, 1991
Longwood Graduate
May 1988

Bachelor of Science in Business Administration

Sister of Sigma Kappa

Keren will be greatly missed by all those who knew and loved her.

Civility Week
And National Collegiate Drug Awareness Week
"A campus where academic and social success is possible for everyone"
Schedule Of Events

Tuesday, March 5

4th Annual HIV/AIDS Update
Dr. Richard Keeling
1 p.m., Jarman
(sponsored by Student Health Service)

James W. Dyke, Jr.
Secretary of Education, Commonwealth of Virginia
"Communities of Civility"
7 p.m., Jarman

Wednesday, March 6

A Longwood/Farmville Panel
"Promoting Positive College/Community Relations"
7 p.m., Wygal

Thursday, March 7

Community Service Fair
Learn about opportunities for service and involvement in Farmville.
12:30-2 p.m., Gold Room

Eileen Stevens
"Death By Hazing"
A mother who would not accept the explanation that her son's death was an accident.
1:15 p.m., Jarman
(sponsored by the Greek Affairs Office)

Mary Futrell
"Are We Ready for the 21st Century?"
A prominent educator discusses the challenges we are all facing.
1:00 p.m., Bedford
(sponsored by the Simkins Lecture Series and the School of Education and Human Services)

Friday, March 8

Bertice Berry
A comedienne with a serious message. Ms. Berry keeps her audiences howling, with jokes that convey positive images about living happily together and loving each other — whether black, white, male, or female.
8 p.m., Lancer Cafe
(sponsored by the Association for Black Students)

Sunday, March 10

"If You Won't Be Noble, I Won't Be Brave"
An educational drama about A.I.D.S., presented by Family Service of Central Virginia.
3:30 p.m., Red/White/Green Rooms, Lankford.

NEWS

Dyke And Futrell To Speak For Civility Week

James W. Dyke, Jr., Virginia's Secretary of Education, and Mary H. Futrell, former president of the National Education Association, will speak at Longwood College next week. Both lectures are open to the public free of charge.

Dr. Dyke will speak on Tuesday evening, March 5, at 7 o'clock in Jarman Auditorium. His topic is "Communities of Civility."

Ms. Futrell's lecture will be Thursday, March 7, at 1 p.m. in Bedford Auditorium. Her topic is "Are We Ready for the 21st Century?"

The two lectures are part of Civility Week at Longwood, a focus on improving people-to-people relationships. An extensive program is planned, as "a challenge to all of us to promote more positive human relations on campus and in the larger community," said Dr. William Schall, Dean of the School of Education and Human Services.

One impetus for promoting civility comes from Governor Douglas Wilder. In a speech last month to college and university presidents, Governor Wilder discussed the issue of civility – "specifically, the respective responsibilities that must be fulfilled by students, faculty and administration, and the State to ensure that civility is a reality, rather than a lifeless buzzword, at our institutions of higher learning."

The Governor said: "Without question, our efforts to improve understanding and to reduce incidents of violence will bear precious little fruit if students themselves do not take the lead ... by demonstrating greater maturity and a willingness to discipline themselves ... Such an effort on the part of our students begins with a recognition of the inalienable rights of others, and with an understanding that the rights of one person end the moment they begin to infringe upon the fundamental rights of another ... The greatest threats to civility are intolerance, indifference, and ignorance."

Civility Week at Longwood was originated by faculty and students in the School of Education and Human Services, in cooperation with the Student Affairs Office. "Many people – students, faculty, and administrators – are involved in planning and implementing the week's programs. We've had very positive response from everyone on campus," Dr. Schall said.

Among Civility Week events are presentations on responsible drinking, AIDS education, and the dangers of fraternity hazing; a Longwood-Farmville panel discussion on "Promoting Positive Community Relations" (Wednesday, March 6, 7 p.m., Wygal Auditorium); a Community Service Fair where students can learn about opportunities for involvement in the Farmville community; and a comedian with a serious message about respecting and caring for others.

Dr. Dyke was appointed Secretary of Education for the Commonwealth of Virginia in January of 1990. He served on the Board of Education from 1985 to 1990 and also was a member of the Governor's Commission on the University of the 21st Century.

His B.A. and J.D. law degrees are from Howard University. From 1987 to 1990, he was a partner in the law firm of Hunton & Williams, with offices in Washington, Fairfax and Richmond. His areas of practice included public finance, health care, municipal law, and legislative counseling.

Other activities include service on the Advisory Committee for the Virginia Commission on Prison and Jail Overcrowding; the District of Columbia Legal Services Program, Retirement Board, and Public Defenders Service; and the board of governors of the D.C. Bar Association.

Dr. Dyke has been a visiting professor in the law schools at Howard University and the University of Virginia. In 1976, he was general counsel to the National Democratic Party's Platform Committee, and he was domestic policy advisor to vice president Walter Mondale from 1977 to 1981.

Ms. Futrell was president of the National Education Association from 1985 to 1989. She has served on the National Congressional Commission on Children, the Task Force on Youth and Work, the National Commission on Working Women (chairperson), the Study Commission on Global Perspectives in Education, the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards, Education Commission of the States, the executive committee of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, and a dozen other national and international appointments.

Presently, Ms. Futrell is senior fellow and associate director of the Center for the Study of

(continued on page 3)

Bertice Berry, the comedienne with a message.

March is Women's History Month and to start us off is Bertice Berry, Ph.D., a comedian with a message. She has shared her beliefs at colleges and comedy clubs across the country and now she will be performing here at Longwood College. Ms. Berry is a Ph.D. graduate in sociology and a former university professor who happens to be as funny as she is intelligent. Topics that she perform include: But some of my best friends are: The Existence of Racism on the College Campus — What We Can Do: Can't Live With 'Em, Can't Live Without 'Em: Gender Differences Between Men and Women that Affect Our Relationships; and Coming Out Alive: How to Survive a College Career just to name a few.

Bertice Berry is sponsored by the Association of Black Students and will be performing Friday, March 8 in the Lancer Cafe.

The ROTUNDA
Box 1133
Longwood College
Farmville, Va. 23901

THE STAFF:

Editor-In-Chief Monica Y. Gilbert
Features Editor Lindy Seymore
Sports Editor Charlie Fultz
Photography Editor Judi Weller
Layout Editor Sarah Whiteside
Layout Assistant Deborah Wilson
News Editor Christopher Jones
Business Manager Anita Owens
Advertising Manager Bradley Owen
Faculty Advisor Barbara LaJaunie

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed or printed neatly. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is 3:00 p.m. Friday prior to the Monday publication date and these should be placed in the envelope on the Publication door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by midnight Sunday.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an American Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

FEATURES

COLETTE HUGHES

LC Student Plans Career In New Field

Courtesy Public Affairs

Colette Hughes doesn't have many professional role models she can emulate.

Hughes, a Longwood College student from Bermuda, plans to pursue a career in therapeutic recreation, which she described as "really new" in that British colony in the Atlantic Ocean.

"There's only one qualified T. R. specialist that I know of. She is head of recreational therapy at St. Brendan's, Bermuda's only psychiatric hospital, where I used to work. I have worked under her. She has a big caseload, since she has to work the entire hospital. Maybe the hospital will eventually add a second person, and it will be me."

Hughes, 25, started at Longwood this spring semester. She is the first international student in Longwood's Therapeutic Recreation program, which is the only such accredited undergraduate program in the United States.

Since graduating from high school, she had worked for seven years at St. Brendan's Hospital as a nursing aide. Her sister is the hospital's assistant director of nursing.

"I was a little bit interested in psychiatric nursing when I started the job," she said. "My attitude was, 'Let's see what this is about.'"

Now she wants to pursue a career in a psychiatric setting. "Once you get to know the patients, you see they each have their own personality. And you see a little progress in somebody every day, a little step forward."

Some mentally handicapped patients in Bermuda are being moved from institutions out into the community, and Hughes can envision a possible career in day centers for those persons.

"I want to work directly with patients. I wouldn't want to work in administration like my sister," she said.

Another possible career would be as an activity coordinator in the extended-care unit at the general hospital or in nursing homes, or working with senior citizens in a community center.

For the past year-and-a-half, she had worked part-time while studying full-time at Bermuda College. She earned 37 credits that transferred, giving her sophomore status.

She learned of Longwood from a friend of her sister's who, at her request, sent her a list of U.S. college and universities that offer programs in therapeutic recreation.

"I wrote to several of the schools. Longwood's program seemed better than the other programs. It seemed more specialized; some of the other schools, for example, had programs in recreation and parks, which I'm not interested in."

A co-worker who is the aunt of Longwood senior Ray Jones, a fellow Bermudian, also may have been a factor. "Ray's aunt works at St. Brendan's. She saw me looking through a Longwood catalog at work one day and said, 'Oh, Longwood? My nephew goes there.' I called him and asked about Longwood."

After Hughes had been accepted, she and her mother visited the campus last October. Jones, a two-time soccer All-American, showed her around.

Hughes is from Pembroke Parish, which includes the Bermudian capital of Hamilton. A narrow, fishhook-shaped island of only 21 square miles, Bermuda is 580 miles east of North Carolina. Its population is 59,000.

She likes Longwood's size and its friendly student body. "It seems that everybody is willing to help you. I also like the fact it has a Learning Center, which Bermuda College also has. Everything's been fine here."

"The Foreigner"

If you didn't get to see it, you really missed out!

By ANN RENEE HEIM

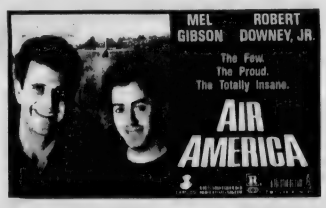
Larry Shue's The Foreigner was a hoot produced by the "Invisible Empire," headed by director Pamela Arkin, this past Wednesday through Saturday at Jarman Auditorium. As the comedy opened, Charlie, the foreigner, is introduced to Betty Meeks (Vernell Williamson), at her bed and breakfast/lodge. Charlie has had a pretty rough time lately, and he just wants to get away. As he pretends to be unable to speak English, Betty, an older, southern woman, immediately becomes his "translator," and is absolutely head-over-heels over her new guest.

Because Charlie "speaks no English," tongues become loose around him, "because he can't understand them anyway." As a result, he overhears many scandals which surround Kathryn and her learning disabled brother, Ellard, who are both temproary residents of the lodge. Kathryn (Amy Church), a city-slickin' ex-deb is engaged to be married to David, a sweet, pure-hearted minister. Right? Wrong.

David is a crooked clergyman, who has not only impregnated Kathryn four months before their marriage, but is also planning to use her money, unbeknownst to her, to finance the Klan. That's right, the infamous Ku Klux Klan.

Andrew Wheeler portrays Owen, the hickish leader of the Klan, who keeps the heat on David for the money needed for them "to start a new nation."

The only problem is that the money isn't actually Kathryn's. It is Ellard's inheritance money from their recently deceased father. Before it can be given to Owen, it must first be taken from Kathryn.



As the scenes unfold and Charlie "learns" English, the comedy heightens. The climactic finale suitably ends this hilarious play.

The entire cast did an outstanding job, especially Joe Servis, Charlie, and David Richards, who played Ellard, his partner in crime.

The special effects used in The Foreigner were fantastic. Some of the tactics such as the pulley-lift, exploding sparkpot, and an offstage explosion added to the life-likeness of the play. If you didn't get to see The Foreigner, you have really missed out.

S-UN Film Committee Feature Attractions

Playing on Monday, March 4 at 9 p.m. in Lancer Café, it's DUCK TALES & THE JETSONS!

Playing Saturday, March 9 at 8 p.m and Monday, March 11 at 9 p.m. in Lancer Café.

Poet To Give Reading

Longwood College's Authors Series will sponsor a reading by poet Vivian Shipley on Tuesday, March 5, at 8 p.m. in Wygal Auditorium.

Ms. Shipley grew up in Kentucky and, in the words of one reviewer, her poems are "strong on Kentucky, mother-love, and deep memories of rural life."

Other reviewers say her poems "have a rough, taut danger in them combined with some of the brightest intellectual reasoning we are liable to find in poetry these days. There is nothing of the surface, skimming thinness in these poems; they are of earth and inner soul and broken heart ... They arrive at the final wisdom: how love faces death."

Ms. Shipley is professor of English at Southern Connecticut State University, where she has taught since 1969. She lives in North Haven, CT, with her husband and three sons.

She received her B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Kentucky. She was president of UK's chapter of Kappa Delta, one of four national sororities founded at Longwood. Her Ph.D. degree is from Vanderbilt University.

Her books of poetry are Jack Tales, published in 1983 with funding from the National Education Association, and Poems Out of Harlan County, published in 1989. Her poems also are included in several anthologies and have appeared in more than 30 journals.

Ms. Shipley says: "Writing poems is like my obsession, perennial gardening ... For me, bulbs, like good poems, last the winter and multiply over the years. Then they can be shared with other friends to form new gardens."

Her poetry reading is open to the public free of charge.

WLCX 90.1 FM THE VOICE OF LONGWOOD 395-2475 REQUEST LINE

	MONDAY	TUESDAY	WEDNESDAY	THURSDAY	FRIDAY	SATURDAY	SUNDAY
7 AM-9 AM	THE DAWN PATROL Sean/J	MICHAEL IN THE MORNING John	MICHAEL IN THE MORNING John	I HR. PURE MEDICAL HELL Sean/J	MUSIC TO WAKE UP BY! Charlotte
9 AM-9 AM	THE DAWN PATROL Sean/J	A JOYFULL NOISE Thom	MICHAEL IN THE MORNING John	WAKE UP! Melissa	MUSIC TO WAKE UP BY! Charlotte
4 PM-5 PM		The 10K NEW MUSIC REPORT Heron				PICKS IN KOM Flo	STUFF TO LISTEN TO Charlotte
5 PM-6 PM	PSYCHEDELIC SOLUTIONS John	THE DEAD MEN PARTY CREW Shaun & Ed	MUSIC FOR THE MASSES Linda/Jon	HOUSE PARTY Mr. Rex	GET A LIFE Erin	YOUR MASS CULTURE HEART Ann	ONE MORE TIME Kaoru/Jolene
6 PM-10 PM	MAXIMUM METAL Rhonda	THE MOORE ROCK 'N ROLL SHOW Glenn	TAKE A TRIP WITH ANN Ann	A MUST ANYTHING Brad/Keith	TO TO ZERO Melissa	MY IDEAS Eileen	SEE JEFF DANG IT FOR THE 5 Wade
10 PM-12 AM	OH FEEL GOOD Sean	1000 SECONDS Ted	CRAVE ISM JJ	RINEGADE OF BLUES Wade	INTER-CHATION Sean/JJ	WHATEVER Jeff Cox	MICHAEL UNTIL MIDNIGHT John
12 AM-2 AM						JEFF Jeff	BUDDY PATROL Thom & Todd

El Cabrito's

392-4104 Mexican Restaurant S. Main St. Farmville

Come join us every Wednesday for College Night!

Checks accepted with ID!

-COUPON-

ONE FREE DRINK

WITH THE PURCHASE OF 2 TACOS OR 1 BURRITO SUPREME!

El Cabrito's

Expires 3/29/91.

ALL YOU CAN EAT TACOS EVERY THURSDAY NIGHT!

HARD SHELLS $3.59

SOFT SHELLS $3.99

ACROSS FROM THE HIGH RISES, BESIDE SUBWAY AT SOUTH MAIN AND PUTNEY STREETS

PE Majors Sponsor Dance

The Physical Education Majors Club will sponsor a dance to raise money for the American Heart Association. The "Dance for Heart" will be held on Wed., March 6, 8:30 p.m. – 10:30 p.m. in Lancer Gym. The event is open to the public and the student body; donations are welcomed. The members of the majors club will be asking for pledges and will dance for a prescribed number of hours for each pledge.

There will be free dancing to the music of a D.J. who will be playing a wide variety of music for all age groups.

Civility Speakers

(continued from page 2)

Education and National Development at George Washington University. She also is president of the World Confederation of Organizations of the Teaching Profession, headquartered in Switzerland. She has traveled to conferences in some 20 countries, including the People's Republic of China, Russia, and Japan.

Among more than 20 awards for outstanding service, Ms. Futrell has received the NEA's Friend of Education Award and the Creative Leadership in Women's Rights Award, the Medal of Distinguished Service from Columbia University's Teachers College, the John F. Kennedy Human Rights Award, and the 1990 Outstanding Educator Award from Wayne State University. Fourteen colleges and universities have presented her with honorary doctorates.

A native of Lynchburg, Ms. Futrell is a graduate of Virginia State College and George Washington University. She began her career as a high school business teacher in Alexandria.

Ms. Futrell's visit to Longwood is sponsored by the Francis Butler Simkins Lecture Series.

SPORTS

Williams Repeats As Player Of The Week

Danielle Williams

Sophomore gymnast Danielle Williams, who broke the school record for beam and logged the second best all-around score in Longwood history Sunday, has been named Longwood College Player of the Week for the period Feb. 24-March 3. Player of the Week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.

Williams totaled a 35.4 all-around mark in a meet at North Carolina Sunday and scored a 9.2 on beam, setting a new Longwood record. The 35.4 all-around mark ranks just behind the Lancer record of 35.45 set by Cindy Shelton in 1988. Williams' beam score tops the former standard of 9.10 set by Terri Dore last year.

In addition, Williams had Longwood's best score in all the other events. She notched 8.95 on vault, 8.45 on uneven bars and 8.8 on floor exercise.

"Danielle really performed very well, as evidenced by her all-around score" said coach Beth Evangelista. "She led us in every event and was very consistent overall."

Williams, who was also named Player of the Week a month ago, has been Longwood's most consistent performer all season.

Also one of Longwood's top all-around performers last season, Williams was Kentucky State Champion for Classes IV, III and II in her younger days. She also placed sixth all-around in the 1987 Kentucky State High School Championships. She competed in both the USGF and USAIGC Regional Championships as a Class 1. In 1988 Williams was a qualifier for the Junior Olympics.

She is majoring in physical education at Longwood.

Lancers Notch Three Wins In Baseball

Longwood, which notched a 3-0 record in baseball last week, opens its home slate this week, hosting Division II foe Gannon for a pair of games Saturday and a single game Sunday at Lancer Field. Baseball begins at 1:00 both days. The following week Longwood will face Bowie State, Lock Haven and Fairfield at home.

The Lancers, behind clutch hitting from Scott Abell, Mike Tucker and Terry Taylor, beat Francis Marion 8-4 Thursday and Morris 13-11 and 5-3 Friday before weekend rains forced cancellation of the five games scheduled for Saturday, Sunday and Monday in South Carolina. A twinbill at Allen Saturday, a single game at Francis Marion Sunday and two contests at the College of Charleston Monday were canceled because of wet weather.

In the win over Francis Marion, Taylor had a key 3-run double as Longwood scored four runs in the fifth to take a 6-1 lead. After the host team rallied for three runs in the bottom of the fifth, the Lancers added single runs in the seventh and ninth for the final 8-4 margin. Abell hit a two-run homer for Longwood in the second and Eric Hutzler collected a double and a triple.

Senior pitcher Dennis Hale went the distance Thursday for his 12th straight win over two seasons (he was 11-0 last year). Hale allowed eight hits, struck out four and walked five.

Tucker ripped a 3-run homer in the first inning and added a 2-run double in the seventh as the Lancers came back for five runs in the seventh for a 13-11 victory over Morris Friday. The host team held an 11-8 edge heading into the seventh, after hitting four homers. Bill Martz had a homer, and John Hutzler, Abell and Tucker had doubles in the seventh inning rally.

Matt Carlisle, who relieved starter Kyle Weaver in the fourth, picked up the win to even his record at 1-1.

Chris Mullins made his debut on the mound a successful one in the second game. With relief help from Hale in the sixth, Mullins pitched well as the Lancers won the nightcap 5-3. Mullins and Hale combined to limit Morris to six hits.

Tucker and Abell each had a double and a pair of Longwood's nine hits, with Abell driving in three runs.

WEIGHT LIFTING CLUB
INTEREST MEETING
MARCH 5, 1991
7:30 P.M. RM 203 LANCER

WINTER PLAYER OF THE WEEK AWARD WINNERS

Dec. 30 - Jan. 6	Ann Callaham	Women's Basketball
Jan. 6 - Jan. 13	Carmille Barnette	Women's Basketball
Jan. 13 - Jan. 20	Salene Green	Women's Basketball
Jan. 20 - Jan. 27	Kevin McSherry	Wrestling
	Keith Latimer	Men's Basketball
Jan. 27 - Feb. 3	Danielle Williams	Gymnastics
Feb. 3 - Feb. 10	Salene Green	Women's Basketball
Feb. 17 - Feb. 24	Mark Harris	Wrestling
Feb. 24 - March 3	Danielle Williams	Gymnastics

Catalinas Works Towards National Synchronized Swimming Competition

By JEFFREY CLAYTON

The Longwood College Synchronized Swimming Club, the Catalinas, completed their 1990-91 season in Richmond on Friday, February 22. This was the third and final meet for the season, and the club has qualified for National Competition.

This year's club members include a new faculty adviser and coach Ellen Brown, a 1986 Longwood graduate. Ms. Brown swam with the Catalinas in the 1982 thru 1985 seasons. She is also teaching a class in synchronized swimming here at Longwood. The captains for this year's club are Shawn Evans and Sara Hoback. Both Evans and Hoback started swimming for the club in the Fall of 1989. These two placed fourth in the duet competition in the January meet at Richmond. "I really felt strong after we finished the routine [in Richmond]," commented Evans after the competition ended. Hoback quickly added, "We're taking this routine all the way to Nationals." Rounding out the veterans for the club are Dina Dawson and Cynthia Morgan. Both Dawson and Morgan started in the Fall of 1989 and have formed another duet combination. Dawson and Morgan placed fourth in the February meet. "We'll see who gets the higher score at Nationals," Morgan added.

Along with the experience of the four swimmers from last year and a skilled coach, the Catalinas welcomed three new swimmers to synchronized swimming. Carol Melnyk and Karen Burgess are freshmen and Jennifer Markham is a sophomore. All three new swimmers, called guppies, joined last semester.

Everyone competed in the February meet held at Grenshaw pool on the campus of the University of Richmond. The Catalinas swept the top four positions (out of seven places awarded with ribbons) in the novice category. Markham took fourth place, Melnyk ended up in second place only .5 points behind Evans, who finished in first; only 3 points separated the Catalinas in this category. In the junior category, Hoback finished in sixth place, Dawson took fifth place, and Morgan grabbed fourth place. This category was a little closer; only .9 points separated all three of the Catalinas.

The National Competition this year will be held at the University of Arizona at Tucson. The competition will be held during our Spring Break, on March 21, 22 and 23. The routines that the Catalinas will take to Nationals are two solo routines (Dawson and Melnyk), two duet routines (Dawson/Morgan and Evans/Hoback), and one trio routine (Evans/ Hoback/ Morgan). Also accompaning the club to Arizona will be the coach Ellen Brown and the manager/secretary Jeff Clayton.

The Catalinas attended Nationals last year, held at Ohio State University, and placed twelfth in the nation. "We will defend our title," is the motto of the club this year. If you want to see the club preform, the next show will be during Spring Weekend.

Women's Rugby Club Plays Rough

By SARA PARKER

This past Sunday, Longwood College Women's Rugby Football Club met UVA Women's Rugby Club, a team whose ferocity resulted in several bad injuries last year, which was the last time these two teams met. Dina Covington, who played hooker last year and suffered a broken nose at the hands of the UVA club then, repaid them by scoring a try this game, returning to the LCWRFC as a break. Dina's try, and the massive effort of the entire team brought Longwood a victory they earned in bruises. The most notable bruise belongs to Helen Dennis, who got Longwood a penalty try for being high tackled by a UVA player. Although visibly stunned, Helen showed the character Longwood is known for, and finished out the game.

Longwood went into this game with several new players taking on important positions, and proving themselves valuable assets. The LCWRFC can look forward to an exciting (read WINNING) season this semester.

The next game is scheduled for Easter weekend, time and place to be announced.

And if you see the members of the LCWRFC, don't forget to congratulate them for playing harder and partying longer than any other team. And to the players. Longwood is the ————!

CLASSIFIEDS/PERSONALS

Daniel C. and Chris A. — Thanks for Thursday night. Let's do it again sometime. — From your two favorite buddies.

P.S. Good Flick wasn't it?

Kathy M. – You are doing a great job as AΣT prez. Keep it up! We are behind you 100%. Sorry you haven't gotten your official "L" pin yet, but you know how exec. people are. Tau Love, Elyse

Congratulations to the Alpha Tau Pledges – Janice Ockerman, Jenny Stell, Susan Johnson, Carolyn Blackmon, and Heather Sterling – on pledging the best sorority! Tau Love, the sisters

Jen – You are a great suitemate! Good luck with all the work you have to do and my door is always open to you – even after rugby games! Elyse

Suzie and Karyn – Watch out for Jason

Hey U – Can't wait to see a starry sky and some waterfalls! Campfire Girl(s)

To the Pledges of Zeta Tau Alpha — Anne, Jen, Melissa, Susan, Mary, Alison, Amie, Wendy, Michele, and Heather — You guys are doing a great job. — Zeta love, The Sisters

Debbie — You are doing a great job! I am so proud of you. Keep smiling! π Love — Your big sis

Beany — Having a little trouble with your laundry? Maybe you just need to grow.

Jeff — Thanks for sharing the popcorn. Next time not so much salt.

Lancer Baseball Team — Good luck! May you have a great spring season. Knock 'em out the ball park! — Your fan — Sharnise "Tucker" Hamlin

Roses are red — Fred
Violets are blue.
Closet's wide open
And waiting for you:
(Next time remove the clothes)
fuzzy pink slippers

Cox 228 — Spring Break is coming up soon! Get ready to work on our tans, even though I'll be at Daytona and you won't. I'll miss you guys, except Jen K., of course. — Amy

Get ready for safe sex this weekend! TKE's 3rd Annual Safe Sex Party! March 9th! Be prepared!

To the cast and crews of the Foreigner; You all did an awesome job. Your hard work and dedication paid off in turning out a great production. — D

Tara B. — Hi, big sister! I hope you have a great week! — Love, Amy

The Sisters of Delta Zeta — We are so lucky to be the pledges of DZ. You all are the best and we just wanted you to know how much you mean to us. — DZ love, Your pledges

T.B. and R.S. — Thanks for being such great friends. You're right we need to hang together more often. Thanks for the help when I wasn't too well, I really appreciate it. See you later, nappies! — A.B.

R.L.S. — I know what a great weekend this will have been with Daren, Paul, and Pete. Now we only have to survive until Spring Break! I'm watching you, so be good! Dana and I am guard! Call me next time R.S. is on MTV. No matter where you are! Who loves ya? — A.B.

Sport — Keep smiling, everything will work out. I think you're super! — Love Tudas

Janice – You are an awesome little sister, and I'm so glad you pledged Alpha Sigma Tau too! Remember I'm always here for you and you weren't beer-goggling– he was CUTE! Tau Love Always, Elyse

D.W.G. — "Yet another humbling experience." Glad we went on the trip, but it's nice to be back. Thank goodness you got off the record — I don't know what I would have done. I enjoyed sharing our new found revelations, and hope Mr. Hilton will be of help. Remember, there is no one else to fool, and it's lonely at the top. — Love Always, A.B.

Blue Moon — In less than two weeks, we will enter the world of sin. Memories will be made that will last forever. Until next week. — Skeeter

Dave R. — Thanx for all the help you gave me. If I get any part at all, I'll owe it all to you. — Dawn

Spunky — I look forward to Wednesday. So glad your leash came off! How does it feel to be unchained? — Guess Who!

Who Am I — I look like Homer Simpson's boss — Can you guess???

Congratulations to the new pledges of Delta Sigma Pi. We know you will do a great job.

Congratulations to the Big Bro's of Delta Sigma Pi on there Lil' Bros.

The Cunninghams Greatest Lecture Series will present "Is Your Non-Verbal Communication Showing?" with Dr. Nancy Haga on Wednesday, March 6 at 7 p.m., 4th floor South Cunningham. Body language and other forms of non-verbal communication will be discussed. Free refreshments available.

Help Save Twin Peaks! Write to: Bob Iger, ABC Television, 77 West 66th St., New York, NY 10023. Today!!

Wanted: Longwood Budwiser T-shirts. Need two X-Large. Please call Leigh ex: 3309

FREE SCHOLARSHIP INFORMATION FOR STUDENTS WHO NEED
MONEY FOR COLLEGE

Every Student is Eligible for Some Type of Financial Aid Regardless of Grades or Parental Income.

- Many scholarships are given to students based on their academic interests, career plans, family heritage and place of residence.
- There's money available for students who have been newspaper carriers, grocery clerks, cheerleaders, non-smokers . . . etc.
- Results GUARANTEED.

CALL BETWEEN 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. EST. 1-800-542-5174

FOR SALE

1984 Honda, 125 Aero scooter. Only 700 miles on motor, $150. Call 392-6561.

FOR RENT — 2 rooms to rent in Christian home. Call 392-5312.

Do you need a paper typed? $1.50/pg. plus title pge FREE! I'll need at least one week and your handwriting should be as legible as possible. Call Stephanie 3171.

LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE
OPEN 8-5 MONDAY-FRIDAY PHONE 395-2084

TRADE SALE
BOOK BARGAINS
SALE 25%OFF

- BEST SELLERS • FICTION • NON FICTION
- HUMOR • CHILDREN'S • SALE BOOKS
(DOES NOT INCLUDE TEXTBOOKS)

Sale good thru Friday, March 8, 1991

INSIDE: Hazing: A Mother Tells Her Story Bus Route Changes

CONTENTS

Editorials 2
News 2
Features 3
Sports 4
Classifieds 6
Personals 6

The ROTUNDA

Vol. 70 No. 14 | March 11, 1991 | LONGWOOD COLLEGE | Farmville, Virginia

WLCX Makes Changes For The Better

By Glenn Harrington

For those who have not tuned in yet, Longwood campus's own radio station, WLCX 90.1 FM, is growing in leaps and bounds. Next year the station plans to increase their wattage output enough to reach a radius area of approximately 25 miles around Longwood's campus. Presently the small ten watt station spans almost six miles — on a clear day.

"Our potential for growth is limitless," says WLCX General Manager Nicole Elliott.

Last semester, the station was forced to overcome several major obstacles to resume its operation. Besides being plagued by weak organization, WLCX had burned up several pieces of equipment, and thus faced replacing it.

After acquiring new equipment and electing enthusiastic new board members, the complete staff of WLCX began a promotion campaign to update and upgrade the station's standards. To prepare it for expansion, the new board began with revising the station's constitution and striving for a higher level of professionalism from its staff. This included individual Federal Communications Commission (FCC) licenses for all DJs, and a larger span of advertising being placed in effect. In addition to the usual schedule posted in the New Smoker and in The Rotunda, brightly colored banners have been placed around campus along with posters advertising individual music shows.

Special features have also been added to the otherwise music and news format. Every day at 8:15 p.m., a 15-minute TDK/CMJ New Music Report is aired, as well as a complete two hour report every Tuesday from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. On Thursday nights at 9 p.m., DJs Brad Owen and Keith Johnson cover the country new music scene with the special feature "Country Crossroads."

Photo Credit: Monica Gilbert

Longwood's WLCX radio team. Not pictured are the station's newest DJ's.

Also new are the addition of morning wake-up shows, 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. Mondays through Fridays, and Midnight until 2 a.m. shows Fridays through Sundays.

Spearheading this sudden amount of growth by " The Voice of Longwood" are the elected board members. Taking time out of their own busy student schedules, these dedicated members are leading the completely volunteer staff of WLCX into a new era of Longwood radio. Each board member has been instrumental in one point or more of the station's growth toward a larger station.

Junior Cathy Mapp is WLCX's Secretary, and the glue of the entire station's staff. She has been responsible for straightening out untold amounts of paperwork, red tape, and minute details required for the expansion of the station.

Junior Tina Gewerth is responsible for acquiring all of WLCX's news and sports information, as well as service announcements pertaining to Longwood, Hampden-Sydney, and Farmville. Tina also encourages all student groups to advertise their events on WLCX.

Junior Ann Colsch is WLCX's Publicity Manager, whose job is to put up advertisements around campus for the station's shows, and update the schedules in the New Smoker and The Rotunda. Ann's promotional ideas, such as the eye-catching banners hanging from buildings on campus, have been imperative to alerting the student body of WLCX's existence and pulling in a large audience.

Also a Junior, Kellie Strassheim has the tedious job of being Business Manager for WLCX. Besides being a tremendous asset with her accounting skills, Kellie has squared away a previously devastated account and helped to improve how the station's finances are spent.

Freshman Phil Murphy is Chief Engineer and in charge of maintaining and repairing the somewhat ailing equipment of WLCX. Phil's job is probably the most stressful, as he must nurse along the station's aged equipment until it receives new machinery next semester. However, his job is not just constantly tweaking and patching, for Phil played a key role in installing a new mixing board, changing the station over to stereo, and achieving a better sound quality for WLCX.

Junior Brad Owen is WLCX's Chief Trainer and is responsible for preparing all interested students to become DJs. Brad is also an enormous help in station organization because of his past experience with professional radio stations.

Music Director Keith Johnson, also a junior, has been extremely effective in organizing and updating the existing music library at WLCX. He has acquired hundreds of new and popular music groups to create a broader selection of desirable music within the station's collection. Keith has also had the increased foresight to purchase all new selections on used compact discs, saving WLCX hundreds of dollars and making a collection that will never wear out.

Junior Glenn Harrington is WLCX's Program Director, and accountable for creating the new morning shows. He is also responsible for making sure that DJs are scheduled for all of the posted time slots, as well as making certain that DJs are on the air for their designated shows. In essence, Glenn determines when WLCX is on the air, and that there are DJs there to operate it.

Nicole Elliott, also a junior, is General Manager of WLCX and the driving spirit behind the growing WLCX staff. She has the crucial task of coordinating all of the board members with the general assembly, and has been the single-most individual vital in motivating the WLCX team of DJs.

WLCX's advisor, Jan Evans, is another driving force behind the station's continued growth.

"WLCX is growing in leaps and bounds. We as DJs and community figures have the duty and the potential to bring the communities of Farmville and Longwood closer together, and to offer to the listening public something that other area

(Continued on page 2)

ROTC Cadets Participate In Drown Proofing

By LIZ RUSSELL

On Tuesday, February 26, ROTC cadets participated in Drown Proofing, a waterpool survival technique in Lancer Gym. The purpose of Drown Proofing is to test cadets ability to swim and to prepare them for advanced camp.

Drown Proofing consists of 3 stations: the low-dive, high dive, and general flotation. At the low-dive cadets were in full BDU's and boots. Cadets jumped off the low dive with a model M-16. At the high dive, cadets were in BDU's without boots. They were blindfolded by Scott Prickett and had to jump off the high dive with an M-16. The object of the low and high dive was to keep the M-16 out of water while swimming to the other side.

Cadets also learned general flotation. They used their pants and shirts as flotation devices.

I talked to two cadets about their experiences with Drown Proofing. Ken Dewitt said, "Walking blind on the high dive was quite an experience. And Carolyn Komich wxpressed her thoughts: "It was the biggest challenge that I have ever faced in ROTC. It was good experience and it builds your self-confidence."

Cadets demonstrate their ability to swim.

Longwood Enters Global Community

In their book Megatrends 2000, John Naisbitt and Patricia Aburdene write that by the end of this decade it will be possible for "a person to deal with a business associate in a Tokyo office from a mountain perch in Colorado, as if both were sitting across a table sharing conversation and documents."

"We are moving to a single worldwide information network that provides the capability to communicate anything to anyone, anywhere, by any form — voice, data, text, or image — at the speed of light."

How can today's students prepare for successful careers in that kind of 21st-century world?

Gaining knowledge about the technology involved in worldwide communication is important, of course, but even more important is acquiring knowledge, understanding, and appreciation of peoples and cultures that are different from our own.

During the 1991-92 academic year, Longwood students, faculty, and staff will have many opportunities to become better citizens of the global community. It will be the year of "Opening Doors to the World."

A coordinated committee of faculty, staff, and student leaders is hard at work this year planning an ambitious "internationalization" program that will permeate many areas of life at Longwood in 1991-92.

Dr. Sue Saunders and Dr. Vera Williams are co-directors of the project. It is partially funded by a $30,694 Funds for Excellence grant from the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia.

The Large Lectures and Cultural Events Subcommittee, chaired by Joan Mason, has established four emphasis weeks, with lectures, performances, films, food festivals, and other events focusing on a particular area of the world. The emphasis weeks are:

- Sept. 3-7 — Around the World...An International Sampler
- Oct. 6-12 — The Future of Europe
- Feb. 23-29 — Africa: Coming of Age
- April 4-10 — Eastern Cultures

Among major speakers being considered for these special weeks are a psychologist from the University of Leipzig in Germany, a television news correspondent who covers the U. S. State Department, a business executive who trains employees for the international marketplace, and a South African journalist who was forced to flee his native country because of his writings on what it's like to live under the system of apartheid.

Performances are planned by a classical South Indian dancer, an African music and dance company, and Japanese koto players.

"We also are working with the college's Lectures Committee, the Performing Arts Series, International Studies, and other ongoing Longwood programs to encourage them to participate in the global community theme for next year," Dr. Saunders said.

Films being considered include "Walkabout," the odyssey of two European children and an aborigine boy into an unspoiled primitive world in the Australian outback; The Magic Flute from Sweden; The Green Wall, a Latin American drama about a family's decision to leave the pressures of Lima to find a new life in the Peruvian jungle; Nasty Girl and Little Vera, contemporary films from Germany and Russia; Cry Freedom and/or A Dry White Season, both of which deal with the struggle for equality and justice in South Africa; and a film from Calcutta that explores the conflict between modern city life and centuries-old Indian traditions.

The Student-Initiated programs and Service Projects Subcommittee, headed by MaryKaye Benton, is planning a variety of incentives, contests, and awards programs to encourage student involvement in "Opening Doors to the World."

The first such contest will be a logo design competition, open to all students. The creator of a logo that best fits the year's theme will receive a $50 cash prize. The logo will be used on all publicity and promotional items during the year. Details of the competition will be announced in the near future.

Professional and departmental clubs, the SGA, Greek organizations, IM-REC, Student Union, the Residence Hall Association and Hall Councils are encouraged to sponsor events with an international theme.

"If an organization has a great programming idea but needs some financial help to accomplish it, we have some grant funds for that purpose," Ms. Benton said. "All they have to do is submit a proposal to my committee."

Among numerous ideas discussed by her committee are sponsorship of a World Hunger Dinner, adoption of another country or a college/university in another country, a used textbook drive for underdeveloped countries, a world religions fair, hall decorating contests focusing on holiday customs and traditions of other countries, and inclusion of sports from other countries in the intramural program and the Student Union rec room.

"Another great idea is to encourage students to trace their own genealogies to determine where their families originated," Ms. Benton said.

The Small Lectures and Research Subcommittee is offering funds for student-faculty research projects related to the theme. All faculty members have received information on this program, including criteria for research proposals.

This committee also is scheduling a variety of speakers, group discussions, and fireside chats, most of which will involve Longwood faculty and students who have traveled, studied, and worked in other countries.

"We are truly excited about these opportunities for student, faculty, and staff involvement and exchange in what should be a year of learning and fun! The committee welcomes additional ideas for speakers or events from all members of the Longwood community," said Dr. Williams.

EDITORIALS

Letters To The Editor

The Rotunda* reserves the right to refuse any future editorials that are not signed. We will not print your name should you wish it not to be, but the original letter must be signed.

To the Editor:

In last week's issue of The Rotunda, I wrote a somewhat humorous editorial about the horrid state of Longwood's Judicial Board. In truth, the problem is so severe that we must do more than merely ridicule it. It is my opinion that the Judicial Board needs an enema. The justice (I use the term lightly) the Board dispenses is an insult to us all. New rules need to be rewritten in a fair and constitutional manner. New members must be appointed who follow the goals of the constitution, "Members exist to promote the welfare of the College community." The board's present aim appears to be the desire to punish all who deviate from their standards. As with the Spanish Inquisition, there seems to be no attempt at fair play. The defendant is always guilty - You get a fair trial are found guilty and then hung. It is a strange sort of justice system where the best judgement you can hope for is probation. I have yet to meet the individual who has gone before the Board and been pronounced blameless. We are all guilty until proven innocent.

I have no doubt that this editorial will elicit a response from a member of the Judicial Board. I'm sure this person will chastise me for my ignorance of the system. But I have read the constitution and have found the statement of Purpose to be very dangerous. "...Judicial Board members shall serve to foster and promote appropriate behavior." Amazing! The goal of this body is not to aid in the development of students or to deal out justice or to protect the rights of Longwood students. They want to promote appropriate behavior. What exactly is appropriate behavior? The Nazis believed the Jews to be inappropriate, so they executed them. Has the student body of Longwood been scheduled for execution? Don't get me wrong, I'm not calling anyone on the Board a Nazi; I merely want to point out the injustice of the system. I'm sure most of the members are nice people, they are merely misguided. I challenge the Judicial Board to analyze themselves and make the necessary changes. If you are unsure of the exact problems, ask certain staff members; they would be more than happy to suggest certain improvements.

Burton

Dear Editor:

This letter is written in response to the recently published article concerning the gay and lesbian community. We, the Peer Helpers, would like to genuinely offer our services and resources in order to assist with initiating a support group for the gay and lesbian individuals.

The Peer Helpers are a group of students, supported by the Student Health Center and the Counseling Center, whom receive a semester of intense training on a number of issues that revolve around the welfare of Longwood's students. This service is completely confidential. If anyone would like to contact the Peer Helper's for any reason, please call 395-2657.

The Peer Helpers

Editor:

In the three years that I have attended Longwood, an event finally compelled me to speak out. Last month, while working at Perini's we were visited by Mr. James Reid of the State Fire Marshal's Office in Richmond. Accompanying Mr. Reid were two officers of the Alcohol Beverage Control Board. As in every other instance when the A.B.C. paid us a visit, there were no violations of the law on our part. The fire marshal made a quick count to determine if we exceeded the occupancy limit, which we did not. He then inspected the premises and pointed out several minor problems. The most heinous safety violation was that there was no occupancy limit sign posted at the door.

In the three years that I have worked at Perini's, we have come to expect an occasional visit form the A.B.C. and even the Fire Marshal, although not as often. A.B.C. enforcement is an important function and we do not look upon the officers as adversaries. I cannot recall a single violation of an A.B.C. law at Perini's. The Fire Marshal's job is equally important and the deficiencies he pointed out were quickly corrected. On his follow up visit last week, Mr. Reid found no violations of Fire Codes. What makes this particular visit by the Fire Marshal so interesting, is that Mr. Reid informed the owner that his inspection was the request of Longwood College.

Now, it seems to me that this request could be made for one of two reasons. First, and I must say the most admirable, is that someone at this institution has a genuine concern for the safety of students off campus. Their, extremely meticulous, well trained eye noticed the minor violations that the Fire Marshal had to dig to find. But while noticing the absence of the Maximum Occupancy sign at our door, they somehow didn't notice the Dining Hall and the Snack Bar, neither of which has these signs. While true concern is a great thing, recent Longwood history would suggest that Longwood would be better off worrying about their own building safety, than that of the private sector's.

The other reason, and one that is hard to imagine, is that someone just doesn't like the fact that Perini's and other businesses serve beer. In a petty and futile attempt, this person tried to harass the restaurant. It is true that Perini's does cater to a great deal of Longwood students as well as faculty members. However, I fail to see where Longwood's responsibilities include regulating the private business sector in an attempt to influence students otherwise legal behavior.

In conclusion, I want to make it clear that I am not speaking for Tony Perini or his restaurant. Tony has been a long time supporter of Longwood College, and I just want to go on record as saying that it is almost as if the College was trying to stab him in the back. His business operates within the laws of Virginia and the norms of our society. I do think that face to face communication is far more desirable than secretive and petty attempts such as this one.

Steven Clark

To the Editor:

This is in response to Officer Thompson's comment in the March 4th Rotunda article on "Security Doors Pose Problems for Many":

Officer Thompson:

I appreciate your concern for women and safety on this campus. However, to print in a college newspaper the statement that "A female has no business walking at night by herself" is an outrage. I am deeply disturbed by this macho, male attitude. I feel this particular statement is degrading and inappropriate to all females on this campus. As a female, I do have every right to walk at night by myself just as any male on this campus has that right. It is my business, my decision, and my freedom to choose to walk alone or not. Save the sexist attitude, the male superiority and let us work together on safer walkways, better-lit areas and a more respectful attitude towards one another here at Longwood College.

Norma K. Pfeiffer

NEWS

Hazing Victim's Mother Shares Story

Photo Courtesy: Greek Affairs

Eileen Stevens, mother of college student killed during hazing, shares her experience with the Longwood Community.

By ANNAMARIA MILLER

A mother shared her personal tragedy with the students of Longwood College during Civility Week. "Death by Hazing" was the title of the lecture sponsored by Greek Affairs on Thursday March 7. The speaker, Mrs. Eileen Stevens of Long Island, New York, is an advocate for discontinuing the use of hazing by sororities and fraternities on college campuses throughout the country.

Her crusade began not long after the death of her son Chuck who died from alcohol poisoning and exposure as a result of hazing by a fraternity. Although Mrs. Stevens was unfamiliar with the term hazing; it was not long before she learned its meaning, and that this was the reason why she lost her son. Through an outpouring of mail Mrs. Stevens soon came to realize that hazing was something that went on at many colleges and universities, and not just Alfred University where her son attended.

Since her son's death Mrs. Stevens has formed the organization CHUCK, Committee to Halt Campus Killings. She has also sought legislative help by soliciting signatures in order to get a bill passed to ban the use of hazing by Greek organizations. The Anti-Hazing bill was brought before the house on two separate occasions. The first time the bill was passed in both houses and vetoed by the governor. The second time that the bill came up it again passed both houses gaining more support and yet it was nearly vetoed. It was only after a star athlete lost his life as a result of hazing that the governor was forced to pass the Anti-Hazing bill.

The one thing that Mrs. Stevens wants to clarify is that she is not against Greek Life, but supports and respects the contributions that they make to the community and society. However, she feels that hazing goes against the principles and values that sororities and fraternities were initially founded upon. Although it is said that hazing helps to strengthen and unify the bonds of brotherhood and sisterhood, and builds a person's character; Mrs. Stevens feels that hazing underminds the purpose of Greek Life by destroying a person's self esteem and integrity.

In her view she feels that there must be some other positive ways of pledging potential members. The solution to this problem is not an easy one however it is something that members of these organizations should consider.

Mrs. Stevens' only hope is that someone will benefit from her experience and then she will know that her son's death was not in vain.

WLCX Changes

(Continued from page 1) .

stations don't. With the incredible amount of enthusiasm and growth that is taking place now, and will be taking place over the next few years, WLCX is undergoing a complete change of roles. We (WLCX) used to be a small, campus oriented station that catered only to a tiny portion of Longwood students. Next year, WLCX will be a major source of communal information for an area that covers several counties. This is what we are now preparing the station for — we want to put WLCX and Longwood on the map," Nicole states.

WLCX, "The Music Alternative," plays a wide range of music, and has virtually something for everyone. DJs play everything from blues, classic rock, dance, and hard core music, to progressive, pop, psychedelic, and variety music.

WLCX's hours of operation are posted weekly in the New Smoker and in The Rotunda. Students interested in becoming DJs can attend the interest meetings every Wednesday evening at 6:30 in Jeffers auditorium.

"We're finally going somewhere with the station," heavy-metal DJ Anita Owens sums up. "It makes me feel good to be a part of it."

WLCX 90.1 FM — THE VOICE OF LONGWOOD — 395-2475 REQUEST LINE

	MONDAY	TUESDAY	WEDNESDAY	THURSDAY	FRIDAY	SATURDAY	SUNDAY
7 AM-8 AM	THE DAWN PATROL Brent/J	MICHAEL IN THE MORNING John	MICHAEL IN THE MORNING John	1 HR. PURE MUSICAL HELL Brent/J	MUSIC TO WAKE UP BY! Charlotte
8 AM-9 AM	THE DAWN PATROL Brent/J	A JOYFULL NOISE Thom	MICHAEL IN THE MORNING John	WAKE UP! Melissa	MUSIC TO WAKE UP BY! Charlotte
4 PM-6 PM		THE TDK NEW MUSIC REPORT Homer				RICE'S SHOW Ric	STUFF TO LISTEN TO Charlotte
6 PM-8 PM	PSYCHADELIC SOLUTIONS Jess	THE DEAD MEN PARTY CREW Bryan & Ed	MUSIC FOR THE MASSES Lindstein	HOUSE PARTY Mr. Bee	GET A LIFE Erin	YOUR MAMS CULTURE HOUSE Ann	SIMI MORE TIME Kawmasuna
8 PM-10 PM	HARMAN METAL Rhetoe	THE MOORE ROCK 'N ROLL SHOW Glenn	TAKE A TRIP WITH ANN Ann	ALMOST ANYTHING Brad/Kevin	TO TO ZERO Melissa	MY WEEB Karen	I'M JUST DOING IT FOR THE E Maria
10 PM-12 AM	DR. FEEL GOOD Brent	NINE SECONDS Tom	CRANE ON Troy/Debbie	BRIEF CASE OF BLUES Wade	INTER-ORATION Brent/J	WHATEVER Jeff Dee	MICHAELS LATE, MIDNIGHT John
12 AM-2 AM						JO FF AGAIN Jo f	BUDDY PATROL Thom & Todd

The ROTUNDA
Box 1133
Longwood College
Farmville, Va. 23901

THE STAFF:

Editor-In-Chief
Monica Y. Gilbert

Features Editor
Lindy Seymore

Sports Editor
Charlie Fultz

Photography Editor
Judi Weller

Layout Editor
Sarah Whiteside

Layout Assistant
Deborah Wilson

News Editor
Christopher Jones

Business Manager
Anita Owens

Advertising Manager
Bradley Owen

Faculty Advisor
Barbara LaJaunie

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed or printed neatly. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is 3:00 p.m. Friday prior to the Monday publication date and these should be placed in the envelope on the Publication door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by midnight Sunday.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an American Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

FEATURES

Longwood Library: Through The Long Months

Photo Credit: R. Bruce Gantt and Judi Weller

The event has finally arrived. The new library for Longwood College is finally completed. Students have been hired to help move the books over Spring Break, so that all will be ready when students return. The following pictures show the progress of the building of the library from start to finish.

October, 1989

April, 1990

December, 1989

October, 1990

February, 1990

March, 1991

Roxbury Chamber Players Give Concert Tonight

Courtesy Public Affairs

The Roxbury Chamber Players will return to Longwood College for a Chamber Music Series concert on Monday evening, March 11, at 8 o'clock in Wygal Auditorium.

The concert is open to the public free of charge.

The program will feature a composition by Dr. Gordon Ring, a member of Longwood's music faculty and director of the College's bands. The work, entitled Three Movements for String Quartet, was composed in 1983 while Ring was a graduate student at North Texas State University. The first movement of Ring's work is in sonata-allegro form, the second is ABA song form, and the third is a rondo.

Other works on the concert program are Mozart's Quartet in A Major, K298 for flute and strings and Max Reger's Quintet in A Major, Op. 146 for clarinet and string quartet.

Members of the Roxbury Chamber Players are: Deborah Baker, viola; William Comita, cello; Helen Coulson, violin; Bruna Nasta, violin; David Niethamer, clarinet; and Patricia Werrell, flute. The musicians live in the Richmond and Washington areas. Ms. Werrell teaches flute at Longwood.

The Roxbury Players ensemble performs masterpieces from the past but also features the work of living American composers. Since its founding in 1982, the ensemble has commissioned and premiered 10 new works.

Three contemporary composers — Ned Rorem, Karel Husa, and Lester Trimble — have assisted with the preparation of their music by the Roxbury Players.

In 1988, the Roxbury Players released their first recordings on the Opus One label, featuring the music of Virginia composers Allan Blank and Judith Shatin.

The group has a summer residency in Delaware County, NY, where they have appeared annually since 1982. They have given several concerts previously at Longwood and perform frequently throughout Virginia.

Dr. Ring is a native of Missouri. His bachelor's degrees in music education and theory-composition are from Central Missouri State University. He earned his Master of Music and Doctor of Musical Arts degrees in composition from North Texas State University in Denton.

He was an instrumental music director in the Missouri public schools for four years. He taught and directed the bands at Culver-Stockton College (Missouri) from 1985 to 1989, and then came to Longwood.

Ring's compositions have won prizes in national and international contests sponsored by the International Horn Society, central Michigan University, North Texas State University, Christ Church in New York City, the Pro-Arte Foundation, and the National Band Association.

Funding for the Roxbury Players' concert is provided by the Longwood Arts Council, the Virginia Commission for the Arts, and the Meet the Composer Performance Fund.

The final concert in this year's Chamber Music Series at Longwood will be Monday, April 8, and will feature the Shanghai String Quartet.

Camerata Singers Display Talent At National Cathedral

On Sunday, February 24th, the Camerata Singers performed a concert at the National Cathedral in Washington, D. C. The 37-voice choir performed thirty minutes of sacred Lenten music beginning at 10:30 a.m. on the steps of the Great Crossing, following by the regular 11 a.m. service of worship, in which the Camerata Singers participated along with the famed Men and Boys Choir of the National Cathedral.

The a cappella program by the Camerata Singers featured nine selections based on appropriate texts for the second Sunday in Lent.

The Choir left Farmville at 4 a.m. Sunday in order to arrive at the cathedral for a rehearsal prior to the performance. According to Dr. Donald Trott, director, some seventy-five parents and friends of the singers were present to hear the concert.

Following the service of worship, the group toured the cathedral, described by Dr. Trott as "a twentieth-century Gothic triumph," and visited with members of the Men and Boys Choir, parents, and friends.

"This was an exciting time to have been asked to perform at the National Cathedral," Dr. Trott said. "They are having a year-long celebration commemorating the completion of the cathedral, begun eighty-three years ago. We really enjoyed singing there."

The program was recorded, he said, "to allow the students to hear and analyze how they sound in a tremendous acoustical environment."

The Camerata Singers have performed in two other cathedrals — St. Patrick's Cathedral and the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, both in New York City.

New Route For Red Line Bus

Effective immediately Red Line service will be providing direct route service to and from Longwood and Hampden-Sydney College during the hours of 11 p.m.-2:30 a.m. only on Friday and Saturday nights. During this trip passengers will have one stop at Hardee's. (As you know this is a favorite eatery during those late night hours.) Students are encouraged to refer to their Red Line schedules for departure times or if they need further information they can phone 392-RIDE.

In addition, Red Line service is now providing bus service to the Farmville Shopping Center on the downtown trip. Any student can now take the Red Line to Pope's, Paige's or Eddie's Supermarket. On their return trip students can catch the Blue Line or Red Line which will take them back directly to campus.

For any student going away on break using the Greyhound Bus, call us for information on daily trips to and from the bus station.

Dames At Sea: A Family Musical

Courtesy Public Affairs

Batten down the hatches and call in the Coast Guard!

Dames at Sea, a long-running musical with lots of singing, tap dancing, and a happy ending, will be presented in Longwood College's Jarman Auditorium on Wednesday, March 13, at 8 p.m.

Presented by Mac Frampton's national touring company, the play has a talented six-member cast, colorful 1930s costumes, dramatic sets, and excellent musicians. It is all-American family entertainment.

General admission to the play is $6; senior citizens, youth under 18, and Longwood employees, $4; Longwood students free with ID. Children aged four and under also will be admitted free.

Dames at Sea is a show-within-a-show. It centers around Hennessey, a struggling producer who has had a string of flops. But he's trying again, this time with a show he's sure will be a smash.

His cast includes Mona Kent, a big-name star with a hot-blooded temperament; Joan, a rather jaded blonde; and Ruby, a sweet, just-off-the-bus newcomer to New York.

Romantic intrigues develop between Mona, Joan, and Ruby and three sailors. When Hennessey's theatre is suddenly closed down and the cast is left high and dry with no place to perform, the guys suggest turning their ship into a floating stage. Mona uses her charms to convince the captain, and all is saved.

Except that Mona the star becomes seasick. In true Broadway fairy-tale fashion, Ruby the rookie steps in, becomes an instant star, and the cast sails happily into the theatrical sunset.

Dames at Sea is the final show in this year's Series of the Performing Arts at Longwood.

SPORTS

Women's Golf Opens Season In Orlando

Courtesy Sports Information

Seeking to maintain the momentum of a strong showing in the fall, Longwood's women's golf team will open its spring season Monday in the Peggy Kirk Bell Invitational Tournament in Orlando, Fla.

The 54-hole tournament (36 holes Monday and 18 Tuesday) will include Division I teams North Carolina, Stetson, Memphis State, Duke, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa State, Wake Forest, Purdue, UNC Wilmington, Jacksonville, Northern Illinois, Central Florida, Southern Illinois, Winthrop, James Madison, Penn State and host Rollins College, a Division II squad.

Longwood had a highly successful fall season, compiling a stroke average of 318.9 in five tournaments. The Lady Lancers, facing mostly Division I schools, beat 29 teams and lost to 30.

The defending National Golf Coaches Association Division II Tournament champ, Longwood is currently rated number one in Division II, but will have to play without sophomore Heather Hartwick this spring. Hartwick, who had a 79.5 stroke average for the fall, dropped out of school for medical reasons before the second semester began in January.

"We're going to miss Heather's score," said Lady Lancer coach Barbara Smith, "but, we'll just have to work harder to make up for her absence. This team has solid depth. I think we will continue to do well."

Schonauer In Top Spot

At the Peggy Kirk Bell event, juniors Ami Schonaur and Sherry Evans will play the number one and two positions. Freshmen Jo Lefson and Donna Martin will be playing at number three and four. Sophomore Anna Radford will play at number five.

In the fall, Schonauer led the team with a stroke average of 79.2. Evans' average was 83.3, Lefson 81.7, Martin 82.2 and Radford 82.4.

Longwood, as defending champion, is pointing toward the 1991 National Golf Coaches Association Division II Tournament May 5-8 in Lacrosse, Wis. After the Peggy Kirk Bell tournament, the Lady Lancers will take in the UNC Wilmington Invitational April 12-14 and the William and Mary Invitational April 19-21.

Dr. Smith got an early start on recruiting for next year recently when Julie Ann Wilson started the second semester at Longwood. Wilson, a native of Brantford, Ontario, Canada, won't begin playing for the Lady Lancers until next fall.

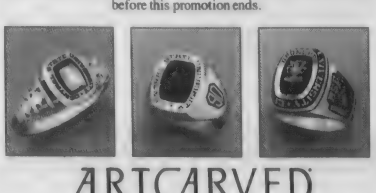
Smith feels that Wilson, a young player with considerable tournament experience, will help her team down the road.

Men's Golf Play At JMU Invitational

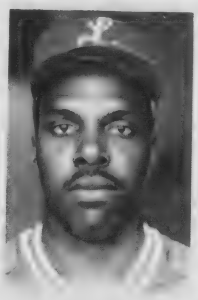
By MARK KIRK

The beginning of the spring season began this past weekend for Longwood's men's golf team, but the Lancers were only able to finish 14th out of 18 teams at the three round James Madison Invitational played last Thursday through Saturday at Caverns Country Club in Luray.

Coach Steve Nelson's Lancers had to deal with 35 mph winds on the first day while attempting to outduel a very strong field made up of mostly Division I squads from the region.



Unfortunately, the team's first round score of 353 placed them in a hole that was too deep despite rounds of 339 and 317 on the final two days. The Lancers ended up with a three round total of 1009, while host James Madison sealed away the victory by shooting 309-307-300-916.



Freshman Shawn Moore led the way for the Lancers with a three day total of 245 (87-81-77), one stroke ahead of fellow freshman Jimmy Ward who shot 89-83-74. Ward's final round score of 74 was Longwood's best one round total and included a back nine score of 33.

Other scores for Longwood were from freshman, Joe Stanley, 90-87-82-259; sophomore Craig Woods, 87-88-85-260; and senior Darrell Nichols, 92-95-84-271.

Longwood returns to action on Wednesday when it plays host to Hampton University and Newport News Apprentice.

Longwood vs. Hampden-Sydney in Intramural Basketball
March 12th - 8 p.m. Lancer
and
March 13th - 8 p.m. Kirby (H-SC)
DON'T MISS OUT!

Ring Sale
Save UP TO $100
Stop by and visit your ArtCarved representative during this special event. Check out our awesome collection of styles. ArtCarved will customize a college ring just for you with thousands of special options. Don't delay—see your ArtCarved representative before this promotion ends.

ARTCARVED
NO DEPOSIT REQUIRED
MARCH 11-13, 10 AM-3 PM
Special Payment Plans Available
©1990 ArtCarved

TERRY TAYLOR

SCOTT ABELL

Players Of The Week — Baseball's Taylor And Abell

Courtesy Sports Information

Junior catcher Scott Abell and sophomore third baseman Terry Taylor led the Longwood baseball team a 3-game sweep of Gannon last week. Abell and Taylor have been picked to share honors for the period March 3-10. Player of the Week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.

Abell hit a first inning, grandslam homer and drove in six runs Sunday as the Lancers beat Gannon 11-2 for their sixth straight victory. He also had a pair of RBI in Saturday's 6-2, 9-5 sweep of the visiting Golden Knights.

Longwood's leader in runs-battled-in with 15, Abell is hitting .400 with three doubles and two homers for the season. His play has been a key factor in the Lancers' 6-1 start. A graduate of Western Albemarle High School and a Lancer tri-captain, Abell led the club in RBI last season with 39.

Taylor had a pair of hits and scored three runs in Sunday's win over Gannon, but it was in Saturday's twin-killing that he did the most damage. In the two games he had four hits in six trips to the plate with a two-run homer, two doubles and five RBI.

The top hitter on the 1990 Longwood squad at .347, Taylor is currently batting .407 with eight RBI, four doubles and a homer. He was named Longwood Male Freshman Athlete of the Year after his strong rookie season.

"Abell and Taylor were outstanding in our sweep of Gannon," said Lancer coach Buddy Bolding. "They came through with the crucial hits. It was a big weekend for us."

Softball Splits Season Opener Against Mountaineers

Courtesy Sports Information

The Longwood softball team split its season opening doubleheader last Sunday, dropping the opening game of the twin bill against the Mountaineers of Mansfield University (Pa.) 5-2 and winning the second contest 8-3 on the Armory Field in Farmville. The Lady Lancers post a record of 1-1.

The Lady Lancers slugged their way into the lead in the second game spurred by a five-hit, four-run fifth inning. Designated hitter junior Christie Saunders punched an 0-2 pitch into left-center field to score pinch runner Ginny Henry from third base and Jan Philips from second to tie the game at 3-3.

As the rally continued a walk to sophomore Robin Jensen and a single by junior Cassie Mullinex set the table for Ana Litton. The freshman center-fielder drove a ball over the left fielder's head for a double, driving in both baserunners and giving Longwood a 5-3 lead.

"I was a little nervous about Mansfield because they are a tough team to open the season against," commented head coach Loretta Coughlin. "But I told our team that I thought they [Mansfield] were a very beatable team. Considering it was the opening games of the season, I think we played really well."

Freshman Andrea Wrenn (1-0) notched her first collegiate victory, allowing three runs on six hits in the complete game. The Mountaineers Tammy McCarty was awarded the loss after allowing eight runs off nine hits in five and a third innings. Tricia Masters closed the game, pitching the final third of an inning without allowing a hit.

In the opening game, a slew of fielding errors doomed the Lady Lancers. Pam Fitzgerald (0-1), while allowing 5 runs in seven innings pitched, was charged with only one earned run. Mansfield jumped to an early 2-0 lead in the first, added a pair of runs in the sixth, and scored its final run in the seventh.

"We were a little tentative in the first game," added Coughlin. "We didn't play poorly, we just weren't aggressive enough."

Fitzgerald, who also serves as the Lady Lancer third baseman when not on the mound, was tops for Longwood at the plate, hitting safely three of four times and drawing a pair of walks in the two games. Fitzgerald hit for extra bases twice, nailing a double and a triple in the first game.

The Lady Lancers host doubleheaders against Ferrum Friday and James Madison Saturday. Games Friday begin at 2:30 and 1:00 on Saturday, and are tentatively scheduled to be played on the Armory Field.

Men's Netters Fall 8-1 To IUP

Courtesy Sports Information

By MARK KIRK

Home court advantage did not come into play Sunday afternoon as Longwood's men's tennis team dropped an 8-1 decision at home to Indiana University (Pa.), making the Lancers 0-2 on the year.

Cold temperatures helped by a stiff breeze were on hand for the match, but that factor was unable to cool off IUP as they captured all but one singles match while sweeping the three doubles events.

Longwood's number three seed, sophomore James Whitetree, was the team's only winner as he defeated Rick Lundy in a tough three set match, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4. The matchup at the second slot was much the same except for the final result as IUP's Todd Gensemer pulled out a three set win over Lancer junior Hunter Reynolds, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Other results in singles matches were IUP's Mike Ese over Chris Healing at number one, 6-3, 6-2; Mario Gliozzi over Lancer sophomore Mike Cyrus at fourth seed, 6-2, 6-2; Kurt Albin over Longwood sophomore Kevin Jarrell at fifth seed, 6-3, 6-3; and Tim Dershaim over Lancer sophomore Eric Haupt, 6-3, 6-1.

In doubles action, IUP's number one team of Ese and Gensemer defeated Longwood's Healing/Reynolds combo, 6-4, 6-1; at number two, Lundy/Gliozzi downed the Lancers' Whitetree/Cyrus, 6-4, 6-3; and at the third position, Albin/Kurt Schevert were victorious over the Lancer duo of Jarrell and Haupt, 6-1, 6-1.

Longwood returns to the courts on Wednesday when they travel to St. Paul's for a 1 p.m. meeting.

Gymnastics Team Falls To JMU

Courtesy Sports Information

By MARK KIRK

Longwood's gymnastics team continued its muderous schedule Saturday afternoon when it traveled to the home of another top notch Division I opponent, but unfortunately the Lady Lancers were unable to bring back a victory as they fell to James Madison, 182.25-166.4.

James Madison's Sharie Murphy captured first place all-around with a score of 36.65, while teammate Missy Liposky finished second with a 36.15.

The Lady Lancers were once again led by sophomore Danielle Williams, who produced an all-around score of 34.6 for third overall in the meet. Fellow sophomore Beth Risley followed Williams with a total of 33.95, which placed her fourth overall.

Other all-around scores for Longwood were turned in by senior Natalie Taylor 33.65; freshman Laura Hill, 32.85; and sophomore Jennifer Bradner, 26.9. Freshman Marci Anzelmo participated in three events, excluding uneven bars.

Team best scores in each event for Longwood were turned in by Taylor on vault, 9.15; Williams on bars, 8.75; Risley on balance beam, 8.55; and Hill on floor exercise, 8.8. Taylor's score on vault is the second best in Longwood history.

Longwood will return to Lancer Hall Thursday evening at 7:30 to face the University of Rhode Island in the team's final meet of the season before taking part in the Virginia State Championships at Radford University on Saturday.

Women's Tennis Off To A Great Start

Courtesy Sports Information

Longwood got its spring women's tennis season off to a great start last Tuesday afternoon in Farmville, posting a 9-0 win over visiting Randolph-Macon.

Singles winners for Longwood, in order one through six, were: Jenny Holm, Suzie Lawman, Jenny Proffitt, Melanie Saunders, Kimber Bear and Jennifer Risko.

In doubles Holm and Lawman were victorious at number one, Proffitt and Saunders came out on top at number two, and Bear teamed with Heather Leach to win number three doubles.

Lancers Sweep Gannon In Baseball

Scoring 26 runs on 33 hits, Longwood's baseball team swept three games from visiting Gannon Saturday and Sunday to run its early season record to 6-1. The Lancers beat the Golden Knights 6-2 and 9-5 Saturday and came back to take an 11-2 victory Sunday.

In action this week Longwood hosts Bowie State Tuesday for a pair, Lock Haven Wednesday for two and Division I Fairfield for two games Saturday and one Sunday.

The Lancers got outstanding pitching and hitting over the weekend as Matt Carlisle, Kyle Weaver and Dennis Hale all turned in complete games on the mound. Scott Abell and Terry Taylor, named to share Longwood College Player of the Week honors, were the top hitters.

Hale tossed a seven-hitter, struck out eight and walked two while pitching nine innings in Sunday's 11-2 victory. The senior tri-captain, 2-0 for the year, won his 13th straight decision over the past two seasons. Hale was 11-0 last year.

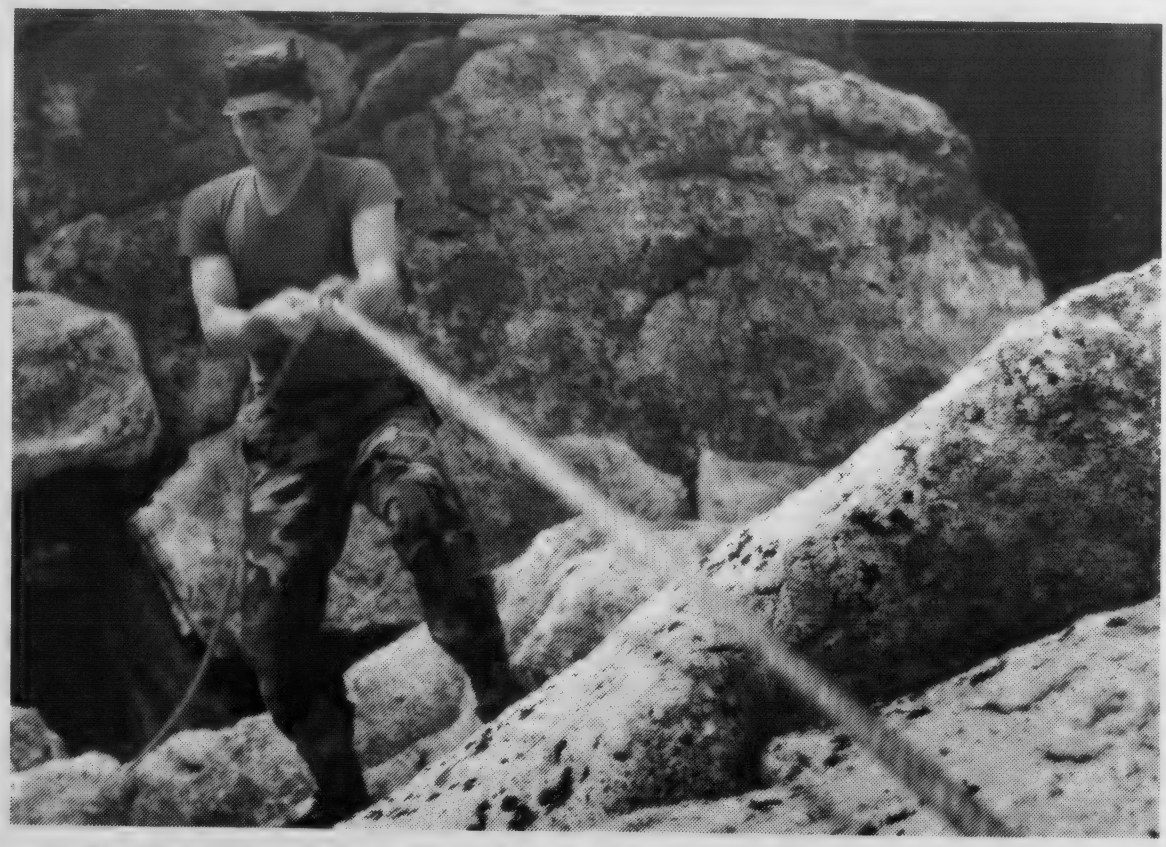
Abell drove in a total of six runs with a first inning grand slam, a single and a sacrifice fly as the Lancers moved ahead 5-0 in the opening frame. Hale had a shutout until Gannon got two runs, one unearned, in the seventh.

Also big in the Lancers' 14-hit attack were Chris Porter and Eric Hutzler with three hits each. Mike Tucker had two hits with a double and two RBI, Taylor had a pair of hits and scored three runs.

Taylor Drives In Five Runs

Taylor was also strong in both games Saturday with four hits, a homer, two doubles and five RBI. His two-run double in the fifth inning of the opener keyed Longwood's come-from-behind 6-2 win. Porter also had a pair of doubles in the game.

Matt Carlisle hurled a two-hitter with five strikeouts and no walks. The senior righthander gave up a two-run homer in the first, but allowed only a sixth inning single the rest of the way. Both runs he allowed were unearned. He has a 2-1 mark with an earned run average of 2.17.



In Saturday's second game 9-5 victory Taylor had a homer, a double and three RBI while freshman Bill Martz also homered with a double and two RBI. The game was tied 5-5 after three innings, before Tucker and Taylor hit run-scoring doubles in the bottom of the fourth as the Lancers took the lead for good with three runs.

Sophomore Kyle Weaver went the distance and got the win, despite giving up 14 hits (two doubles, 12 singles). Weaver, 1-0, struck out six and did not walk a batter.

Lancer Leaders

Tucker, .440, 9 RBI, 5 doubles; Taylor, .407, 8 RBI, 4 doubles and Abell, .400, 15 RBI, 3 doubles and two homers, are the early season Lancer leaders at the plate. Longwood is hitting .321 as a team and averaging 7.4 runs per contest.

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

YOUR FIRST STEP TOWARD SUCCESS IS THE ONE YOU COULD TAKE THIS SUMMER.

At Army ROTC Camp Challenge, you'll learn what it takes to succeed—in college and in life. You'll build self-confidence and develop your leadership potential. Plus you can also qualify to earn an Army Officer's commission when you graduate from college.

Army ROTC Camp Challenge. It may be just what you need to reach the top.

LEADERSHIP EXCELLENCE

ARMY ROTC

THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

Find out more by attending the interest meeting on March 27th in Room 209 Hiner, at 6:30 pm or contact Captain Gary Wittekind, 207 Hiner, Phone 395-2136/2134.

CLASSIFIEDS/PERSONALS

Spring Break Sale!

Tuesday, March 12 - Friday, March 15

Neon Imprinted Sunglasses..... Reg. $5.95 ONLY $3.00
Can Huggers.....Reg. $1.69 ONLY 99¢
Plastic Stadium Cups.....Reg. 75¢ ONLY 50¢
Coleman, 2-Liter Jug.....Reg. $8.95 ONLY $5.95
Plastic Squeeze Bottles.....Reg. $2.95 ONLY $1.95
SELECTED T-SHIRTS AND SWEATSHIRTS

Before you head off for spring break be sure to stock-up on all those needed items:

• PHOTO SUPPLIES • CASSETTES/C.D.'S
• BANANA BOAT SKIN CARE PRODUCTS
• AND MORE...

THE LONGWOOD BOOKSTORE
PHONE 395-2084 M-F 8 AM - 5 PM

FREE SCHOLARSHIP INFORMATION FOR STUDENTS WHO NEED MONEY FOR COLLEGE

Every Student is Eligible for Some Type of Financial Aid Regardless of Grades or Parental Income.

- Many scholarships are given to students based on their academic interests, career plans, family heritage and place of residence.
- There's money available for students who have been newspaper carriers, grocery clerks, cheerleaders, non-smokers . . . etc.
- Results GUARANTEED.

CALL BETWEEN 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. EST. 1-800-542-5174

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE ROTUNDA!

For more information:
Contact Brad Owen
Phone (804) 395-2120 or 395-3253

Box 1133
Farmville, VA 23901

Career in the Natural Sciences

SPECIAL DINNER PROGRAM
Tuesday, March 12, 1991
Virginia Room — 5:00 p.m.
(students go through line and bring food to Virginia Room)

P R O G R A M — 5:30 p.m.

ALUMNI "SPEAK OUT"

Biology —
Stephanie Frye '89
Lab Technician
Henrico Dept. of Public Utilities
Richmond, VA

Physics —
James Hackley '88
Civil Engineer
US Army Foreign Science & Technology Center
Charlottesville, VA

Chemistry —
Kathy Hansen '85
Technical Coordinator
Philip Morris
Richmond, VA

Graduate School Preparation —
Peter Breil
VPI Graduate

"Preparation for the Workplace"
Niki Fallis
Career Planning & Placement Center

Sponsored by: Career Planning & Placement Center
Department of Natural Sciences

-FREE-
PREGNANCY TEST
All services confidential.
Same day results.
SOUTHSIDE PREGNANCY CENTER
24-HOUR HOTLINE
392-8483

Electra Challenges Lockwood's Skills

By ANN RENEE HEIM

The Longwood Players are ready to rock and roll with Euripedes' Electra, their follow up to The Foreigner which was their season smash-opener. Directed by Dr. Patton Lockwood, the show was cast on Tuesday, March fifth.

Lockwood submitted Electra himself to the Players as a play selection. Lockwood said that the department usually tries to balance the number of plays from each time period, and it's been a while since he's directed a Greek play. "It's been ten years since I directed Oedipus Rex, he said.

The Greek theatre poses many difficulties, making it harder to direct. Lockwood is attracted to the Greek theatre because, "It's a challenge – some plays are just easy to direct, some even present ways to direct the plots. Each year I like to do a play that challenges me. The Greeks challenge me."

The cast consists of twenty-one people: twelve females and nine males, eight of the parts are non-speaking. Suzanne Williams, a junior, will play the part of Electra, her first role since that of "Joyce" in Top Girls, last April. Walter Alford, a senior who has also not been onstage in over a year, will play Orestes, the brother of Electra.

Lockwood enjoys working with new people, and this cast is full of new faces. Said Lockwood, "I like to get as many new faces up there as I can."

Many students have heard that Electra has been modernized. This is not completely true, as Lockwood said, "No. It's not going to be blue jeans and jumpsuits, but the language will be updated to colloquial American. If you modernize it and make it into a museum piece, it may be interesting to you and your colleagues, but not to an audience. It's a waste.

The show will run from April 17-20, at 8:00, at Jarman Auditorium. Students will be admitted free with a student ID.

The Rotunda Staff wishes you a Happy and Safe Spring Break!

We'll return Monday, April 1.

APO Big Bro(s) Staci and Careda — I hope you had a great weekend! I'm looking forward to our next get-together! — Your Little Bro

Catalinas (girls, Ellen, and Jeff) — Hope things go great at Nationals! Don't let your tail fins get out of whack on the long bus ride to Arizona! — CINCCX

Lancer Baseball Team — Congratulations on your victory over Gannon. Good luck and keep up the good work! — Your fan, Sharnise

An Evening at the Colonnades will present "Being an Agent for Change" with Brenda Cross and Sarah Young on Tuesday, March 26 at 5 p.m., in the French Lobby. A free Macado's sub dinner will be provided to all those who sign up in advance. See your RA or call Lisa Felton (3533) or Tina Gewerth (3390) for more information.

Margie — Kyrie! Chanson! You have to feel the music. — Love, Polly and Martha

Lancer Baseball Team — Congratulations on your win and good luck with the games to come. — Your fan, Christie

Charlie Martin — Congrats on your new office! Thanks for being a great sweetheart! — Love, The Sisters of Alpha Gamma Delta

Good luck Tuna! — Work that spades tournament!

Kevin — Sorry this is so late. Just wanted to say what a great New Year's Eve I had. Next time — don't party so hard! See ya in Key West! — Love, Dick C.

P.S. You sunk my battleship.

Julianna — You are an awesome roomie. Sorry about Venezuela. Get ready for an interesting Spring Break. I'm sure Elizabeth will provide us with enough trouble. — Lori

First Floor North — What an awesome hall. Keep up the great work. — Lori

John, Mark, R.F., and other guilty parties... — Balls, 6 to 7, or none at all.

Hi Elizabeth — So what happened again. And where did you go after SS? Just kidding — L and J

Molly — Key West means trouble! Then again — what doesn't? Can't wait! XO — Ho

IFC — Keep up the good work! — Steve

Panhellenic Officers — You're doing a great job. I'm proud to be working with you. — Steve Ho — Keep working those glamour-length nails! Can't wait for you to treat me to dinner in Key West! Have a good day! — You know who!

To the Alpha Gam "little girls" — Hope that life is going a "little" better for the both of you! Remember I'm always here for you two! I love ya both — Molly

Ken R. — I never knew that R.E.C. stood for really exciting cutie-pie! — Love A Secret Admirer

Karen Strawhun — Dinner? Pizza Hut? I thought so! — Love, Martha

Analisa — Hugs and kisses! Have a great day! — Love, Booba and Puss

Ginger Jar — What's you smokin' in dere? — Love, T.K.

Monica — Have a great break! I love you! XO — Martha

To all the minorities of Wheeler — Have a great Spring Break. From someone who cares and is among you all the time.

Dear Great White Booty Hunter — Who are you? Show yourself! — FLCBS EWGWB

The Brothers of Kappa Pi International Honorary Art Fraternity would like to congratulate our new pledges: Mary Davis, Shawn Grove, Jennifer Meeler, Diane Nestlerode, A.E. Reed, Jason Wood, and Gilligan Beland. Good luck!!

Attention!! — The Therapeutic Recreation Organization is sponsoring the "Family Feud" Game, for teams of five from campus clubs, groups, and organizations on April 10 in Lancer Cafe' from 7-10. $25 first prize for the winning team!! For more information and applications call Marika at 3126 or Shannon at 3200. All applications are due by April 1, to Box #1158.

For all your Hard Rock favorites, tune to 90.1 FM WLCX Mondays 8-10 p.m. Hear Van Halen, Whitesnake, Scorpions Warrant and many others. Request Line 395-2475.

What is light when dark?
What is dark when light?
What is cold in the summer?
What is hot in the winter?
In this conflagration you find security.
— CHI '91

Ken and Damon — I hope you have a great spring break in GA! I'll see you when we get back. Have fun and take care! — Dana Jen, Kenya, and Julie — This semester has been the best because of you! I hope you have a great Spring Break! I'll miss all the laughs and the fun. Have a fun and safe break! You're the best roomie and sweetmates ever!

The sisters of Zeta Tau Alpha would like to welcome our newest pledge! Jodi. You're doing an awesome job! Keep it up! We love ya!

Patty — You're doing great! Keep those grades up and remember that we're all behind you! — Love, The Sisters of Zeta Tau Alpha

Winifred — What's up? So, how's the new scam doing? Looks fine to me! Almost as good as A-Ron! — Love ya, Roomie

Trudi — Remember June is taking care of The Beaver!! — The Guys in Advertizing

Tracy — I'm so glad you're my mom. Thanks for all that you do for me. It means so much! I can't wait until we go to the beach! We're going to have a BLAST! — Alpha Gam love and mine, Beth Alpha Gams — Thanks so much for everything you've done for me! I really appreciate all the love and support you've given me! — Love, Beth Reynolds

Sheri P. — See you in jail! Can't wait! — Love, Jaime

Grandma Pam — I love ya: Have a wonderful Spring Break! — Alpha Gam love and mine — Grandchild

Julianna — Hey Big Sis! We really need to get together soon. I miss you! — Σ Love, Kristi

Taline and Robun — Hey guys. Let's get together soon. I haven't heard any good gossip lately. Bye! — Σ Love, Kristi

Hey U — Congrats on the Internship! — From the Green eyed monster

Amy, Beth, Erin, Jen, and Heather — You guys are the best roomies and best friends anyone could ever ask for. I love you all bunches. I hope our friendship will last. — Kristi

To the Pledges of Zeta Tau Alpha and Pi Kappa Phi — Thanks for the serenade! It was great! You all are awesome! Keep up the great work. — Love, The Sisters of Zeta

Shawn — You will always be #1 in my book. — Love you, Christie

Mike — You are awesome! Love 'ya! #20 — Sharnise

Ana — I hope you have a terrific birthday! I'm so glad we met this year. Thanx for always being there for me. You're the greatest. — Laura Mystery Woman — Thanks for the note, but it's Stephen not Steven. — Steve M.

If you missed Mishu The World's Smallest Monkey Trainer at the Cafe, catch him and his monkey "Jo Jo" for a follow-up performance in the cafe on March 13 at 8.

Congratulations to Jaime Shearls for being selected as a Traveling Leadership Consultant for Zeta Tau Alpha and Good luck to Polly Hathaway and Christie Meadows with their interviews this weekend. — Steve

The Cunninghams Greatest Lecture Series will present "Don't Shoot Yourself in the Foot" with Sue Saunders, Dean of Students. Positive communication strategies with faculty, administrators and supervisors will be explored. Free refreshments available. Wednesday, March 13 at 7 p.m., 4th Floor, South Cunningham.

Chris B. — What's up? How's your military apparel knowledge lately? Well brush up in Key West! — Love, Jaime

The Sisters of ASA — Learn the word. Excuse Me!

INSIDE:

Summer School

Minority Scholarships O.k.

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
News 2
Features 3
Sports/National News 4
Classifieds/Personals....6
National News 6

The ROTUNDA

Vol. 70 No. 15 | April 1, 1991 | LONGWOOD COLLEGE | Farmville, Virginia

New Library Open for Business

Longwood College has the newest library in Virginia and one of the best.

After a two-year construction project and a relocation that involved a specialty moving company, 18 students, and the Library staff, the building opened Monday, March 25, the day classes resumed after Spring Break.

The two-story brick and concrete building is on the southwest corner of Pine and Redford streets, between Lankford and Wygal. It cost $5,761,682 to build, and another $1.1 million for equipment and furniture. Construction, on the former site of a student parking lot, began in April 1989.

The new library replaces Lancaster Library, which had been used for 52 years.

Library officials are excited about the new library's spaciousness, its high-tech capabilities, and features they say enhance their ability to serve patrons.

The facility provides state-of-the-art technology for information retrieval from libraries throughout the world, as well as satellite reception of foreign programs. From dorm rooms, computer labs, or the library itself, students can access the Library's computer, pick a subject, and sift through data not only from Longwood's library but also from libraries in New York, London, Rome, or just about anywhere.

Users can connect to national educational research networks that tap millions of holdings and people at major colleges and universities worldwide. And through Longwood's Southside Virginia Library Network, some 16 public high schools, two colleges, and several public libraries can access Longwood's database as well as the entire Education Resources Information Center (ERIC) collection, which has about 750,000 articles.

"The biggest advantage is having sufficient space where we feel we need it," said Martha LeStourgeon, director of the Longwood Library. "In the old library, we had tried for a long time to create the impression that we had enough space, but it was a false impression."

The new facility has 71,000 gross square feet, as opposed to 48,000 square feet in Lancaster, and more than three times the reader space. Its most distinguishing feature is an atrium, lined with columns, that runs from the entrance to the rear of the building.

"It was designed to create an open, light, and airy interior," said Richard Hurley, vice president for business and legislative affairs. "I think it's succeeded; I'm very happy with it. It's an unusual design for a college library."

Among new equipment for public use in the library are 42 VTLS terminals, 26 computers, 16CD-ROM players, 7 laser/compact disc players, 7 VCRs, and three satellites, said Nancy Bell, who as Library bookkeeper coordinates acquisitions.

"We will be able to expand those services that we had been offering on a limited basis before," Mrs. Bell said.

The VTLS terminals are used for on-line searches of Longwood's database, and CD-ROM players provide access to the ERIC collection.

On one side of the first floor is the Circulation/Reserve area. A room containing Reference and Periodicals, which had been separate in Lancaster, is on the other side.

"The staff felt they needed to be together, so we can service them better to our users' advantage," Mrs. LeStourgeon said.

Offices for staff members and the Technical Services area, where all incoming materials are processed, also are on the first floor.

The second floor contains the General Stacks; books in the older Dewey Decimal system on one side, those in the newer Library of Congress system on the other. The Reshelving area is in a glass-enclosed booth on the second floor next to the elevator.

The new library has been the focus of much attention by Longwood's community.

Some 26 small study rooms, five of which are reserved for faculty, are upstairs. Each has different equipment, such as computers, typewriters, VCR's CD players, and laser disc players. Also upstairs are five larger study rooms, each of which has a CD-ROM station and can accommodate 8-10 persons.

Both floors have a large meeting room, with a smaller one next to it (two smaller rooms next to it upstairs). All five rooms have projection screens, blackboards, and computer hook-ups. Each of the larger rooms has a folding partition so that two rooms can be created.

A lounge and vending area is in a separate section near the entrance, and directly above that is a room containing children's literature and the curriculum lab for prospective teachers.

In the basement, which will not be used by the public, are Special Collections, where Longwood's archives will be stored; Mobile Shelving, where old issues of periodicals will be kept; and the Expansion Area, which will be for older, infrequently used books.

Mobile Shelving features an interesting space-saving device. Several dozen shelves, aligned flush against each other, are on rubber tracks; each shelf moves laterally when a hand crank on the end is turned.

All of the shelving is new. There are 10,888 shelves, as compared to 6,188 in Lancaster. Each shelf is 36 inches long, so the new library contains just over 6 miles of shelving.

Much of the shelving from the old library will be cut up, to reduce its height from 90 to 72 inches, and used in the Expansion Area in the basement.

The library has new furniture, plus refinished Windsor chairs and antique tables from Lancaster Library – some of which date to its opening in 1939. Other furniture has been re-upholstered; furniture not moved to the new library will end up in campus offices or be sold as surplus.

The new facility will provide better security: two gates near the entrance instead of one, rolling shutters that descend at night over the check-out desk, and cameras that scan all major rooms. It is much more handicapped-accessible than Lancaster, according to staff members.

The move was handled by Kloke Transfer of Richmond, specialty movers affiliated with North American Van Lines. It began as soon as Lancaster closed at noon on Friday, March 15. The crew, which consisted of 18 Longwood students and about a dozen Kloke Transfer employees, worked for eight days before finishing at 7:45 p.m. last Friday.

"The students have been quick to pick it up, so it's taken less time than I expected," said Jack Kloke, the company's president. "I've really been impressed by Longwood students; they have a great work ethic. I've worked with college students before, but these are the best I've ever worked with."

"Another reason it's gone so smoothly is Lydia Williams, who's been coordinating the move for the staff. She's easy to work with and very knowledgeable. It has been a pleasure to do this job."

The crew used special carts about six feet tall and four feet wide, each with four shelves. They moved an average of 200 cartloads of books a day, Kloke said.

Longwood Library's holdings total 828,552, of which some 256,642 are books and bound periodicals. "It's not difficult to keep all the books straight as long as you train your people to load the carts properly," Kloke said.

Nothing was lost or damaged, Library staff members said Monday. The fact the movers finished on time is even more impressive considering that an elevator in the new library broke down twice, requiring someone to come from out of town to fix it, and the elevator in Lancaster broke down once.

Even before Lancaster closed, preparations by the movers and the Library staff had begun.

"The secret to this is planning," said Kloke, whose wife, Beth, owns the company and also took part in the move. "There's a lot more planning that goes into it than you realize. For example, you have to build a ramp that's going to work. Our operations engineer was here for a few days, building the ramp."

Lancaster Library, which opened in August 1939, was built at a cost of $131,500. It was enlarged and renovated in 1962.

Mrs. LeStourgeon, a Cumberland County native, first worked in Lancaster as a student assistant during her freshman year in 1942, and continued working there her sophomore and junior years. She joined the Longwood faculty in 1948, two years after being graduated, and became Library director in 1972.

When Lancaster was enlarged in the early 1960s, the library was moved temporarily to Hiner. "Most of the collection was moved to the basement, because the floors wouldn't hold it," she said. "It was so cold in there we had to wear coats most of the time."

While staff members are glad to be in the new library, several said they will miss Lancaster, a Georgian-style building that many faculty and staff consider the most attractive building on campus.

Longwood plans to convert it into administrative offices. Those plans have been put on hold because of a State freeze on capital projects. The College will request $2.5 million in renovation funds for the 1992-94 biennium, Hurley said. The project is expected to cost $2.8 million; the other $300,000 will come from the auxiliary enterprise fund, which is generated through student fees and other campus activities.

A few minutes before Lancaster closed, Christopher Andrews became the last person to check out a book there when he checked out the biography, Lee of Virginia. The first transaction in the new building occurred Monday morning when Qishu Li, a graduate student from China, renewed Alfred Lord Tennyson's Idylls of the King.

Vice President of Student Affairs Addresses Students

Dear Longwood Students:

I am responding to some of the articles and concerns expressed through the Rotunda about campus crime and security at Longwood. We are fortunate in that campus crime at Longwood is not a significant problem. However, we know that we must continue to emphasize prevention and precaution as we strive to enhance safety and security in our residence halls and on our campus.

During this semester, two incidents have caused us concern. One occurred because a door in a residence hall was propped; another incident occurred because a student was walking alone late at night. In both cases, there was no major crime or personal injury. However, such careless incidents prompt us to conduct consciousness-raising activities about safety and security.

We have been taking precautions which include: distributing safety/security information to students; reminding students to not walk in risky areas alone after dark; posting signs about locking residence hall room doors and taking care not to prop residence hall entrance and exit doors; cutting bushes and shrubs; and moving reception desks in Cox/Wheeler/Stubbs. We take very seriously our responsibility to protect students and to warn students about potential problems. We are also emphasizing our expectation for students and others to exercise self-protection and to take our warnings seriously. Our new electronic-access control system in the residence halls is another way that offers security protection to students, with the expectation that students take responsibility for making the system work.

I believe that you should know our crime statistics for the past two years, and be assured that we are fortunate to have a campus that is generally and relatively safe. Our crime statistics are reported in accordance with definitions used in the uniform crime reporting system of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Statistics — 1989 — murder-0, rape-1, robbery-0, aggravated assault-1, burglary-1, motor vehicle theft-0, liquor law violations-14, drug abuse violations-3, weapons possessions-0.

Statistics — 1990 — murder-0, rape-0, robbery-1, aggravated assault-2, burglary-2, motor vehicle theft-0, liquor law violations-14, drug abuse violations-0, weapons possessions-0.

It is imperative that we strive to build our Longwood community so that all of us work together to keep each other safe.

Each one of us should be challenged to take responsibility for our own safety and the safety of others. I am always pleased to discuss all matters related to campus crime and security with students — and to work with students so that we can continue our record of a safe campus and community for all of us. Our Campus Police, Residence Education Coordinators, Directors of Housing, and Dean of Students are eager to be involved as well.

Sincerely,
Phyllis Mable

SGA Asks For Better Student participation

By PAM WHETSTONE

The president of SGA at Longwood College says students can "influence decisions" and "really make a difference" but students must get involved.

Shannon Gardner, junior, said many students do not know SGA meetings are "open to the entire student body." Students are allowed to speak during these meetings but only elected members are allowed to vote.

The main role at SGA is to act as a middleman between students and administration. SGA tries to determine what students want and pass that information along to the administration.

SGA also allocates money to each class and other student groups depending on estimated expenses for each semester. Money comes from student activity fees which SGA has proposed raising. Gardner said the current fee of $60 would increase $20 a year for three years. The increase in fee will allow more money to be given to organizations who plan to bring more events to campus.

"We try to decide what students want but it's hard to do without input," Gardner said.

She said not many students showed up at the meetings when this issue was discussed because "publicity is a problem." She suggested a need for "better visibility" and "better attendance."

She requested more coverage by The Rotunda, saying, "We want to be praised for the good we do and criticized for things we don't do."

SGA is involved with Mid-Winter's Ball, along with Greek Council and the Student Union, and parts of Octoberfest. Dr. Jim Crowl is the advisor and Zav Dadabhoy of Student Development is also "a big help."

Gardner stressed the importance of student involvement. She said, SGA needs "new blood, we need you."

SGA meets Mondays at 5:30 p.m. in Lankford Student Union in Conference Room 30.

ATTENTION ALL STUDENTS!

- Sophomore, Junior and Senior Class Elections
- Honor Board (5 vacancies)
- Judicial Board (10 vacancies)

Applications for these positions will be available March 27 - April 4 at the Information Desk in Lankford.

VOTE, IT'S YOUR RIGHT!

COMMENTARY

Letters To The Editor

The Rotunda* reserves the right to refuse any future editorials that are not signed. We will not print your name should you wish it not to be, but the original letter must be signed.

Dear Editor:

I was distressed to read Mr. Steven Clark's letter to the editor published in the Rotunda, March 11, 1991. It appears that I have been misunderstood and some facts have been omitted.

First of all, in Mr. Clark's letter I was quoted as follows: "Mr. Reid informed the owner that his inspection was the request of Longwood College." The truth is that the request did come in the form of a complaint from Longwood College, but not from College Administration as Mr. Clark indicates. In fact, an unnamed faculty member and two students submitted the complaint. It is the obligation of the State Fire Marshal's Office to follow-up on any and all complaints regarding violations of the Statewide Fire Prevention Code.

Secondly, Mr. Clark was obviously not informed that the lack of Maximum Occupancy signs at Longwood had been sited on the previous inspection. Prior to the printing of Mr. Clark's editorial, I was contacted by Chief Jimmy Huskey, Campus Police at Longwood College, to assist in determining the Maximum Occupant Load of the Dining Hall and Snack Bar. It has been my experience that Chief Huskey and the entire Administration of Longwood College have been cooperative and concerned with the correction of Fire Code violations at Longwood, even in light of current budget limitations. I have met with this same spirit of concern for loss of life from fire from Mr. Perini as well, and his cooperation is greatly appreciated.

I am concerned that it would appear Mr. Clark sees the State Fire Marshal's Office as adversaries. This is certainly not our intent in enforcing the Code of Virginia. If there should be any questions, or if we may be of further service in the prevention of loss of life and property due to fire, please feel free to contact this office.

Respectfully yours,
James H. Reid, Jr., CPCA, CFI
Code Supervisor
STATE FIRE MARSHAL — CENTRAL

Dear Editor:

Fast approaching is "Greek Week" and all the festivities on the Hampden-Sydney campus. In our attempt to provide safe transportation for college students the Farmville Area Bus is extending hours of service on April 5th (Friday) and April 6th (Saturday) only until 4:30 AM.

During the extended hours the Farmville Area Bus will stop at both Longwood College and Hampden-Sydney College and in between stop only at Hardees. This service I am aiming at being quick and easy. More importantly I feel the bus service will provide a safe mode of travel during this exciting weekend.

Michael J. Socha
Transit Superintendent

Dear Rotunda Editorial Staff:

Your commitment to the high standards of professional journalism has permitted your college newspaper to be a vehicle of expression for an otherwise oppressed campus minority, the gay and lesbian students. Your decision to print in your editorial column some of the concerns of students regarding that issue has had far-reaching effects, for the newly-organized gay and lesbian support group on this campus is attended by members of the Hampden-Sydney campus community as well.

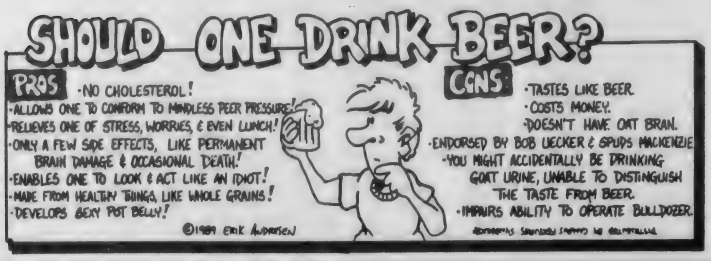
Thank you for your assistance in meeting a need within the two campus communities. Persons interested in membership in the Gay and Lesbian Support Group may contact the Counseling services at 2409 for more information.

Dr. Marcia Shelton
Counseling Services

Dear Editor:

I am one of the last renegades in a literally dying breed. I am a smoker. For the past five years of my life smoking has been a part of my every day existence. When I first started I really enjoyed it and I still like the sensation. I think smoking made me feel older and more sophisticated like those long and lean ladies in the cigarette ads. Once I looked in the mirror at myself with the smoke curling from my lips like an obscene cloud of factory fog and was frightened: I looked more like a coiled dragon in one of the Knights' tales.

For whatever reasons I still have locked inside my stubborn head, every other day I trudge up to Par Bil's for that proverbial "last pack of cigarettes." Every time I lay that dollar and eighty cents up on the counter, I feel a fresh wave of guilt come over me. That's my mother's money that she gave me to buy school supplies.



I know I should stop and I don't appreciate people nagging me to quit. It's always in the back of my mind that what I'm doing now could greatly effect just how long of a stay I have here on earth. But every time one of my friends begs me to stop it sounds like a sped up recording of a Chipmunks song - annoying and overlong.

I also despise the legions of snobby girls and cocky guys who snarl at me when they see me smoking in the hall. These same people, when drunk beyond recognition on Thursday nights, do not hesitate to ask me for a cigarette. Next time don't bother to ask. Bring your own.

I'm not ready to quit yet. I haven't quite come to terms with my mortality. But when I do, call me reformed.

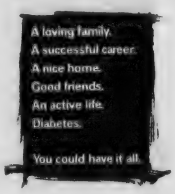
Name withheld by Request

NEWS

VA Tech Offers Summer Program

Pending funding from the United States Department of Education, The Department of History at Virginia Tech will offer a 1991 summer program to encourage minorities to attend graduate school in history and to help them develop some of the skills essential for success in graduate school.

Under a grant from the Department of Education, the university will offer the program during its first summer session May 13-June 26, according to Burton Kaufman, head of the department of History. The program is open to college sophomore and junior students majoring in history or a related discipline.



The program consists of two courses: Historiography, historical thinking and logic and Research Seminar/Tutorial, an independent study, under the close direction of a faculty member, designed to assist students in solving specific problems in their own research and to assist students will professional writing and career planning. Each course will carry transfer credit toward a graduate degree.

The grant will cover participants' tuition, room and board, books, one round-trip transportation fare to Blacksburg and a generous stipend so that students need not worry that participation in the program will jeopardize their ability to work during the summer. In addition, participants who complete the program will be guaranteed admission to Virginia Tech's graduate history program after they have earned an undergraduate degree.

Members of the History Department have application forms and further information. You may also contact Daniel Thorp or Linda Harris in Virginia Tech's Department of History at (703) 231-5331.

By the President Of The United States A Proclamation

NOW, THEREFORE, I, GEORGE BUSH, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim April 5-7, as National Days of Thanksgiving. I ask that Americans gather in homes and places of worship to give thanks to Almighty God for the liberation of Kuwait, for the blessings of peace and liberty, for our troops, our families, and our Nation. In addition, I direct that the flag of the United States be flown on all government buildings. I urge all Americans to display the flag, and I ask that bells across the country be set ringing at 3 p.m. (eastern daylight savings time) on April 7, in celebration of the liberation of Kuwait and the end of hostilities in the Persian Gulf.

Diabetes is devious. Six million people have it. Another five million probably have it and don't know it.

You can have it without having the typical symptoms: blurred vision. Unquenchable thirst. Frequent urination. Rapid weight loss. Untreated, diabetes can result in blindness, heart disease, kidney failure and even death.

That's why everyone should take the blood sugar test. Especially if you have a family history of diabetes. Or if you are over 50. Or if you're black or hispanic. Or pregnant. Or if you've given birth to a baby weighing over nine pounds.

The good news is, when most types of diabetes are detected early, there are usually simple treatments that don't require insulin. Like diet and exercise.

So the next time you see a doctor, ask about diabetes and take the blood sugar test. Then ask for your score and find out what it means. Then you'll really have it all. Because you'll have peace of mind.

DIABETES
Take the test. Know the score.
American Diabetes Association.

ROTC Cadets Visit Site of Great Battle

By KEN DeWITT

In July of 1863, great sacrifices were made at the small Pennsylvania town of Gettysburg which decided the fate of our nation. On March 1st through, 3rd, the South rose up again when Longwood ROTC Cadets, Jason Turner, James Tierney, Holly Rodgers, Trent Davis, Kristie Hirsch, Andrea Wrenn, Jennifer Nabors and Mike Morrell took a step back through time and "invaded" Gettysburg. Gettysburg is one of the best preserved battlefields from the Civil War. This allowed the Cadets to walk the same ground and to see the same things that Robert E. Lee, James Longstreet, George Pickett and George Meade saw.

Longwood Students Going to Gettysburg Include: (Pictured from left to right) Jennifer Nabors, Jason Turner, Mike Morrell, James Tierney, Holly Rogers, Kristine Hirsch, Trent Davis, and Andrea Wrenn.

By doing this, they were able to get a better insight into why these great leaders made their decisions during those fateful days. Jennifer Nabors said, "At Pickett's charge you could actually picture the events that took place and the suffering that occurred." Kristie Hirsch echoed these sentiments by saying, "I enjoyed crossing the fields where Pickett's Charge took place. It was exciting to walk where the soldiers did!" Trent Davis added, "It was ironic to feel the peace and tranquility of the battlefield as we heard of the chaos that had happened there." The Longwood Cadets came away from Gettysburg with more than a better understanding of the battle, but a greater appreciation for the sacrifices made by our ancestors during the Civil War. I think Abraham Lincoln's words best express the feelings the Cadets felt, "The world ill little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they (the soldiers) did here."

The ROTUNDA
Box 1133
Longwood College
Farmville, Va. 23901

THE STAFF:

Editor-In-Chief
Monica Y. Gilbert

Features Editor
Lindy Seymore

Sports Editor
Charlie Fultz

Photography Editor
Judi Weller

Layout Editor
Sarah Whiteside

Layout Assistant
Deborah Wilson

News Editor
Christopher Jones

Business Manager
Anita Owens

Advertising Manager
Bradley Owen

Faculty Advisor
Barbara LaJaunie

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed or printed neatly. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is 3:00 p.m. Friday prior to the Monday publication date and these should be placed in the envelope on the Publication door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by midnight Sunday.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an American Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

FEATURES

Longwood Company of Dancers Present Spring Concert

The 1990-91 Longwood Company of Dancers. Next concert will be April 25th and 26.

For over 18 years the Longwood College Company of Dancers have been the only artistic performing dance group at the college. The dance company is sponsored by the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

The Longwood College Company of Dancers presents two concerts each school year. The Fall concert is usually an informal studio concert, as it was this year, and a longer formal concert in the Spring in Jarman Auditorium. This semester the concert will be held on April 25 and 26 at 7:30 p.m. and it is free to all students, faculty, staff and the community. Jill Hartt, a former dance company member, will be a guest performer in the Spring Concert. This Spring the members of the dance company are Betsy Gee, Karla Marotta, Kerensa Mohney, Angie Sawyer, Fran Siebert, Niki Smith, Allison Thompson, and Larry Wylie and are under the direction of Dr. Nelson Neal. These dance company members plus advanced modern dance students, Julianna Hardy, Lisa Kesterson, Keri Ramsden, who are trying out for the company, work one and a half hours, three days per week in technique class where they polish their craft. They also spend from one to five hours outside of class preparing their choreography and learning the dances that will be performed in concert. The dancers train in modern dance but perform a variety of styles including modern, ballet, character, folk, tap, and jazz dance.

The goals of the dance company are to promote the art of dance within the college and Farmville, to increase viewer interest in dance, and present quality college level dance performances. The dance company members also assist Dr. Neal in teaching dance to children in public schools.

Auditions for the Dance Company are held at the beginning of each semester and all interested students are encouraged to call Dr. Neal at 395-2547 or contact one of the members for information.

Summer School Offers Time to Relax and Study

By Dr. Ed Smith

Summertime ...

and the living is easy. As we come to the close of spring semester, I'd like to ask you something: Why not spend this summer, or at least a part of it, at Longwood?

Why? Well, for one thing, you could spend your time in leisurely study of a favorite subject, perhaps a course or two you've wanted to take, but never had the space in your schedule.

If Plato by the pool isn't your thing, how about the archeology dig (one of our most popular summer offerings), or a walk in the woods with field botany, or a crafts class, or tennis, swimming, advertising, British literature, developmental psychology, American history, or one of a hundred others.

Then again, this might be just the time to tackle that troublesome required course that you've been putting off. It should be easier to manage when you take it singly, or with a sole companion course. You might thank yourself for it later, when you've lightened your senior year.

Or it might be the time to catch up on credit hours after that bad semester you had as a freshman — and a chance to pull up the old GPA. Don't forget that if you fail a class here you have to re-take it here to replace that F in the calculation of your GPA. Also, transfer hours count towards graduation but the grades don't count on your GPA. Your cumulative GPA is calculated only on work taken at Longwood.

Also, remember that students suspended at the end of spring semester may not take courses at Longwood during the summer.

You could stay for just the three week interim session, take a course and be out of here by June 7 — short and sweet. Or you could stay through the end of the second session and be done by mid-July. Or, stay for all three sessions, be finished by August 9, accomplish a lot, and still have time for a vacation before the fall semester.

So, what else is there to do?

You could play racketball, basketball, tennis, or golf, pump iron in the weight room, jog or bike down country roads, bask by the pool, go to the lake, go tubing, go camping, go bowling, play coed softball or volleyball in the evenings, and generally take it easy, hang out, and have fun. (It sounds like a country club to me — you'd pay big bucks for these opportunities anywhere else.) You might also find time to read and study and think.

Whom could you do it with? Will you know anyone else?

Well, to make sure you had pleasant company, you might stack the deck. What if some of your pals were here too? Could you have fun, or what?

Talk to your friends about summertime at Longwood. It could just be the best summer you've ever had.

Shanghai Quartet Makes Second Appearance

The Shanghai Quartet will present its second concert at Longwood College on Monday, April 8, at 8 p.m. in Wygal Auditorium.

The concert is this year's final one in the Chamber Music Series at Longwood. The public is invited to attend the concert and reception following it free of charge.

Members of the Shanghai Quartet are violinists Weigang Li and Honggang Li (brothers), violist Zheng Wang, and cellist James Wilson.

Their program at Longwood will feature string quartets by Mozart, Schumann, and Samuel Barber.

The Chinese members of the group all studied at the Shanghai Conservatory, where the quartet was formed in 1983. After winning second place at the Portsmouth International Quartet Competition, the ensemble came to the U.S. and won the prestigious Chicago Discovery Competition.

Since its New York debut at Town Hall in 1987, the Shanghai Quartet has been hailed by the press and the public as one of the leading quartets of the present generation. The New York Times critic wrote: "For poetry, intelligence, and musical sympathy, the Shanghai Quartet counts among the finest young foursomes of the day."

In residence at the University of Richmond for the second year, the Quartet's current season includes 50 concerts from coast to coast. They also have performed in recent years in Canada, Brazil, Australia, Germany, Italy, and Korea.

The quartet has been ensemble-in-residence at the Tanglewood and Ravinia Festivals and has appeared on three occasions at Lincoln Center's Mostly Mozart Festival.

This summer the quartet will be in residence at the Hampden-Sydney Music Festival.

The Shanghai Quartet are scheduled for their final concert April 8.

The Bulletin Board

The following information is courtesy of Public Affairs and The Office of Career Planning and Placement.

Do you want to work for a large corporation when you graduate? Have you ever visited one to get a "feel" for the corporate environment? Well, CPPC is planning a visit to Reynolds Metals for interested students on Thursday, April 11, 1991. Group will depart at 8:30 a.m. and return by 3 p.m. Transportation will be provided. Come sign-up by Tuesday, April 2 — space is limited.

The Music Department will be holding auditions for next year's production of "Amahl and the Night Visitors" on April 23 at 6 p.m. in Wygal Music Building. The opera calls for six major roles including: Amahl-soprano, the Mother-soprano, King Kaspar-tenor, King Melchior-baritone, King Balthazar-bass, and the Page-bass. There will also be a supporting chorus of shepherds. For more information and music for the audition, please contact Dr. Trott in Wygal, Office 3 or by calling 2500. All persons interested must pick up music to be learned for the April 23rd auditions.

Beginning April 1, individuals wishing to play golf on the weekends or holidays at the Longwood Golf Course will be required to reserve a tee time. Tee times may be made by calling the Pro Shop (#2613) twenty-four hours in advance of when needed.

Effective April 1, the dress code for play at the Golf Course will be enforced. Specifically, no tank tops will be allowed; all shirts must have sleeves; shorts will be allowed but length must come to midthigh.

The Cunninghams greatest lecture series, in cooperation with the International Studies House, will present the final program of the year: "Europe on a Shoestring" with Sue Saunders, Dean of Students and Don Stuart, V.P. for Academic Affairs. This presentation will offer tips for low-budget travel in Central Europe. Slides of Germany, Czechoslavakia and Hungary will be featured! Tuesday, April 2, 7 p.m., 4th floor, South Cunningham.

A representative from the U.S. Office of Personnel Management will be speaking at Lynchburg College on Wed., April 10, to explain government employment. CPPC is sponsoring a trip to Lynchburg for Longwood students to hear the presentation. Students wishing to attend should come sign-up at CPPC by Wed., April 3, 1991. Group will leave at 9:45 a.m. and return by 2 p.m. In addition, the CPPC Career Library has information concerning the federal government exams (ACWA) and the federal career directory that lists all federal agencies and departments. Come to CPPC and look over this information.

Make your classes easier by helping yourself to SMART (Student Managed Academic Residential Tutoring). Whether you need a tutor or study companions, we can help! Study sessions are being offered throughout this semester on 4th floor, South Cunningham. Check the SMART bulletin board in the New Smoker for information about study groups already formed or to start your own group. If you have any questions, please contact Roger Hanna - 3002 or Scott Lissner - 2391.

"The faculty library committee and library staff cordially invite the administration, faculty, staff, and students to an Open House in the new Library to be held on Tuesday, April 2, 2 to 4 p.m."

A recruiter from the FBI will present employment information and answer questions on Wed., April 3, 2:30 p.m., CPPC. All students welcome.

Students interested in auditioning for the Camerata Singers for fall/1991 should contact Dr. Don Trott at 395-2500 to set-up an audition time. All students serious about choral singing are encouraged to try-out. Students who were members of Camerata Singers in past semesters are welcomed to sing-up without an audition necessary. Auditions for new members will take place during the Pre-Registration period of March 27 through April 18.

The Lancer Edition Show Choir will hold auditions for new members on Tuesday, April 2 and 9 at 8 p.m. in Wygal Recital Hall. All students interested should show up prepared to sing and imitate some choreography. For more information, call 2500.

Dr. "Flash" Blaunelt, physical education professor here at Longwood, will shave his beard for the first time if Delta Psi Kappa, the honorary fraternity for physical education raises 200 dollars! Delta Psi Kappa asks you, the student body, to help. Please donate any loose change to Mrs. Flowers, in the P.E. Department Secretary's Office or mail donations to Delta Psi Kappa, Box 915. — Thanks for your support. The members of Delta Psi Kappa

STEVEN SEAGAL
IS...
MARKED FOR DEATH
R
PLAYING TONIGHT AT 9 PM IN THE GOLD ROOM!
NEXT WEEKEND:
"THREE MEN AND A LITTLE LADY"

States Take on NCAA

(CPS) State politicians joined the college sports reform movement in recent weeks.

Legislators in at least three states, some angry about the way the powerful National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) has treated schools in their districts, introduced bills that would excuse local campuses from following some NCAA rules.

Supporters of bills in Nebraska, Nevada and Colorado say certain NCAA rules abuse college athletes and coaches.

"They really don't do their jobs very well," Nevada Sen. John Vergiels said of NCAA officials.

Most recently, on March 1, Nebraska Gov. Ben Nelson signed a law that would let Nebraska colleges give athletes more aid than just sports scholarships.

The NCAA limits how much aid students can get from other grants if they accept athletic scholarships.

The new law could leave Nebraska schools that violate the NCAA aid rule shut out of NCAA telecasts, revenues and even games with other NCAA-member schools.

Reformers hope the NCAA will lift the limits on helping athletes before the law goes into effect on June 1, 1992.

In February, the Colorado Senate killed and then revived a bill to pay stipends to student athletes at state universities.

Currently the NCAA allows schools to pay only for athletes' tuition, room and board. Athletes are not allowed to hold part-time jobs during the school year.

Objectors to the bills in each of the states note the NCAA could respond by placing sanctions on schools that comply with the state laws.

Schools can lose their NCAA eligibility if they play against schools that don't follow the organization's rules, warned NCAA spokesman Jim Marchiony.

"What people and legislators don't understand is how much due process there is in enforcement of the regulations," Marchiony said.

"The rules are written by the (member) schools themselves, and can be changed by the schools," he explained.

Marchiony said state reform laws would either force NCAA members to change association rules or spark a series of punishments of member schools that comply with their state laws.

Nevada's Vergiels said there is no question that the NCAA must comply with state law.

"A state legislature has a responsibility to protect its citizens, and just because they're members of the NCAA doesn't mean they're not subject to state laws," he said.

When he signed the bill into law, Nelson expressed "fervent hope that this voluntary national organization will do the right thing and allow both needy and academically talented young Americans to draw all the student aid for which they qualify."

At the same time, Nevada's Senate is debating a bill that would require the NCAA to hold recorded hearings and rule quickly when investigating whether a school has broken NCAA rules.

Many in the state were upset with the way the NCAS handled its investigations of the University of Nevada-Las Vegas' (UNLV) men's basketball Coach Jerry Tarkanian and his team.

Last year the NCAA's Committee on Infractions barred Tarkanian's team from the 1991 Division I championship as a penalty for alleged recruiting violations going on since 1977.

After hearing new evidence in October, the committee postponed the punishment, barring the team from the 1992 championships.

"If Jerry Tarkanian broke the rules he ought to be penalized like anyone else," said Nevada's Sen. Vergiels, who introduced the bill.

"But the NCAA denies any sort of due process," he continued.

"Due process," of course, would force the NCAA to make public any evidence of wrongdoing it might have, and to let the accused have a chance to defend themselves with evidence of their own.

Vergiels is especially upset that NCAA investigators are not required to record their conversations with coaches and players.

"They do a terrible, immoral thing by refusing to have a record," he said.

Last year Illinois lawmakers also proposed, but did not pass, a bill that would have forced the NCAA to use courtroom-style rules of evidence when investigating recruiting violations at the state's colleges.

The Rotunda April 1, 1991

SPORTS

Tucker Named Player of the Week

Sophomore shortstop Michael Tucker broke the Longwood record for consecutive game hitting streak and led the Lancer baseball team to five victories last week. For his performance, Tucker has been named Longwood College Player of the Week for the period of March 24-31. Player of the week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.

In five games last week Tucker hit .667 (8-12), scored 10 runs, drove in 13 and collected five homers and two doubles. In addition he stretched his school record hitting streak to 19 games, beating the Lancer mark of 16 set by Robbie Smith in 1989. Tucker failed to get a hit in Longwood's season opener at Richmond in February, but he has hit safely in every game since.

"Mike was getting frustrated several weeks back because he wasn't hitting many home runs," said Lancer coach Buddy Bolding. "He was trying to pull everything. Now he's going with the pitch. He has matured some, but I want to see him mature more."

A graduate of Bluestone High School, Tucker has been a key factor in Longwood's 16-4 start. Currently, he leads the Lancers in hits (27), RBI (30), doubles (7), homers (8), batting average (.435) and assists (60).

Tucker is majoring in physical education.

MIKE TUCKER

Sports Abound

The Longwood baseball team finished off a 5-0 week with a doubleheader sweep of visiting Coppin State Sunday, pounding the Eagles 17-0 and 11-1. Earlier last week, the Lancers beat St. Paul's 12-0 and 9-6 Thursday and Lynchburg 11-4 Wednesday.

Longwood is hitting .326 as a team and averaging 8.7 runs per contest while holding the opposition to 4.7. Now 16-4 with six straight victories, LC hosts Oneonta State Tuesday for two, and then goes on the road for two at Bowie State Thursday, a pair at St. Paul's Friday, two at North Carolina A&T Saturday and a twinbill at Virginia State Sunday.

Sophomore shortstop Mike Tucker, extending his Lancer record hitting streak to 19 games, blasted two homers and two doubles and drove in seven runs Sunday to power the sweep of Coppin State. The twinbill had been rained out Friday.

Longwood ripped 12 hits in the opener as Tucker hit his seventh and eighth homers of the season. Todd Bowman added a 3-run blast. Eric Hutzler went 3-4 with three RBI. Lancer pitcher Matt Carlisle tossed a two-hit shutout in a game that was called after five innings on the 10-run rule. Carlisle is 3-3.

Tucker, hitting .435 with 30 RBI, ripped a pair of doubles and a single in the nightcap, driving in three runs. Chris Porter had a two-run homer for Longwood in the five inning contest. Kyle Weaver moved his record to 3-0 by going the distance in the second game.

Lancers Sweep St. Paul's

Tucker and catcher Scott Abell had two homers, and Bowman and E. Hutzler one, as Longwood took two from St. Paul's Thursday. Winning pitchers for the Lancers were freshman Wayne Weaver in the opener (a two-hit shutout) and junior Chris Mullins in the second game. Weaver is 1-0 and Mullins 2-1.

Hale Gains 16th Straight Decision

Senior pitcher Dennis Hale gained his 16th straight decision, Tucker bashed his fourth homer, and Longwood pounded Lynchburg 11-4 at Lancer Field Wednesday afternoon. Hale, now 5-0 with an earned average of 3.68, has a career mark of 25-4 over four seasons. He will tie Tony Browning for second place in career wins (26) with his next victory. David Mitchell (29 wins) is the all-time leader.

Lancer Leaders

Tucker, .435, 30 RBI, 7 doubles, 8 homers; Abell, .375, 27 RBI, 6 doubles, 6 homers; Taylor, .385, 28 runs, 17 RBI, 6 doubles; Porter, .362, 18 RBI, 6 doubles and 10-12 stolen bases; Bowman, .339, 15 RBI, 3 homers and E. Hutzler, .329, 18 RBI, and doubles.

MEN'S GOLF

By MARK KIRK

Longwood's men golf team enjoyed a successful stay Friday through Sunday at the Camp Lejeune Marine Tournament in Jacksonville, N.C., breaking the team record for a three-day event with a score of 931.

The performance, however, was not enough to overcome several talented teams as the Lancers landed in 23rd place in a 30 team field. Virginia Commonwealth won the tournament with a total of 876; the Lancers were able to finish at 931 following rounds of 312,308, and 311.

"We had a good tournament against some very good competition," said Longwood coach Steve Nelson. "The courses were target courses, so they were not very long or tough. The hardest course we played on was on Saturday, and that ended up being out best round."

Sophomore Frank Davide was red-hot throughout the tournament, firing 75-75-76-226 to place first among Lancer golfers.

LACROSSE

By CHARLEY JACOBS

The Longwood women's lacrosse team plays Randolph-Macon College Wednesday in Ashland in its only action of the week.

The Lady Lancers dropped a heartbreaker last Tuesday to the visiting Gauchos of the University of California-Santa Barbara, losing 8-7 on a last second goal.

The Lady Lancers, 0-2, whose defense had allowed UC-Santa Barbara to score at will during the opening half of play, trailed 4-1 at the conclusion of the first period. But the offense stuffed in 6 goals during the final period, tying the Gauchos 7-7 with 2:29 to play.

The Longwood defense, which had played loosely during the first half, allowed three goals during the opening minutes of the latter period, but shut down the UCSB offense until a fast break with less than a 20 seconds to play sprung Santa Barbara's Wendy Lyn, who tossed in the winning goal with only 11 seconds remaining. The 8-7 loss is the second straight for the Lady Lancers.

Women's Tennis

Longwood's women's tennis team has three matches on tap this week starting with a home contest against Southern Seminary Monday. The Lady Lancers visit Lynchburg Tuesday and host Virginia Wesleyan Friday at 3:30.

Last Tuesday's contest at Mary Baldwin was rained out.

Men's Tennis

A tough early season schedule continued to cause problems for Longwood's men's tennis team last Tuesday as they fell 9-0 to the Eagles of Mary Washington, dropping their record to 0-4.

Lancer Coach Stan Cieplinski saw his team suffer in singles matches except for one three setter, but did watch them improve slightly in doubles after some early season troubles.

Longwood freshman Kevin Jarrell won the only set of the day for the team, winning 7-5 in the first set of his singles match versus Chip Goodman at sixth seed before dropping the final two, 6-3, 6-1.

Longwood will return to action Wednesday when they travel to Newport News Apprentice, followed by a home match on Thursday against John Jay at 1.

NATIONAL NEWS

Amid Questionable Investments, Alexander Sworn In

(CPS) — University of Tennessee President Lamar Alexander was sworn in as the nation's secretary of education March 18.

The confirmation was slowed by a Senate probe of a string of extraordinary investments that made Alexander, a public servant for the past 12 years, into a wealthy man.

Documents submitted during the confirmation process showed that Alexander and his wife, Leslee, have a net worth of between $1.8 million and $3 million.

In one case, they made almost $600,0000 on a deal in which they did not risk any of their own money.

Senate investigators, however, found no improprieties in the Alexanders' terrific run of financial successes, and some of the people who will be lobbying Alexander professed to accept the Senate's judgment.

"The committee looked into that, and was virtually unanimous in endorsing him," said Robert Atwell, president of the American Council on Education, a trade group for college presidents.

Shortly after President Bush nominated Alexander for the post, Atwell released a statement lauding Alexander as a candidate who "brings the strongest of credentials to the position."

"There was definitely some questionable ethics," admitted Selena Dong of the United States Student Association, which represents student governments in Washington, D.C. "But generally speaking, he had the right credentials."

Alexander himself was unavailable for comment. In the past he has denied any impropriety, and has said that his ability to make money at least shows he's able to contribute.

It's something people can come back to," warned John Bean, an associate professor of higher education at Indiana University. "If people are mad at him, bringing up his finances is certainly a good way to get him."

Alexander was governor of Tennessee from 1979 to 1987, and served as president of the University of Tennessee from 1988 until his latest appointment.

He is the fifth person to head the 12-year-old U. S. Department of Education, which oversees most federal college programs.

He succeeds Lauro Cavazos, former president of Texas Tech University, who resigned under pressure in December.

The 50-year-old Alexander, whose parents were both educators, has a long history of support for education.

When he was governor, Alexander chaired the National Governors' Association, leading the 50-state education survey, "Time for Results." In 1988 the Eduction Commission of the States gave him the James B. Conant Award for "distinguished national leadership in education."

He's also remarkably good at making money.

In one series of stock transactions, initiated while he was governor of Tennessee, Alexander earned a $569,000 profit without investing a cent or much of his own time, by helping to find a buyer, Gannett Co., for the Knoxville Journal.

After leaving office, he arranged a stock investment that netted his wife a $320,000 profit.

In another case, a Tennessee venture-capital company headed by the late Jack Massey, who helped build the Kentucky Fried Chicken empire, assisted in the financing of a child-care concern co-founded by Alexander, who put up $5,000 after he left the governor's office in early 1987.

The investment has grown considerably during the intervening four years. During the routine probe preceding his appointment as education secretary, Alexander estimated his child-care stake is now worth $800,000.

In 1986, while governor, Alexander appointed the chairman of a big bank in the state to the University of Tennessee's Board of Trustees.

A month after the appointment, the chairman's bank let Alexander consolidate three separate loans into a single, unsecured $131,000 loan. The bank then agreed to let Alexander repay it at the prime interest rate of 8 percent.

Banks normally let only blue-chip corporations borrow at the prime rate, and very rarely lend money to individuals without "securing" a loan with collateral like a house or property.

Alexander told the Senate that the banker's appointment and the unusual loan incidents were not related.

Tax reductions of $128,308 that Alexander took for writing a book, "Six Months Off," which described his family's 1987 trip to Australia, also raised some Senate eyebrows.

In addition to investment income, Alexander earned $303,072 in 1990, including $152,352 in salary and expense allowances from the University of Tennessee, according to a disclosure report he filed in January with the U. S. Office of Government Ethics.

One of his investments was in Whittle Communications, Inc., the Knoxville-based company that runs a number of programs that let advertisers approach college and high school students.

Among Whittle's best-known ventures is "Good Stuff," a package of product samples the company distributes to dorm rooms on various campuses, and Channel One, which beams news programs that include two minutes of commercials to high schools.

An investment in Whittle of $10,000, which was later transferred to his wife's name, netted her $330,000 when Time Inc. bought 50 percent of the principal company in December 1988.

"It may be virtually no problem at all," said Indiana University's Bean. "We'll just have to wait and see."

Alexander OKs Minority Scholarships, But Students File Suit

(CPS) — Amid congressional hearings and a student lawsuit that claimed schools discriminate against white people, the U. S. Department of Education came full circle in its view of minority scholarships March 20.

Now it is OK again for campuses to have special scholarships set aside for minority students.

In one of his first acts as U. S. Secretary of Education, Lamar Alexander advised schools to ignore all changes made in the department's policy on race-exclusive scholarships before he took office on March 18.

But just a day after Alexander approved race-based scholarships, a group of students filed suit to force public campuses to stop offering them.

The controversy has been brewing since December, when a department official sent a memo noting that "minority-only" scholarships in effect discriminated against white people and could cost schools in their federal funding.

Since then the Education Dept. — which oversees most federal college programs — has issued a series of clarifications.

The clarifications, however, have confused the issue of what the department considers discriminatory, many campus aid officials say.

At a March 20 press conference in Washington, D.C., Alexander promised to end the confusion, adding a committee will review the policy over the next six months.

"Colleges and universities should keep doing whatever they're doing," Alexander said. "Work with us to develop a policy. Then we'll have a policy, and we'll work with them to help them make any adjustments at that time."

Yet six months is too long for seven white students who sued the department March 21 to try to force it to bar tax-supported colleges from awarding minority scholarships.

The six students are from the universities of California at Los Angeles, Iowa, Virginia, Texas and Southern California and Mercy and Macalester colleges.

Their lawsuit, filed in U. S. District Court by the conservative Washington Legal Foundation on the students' behalf, said minority scholarships violate the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which bars awarding financial aid "based solely on the race of the recipient."

"I think this administration would like this issue to go away," the students' attorney, Richard Samp, told the Associated Press.

The students are upset that Alexander reversed the decision announced by Assistant secretary of Education for Civil Rights Michael L. Williams on Dec. 4, 1990.

In a letter to Fiesta Bowl officials in Arizona, Williams warned that the "minority-only" scholarships offered by the two schools participating in the Fiesta Bowl violated the Civil Rights Act.

He said schools that awarded race-based scholarships could lose their federal funding.

A political outcry followed, as campus officials and civil rights groups worried the policy would hamper efforts to recruit more minorities to college.

On Dec. 18, Williams announced campuses were free to award scholarships on the basis of race if the money for the grants came from private gifts, not public tax funds.

Alexander negated Williams' Dec. 18 reinterpretation of the Civil Rights Act at his press conference, held the same day Williams testified before a House Government Operations subcommittee investigating the whole controversy.

At the hearing, Williams reacted angrily when Rep. Ted Weiss, D-N.Y. suggested Williams' aide, Richard Comer, had written the controversial Fiesta Bowl letter.

"I am the person responsible for that office," Williams said. "I am the person who signed the (letter). I can interpret the law."

Meanwhile, Alexander tried to calm the fears of those who say the department is trying to keep poor students, often minorities, from attending college by changing scholarship rules.

"When we get right down to it, even a casual look at this suggests that there are dozens of ways for university presidents to help disadvantaged Americans go to college," he said at his press conference.

"So there are plenty of ways that anybody with a warm heart and common sense can find to help disadvantaged Americans come to college."

HAPPY APRIL FOOLS DAY!

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

START YOUR CLIMB TO CAREER SUCCESS THIS SUMMER.

Apply now for six weeks of Army ROTC leadership training. With pay, without obligation.

You'll develop the discipline, confidence and decisiveness it takes to succeed in any career. And you'll qualify to earn Army officer credentials while you're completing your college studies.

LEADERSHIP EXCELLENCE

ARMY ROTC TWO-YEAR PROGRAM

THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

For more information: Contact Captain Gary Wittekind in Room 209 Hiner at 395-2136 or 2134!

The Rotunda April 1, 1991

NATIONAL NEWS

More Campuses Punish Fraternities for Hazing

(CPS) Still more campuses punished fraternities for hazing during the last month, leaving chapters devastated and reformers wondering what to do next to stop the practice.

"We're sharing our message every way we can," said Jonathan Brant of the Indianapolis-based National Interfraternity Council, which has campaigned to stop hazing. "Somehow people still make bad decisions."

Since Feb. 1, for example, fraternities at Alfred State, Baior, Vanderbilt and Seton Hall universities as well as at Whittier College have been disciplined for hazing.

In New Jersey, Rutgers University officials suspended the school's Delta Upsilon chapter after members allegedly branded the buttocks of pledges with the Greek letters "D" and "U" during pledge activities last fall.

Seton Hall suspended Tau Kappa Epsilon for three-to-five years. Six of its pledges had been arrested last October for possession of stolen property and theft.

The six had been participating in a scavenger hunt and had taken, among other things, a 200-pound pumpkin, Chinese and American flags, a New York City police barricade, three traffic signs, a restaurant menu and tiles from the Holland Tunnel.

At Alfred State in New York, where fraternity-pledge Chuck Stenzel's death during pledge activities in 1978 inspired Stenzels' mother to start the anti-hazing movement, a commission has been formed to decide about the future of greek life at the school after the charters of Kappa Sigma Epsilon and Psi Delta Omega were revoked for hazing.

Now Alfred State officials have formed a commission to decide what, if any, kind of future fraternities should have at the school.

The recent punishments of greek houses, moreover, were preceded earlier in the school year by rebukes of frat pledging and party activities at Trinity and Western Illinois universities, the universities of Akron, Idaho, Maryland and New Mexico, as well as Long Island University's C.W. Post campus.

Frustrated by the ongoing injuries and sanctioned crimes involved in the pledging process, a number of schools have moved to restrict and even abolish fraternities on their campuses in recent years, including Colby College in Maine, Amherst College in Massachusetts, Middlebury College in Vermont and Bucknell University in Pennsylvania.

Sororities and fraternities themselves also have tried for many years to end hazing, defined as the physical or mental abuse of a person or persons by others in a group.

"We are encouraging our member fraternities to do whatever is appropriate to eliminate hazing," said the NIFC's Brant.

Some fraternities, including Zeta Beta Tau and Tau Kappa Epsilon, have eliminated the pledge period altogether, when most hazing incidents occur.

A similar plan has been proposed for societies at Whittier College in California.

On Feb. 15 a faculty committee, meeting to discuss two students' complaints that had been hazed last fall, recommended societies at the school end pledging.

"We recognize there are certain affiliation ceremonies that are meaningful," explained Joe Price, a religious studies professor who was on the committee, but "attempts at reform (in the pledging process) have not been successful," he continued.

Pledging should be replaced by a "brief and legal initiation process which affirms the sanctity and uniqueness of each person," said a statement released by the faculty committee.

A final decision on whether to ban pledging will be made by Whittier President James Ash later this year.

In Drug Bust, Feds Shut Down UVA Frats

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA. (CPS) — In an apparently unprecedented college raid, federal drug police raided three University of Virginia fraternities March 22, arresting 12 members and taking control of the houses themselves.

Members not involved in the investigation can move back into the Phi Epsilon Pi, Delta Upsilon and Tau Kappa Epsilon houses, but not before signing new "rental agreements" with the federal government.

The 12 students were arrested on charges of selling hallucinogenic designer drugs, LSD and mushrooms.

Because taking possession of private social clubs like fraternities is so unusual, Drug Enforcement Agency officials said they got prior approval for the raid from U. S. Attorney General Richard Thornburgh.

Former S.C. President Indicted For Misusing Office

(CPS) — James B. Holderman, who resigned as University of South Carolina president amid criticism of lavish spending, was indicted March 22 for using a public office for personal gain and accepting extra compensation.

The case is the most notorious of a series of instances in which several campus presidents were accused of using school money inappropriately or for their own use.

Westfield State College (Mass.) President Irving Buchen resigned in 1988 after his use of trust funds for personal expenses came under scrutiny and criticism.

Other college presidents, including those at the universities of Minnesota and Colorado, and at Old Dominion University in Virginia, have drawn criticism for extravagant housing they have received.

Holderman, the two-count indictment from the Richland County grand jury charged, received $25,000 between 1986 and 1988 "for his individual use and not for the benefit or on behalf of the state of South Carolina."

Holderman, 55, resigned last May after 13 years at the school. He faces a maximum penalty of five years in prison and $1,500 in fines if convicted on both counts. The indictment did not contain details of the alleged wrongdoing, but Holderman has been criticized for spending thousands of dollars in university and foundation money to bring politicians, ambassadors, actors and other celebrities to campus while he was president.

Among the expenditures:

* $30,000 on a vacation to Hawaii with his family.
* $50,176 in foundation money to fly Jehan Sadat, widow of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, 35 times between Washington, Dublin, Va., and Columbia, S.C., where she was a guest lecturer at the university.
* $315,000 to Mrs. Sadat to teach three semesters and lecture for a fourth term.
* $158,000 in salary and living expenses to actor Robby Benson, who taught a film-making class at the university and made a movie, "Modern Love," in Columbia.
* $20,000-$78,500 in annual salary supplements for himself. Holderman was paid $117,900 a year.
* $410-$875 per night for hotel suites in Washington, Chicago and New York that Holderman stayed in during fund-raising and other business trips.

CLASSIFIEDS/PERSONALS

FAST FUNDRAISING PROGRAM

$1000 IN JUST ONE WEEK.

Earn up to $1000 in one week for your campus organization.

Plus a chance at $5000 more!

This program works! No investment needed.

Call 1-800-932-0528 Ext. 50

FOR SALE

NOVELCO COFFEE MAKER — $10. Stereo/VCR cabinet with rollers $35. Call 392-6561.

CARD COLLECTORS — Baseball, basketball, football. Protect them with 9 card album sheets. 50 sheets per box - $18; 1 sheet - .35¢. Call Teri, 392-8361.

Rougely – Thanks for everything – the good and bad times. You have made your choice. Hope the headband in not permanently attached. Me

ABS _ Congratulations we did it! ABS Masquerade ball was a success. Thanks and God bless. ABS Executive Board

To Jean Taylor: My future divorce lawyer, congratulations! Lindy

Tom H. — Don't run away, it's only me. Glad you decided to hang with the big dogs. It was great and we'll never forget it (especially the Jacuzzi)! — Love, Betty and Betty

To Derick and Darryll – Happy Birthday to two April Fools! Von Von

GW — How do we love thee? Let us count the ways "Geronimo." Even wrinkles can be cured, how about a milk dud? — Love, B.K.T.

Thanks to members of Alpha Phi Omega for devoting a great deal of time to picking up trash and litter. You have removed trash and litter from the campus that has been around for a long time. Please know that Longwood thanks you.

To my AΔx buddy, Tricia B. — Hope your week is going great! Isn't it rough to get back into things after such a wonderful break? We'll survive! Love, — Your anonymous Δz.

To Jean T. – Congratulations on being accepted to law school I'll be calling you! LaVonda

To the sisters of Alpha Sigma Alpha — Glad you all had a great spring break! Welcome back!

To Peanut Butter (Missy)

Happy Birthday to an old fart, may your day be filled abundantly with blessings from above. Love your sis, Vonda

To Mr. Grande – Thanks for a lovely weekend. How about next weekend...? Cutie Pie

To an Anthropology professor affectionately known to us as "Wonder Buns". We enjoy the class and the view! — M. P. and K. M.

To ABS E.B. We did it! Love LaVonda

Sheri P. — Great tan! Don't forget, limit 10 on the all you can eat crab legs! See ya at the next dead man's party! — Love, Jaime

Mark "Rico" — Have a great 21st birthday! Watch out for those cops they will be looking for you! — S.

Happy 20th Birthday to Darrell and Denick Richard! MKH

Skeeter and Blue Moon — You guys are awesome! Thanx for being there and making the waiting bearable! — Love, Ex.

I would like to extend a thank you to all those who were involved in the intramural basketball games between Longwood and Hampden-Sydney. Both nights went extremely well. All your help was very much appreciated. Thanks again. — Teri Riemondy

Fuma — You make the visit from the sandman more pleasurable than I ever thought possible. If I can't touch you for real at least I'll always have my dreams. — Dreaming.

Freetz — "God" is too far away to pursue. I'm not going or getting anywhere! — Neuby

Mr. Park Ranger is not going to like that Yogi. BooBoo

Suzi – Thanks for the awesome beachhouse! Kabh

Weightlifting Club meeting Tuesday, April 2, 5 p.m. at the weight room. Everyone welcome!

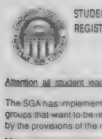
STUDENT/BUSINESS RELIEF

574-6426

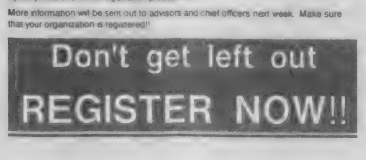
STUDENT RATES

Employment Resumés	$2.50 1st page
additional pages	$2.25 per page
Term Papers	$2.50 1st page
additional pages	$2.25 per page
Diagram/Form Papers	$3.00 per page

INTRODUCTION SPECIAL THRU APRIL
All papers excluding diagram/forms $2.25 per page



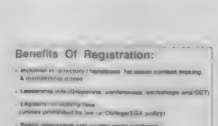
CONTINUING EDUCATION SERVICES
Teaching professional typing techniques $4.00 per hour



FREE SCHOLARSHIP INFORMATION FOR STUDENTS WHO NEED MONEY FOR COLLEGE

Every Student is Eligible for Some Type of Financial Aid Regardless of Grades or Parental Income.

- Many scholarships are given to students based on their academic interests, career plans, family heritage and place of residence.
- There's money available for students who have been newspaper carriers, grocery clerks, cheerleaders, non-smokers . . . etc.
- Results GUARANTEED



CALL BETWEEN 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. EST. 1-800-542-5174

For more information or for registration forms, please contact the Office of Student Development (Tel 395-2414).

Summertime At Longwood
SUMMER SESSION DATES

First Session	May 20 - June 7
Second Session	June 17 - July 12
Third Session	July 15 - August 9

REMINDER:
Only courses taken at Longwood count towards your GPA. Students suspended at the end of spring semester may not take courses at Longwood during the summer.

ATTENTION SENIORS:

ANTICIPATED COUNSELOR POSITION
ADMISSIONS OFFICE

Longwood's Admissions Office anticipates employing an admissions counselor beginning on or about mid-July and ending in May 1991. High energy, good communications skills and active involvement while at Longwood Prerequisites for successful candidates.

Salary $1606.00 per month, no benefits, all travel expenses paid. Must be willing to work at Admissions programs on weekends and evenings.

Interested candidates should contact Bob Chonko, Director of Admissions at X2060.

2nd Set of COLOR PRINTS FREE!

Applies to standard size prints from original rolls of 110, 126, 135 and disc C-41 process film

OFFER GOOD THROUGH APRIL 16, 1991!

LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE
HOURS 8-5 MONDAY-FRIDAY
PHONE 395-2084

INSIDE:

Longwood As It Was

Forensics Team Qualifies

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
News 2
Features 3
Sports 4
Classifieds/Personals.....5
Spring Weekend.....6

The ROTUNDA

Vol. 70 No. 16 | April 8, 1991 | LONGWOOD COLLEGE | Farmville, Virginia

Dean Of Liberal Arts And Sciences To Retire

Dr. Freda McCombs will retire from her position as dean of Longwood College's School of Liberal Arts and Sciences, effective July 1, 1991.

She will serve as acting associate vice president for academic affairs and director of Longwood's Accreditation Self-Study for the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, a college-wide process that will continue through the 1991-92 academic year.

The final self-study report must be completed by the end of summer 1992. The SACS visiting committee will come to Longwood in the spring of 1993 for an on-site review of the College's academic program.

Dr. Edward Smith, who has been acting associate vice president for academic affairs since the fall of 1989, will return next year to his position as professor of psychology and chair of Longwood's Psychology Department. He will continue to serve as director of assessment for the college.

"Serving as Longwood's first dean of Liberal Arts and Sciences has brought many challenges and satisfactions," Dr. McCombs said. "It has been a special pleasure to work with so many people in the school and elsewhere on campus. The opportunities for learning that have occurred almost every day have turned out to be very satisfying.

"Replacing Dr. Smith will, I think be impossible, but I appreciate the opportunity to assist Dr. Donald Stuart in the many details in the academic affairs office," she said. "The work on the SACS Self-Study will be accomplished by many people at Longwood, and I'm looking forward to assisting them in getting that important project completed successfully."

Other members of the SACS Self-Study Steering committee are: Edna Allen-Bledsoe, associate professor of social work; Brenda Atkins, assistant to the vice president for business affairs and legislative affairs; Dr. James Cross, vice president for research and information systems; Dr. Thomas Dukes, associate professor and chair of the Department of management and Marketing; Margaret Hale-Smith, assistant director for advising and special projects; Dr. Judy Johnson, professor and chair of the Department of Physical Education, Health, and Recreation; Phyllis Mable, vice president for student affairs; Robie McFarland, student development educator; David Place, a sophomore student; Dr. Helen Stiff, member of the Board of visitors; Dr. Massie Stinson, associate professor of English; Dr. Robert Webber, professor of mathematics and computer science; Dr. Carolyn Wells, professor of biology; and Della Wicklzer, personnel analyst.

Dr. Mccombs has been dean of the School of Liberal Arts and Sciences since July 1, 1986. She was appointed to that position soon after Longwood's three schools were created in an academic reorganization approved by the Board of Visitors in February of 1986 and by the State Council of Higher Education the following month.

A native of North Carolina, Dr. McCombs received her bachelor's degree in biology and chemistry from Salem college and her M.Ed. and Ed.D. in science education from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She came to Longwood first in 1961 and taught for two years in the Department of Natural Sciences.

After several years at home with her young children, Dr. McCombs taught at Central Virginia Community College from 1967 to 1970 and then returned to Longwood. She has served on numerous college committees and was president of the Organization of Teaching Faculty from 1984 to 1986.

A committee of faculty, staff, and students has begun the search for a new Dean of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Members of the committee are: Dr. Merry Lewis Allen, associate professor and chair of the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science (chair of the committee); Dr. Jennifer Apperson, assistant professor of psychology; Dr. David Brell, professor of biology; Richard Couture, associate professor of history and chair of the Department of History and Political Science; Dr. Elisabeth Flynn, professor of art; Dr. Geoffrey Orth, associate professor of German and chair of the Department of English, Philosophy, and Modern Languages; and students Robin Advocat and Chris Andersen. Dr. Ed Smith is an ex officio, nonvoting member of the search committee.

Photo credit: Monica Gilbert

The Holocaust Remembrance was held at 12:45 this past Thursday, April 4. This was the second year for the memorial which is likely to become an annual event. Pictured are the musicians who opened the ceremony.

ROTC Offers Chance To Climb New Heights

By LIZ RUSSELL

Have you ever wondered what it would be like to rappell off a thirty foot building? Well now is your chance! Come get hands on experience by rappelling off the side of Lancer Gym facing Curry and Frazer. Rappelling will take place on April 8th and 10th from 11-2 p.m. and on April 9th from 11-3 p.m. Everyone is welcome and if you are considering on joining the fun; wear jeans and shoes with traction.

Master Sergeant Terry Ramsey, who attended Airborne and Ranger School, has conducted alot of training in rappelling procedures and will be the primary instructor. He will ensure that your safety will be taken care of throughout the training. He hasn't lost anyone yet!

ROTC Cadets show how easy it is to rappell - but don't try this at home!

Archaeological Dig Uncovers Past

By MONICA GILBERT

Right before spring break, while most of us were digging through closets trying to pack to go home, 41 student volunteers assisted archaeology professor, Dr. James W. Jordan, in his effort to uncover the secrets of the Monocan Indian tribe. The group gathered at the site along the James River which may be one of the oldest settlements in Virginia. The site is located under an abandoned cornfield owned by the Wood family.

The Monocan Indians lived in a village called Monahassanugh which is upstream from today's Wingina. They fished and hunted and cultivated crops. Their population decreased to about 600 before their contact with Europeans. Afterwards, due to smallpox, venereal disease, and tuberculosis, their numbers went to less than 100 in the late 1660's.

Among the artifacts that were uncovered were dozens of broken fired-clay pottery sherds, stone tools known as aceit and a hammerstone, a thumbnail scraper, and a broken tip of a quartz drill bit, to name a few.

After the collecting and cataloging of the artifacts are complete, they will be placed with the Wood family. Says Jordan, "Nelson County is what produced these artifacts. The Monocan Indians are part of its history and the artifacts should be kept locally where people have a vested interest in it ..."

Information provided by the Nelson County Times.

Forensics Team Prepares For Competition

By ANN RENEE HEIM

Your topic is "Blondes Have More Fun," you have seven minutes to compile your thoughts, prepare and give a speech on it. You are competing against the best of the best in the nation. The clock is ticking!

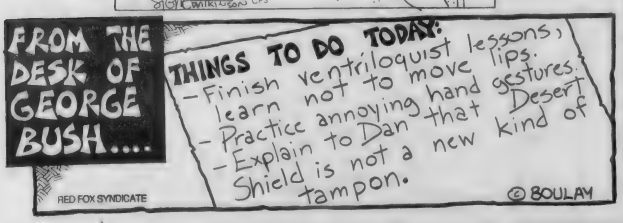
Impromptu speech is one of many categories in a Forensics tournament. Freshman Nathan Neal Wade will be attending the American Forensics Tournament in Tacoma, Washington, for his success in making impromptu speeches.

"Impromptu is more fun than anything for me," he said. "It isn't very difficult – I started at the beginning of the year. I'm very excited to be going to Tacoma."

Forensics is dramatic oral interpretation similar to acting, but without the props, costumes, or movement. For participating in this extracurricular activity, students receive one "A" credit per competition attended.

(Continued on pg. 4)

COMMENTARY



Quotable:

"The punishment which the wise suffer, who refuse to take part in the government,is to live under the government of worse men."

—Plato

The Rotunda* reserves the right to refuse any future editorials that are not signed. We will not print your name should you wish it not to be, but the original letter must be signed.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor,

Like many of you I have problem with parking, although my special parking problem is a little different. My living quarters are very close to campus. I enjoy a variety of music that comes from the windows of the dorm directly across from me, and hear the laughter, conversations, and screaming tires associated with campus life in general.

Since my residence is so close to campus, it would often appear that I'm a real party person, because so many cars park in front of my home. Students have gotten wise, purchased Town of Farmville stickers, and therefore may park, legally, in front of my house where signs state "resident parking only". This is not a problem; at least not much. Some students, (I always check for Longwood stickers on cars) insist on squeezing into a space that blocks my front stairs. This space is marked in yellow, which means — right, "No Parking". Now, neither I, nor anyone who might wish to do so, can enter my home via the front stairs. In response to one of my little "love notes" asking for consideration, one student wrote back "Sorry for the inconvenience" and moved his/her car forward. I liked that. That was civil.

Along with the cars I get nice presents. Candy wrappers, potato chip bags, soda pop and beer cans adorn my yard and often my drive-way. I don't like that. It reflects disrespect for Gaia, private property, and cleanliness in general. Somehow, I resent cleaning up behind other people who are not family or invited guests.

It has been suggested that the students are not necessarily the culprits here. Now, that is a possibility, except I have watched from my window and seen students toss their trash into my yard. I have also had students say less than kind things when I asked them not to park in front of my stairs. Another strange phenomenon is that during the break I had no close encounters of the trash kind. When the BSU parking lot is empty my drive and back yard are clean. There may be a correlation here.

So, this is a request. Please be considerate of the residents who live near the campus. Don't block the entrances to their homes with cars, and be responsible in your trash disposal. Many of the residents don't work at Longwood as I do and therefore don't know what great folks you are. The behaviors I have described give people a different opinion altogether. It only takes a few poor examples to create negative stereotypes. If we are serious about bridging the "town/gown" gap this is one place to begin.

Mrs. Margaret Hale-Smith
Assistant Director of Advising and Special Projects

Dear Editor,

The West Coast A & R Director for Atlantic has asked WLCX to search for new and yet undiscovered talent. Please send any information to: Harron Fells, New Music DJ, Longwood College Radio Assoc. — WLCX, Farmville, VA 23901. Hopefully this will give artists the notice and exposure they deserve.

Thank you,
Harron Fells

NEWS

Forensics Team Qualifies For National Competition

Photo courtesy of Public Affairs

Members of the Forensics Team are (bottom, from left) Christy Crews, Stacey Custer, Brandi Poling, Dawn Pohl, Brandy Musgrove, Ann Heim and Ethan Yonker; (middle) Dana Campbell, Sharon Butler, Julia Wang and Kathy Deamett; and (top) Nathan Wade, Kristen McDonald, Jon Murray and Lisa Edmonds.

Seven Longwood students have qualified for national forensics competition.

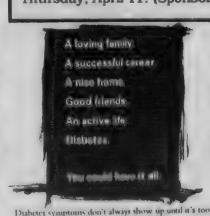
Three of them – Christy Crews, Nathan Wade and Ethan Yonker – will compete at the American Forensic Association national tournament in Tacoma, Wash., April 12-6. Some 600 students will compete in this tournament, which recognizes the top 1 percent of competitors.

Crews will compete in speech to persuade; Wade in impromptu speaking; and Yonker in drama interpretation and prose reading.

Four others – Stacey Custer, Ann Heim, Brandy Musgrove and Brandi Poling – will compete in the National Forensic Association tournament at Marshall University in Huntington, W. VA, April 25-29. More than 1,200 students will compete in this meet, which recognizes the top 5 percent of competitors.

Custer will compete in prose and speech to inform; Heim and Musgrove in duo interpretation; and Poling in poetry and prose. Also in that tournament, Crews will compete in prose and speech to persuade. She will be the first Longwood student to compete in both tournaments. Wade and Yonker also qualified for that tournament will not compete in it.

Musgrove is a senior, Crews a junior, Heim a sophomore, and the rest freshmen.



Five Longwood students – Sharon Butler, Kathy Desmett, Kristen McDonald, Dawn Pohl and Julia Wang – competed in the district tournament over springbreak. Other members of the Forensics Team, which is coached by Dr. Nancy Haga, associate professor of speech and theatre, are Dana Campbell, Lisa Edmonds, Jon Murray, Cynthia Owens and Vern Williamson.

During this year's season, which concluded recently, the Forensics Team competed in nine tournaments at George Mason University, Towson State University, American University, Howard University, York College, New York University, and St. John's University.

SCOTT JONES plays keyboards, says funny things, sings serious songs, has performed over a thousand concerts at universities in 49 states and Canada, and has shared the stage with Steve Landesberg, Al Stewart, Leon Redbone, Richard Belzer, James Cotton and David Bromberg. Comedy clubs from San Francisco to Neptune Beach, Florida have featured his unique brand of humor which combines music, stand-up, slides and rubber devices. His music is a little bit of a lot of things. Classic to contemporary...blues to jazz...rag to rock. A computer and a variety of electronic instruments become an entire orchestra on stage. Scott has released four albums of original music and comedy, and is now recording his collection of piano solos entitled "The Zodiac Fantasy."

Scott will appear in the Gold Room at 8 p.m. on Thursday, April 11. (Sponsored by S-UN)

Diabetes symptoms don't always show up until it's too late. Don't wait. The next time you see a doctor, take the blood sugar test. Ask for your score. Know what it means.

DIABETES
Take the test. Know the score.
American Diabetes Association.

CORRECTION

In the SGA story printed last week, Shannon Gardner was classified as a junior. She is a sophomore and the SGA meetings are held in Conference Room 3. We apologize for any inconvenience this may have caused.

The ROTUNDA

Box 1133
Longwood College
Farmville, Va. 23901

Editor-In-Chief Monica Y. Gilbert
Features Editor Lindy Seymore
Sports Editor Charlie Fultz
Photography Editor Judi Weller
Layout Editor Sarah Whiteside
Layout Assistant Deborah Wilson
News Editor Christopher Jones
Business Manager Anita Owens
Advertising Manager Bradley Owen
Faculty Advisor Barbara LaJaunie

THE STAFF:

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed or printed neatly. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is 3:00 p.m. Friday prior to the Monday publication date and these should be placed in the envelope on the Publication door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by midnight Sunday.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an American Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

FEATURES

STUDENT UNION BOARD POSITIONS AVAILABLE

Applications are available at the Information Office and are due April 11th. Selections will be held on April 15 and 16 in the Student Union.

Vice President — Responsible for helping president in all duties. Also plans and implements Spring Weekend.

Secretary — Takes notes at each meeting and distributes to members.

Treasurer — Responsible for financial management of Student Union Board. Writes checks to pay bills daily and balances checkbook monthly.

Backdoor— Programs a variety of events in Lancer Cafe including comedy, coffeehouse and musical entertainment.

Cultural Unification Committee — This committee is involved in programming for Black History Month and other times throughout the year. Programs are designed to meet the needs of minority students.

Films — Plan the movie series on campus!! This committee has brought you "Top Gun", "Ghost", "Pretty Woman", "Navy Seals" and many others!!!

Lecture — Bring entertaining as well as informative speakers to Longwood campus...you decide!

Mainstage — Pat Dailey, Steven Wright, The Bangles...to name a few. Help book the bands for all of campus to enjoy!

Series Performing Arts — A new committee to S-UN. Plan a series of theatrical and performing arts shows in Jarman.

Weekend Involvement Committee — Plans non-alcohol campus wide events to be held on the weekend. They were responsible for Casino Night this year.

GET INVOLVED!

Starved For Our Attention

By CARLISA DUDLEY

What problems face college students today? Familiar problems people face at colleges and universities may be grades, environmental issues, alcohol, sexually transmitted diseases, relationships, budget cuts and even registering for classes, but rarely do we have to worry about whether we will have food to eat the next day. Even though we are aware that hunger exists, it is easy to forget that the problem will worsen to gigantic proportions without immediate aid and attention. Hunger indirectly affects all of us. It has even permeated into American society and still devastates tens of thousands of people every day. 60,000 people die of hunger and related diseases every day, and 40,000 of these people are children. Even though we produce more and more food every day, the miserable distribution leaves more people hungry today than ever before.

We see food all around us and we consume tons of it every day from the dining hall, from restaurants, and ONCE in a while from care packages. Everyone would probably agree that we have a surplus of food available at Longwood College. And how many of us have feelings of hunger day after day? Do we really appreciate the food that we do have? Even though we may not empathize with this situation, we can certainly recognize it as a problem.

There is much for us to learn about and contribute to the alleviation of world hunger. One program that leads to education and awareness to this problem locally and globally is called Oxfam, a nonprofit and nonsectarian organization. Oxfam was founded by the Oxford Committee for Famine Relief at Oxford University in England in 1942. People all over the world participate in Oxfam by fasting and/or giving money that they would usually spend on one meal. The money received by Oxfam goes to famine relief, education that encourages self-help programs, publicity and maintaining the program's services.

Some Longwood students from the Wesley Foundation of the United Methodist Church decided that they should start this program here after hearing about it at a weekend retreat called Harvest of Hope. They felt that the fight with hunger must begin immediately, so with some initiative from Wesley and help from the entire school, this program could raise this campus to a new consciousness about hunger. The way students get involved is by agreeing not to use their meal card for one meal on one particular day. The student has a choice to either eat somewhere else or skip this meal to help them learn what hunger feels like. John Brady, director of food services, has agreed to donate a certain amount of money for each person that signs up. This will not only provide Longwood students with a simple way to financially contribute but will also promote an awareness of this problem. Specific information about the day and how you can help will be circulating soon. The time set for students to skip this meal will be at lunch on Thursday, April 25. Students may sign up from April 11-19 (the location will be announced later). Everyone's attention and participation is vital to help stop senseless deaths of more hunger victims. This kind of problem will only worsen without the support from us, the privileged.

S-UN Needs You!

The Longwood Student Union Board has had a great year of programming. During the 1990-1991 academic year, we have presented numerous entertaining and/or informative programs. Some of these programs included: The Spencers, Kyle Davis, Pat Dailey, Greenpeace, AAE, and the movie series. Bringing these entertainers and lecturers to Longwood takes time and hard work on the part of The Student Union Board and its committees. We hope the student body has enjoyed our efforts.

Now that we have almost finished programming for this year, the Student Union Board is looking forward to next year. We want the 1991-1992 academic year to be the best ever! To succeed, we need help and support of all interested students. Applications for the 1991-1992 Student Union Board are available at the information desk in the Lankford Student Union building. Applications are due April 11 by 5 p.m. Don't get left in the shade!!!

S-UN Board programming to come...

April 12-14 SPRING WEEKEND!!!!

April 15 Movie, "Flatliners" 9 p.m. Lancer Cafe

April 17 Comedian Anthony Clark 9 p.m. Lancer Cafe

April 19 & 29 Movie, "Edward Scissorhands" 8 p.m. Lankford Mall

April 26 & 29 Movie, "Russia House" 8 p.m. Lankford Mall

April 29 Comedian/Singer KIER 9 p.m. Cafe.

Longwood As It Was 30 Years Ago

By SHERRY GATEWOOD

Picture a college of 900 women, all of whom are required to wear skirts in public at all times. They are not allowed to drink alcoholic beverages within eighteen miles of school, nor are they allowed to travel beyond fifteen miles of school without permission from the Dean of Women. This was Longwood College only three decades ago.

"It was an entirely different institution," commented Niki Fallis, a 1963 Longwood graduate.

Ms. Fallis, who now works at Longwood in the Career Planning and Placement Center and as Assistant Director of Admissions, reflected on some of the changes in the college since her years as a student.

Freshmen were required to go through a process called "ratting." During this time they wore beanies, the color corresponding to their class: red for women entering on even numbered years and green for those entering on odd years. It was a "little bit like pledging," commented Ms. Fallis.

Freshmen were not allowed to go home before Thanksgiving, when the "ratting" period was officially over. Also, they had to obey ten "head rats" who made them do such chores as clean dormitory quarters or bathrooms.

Ms. Fallis recalled one year in Ruffner Residence Hall where there were four girls to each room but only two closets. She described it as wall to wall beds which one had to walk across to get to the door. The only luxury item allowed in one's room was an AM radio — no televisions, stereos, or pets.

Any student leaving campus had to sign out with her "housemother" whom Ms. Fallis described as, "like 65 years old." These employees lived in the dormitory and had a position similar to the Resident Education Coordinators of today. Women going out on dates were required to sign in-out cards with the time and date's name on them which were kept on file with the house mother. Ms. Fallis laughingly recalled writing down the names of fictitious dates on her card in order to appear more popular.

Women who wanted to visit another college were required to give their housemother the name and address of the friend with whom they would be staying. "This is what I call living in a monastery," quipped Ms. Fallis. She said that yes, the rules were very strict, but "rules brought us even closer together."

Sorority rush was very different in the 1960s. "Sorority women could visit freshman rooms 30 minutes prior to lunch and dinner," noted Ms. Fallis. No two sororities could be in the same room "rushing" at the same time. She said that she liked the way they did this because "I felt like I knew the girls who were rushing me."

Many of the dating rules also seem archaic by today's standards. The student handbook stated that a female student "must not sit in parked cars with a date at night within the city limits of Farmville."

It also said, "girls may not visit in men's dormitories at any college or university."

Curfews were 10 p.m. on weeknights for freshmen and 11 p.m. for all other classes. On Saturday nights, freshmen, sophomores, and juniors were allowed out until 12:30 p.m., and seniors could stay out one-half hour later.

Each student was assigned to a table in the dining hall and ate each meal there. There was no serving line as there is today; instead, other students served the women. The tables were covered with cloth tablecloths and napkins, and each student had a sterling silver napkin holder with her name engraved on it. After the SGA president or her designate said the blessing before each meal, the doors were closed and locked. If a student was not there on time, she didn't eat. Ms. Fallis remembered she and her friends wearing raincoats to the dining hall where they would sneak food back to their rooms inside the coat's pockets.

Ms. Fallis said one has seen a lot of changes over the years at Longwood. She described the 1960s as "times more sentimental; we were a little more tradition-oriented. Now we want to be more mature about the whole college experience."

She said she feels that Longwood College has changed "as a result of both society's lifestyle and co-education." She admitted that she did not like the idea of co-education at first.

"I resisted it for only one reason; I did not want women to lose their identity and to sit back and let men take the leadership positions." She said one is very "interested in women developing leadership skills at Longwood."

One of the most important aspects of Longwood is the "diversification of the student body" that the college has always promoted, said Ms. Fallis. She further stated, "I learned a lot from each student" during her enrollment at the college.

The Bulletin Board

Seniors, are you spending more time planning your graduation party than you are your career??!!

If this statement describes your status, may we suggest the following:

Don't PANIC! All is not lost – however, it is getting late. The average job search takes 3-6 months fulltime, so if you hope to locate employment between now and October, you probably need to be taking action NOW!

Carve out a chunk of time (every week) to spend on your job search. Ask yourself three preliminary questions: WHAT do you want to do? WHERE (what geographic location/preference) do you want to work? And WHO do you want to work for? You cannot reasonably begin a job search without knowing answers to the above questions. If you do not know, come to the Career Planning & Placement Center for assistance. We can help you identify occupations that match your values, interests and skills; we can discuss geographic options; and we can provide information on large and small employers.

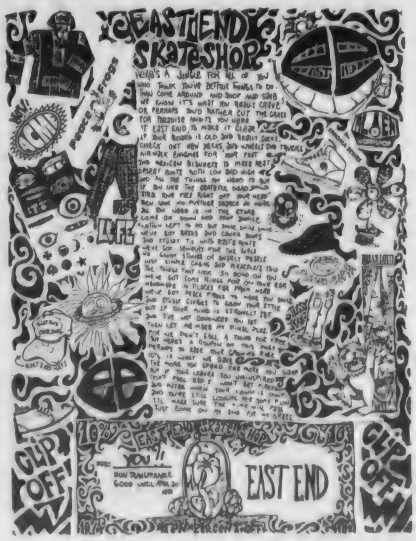
After you have answered the above questions, the next step is to begin using traditional and nontraditional approaches to the job search. You want to use as many approaches as possible to increase your chances at getting a good job. Traditional approaches include: 1) identifying job openings, 1) identifying potential employers, 3) participating in on-campus interviews, and 4) seeking out employment agencies/services. All four approaches have advantages and disadvantages. The nontraditional approach involves conducting informational interviews.

In order to learn details of the above job search process, come to our final Job Search Skills Workshop on Thursday, April 18 at 1 p.m., CPPC, 2nd Floor South Ruffner. Furthermore, if you still need to write your resume and are confused about cover letters and interviewing, there are workshops left: Resume Writing: Tuesday, April 16 at 1 p.m., Cover Letter Writing: Monday, April 15 at 4 p.m., and Interviewing Skills: Wednesday, April 10 at 4 p.m. and Tuesday, April 23 at 1 p.m. If you cannot attend any of the workshops, at least stop by CPPC soon and collect some of the information that is available.

Remember, your future is up to you. This process is not accomplished hurriedly. This article is an attempt to give a "jumpstart" to those who may need it. We can help you in preparing for the future, but only if you come and visit us. Don't wait until it is too late.

Make your classes easier by helping yourself to SMART (Student Managed Academic Residential Tutoring). Whether you need a tutor or study companions, we can help! Study sessions are being offered throughout this semester on 4th floor, South Cunningham. Check the SMART bulletin board in the New Smoker for information about study groups already formed or to start your own group. If you have any questions, please contact Roger Hanna - 3002 or Scott Lissner - 2391.

Dr. "Flash" Blaunelt, physical education professor here at Longwood, will shave his beard for the first time if Delta Psi Kappa, the honorary fraternity for physical education raises 200 dollars! Delta Psi Kappa asks you, the student body, to help. Please donate any loose change to Mrs. Flowers, in the P.E. Department Secretary's Office or mail donations to Delta Psi Kappa, Box 915. — Thanks for your support. The members of Delta Psi Kappa



Students interested in auditioning for the Camerata Singers for fall/1991 should contact Dr. Don Trott at 395-2500 to set-up an audition time. All students serious about choral singing are encouraged to try-out. Students who were members of Camerata Singers in past semesters are welcomed to sing-up without an audition necessary. Auditions for new members will take place during the Pre-Registration period of March 27 through April 18.

The Lancer Edition Show Choir will hold auditions for new members on Tuesday, April 2 and 9 at 8 p.m. in Wygal Recital Hall. All students interested should show up prepared to sing and imitate some choreography. For more information, call 2500.

Beginning April 1, individuals wishing to play golf on the weekends or holidays at the Longwood Golf Course will be required to reserve a tee time. Tee times may be made by calling the Pro Shop (#2613) twenty-four hours in advance of when needed.

Effective April 1, the dress code for play at the Golf Course will be enforced. Specifically, no tank tops will be allowed; all shirts must have sleeves; shorts will be allowed but length must come to midthigh.

The Music Department will be holding auditions for next year's production of "Amahl and the Night Visitors" on April 23 at 6 p.m. in Wygal Music Building. The opera calls for six major roles including: Amahl-soprano, the Mother-soprano, King Kaspar-tenor, King Melchior-baritone, King Balthazar-bass, and the Page-bass. There will also be a supporting chorus of shepherds. For more information and music for the audition, please contact Dr. Trott in Wygal, Office 3 or by calling 2500. All persons interested must pick up music to be learned for the April 23rd auditions.

SPORTS

Longwood Wins 16th Straight In Baseball!!

Longwood's baseball team set a new school record for consecutive victories Sunday, beating Virginia State 4-3 and 8-0 in a college twinbill at Shepherd Stadium in Colonial Heights.

The 26-4 Lancers have won 16 games in a row dating back to a 13-8 victory over Brown March 24. The old record of 15 wins in a row was set in 1984.

The victories over Virginia State capped a week in which the Lancers won 10 games from Tuesday through Sunday. Starting with an 11-4, 22-3 sweep of Oenonta at home, Longwood then won four twinhills on the road. The Lancers beat Bowie State 15-7 and 13-10 Thursday, St. Paul's 13-1 and by forfeit Friday, North Carolina A&T 6-2 and 13-9 Saturday, and then Virginia State.

Longwood next outing is Wednesday at Lynchburg for a single game starting at 3:00. The Lancers are slated to host A&T Saturday for two and Maryland Eastern Shore for a pair Sunday.

Hutzler Paces Sweep Of Trojans

Senior centerfielder Eric Hutzler hit a pair of solo homers in the opener and went 3-4 in the nightcap with two RBI to pace the sweep of Virginia State. Hutzler has five homers and 39 RBI for the season. Terry Taylor hit a two-run homer, his seventh, and Mike Tucker a 3-run shot, his 11th, to pace Longwood's second game win.

The Lancers also got complete game pitching stints from senior Matt Carlisle (4-3) in the opener and Dennis Hale (8-0) in the nightcap. Hale has now won 19 straight decisions over two years and has a career mark of 28-4. Hale struck out 10 and limited the Trojans to two hits. Virginia State is now 16-13.

Mullins, Martz Lead Saturday Victories

Chris Mullins tossed a five hitter and struck out eight in the 6-2 opener and Bill Martz ripped a 3-run homer to pace a comeback in the second game as the Lancers took two from host North Carolina A&T Saturday.

Scott Abell hit a two-run homer, his eighth, and Mike Tucker stretched his school record consecutive game hitting streak to 25 with three hits to support Mullins complete game pitching performance. Tucker's streak ended in the nightcap. Mullins has a 3-1 record for the season.

Eric Hutzler went 4-4 with a pair of RBI as the Lancers, tailing 7-2, rallied for seven runs in the sixth inning to win the second game 13-9. Martz 3-run homer, his sixth, highlighted the Longwood rally. Kyle Weaver, 5-0, who relieved starter Wayne Weaver in the fifth, pitched one inning to pick up the victory.

Adams Picks Up Second Win

Sophomore Mike Adams tossed a two-hitter and Abell and E. Hutzler drove in five runs with a pair of homers as Longwood belted St. Paul's 13-1 in the opener of a doubleheader Friday. the Tigers forfeited the second game to Longwood.

Adams struck out five and walked one in his 5-inning stint as the game was stopped on the 10-run rule. The righthander is 2-0 for the year with an earned run average of 1.03. E. Hutzler hit a grand slam homer in the fourth after Abell hit a two-run shot in the first inning.

Martz, Tucker, Jones Hit Homers

Bill Martz went the distance on the mound in the first game and hit a two-run homer in the second as Longwood beat Bowie State 15-7 and 13-10 Thursday in Bowie, MD. Martz moved his pitching record to 2-0 with the first game win. Mike Tucker and Shawn Jones hit homers to highlight the Lancers' 14-hit attack.

Martz homer led a 14-hit attack to back winning pitcher Kyle Weaver in the nightcap. Matt Carlisle provided relief help in the sixth. Abell went 3-5 with a pair of doubles and two RBI, Tucker 3-4 with a double and a triple and E. Hutzler drove in three runs with two hits.

Lacrosse Falls To Randolph-Macon

The Longwood lacrosse team continued its slow start Thursday with a 12-6 loss to Randolph-Macon College in Ashland, dropping the team's record to 0-3.

Longwood trailed by only a single goal after the conclusion of first half play, 6-5, and were within reach of its first win. But the fatigued Lady Lancers could not halt the constant attack by the Lady Yellow Jackets as Randolph-Macon added six more goals during the second stanza.

"We were playing better than we had all season during the first half," commented head coach Sandy Bridgeman. "Everyone was marking well and moving the ball around, but we just ran out of gas in the second half."

Juniors Ellen Binswager, Carver Ports, and Lara Cini each stuffed in two goals and Cini and Anita Warford each added an assist.

The Lady Lancers host Mary Baldwin College Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. and Hollins College Thursday at 4 p.m. Both games will be played on First Avenue Field.

Lady Netters Win One, Lose One

Longwood's women's tennis team blanked Southern Seminary 9-0 last Monday at home, but dropped a hard-fought 6-3 match at Lynchburg Tuesday, evening its season record at 2-2. Next up for Coach Angie Coppedge's squad is a match at Averett Friday.

The Lady Lancers were leading a match at home Friday against Virginia Wesleyan 4-2 when rain halted play.

Winners for Longwood in Monday's match included (in singles): Jenny Holm (1), Suzie Lawman (2), Jenny Proffitt (3) Melanie Saunders (4) Kimber Bear (5) and Jennifer Risko (6). In doubles Holm and Lawman were winners at No. 1, Proffitt and Saunders at No. 2 and Bear and Heathier Leach at No. 3.

Against Lynchburg, Lawman won at No. 2 singles and Saunders at No. 4. Holm and Lawman also were victorious at No. 1 doubles. Saunders now has a 4-0 mark for the season in singles.

"We played very well against Lynchburg," said Coppedge. "We've done a little better against them each of the past three years. Several of the matches we lost went three sets.

"We're a lot stronger team than our record would indicate. We have depth and potential, and we're still young, so I hope we'll improve as the season goes along."

Hutzler Named Player Of The Week

Senior centerfielder Eric Hutzler hit .559 and drove in 20 runs on the diamond last week, leading Longwood's baseball team to 10 wins. For his performance, Hutzler has been named Longwood College Player of the Week for the period of March 31-April 7. Player of the week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.

In 10 games last week Hutzler hit .559 (19-34), scored 15 runs, drove in 20 and collected three homers and two doubles. In addition he hit a pair of homers in the opener and had three hits in the nightcap as the Lancers swept Virginia State 4-3 and 8-0 Sunday.

Hutzler also hit a grand slam homer in a 13-1 win over St. Paul's Friday and went 4-4 in a 13-9 win at North Carolina A&T Saturday.

"Eric really did the job for us against Virginia State and also Saturday at North Carolina A&T," said Lancer coach Buddy Bolding. "His production with the bat was a key factor in our victories last week."

A graduate of Smithtown East High School, Hutzler has been a key factor in Longwood's 26-4 start. Currently, he leads the Lancers in triples with four. He's hitting .404 with 40 runs, 42 hits, 38 RBI, 7 doubles, 5 homers and nine stolen bases in 11 attempts.

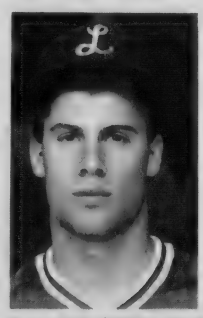


Photo coourtesy of Sports Information

ERIC HUTZLER

Hutzler, whose family now resides in Asheville, N.C., is majoring in business.

Spring Player of the Week Award Winners (beginning March)

March 3-10 Scott Abell, Terry Taylor - Baseball; March 10-17, Robin Jensen - Softball; March 17-24 Chris Porter – Baseball; March 24-31 Mike Tucker - Baseball; March 31-April 7. Eric Hutzler - Baseball.

Softball: For The Fun Of It

By E. MICHELE SHEPARD

"Strike" calls the umpire from behind home plate.

The batter takes a deep breath, waits for the pitch, swings, and sends the ball flying for a first base hit.

"Softball is exciting. It feels good when the bat meets the ball and you know you're going to make it," said Christy Saunders, a junior Longwood softball player.

Longwood Lancer fans get excited watching the softball games held at Armory Field. When things look bad for these Lady Lancers the fans always give their support.

"We each have our own individual ways of dealing with the pressure when we're behind," said Jennifer Brady, catcher. "I try to talk to other players or think of something I can do to help."

This softball team, unlike some others, tries to display good sportsmanship. "One team we played yelled and chanted every time we went into a huddle to distract us," said Christy Saunders.

Loretta Coughlin, the team's coach, not only teaches her players sliding techniques and batting skills, she also teaches them confidence and respect.

"The most important thing I've learned from Coach Coughlin is determination and respect for myself," said left-field Laura Marks.

"She taught us to work as a team, be the best at what we do and never show signs of defeat," added Jennifer Brady.

The Lancers' next home game will be April 18 at 3 p.m. against Bridgewater College.

Men's Golf Trounces Newport News

By MARK KIRK

Another road trip for Longwood's men's golf team finally produced positive results as the Lancers defeated Newport News Apprentice in a head to head match at the par 72 Sleepy Hole Golf Course in Portsmouth on Friday.

The road-weary Lancers won the match by shooting a 329, which was nine strokes better than the Builders' 338.

Longwood sophomore Frank Davide had the best round of the day, firing a six over par 78 to beat Newport News Apprentice's John Maxey by two shots.

Other scores for Longwood were turned in by freshman Shawn Moore 82; freshman Jimmy Ward, 83; senior Darrell Nichols 86; and sophomore Steve Crute, 86.

Longwood will hit the links again Tuesday when they travel to Smith Mountain Lake, for the Radford Invitational.

Marks Named To All Tourney Team

Laura Marks, a junior on the Longwood softball team, was named to the All-Tournament team at the University of North Carolina Greensboro Tournament after an outstanding weekend of play both on the field and at the plate.

Marks, the Lady Lancer leftfielder, was 5-12 (.417) during the four game tournament, raising her season batting average to .289. In the opening game Friday afternoon, Marks nailed a double in the second inning and smashed a 220 foot homer over the leftfield fence in the sixth. For the weekend, Marks knocked in three runs and scored once.

"Laura did a really good job for us this weekend, both offensively and defensively," commented head coach Loretta Coughlin. "She and the rest of the outfield played well during the tournament and Laura's bat was there when no one else was hitting."

Marks, who ranked third among the Lady Lancers last season in hitting with a .352 average, leads Longwood in homeruns this season with two and is tied for second in RBI with eight.

Longwood dropped all four games this weekend, in outings marked by weak hitting and error filled play. In the opening game against host UNC Greensboro, the Lady Lancers scored five times on six hits, but allowed the Lady Spartans 12 runs on 12 hits while committing 10 errors. Senior Pam Fitzgerald was credited with the loss, notching her record for the season at 2-4.

"Our outfield played great defense the whole weekend," explained Coughlin, "but our infield kept turning easy plays into difficult ones."

Against St. Augustine's, the Lady Lancers fell behind early and never managed to recover, losing the Friday evening game 7-4. Sophomore Kathy Brown, 2-1, picked up her first loss of the season, allowing seven hits while walking four and striking out one.

Freshman Andrea Wrenn dropped her first outing of the weekend Friday 3-1 against the powerful California-Pennsylvania squad, and lost a second game Saturday morning to Charleston Southern 3-0. Wrenn posts a record of 3-4.

Photo courtesy of Sports Information

LAURA MARKS

Men's Tennis Splits Pair Of Matches

By MARK KIRK

Longwood's men's tennis team finally reached the winner's circle as they split a pair of matches last week, defeating John Jay and losing to Newport News Apprentice.

Thursday's 8-1 win over John Jay was the first of the season for new Lancer coach Stan Cieplinski and improved the team's record to 1-5.

Winning at singles for Longwood were junior Chris Healing at number one, freshman James Whiteree at the third position, sophomore Eric Haupt at fourth seed, sophomore Mike Myrus of Buckingham at fifth slot, and freshman Kevin Jarrell at sixth position.

Victorious doubles combinations for Longwood were Healing-Reynolds at number one, Whiteree-Jarrell at second position, and Mark Veno and Cyrus at the third slot.

The victory over John Jay came one day after a heartbreaking 5-4 loss to Newport News Apprentice on the road. Singles winners for the Lancers in that match were Healing, Whiteree, and Jarrell. Longwood's number one doubles combination of healing and Reynolds produced the team's only win outside of singles competition.

Longwood returned to the courts Monday for a home match against Eastern Mennonite at 3 p.m., followed by a road match at Ferrum on Tuesday.

Forensics Competition

(Continued from pg. 1)

Students from all majors compete in different areas in Forensics.

Said senior Brandy Musgrove: "I'm a physical education major, and I've participated in many competitions. It's a lot of fun, but it requires a lot of work, time and dedication"

"We usually practice one hour a day, and that can be a real strain on a student, but it is all worth it in the end, the hard work and time does pay off, not only with the credit, but in what I as a person have learned from the experience."

The Forensics Team has participated in many tournaments and had many achievements this year. Five team members have qualified for the National Tournament at Marshall University in Huntington, West Virginia, April 25-29. These students are junior Christy Crews for persuasive speech, freshman Stacy Custer for prose, sophomore Ann Heim for prose and duo with her partner, senior Brandy Musgrove who has also qualified in poetry, and freshman Brandi Polling for prose.

Three students have qualified for the American Forensics Tournament in Tacoma, Washington, April 11-15. These students are junior Christy Crews for persuasive speech, freshman Nathan Neal Wade for impromptu, and freshman Ethan Yonker for prose.

Forensics coach Nancy Haga attends all tournaments with the students. The locations range from George Mason University to New York City to Tacoma, Washington.

Said Haga: "First of all, this looks very good to an employer; it shows that you are willing to work on the weekends. You meet other students at competitions. You can't be dumb and do this. It improves your speaking presentations by placing you in an actual situation."

Yonker, a transfer from the University of Kentucky, and Wade have qualified for both the American and the National Tournaments and have chosen to attend the Tacoma tournament for the experience.

"I've never been to a tournament this big or travelled this far for a forensics tournament. I've only come on the national circuit once before and that was in high school. I'm thrilled!" said Yonker in reference to his upcoming tournament.

With the National Forensics Tournament being the last of the year and the last of her college career, Musgrove said: "It's really sad for this to be my last competition, but I've had so much fun and met so many people. This is my last shot to show them what I'm made of, and I intend to do it. I'm going to give it my best, I want to end this on a good note."

Over the year, a special bond developed between Haga and her team. "We've had a lot of students who received a learning experience, they worked hard, were accountable and responsible," she said. "They've all worked very hard practicing every day. It's been a real pleasure. When you're associating with students who don't mind working, it's a teacher's dream."

CLASSIFIEDS/PERSONALS

FOR SALE

NOVELCO COFFEE MAKER — $10. Stereo/VCR cabinet with rollers $35. Call 392-6561.

CARD COLLECTORS — Baseball, basketball, football. Protect them with 9 card album sheets. 50 sheets per box - $18; 1 sheet - .35¢. Call Teri, 392-8361.

HELP WANTED

Need a Job in the Fall?

Apply in ller to work for the Division of Intramurals and Campus Recreation. Jobs include: Supervisor and equipment checkout for weightroom, racquetball courts, gyms/fields, aerobic fitness instructor, publicity, photographer.

Alpha Taus _ It was great, guys. Susannah, where did you say Sam was again? Kirsten, thanks for being Mary Kay. You did a great job. Jen, poor David. Wasn't a 12-pack just a little much though? McMahon, how about a pro beach volleyball game sometime? Ronda, how is Stacey's head? All in all, it was most definitely a Tau-rific weekend! All my love in AΣT, Christie

Kathy – So how long has she been reating? Sorry the weekend at the beach didn't turn out as you had planned. Just think, next year's ball will have no responsibility! Only 4 days. Tau love and mine, Karenina

You scared me over Spring Break.

I didn't know how else to tell you. But when we went out that last night of Spring Break I was really frightened.

Everybody likes to have a good time. Me too. That's usually why I end up hanging around you. Most of the time we have fun together. Most of the time.

But that night you weren't you, the person I like being with. It had to be because of your drinking, there's no other explanation for your actions. All of a sudden I didn't know who you were...

I was disappointed because I found myself in a situation that I didn't really know how to handle.

I'm not saying you have a drinking problem. I'm saying that you could have been hurt, or worse, hurt someone else that night. And maybe you ought to take a close look at what you are doing so it doesn't happen again.

Maybe I'm not the only one who thinks these things, but I care enough to say something.

I care about you. I do. But you really scared me and I thought you should know that.

Charlie N – Hey, has anybody seen the sun? Oh well, at least we got it at 6 a.m. Did you want to buy a tie? I think "Highlandera" must be playing somewhere soon. I hope you and Matt had a good time – What was that infamous talk you two had anyway? Have you picked up any new pledges by the name of High School Boy? What a long, strange trip it's been!

Thanks- Tau love - Christie

Karenina – How are we gonna top this one? I think we all should have had a chance to Climb Every Mountain though. I'm jealous. Where did Matt get that tie? I think it must be a silk clip-on just for you. At least the weekend was eventful only one arrest and it was neither of ours! Same time, next year? AΣT love and mine, Christie

John T – Can I borrow a dollar? Christie AΣT

RJJ III — Congrats on your new position. You'll be the best! Love — Better than Betty

To the Great White Booty Hunter – I know who you are! I want your sex. Too bad they couldn't play "Unskinny Bop" for you or the song "I Want Your Sex". Did you like the "Pinacolada" song? Keep looking for me!!! Your special admirer

P.S. I wish I thought of the other song so I could have dedicated it to you instead of the other person.

Attention: If your name is Julie Smith, call rent-a-date. Love Lil Bro.

Roses are red. Violets are blue #21 I've got my eye on you. Alcoholic

Cathy – Thanks for being the best big sis! ΔZ love, MC

Sean Copeland – Hey good looking! I never get tired of looking at you in class. Let's get together sometime and I'll buy you a beer! A scam

Tricia B: You're an awesome little sister. Thanks for all your love and support. Keep smiling, you'll soon be my sister. π love U and so do I, Your big sis.

Longwood Lacrosse: 3 games, 3 wins... let's do it T.P.: you're the coolest next to me. Thanks Trisha Ginny M: Congrats fellow R.A. You will be awesome! Nora: Let's chug again soon!

Skipper – We are terrible but fun. Stay out of trouble bozo. We need to do more but who can we do? Keep thinking and I'll come up with some more fun. Beany

Kim Atkins – Hey bozo! Yeah you. Stay out of trouble but have fun trying. You're one wild and crazy gal!! That's okay we like you anyway. T and S

Doogie – Guess "clean" has a new meaning. Zeta love, C&M

Susan H. – Do the "Chrissy", the "Jodi", the "Jaime" and the "Sarah". Zeta Love, M

Hopie – Dancing in a barn or a "portable"? Which do you like better. Lovage, Claudia

Whit – Thanks ever so much for being the best friend ever. Next year will be fun, I just can't wait. You're a real cool girl and you're tons of fun. I'm still sorry you didn't get a personal for your birthday.

Hen Love M.A.

Bones T – Thanks for a fun weekend at ball! Good luck with B.M.O.C.! Love, Elyse

Fuma – What a popular guy you are. Someone's dreaming about you, and you're hanging on to one who loves you (halfway) But stop and think for awhile and you'll see who really cares, and has since our freshman year. ? ? ?

Tuna – You and I will be wind-breaking it down this weekend in our new "Jumpers". Love, Tuna

Yo Kool Kid Frank! – It's been so awesome. Hang'in out with you!!! You are just too kool for school. I love you kid! Alpha Gam Love Maria

Yo Kool Kid Julie – Hope your week is going well? Get ready for this partying spring weekend! Alpha Gam Love, Maria

A.L. – Miss Rose Ball Queen Nominee 1991. This is your week of H.E. Double Hockey sticks. Be prepared!!! Signed your worst nightmare

Dave Fowler – You are a wonderful husband! We cherish every moment that we spend with you. Where are we going on our honeymoon? Your wives

Franki H. – I can't wait to meet your fiancé at Alpha Gam Ball! We know he is the love of your life! Love – Sisters of Alpha Gam

Roommate needed for fall 91/Spr 92 - female only – will have own room. Call Cathy 3672

Chrissy S – Would you like to touch my monkey? Love Jackbobbilltimted

Bash'm _ How about them showers! Zeta Love C&M

Jaime S – "Isn't it a little too late for that?" And "God" would definitely not say that. Does age have anything to do with it? Zeta love, C and M

To all sisters and pledges of Zeta Tau Alpha – You are the "coolest". I love you, Claudia V

Jenny P – Do you want some green eggs and ham? Zeta love, C and M

Hey Attitude – You still owe me five dollars Ha Ha. You know who

Michelle _ You are the best roomie! I live you, Claud

To all Va. Beach Alpha Taus – Thanks for a very successful ball. I hope everyone enjoyed themselves as much as I did. Tau love and mine, Karen.

Christie – Well we made it through ball! Only four more weeks to go. Thanks for being my roommate. Tau love, Karenina

Charlie – Remember to always measure twice before cutting. Volore! Heavy metal shirts and wood paneled station wagons. I hope you had a good time. I've got some ironing for you. It was good getting to know you. Karen

Alpha Tau's – I had a ball, how about you? Karen, I'm sure Christie would leave if you asked her! Are we going swimming later Kathy? Christie, as long as none of that dress fell into the toilet. Elyse, I really didn't want that boning. I'm sure that guy really didn't want his seat, either. Let's save the crying for weekdays from now on, O.K.? I love you guys with all my heart. Tau love, Jen

Bones T – nice boxers! Sorry I was Jewish at the mother, but your pants will dry! You should break that bathroom obsession of yours! Good luck at BMOC. Jen

Lancer Baseball Team – Great job guys! Keep up the good work! May all your balls soar! Your fan Sharnise

Knock'em out the ballpark! Your fan Sharnise

Congratulations, Mike, on breaking a record! Let's break another. Love ya! Sharnise

Mike – I want a homerun that's just for me! Sharnise

Tracey and Patty would like to wish our rushees the best of luck with pledging! Keep up your hard work, it's almost over. Luv your Rho Chis.

LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE

OPEN 8-5 MONDAY-FRIDAY PHONE 395-2084

20%OFF

ON ALL GEAR-FOR-SPORTS™ BRAND

SWEATSHIRTS IN STOCK

BOXER SHORTS REG. $11.95

NOW ONLY $9.55!

Sale good April 9 through April 13th!

Be sure to stop by and register to WIN A FREE ROTUNDA PRINT T-SHIRT by Gear-For Sports™ ($15.95). Drawing to be held Friday afternoon at 3 p.m. You do not have to be present to win; however, you must be a Longwood student, faculty, or staff member to win.

SPRING WEEKEND SPECIAL HOURS: SAT., APRIL 13, 10 AM - 2 PM

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE ROTUNDA!

For more information:
Contact Brad Owen
Phone (804) 395-2120 or 395-3253

Box 1133
Farmville, VA 23901

FAST FUNDRAISING PROGRAM

$1000 IN JUST ONE WEEK.

Earn up to $1000 in one week for your campus organization.

Plus a chance at $5000 more!

This program works! No investment needed.

Call 1-800-932-0528 Ext. 50

STUDENT/BUSINESS RELIEF

574-6426

STUDENT RATES

Employment Resumés	$2.50 1st page
additional pages	$2.25 per page
Term Papers	$2.50 1st page
additional pages	$2.25 per page
Diagram/Form Papers	$3.00 per page

INTRODUCTION SPECIAL THRU APRIL

All papers excluding diagram/forms $2.25 per page

CONTINUING EDUCATION SERVICES

Teaching professional typing techniques $4.00 per hour

STUDENT ORGANIZATION REGISTRATION PROCEDURE

Attention all student leaders...

The SGA has implemented a registration procedure for all student organizations. All groups that want to be recognized as Longwood student organizations should comply by the provisions of the registration procedure.

More information will be sent out to advisors and chief officers next week. Make sure that your organization is registered!!

Don't get left out

REGISTER NOW!!

For more information or for registration forms, please contact the Office of Student Development (Tel 395-2414).

Benefits Of Registration:

- Inclusion in directory / handbook for easier contact making & membership drives
- Leadership info (Conventions, conferences, workshops and CCT)
- Eligibility for activity fees, (unless prohibited by law or College/BOV policy)
- Space reservation and facility rental privileges
- Recognition for campus events
- College Plant Vehicle use privileges
- Booth reservations - at Spring Weekend, organization fairs and/or Orientation
- Approval for putting up posters on campus.
- Use of Longwood's name (e.g. Club 101 at Longwood College)

ATTENTION SENIORS:

ANTICIPATED COUNSELOR POSITION ADMISSIONS OFFICE

Longwood's Admissions Office anticipates employing an admissions counselor beginning on or about mid-July and ending in May 1992. High energy, good communications skills and active involvement while at Longwood Prerequisites for successful candidates.

Salary $1606.00 per month, no benefits, all travel expenses paid. Must be willing to work at Admissions programs on weekends and evenings.

Interested candidates should contact Bob Chonko, Director of Admissions at X2060.

Summertime At Longwood SUMMER SESSION DATES

First Session	May 20 - June 7
Second Session	June 17 - July 12
Third Session	July 15 - August 9

REMINDER:

Only courses taken at Longwood count towards your GPA. Students suspended at the end of spring semester may not take courses at Longwood during the summer.

SUMMERTIME AT LONGWOOD

Summer Activities

During the summer sessions the racquetball courts, tennis courts, volleyball courts, swimming pool, and weight room will be open on a regular basis.

Coed softball games will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Two-on-two volleyball tournaments will be held on the sand courts in the evenings.

The arcade, pool hall, and bowling alley will also be open on a regular basis. The Second Annual Summerfest will be held on July 31, with Fat Ammons Band.

-FREE-
PREGNANCY TEST

All services confidential.
Same day results.
SOUTHSIDE PREGNANCY CENTER
24-HOUR HOTLINE
392-8483

SPRING WEEKEND 1991

April 11

★ Scott Jones - Singer/Comedian
8 p.m. Gold Room
Sponsored by Student Union Board

April 12

★ Oozeball Tournament
3 p.m. (Continues all weekend)
Courts in front of Stubbs
Sponsored by Longwood Ambassadors

★ BMOC
8 p.m. Lancer Gym
Sponsored by Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority

★ REGENCY!
9 p.m. Gold Room
Sponsored by Student Union Board

★ Rocky Horror Picture Show
Midnight Lankford Mall (Rain site Iler Gym)

April 13

★ 8:30-9:30 a.m. — Registration (Admissions)

★ 9 a.m.-Noon — Campus Tours (Admissions)
Information Center (Admissions)

★ 11:30 a.m. — Chili Cook-Off Judging (ARA)

★ Noon-1 p.m. — Chili and Lunch Served (ARA)

★ Noon-4 p.m. — Caricature Artists (S-UN)
Gyro Fun Ride (S-UN)
Video Buttons (S-UN)
Recording Booth (S-UN)

★ Noon-1 p.m. and 3-4:30 p.m. — WLCX DJ

★ Noon-4 p.m. — Beer Garden (ARA)
Lancer Cafe

★ 1 p.m. — Catalinas Show
Lancer Pool

★ 1-3 p.m. — 17 Relics - Band (S-UN)

★ 3:30 p.m. — Lancer Dancers

★ 4:30-6:30 p.m. — Mike Rayburn-Singer/Songwriter
Dinner Served by ARA

April 14

★ 12 Noon — Bandfest (S-UN)

Rain location for all S-UN events is Lankford Student Union.

INSIDE: Spring Weekend In Pictures

Yearbook In Jeopardy

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
News 3
Features 5
Sports 6
Spring Weekend 7
Classifieds/Personals 8

APRIL 15, 1991

The ROTUNDA

VOL. 70 NO. 17 | LONGWOOD COLLEGE | FARMVILLE, VIRGINIA

Dean Of Business School Chosen

A native Virginian with more than 20 years of administrative and economic development experience in state government and higher education has been chosen to head Longwood College's School of Business and Economics.

Dr. Berkwood M. Farmer, 52, will assume his position as Dean of Longwood's business School on July 1. His appointment follows a six-month nationwide search.

Presently, Dr. Farmer is senior economist with the Virginia Department of Economic Development. He also has been executive director of the rural Virginia Development Foundation and chief economist and director of planning and development for the Virginia Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services.

Prior to joining state government, Dr. Farmer was on the faculty at the University of Richmond and the U. S. Military Academy, West Point.

In announcing the appointment, Longwood President William F. Dorrill said: "Dr. Farmer knows and is highly respected by many business and education leaders in this area, in Richmond, and around the state. That will be a great asset to our Business School."

In accepting the appointment, Dr. Farmer said: "I am honored to be joining an institution with proven academic excellence. I look forward to working with students, faculty, administrators, and business and community leaders to strengthen the Business School's programs, opportunities, and services."

Dr. Farmer grew up in Ringgold in Pittsylvania county and was graduated from Dan River High School. He then went to North Carolina State University, where he received B.S. and M.S. degrees in agricultural economics and the Ph.D. in economics.

He served in the U. S. Army from 1965 to 1971, attaining the rank of Major. He was company commander of a unit at Fort Hood, Texas, and took the company to South Vietnam in the fall of 1966.

While serving in Vietnam, Dr. Farmer was invited to join the faculty of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. He accepted that position and taught economics, political science, and economics of national security at West Point from 1968 to 1971.

During his final year there, Dr. Farmer administered and taught an advanced honors course in economics to the top 60 academic students at West Point and was principal faculty adviser to the debate team.

He received the Bronze Star for Valor in Vietnam in 1967 and the Army Commendation Medal for leadership in 1971.

Dr. Farmer then went to the University of Richmond and served for three years as associate dean of University College, directing the large evening division of graduate and undergraduate business and commerce programs. He also taught courses in business and economics.

Joining the Virginia Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services in 1974, Dr. Farmer was responsible for strategic planning, economic research, policy formulation and program development. He prepared quarterly forecasts for Virginia's agricultural economy.

In 1988, he was chosen to head the Rural Virginia Development Foundation, a new agency with a legislative goal to establish a private sector, for-profit financial institution in Virginia.

Dr. Berkwood M. Farmer will assume his position on July 1, 1991.

As executive director of the foundation's 17-member board appointed by the Governor, he worked for two years with CEOs and board chairmen of major banks and corporations in Virginia and with members of the General Assembly to obtain $11 million of private sector investment to capitalize this new financial institution.

In another business venture in 1986, Dr. Farmer was one of the founding directors of Fidelity Federal Savings Bank in Richmond. When it opened, this institution had more equity and more stockholders than any new savings and loan ever in the state of Virginia. He continues to serve on the bank's board of directors, executive committee, audit and loan committees, and is chairman of the strategic planning committee.

Among numerous other professional activities during his tenure in state government, Dr. Farmer was chairman of the Virginia Rural Development Authority Task Force, member of the Governor's Food and Nutrition Task Force, member of the Virginia Econometric Model Task Force, and director of the Virginia Agricultural Opportunity Study Commission. He is chair of the Business Management Advisory Committee for J. Sargeant Reynolds Community College.

He was president of the Richmond chapter of the American Marketing Association in 1982-83 and received the organization's Golden Candlestick Leadership Award.

Dr. Farmer has given numerous presentations on economics, finance, marketing, agriculture, environment, and land-use planning to academic, business, and professional groups throughout Virginia. He is the author of research reports, articles, and book chapters.

New Residence Hall Under Construction

Completion Expected In 18 Months

By SHERRY GATEWOOD

A new residence hall is under construction on Griffin Blvd., between the new Library and Stubbs. It will house 160 students and will be ready for occupancy in 18 months. Rooms will be for upperclassmen with consideration given to their GPA.

Frazier Construction Company of Lynchburg was hired to build this residence hall as part of a campus expansion plan in the years to come. The estimated cost of the building is $3-1/2 million and the overall project is $5 million.

The money to finance this project came from state bond revenues. David Rettig, Director of Housing explained, "the state sells bonds to raise money" which is loaned to the college. Longwood will repay the funds over a twenty year plan.

The new building is expected to alleviate the expanded housing situation which students have experienced during the past few years. Also, it will allow for the growth of Longwood, especially during the latter half of this decade.

Students Pay For Vandalism

"I hope...people begin to realize the extent of the problem...."

By PATRICK CARR

Who would have ever imagined the amount of money spent on vandalism last semester?

Last semester $24,052.95 was spent on repairing damages in Longwood residences. That's $22,859.20 more than the fall semester in 1989 and $21,131.98 more than the fall semester in 1988.

David Rettig, Director of Housing, gave three reasons for the dramatic increases in common area damage charges: "The first is related to elevator damage. This was $12,008.10 of the total. The second is that the College has changed from water to dry chemical fire extinguisher. Replacement and recharging of extinguishers contributed to $2,130 of the total. The third is that the College has developed a better method for tracking and billing such charges."

The students are paying for these charges. Upon entering Longwood College each resident paid a $100 damage deposit. The demage on a hall is divided by the number of people living on that hall. As many students found out last week, one can not register if their damage deposit falls below $50.

The Residence Life Work Group is an organization of students and administrators that discuss issues on our campus. They have acknowledged this problem and are attempting to solve it. They believe the students should be aware of how these damage fees are being paid and the consequences involved in them.

According to Code 18.2-137 and 138 of Police • Crimes And Offenses And Motor Vehicle Laws Of Virginia, 1990 edition, injuring any public buildings or property that is not his or her own is a Class 1 misdemeanor with a penalty of no more than 12 months in jail and/or a fine of up to $2,500.

The three most common forms of vandalism involve elevators, fire extinguishers and ceiling tiles. It now costs $40 to recharge a dry chemical extinguisher and $5 to replace a single ceiling tile, according to Rettig.

The Residence Life Work Group also expressed their fear in the new fad crossing the country. It's called "elevator surfing." It not only costs countless dollars to repair elevators but is dangerous.

According to USA Today, March 28: "Authorities said Edwin Torres, 12, died Tuesday (3-26-91) at a New York housing project while trying to jump from one elevator roof to another in a game called "elevator surfing." He fell four or five floors. Officials said 13 have died playing this game since 1984."

At Indiana State University a college student died recently while elevator surfing. He was pinned on top of an elevator according to The Chronicle Of Higher Education, April 3, issue.

Rettig said, "I hope as people begin to realize the extent of the problem that we will see a reduction [in damage expenses] for the spring semester."

Common Area Damage Repair Costs for Fall 1990

Colonnades	$300.00
Cox	$5,044.90
Cunninghams	$1,527.50
Curry	$3,475.99
Frazer	$8,432.32
French	$250.00
S. Ruffner	$275.50
Stubbs	$521.00
Tabb	$591.50
Wheeler	$3,609.74
TOTAL	$24,052.95

BE SURE TO CAST YOUR VOTE TODAY AND TOMORROW FOR THE SGA ELECTIONS.

White House "Watchdog" To Visit Longwood

Lawrence M. O'Rourke, a journalist who has covered national and international events for two major newspapers for more than 25 years, is visiting Longwood College this week as a Woodrow Wilson Visiting Fellow.

O'Rourke, who has been covering Desert Shield, Desert Storm, and its aftermath in the Middle East for some seven months, will give a public lecture on Thursday evening, April 18, at 7 p.m. in Bedford Auditorium.

He will discuss his experiences in the Persian Gulf and some of the challenges and problems with news coverage before, during, and after the war.

O'Rourke also will speak at Hampden-Sydney College, on Tuesday afternoon, April 16, at 4:30 p.m. in Crawley Forum. His lecture there will deal with what's happening in modern communications and its significance to government and politics.

Both lectures are open to everyone free of charge.

O'Rourke is White House correspondent and Washington columnist for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

His stories for that paper in recent years have included an examination of U. S.-European trade practices; a series on the Republic of Ireland's economic distress and the continuing violence in northern Ireland; on-the-scene coverage in the Philippines of the ouster of Ferdinand R. Marcos as president and his replacement by Corazon C. Aquino; reports on the political and economic situation in South Korea; a series reported from Japan on the trade war between Japan and the U. S.; and coverage of the Bush presidential campaign.

For 10 years, 1970-1980, O'Rourke was Washingotn bureau chief and White House correspondent for The Philadelphia Bulletin. Before that, he covered national politics, Congress, and the Supreme Court for the Philadelphia paper.

(Continued on pg. 6)

COMMENTARY

Letter To The Editor

The Rotunda* reserves the right to refuse any future editorials that are not signed. We will not print your name should you wish it not to be, but the original letter must be signed.

Editor, The Rotunda,

I am writing in reference to the registrar's fall schedule and the drawings that followed some of the course listings, specifically the little man seen with the big sombrero under Spanish. I would like to know why such a foolish looking representation of the Hispanic culture was chosen. I believe it is a lack of cultural awareness on the part of the person in charge of putting the picture there. I would like this person to know that the Hispanic culture is much more than a Mexican man wearing a big hat and a blanket over his shoulder. Not only that, the Hispanic culture is much more than Mexico! There is Spain, Venezuela, Ecuador, Colombia, Paraguay, Uruguay, Honduras, Chile, Argentina, need I go on? As a Spanish major, I am outraged that you have reduced such a beautiful culture down to such a foolish picture! It makes Spanish look as if it is made for lazy, stupid students (misjudged stereotypes commonly associated with the sombrero wearing Hispanic).

In addition, as an Hispanic on this campus I would be outraged. The picture would give me nothing with which to identify my race or my culture. Such a picture would embarrass me and make me feel inferior to know this is how others perceive me; that others must rely on stereotypes to represent my culture.

To help you understand how much of an insult this is, it would be like reducing the German culture down to a stein of beer or the French culture down to a man wearing a beret with a cigarette hanging out of his mouth, leaning up against a street lamp, waiting for FIFI to walk by.

All of these cultures have given something to the way we live and the way we think. Most of our ancestors have European roots, and if it were not for Columbus' voyage (thanks to Spain) we might not be the country we are today.

Beth Verley

Editor, The Rotunda,

I am writing in reference to the new library. I have to admit, the new building is very impressive, and its appearance certainly improves upon Lancaster, but aside from this comment, I have no other complements.

To begin with, I have been informed that when the remainder of the books come over from Lancaster, they will be placed downstairs, and we will have to request them for use. The reason for this situation is the supposed lack of space, but I have a problem with that excuse. My confusion stems from the fact that in the library of Congress Section, there may be five books on a shelf that could possibly hold ten or twelve. If the books there were consolidated, maybe there would be more space for other books.

This problem of requesting books or "Closed Stacks" causes me much distress. We are a small school with much emphasis on research, and if we don't have access to the books, our research will not be as complete as it could be. In other words, in the old library, if I found a book I liked and went to the shelf, I might have found four or five other books that would have also helped me. Now, I must request books that I'm not sure will even help me. Plus, I cannot realistically request an entire section of books. I think our research and papers are going to suffer as a result of this situation.

One final note on this "Closed Stacks" situation is about letting the students know. If the library is determined to stick with this ridiculous idea, the least they could do is put a sign up in the reference room so that students won't think that certain periodicals are not there.

Another problem is the combination of the reference and periodical sections. Because of this situation, you might be asking a question about a reference source, and the librarian is helping someone in periodicals. I forsee a lot of problems with this.

In conclusion, I think the students are going to suffer because of all of this. Professors aren't concerned with problems in the library; they just want you to create a super paper. I'm just glad I'm graduating so that all four years of my papers won't suffer.

Sincerely,
Cathy Mapp

Editor, The Rotunda,

The Longwood community should feel outraged that an official Longwood College publication, page 13 of the Fall 1991 Master Schedule of Classes, contains a demeaning cultural characterization. However, students should ignore this denigrating characterization when considering Spanish language courses. Instead, when one thinks of Spanish language cultures and countries one should think of modern literature. Three of the past ten Nobel Prizes in literature were from Spanish language countries: Octavio Paz, México; Camilo Jose Cela, Spain; and Gabriel Garcia Márquez, Columbia. One should think of diplomacy. Javier Pérez de Cuéllar, Secretary General of the United Nations, is from Peru. One should think of positive world change. Three of the past ten individuals receiving the Nobel Prize for peace were from Spanish language countries: Oscar Arias Sánchez, Costa Rica; Alfonso Garcia Robles, México; And Adolfo Pérez Esquivel, Argentina. One should think of music: Plácido Domingo, Jose Carreras, Julio Iglesias. One should think of art: Pablo Picasso, Diego Rivera, and Salvador Dali. One should think of sports. The 1992 summer Olympics will be in Barcelona, Spain. One should think of business. Before the year 2000 the U.S. will join Mexico and Canada to form a common market without economic boundaries.

Robert E. Berry
Assistant Professor
Department of Economics and Finance

NEWS

APO Volunteers Services To Local SPCA

By TAMMY LEE

Each month, members of Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity have volunteered their services to the SPCA located off of route 360.

"Animals need attention in order to make good pets, so our job is to play with them and give them the attention they need," said Irene Rischke, one of the co-chairs of the SPCA committee in Alpha Phi Omega.

Each animal residing at the Shelter has been named and has gone through an entering process in which it is wormed and temporarily secluded for observation.

The SPCA has not received any government funding; therefore, the organization has survived primarily on donations from various organizaitons and on adoption fees.

Alpha Phi Omega members have contributed by collecting newspapers and boxes for the animals to lie on in their cages. Cans have also been placed in dorms to collect change as a donation for the SPCA.

According to Ms. Rischke many of the animals have been at the SPCA for years and need to be adopted. Animals have only been put to sleep, she reported, if they were in extreme pain or if living quarters became too crowded. Adoption has been made possible, but only to those who agree to have the animal spayed or neutered and to pay an adoption fee.

Pictured from left to right are Careda Williams, Staci Sandler, and Lori Lazear holding some of the animals at the SPCA.

Ms. Rischke said her favorite animals were a sheep dog named Jessie and twin cats named Weebles and Special K. Ms. Rischke has known Jessie for two months and loves to play with her, making Jessie "very special." Special K and Weebies are brain damaged but remain "happy cats", and are also "very special" to Ms. Rischke.

Ms. Rischke said one of the most exciting and rewarding part of the program was rescuing some stray puppies. "As we were leaving, we actually rescued three puppies" said Rischke.

Future of The Virginian Looking Gloomy

By KIMBERLY S. FOSTER

What is the future of the yearbook?

"I honestly don't know. The apathetic attitudes I get from everyone including faculty, staff, administration and students makes me feel no one wants a book, except the 200 people who bought one this year," said Yearbook Editor Linda Wright.

Ms. Wright is a junior elementary education major from Suffolk, and the current editor of The Virginian, Longwood's yearbook.

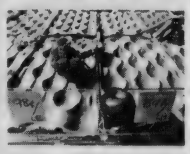
She is assisted by her staff and their advisor, Lynette Jennings, 1989 Longwood College political science graduate.

In reference to the future of the yearbook Miss Wright said that there's always a slight possibility we won't have one. She says, "Miss Jennings is sending personal appeals to students with yearbook experience to apply for Editor of The Virginian."

She said the editor deals with layouts, copy, selling ads, delegating authority and training others to do the same.

Miss Wright said that a quality book costs $10,000 to produce. She received $1,500 from SGA this semester.

The rest of the money is raised by selling old yearbooks, new books, ads, lollipops, and old candid photographs. They are nearing their goal but still have a way to go.



Miss Wright said that if 3,000 books were ordered it would cost approximately $6 per book to produce. She has asked the administration to include the yearbook in tuition but so far has not been successful.

As the semester draws to a close the new book titled, "Excellence Under Construction" (title by Sonja Bethea), is nearing completion according to Miss Wright.

"The purpose of the yearbook is to capture things we will want to remember in the future and to act as a public relations piece to show off and help sell the college," she said.

This new book according to Miss Wright will show a lot of changes happening what with budget cuts, the new library and renovations. She said she believes," there are a lot of positive changes going on that are going to make Longwood a better place to attend."

Food Fight Erupts in Neighborhood Supermarket

Carrots, broccoli, and fresh fruit flew into grocery carts as The Great American Food Fight Against Cancer broke out in area supermarkets.

Consumers are reacting to studies showing that foods high in fiber and low in fat may help reduce cancer risk.

One mother was seen throwing carrots into her bag. "Snacks for the kids," she said. "This food fight is pretty exciting," said one produce manager, "and there's nothing to clean up!"

The American Cancer Society, sponsor of the Food Fight, has more information. Call 1-800-ACS-2345. And, be on the lookout for Community Crusade volunteers armed with shopping lists.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY®
Public Service Message

THE STAFF:

The ROTUNDA

Box 1133
Longwood College
Farmville, Va. 23901

Editor-In-Chief Monica Y. Gilbert
Managing Editor Bradley L. Owen
Features Editor Lindy Seymore
Sports Editor Charlie Fultz
Photography Editor Judi Weller
Layout Editor Sarah Whiteside
Layout Assistant Deborah Wilson
News Editor Christopher Jones
Business Manager Anita Owens
Advertising Manager Bradley L. Owen
Faculty Advisor Barbara LaJaunie

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed or printed neatly. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is 3:00 p.m. Friday prior to the Monday publication date and these should be placed in the envelope on the Publication door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by midnight Sunday.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an American Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

FEATURES

Choirs And Flute Give Ensemble Two Concerts This Week

Longwood College's Flute Ensemble, Camerata Singers and Concert Choir will be featured in two concerts this week. Both concerts are open to the public free of charge.

The Flute Ensemble's performance will be Monday evening, April 15, at 8 p.m. in Wygal Auditorium. The program features four compositions from the Baroque and Romantic eras. The composers are Reicha, Kummer, Naudot, and Boismortier.

The flutists are: Linda Slayton, from Pamplin, a biology major at Longwood with a minor in music; Jana Davis, from Broadway, a music major; Heather Gilbert, from Richmond, an English major; Deanna Gibson, from Virginia Beach, a business major with concentration in accounting; and Indira Etwaroo, from Newport News, a music major. The ensemble is directed by Patricia Werrell.

The Camerata Singers and Concert Choir will present their annual spring choral concert on Thursday evening, April 18, at 8 o'clock in Wygal Auditorium.

The 36-voice Camerata Singers will open the program with selections from their recent performance at the National Cathedral in Washington and their six-day tour which included a performance at the U.S. Naval Academy.

Works include "When Jesus Wept" by William Billings; "Wondrous Love," arranged by Robert A. Boyd; "Set Me As a Seal" by Rene Clausen; and "Hymn to St. Peter" by Benjamin Britten.

The Concert Choir will perform a variety of musical styles, including "The Road Not Taken" by Randall Thompson; a folk song title "Mary Ann," arranged by Paul Hendrickson; "Ev'ry Time I Feel the Spirit," a spiritual by William Dawson; and a patriotic medley titled "an American Salute," arranged by Ed Lojeski.

The two choirs will combine to sing two selections – "Poor Man Lazrus," arranged by Jester Hairston; and "Hark I Hear the Harps Eternal," arranged by Alice Parker.

Dr. Donald Trott directs the Camerata Singers and Concert Choir.

Euripides' Electra Opens Wednesday Night April 17

By ANN RENEE HEIM

Where will you be at 8 on Wednesday, April 17? Over fifty students here will be acting in and producing Electra over at Jarman Auditorium.

The production, several days from opening night is "really coming together well," said sophomore Gregg Baird, he will portray Palades in the show. The cast of twenty-one has worked for five weeks to put this production on for the students, faculty, staff, and public.

Euripides' Electra is a Greek tragedy about how the lives of Electra, played by senior Suzanne Williams, and Orestes, portrayed by junior Walter Alford, are affected by the actions of their mother, Clytemnestra, senior Sharon Donohue, and how they take fate into their own hands to avenge the blood of their father whom she killed.

Donohue, who hasn't been seen acting on Jarman state since Baby With the Bathwater last year, said in reference to her last performance at Longwood, "I'm glad that so many people are working on this show, it creates a bigger family for my last show and we're all together.

I also think it's funny; in my first role, I played Mustard Seed, a full-of-life fairy in Mid-Summer Night's Dream, I was a freshman — and for my last role I get killed — it's kind of ironic."

Not only does Electra provide the opportunity for new acting talent but it is also the first musical play to be presented by the Players at Longwood since 1989's Androcles and the Lion. Senior Kaddy Feast, who played the title role in Androcles, will also be among the chorus in this production. The chorus consists of seven members: freshman Cindy Callahan, sophomore Jenny Collins, senior Kaddy Feast, Sophomore Jennifer Markham, junior Michelle Neubecker, senior Vern Williamson, and junior Christine Willis. The chorus relays the dramatic action by way of song, dance and chant throughout the course of the play.

The play will show at 8 p.m. from April 17-20 in Jarman Auditorium. Electra is a one hour and fifteen minute show and will be run without an intermission. The admission is $5 for public, $3 for senior citizens, and free for Longwood students with an ID.

Electra is the first Greek tragedy to be put on by the Longwood Players since Lysistrata in 1989. The Players' production next year will be MacBeth and The Picnic in the fall semester and A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, a musical, and The Importance of Being Earnest in the spring.

Honors Banquet Successful

By ANN RENEE HEIM

On Wednesday, April 10, the annual Honors Banquet was held in Blackwell Dining Hall. Students from all areas of study were honored for their academic and extra-curricular achievements.

The ceremony was opened with a performance by the Longwood College Handbell Ensemble directed by Paul S. Heselink. After their performance, Dr. Sandra Briel gave a speech defining in her terms the meaning of honor, and the link between the Honor Students and the system of Honor here at Longwood.

A formal recognition of the Longwood Scholars: seniors Beth Ann Lord Cox, and Vernelle Seay Williamson; junior Staci Robyn Sandler; sophomores Mary Carter Davis, Teresa Ann Garren, Susan Lynn Johnson, and Patricia A. McCormick; and freshmen Kimberly A. Boucher and Wendy Marie Sprouse; was given by Dr. Stuart.

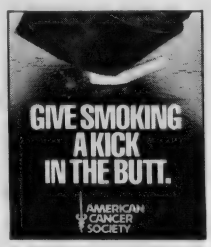
He then announced the May 1991 Honors Program Graduates, Who's Who Winners, Phi Kappa Phi (the members of the junior senior Honor Fraternity), and the students who have received a 4.0 GPA for their outstanding academic achievements within the past year.

Nancy Haga then introduced the American and National Forensics Teams for their progression to the National Competitions in the next few weeks.

The reminder of the banquet was devoted to the recognition of award winners; such as the Geist-Elizabeth Burger Jackson Award, the Outstanding Senior Majoring in Chemistry, and the Awards for Highest Academic Honors; and the introduction to the recipients of various scholarships, such as the John Carr Accounting Scholarship and the C. G. Gordon Moss Scholarship.

Ten students served as ushers for the evening, both seating guests and serving dinner. Floral arrangements and white tablecloths gave Blackwell a new, professional look.

Annual Faculty Follies Arrives



By IRENE RISCHKE

Faculty Follies, an annual student organized faculty talent show, will take place on Wednesday, April 17 at 7 p.m. in Wygal.

The event is being sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, a national service fraternity. Tickets are $2 for non-students, $1 for students and will be available at the door. Proceeds will go to the Bobby Ferrar Trust Fund.

The theme for the night is "A Salute to America". The emcee will be Franklin Grant. Featured talents include Nancy Yesbeck, MaryKaye Benton, Steve Dealph, Bill Froude, Dr. and Mrs. Dorrill, Brenda Cross, Alpha Phi Omega Brothers and a special surprise act.

For more information, contact J. J. Wells at 395-3184.

Panel Discusses Eurpoean Economy

"The Changing European Economy: What Lies Ahead" is the topic for a seminar at Longwood College on Monday, April 15, at 7 p.m. in the Virginia Room.

Panelists for the discussion are Andrei Guitchounts, a citizen of the USSR and economist with the International Cotton Advisory Committee; James Angresano, associate professor of economics at Hampden-Sydney College; and Robert Berry, Ray Brastow, and Jay Dee Martin, members of the economics faculty at Longwood.

Guitchounts will discuss economic realities in Russia today and the impact of the current economic flux on people's lives.

Presently serving in Washington, DC, Guitchounts has previously worked with NOVO-EXPORT, a specialized trading agency of the USSR's Ministry of Foreign Economic Relations. He also has served in Baghdad as an interpreter for the Soviet Army. He is a graduate of the Moscow State Institute of Foreign Relations.

Angresano will focus on recent changes in Hungary. His new book, Comparative Economics: An Evolutionary Institutional Approach, is a study of the economic restructuring in that country. The book will be published in August.

Berry will discuss the challenges of preparing for 1992, when the Common Market will be fully functioning in Europe.

Brastow and Martin will be moderator and discussant on the panel.

This program is the first in a series of seminars sponsored by Longwood's economics faculty and designed to enhance understanding of the contemporary economic environment.

All interested persons in the community are cordially invited to attend the seminar and participate in the discussion.

The Bulletin Board

Seniors, are you spending more time planning your graduation party than you are your career??!!

If this statement describes your status, may we suggest the following:

Don't PANIC! All is not lost – however, it is getting late. The average job search takes 3-6 months fulltime, so if you hope to locate employment between now and October, you probably need to be taking action NOW!

Carve out a chunk of time (every week) to spend on your job search. Ask yourself three preliminary questions: WHAT do you want to do? WHERE (what geographic location/preference) do you want to work? And WHO do you want to work for? You cannot reasonably begin a job search without knowing answers to the above questions. If you do not know, come to the Career Planning & Placement Center for assistance. We can help you identify occupations that match your values, interests and skills; we can discuss geographic options; and we can provide information on large and small employers.

After you have answered the above questions, the next step is to begin using traditional and nontraditional approaches to the job search. You want to use as many approaches as possible to increase your chances at getting a good job. Traditional approaches include: 1) identifying job openings, 1) identifying potential employers, 3) participating in on-campus interviews, and 4) seeking out employment agencies/services. All four approaches have advantages and disadvantages. The nontraditional approach involves conducting informational interviews.

In order to learn details of the above job search process, come to our final Job Search Skills Workshop on Thursday, April 18 at 1 p.m., CPPC, 2nd Floor South Ruffner. Furthermore, if you still need to write your resume and are confused about cover letters and interviewing, there are workshops left: Resume Writing: Tuesday, April 16 at 1 p.m., Cover Letter Writing: Monday, April 15 at 4 p.m., and Interviewing Skills: Wednesday, April 10 at 4 p.m. and Tuesday, April 23 at 1 p.m. If you cannot attend any of the workshops, at least stop by CPPC soon and collect some of the information that is available.

Remember, your future is up to you. This process is not accomplished hurriedly. This article is an attempt to give a "jumpstart" to those who may need it. We can help you in preparing for the future, but only if you come and visit us. Don't wait until it is too late.

Make your classes easier by helping yourself to SMART (Student Managed Academic Residential Tutoring). Whether you need a tutor or study companions, we can help! Study sessions are being offered throughout this semester on 4th floor, South Cunningham. Check the SMART bulletin board in the New Smoker for information about study groups already formed or to start your own group. If you have any questions, please contact Roger Hanna - 3002 or Scott Lissner - 2391.

Dr. "Flash" Blaunelt, physical education professor here at Longwood, will shave his beard for the first time if Delta Psi Kappa, the honorary fraternity for physical education raises 200 dollars! Delta Psi Kappa asks you, the student body, to help. Please donate any loose change to Mrs. Flowers, in the P.E. Department Secretary's Office or mail donations to Delta Psi Kappa, Box 915. — Thanks for your support. The members of Delta Psi Kappa

Students interested in auditioning for the Camerata Singers for fall/1991 should contact Dr. Don Trott at 395-2500 to set-up an audition time. All students serious about choral singing are encouraged to try-out. Students who were members of Camerata Singers in past semesters are welcomed to sing-up without an audition necessary. Auditions for new members will take place during the Pre-Registration period of March 27 through April 18.

S-UN Board programming to come...

April 15 Movie, "Flatliners" 9 p.m. Lancer Cafe

April 17 Comedian Anthony Clark 9 p.m. Lancer Cafe

April 19 & 29 Movie, "Edward Scissorhands" 8 p.m. Lankford Mall

April 26 & 29 Movie, "Russia House" 8 p.m. Lankford Mall

April 29 Comedian/Singer KIER 9 p.m. Cafe.

Need a Job in the Fall?

Apply in Iler to work for the Division of Intramurals and Campus Recreation. Jobs include: Supervisor and equipment checkout for weightroom, racquetball courts, gyms/fields, aerobic fitness instructor, publicity, photographer.

The Music Department will be holding auditions for next year's production of "Amahl and the Night Visitors" on April 23 at 6 p.m. in Wygal Music Building. The opera calls for six major roles including: Amahl-soprano, the Mother-soprano, King Kaspar-tenor, King Melchior-baritone, King Balthazar-bass, and the Page-bass. There will also be a supporting chorus of shepherds. For more information and music for the audition, please contact Dr. Trott in Wygal, Office 3 or by calling 2500. All persons interested must pick up music to be learned for the April 23rd auditions.

Laugh With Anthony Clark

Nominated for National Comedy Entertainer of the Year, Anthony Clark is a favorite pick of colleges and clubs all across the country. His performance is an event that leaves audiences laughing long after the lights go up and the curtains fall. His fast-paced style and high energy routine keep people wanting more.

With a boyish charisma that wins crowds as diverse as the stories he tells, Anthony laughs almost as much as his audience. His impressions of friends, relatives, and people we all know create a comical world that closely reflects our own.

Amid numerous television credits, such as the MTV Half Hour Comedy Hour and "An Evening at the Improv," Anthony Clark has recently appeared in the Tony Award winning play "The Grapes of Wrath" on Broadway. He also co-stars with River Phoenix and Lili Taylor in the Warner Brothers' motion picture "Dogfight," soon to be released.

The Student Union Board is pleased to present Anthony Clark at 9 p.m. on Wednesday, April 17, in Lancer Cafe. Admission is free, so come early and get a good seat! Don't miss a great show!!

SPORTS

Crute Named Player Of The Week

STEVE CRUTE

Longwood golfer Steve Crute won medalist honors at the Virginia State College Division Championships Sunday at Hot Springs by winning a four-way playoff after firing a 79. For his performance, Crute has been named Longwood College Player of the Week for the period of April 7-14. Player of the week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.

Crute won the individual title by parring the first playoff hold, sinking a three foot putt after the other three players had bogeyed. It marked the second year in a row that a Longwood golfer had won medalist honors at the State Tournament. Crute followed in the footsteps of former Lancer Jeff Smiley.

"It was a nice win for Steve because he really played well," explained Longwood coach Steve Nelson, whose team finished second to Christopher Newport after firing a 333. "He shot a 38 on the front nine, but the water holes affected him some on the back nine."

Crute's victory was his first in college competition and his round of 79 is his second best ever, following a 77 shot in the second round of the Camp Lejeune Tournament this spring.

A sophomore physical education major, Crute is a graduate of Bluestone High School, where he played baseball and basketball.

Newport College Soaks LC's One Year Reign In Hot Springs

By MARK KIRK

An exciting day of men's golf at Hot Springs, which featured a four way playoff to determine individual medalist honors finally concluded with Christopher Newport College winning the College Division State Championship Sunday, ending Longwood's one year reign as state champions.

After the first round was rained out on Saturday, CNC marched to the title by firing a 324, which was enough to hold off the Lancers score of 333.

"The course was wet and soggy after the rain on Saturday, and the greens were really fast so the scores were high", said Lancer coach Steve Nelson, "We played as well as anybody else, but we couldn't finish our holes. All in all, I was pleased with our performance."

Longwood did receive some exciting news from the tournament, however, as sophomore Steve Crute won medalist honors by winning a four way playoff after firing a round of 79.

Crute won with a par on the first playoff hole after the other three players had bogeyed. It was his first win ever in college competition.

"It was a nice win for Steve because he really played well," explained Nelson. "He shot a 38 on the front nine, but the water holes affected him some on the back. I was really happy for him, because he had never won a college tournament before."

Freshman Shawn Moore also had a big day for the Lancers as he finished fifth with a round of 80, which earned him a spot on the All-State team.

Other scores for the Lancers were produced by sophomore Frank Davide 85; freshman Jimmy Ward, 89; and senior Darrell Nichols, 91.

Longwood returns to action for its final tournament of the season when they travel to Portsmouth for the Newport News Apprentice Tournament on Friday.

Team Scores: Christopher Newport College, 324; Longwood, 333; Roanoke, 337; Ferrum, 338; Hampden-Sydney, 339; Bridgewater, 344; Averett, 350; Randolph-Macon, 350; Newport News Apprentice, 351; Lynchburg, 358; Hampton University, 358; Virginia Wesleyan, 390.

WFLO To Broadcast LC Baseball

Three upcoming home games of the nationally ranked Longwood College baseball team will be broadcast on Farmville's WFLO radio on the AM dial.

Longwood, currently 27-6, can be heard on 870 AM this Wednesday when Randolph-Macon visits for a 3 p.m. contest, Thursday, April 25 when William & Mary comes to town for a 3 p.m. game, and Tuesday, April 30 when the Lancers entertain Virginia State for a doubleheader starting at 1 p.m.

Franklin Grant, Executive Director of the Longwood College Lancer Club, will provide the play-by-play while Longwood senior Mark Kirk will handle the color commentary.

The broadcasts will be the first Lancer regular season baseball contests to be aired over WFLO.

Lady Golfers Finish Strong At UNCW

Closing on an upbeat note, Longwood's women's golf team shot a final round 311 to move up to an eighth place finish in the 12th Azalea/Seahawk Invitational Tournament Sunday at Topsail Greens Country Club in Hampstead, N.C. The tournament was hosted by North Carolina Wilmington.

Penn State won the 54-hole event with a 318-312-316-946, but Longwood finally played up its potential on the last day with one of the best single-round team scores of the event. The Lady Lancers, who started in 10th place, had rounds of 343 and 327 the first two days, but finished at 981, just ahead of James Madison (982) and just behind Missouri (977).

Freshmen Jo Lefson and Donna Martin and junior Sherry Evans led the way for Longwood. Lefson had a final round 75, three over par, to finish at 243 (88-80-75) and place 24th in a field of 68 golfers.

Martin, most consistent for Longwood, shot 81-83-80-244 for 25th in the individual standings. Evans was right behind with an 86-82-77-245 to tie for 26th. Junior Ami Schonauer carded an 88-82-79-249 to tie for 37th. Sophomore Anna Radford shot 90-87-85-262. Playing as an individual, Megan Hackett shot 93-92-93-278.

Next up for Longwood is the William & Mary Invitational Friday through Sunday at Williamsburg.

The individual winner at the UNCW tournament was Sarah Britt of Mississippi who shot 81-75-75-231.

Team Scores: Penn State 946, Mississippi 952, Iowa State 953, Kansas 956, UNC Wilmington 962, Alabama-Birmingham 976, Missouri 977, Longwood 981, James Madison 982, Methodist 1009, Charleston 1022, Coastal Carolina 1038, UNC Greensboro 1178.

Lancers Ranked 26th, But Streak Ends

The Longwood baseball team received its first national ranking of the year last week after winning 16 straight games, but the Lancers dropped two of three decisions to Lynchburg and North Carolina A&T and had a twinbill Sunday with Maryland Eastern Shore rained out in action last week.

The "Collegiate Baseball" Division II poll had Longwood rated 26th in last week's national rankings. Now 27-6, Longwood hosts Randolph-Macon Wednesday at 3, visits Liberty Saturday at 2 and hosts Shenandoah Sunday at 2. All this week's dates will be single games.

After Lynchburg ended the Lancers' 16-game win streak with a 4-1 decision Wednesday in Lynchburg, Division I North Carolina A&T visited for a rained-soaked doubleheader Saturday. Thanks to a dramatic 3-run homer by Eric Hutzler in the bottom of the seventh, Longwood won the opener 8-6.

In the nightcap, however, another streak came to an end as senior pitcher Dennis Hale lost his first decision in two years. Hale pitched well, tying the Lancer record for strikeouts in a game with 12. He gave up seven hits and no walks, but the Aggies won 3-1, ending his string of consecutive winning decisions at 19.

Hale is now 8-1 for the year and 19-1 over the past two seasons. With a 28-5 career record, Hale is just one victory away from tying the Longwood mark for career wins, 29 which was set by David Mitchell in 1982. Saturday's win was the first ever for A&T over Longwood. The Lancers lead the series 12-1.

Eric Hutzler, hitting .404 with 44 RBI and seven homers and Mike Tucker, hitting .460 with 12 homers and 42 RBI, drove in seven of Longwood's eight runs in Saturday's opening 8-6 win over A&T. The Lancers rallied from a 6-2 deficit to take the victory.

Tucker, two short of the Lancer season mark for homers (14 which was set by Kelvin Davis in 1980), got Longwood on the board with a two-run shot in the first. Hutzler hit the first of his two homers, also a two-run shot, in the third. Then Hutzler ended the game with his three-run shot in the seventh.

Mat Carlisle, in relief of starter Chris Mullins, moved his record to 5-3. Carlisle pitched the final five and a third innings, allowing one run on five hits. He struck out seven and walked one.

Longwood is scoring nine runs per game with 288 runs in 32 contests, while holding the opposition to 4.5 runs per game. The Lancers are also hitting 1.6 homers per contest with 51 homers in 32 games, compared to the opposition's 16 homers.

NNA "Stacked" LC

By MARK KIRK

A frustrating set of circumstances fell upon Longwood's men't tennis team on Friday as they dropped a 5-4 home decision to Newport News Apprentice in a rematch of the April 3 clash, which the Shipbuilders also won 5-4. Meanwhile, Saturday's match at Greensboro College was called off due to rain.

While the loss dropped the Lancers to 1-7, the outcome is one that will not sit well with Longwood because NNA apparently stacked their lineup.

"They switched their top doubles team to number two and also placed a guy at number six seed in singles when he should have been the second seed," said Lancer coach Stan Cieplinski. "This is a violation of the code of ethics followed by the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association. The kids were really upset and angry over the events. We probably won't play them again next year."

In singles action, Longwood received victories from freshman James Whiteree at number two, junior Hunter Reynolds at number three, and sophomore Mike Cyrus at number five. Whiteree only lost one game in his match, while Reynolds only dropped two.

In the controversial doubles matches, the Lancers got their lone win from their top doubles team of Reynolds and junior Chris Healing.

Longwood returns to the courts on Tuesday when they host Randolph-Macon at 3 .

The Longwood lacrosse team continued its losing skid Saturday dropping a rain soaked contest to host Roanoke College 16-2. The Lady Lancers post a record of 0-5.

Junior Lara Cini scored both of Longwood's goals, tossing in one in each half. Senior goalkeeper Karen Holleman played a solid game, stopping 16 Roanoke shots.

"Roanoke is the best Division III team we've seen this year," commented head coach Sandy Bridgeman. "I'm not all that upset with our performance because we did some really good things on the field and executed better than in any game so far."

The Lady Lancers host Lynchburg Monday and travel to Bridgewater Wednesday.

Lady Netters Stomp Averett 8-1

Longwood traveled to Danville Friday and defeated Averett 8-1 in women's tennis last week, but matches with Christopher-Newport Tuesday and Meredith Saturday were canceled. In all, six contests have been wiped out by rain or for other reasons this spring.

Now 3-2 for the year, Coach Angie Coppedge's team is scheduled to visit Randolph-Macon Woman's College Wednesday and UNC Greensboro next Monday.

"We've really had bad luck with the schedule," said Coach Coppedge. "We have a good team, but the record may not show it because we won't get to play enough matches."

Winning single matches for Longwood Friday were Suzie Lawman at No. 2, Jenny Proffitt at No. 3, Melanie Saunders at No. 4, Kimber Bear at No. 5 and Jennifer Risko at No. 6. Double winners were Jenny Holm and Lawman at No. 1, Proffitt and Saunders at No. 2 and Bear and Heather Leach at No. 3.

"Lawman and Saunders have been playing outstanding tennis in singles," said Coppedge. "They have played vital roles in our success this season."

Saunders has a 6-0 mark in singles while Lawman is right behind at 5-1.

LC Softball Lose Twinbill

The Longwood softball team lost both games of a twinbill in Greensboro, N.C. Saturday as the Lady Spartans of UNC Greensboro edged the Lady Lancers 7-6 in the opening game and swept the doubleheader with a 6-4 win in the second game. A constant nagging drizzle abbreviated Longwood's trip, causing the cancelation of a doubleheader with Radford scheduled for Sunday afternoon in Radford.

In the first game, the Lady Lancers commanded an early lead after junior Laura Marks crushed a two run homer in the top half of the first inning. Longwood added a run in the second when junior Cassie Mullentx poked a ball through the infield to score freshman first baseman Jill Hauschildt, notching the score at 3-1.

The Lady Spartans crossed a run in the bottom of the second to pull within one, but both teams were unable to score until the bottom of the sixth when UNCG added three runs off a four hits and a walk.

"Andi [Wrenn] was pitching really well the whole game," commented head coach Loretta Coughlin. "But as the game wore on, our strike zone kept getting smaller and smaller. The only way Andi could get strikes was to throw meatballs."

Longwood re-claimed the lead again in the top of the seventh when Mullenix's single scored Hauschildt from second and a double by senior Pam Fitzgerald drove in sophomore Robin Jensen and Mullenix.

UNCG added a pair of runs in the last of the seventh after a questionable call at first base allowed the winning run to cross the plate. Wrenn (4-5) was credited with the loss after allowing seven runs off 12 hits while walking three and fanning one.

"I try not to blame officials for losses," continued Coughlin, "but they affected the outcome of the game Saturday. We won the game, it's just that UNCG scored more runs."

In the second game, Fitzgerald gave up six runs on seven hits as Longwood trailed the entire game. Sophomore Kathy Brown entered the game in relief in the seventh and closed the game without allowing a hit.

Freshman centerfielder Ana Litton took charge for the Lady Lancers in the second game, belting a pair of doubles and driving in a pair of runs. For the doubleheader, Litton was 4-8 with three doubles. She also notched 12 putouts including eight in the second game.

Longwood will play Radford Tuesday in games rescheduled from Sunday. The Lady Lancers return home Thursday as they host Bridgewater College for a doubleheader at 1 on the Armory Field.

Cafe Features

LARGE PIZZA
$6.50
6-PACK OF 'COKE'
ONLY 6¢ With purchase of large pizza.

ITZA STEAL OF A DEAL
ONLY AT THE LANCER CAFE!
CALL 395-2121! Limited time offer - Act Now!
Not for use with any other coupons or specials.

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

BELIEVE IT OR NOT, THIS GUY IS IN CLASS.

Excitement and adventure is the course description, and Army ROTC is the name. It's the one college elective that builds your self-confidence, develops your leadership potential and helps you take on the challenges of command.

There's no obligation until your junior year, and that means there's no reason not to try it out right now.

LEADERSHIP EXCELLENCE

ARMY ROTC

THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

FOR MORE INFORMATION CONTACT
CAPTAIN GARY WITTEKIND AT 395-2136 OR 2134

Wilder Wouldn't 'Object At All' To Drug Testing Of Collegians

Drug testing of all college students moved a big political step forward April 2 when Virginia Gov. L. Douglas Wilder, a possible presidential candidate in 1992, said he would "not object at all" to mandatory drug testing of all state students.

While a handful of small, private schools already have general testing programs, no state currently has an all-inclusive effort like the one Wilder endorsed. If it approved the effort, Virginia would be the first state to regularly test all its nonathlete students.

National drug policy Director Bob Martinez didn't like the idea, however. My own view is that too many college administrators have not been sufficiently aggressive against drug use. They already know they've got on their hands, and that there are any number of things they should think about doing before anyone begins discussing random drug testing," Martinez told 200 representatives of sororities and fraternities April 5. Wilder remained insistent. "Rather than offering a pro-active policy to stamp out illegal drug activity on our nation's college campuses, Mr. Martinez criticizes our forceful efforts th Virginia," Wilder responded.

Wilder made his original announcement at a press conference after he met with Wilder made his original announcement at a press conference after he met with administrators, and appointed a special task force to examine how state colleges can crack down on drug and alcohol abuse and sexual assault on their campuses. "I don't think it is a bad idea for them (task force members) to look at" mandatory testing, Wilder said.

The meeting came almost two weeks after a drug raid at the University of Virginia (UVa) in which 12 students were arrested and three fraternity houses seized by federal officials.

The March 21 raid "could be looked upon as a blessing," Wilder said, because it forced campus administrators to focus on the issue of substance abuse. He went on to suggest randomly selecting students to be tested to see if they had used illicit drugs recently.

"It's (mandatory testing) not a great worry to us at this time," commented Laura Flippin, president of the student association at the College of William and Mary. "As we understand it, it wouldn't be upheld in any court in Virginia," she continued.

Other students and administrators agreed it is too early to worry about Wilder's statement.

"We're taking a wait-and-see attitude," reported Deborah Brown, director of public relations at Radford University.

UVa President John Casteen said he would have to see "a concrete proposal" before he would comment.

Dr. Anthony Santoro, president of Christopher Newport College, said he hadn't heard Wilder's suggestions on drug testing, but said he "didn't know if testing is the answer" to campus drug problems.

"We need to create a climate in which we insist people who matriculate in our institutions are drug free," he added.

Wilder told Santoro and the other administrators he wants a thorough investigation of student conduct policies on their campuses.

"I know you share my conviction that Virginia's colleges and universities cannot be sanctuaries of immunity for a privileged class of young adults," he said.

UVa's Casteen already has imposed new drug, drinking and sexual assault rules on the school's greek organizations, threatening to withdraw recognition of groups that don't comply with them.

Other schools already have started forcing students to prove their sobriety. Rev. Jerry Falwell's Liberty University, a private campus in Lynchburg, already randomly tests its students for drugs.

The University of Maryland students who have previously violated the campus's drug policy must submit to testing. Arizona and Florida and in Purdue University's Department of Aviation Technology are also tested.

Most college athletic departments have some sort of drug testing policy for student-athletes.

FEATURES

Miss Longwood: In Perspective

By BARBARA SANTMIRE

"If you pass by her on campus, you may see nothing more than a pretty college student in jeans and a sweater," said student Kim Makuch. "There really aren't a lot of people that know she's Miss Longwood."

Another student, Debbie Warren, described her as, "outgoing, but kind of quiet. She's probably about the sweetest person I've ever met."

The reigning Miss Longwood is better known to most as Amy Church, a 22-year-old theatre major. She was crowned as Miss Longwood last March, during her junior year.

"I think that it's an honor," she said, "but I don't like to use it."

Ms. Church has represented Longwood in the Miss Virginia pageant and has also participated in the Miss Northern Virginia pageant.

"Longwood is really a good place to learn to do a pageant because they take you through everything and give you time to get ready. It's the only college pageant left in Virginia and it's been called one of the best local pageants. I'd have to agree with that," she said.

During the Miss Virginia pageant, Ms. Church had to present a platform on what she wanted to accomplish should she win. Her platform was based on helping learning disabled children, which means a lot to her because, as a child, she was diagnosed with dyslexia.

"I really don't have dyslexia anymore," Ms.Church said, "but I do need extended time on my tests and math really gives me a hard time."

Ms. Church said, "The $1,000 scholarship I won from the pageant really meant a lot to me because, with my learning disability, it's really hard for me to get any kind of academic scholarship."

As a theatre major, Ms. Church said that the pageants she has participated in have been good experience and practice for her.

"I was so excited for her when she won the pageant," said friend Marianna Poch. "I don't know though, I guess, somewhere in the back of my mind, I half expected her to change in some way, maybe to be more aware of herself or her 'importance.' But Amy just isn't like that, if anything, when people recognize her, she gets embarrassed."

According to her friend, and suitemate, Kate Dunnet: "Amy gets so embarrassed. When we go out, some of her friends like to joke around with her, they bow in front of her and yell, 'All hail Miss Longwood!' Amy turns twenty different shades of red and tells us to hush up. She's so funny about it."

If her acting hopes fall through, Church wants to have a career helping learning disabled children. Or, even if she succeeds in acting, she still wants to do volunteer work.

"I did that last summer," she said, "I volunteered at the lab school and worked with preschool kids. I love working with learning disabled kids."

AMY LYNN CHURCH

AMA Hosts Conference In Louisiana

AMA members enjoy their convention.

The 13th Annual American Marketing Association International Collegiate Conference was held in New Orleans, LA. March 28-30, 1991. Longwood College of Farmville had nine students and one advisor to attend. Those attending were Tammy Nunn, president; Melanie Davis, vice president; Scott Strader, treasurer; Carolyn Ward, secretary; and five members: Michelle Boggs, Becky Starbuck, Lisa Webster, Edwin Cather and Glen Dodson; and Colin Steele III, advisor.

Longwood AMA Chapter won "Outstanding Revitalized Chapter Award." The members that attended the conference and all other members worked diligently for several months prior. A chapter plan was sent early in November and later an Annual Report was created for the year.

Based on their membership increase, leadership and their diverse programs, Longwood was proud to accept the award for "Outstanding Revitalized Chapter."

Mike Mooney, vice president of the Footwear Division of NIKE, Inc. was the keynote speaker. The students attended several sessions on chapter improvements, career goal setting and leadership. Longwood's AMA Chapter President, Tammy Nunn and Vice President, Melanie Davis, presented a leadership session on "Working with AMA Professional Chapter." Students were also able to enjoy the wonderful sites New Orleans has to offer.

In addition, the Longwood Chapter won first place in the Richmond Professional Chapter's First Annual AMA Case Competition. The three person team of Becky Starbuck, Michelle Boggs, and Marnie Turman defeated teams from the University of Richmond, VCU, and Virginia State University. The case was "Trap Ease of America" selected by Gary Armstrong, UNC Chapel Hill, and Phillip Cottler, Northwestern University.

The chapter won $200 first prize as well as individual awards for team members.

"Watchdog"

(Continued from pg. 1)

As a member of the White House press corps, O'Rourke has analyzed, critiqued, and often traveled with, and often traveled with, five presidents — Johnson, Nixon, Carter, Reagan, and Bush.

He has visited at least 60 countries and travels an average of 120,000 miles each year.

O'Rourke is a graduate of Villanova University and also holds the J. D. law degree from Georgetown University. He has participated in additional seminar and study programs at the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard, the Washington Journalism Center, and the U. S. Department of State.

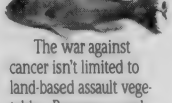
In 1980-81, O'Rourke was deputy assistant secretary for policy and planning and assistant secretary for public affairs with the U. S. Department of Education. He has practiced law since 1970, including many pro bono cases, in District of Columbia courts.

During his stay at Longwood, O'Rourke will speak to journalism and political science classes and will meet with students and faculty to discuss topics ranging from career opportunities in communications and law to current political issues in the U. S. and abroad.

LAWRENCE O'ROURKE

DZ Celebrates Province Day

By NICOLE LEHNHARDT



On Saturday, April 6, 1991, members of the Epsilon Tau Chapter of Delta Zeta traveled to Old Dominion University for Province Day. Province Day is an annual event that brings together members of the six chapters in Virginia.

The Epsilon Taus was given the highest award a chapter in Virginia can receive — The Pride of the Province. This is a traveling award given to the chapter which best represents Delta Zeta's values, ideals and traditions.

The Epsilon Taus have been very active in the colonization of the newest chapter in Virginia — Omnicron Zeta at Randolph Macon College. With the University of Virginia Delta Zetas and Richmond Alumnae, the Epsilon Taus participated in rush parties in accordance with Randolph Macon's Panhellenic Council. The new colony has a membership of 70 and will receive help from the Epsilon Taus on a regular basis.

Also honored at Province Day was Epsilon Tau's past president Christy Meadows. Upon graduation in May, Christy will begin her one year position as a Delta Zeta Field Representative. Christy will visit chapters across the nation offering suggestions and reporting on the activities of each chapter. Only those women who excell in all areas of college — personal, sorority and academic — are given this position.

FIGHTING CANCER SOMETIMES REQUIRES AN AMPHIBIOUS ASSAULT.

The war against cancer isn't limited to land-based assault vegetables. Because a meal that includes baked, broiled, or poached fish may lessen your cancer risk, as well.

But fish isn't your only ally. Try chicken or lean meat. Or fiber-rich fruits, vegetables and grains. Along with foods high in Vitamin A or C, lowfat dairy products, and cruciferous vegetables like broccoli and cauliflower.

They're all at your disposal in the American Cancer Society's Great American Food Fight Against Cancer. Call 1-800-ACS-2345 for additional information, or talk to your local American Cancer Society.

Meanwhile, enjoy some fish. We think you'll like the net effect.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

THE GREAT AMERICAN FOOD FIGHT AGAINST CANCER HAS BEGUN.

Time Running Out? Extend with 4868

If you're running out of time to file your federal tax return, you may qualify for a 4-month extension. Remember, however, filing Form 4868, "Application for Automatic Extension of Time To File U.S. Individual Income Tax Return," only extends the date you are required to file. You still must pay the federal taxes you owe by April 15, 1991. Underpayment of your taxes will result in interest and sometimes penalty charges.

To get a 4-month extension:

1. Send in Form 4868 with

2. any taxes owed by April 15, 1991.

Once you are ready to file your return:

1. Use Form 1040 and remember to list any payment you made with your extension on line 58 by August 15, 1991 or

2. Use Form 1040A and write "Form 4868" on line 28d and list any payment you made with your extension by August 15, 1991.

Call IRS toll-free at 1-800-829-3676 to order Form 4868 if you need the automatic 4-month extension. More information on getting extensions is explained in Publication 17, Your Federal Income Tax, which is also available free from IRS.

Riding Team Gets Coaching

By LORIE L. GREEN

"Sit back. Hold. Support," yells Mary Whitlock as a Longwood student takes the horse over a jump. "Good," says Mrs. Whitlock with a smile as the task is completed.

A native of Richmond, Mrs. Whitlock returned last semester to work with Longwood's Equestrian Team. "I heard the riding team had no coach and was in desperate need of a facility and a coach," said Mrs. Whitlock.

The members of the riding team practice in Cumberland County at Long Lance Farm, which is owned by Mrs. Whitlock's father. Lessons are given on Tuesdays and Thursdays and are scheduled around a student's classes. According to Mrs. Whitlock, since she had invested 11 years of coaching and dedication into the riding team, she returned because she wanted it to continue.

Mrs. Whitlock has a strong background with horses. She is a 32-year veteran of showing and riding horses. Prior to coming to Longwood in 1978, Mrs. Whitlock was the riding coach at Westhampton College (University of Richmond). In 1983-84 she led Longwood's Equestrian Team to Reserve High Point College of the Year.

"It was a big plus to get Mary back," said Senior Julie Miller.

But despite the return of Mrs. Whitlock, the team is still worried about their well-being. According to team members, the equestrian team is in danger of being reduced to club status, receiving no support from the college.

UVA's riding club is not a varsity sport and is supported by the members. To participate in the UVA's Virginia Riding Team, each member has to pay $1350 a year for club dues and lessons. "The biggest downfall of the Virginia Riding Team's not being a varsity sport is the expenses an individual has to finance," said Tyler Scott, a member of that club.

"We [Longwood team] organized meetings with althetic director, Tom Fletcher, to talk with him about keeping riding a varsity team," said Ms. Miller.

Ms. Miller's mother, Dr. Teresa Miller, began reorganizing the team by going to the meetings, standing in as a team chaperon and writing numerous letters in support of the team.

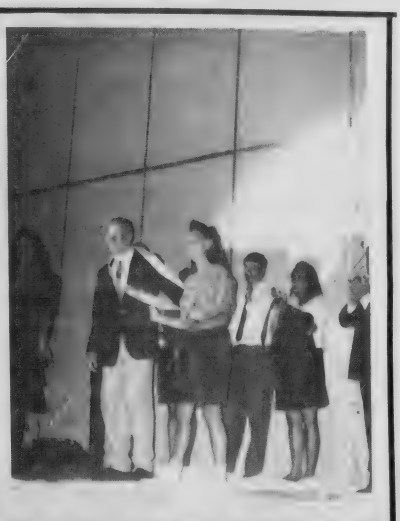
Freshman member, Kathryn Layne said: "One of the reasons I chose Longwood because of their sports. I was really irritated when I went to Admission and they didn't know anything about the riding team."

Last semester Longwood's team members each paid about $250.

According to Mrs. Whitlock, she has spent some of her own money to keep the team going. She travels 79 miles on Tuesdays and Thursdays to give lessons, missing work from her full-time job.

Despite the trouble Mrs. Whitlock goes to she stresses that it is the only co-ed sport at Longwood and also doesn't take away from the school's time.

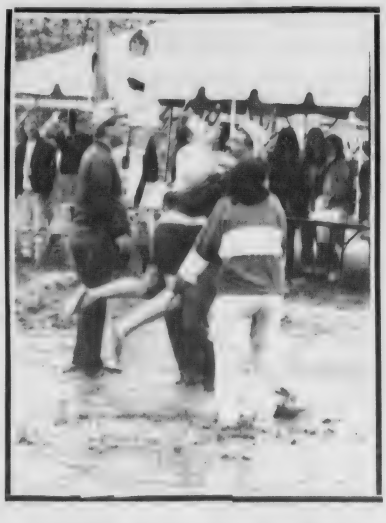
Mrs. Whitlock encourages any interested student to ride since there are many different levels of riding, from open hunter to beginner walk-trot.



SPRING WEEKEND 1991

After hours of preparations, deliberation, and expectation, Kappa Delta came out victorious in the 1991 spring weekend chili cook-off (pictured at right). Second place went to Alpha Sigma Tau, and third place went to WLCX. ROTC (pictured at left) won the best cooking chili booth.

Zeta Tau Alpha sorority helped kick off Spring Weekend with the 10th Annual BMOC Contest. The winner was James Herzog sponsored by Kappa Delta. First runner-up went to Scott Glisson sponsored by Alpha Gamma Delta and second runner-up went to Eric Hutzler sponsored by Alpha Delta Pi. Money raised was given to the Association for Retarded Citizens.



Spring weekend 1991. For at least two years in a row, the weather has been miserable but that has not put a damper on the spirits of Longwood students. As you can see, we were all determined to enjoy ourselves and we did. Many events went on this past weekend but pictured are a few of the highlights. Hope you enjoyed this past weekend as much as they did.

Round and round and round we go! Where he'll stop, nobody knows! One of the feature attractions was the Gyro, the human manipulated ride.

Oozeball. Yet another spring weekend tradition. This year's winners are the coed team, Mud Puppies of 8th floor Curry.

SPRING WEEKEND 1991

CLASSIFIEDS/PERSONALS

Two medium orginal issue Longwood College – Budweiser T-shirt (size medium). $10 each. Call 395-2120.

Must sell – loveseat and matching chair. Call 392-1930 after 12:30 p.m.

LOST: A Package containing a white Δz sweatshirt. Please call Christy if found x3085

HELP WANTED

Do you plan to remain in Farmville for the summer? Do you need a summer job? Well, you might be interested in applying for a summer staff position with the Housing Office and the Office of Continuing Studies. Positions available: Resident Assistant, Desk Aide, Conference Host, Conference Supervisor (6). for more information, attend one of the following information sessions on Thursday, April 18, from 1:00 - 1:30 or 6:30 - 7:00. both sessions will be held in Lankford, Conference Room 2. If you have any questions, please call Mohe Herndon at 2514. Applications and job descriptions available in the Dean of Students office.

STUDENT ORGANIZATION REGISTRATION PROCEDURE

Attention all student leaders....

The SGA has implemented a registration procedure for all student organizations. All groups that want to be recognized as Longwood student organizations should comply by the provisions of the registration procedure.

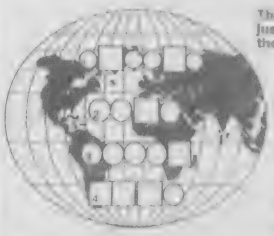
More information will be sent out to advisors and chief officers next week. Make sure that your organization is registered!!

Don't get left out

REGISTER NOW!!

For more information or for registration forms, please contact the Office of Student Development (Tel 395-2414).

Benefits Of Registration:



- Inclusion in directory / handbook for easier contact making & membership drives
- Leadership Info (Regionals, conferences, workshops and OCT)
- Eligibility for activity fees. (unless prohibited by law or College/SGA policy)
- Space reservation and facility rental privileges
- Recognition for campus awards
- College Fleet Vehicle use privileges
- Booth reservations - at Spring Weekend, organization lists and/or Octoberfest
- Approval for putting up posters on campus.
- Use of Longwood's name (e.g. Club XX at Longwood College)

PEACE CORPS WORLD WISE PUZZLE

For further information about Peace Corps, write Box 896, Washington DC 20526

INSTRUCTIONS: The U.S. Peace Corps has volunteers serving in more than 70 nations around the world. By solving the puzzle, you will find one of them mentioned.

Solve the four numbered puzzle words and then unscramble the letters in the squares to produce the name of the country featured on the map of the region.

This North African nation is just south of Spain, across the Straight of Gibraltar.

1. One of the European nations which divided this country into two zones in 1904.
2. Ore from which steel is produced.
3. Primary religion of this nation.
4. A task usually performed by women in this country.

Dreaming — I understand that everyone has the right to express their feelings for someone but, no one has the right to express how they think other people feel. I also understand how you feel about FUMA because he's easy to fall in love with. But, you have no right judging how I feel about him. I love him whole heartedly not just halfway. If YOU care about him so much and think you can give him more — then why did you care so little as never to share the happiness that you wanted him to have? Maybe YOU are the one who loves him halfway. The chance you take in love is giving your heart away. I guess you didn't trust him enough to give it to him like I did. — The One Who Loves Him

Stephanie S: We want you to know how special you are to us and that we love you very much. Thank-you for your guidance and friendship, you have shown us what sisterhood is about.
π Love forever, Your ADπ pledges, Spring '91

Debbie – Just think only a little while longer until you will be eating ice cream and feeling lots better. Love Susan.

Millie – Did not ever think anyone would leave you a personal did you? Can't wait till this summer! Shawnee here we come!

To ADπ Trisha M: I am so lucky that you are my Big Sis! Thank-you for everything you've done for me. Thanks for being you. You've made a friend for life. Remember: We are Trish 2 ! Loyally, Tricia

To AXP Craig H – A.K.A. "Goofball" ... rejected Beastie Boy! Well here it is – Your first personal in 3 years! We think you should just save it! If not, you'll just have to deal with it! π Love, Roomies

AΔπ Pledges spring '91 are the coolest! π Love is forever!

To my dearest Craigy – Five and many more! I love you! Rice Krispy

Jenny, Tracy, Susie, Cheryl, Charlotte, Vicky, Krudd, Betsy, Maricka and Stacy — We're almost there guys — Keep smiling, we can do it! — Σ love, Leigh Anne

Brenda — You're the best pledge mom ever! Thank you for everything you've done for us. We love you more than you'll ever know. — Σ love, your babies

Get active ... 3 per team. TRIATHALON events. 1 person to each event; swim, bike and run. Only $5 per team, with prizes/cash awards. Tentative date for events April 24th. Participation greatly appreciated. Contact Monica Mencini — by box #705. Sign up sheets will randomly be placed in Lancer (gymnasium). Must sign team up by April 19th — Approximate: bike = 5-7 miles; run = 2 miles; swim = 200 meters

Do Me — Thank you for being such a wonderful friend! I can't imagine life without you. Be smappy, blade. I'll never forget you!! — Love, Your Upstairs Suitemate

Shelly — You are doing great with pledging! Only a few more weeks left. Keep doing great and have fun! — Love, Karen

Jill — Cheer up!! Thanks for just being you and being my friend. — Love, Your Suitemate

Kathy — Duo tones was a success. Thank you for all of your HELP. — CT Yankee

Shannon M: My Fleur de Lyspal! I will miss you when you leave next year, but I will join you in Europe spring semester. Let's make this summer one to remember. Thank you for being my roommate, best friend and pledge sister. π Love, Tricia

Lancer baseball team – Tight'n up guys! I want to go to the regionals. – U know who

Happy 20th B-Day Gale Foster! You finally caught up with the rest of us! Iota Love, your sisters

Lancer baseball team – Never take anyone or anything too light! For you may be fooled. Sharny

Lancer Baseball Team – A team that works together wins together. And I want to WIN! Sharny

Baseball Team – You're the BEST! Sharny

Killi Lowe — Here's a personal for you since you haven't had one before. I hope that you have time to read this. I realize that you're kind of busy. Come over tonight and we'll play nintendo. — Fighter Hyabusa, The Amazon

AΔπ Pledges — You all are doing an awesome job. Be excited, initiation is near! Keep up those pi smiles. We love you — AΔπ Sisters

Delta Zetas I'm so proud of you! You've worked so hard to be named the best chapter in VA, DC and MD. You really are the "Pride of the Province" — Love, Linda

Sarah Gravitt — You are such a scanner. I can't keep my mind off of you. Even when I sleep, I'm dreaming of you. I hope you find a ball date! — An Admirer

Cast and Crew of Electra – Break-A-Leg! — Love, Sharon

Son and Daughter — Break my neck — Oops-or rather-Break-A-Leg! — Love, Mom

To 7th Floor Frazer — Good job on scavenger hunt. Hope you enjoyed Spring Weekend. Beware — exams are on the way! — Sharon

Roommate needed for on-campus room in Cox. Call Brad at 3253.

Roommate needed for off-campus apartment - Fall 91/Spr 92 - will have your own room — Call Cathy 3672.

Thank you to everyone who worked during Spring Weekend! Especially to the Board, we did it!

Donnis

Laura,
Thanks for all the help. TREASON!!

Donnis

Catalinas and the girls in the class,

Awesome Job!!
Jeff

Monthly Payment Plan Deadline Approaching

Deadline for signing up for the Monthly Payment Plan for the fall semester 1991/1992, is May 20, 1991. Applications can be obtained from Fran Wilmoth in the Treasurer's office between 10:00 AM and 2:00 PM.

Many students and parents have found paying school expenses on a monthly basis an attractive alternative. The plan is available to any full time student.

Should you have questions about the plan, contact Fran Wilmoth at 395-2268.

ATTENTION SENIORS:

ANTICIPATED COUNSELOR POSITION ADMISSIONS OFFICE

Longwood's Admissions Office anticipates employing an admissions counselor beginning on or about mid-July and ending in May 1992. High energy, good communications skills and active involvement while at Longwood Prerequisites for successful candidates.

Salary $1606.00 per month, no benefits, all travel expenses paid. Must be willing to work at Admissions programs on weekends and evenings.

Interested candidates should contact Bob Chonko, Director of Admissions at X2060.

Summertime At Longwood SUMMER SESSION DATES

First Session	May 20 - June 7
Second Session	June 10 - July 12
Third Session	July 15 - August 9

REMINDER:

Is There A Journalist Lurking Inside You? The Rotunda Needs You!

The Rotunda, published since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, is currently accepting applications for the 1991-92 staff. Anyone interested is encouraged to apply — experience not required!

Applications available at the Lankford Information Office!

SUMMERTIME AT LONGWOOD

Summer Activities

During the summer sessions the racquetball courts, tennis courts, volleyball courts, swimming pool, and weight room will be open on a regular basis.

Coed softball games will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Two-on-two volleyball tournaments will be held on the sand courts in the evenings.

The arcade, pool hall, and bowling alley will also be open on a regular basis. The Second Annual Summerfest will be held on July 31, with Fat Ammons Band.

Cafeteria Workers Instigate Food Fight

"They were armed to the teeth," one surprised customer said. "You should have seen it. Carrots, tomatoes, broccoli everywhere." It seems cafeteria workers all over town have joined The Great American Food Fight Against Cancer. Now they're recommending foods that may help reduce cancer risk. The list includes foods high in vitamins A and C, high in fiber and low in fat.

"I love to see people eat healthy," as one server put it. "When I throw a big helping of steamed vegetables on someone's plate, I feel real good inside."

Similar sentiments were echoed by other workers. "When a kid reaches for low-fat milk or yogurt, or grabs an apple for dessert, well, it's just beautiful," said one emotional server.

Experts recommend that people join The Great American Food Fight Against Cancer whether dining out or at home.

The American Cancer Society, sponsor of the Food Fight, has more information. Call 1-800-ACS-2345.

And, be on the lookout for Community Crusade volunteers armed with shopping lists. Ready? Aim. Chew!

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY®
Public Service Message

See Page 6

BE AN EARTH PROTECTOR

CONTENTS

News 1
Comics 2
Features 3
Sports 4
Classifieds/Personals 5
Classifieds 6

APRIL 22, 1991

The ROTUNDA

VOL. 70 NO. 18 | LONGWOOD COLLEGE | FARMVILLE, VIRGINIA

Dr. Frank Chosen As Dean Of Liberal Arts

In a natural progression of academic leadership at Longwood College, Dr. William L. Frank has been appointed Dean of the School of Liberal Arts and Sciences, effective July 1.

The appointment followed an in-house search at the College and was announced by Dr. Donald C. Stuart, Vice President for Academic Affairs.

Dr. Stuart said: "I look forward to working with Bill Frank as Dean of the School of Liberal Arts and Sciences. I know his leadership skills from personal experience when I was an English faculty member and he was department chair. I also know that his colleagues and students have high respect for his teaching abilities.

"As a respected teacher, leader, and scholr, and as one who knows Longwood from his long service here, Dr. Frank surely will be a great asset in the continuing development of our arts and sciences programs."

Dr. Frank, 61, came to Longwood in 1968 as professor and chair of the Department of English. He assumed expanded reponsibility in 1975 as chair of the Division of Language, Literature, and Philosophy, a position he held for four years.

Since then, in addition to teaching English courses, Dr. Frank has been coordinator of institutional grants, director of Longwood's accreditation self-study in 1981-83, administrative assistant in the office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs, and assistant to the Dean of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

"I appreciate very much the vote of confidence given me by President Dorrill and Dr. Stuart by this appointment," Dr. Frank said. "I look forward to working with them and other administrative officers, deans and department chairs to provide total support and encouragement to the efforts of all of our faculty, especially those in the School of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

"Institutions of higher education exist solely to serve the needs of their students," Dr. Frank continued, "and no group more effectively serves the best interests of students than a highly competent, dedicated, and energetic faculty. I see my role as strengthening the resources of our faculty, so they in turn can do an even better job in the classroom, and in taking leadership roles in other aspects of campus life."

He concluded: "Today, more than ever before in this century, the challenges are surely there, and I look forward to meeting them with the cooperation and goodwill of all involved – faculty, students, administrators, board members, and citizens of our community and region."

Dr. Frank was born in New York City and attended parochial schools there. He enlisted in the U.S. Air Force in 1948, completed Radio Operators School, and served for three years as an instructor in the Radio Operators Training School at Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Mississippi.

Deciding to pursue higher education, Dr. Frank earned the B.A degree in English in 1955 and the master's degree in education in 1956, both from the University of Southern Mississippi. He then went to Northwestern University in Illinois, where he received the M.A. in English in 1958 and the Ph.D. in American literature in 1964.

He held faculty positions at Delta State University in Mississippi and the University of Southeast Missouri before coming to Longwood.

Dr. Frank's service to Longwood includes numerous committee assignments, dealing with academic policies, promotion and tenure, the graduate program, summer school, general education requirements, gender and minority issues, and the Longwood Seminar.

He has served three terms on the President's Advisory Committee and was chair of that group in 1971-72 and again in 1989-90.

In 1986, he was co-author with Dr. Ellery Sedgwick of a proposal that resulted in an $84,000 Funds for Excellence grant from the State Council of Higher Education to design and equip a microcomputer writing lab for freshman English classes at Longwood.

Dr. Frank is the author of A Critical Introduction to Sherwood Bonner, published in 1976 as part of Twayne's United States Authors Series, and of numerous papers, articles, and reviews on 19th and 20th-century American literature. He is editor of Dialect Tales & Other Stories, a new collection of Sherwood Bonner's fiction, published in 1990 as part of the Masterworks of Literature Series.

For a decade (1973-83), he was editor of the newsletter published by the South Atlantic Association of Teachers of English.

In 1988, Dr. Frank organized a three-day symposium on the work of Charlotte County novelist William Hoffman, with sessions at both Longwood and Hampden-Sydney Colleges and follow-up programs at several public libraries in the region. The symposium was supported by a grant from the Virginia Foundation for the Humanities and Public Policy.

In the Farmville community, Dr. Frank has been president and board member of the Rotary Club and Wedgewood Country Club, Sunday School superintendent and Eucharistic minister at St. Theresa Catholic Church, and district chair of the membership enrollment drive for the Robert E. Lee Council of Boy Scouts of America.

Dr. Frank and his wife, Angeline, have three adult children and one grandchild.

Dr. William L. Frank has been appointed to take over the position as Dean of the School of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

The Rotunda staff has no assurances that this is absolutely safe. If you should decide to try this at home, we do not take responsibility.

Earth Day

Aluminum Foil Declared Safe

If your mother was like mine, she issued a steady stream of dire warnings throughout your childhood and well into your adult life: "Don't play with matches;" "Don't talk with your mouth full;" "Don't lick the ice cube tray or your tongue will get stuck" and, by all means, "Don't put aluminum foil containers in the microwave!"

With all due respect to Mom, you can put aluminum foil containers in a microwave oven. Not only that, but aluminum foil containers are better for the environment than most other microwavable containers.

Microwave ovens have been around for more than a generation, and in that time microwave technology has come a long way. In microwave ovens made since 1980, you can use aluminum foil containers safely, and produce better-tasting food. The biggest advantage of cooking in a microwave oven is that it saves time, but that advantage is undercut by the inconvenience of having to transfer frozen food, baked goods and takeout food from one container to another before you can pop it in the microwave.

Transferring food is unnecessary when the food comes in an aluminum foil container. Simply remove the metal lid or wrap, cover the food with wax paper or microwavable plastic wrap, and put the aluminum foil container in the center of the microwave oven.

Microwave energy does not penetrate metal, so the food will heat from the top down. As the food warms, the aluminum foil container will conduct the heat of the food evenly, preventing your meal from being scorched on the outside, and cold on the inside.

Microwave ovens are used in almost 80 percent of all American households, and the use of recyclable products in microwave cooking can have a wide-reaching effect on reducing the amount of household garbage. The fact that aluminum foil containers are both microwavable and 100 percent recyclable means that aluminum foil containers are the best packaging choice for food items for environmentally conscientious people on the go.

Students who make it a point to search out products packaged in convenient and "green" packaging will find themselves again and again choosing products packaged in aluminum foil containers.

You cannot do anything about the chorus of warnings mothers sing, but for students who demand convenience and want to help the environment, the growing refrain is: "Why are you transferring that frozen food to a clean plate and dirtying more dishes? Leave the food in the aluminum foil container; it heats better in the microwave oven, and we can recycle it late."

Aluminum foil containers in the microwave? Go ahead, try it!

Phi Kappa Phi Inducts 65 Members

The Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi initiated 65 students and graduates on Sunday, April 14, at 3 p.m. in the Wygal Auditorium. Keynote speaker for the ceremony was Dr. Scott Colley, acting president of Hampden-Sydney College, whose topic was "Firing the Canon, or Who Could Make a Case Against Western Culture?"

To become a member of Phi Kappa Phi, seniors and graduates must have a cumulative quality point average of 3.50; the following 54 persons were initiated in this group: Mary-Robyn Adams, David C. Allen, Linda R. Andrews, Janice M. Bailey, Marsha Alane Baird, Karen Nelson Baker, Alison Cocker Barksdale, Kirsten R. Baum, Sherry L. Birckhead, Andrew Jonathan Bobb, Donna G. Bobbitt, Margaret Ruth Burgener, Donald L. Carlson, Beth Ann Cox, Brian K. Crutchfield, Ayme Curlee, Kim Marie DeRonda, Rick Dockstader, Tammara Marie Eses, Scott Herbert Flood, Edward R. Goforth, Maria Rutherford Hahn, Dennis Earl Hale, II, Patrick Edward Hart, Marguerite H. Hayes, Donna Marie Hedge, Amanda Gillilan Kelly, Kristen E. Laurilla, Sheryl Lynn Leffer, Karla Marotta, Amy Morris Martin, Sheri R. McGuire, Edward E. Midkiff, Julie Elizabeth Miller, Lisa Nolen Mountcasel, Melinda Rae Munns, Charles C. Ramsey, N. Laurence Robertson, Laura Anne Royster, Ginger M. Sanderson, Staci Robyn Sandler, Aimee P. Sarver, Bonnie Sue Seers, Debra L. Shorter, Jean Raychel Taylor, Jennifer Belshan Tomko, Elizabeth J. Toney, Kathleen M. Torcivia, Elizabeth Anne Verley, Rhonda Gaye Wall, Nancy Morrow White, Cindy A. Williams, John Conrad Wingold, IV, and Rachelle P. Wright.

Eight juniors, who have the required 3.75 GPA or better, were initiated: Jennifer L. Flowers, Michalle Diane Nash, Nancy Patrick, Jennifer C. Reaves, Lauren R. Scott, Lori Ann Sykes, Virginia Fern Vimpeny, and Della H. Wickizer.

To be initiated as a graduate student, the required GPA is 3.5 as an undergraduate and 3.75 on graduate work. Charla Faulkner Crews, Amy L. Lerby, and Stella O. Osborne were initiated as graduate students.

The top two percent of the sophomore class and the top one percent of the freshman class were awarded certificates of recognition for academic achievement. Sophomores honored were Sylvia S. Bailey, Vicki C. Butler, Carol W. Chandler, Mary C. Davis, Lisa N. Goehner, Latisha Lynn Hayes, Angela C. Jones, Victoria Ann Jones, Lisa M. Kesterson, Amy Jo Lomax, Steven K. Tanner, Anne Leigh Woltz, and Lisa K. Woods. Freshmen were Robin R. Jamerson, Karen B. Perry, Suzanne M. Rutledge, Benita I. Webster, Darrell Alan Wells, and Lydia C. Williams.

Officers of the Longwood chapter include Mrs. Frances Hamlett, president; Suzanne Pellegrino, student vice president; Dr. Owen Fields, corresponding secretary; and Dr. E. T. Noone, secretary/treasurer. In addition, 21 other faculty and administrators are members of the Longwood chapter.

Phi Kappa Phi has chapters established at colleges and universities across the country. The primary objective of the society is the recognition and encouragement of superior scholarship in all academic disciplines. The society is convinced that in recognizing and honoring those persons of good character who have excelled in scholarship, it will stimulate others to espouse excellence.

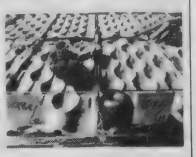
NEWS

Classified Ads Come From Russia, With Love

In the middle of the Soviet Union's political and economic turmoil, Soviet citizens are reaching out to Americans through an innovative classified advertising exchange.

The Rotunda has entered into an exclusive arrangement to publish classified ads from Soviet citizens in a unique feature called, "Personally Yours, From The U.S.S.R." The ads, which will cover everything from requests for pen pals, friendship, business ventures, vacation exchanges and romance, will run today and April 29.

Readers of the ads will be able to respond to the Soviets by writing to "Personally Yours" and for a modest fee, obtaining the address and "how-to" instructions for corresponding with someone in the Soviet Union.



"Personally Yours, From The U.S.S.R." is the brainchild of Greenberg Baron Simon and Miller, an international consulting firm in Denver, Colorado. After a successful test of the concept in Denver several months ago, the firm entered into an agreement with the College Press Service to bring the ads exclusively to college newspapers around the country.

The ads were obtained through a joint venture agreement with Komsomolskaya Pravda, the Soviet Union's largest daily newspaper. Komsomolskaya Pravda reaches 18.2 million Soviet youth, and is as close as you come to a national "college" newspaper in the Soviet Union.

When Komsomolskaya Pravda ran an article several months ago asking for the classified ads to be run in America, thousands of Soviets replied. They paid 144 rubles to run the ads, which is the equivalent of $230 using official exchange rates. To put this in even better perspective, 144 rubles is approximately two-thirds of the average Soviet's monthly paycheck.

The Rotunda is one of numerous college papers participating in "Personally Yours, From The USSR."

Food Fight Erupts in Neighborhood Supermarket

Carrots, broccoli, and fresh fruit flew into grocery carts as The Great American Food Fight Against Cancer broke out in area supermarkets.

Consumers are reacting to studies showing that foods high in fiber and low in fat may help reduce cancer risk.

One mother was seen throwing carrots into her bag. "Snacks for the kids," she said. "This food fight is pretty exciting," said one produce manager, "and there's nothing to clean up!"

The American Cancer Society, sponsor of the Food Fight, has more information. Call 1-800-ACS-2345. And, be on the lookout for Community Crusade volunteers armed with shopping lists.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

Public Service Message

College Students Sought For Jobs

College students from across the country are being sought for summer jobs at one of the nation's most spectacular national parks.

Glacier National Park, located in the northwest corner of Montana, is best known for its rugged mountain wilderness and its historic lodges. Glacier Park, Inc., is looking for students to fill more than 900 summer jobs in all segments of the hotel and hospitality areas.

The seven hotels and lodges and the famous red vintage tour coaches operate throughout the 1.4 million acres of Glacier National Park. Since the early 1900s, it has been a tradition for college students from across the country to work at the park while enjoying a number of outdoor activities such as hiking, riding, and fishing in one of the nation's last examples of pristine wilderness.

Jobs include a large variety of hotel positions such as hotel front desk, maids, cooks, waitresses and bus drivers. Some students also participate in the guest entertainment, another Glacier Park tradition.

For details on jobs and salaries call Glacier Park, Inc., at (602) 248-2612 or, write Glacier Park, Inc., 1210 Greyhound Tower, Phoenix, Ariz., 85077.

Glacier Park, Inc., is a subsidiary of The Dial Corp, which is a diversified corporation with $3.5 billion in revenues, 37,000 employees and interests in four major markets – consumer products, services, transportation manufacturing and financial services.

Governor Wilder Declares "LAW DAY" - May 1st

Richmond, April 16 — Gov. L. Douglas Wilder has proclaimed May 1 as the 34th annual Law Day in Virginia.

The governor signed the proclamation today at a ceremony attended by Virginia State Bar (VSB) President C. Flippo Hicks of Gloucester, Virginia Bar Association (VBA) President Alan C. Goolsby of Richmond, VSB Young Lawyers Conference President Arnold R. Henderson of Richmond and VBA Young Lawyers Section Chairman William R. Van Buren III of Norfolk.

Law Day was established nationally in 1957 as a time to reflect on the United States' legal heritage, the role of law in American society and the rights Americans enjoy under the U. S. Constitution.

Law Day is part of Community Law Week, observed April 30-May 6 this year. Activities during the week include free programs on legal topics and opportunities for citizens to obtain free legal consultations. "No Bills Night," a special call-in program offering free 10-minute legal consultations, will be held during the week in Abingdon, Danville, Fredericksburg, Northern Virginia, Richmond and Roanoke.

For more information on Community Law Week activities, individuals may contact the Virginia State Bar, (804) 786-2061, ext. 348, or local bar groups in their area.

Longwood Dancers To Give Spring Concert

The Longwood College Company of Dancers will present their spring concert on Thursday and Friday, April 25 and 26, at 8 p.m. in Jarman Auditorium.

Six dances in a variety of styles will be featured. Five of them were choreographed by student members of the Dance Company.

"Song of Hope" is a sign-language ballet, created and danced by Jill Hartt and Fran Siebert.

"The Nightmare," a modern ballet for nine dancers, was choreographed by Karla Marotta.

"In the Army Now" is a tap number, created by Kerensa Mohney and Angie Sawyer. They dance the piece with Larry Wylie.

A jazz dance, entitled "Street Sharp," was choreographed by Hilary Silvera, a 1988 Longwood graduate. The dancers, in addition to Ms. Silvera, are Jill Hartt, Kerensa Mohney, Angie Sawyer, Fran Siebert, and Allison Thompson.

"Visions" is a ballet in more traditional style, created and danced by Betsy Gee and Niki Smith.

The concert concludes with "Patterns," choreographed by Dr. Nelson Neal and danced by the entire company.

The dance performances are open to the public; admission is free.

COMICS

THE STAFF:

The ROTUNDA

Box 1133
Longwood College
Farmville, Va. 23901

Editor-In-Chief Monica Y. Gilbert
Managing Editor Bradley L. Owen
Features Editor Lindy Seymore
Sports Editor Charlie Fultz
Photography Editor Judi Weller
Layout Editor Sarah Whiteside
Layout Assistant Deborah Wilson
News Editor Christopher Jones
Business Manager Anita Owens
Advertising Manager Bradley L. Owen
Faculty Advisor Barbara LaJaunie

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed or printed neatly. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is 3:00 p.m. Friday prior to the Monday publication date and these should be placed in the envelope on the Publication door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by midnight Sunday.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College. The Rotunda is an American Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

FEATURES

APO Raises Money For Bobby Ferrar

By IRENE RISCHKE

On Wednesday, April 17, Faculty Follies was held in Wygal Auditorium.

Faculty Follies, an annual faculty talent show which was sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, raised money to help a 3-year-old boy be able to speak. He made a personal appearance at the show.

Bobby Ferrar, a local boy, was born with underdeveloped lungs and a collapsed windpipe. He is currently breathing through a hole in his windpipe. This summer, he will undergo one of a series of operations to reconstruct his windpipe. Faculty Follies is one of the ways Alpha Phi Omega has raised money to help Bobby and his family.

Faculty Follies was made up of a series of short acts. Included in the performances was "All I Ask of You" by Steve Dealph and Mary Kaye Benton, a comedy act by the R.E.C.'s and other staff members, Brenda Cross as Tina Turner, and "On Top of Old Grainger" by Dr. and Mrs. Dorrill."

The theme for the night was "A Salute to America." In the spirit of the theme, the brothers and pledges of Alpha Phi Omega performed skits showing life in America from the Civil War to the present.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE 1991-91 STUDENT UNION BOARD

President	Sarah Raffetto
Vice President	Donnis McMullin
Backdoor	Laura Llewellyn
Film	Brad Owen
Mainstage	Riley Ross & John Russell
Series Performing Arts	Michelle Williamson
Weekend Involvement	Mary Fitzgerald
Cultural Unification	Lucille Jones
Lecture	Laurie Myers
Publicity	Stephanie Shuman
Secretary	Elisa Poe

'Big River' Presented At State Theatre

By ANN RENEE HEIM

Longwood College's theatre-performance year may be over, but several Longwood students are still working to present Big River which opens at 8 p.m. on Friday, April 26, at the State Theatre in Farmville.

Big River is a musical depicting the life of Mark Twain's Huckelberry Finn. The majority of the play takes us on an adventure-filled journey down the big river — the Mississippi — as Huck and his friend Jim, an escaped slave, run into, and away from, trouble, finding happiness and sometimes defeat.

Students Rick Codding, Kimberly Graves, Katherine Neumann, and Ethan Yonker will all be participating in the show. Codding, Neumann, and Yonker will appear onstage, and Graves will aid in the musical accompaniment.

Huck Finn will be played by Codding, who was last seen on Jarman Stage as Mercutio in Romeo and Juliet, he also acted as a Zani in Androcles and the Lion. This role is Rick's first since his return from California, where he spent a semester at the Santa Rosa Junior College.

Neumann will portray Mary Jane, a young woman who falls in love with Huck. This is also Neumann's first role since her return to Longwood this spring.

Huck Finn's friend and confidant, Tom Sawyer, will be played by Ethan Yonker. Yonker, was last seen in The Foreigner at Jarman in March. Yonker is a freshman transfer from the University of Kentucky.

Big River, directed by Dudley Sauve, will run on Friday, and Saturday, April 26 and 27, and the following weekend, May 3 and 4. A student discount night will be provided on Thursday, April 25.

Dance Concert To Feature Works Of Dr. Neal

A dance concert featuring "The Choreographic Works of Dr. Nelson Neal" will be presented on Saturday evening, April 27, at 8 o'clock in Longwood College's Jarman Auditorium.

The concert is the final event in this year's Founders Day program at Longwood and is open to the public free of charge.

The program includes eight dance works created by Neal. The dancers, in addition to Neal, are five Longwood graduates and current members of the Longwood Company of Dancers.

Just Going is a duet danced by Neal and Donna Wolfe (class of 1990). It was performed in a previous concert at Longwood and at the 1989 Winterfest Arts Festival at the State University of New York/Cortland.

The Ultimate Sport is a trio, featuring 1983 graduate Dean Lakey, Neal and Larry Wylie, a current member of the Longwood Company of Dancers. The dance is based on movements from sports, including track and field, baseball, wrestling, tennis, soccer, swimming, and diving, as well as signals used by sports officials.

Neal and Lakey performed this dance in 1981 at the Southern District meeting of the American Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Dance in Orlando, FL.

Tennessee Toad, another duet, is "about how toads or frogs might dance if they could," Neal said. Two members of the Dance Company, sophomore Betsy Gee and senior Fran Siebert, will dance this lighthearted piece.

Neal will dance one solo, entitled Edd. The idea for the dance, choreographed in 1985, "came from my feelings during and after receiving my doctoral degree from the University of Virginia," Neal said. He performed the dance in Jyvaskyla, Finland in 1986.

Body Language, Four Dialects focuses on dance movements for four body parts: head, danced by Karla Marotta; arms, by Kerensa Mohney and Angie Sawyer; hips, by Niki Smith; and legs, by Jill Hartt. The dancers are members of the current Company of Dancers.

Contrasts is a group dance performed by current members of the Dance Company and three former members — Shanna Eyer McGaughey '85, Sherry Massey '86, and Hilary Silvera '88. This dance was premiered at Longwood in 1985 and was performed by a group of dancers in Finland while Dr. Neal taught there in 1986.

Communicative Design will be danced by Betsy Gee and Larry Wylie.

The final dance on the program is Patterns, featuring the entire Dance Company. The work was premiered at Longwood in the spring of 1990. Suzanne Ellett, of Farmville, designed the costumes and stage decor. Dancers include Julianna Hardy, Lisa Kestrson, Keri Ramsden, Allison Thompson, and those previously mentioned.

Music for the dances include a classical piece by Telemann, country, New Age, electronic, folk guitar, and a portion of the sound track from "The Exorcist," complete with "something that sounds like howling," Neal said. Costumes for several of the dances were created by Marna Neal.

Neal is associate professor of health and physical education at Longwood and coordinator of the dance program. He is a graduate of the State University of New York/Cortland College, with master's degree in dance from the University of Wisconsin and Ed. D. in physical education form U. Va.

He came to Longwood in 1978, after teaching and coaching at a junior high school in New Mexico, the University of Wisconsin, and the University of Mississippi.

He has taught "Dance Is...workshops for some 18,000 school children in Virginia (supported by a grant from the Virginia Commission for the Arts) and in Canada, Finland, and France. In connection with the workshops, he conducted extensive research studies on children's attitudes toward dance and has presented papers on his research at international conferences in Belgium, Finland, and Germany and at regional and national conferences in the U. S.

Neal will fly to Blackpool, England next month to dance with the formation ballroom dance team from SUNY/Cortland in the International Dance Championships.

Lakey teaches physical education on the eighth grade level at John Rolfe Middle School in Henrico County. He incorporates dance in his instructional program, including dance based on sports movements, line dances, and dances that use props. He also is head coach of the girls' basketball team, assistant coach for boys' basketball, and distance running coach for the track and field team.

Before going to John Rolfe two years ago, Lakey taught for five years in Amelia County schools. He is working on his master's degree in physical education/fitness at VCU.

Ms. McGaughey teaches jazzercise at the Tennis and Racquet Club in Leesburg. She was an anthropology major at Longwood, with minors in sociology, history, and dance. She is married to Joel McGaughey, also at Longwood graduate, and they have two children.

Ms. Massey majored in business at Longwood, with a marketing concentration and a minor in dance. She has worked in MCI's engineering branch in McLean and in the telecommunications corporate sales branch in Washington, D.C.

Ms. Silvera also majored in business and took a minor in dance. Since graduation she has been accounting clerk for Merrill-Lynch and restaurant manager for the Stoffer Hotel in East Windsor, NJ. She resigned from the hotel position last December and returned to Longwood to take advanced business classes prior to enrolling in graduate school. Her ultimate goal is to open her own restaurant.

Ms. Wolfe lives in Covington and works for Westvaco. She also teaches dance in a private studio. She majored in chemistry at Longwood with a dance minor.

The Bulletin Board

The Music Department will be holding auditions for next year's production of "Amahl and the Night Visitors" on April 23 at 6 p.m. in Wygal Music Building. The opera calls for six major roles including: Amahl-soprano, the Mother-soprano, King Kaspar-tenor, King Melchior-baritone, King Balthazar-bass, and the Page-bass. There will also be a supporting chorus of shepherds. For more information and music for the audition, please contact Dr. Trott in Wygal, Office 3 or by calling 2500. All persons interested must pick up music to be learned for the April 23rd auditions.

All students expecting to graduate, transfer, or leave Longwood College in May 1991 with any type of loan through Financial Aid MUST have an EXIT INTERVIEW. The Exit Interview Sessions will be held in the Conference Room (121) West Ruffner on the following dates:

Tues., April 30 — 11-1 and 2:30-4 p.m.
Wed., May 1, — 5:30-9 p.m.
Thurs., May 2 — 9-4 p.m.

Please call or come by the Financial Aid Office as soon as possible to schedule your Exit interview for one of these sessions.

Federal regulations now mandate that you MUST have the Exit interview before leaving LC.

Loan Department
Financial Aid Office

SUMMER CAMP JOBS are available at resident Girl Scout camp. If you enjoy children this is the job for you! We are looking for unit leaders, unit counselors, pool staff, nature and crafts directors, cooks and kitchen workers, and nurse. Camps are located in Bridgewater and Leesburg. Pre-camp begins June 15; camp ends August 12. For an application visit your Career Placement office or call the Girl Scout Council of the Nation's Capital, 1-202-337-4300 or in MD and VA 1-800-523-7898.

Make your classes easier by helping yourself to SMART (Student Managed Academic Residential Tutoring). Whether you need a tutor or study companions, we can help! Study sessions are being offered throughout this semester on 4th floor, South Cunningham. Check the SMART bulletin board in the New Smoker for information about study groups already formed or to start your own group. If you have any questions, please contact Roger Hanna - 3002 or Scott Lissner - 2391.

Longwood's First ever Spring Cleaning Weekend will be held Friday, April 26 — Sunday, April 28! Please use this special opportunity to clean-up your rooms. Empty those old storage boxes, take personal belongings home and make donations to charity. Physical Plant workers will be available on Friday, 1-5 p.m., to help get rid of big items. Cash reward for the cleanest floor! See your RA for details.

S-UN Board programming to come...

April 22 Movie, "Edward Scissorhands" 9 p.m. Lankford Mall
April 26 & 29 Movie, "Russia House" 9 p.m. Lankford Mall
April 29 Comedian/ Singer KIER 9 p.m. Cafe.

Need a Job in the Fall?

Apply in ller to work for the Division of Intramurals and Campus Recreation. Jobs include: Supervisor and equipment checkout for weightroom, racquetball courts, gyms/fields, aerobic fitness instructor, publicity, photographer.

Dr. "Flash" Blaunelt, physical education professor here at Longwood, will shave his beard for the first time if Delta Psi Kappa, the honorary fraternity for physical education raises 200 dollars! Delta Psi Kappa asks you, the student body, to help. Please donate any loose change to Mrs. Flowers, in the P.E. Department Secretary's Office or mail donations to Delta Psi Kappa, Box 915. — Thanks for your support. The members of Delta Psi Kappa

EARTH DAY 1991
Do your part.

For the sake of everyone, please recycle.

CPPC Offers Tip On Relocating

By BILL FROUDE

If your new job involves relocating to a different community or simply moving across town, it will take some extra effort to establish new friendships and become part of that community. This is particularly challenging if you move to a new place alone, as a single person. Some important tips:

•Find A Balance Between Work and Leisure Activities — You will likely invest a great deal of energy in your new job while you learn how things are done. This is good, since you want to make a positive impression. However, do not neglect the importance of time for yourself. Once you're settled, your balance should shift.

• Take Initiative To Build A New Social Network — Take some risks and go to meetings or gatherings where you know very few people. It beats watching TV every night. Some suggestions: a health club, an athletic team, a church, a local choral group, a photography class, or a variety of other activities. Become active in at least one structured activity which involves weekly meetings.

• Don't Live In The Past — Stay in touch with old friends, but don't live in the past. The sooner you become involved in your new community, the sooner you will have a new circle of friends.

• Incorporate Stress Management Techniques — A new job and a new community can mean stress. Exercise and a balanced diet can help. Also, treat yourself to some entertainment activities, even if it sometimes means going alone.

• Have A Positive Outlook — Try to look at the period of change as an exciting time in which you are exposed to many new people and experiences. It takes most people six months to a year to become really settled, so allow yourself some time to adjust.

If you would like to read more about "life after college," visit the Career Planning and Placement Center. We have a section in the career library devoted to the topic.

End Of Semester Brings Spring Clean-up

Faster than a speeding bullet! More powerful than a locomotive! It's coming! The end of the year! Sooner than you think, you'll be hauling home billions of things you've collected throughout the year. Will it all fit in the car? Will you have time to study, say good-bye to friends, get a tan, AND pack? Where did all this stuff come from anyway???

On-Campus residents are strongly encouraged to think ahead and take part in a special Spring clean-Up weekend. The weekend of April 26-28 has been set aside as a time to sort, clean, and pack up for the end of the year. So far, the event has all the trappings of an event to be remembered.

Coordinated by various campus offices, all sorts of extra help will be available. On Friday, April 26 from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m., physical plant personnel will be on-hand to assist students wanting to move large items from their rooms. Residents will need to sign up at their hall desks to get some extra help. Large garbage bags will be available and dumpsters will be strategically located for trash removal. Usable discards will be collected at various points on campus for charity. Hall Councils and Residents Assistants are being encouraged to provide extra incentives to students participating in the event.

For some, Spring clean-up will be an opportunity to bring order to the chaos they've called home for the last several months. For others, it will mean truly starting to get it together for moving day...Regardless of how you plan to celebrate Spring Clean-up, don't forget...The end is near and now's the time to clean up your act!

SPORTS

Lancers Break Randolph-Macon

Senior pitcher Dennis Hale, shortstop Mike Tucker and designated hitter Todd Bowman were the ringleaders Wednesday afternoon as the Longwood baseball team breezed to a 9-1 decision over visiting Randolph-Macon.

Longwood, ranked 30th in Division II last week, moved its record to 28-6. The Lancers' games with Division I Liberty Saturday, and Shenandoah Sunday were rained out. This week Longwood hosts single games with St. Mary's Wednesday at 2:00 and William & Mary Thursday at 3:00. The William & Mary contest will be broadcast on WFLO AM, 870.

The Lancers also host Christopher-Newport Saturday at 1:00 for a single game and travel to Maryland Eastern Shore for a pair of games Sunday.

Tucker powered a three-run homer in the first inning to give Hale all the support he would need. The homer, which tied Tucker with Eric Hutzler for the team RBI lead at 45, was his 13th circuit clout of the season, one short of the LC record of 14, set by Kelvin Davis in 1988. Tucker has now hit 21 homers in two seasons and ranks fourth on the career home run list.

Bowman ended a prolonged slump, getting three hits in four trips with a double and an RBI. The sophomore had been hitless over the past two weeks, and watched his average dip from .362 to .297. Bowman has driven in 21 runs for the Lancers.

Chris Porter also drove in a pair of runs for Longwood with a fourth inning single.

Hale Breaks Career Strikeout Record

Hale broke one Lancer career pitching record and tied another Wednesday. He struck out seven yellow jackets to boost his career total to 194, topping the mark of 193 David Mitchell set between 1979 and 1982. Hale also tied Mitchell's career victory record (29).

Hale, 9-1 for the season, is 29-5 for his career. He gave up just five hits and walked two against Division III R-MC. Only eight Jackets reached base and Hale retired the last nine men he faced.

Randolph-Macon, 7-13-1, got an RBI single from Jim Manning in the fifth to break through against Hale.

Softball Splits With Bridgewater

The Longwood softball team split a twinbill to the visiting Eagles of Bridgewater College Thursday, dropping the opening game 4-0, but rebounding to take the nightcap 6-4 on the Armory Field. The Lady Lancers post a 10-2 record including an 8-4 mark at home.

Bridgewater pitcher Laura Kite blanked the Lady Lancers in the opening game, allowing no runs on seven hits while walking none and striking out four. Longwood failed to score with the bases loaded in the fourth inning and again in the seventh and left all seven base runners stranded during the game.

Junior Christy Saunders had the only hot bat, belting a pair of singles and a triple in her three trips to the plate. Senior Pam Fitzgerald (3-6) was credited with the loss after allowing four runs on seven hits. Fitzgerald walked none and struck out two.

"We really struggled during the first game," commented head coach Loretta Coughlin. "We were hitting pretty well, we just couldn't score any runs."

In the second game, Longwood jumped to an early 1-0 lead when Saunders singled into left field to score sophomore Robin Jensen. The Lady Lancers trailed 2-1 in the fourth when junior Laura Marks nailed her fourth homer of the season to tie the game at 2-2. Longwood added another run in the inning but trailed again when the Eagles scored a pair of runs in the sixth to notch the score at 4-3.

Longwood sealed the win with a one hit, three run sixth inning. Marks and Fitzgerald both stole home after wild pitches shot by the Bridgewater catcher and freshman Andi Wrenn crossed the plate after a sacrifice fly by first baseman freshman Jill Hauschildt.

Wrenn (5-5), who allowed four runs on nine hits, was awarded the win.

The Lady Lancers conclude play Wednesday when they host Mary Washington College for a double header on the Armory Field at 3 p.m.

Longwood Qualifies For NGCA Tournament

Longwood, ranked number one among Division II teams the whole year, was recently rated 47th among all NCAA collegiate women's teams, including Division I teams. Rollins College, runner-up to LC last year by 15 strokes, figures to be a top challenger for the NGCA Division II title.

Dr. Smith revealed that Longwood has qualified to play in the National Golf Coaches Association Division II National Tournament May 5-7 in Lacrosse, Wisconsin. The Lady Lancers will be defending the NGCA title they won last year and three of the past four years. In all six Division II teams qualify for the event.

"We're going to take a couple of days off, and then work real hard the next two weeks," said Dr. Smith. "Hopefully, we're saving our best golf for the NGCA Tournament."

Suanders Player Of The Week

Christy Saunders, the designated player on the Longwood College softball team, played an exceptional pair of games last Thursday and has been named Longwood College Player of the Week for the period of April 14-21. Player of the Week is selected by the Longwood sports information office.

Saunders, a junior, was 4-6 to hit .667 in the twinbill versus visiting Bridgewater College. In the opening game of the doubleheader which the Lady Lancers dropped 4-0, Saunders belted three hits in three trips to the plate, including a triple her first time at bat. In Longwood's 6-4 victory in the second game, Saunders was 1-3 with an RBI.

"Christy has really been in a groove lately," commented head coach Loretta Coughlin. "She is more confident at the plate than I've ever seen her and has made the designated player position her own."

Saunders, who played only sparingly last year, is currently leading Longwood in hitting with 18 hits in 43 at bats for a .419 average. She adds six runs, 11 RBI, a double and a triple to her batting statistics.

A biology major, Saunders plans on a career as a medical technologist.

Spring Player of the Week Award Winner (beginning March): March 3 - 10, Scott Abell, Terry Taylor– Baseball; March 10-17, Robin Jensen-Softball; March 17-24, Chris Porter-Baseball; Mach 24-31, Mike Tucker-Baseball; March 31-April 7, Eric Hutzler-Baseball; April 7-14, Steve Crute-Men's Golf; April 14-21, Christy Saunders-Softball.

Women Netters Down R-MWC

Moving its spring record to 4-2, Longwood's women's tennis team beat homestanding Randolph-Macon College 7-2 Wednesday afternoon.

No. 2 Suzie Lawman and No. 4 Melanie Saunders continued their excellent play, posting single wins against R-MC. Lawman moved her spring record to 6-1 while Saunders is now 7-0 on the year.

Other single winners for the Lady Lancers were Jenny Holm at No. 1, Jenny Proffitt at No. 3, and Jennifer Risko at No. 6. In doubles, Proffitt and Saunders were victorious at No. 2 and Kimber Bear (Burke) teamed up with Heather Leach to win at No. 3.

The Lady Lancers' next action is slated for Monday at UNC Greensboro.

Women's Golf Finishes 5th

Longwood's women's golf team shot 331-347-678 to finish fifth out of 10 teams at the rain-shortened William & Mary Invitational Tournament Sunday at Ford's Colony Golf Course, a par 72 layout in Williamsburg.

Scheduled for 54 holes, the tournament was shortened to 36 when Saturday's action was rained out.

Penn State was the tournament with a 312-313-625. Next came Methodist 652, James Madison 665, William & Mary 676 and Longwood 678. College of Charleston shot 681 and William & Mary's second team 712. Scores for Appalachian State, UNC Greensboro and Virginia Commonwealth were not available.

Playing for Longwood were Donna Martin 81-86-167, Ami Schonauer 83-85-168, Anna Radford 84-86-170 and Sherry Evans 83-90-173. Jo Lefson had a first round 88 on Friday before being sidelined Sunday with illness. Danielle Karish, playing as an individual, shot 96-93-189.

"We're hitting the ball real well," said Longwood coach Barbara Smith. "We're just not scoring."

Men's Netters Down St. Paul's 8-1

Longwood's men's tennis team won two of four matches last week, beating St. Paul's 8-1 Wednesday and Kutztown 5-3 Saturday, both on the road. Randolph-Macon and Eastern Mennonite handed the Lancers 8-1 defeats Tuesday and Friday, respectively.

Now 3-9 for the year, Longwood visits Virginia Wesleyan Monday in its last match of the year.

Singles winners for Longwood against St. Paul's were: No. 1 Chris Healing, No. 2 Hunter Reynolds, who also got a win against Randolph-Macon, No. 3 James Whiteree, No. 4 Eric Haupt, and No. 5 Mike Cyrus, No. 6 Kevin Jerrell won on a forfeit.

At Kutztown singles winners for the Lancers were Reynolds, Cyrus and Jarrell. Cyrus and Whiteree won No. 2 doubles and Haupt and Scott McIntyre at No. 3. The teams agreed not to play No. 1 doubles with the Lancers ahead 5-3.

Reynolds and Cyrus were victorious at No. 2 doubles while the Lancers gained a forfeit at No. 3.

Longwood Lacrosse Drops Two Games

The Longwood lacrosse team continued its losing skid this weekend, dropping a game to Mary Washington College 7-5 Friday and another to Washington and Lee University Sunday 10-8. The Lady Lancers post a record of 0-9.

Despite the losing tallies in both games, the Lady Lancers played some of their strongest offense and defense of the season. In Friday's game at Mary Washington, Longwood held the Eagles scoreless for the final 18:27 of the contest. The Lady Lancers, who had trailed 5-1 at intermission, closed to within two after junior Lara Cini stuffed in three second period goals. Junior Alisa Bricklin added the other second half goal and junior Carver Ports the lone goal of the first stanza.

"We were playing really solid in the second half," said head coach Sandy Bridgeman. "We controlled the ball and played much better defense. We just need to increase our intensity during the first half."

At Washington and Lee Sunday, the Lady Lancers trailed by four goals at halftime 7-3, but again rebounded in the second period. Longwood held the Generals scoreless for the first 13 minutes of the second half and closed to within two goals, but could pull no closer and fell 10-8 for the team's ninth loss of the season.

Cini added three more goals and an assist in the Sunday afternoon game. Ports added a pair of goals as did freshman Kim Chapman, and freshman Anita Warford one.

The Lady Lancers host their final home game of the season Tuesday, April 23 when they play Sweet Briar College on Frist Avenue Field at 4:30.

Men's Golf Closes Season With 9th Place Finish

By MARK KIRK

The end of the spring season finally arrived for Longwood's men's golf squad last Friday as they placed ninth at the Shipbuilder's Invitational in Portsmouth.

Hampden-Sydney captured top honors for the afternoon by firing a 316, while Longwood endured a tough round of golf and finished with a 335.

"We did not play very well, which was disappointing since it was our last match of the season," explained Lancer head coach Steve Nelson, whose team finished the spring season 4-1 in match play. "There may have been a letdown after performing in the State Tournament last weekend."

Sophomore Frank Davide and freshman Shawn Moore provided the best rounds of the day for Longwood, both shooting 81.

Other scores for the Lancers were turned in by freshman John Benton, 83; senior Darrell Nichols, 90; and sophomore Steve Crute, 90.

Women's Rugby Displays 'Elegant Violence'

By SARA PARKER

Rugby, defined as "elegant violence," is a sport that is not generally considered a woman's game, and the usual picture of a female rugby player is pretty unflattering to those of us who play. While some of the women do fit the large, hairy, masculine-looking stereotype, anyone who has seen the Longwood Women's Rugby Football Club will agree that none of us is quite that scary. However, being the best-looking team in the state has not hurt our ability as ruggers one bit, as our 3-1-1 record will attest.

We began this season by beating UVA (8-0), a team whose reputation for being tough is very well-deserved. Then, five weeks later (March 30), we played Mary Washington, the number one team in the state. It was a rough game. Kim Joye had to claw her way to the try zone to score for us, and that plus a try conversion made by Cathy Hines (our coach and scrum half), was only enough to keep us even with Mary Wash. We have a small team this semester, with only one substitute, so when Tonya Edmonds broke her hand and Elizabeth Hall suffered a severe head injury, they were forced to continue playing, since we had no extra scrummers to replace them. They both showed their dedication by continuing to give everything to the game. It wasn't enough to beat the number one team, but we held them to a tie, which is perfectly respectable. Unfortunately we lost Tonya after this game, due to her broken hand.

The next weekend, April 6 & 7, we attended the Virginia Women's Invitational Tournament, held at UVA. Our first game was against Frostburg, a team from Maryland. They were great to talk with after the game, but they didn't have enough experience to give us much of a challenge. After scoring quickly at the start, they couldn't get near their try zone, thanks in great part to the tough playing of Nicole Lehnhardt, who emerged from the game covered in glory, and mud and lime. Thanks to Cathy Hines, who scored three trys, and Sharon Bryant, who scored two, we couldn't stay out of our, winning 20-4.

Later that afternoon we played Cornell, who won this tournament last year. This year, they didn't even win their game against us. Scoring again for Longwood were Sharon Bryant, with one try, and Cathy Hines with two try conversions. Also scoring this game was Angie Sullivan, who made a fantastic run for try. With Cornell unable to make a single point, we won, 12-0.

The next day we played University of Connecticut, who gave us plenty of opposition, and the dirtiest game of rugby we've ever seen. Very early on their hooker punched ours in the nose, bloodying it. Debbie Ellis, who plays second row, sprang to her defense, almost starting a fistfight in the middle of a play. By the end of the game we were all ready to join her, especially Susan Johnson, Jen Dooley, and myself. We alternated as prope, and their front row barged constantly, which is rather (incredibly) painful for the front row that is barged against, as well as being illegal.

The backs had at least as much trouble with U. Conn. as the scrum, and though they were worried, Catherine Byers and Melissa Greene, both new backs, played an excellent defense. Coupled with the experience of the four other backs and the hard-won try of Helen Dennis and Jen Mishoe (it took both to down that darn ball), our backs played an exceptional game, though we lost 4-20.

Joining the scrum for the first time this season was Michele Basey, who played break in the first half of the U. Conn. game. Stacey Harris, who played the other break for this game, ended the game with a run that truly qualifies her to be a member of the LCWRFC (sometimes known amongst ourselves as the LD-WRFC).

We also distinguished ourselves that Saturday night at the tournament party by winning the lip-sync contest. We performed "Cowtown" by They Might Be Giants, since we are from Farmville. Appropriately, we won a trophy that laughs when you pick it up.

Our last game is next Saturday against ODU. Please look for the fliers that will be up, or ask a team member for the time. Come out and cheer us on to our final victory of the season. Longwood is the ... stuff!

20% OFF ALL MEMOREX PRODUCTS IN STOCK

MEMOREX

	REG. PRICE	20% OFF PRICE
SONIC LITE SL40 HEADPHONES	4.99	3.99
COLORPHONES STEREO HEADPHNES	5.49	4.39
VIDEO CASSETTE VHS-120	3.98	3.19
BLANK AUDIO TAPES DBS60 (2 PK.)	2.39	1.89
BLANK AUDIO TAPES DBS90 (2 PK.)	2.99	2.39
BLANK AUDIO TAPES HBS-II 90 (2 PK)	4.49	3.59

"Is it live...or is it Memorex?"

LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE

OPEN 8-5 MONDAY-FRIDAY

OPEN SATURDAY , APRIL 23, FOUNDERS DAY, 10 AM - 2 PM

PHONE 395-2084

CLASSIFIEDS/PERSONALS

Desperate: Female Roommate needed for off-campus apartment for Fall 91-Spring 92. Will have your own room — Also available during summer. Please call Cathy — 3672.

Unpaid Parking Citations

Attention: All Graduating Seniors must clear all outstanding obligations prior to exams. If you are uncertain if you have any unpaid tickets, call campus police at 2612.

All undergraduate students must also pay any outstanding balance on tickets by exam week. Failure to do so may result in stop codes or other problems upon returning to Longwood in the Fall.

FOR SALE

MUST SELL: Loveseat and Matching Chair. Call 392-1930 after 12:30 p.m.

Steve Crute – There is not a sexier golfer on campus than you. (And you can play too!) U know who

Crute – Congratulations on player of the week. You deserve it! Keep up the good work. (Another athlete from Chase City!) Sharnise

To my dearest Craigy – Five and many more! I love you! Rice Krispy

Kelly "D.M." O'Reilly — Jeremy says Haaahh! Sorry last week was a bad one. Cheer up. You've made this the best year for me. I can't thank you enough. Yeah! Yeah! Nod and smile. You're an angel. Special friends — You are the sun, I am the rain. — Love always, Karen Diane McCormick — I need a rent free apartment, know of any. Wish me luck on No. VA plans. Cool potential is very high! — Future House Guest?

Heidi and Missy — Go in a 35- Do you know if babs knows the speed limits in Farmville. All of them? H-Watch where you rest your arm. M- Don't break anymore lights. — Love, The Dancin' Fool

To the Blow Pop Thief — I've installed surveillance equipment so I can watch you all the time. Don't think that you can get away with it again. Watermelon is my favorite too. A little bird said to tell you that you sure are sexy and that she's counting the days to her birthday. You can explain that to me later. Don't forget I'm watching you. — The Blow Pop Guard

Darrin — Cheer up — The "Bitch"

Jay — I still have your jacket — just kiddin' — Elisa

Dave — You're slack — your ever faithful pledge.

J.J. — It's over and it was great — relax you did a great job.

Lancer baseball team – Never take anyone or anything too light! For you may be fooled. Sharny

Lancer Baseball Team – A team that works together wins together. And I want to WIN! Sharny

Baseball Team – You're the BEST! Sharny

Chris B. — I have found religion — at University of Tennessee that is! You never lived up to our bet at Key West — SLACK! Party this Thursday, before DT's! — Love, Jaime

Claudia — How about those FIJI's! Going around the world was never so much fun! Nags Head should be unforgettable! Have fun! — Love — Jaime

Joe Nagg — You are too hott for words. Your blue eyes send chills up my spine. I hope you feel the same. Much love — Guess who!

Roommate needed for on-campus room in Cox. Call Brad at 3253.

Roommate needed for off-campus apartment - Fall 91/Spr 92 - will have your own room — Call Cathy 3672.

Jean Taylor — Congrats on Phi Kappa Phi! You are making all of us proud of you! — The Editor

The Sisters of Iota Phi Lambda Sorority, Inc. — would like to congratulate and welcome the new sorors of Spring 1991: LaShawn Key, Lisa Edmonds, Hilary Silveira, and Lisa Holman. You guys are an asset to our sorority and we're proud to call you sorors! — Iota love forever The Queens

Congratulations to the new sisters of Zeta Tau Alpha: Jodi, Heather, Michele, Amie, Alison, Wendy, Mary, Susan, Melissa, Jen and Anne. — We love you!

AΔπ Pledges spring '91 are the coolest! π Love is forever!

Get active ... 3 per team, TRIATHALON events. 1 person to each event; swim, bike and run. Only $5 per team, with prizes/cash awards. Tentative date for events April 24th. Participation greatly appreciated. Contact Monica Mencini — by box #705. Sign up sheets will randomly be placed in Lancer (gymnasium). Must sign team up by April 19th — Approximate: bike = 5-7 miles; run = 2 miles; swim = 200 meters

Do Me — Thank you for being such a wonderful friend! I can't imagine life without you. Be smappy, blade. I'll never forget you!! — Love, Your Upstairs Suitemate

Stacey Harris — Thanks for a good year! Good luck with Kim next semester and have a ton of fun. I hope I get a good roommate next semester; not hope pray. Come and say high to Lucky Chucky okay. — Love Guy

Lamont B. 814 Curry — What can I say, we didn't have a single fight all year. Be cool and see you around. — Guy

Lancer Baseball Team — Keep up the good work. Continue to work hard! Sharnise

Mike – Only two more home-runs until you break another record. Thirteen down and two more to go! Sharnise

Dearest Lisa — Home hasn't been the same since you left for the war. I hope you're beating those Yankees good. Most of the slaves have left and the northern soldiers have taken over the house. But with God as my witness I shall never go hungry again. Can't wait until you return to Tara. Well I have to go so that I can change my clothes. — Love always your Southern Belle

Emily — You are a great lil sis. Remember I love you! — Love, your Big Sis Beth

Amy Langley — I'm watching out for you! — Love your Rose Sister

Jimmy Pleasants — You were great in BMOC! We still think you're #1! — Love, the Delta Zetas

Terri Dore — Keep guessing who I am! You're leaving soon but I won't forget you! — Love your senior buddy

Casey Bradberry — I'm going to miss you but we'll always stay in touch with you! — Love your senior Buddy

Amie — Keep up all the hard work! I love 'ya — Your Big Sis

Amy — I'm keeping an eye on you — Δz love, your secret Sis

To my family — I love you guys! You are the greatest! — Δz love, Jen

Suities — It's been a great year!! I will miss you all next year. Come visit me! — Δz love, Jen

Meredith — You are an awesome lil sis! Good luck on your pledge test. I'm so proud of you. — Δz love, Your Big Sis

Laura — You are the best little sister ever! I love my paddle. Keep up the good work and remember I love you! — Δz love and mine — Jen

To the Pledges of Delta Zeta — Thank you for a great semester. All of you have been great and are the best pledge class I could have asked for! I can't wait to call you sisters. Love — Your Pledge Mom

Hey Kidd! Thanks for all of the memories. You are still my best friend. — Love, your Muffin

Betsey Rice – Congratulations on your new job teaching aerobics. You'll be great.

Blue Moon — Thank you for putting up with me last week and the entire semester. It's been a great semester, and yeah! Only one semester left for you. I don't know what I'll do when you're gone. You're the best friend anyone could ever have. — Love ya, Skeeter

To the cast and crews of Electra — Thanks for all your hard work and dedication. It paid off! It was great working with each and everyone of you. Thanks for putting up with me! — Stage Manager

Tam! — You're a great roomie and friend! I'm going to miss you and all our fun times! Graduation is almost here! Party! Party! Party — Class of 91 Michelle

To the New Orleans Crew — (You know who you are) Let's make these last weeks count! I'll miss you all! party! anytime, anyplace! — Love, Michelle Same time next year, right?

Glen, Edwin, Barry — Where will she strike next??? Michelle (You big studs!)

Hey #21 — Can you autograph my baseball? Sharnise

Mike Whitford — I just want you to know that you're great. Next year just won't be right without you. Keep your chin up and look toward the future. — Lots of love — A friend

Hey Cabin Crew — Always remember the sun rises in the east and sets in the west until you take it for granted then it sets in the north — in other words Dave get out on the porch — Besides what's wrong with being sexy. Thanks for the great time — You guys are the best — Elisa

Hey Roomie — So when are you due? I didn't know a finger could do that. Remember friends don't strip for friends (No matter how sexy they are) where did you meet that guy anyway? He touched me — my day is complete. Have you done any laundry lately? Well it's almost over — I'll miss you, but I know you'll be back. It's been a great year. I can't wait till next year — You're the best — ME

APO Chili cookers — No matter who won, ours was the best chili! — Jay keep on mindlessly stirring. Dawn will tell you when to stop. Next week let's just sleep in — Love ya guys Elisa

APO Pledges — We are in the home stretch, you all have been great and next year is going to be terrific. Hold on to those paddles and don't forget the toast song. I'm sure everyone's interviews went well — Good luck — Elisa

Jennifer — I tried the extra — circular communication but you weren't responding so I decided on a personal instead. You're the best big brother ever. I love my paddle and I'm glad I got the crest — Don't worry I'm still hiding it. Have a good week — Lil' Bro'

Mom — You are a great child rearer. How's dad? I still haven't asked him to adopt me. I'm saving that seat for him. No more chili cooking in the rain okay — Your favorite child

David — WORD! Just wanted to say congratulations on becoming President of Alpha Psi Omega. I love you! — Sarah

To all Alpha Gam Seniors: — You guys will all be missed!! Good luck to you all. Remember — Your sisters love you

To Delta Pledge Class of Kappa Pi — Congrats! I had so much fun April 18th. Ya'll we're an awesome pledge class. — VP Paula

To Nice Feet — Love my paddle. Your a great little Bro! — Paula

Hey Roomie — Just thought I'd say hi! — G.W.

Ginjajah — Yo kid! I couldn't have asked for anyone better! You're great! — SBJ

To my better half — Tell me, when did your Putt sink? My sincere condolences!! — ILY Love Birdie — Albatros

Dear Donna-Duff — Have a rave, dinkum man! Ningka-Binka, and remember, seven times may not be as good as 14, but then it is better than nothing!! — Love Handicap

Cathy Mapp — We're glad you are graduating too.

Kelley M. — Have you gagged lately?? — MB

Julie B. and Christine T. — Let's get together and party soon! — MB

Druitt and Charlie Brown – What's up cuz? One of the Boys - Sharnise.

GEIST would like to thank all those who were so generous with their time and efforts with the bloodmobile. We would also like to thank all those who gave blood, the gift of life.

Chris G. — Next year when we are alumni, try to keep your hose on!

Andy H. — You are a great little brother. I couldn't have asked for a more special friend. — Bumpass

Milli — You are special and you will make it! — Bumpass

Chris G. — You are a nerd and I did not steal a fern. So "Beat It"

M.C. — You are the best lil sis. I love you. — Δz love and mine Cathy

Michelle Lebo Keep up the good work. You are almost finished. — Δz love, Your secret sister

Emily K. — I'm glad we've gotten to know each other better! You're awesome! — Δz love and mine, Kim S.

Marcy D. — Stop stressing! Remember your little sis loves you! — Δz love Jen

Michelle Luck — I'm watching you! Keep up the good work. — Δz love you Rose sister

To the Pledges of Delta Zeta — You guys are awesome! Keep smilin' and keep up the good work! — I love you all, Marcy

Tortilla — What can I say, except stay away from golf balls while thinking evil thoughts. — Ketchup Bottle

To all the graduating seniors of ArA — Good luck in the Real World! I love you and will miss you all. — Ar love Franki

To the sisters of AGD — I can't wait for you all to meet my financee at our ball. Everyone is invited to the wedding. Martha, just think you'll have to see my face across the table at every Holiday Dinner.

Tammy — You're a great sister! I'm going to miss you when you graduate. I love you! — Δz love and mine Your senior buddy

Tracy — You're an awesome little sister. Keep up the great work! — Your big sis, Kelli

To the Sisters and Pledges of Delta Zeta — I am going to miss you! Thanks for the best 4 years of my life. — Jen DZ love, Karen D.

Tricia B. — Not much longer until the big day!! I'm going to miss you. — Δz love and mine your senior buddy

Mary Catherine — Your doing a great job! Keep up the good work! — Δz love your secret sis

To whom it may Concern — You are barking up the wrong tree. I did not write the second message to Fuma. I did write the first, but I never mentioned you or love. My message was only to let Fuma know someone was attracted to him. I never said I loved him because I don't. I have only been in his company a few times. I do not know him well enough to even say hello when I see him, so I can asure him I do not love him. I never accyssed you of half-way loving him or anything else, because I have no idea who you are. I am just as curious as you are to know who wrote the second. I had no idea that my simple message would cause so many problems. I apologize to Fuma and to you for all the hassle. I hope this lays it all to rest, and I hope you discover who wrote the second. — No longer Dreaming

Delta Sigma Pi Pledges — Keep up the good work. You guys are great.

Milli — Do you know what you need?

To all Senior Deltasigs — Congratulations on a job well done. We have almost made it! — Bumpass

Dave, Chrissy, Amy V., Amy G., Pam, Karen, Alysson, Catherine, Caren, Ginger, Kim, Taline, Susan, and Mitzi: Thank you for a wonderful beginning to Longwood life! You have all been great! Keep going and going... the end is near!!! Love you all, Pam.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THESE NEWLY SELECTED MEMBERS OF THE RESIDENCE HALL STAFF!!!

Betsy Butler	Zhan Caplan
Bryce Davis	Daniel Ellis
Tracey Fowlkes	Jennifer Harvey
Courtney Hodges	Casey Jellie
Rob Johnston	Angela Jones
Shawn Kelly	Ginny Martin
Patricia McCormick	Rob Overstreet
Rob Perry	Dante Ricci

Jackie Rigsbee

WELCOME TO THE RESIDENCE EDUCATION TEAM!!!!!!!!!

Monthly Payment Plan Deadline Approaching

Deadline for signing up for the Monthly Payment Plan for the fall semester 1991/1992, is May 20, 1991. Applications can be obtained from Fran Wilmoth in the Treasurer's office between 10:00 AM and 2:00 PM.

Many students and parents have found paying school expenses on a monthly basis an attractive alternative. The plan is available to any full time student.

Should you have questions about the plan, contact Fran Wilmoth at 395-2268.

Summertime At Longwood SUMMER SESSION DATES

First Session	May 20 - June 7
Second Session	June 17 - July 12
Third Session	July 15 - August 9

REMINDER:

Only courses taken at Longwood count towards your GPA. Students suspended at the end of spring semester may not take courses at Longwood during the summer.

Is There A Journalist Lurking Inside You? The Rotunda Needs You!

The Rotunda, published since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, is currently accepting applications for the 1991-92 staff. Anyone interested is encouraged to apply — experience not required!

Applications available at the Lankford Information Office!

ATTENTION SENIORS:

ANTICIPATED COUNSELOR POSITION ADMISSIONS OFFICE

Longwood's Admissions Office anticipates employing an admissions counselor beginning on or about mid-July and ending in May 1992. High energy, good communications skills and active involvement while at Longwood Prerequisites for successful candidates.

Salary $1606.00 per month, no benefits, all travel expenses paid. Must be willing to work at Admissions programs on weekends and evenings.

Interested candidates should contact Bob Chonko, Director of Admissions at X2060.

CLASSIFIEDS

PERSONALLY YOURS, FROM THE U.S.S.R.

CLASSIFIED ADS FROM THE SOVIET UNION

[redacted]

I seek friends who are interested in my country and its culture. We are the people of two great states and we have so much common but we do not know each other. I will try to be useful for you. Igor, 25 yrs old, ship electrician. Box 240

Hi! My name is Andrei, I am 20 yrs old. I study music - I am a drummer. I live in Siberia - it is wonderful here. I am interested in painting, theater, cinema, architecture. I like nature, people, life. I want to find a friend. And when we meet - to play music or just to talk. I believe very much in your answer and our meeting. Box 184

Hello, I am 18 yrs old. I am a second-year student of the Aircraft Institute. In the future I will be a programmer. I like listening to music (especially Roxette, Frank Duval), travelling, dancing and swimming. If you want to find a faithful friend in Russia, drop me a line without doubts. Andrei. Box 213

22-yr-old young man from the Northern Caucasus will be glad to make the acquaintance with persons at the same age, especially with girls. I repair cars and hope to get a higher education. I have got a lot of interests My name will remind you mountains. Elbrus. Box 225

24-yr-old lecturer of the institute wants to make the acquaintance with young people from the USA. I have a higher education, single, fond of programming, English. I like travelling and listening to the good music. I wait for your letters impatiently Igor. Box 204

Nikolai, 37 yrs old, oil industry worker. Like fishing, cars, books. Married, have two daughters. Not indifferent to nature and animals. Box 209

30-yr-old unmarried scientist in mechanics and math looks for penfriends in the USA. I hope to develop the "citizen diplomacy" and to exchange of the ideas on politics, economy, literature, cinema, philosophy of science and events of everyday life in our countries. Konstantin. Box 1328

Dear friends. We have picturesque places - if you see them you will be delighted. We have heard a lot of good about your country and people. We would be very glad if you come to the USSR and if we visit fine America. Levon, 41 yrs old, modeler of the men outer-clothes. Box 215

My name is Valery, I am 15 years old. I like interesting books and good music. I am fond of studying foreign languages and I hope to become an interpreter in the future. I dream of a dog. If you are my age and if you want to correspond with a friend from Russia, send me a letter. Box 197

I am 31 yrs old, single, work as a photographer. I am fond of old cars, travels. I would like to have a friend in the USA Victor. Box 212

I would like to make the acquaintance with a man or a woman of my age. Leonid, 35 yrs old, my interests: business, tourism. Box 201

I am 14 yrs old. I want to find a friend in America who tells me about his country. I am fond of sport, travels, films and motor races. I like listening to the modern music and making friends with different people. Box 203

I, Pulatov Andrei, live in the mountainous part of Tajikistan, I am 23 yrs old. I work as a driver, I am fond of music, autosport and tourism. I would like to make the acquaintance with the citizen of your country. Box 214

Hearty salute from Russia! I am 17 yrs old and I will be glad to make the acquaintance with the persons of my age in the USA.I study economy in the University, I like fishing, sport. I ask to answer those who want to visit Russia and to find a good friend. Dmitry. Box 1388

We would like to make the acquaintance with an American family working on a farm. Age of Americans may be 35-45 yrs. My wife and I are fond of agriculture, we like nature. We have two daughters, Svetlana and Lilya. Box 2179

Kind regards from a family whose first-born appeared June 27, 1985 - opening day of Moscow youth festival. Maybe you had the same joy that day - respond, please! We dream that at the beginning of the new century our children will meet and we become friends by that time. Tkachicks. Box 2190

My husband and I are 25 ys old, w/4-yr-old daughter. We are optimists, we like animals, music, books, sea, travels. We want to make acquaintance with a young, friendly family our age. I study philosophy, can correspond in English and dream to speak in it perfectly. Irene. Box 419

Military navigator of sea aviation wants to get in touch w/families of American pilots and navigators. I work in aviation almost 20 yrs. My wife works for the Navy. Two sons, 13 and 15 yrs, also dream to become pilots. We hope that our love of the sky makes us friends. Alexander, 37 yrs old. Box 417

I want to make friends with American family. My husband and I like cars Our children: Olga - 12 yrs old - plays basketball, collects stamps. Andrei, 11 yrs old, plays football and collects stamps w/football symbolism. Our 18 month-old daughter Oksana goes to the nursery. Galina, 36 yrs old, economist. Box 389

Honest, kind, diligent, sportive, English-speaking family from the USSR (father - 40 yrs old, mother - 35, son - 15 and daughter - 11) dreams to become friends with resembling family from the USA. Fadeyevs. Box 400

Our family would like to make acquaintance with American family We like travelling, can tell interesting stories about different places of the USSR. We will be glad if correspondence grows into friendship and our children continue it. Our son Roma is 3 yrs old. Vladimir (31 yrs old) and Svetlana (29 yrs old). Box 402

Family of professional military men (captain and warrant officer) and our 11-yr-old son want to make friends with Americans. Average age of our family is about 23.3 yrs. Because of our military service we cannot visit you, so we invite you to Belorussia. Korneyevs. Box 390

I am economist and my husband is engineer. We have 3 children, live on the bank of Volga in a small town. We would like friendship and cultural exchange with a family from the USA. Alexander, 40 years old. Box 387

We are interested to make the acquaintance with American family I and my wife Galina have two children: 18 yr old daughter and 14 yr old son. We take an interest in upbringing and education, American cooking, questions of politics and leisure. Eugene, 47 yrs old. Box 376

Our friendly family, consisting of 40 yr old parents, two sons (18 yr old student of Polytechnical Institute and 16 yr old pupil) and 9-yr old daughter, living in a small picturesque health resort, offers to correspond and to exchange visits with an analogous American family. 16 yr-old Michail will write letters. Box 378

Young family of doctors wants to get in touch with American family in order to shatter the myth that there are bears on the streets of Siberian towns. The interests of our family (mother, father and 5-yr-old daughter) are varied. Oleynikovs. Box 369

I want to make friends with American family w/3 or more children, speaking a little Russian. We have 5 children. 3 study and play musical instruments: piano, flute, violins, cello and trumpet. Our twins go into kindergarten. I dream my children will learn English and visit America Anna, 40 yrs old. Box 342

We met during studies in conservatory and almost 9 yrs we are happy in our sunny family. Love presented us a son and a daughter. We have many hobbies: auto-tourism, hunting, fishing, knitting, cooking, but our main joy is association w/different people: it is the inner mechanism of life. Vitaly and Tatyana. Box 370

Young family wants to make acquaintance with American family of the same age. We all have sense of humor, like travelling around the country. Eugene, 29 yrs old, works in oil-works cooperative, fond of hockey and football. Larisa, 25, works as goods manager, likes to read, sew and knit. Our children - Christina, Irene and Michail - are 5,4 and 1 yr old. Box 353

It will be super to make friends with an American family, loving children and flowers. Perhaps, you also play tennis, have a cat, aquarium fishes and strum on the guitar. We are jolly family of engineers from Siberia 7 yrs ago. We came here, built the town and now we are happy. Selivanovs. Box 321

If American family is interested in Russian life we are glad to make friends. There is a marvellous idea to make a short film comparing the days of Soviet and American families. We love sport, tourism and dances. We are 33 yrs old. our daughter is 10 yrs old and our dog Ersen is just 1 yr. Tangayevs. Box 292

Family from Odessa would like to make the acquaintance of an American family of 3-4 persons About ourselves: father - trainer of sambo (unarmed self-defence), master of sport of international level, mother - economist, our son is 12 yrs old. Yureskula. Box 232

Family from USSR waits for letter from American family. We are 30 yrs old, we have 3 children. By education - veterinary surgeons. We live in the country and have a small individual farm. Especially we will be glad to receive an answer from a farming family to share information Kulakovskiys. Box 196

[redacted]

Perhaps we are the part of the whole and have not met yet. I am slender Russian woman, height - 160 cm, pretty, 48 yrs old. I like life and wait for meeting with congenial man. I have a beautiful 22 yr old daughter and 16 yr-old son. I am an engineer-programmer. Ludmila. Box 226

I am 25 yrs old, height - 160 cm, trainer of the aerobics. I like music, dances, travels. I hope that a young man of 22-30 yrs, height - 178-185 cm, with cheerful, romantic character, going in for sports, will respond Rosalia. Box 230

To man of 30-40 yrs wanting to meet pretty Russian woman: If you want a person who will understand you, if you want to visit mysterious Russia, send me a letter. I am 30 yrs old, height - 168 cm, br haired. I and my 6 yr-old charming daughter wait for the letter w/American stamps. Maryanna. Box 305

My name is Larisa, I am 30 yrs old. fond of astrology. I would like to make the acquaintance with an American my age. I will receive gladly I or 2 persons in Odessa, I will be hospitable and cordial hostess. Box 310

O dear friend, speak to me. Save me, while there is hope. Liberate me from the delusion. Touch my soul from afar with your love. Olga, 27 yrs old, operator of computers. My passions: sport, music, art, poetry. Box 185

Nice, fair-haired, slender Natalya invites tall, athletic, dark-haired American with higher education to make the acquaintance. I look for energy, love of children, benevolence Born under the Archer. I hope to meet a man born under Leo, the Ram, Libra. Keen on literature, theater, astrology. I adore my 5-yr-old daughter. Box 2199

If you are looking for faithful friends, write me a letter and your life will change. My joy will be more if there are letters from girls, because I am young, and in my heart there is always place for a jolly clever helpmate. Oleg, 24 yrs old. Box 429

Do you dream to create a family based on Christian morality and healthy way of life? I wait for detailed letter w/photo. I am Igor, 28 yrs old, Ukranian. My height - 170 cm, weight - 68 kg, br. hair, grey eyes, athletic. Distinguishing feature - responsibility. Speciality - surgeon. Hobbies: books, travels, sport. Box 2201

I want to change my way of unmarried life and will be thankful if American woman of 20-35 yrs answers me.I am 33 yrs old, dark-haired, height - 172 cm, slender, athletic, healthy. My friends consider me kind, honest, calm and easy-tempered. Details and photo in my letter. Valery. Box 2206

I am 33 yrs old, divorced, I bring up my son of 14 yrs. I am born under the sign of Bull and my character corresponds to the horoscope. I am sociable woman but I live in a small settlement and often feel lonely and bored. I would like to find a friend not over 45 years. Box 2113

VACATION EXCHANGES

[redacted]

Family from Pyatigorgk will be glad to a receive American friends in the ancient and most beautiful health-resort, rich in mineral resources and mud. We are doctors, daughter student, future English teacher. Bylanovs. Box 229

Family invites you to visit Southern town of laughter - Odessa. Father fond of business, commerce and advertising, mother maker-up on the film-studio, son a school-leaver. He speaks English. See you in Odegsa! Krasnyaks. Box 216

If never been in Siberia you have great opportunity to get to know this region and its people. Imagine our beauty, spreading thousands kilometers - necessary to see . Beside I want very much to learn much about you. Alexei. Box 299

Advocate, 35 yrs old from Lenningrad would like to make friends, exchange visits with American of the some age or an American family. I guarantee the apartment, nourishment, transport and cultural program. Nickolai. Box 2000

Kutuzovs family from Lenningrad invites Americans wanting to find kind hospitable friends in the USSR and in the future to receive Russians in the USA. We guarantee cordial welcome. Box 2004

Woman of 53 yrs old from Leningrad like to meet American for mutual exchange of visit. Have charming daughter of 23 yrs old, she speaks English very-well Olga. Box 1992

How To Respond To An Ad

Classified ads featured in "Personally Yours, From the U.S.S.R." come from citizens across the Soviet Union.

To respond to an ad, you must fill out and send the coupon below along with $7.50 for each ad. We will mail to you a "Pen Pal" kit with the advertiser's name and address, information on how to write to the Soviet Union, an authentic Russian envelope for mailing, information on travel and visas (if you should decide to travel or sponsor a trip here), and translation services, if you should need them. You won't need to send your correspondence in Russian – many Soviets speak English, and if they don't, they know somebody who does.

SEND: 1. Completed coupon (for each ad)
2. $7.50 check, cash or money order (for each ad)
Checks made payable to "Personally Yours"

MAIL TO: Ad Box Number (# at the end of the ad)
c/o Personally Yours, From The USSR
PO Box 477
Denver, CO 80201

VA - 1

Ad Box # _____
Your Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____
Zip _____ Phone# _____

See Page 6

Last Issue

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
News 3
Sports 4
Graduation 5
Classifieds 6
Classifieds/Personals..7-8

APRIL 29, 1991

The ROTUNDA

VOL. 70 NO. 19 LONGWOOD COLLEGE FARMVILLE, VIRGINIA

CPPC Sponsors Extern Program

By BILL FROUDE

Career Planning and Placement Center

This spring, the Career Planning & Placement Center launched a new extern program to give students short-term exposure to employers within their fields of interest. Externships usually last anywhere from a day to a week and are done on a purely volunteer basis for both the student and the employer (internships, on the other hand, are much longer — during the summer or semester — and are arranged through academic departments). The externships are conducted during the "breaks" in the academic calendar. During spring break, seniors Tracey McGregor, Ayme Curlee, Theresa Sakiewicz and junior, Michele Heny, took advantage of the program and were matched with employers.

Tracey spent time in the Toxicology Dept. of Roche Biomedical Laboratories in Richmond. Her comments: "I was pleased to see all that I had acquired at Longwood could be put to good use in the real world."

Ayme visited the Virginia Department of Housing and learned how landlords and tenants are matched for housing. She participated for a few days as a "member of the staff" and made screening phone calls of prospective tenants and landlords. She says the experience "expanded her knowledge about what it was like working as a professional."

Theresa spent a day with the staff of the Richmond News Leader to get a feel for the amount of work that goes into producing a daily newspaper. "Making contact with actual reporters who gave me useful advice was valuable."

Finally, Michele chose the Department of Health and Human Services — Office of Family Support Administration for her externship. "The externship gave me the opportunity to learn the functions of FSA and most importantly, to gather a sense of the office environment."

All four students felt that the experience was worth their time. Tracey made such a good impression during her externship that Roche Biomedical Laboratories invited her back for an interview which then led to a job offer. Even though the main purpose of externships is to gain information about one's field, receiving a job interview is a nice surprise. The externship program will be offered again next year. Read future editions of the Campus Bulletin and The Rotunda for details or contact CPPC.

CONGRATULATIONS! Leadership and Involvement Awards

MOST OUTSTANDING STUDENT ORGANIZATION
Peer Helpers
Runner-up: Geist

OUTSTANDING AND MOST INVOLVED LONGWOOD STUDENTS
Class of 1994: Kimberly A. Boucher
Jason G. Walker, 1st Runner-up
Peter P. Pazmino, 2nd Runner-up
Class of 1993: Shannon R. Gardner
Angela C. Jones, 1st Runner-up
Shannon R. Nunnally, 2nd Runner-up
Class of 1992: Tammara A. Estes
Sarah R. Raffetto, 1st Runner-up
William R. Wilson, 2nd Runner-up
Class of 1991: John Conrad Wingold, IV
Pamela A. Ladd, 1st Runner-up
William P. Brady, Jr., 2 Runner-up
Stacy E. Crockarell, Honorable Mention
James A. Trent, Honorable Mention

INVOLVEMENT AWARDS
Michael J. Whitford, Student
Longwood Ambassadors, Student Organization

CIVILITY AWARDS: Contributions to Campus Civility
Lisa S. Felton
Tina C. Gewerth
William R. Wilson, 1st Runner-up
LURE, Student Organization

MOST OUTSTANDING STUDENT ORGANIZATION ADVISOR
MaryKaye, Benton, Student Development Educator

LONGWOOD DINING SERVICES: Freshman Awards
Kenneth J. DeWitt
Sherri R. Gardner

FRESHMAN LEADER AWARDS
Stacey M. Custer
Carla J. Crawley
Marci D. Anzelmo

FRED Q. WYGAL AWARD
Karen Bethea Perry

OUTSTANDING WORK STUDY STUDENTS
Nancy Winslow Dudley
Michelle Reness Duran
Linda Adams Eanes
Lisa Natali Goehner
Michael Jason Leggiardro
Carolyn Suzanne Lloyd
Charles Edward McKinney
Kevin Michael Meehan
Elizabeth Brown Purser
Edgar Matthew Radcliff
Theresa Diane Sakiewicz
Lauren Richmond Scott
James Anthony Trent
Cynthia Lynn Young

English Department Loses Professor

By ANNAMARIA MILLER

Adios; a Spanish word meaning good-bye, is what Longwood College will be saying to one of its Spanish professors at the end of the spring semester.

Richard Donaldson a retired teacher of the Ohio public school system after 31 years is presently a Spanish professor here at Longwood. Since 1988, Donaldson has taught Spanish at two other colleges, prior to coming to Longwood one year ago. Now he will be leaving to go to Frostburg State University in Maryland in the fall.

The unique thing about Donaldson is that he only teaches at a college for one year, because after 31 years of teaching high school he is not looking for a permanent teaching position. He says: "I have made a career of making one year appointments, to fulfill the needs of a college and once I have done so I can move on to the next place." By moving so frequently, this enables him and his wife to get to know certain areas well.

In moving from Ohio to Virginia, Donaldson said he felt positive about his experiences here at Longwood. "As an outsider, I have been treated well, and my colleagues and students have been particularly friendly." In the short time that he has been in Farmville, Donaldson has managed to find a church home at the United Methodist church, where he is a member of the choir.

In making the transition from teaching high-school to college Donaldson said he finds that he prefers teaching on a college level. "In general high-school students are immature and are not as willing to work or study like college students."

The one thing that he particularly liked about the language department here at Longwood was that it allows faculty and students to get to know one another by having lunch on various days during the week. He says: "It is a great way to get to know the students better and the students realize that the professors are just human beings. It promotes a feeling of acquaintance which is difficult to achieve in a classroom."

LC Student Goes On To MCV

By Betty Bryant
Office of Public Affairs

John Wilkerson has demonstrated his talents at Longwood and now will put them to use at MCV.

When he was 11 years old, John Wilkerson fell from a diving board and tore the tendon from his left kneecap. That's the year he decided to become an orthopedic surgeon.

"It was a pretty bad injury," Wilkerson said. "I had five operations. The surgeons rebuilt my knee so I was able to play football in high school."

Wilkerson is learning how to work that magic for others. His plan is right on schedule.

On May 11, he will receive his bachelor's degree from Longwood College, with a major in biology and minor in chemistry.

And he has been accepted at the Medical College of Virginia, where he will continue his studies next August.

Upon completion of his high school career at J. W. Robinson in Fairfax County, Wilkerson was accepted by several colleges and universities, including three that offered the opportunity to play college football.

"I think my mother favored Virginia Commonwealth University because I could have lived with a cousin in Richmond," Wilkerson said. "But I knew if I wanted to be a doctor I had to concentrate on my studies, and I wanted to be on my own.

"Longwood is far enough away from home, and it's just the right size," he said. "The teachers in my major here have supported me and helped me a lot."

One of those teachers is Dr. Marvin Scott, professor of biology and head of Longwood's Department of Natural Sciences. He said Wilkerson "got a sound recommendation from me" for medical school.

"John is a conscientious student," Scott said. "He has demonstrated his abilities in the demanding pre-medical program at Longwood and earned the respect of our faculty."

Another reason for choosing Longwood, Wilkerson said, "is its reputation as a feeder school for MCV. The pre-med studies here are designed to help you get in and succeed at MCV, and that was my top choice for medical school."

Six of Wilkerson's classmates also have been accepted at MCV for next year — two in the School of Dentistry, three in the School of Nursing, and one in the Medical Technology program.

A dean's list student, Wilkerson has received the Ridgway-Hull Pre-Medical Scholarship for two of his years at Longwood. The scholarship was established by a Longwood alumna, Dr. Duvahl Ridgway-Hull, who practiced obstetrics and gynecology for many years in Roanoke.

In his junior year, Wilkerson entered the national Minority Leaders Fellowship competition. He was one of 53 students from a field of nearly 1,000 chosen to receive a summer fellowship.

Wilkerson was assigned to the International Health Institute in Silver Spring, Maryland, an agency of the Charles R. Drew University of Medicine and Science in Los Angeles. During his 10 weeks there last summer, he conducted "documentation" of urban health-care programs operated by the Drew University in the Watts section of Los Angeles.

"The Institute needed to determine which health-care projects are successful and why," Wilkerson said. "I evaluated the organization and administration of various projects, how they are funded, their impact on the people living in Watts, and whether or not these services can be sustained by the community itself. It was great experience."

Although his studies have always been top priority, Wilkerson has been a leader in several extracurricular activities at Longwood. He served on the Judicial Board, a branch of the College's Student Government, and is an active member of Beta Beta Beta biology honor society.

He also serves on the Gender and Minority Issues Curriculum Committee, helps other black students through the Minority Mentors program, and is a resident assistant in his residence hall.

In his sophomore year, Wilkerson was invited to join the Longwood Ambassadors, a prestigious group of student volunteers who serve as hosts at college functions and assist the Advancement Office with fundraising and public relations activities.

"I worked with the Ambassadors two years, then had to give it up," he said. "With medical school admission tests, interviews, and applications, I just don't have the time this year."

Wilkerson's service to Longwood was recognized last spring when he was chosen for membership in Geist, the college's honorary leadership fraternity.

As he leaves Longwood behind next month, Wilkerson faces four years of medical school and another six years as an intern and resident. After that decade of preparation, he hopes to set up his practice in Washington, DC.

His Longwood professors think Wilkerson will make it.

"John has the motivation, the mental potential, and the physical drive to achieve his goal," Scott said. "And if he ever needs a little encouragement or just to talk things over, he knows where to reach us."

Wilkerson is the son of Phyllis C. Wilkerson, of Burke.

CONGRATULATIONS 1991 GREEK AWARD WINNERS!!!

Highest Pledge Class GPA:	Alpha Delta Pi
Most improved Chapter GPA	Alpha Sigma Alpha
	Alpha Chi Rho
Highest Chapter GPA:	Sigma Kappa
	Alpha Chi Rho
$100 Panhellenic Scholarship	Brenda Rodgers, Sigma Sigma Sigma
Intramural Champions	Alpha Sigma Tau
	Alpha Sigma Phi
Greek Weekend Champions	Delta Zeta
	Alpha Chi Rho
Chapter Service Awards	Alpha Sigma Tau
	Tau Kappa Epsilon
Outstanding Chapter Advisor Award	Dr. Jim Crowl, Sigma Phi Epsilon
Campus Leadership Award	Sigma Kappa
	Alpha Chi Rho
Outstanding New Sorority Member	Jennifer Moore, Delta Zeta
Outstanding Chapter President Award	Mellissa McDaniel, Sigma Kappa
	Alan Rapee, Alpha Chi Rho
New Order of Omega Initiates	Ann Duncan, Delta Zeta
	Kelli Evans, Zeta Tau Alpha
	Cyndi Fleet, Kappa Delta
	Nicole Jesser, Sigma Kappa
	Tracey Lowrey, Alpha Sigma Alpha
	Marianne Moffet, Sigma Sigma Sigma
Order of Omega Honorary Initiate	Eleanor Williams, Alpha Sigma Alpha
Brotherhood Award	Sigma Phi Epsilon
Sisterhood Award	Alpha Sigma Tau
Greek Man of the Year	Brad Pomp, Pi Kappa Phi
Greek Woman of the Year	Polly Hathaway, Alpha Gamma Delta
Order of Omega Chapter Excellence Award	Alpha Gamma Delta
	Alpha Sigma Phi
	Alpha Sigma Tau
	Kappa Delta

COMMENTARY

Letters To The Editor

Riding Team

Editor:

On April 29, the sports banquet will be held to honor Longwood's athletic teams. All teams have received their invitations, except the members of Longwood's Equestrian Team. At first we, riding team members, thought that there had been a mistake and perhaps our invitations had been lost in the mail. Some members have been to the athletic department to notify them that we hadn't received our invitations, but none of us have yet received an invitation to attend the banquet.

Last year, while making my college choice, I was persuaded by the Longwood administration who told me that there was an existing team and that there will continue to be one. Having the opportunity to attend other colleges, I chose Longwood mainly because of what I was told about the riding team. When coming to Longwood for the fall semester, I discovered that there was not a riding team even though there was a large amount of interest on campus. After continuous pleading by students who were interested in riding and the return of Coach Mary Whitlock, we were granted the status of a riding team. This decision was reached after the IHSA had begun the horse shows which cost us considerable points.

Throughout the whole year the riding team has endured many hardships. We are now being faced with the possibility of being reduced to a club sport. If this were to happen, we would receive no support from the college, meaning that we would have to finance all costs.

The Virginia Riding team is composed of students from UVA who have to pay $1350 a year to continue their club sport. Currently we at Longwood pay $250 a semester to ride as a varsity sport, this is a considerable difference when compared to the amount UVA's riding club has to pay.

I feel that our hard work and dedication has knowingly gone unrecognized by Longwood's athletic department. We represent Longwood at our intercollegiate horse shows while we compete against Christopher-Newport College, the University of Maryland, William and Mary, Sweetbriar, UVa, Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Mary Washington, Goucher, and Lynchburg College. Not once has a member been featured as "Lancer of the Week" despite having three members qualify for Regionals and not even when one member advanced to zones.

I was excited and anxious to attend Longwood, but after what I have seen happening to the riding team I have discovered that my expectations were a disappointment. All members have made the effort to notify Longwood administration about our concerns and have met with Ian Fletcher on numerous occasions, but it seems like we have been ignored. The equestrian team is a tradition at Longwood and should remain as one.

Lorie Green
Longwood Equestrian
Team Member

Greek Community

Editor, The Rotunda:

The Greek community here at Longwood College prides itself upon excelling above the college average in academics and leadership, as well as community service. This past Monday at the Greek banquet, however, my pride is our Greek community fell.

The recipient of one particular award in my opinion, is hardly what I would call an example of an honorable role model for this college and Greek community. This person is involved in a lot of activities which promote Longwood. However, one fact remains true, this person does not act responsibly concerning college policies. Last fall this student was brought before the Judicial Board for violating a college rule and a state law. This act in my mid raises the question of whether or not it is honorable to honor someone who cannot seem to uphold college policies. Being Greek should mean that each of us, as part of this community, must strive to present an image of respect concerning college rules and policies, high academic standards, and an image of mature well-roundness. I feel that whoever is responsible for this award has not served the college justly.

Perhaps next year when debating over selecting the student to receive this award, all information about the applicant should be considered and this should include a person's personal characteristics as well as attitude. An award should not be based solely upon the writing ability of the applicant. The recipient should be a role model for all of the Greek community as well as the college as a whole, to look up to.

Sincerely,
Jenny Sue Glasco

Greek Awards

Editor, The Rotunda:

I am writing in reference to some information I received about a letter to the editor regarding the selection of certain recipients of awards presented at the Greek awards Banquet this past week. If a person truly wishes to challenge "responsible" behavior, that person should consider whether writing a letter to the paper is the best way to accomplish it.

If a student is concerned about the selection criteria for any of the awards, he or she needs only to look at the information, provided to each chapter president, with the awards application packet. If that information is no longer available, the student can ask me and I will be glad to share that information. And if the student would like to offer suggestions for future criteria, he or she can also share that with me or the chapter sponsoring the award. To this point no one has done so and a "responsible" person would verify their information before attempting to publicly discredit anyone. As it is, the only person discredited should be the writer of the letter.

Secondly, trying to discredit any one recipient is a discredit to all of the individual award winners. All were selected by the same committee of students and staff members and all were given the same consideration. Perhaps the writer of this letter should consider whether he or she can be as objective as the selection committee was and cast aside only personal biases or conflicts. Thus, any future embarrassment to our Greek Community, as well as the writer, could be prevented.

Finally, I would like to thank the awards selection committee for doing such a fine job and I congratulate the recipients and all those nominated by their chapters; they are all very deserving and should be proud of their accomplishments.

Steven B. Dealph
Greek Affairs Coordinator

Racism

Editor, The Rotunda:

RACISM. An ugly word and state of mind which our institution has put under attack. Or has it? When I transferred to Longwood as a sophomore I immediately sensed the student imposed segregation. Black and white students for the most part don't mix or mingle. Yet, with the recent creation of organizations such as, LURE (Longwood United for Racial Equality), I began to see a glimmer of hope. On one recent Thursday night, I began to realize how wrong I had been. As a girlfriend and I were walking through campus, a group of white students loudly proclaimed, "We love niggers". The story gets uglier because one of those students has just been elected 1992 Senior Class President.

I felt that almost 30 years following the Civil Rights Movement this kind of behavior would have been condemned. I filed judicial charges for verbal abuse. The events which followed have, without doubt, given me a rude awakening. I was told that I did not have the right to proceed with judicial charges because it was imposing upon the constitutional rights of the accused. "Wait a minute", I thought"what about my rights?". I was told that being called "nigger" was not verbal abuse. I beg to differ. I also beg of Longwood students to be aware of the current environment of institutional racism which exists at our school. I was told that freedom of speech gave someone the right to make racial slurs. I now exercise the same right in making you aware of what our institution and your 1992 Senior Class President stand for. Isn't it time to make a change?

Paula Riddick

In Defense

Editor, The Rotunda:

It has recently come to my attention that Bradley Pomp has been accused of making a racial slur against a fellow student here at Longwood. I have known Bradley since he came here as a freshman. After his election as President of the Student Government Association. I saw him on a daily basis during the day and even nights when he was working in his office. I have seen him on his good days and his bad days.

We have on occasion talked about the prejudice that exists on this campus and Brad has always been sympathetic with the difficulties that Blacks face here at Longwood and he has expressed his desire to try to bridge the gap between the two races.

It is my belief that Brad would be one of the last people on this campus to make racial slurs against Blacks or any other minority.

I am sure that this whole situation is one that has been blown out of proportion and can be easily resolved.

If I can do anything to be of help, please do not fail to contact me at the Information Desk or call 2000.

Yours truly,
Shirley Everette
Information Officer and
Lankford Building Manager

Computer Virus

Editor, The Rotunda:

This is a warning to everyone who has used an IBM or IBM compatible computer in any of the computer labs at Longwood. There is a computer virus on the loose. The proper name for this virus is virus #4096. It effects *Com., *Exe, and overlay files only. Using a word processor, or lotus, or any other package and saving to your disk will not infect your disk. The only way to infect a disk is if it contains one of the aforementioned files, so don't panic!

What is the computer department doing about this problem. NOTHING! The student assistants are under strict orders not to tell anyone. Their reason is they don't want a panic on their hands. This is insulting to the students of Longwood. If they would just inform the students of the problem, and explain it in detail, they could contain this virus.

The computer department does have the software to cure this virus, and purge it from any infected disks. When you consider the fact that this virus can be carried to students personal computers, friends of parents computers, and infect them. Computer software today can cost anywhere from $5 to $2,000. If such expensive software is destroyed, this college could be held responsible, because they did not inform students of this problem.

I do not hold the computer department responsible for the cause of this virus, but they are responsible for informing the public of this danger and trying to correct it. The students of Longwood should unite and force the computer department to take on the responsibility for the well-being of the students.

-A Concerned Student who holds a degree in Computer Science
Name withheld by request

The Response

Editor, The Rotunda:

During my three years here at Longwood I have been called many things, but one term which has never previously been hurled at me is the term racist. Upon learning of this accusation, I was first tempted to ignore it for it was unworthy of a response. After more consideration of the severity of the situation I felt it was in my best interest to respond to such an unsubstantiated accusation.

I am not a racist, furthermore, I do not feel I should have to prove such a statement. Yet in retrospect it is obviously necessary. In this response I hope to show through my past record at Longwood that I am not prejudiced and do not condone bigotry.

When I ran for Student Government President one of the first organizations I went to for input was the Association of Black Students. This group expressed to me their concerns and I pursued them as one of my objectives. I immediately worked to get better minority representation on Student Senate, as well as in SGA Executive Council. Minority programming was another matter of interest which was brought to my attention by the A.B.S. and pursued by SGA.

During this past summer I was contacted by Ken Rockensies to help work on setting up an organization by the name of Longwood United for Racial Equality (L.U.R.E.) I responded eagerly and assured him SGA would do everything it could to help start and promote this group. I kept my promise, and L.U.R.E. is now a recognized organization on campus receiving student government funds.

I have also worked with local Special Olympics for the past two years. The individuals on this program are predominantly underprivileged minority children who need support. I have received many rewards from working with these children and have not hesitated to work with them because of skin color.

Here on campus the one organization which is closest to my heart is Pi Kappa Phi. I am honored to call every member of that organization my Brother regardless of race or heritage. I have brothers of African and Asian dissent of whom I am very proud to share fraternal bonds. I look up to these brothers with the same respect and admiration as any other imitated member.

I feel my record here at Longwood College speaks for itself. But maybe it would be best for this individual, of whom I have never met, to consult the many minority friends I have made here in the administration and student body during the past three years. I do not hesitate to say they would all assure this individual, that I am not a racist.

As for rights I apologize that this individual feels hers were violated, but she must consider other rights as well. I have a right to a good name and trust I have done nothing to be deprived of this right. I hope the next time this individual chooses to use slander as a weapon in her narrow-minded allegations, she will consult me first before making an individual problem a campus wide issue.

Respectfully Submitted,
Bradley H. Pomp
Senior Class President, 1992

P. S. I wish to thank The Rotunda Staff for giving me the opportunity to respond to these allegations.

Longwood Library

Editor, The Rotunda:

I would like to add to the views being voiced about the new library. I understand from information I have received since Cathy Mapp's letter was published last week that the long range plan involves the bulk of the collection of books being made available to library users.

However, it seems that there is still to be limited access to periodicals. I would hope that students and faculty members would continue to voice their views on this matter. It would seem that space might be better utilized to give students access to periodicals, perhaps in groupings such as Humanities, Education, Business, or the like. If in doing so the periodical and reference sections could once more be separated, in light of their vastly different services, surely the users of the library and the library staff would find their jobs made easier. I think we all have the same goal: to make our library at Longwood even stronger than it was in the facility.

Sincerely,
Martha E. Cook
Professor of English

THE STAFF:

The ROTUNDA

Box 1133
Longwood College
Farmville, Va. 23901

Editor-In-Chief Monica Y. Gilbert
Managing Editor Bradley L. Owen
Features Editor Lindy Seymore
Sports Editor Charlie Fultz
Photography Editor Judi Weller
Layout Editor Sarah Whiteside
Layout Assistant Deborah Wilson
News Editor Christopher Jones
Business Manager Anita Owens
Advertising Manager Bradley L. Owen
Faculty Advisor Barbara LaJaunie

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed or printed neatly. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is 3:00 p.m. Friday prior to the Monday publication date and these should be placed in the envelope on the Publication door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by midnight Sunday.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an American Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

NEWS

Summer Reading Valuable

By Dr. ED SMITH

If you're looking for a fascinating book to read this summer at the beach, try Megatrends 2000, by Naisbitt and Aburdene. It's about the major trends that are shaping the world and leading us into the next millennium. It's about today and the future — your future.

Megatrends 2000 is exciting and positive. It's the almanac of the future; Naisbitt and Aburdene document the megatrends of this decade and show you where the opportunities lie. As Naisbitt says, "trends, like horses, are easiest to ride in the direction they're going."

Here's a sample of the megatrends they write about:

* The Global Economic Boom — The world's markets are opening to American entrepreneurs. The growth of world-wide free trade will allow us to enter markets that were closed to us before. Imagine the trade explosion if Virginia businesses could sell products in North Carolina and Maryland, if they had been prohibited previously. It means prosperity and opportunities for clever people.

* A Renaissance in the Arts — Did you know that Americans now spend more money on the arts than on sports? Can you believe it? Naisbitt and Aburdene back it up with statistics. Sometime in the 1990's, watch for Monday Night Opera. As the authors write, "It is a spiritual quest, but its economic implications are staggering."

* The Rise of the Pacific Rim — The Asian Pacific Rim is experiencing the fastest period of economic expansion in history; they're making big money on their quality products, and they're spending it on ours. "Asians will be the consumers of the 1990's." We need to be ready for this growing market.

* The Decade of Women in Leadership — In the field of business periodicals, the circulation of Working Woman is surpassed only by that of the Wall Street Journal. Women are starting businesses at twice the rate of men. "Women and the information society — which celebrates brain over brawn — are a partnership made in heaven." The idea that there is a "glass ceiling" blocking women from top leadership roles will be shattered in the 1990's. And the world will never be the same.

* The Age of Biology — Biotechnology and genetic engineering will, sometime in the not too distant future, put starvation and disease on the ropes. "By the first decade of the new century, biotechnology could pave the way to a new era in health care." In the next decade or so, our lives will be transformed as much by biotechnology as they have been today by computers.

If you want to be prepared for the future, you need to read this book.

Megatrends 2000 is required reading for entering freshmen next year. We hope that a lot of upperclass students will also find it a valuable read. Some faculty will be using it in their classes as supplemental reading. Additionally, it ties in with the "Internationalization and the Global Community" theme that many campus events will be centered around next year.

The other suggested readings on the summer reading list are the following:

* Silent Spring by Rachel Carson, the book that started the world-wide ecology movement.

* The Innocents Abroad, the classic travel book by Mark Twain describing his wonderings through Europe and the Holy Land, and his encounters with the people of the "Old World."

* Across China by Peter Jenkins, a westerner's walk through the ancient culture of China.

* The First Eden by David Attenborough, the story of the Mediterranean world and its significance for us today.

* PC Globe, a geographical computer database (on the Longwood computer network) that, in a user-friendly way, answers your questions about any part of the world.

So, check it out this summer. Give Megatrends 2000 a try, and, if any of the others look interesting, take a tour.

Kier, entertainer extraordinaire, will appear tonight in Lancer Cafe.

S-UN Presents Kier

Early in life Kier figured the only thing he really did well was being a fun guy to hang out with. Mom said "There's no job like that; especially for a nice boy like you." In school, Kier's classmates agreed he was a fun guy to hang out with. His teachers mostly agreed that he needed to hang out at the principal's office. But he was not deterred. Besides, it was a great place to tighten up the act. When Kier got into music his humor went with him particularly, his gift for impersonation. He found that people like to hear Bob Dylan singing a Prince song or Willie Nelson singing Elton John. They told Kier he made them laugh, relax, and enjoy themselves. They told him he was really a fun guy to hang out with. He told mom: "I think I found a job."

Kier has shared the stage with Roy Orbison, Reba McEntire, Pablo Cruise, Leon Russell, John Prine, Nicolette Larson, Three Dog Night, and others. After ten years of touring, two NACA national showcases, five nominations for NACA Campus Entertainment Awards (college market equivalent to the Grammies), national tours every year of colleges and clubs, Kier's still hanging out and it's still fun.

Kier will perform at 9 p.m. on Monday, April 29 in Lancer Cafe. This event is sponsored by the S-UN Board.

LC Draws From Out-Of-State

By ANNE DODSON

Have you ever wondered why someone from another state came to Longwood or how they even heard about it.

According to Robert Chonko, director of admissions, about 10 percent of Longwood students are from out of state.

Nathan Wade, a freshman who is from New Mexico, said Longwood sent him some information in the mail, and he liked what he saw.

A majority of out-of-state students hear about Longwood from a friend, boyfriend or a relative.

Jennifer McDonald, a second semester sophomore from Pennsylvania, transferred from Lock Haven University "to move farther away from home, but closer to (her) sister and (her) boyfriend.

According to Milena Ciotoli, freshman from New York, she came to Longwood because, "it was the nicest campus out of the others that I looked at. I also heard it was good for education majors since I am an Art/Ed major."

Karen Valentine, a resident of New York and a transfer from Nassau Community College, claimed she attended Longwood "because I like the campus" and "the people are friendly."

Alpha Kappa Alpha Sponsors 1st Annual Contest

By DIONNE FOX

Shawn Smith, junior, was named Mr. AKA this past April 12. Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc. held its First Annual Mr. AKA contest at which there were a total of eight contestants. The other seven were Derick Richard, Darrell Richard, James Trent, Michael Druitt, Charles Brown, Ricky Crimes, and Keith Latimer. They were judged on their appearance in casual, swim, and business wear and how well they could articulate and answer a question given to them. The contest was judged by four graduate sorors (sisters) who are Mrs. Jessie Ghee, Ms. Theresa Clark, Mrs. Dorothy Smith, and Mrs. Vera Cook-Merritt.

Shawn Smith is a biology major who is captain of the cheerleading squad here at Longwood. He also has a chair on the Honor Board. He received a trophy, cologne, A Mr. AKA 1991 T-shirt, and a certificate of appreciation. All other contestants received a certificate for participating.

Board Of Visitors Votes Tuition Increase

The Board of Visitors voted to increase the tuition and fees for the 1991-92 school year on Monday.

The approved increases for instate and out-of-state undergraduate students are listed in detail at the right.

LONGWOOD COLLEGE

UNDERGRADUATE TUITION AND FEES 1991-92

IN STATE STUDENTS

	1990-91		1991-92
	Residential	Commuter	Residential	Commuter
Undergraduate Tuition	$1,560	$1,560	$1,800	$1,800
Comprehensive Fee	1,260	1,260	1,310	1,310
Student Activity Fee	60	60	80	80
Room	1,744		1,806
Board
15 Meal Plan	1,544		1,598
19 Meal Plan	1,684		1,738
Total In-State Undergraduate Tuition and Fee Charges
Commuter		2,880		3,190
w/15 Meal Plan	6,168		6,594
w/19 Meal Plan	6,308		6,734
Residential Undergraduate Increase:		6.9% (15 Meal Plan)
		6.7% (19 Meal Plan)

OUT-OF-STATE STUDENTS

	1990-91		1991-92
	Residential	Commuter	Residential	Commuter
Undergraduate Tuition	$4,296	$4,296	$5,400	$5,400
Comprehensive Fee	1,260	1,260	1,310	1,310
Student Activity Fee	60	60	80	80
Room	1,744		1,806
Board
15 Meal Plan	1,544		1,598
19 Meal Plan	1,684		1,738
Total Out-of-State Undergraduate Tuition and Fee Charges
Commuter		5,616		6,790
w/15 Meal Plan	8,904		10,194
w/19 Meal Plan	9,044		10,334
[illegible]		14.5% (15 Meal Plan)
		[illegible] (19 Meal Plan)

CAMPUS DINING SERVICES

LONGWOOD DINING SERVICES CONGRATULATES THE SENIORS

AND WISHES EVERYONE A GREAT SUMMER!

Coming Next Year...

Cafe Features

ALLEGRO FRESH PASTAS AND PIZZA HUT EXPRESS

Pizza Hut.

SPORTS

Baseball Increases Winning Streak To 33-6

The Longwood baseball team notched five wins last week, stretching their winning streak to six and upping the season record to 33-6 heading into a home twin bill with Virginia State Tuesday afternoon.

Sunday the Lancers took two from host Maryland Eastern Shore by 5-1 and 5-3 scores. Longwood whipped Christopher Newport last Saturday 12-2 after beating William & Mary 9-8 Thursday in one of the most exciting games ever played at Lancer Field. Tuesday the Lancers pounded visiting St. Mary's 26-11.

Hoping for a berth in the NCAA Division II Tournament, Longwood can set a new record for wins in a season if they can beat Virginia State in a doubleheader Tuesday at 1:00. The old record of 34 was set in the 1985 season.

Sunday, pitchers Chris Martz held down UMES as Longwood beat the Division squad in Princess Anne, Md. Chris Porter went 2-4 as the Lancers got five runs out of five hits and a pair of sacrifice flies in the opener. Mullins upped his record to 5-1, limiting the Hawks to three hits and one unearned run.

In the nightcap Scott Abell hit his 10th homer of the season and threw out several UMES runners from his position behind the plate. Longwood now has 60 homers for the year, one short of the school record of 61, set in 198. Shawn Jones went 2-3 with a pair of singles for the Lancers.

Martz, who also plays first base, pitched six innings to move his mound mark to 3-0 for the year. Dennis Hale hurled the final frame.

Lancers Rally To Trim William & Mary 9-8

Longwood used homers by Todd Bowman and Nealan Chandler and a game-winning triple by Eric Hutzler to register a come-from-behind 9-8 victory over William & Mary Thursday afternoon.

The Lancers, trailing 8-2 heading into the bottom of the sixth, rallied for six runs in the bottom of the inning as a 3-run dinger by Bowman and a 2-run shot by Chandler helped knot the count at 8-8. Hutzler, who had four hits, drove in pinch-runner Kyle Weaver with the go-ahead run in the bottom of the eighth. Catcher Scott Abell went 2-3 with an RBI.

Senior pitcher Dennis Hale, with three-and-one-third innings of shutout relief, picked up credit for the win, giving him a 10-1 mark for the season. The win was the 30th of Hale's career (he's 30-4) and breaks the Longwood record of 29 victories set by David Mitchell (1979-82).

William and Mary, 12-21 after the loss, got three hits and three RBI from designated hitter Mike Ruberti. Shortstop Matt Dumeer also had three hits for the Tribe.

Longwood Whips Captains 12-2

Todd Bowman collected two doubles, a homer and four RBI and Kyle Weaver won his sixth victory of the season, tossing a six-hitter as Longwood beat Christopher-Newport 12-2 Saturday in Farmville.

Weaver struck out nine and walked two while pitching his third complete game of the season. Bowman, Weaver's former teammate at Halifax County High School, drove in a pair of runs with a first inning double, another with a double in the second, and hit his seventh homer with no one on in the sixth. Longwood has now hit 59 homers in 36 games.

Eric Hutzler went 3-4 with a double and two RBI to back-up Bowman. Tony Byrum went 2-3 with a double for the Division III Captains.

Designated Hitter, Todd Bowman, Player Of The Week

Todd Bowman, the designated hitter on the Longwood baseball team, hit three homers and two doubles last week helping the Lancers win five games. For his performance, Bowman has been named Longwood College Player of the Week for the period of April 21-28. Player of the Week is selected by the Longwood sports information office.

Bowman hit a key three-run homer in last Thursday's 9-8 come-from-behind victory over William & Mary. In addition he had two doubles, a homer and four RBI in Saturday's 12-2 win over Christopher-Newport. Tuesday, in a 26-11 win over St. Mary's Bowman also homered and scored a pair of runs.

Hitting .324 with seven homers and 29 RBI heading into Sunday's 'twin bill at Maryland Eastern Shore, Bowman also had a sacrifice fly against the Hawks as Longwood won two more games.

A sophomore and a graduate of Halifax County High School, Bowman is perhaps the strongest player on the Lancer squad, after putting in lots of time in the weight room.

TODD BOWMAN

Carmille Barnette Honored At Banquet

Carmille Barnette (Chase City), a senior on the Longwood College women's basketball team, was honored Monday night when her number 43 was retired at the thirteenth annual athletic banquet. Barnette is only the third Lady Lancer to be so honored.

A four year starter as the lady Lancer power forward, Barnette holds 20 game, season, and career records including most points in a game with 43, most rebounds in a game with 25, and tops the all-time list in career points with 1,569.

During her tenure at Longwood, Barnette was named to five all-tournament teams, including two this season. As a sophomore she was selected to the Virginia sports information directors college division all-state second team. As a junior she was honored as an NCAA Division II All-District selection and as a member of the five member Kodak/WBCA NCAA Division II All-America team.

Barnette's season was abbreviated this year when she tore a ligament in her right knee during a game in January. Rehabilitation of the knee allowed her to play in the final three games of the season, and she concluded the year leading the Lady Lancers in points and rebounds per game with 19.9 and 9.0 respectively. In addition to establishing the new career scoring mark, Barnette also set an LC single game free throw record this season, sinking 15-16 from the charity stripe.

Barnette was also selected as both the Female Athlete of the Year and Women's Baseketball MVP. Both honors were bestowed for the second consecutive year.

A physical education major, Barnette plans to teach and coach on the high school level upon graduation.

Barnette, Hale, Coppedge And Bolding Awarded

Senior student-athletes Carmille Barnette and Dennis Hale and coaches Angie Coppedge and Buddy Bolding won the major awards as Longwood College held its 13th Athletic Banquet Monday night (April 29).

Barnette, the all-time leading scorer in women's basketball, was named Female Athlete of the Year for the second year in a row. In addition, her number 43 jersey was retired (see related story) and she was named MVP of the Lady Lancer team for the second year as well.

CARMILLE BARNETTE

Hale, Longwood baseball's top all-time pitcher, received the Male Athlete of the Year award and the Henry I. Willett Scholar-Athlete award. He's the first to be voted both honors. In addition he was chosen MVP of the baseball team for the second year in a row.

Bolding was voted Male Coach of the Year for a record sixth time after leading the Lancer baseball team to one of its best seasons ever. Longwood women's tennis coach, Coppedge was tabbed Female Coach of the Year. She led Longwood to its best season in women's tennis since 1976-77.

The leading scorer and rebounder on this year's women's basketball team, Barnette has been an outstanding player and leader. She has scored 1,569 points in her four years at Longwood and holds 20 game, season and career records in basketball. Despite being sidelined for 14 games during the past season, she averaged 19.9 points and 9.0 rebounds per game.

Hale, 10-1 with an earned run average of 2.63 this season, holds several career marks including most wins and strikeouts. He has an incredible 30-5 won/loss record with 199 strikeouts in four season. A preseason Division II All-American, Hale pitched seven complete games in eight starts this season.

An outstanding student as well, he has a grade point average of 3.744 while majoring in physics. He has won numerous honors for his achievement in academics.

DENNIS HALE

Bolding, one of the winningest Division II coaches in the nation, has led Longwood to a 33-6 mark this spring. The Lancers are in contention for a berth in the NCAA Division II Tournament. His teams have compiled a record of 347-144-2 in 13 seasons.

Three of Bolding's teams have qualified for NCAA play over the years with the 1982 squad winning the regional tournament and advancing to the Division II World Series.

COACH BUDDY BOLDING

Coppedge guided the Lady Lancers netters to their best finish in 15 years. The squad's combined 9-5 mark (5-2 fall, 4-3 spring) is Longwood's best since the 1976-77 team ended up 16-3-1. In her third year at Longwood, Coppedge has gained success through dedication and hard work. She is a Longwood graduate, class of 1984, and played tennis here as well.

COACH ANGIE COPPEDGE

Also presented were awards for Male and Female Freshman Athlete of the Year. Soccer standout Ross Johnson was named as top freshman male while softball and basketball standout Ana Litton was voted top freshman female.

Johnson was the second leading scorer on the soccer team with five goals and two assists. He was also named to the VISA Eastern Division All-Star team. Litton excelled on both the basketball court and softball field in her first year. The centerfielder was chosen softball MVP by her coach and also made a solid contribution as a reserve guard on the basketball team.

Most Valuable Player honors were handed out for Longwood's 13 sports teams.

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER AWARD WINNERS

SPORT	MVP	CLASS	HOMETOWN
Baseball	Dennis Hale	Sr.	Church Road, VA
Men's Basketball	Billy Dunn	Sr.	Lynchburg, VA
Women's Basketball	Carmille Barnette	Sr.	Chase City, VA
Field Hockey	Missy Moran	Fr.	Virginia Beach, VA
Men's Golf	Darrell Nichols	Sr.	South Boston, VA
Women's Golf	Ami Schonauer	Jr.	York, PA
Gymnastics	Beth Flisley	So.	Durham, N.C.
Lacrosse	Lara Cini (3 time winner)	Jr.	Boothwyn, PA
Soccer	Ray Jones (4 time winner)	Sr.	Smith's Parrish, Bermuda
Softball	Ana Litton	Fr.	Winchester, VA
Men's Tennis	Hunter Reynolds	So.	Midlothian, VA
Women's Tennis	Jenny Holm	So.	Newport News, VA
	Suzie Lawman	Jr.	Lynchburg, VA
Wrestling	Kevin McSherry	Sr.	Virginia Beach, VA
	Mark Harris	So.	Newport News, VA

Sunny's Cafe
CONGRATULATIONS
CLASS OF 1991!
OPEN:
11:30 AM - 5:00 PM LUNCH
5:00 PM - 9:30 PM DINNER
CALL 392-6825
RESERVATIONS SUGGESTED!

WELL DONE, CLASS OF '91!

Gayle-Whitney Abbott
Kayelon Anne Adams
Mary-Robyn Adams
Amy Charleen Allen
David Carwell Allen
Carlos Alberto Ampuero
Cassandra Proffitt Anderson
Donald Eugene Anderson
Lisa Christina Anderson
Susan Hill Anderson
Christopher John Andrews
Nancy Carol Chambers Andrews
Eric David Antrobius
Eric Rossell Arthur, Jr.
Lorie Ann Artis
Mark Anthony Ashley
Erik Normand Auger
Brenda Renea Baird
Marsha Alane Baird
Robert Peyton Baker
Trente Dwayne Balderson
Deborah Lynn Ballance
Regina Faye Banks
Robin Powers Barbour
Monica Ann Barcosky
Jeffrey Stephen Barger
Alison Cocker Barksdale
Erdine Jovita Barley-Walker
Judith Lynn Barnett
John Patrick Barone
David Farrow Barton
Philip Johnson Bassett
James Edward Bates
Kirsten Ruth Baum
Deborah Leigh Beck
Joseph Michael Behan, Jr.
Judith Kimberly Bell
Bartlett Todd Berryman
Bonnie Ruth Bessor
Donna Marie Bester
Heather Renee Biesinger
Joseph William Birdsong
Brian Paul Blackwell
Katherine Elizabeth Blair
Lisa Hill Blanton
Paula Shane Bleiler
Jeffrey Todd Blough
Erica Shannon Blount
Andrew Jonathan Bobb
Michelle Renee Boggs
Patricia Ann Bohannon
Marisa Reynon Bonoan
Jean Elizabeth Booker
Joseph Brent Boone, IV
Jill Louise Boothman
Annah Young Duff Bowen
Laura Lee Bowles
Lisa Yvette Bowling
Patricia Jean Boyle
William Phillip Brady, Jr.
Angela Denise Branch
Gretchen Louise Braun
Mary Ann Bray
Connie Ferrell Brisendine
Marie Robin Bristow
Wanda Clarice Brock
Lisa Michele Brodie
Anthony Tyrone Brooks
Brian Keith Brown
Karen Denise Brown
Wilma Baker Brown
Charles Barry Browning
Arelna-Gail Bruce
Davra Ysere Bruce
Kandra Jean Brummett
Christine Lynn Bruns
Amy Elizabeth Bryant
Kimberly Dawn Bryant
Christine Joyce Bunek
Damon Drew Burd
Stephanie Ann Burgess
Joseph Edward Bush
Angela Dale Butler
Carol Lynn Byers
Donna Lynn Cable
Hubert Glenn Cagle, Jr.
Gregory Hugh Calder
Joseph William Caldwell
Paula Monique Cannon
Matthew Perry Carlisle
Donald Lee Carlson
Paula Grey Caseiro
Amy Loisel Cash
Sharon Michele Caskey
Becky Lynn Cassada
Daniel Wayne Caston
Edwin B. Cather
Lorena Jane Cavan
Peter Alan Chase
Michelle Denise Chenault
April Lynn Childress
Anne Lewis Chilton
Tamara Reneé Chisholm
Cindy Lou Clark
Karen Sue Clary
Lisa Carole Clary
Jeffrey Lloyd Clayton
Karen Dale Baker Clore
Michelle Lynne Coats
Kristin Lynn Coffey
Holly Ann Coffman
Jennifer Leigh Cole
Luella Martin Coleman
Carol Reneé Collawn
Elizabeth Stewart Cook
Bruce Andrew Cooke
Elizabeth Lindsey Cope
Stephanie Lyn Copeland
Robert Joseph Costa, Jr.
Chris Liggett Coulter
Brenda Satterfield Courtney
Keith O'Brien Covington
Beth Ann Cox
Sean Edward Cox
Teresa Ann Craig
Virginia Steed Crane
Brian Edward Crawford
Stacy Elaine Crockarell
Denise Ann Crouse
Ayme CurLee
Susan Barnes Curlee

Thelma Hamill Dalmas
Jennifer Ann Dalton
Karen Elizabeth Dalton
Mark Clair Daniel
Cheryl Paige Daniels
Alexander Craig Darling
Cynthia Lynne Davenport
Corrie J. Davis
Melanie Sue Davis
Camala Paige DeCosta
Debra Lynn deHaas
Lisa Joy DeJarnette
Angela Rose Deso
Richard John DeSousa
Susan Lois Dettweiler
Kimberly Elizabeth Dickerson
Rodney Dale Diehl
Derrick Ervin Diffee
Elizabeth Kirk Dillon
Rick Dockstader
Glen Edward Dodson
Dianne Marie Dommasch
Sharon Donohue
Theresa Ann Dore
Paul Edward Doyle
Robert Wayne Drinnon
Lori Anne Drye
Christopher James Dudley
Nancy Winslow Dudley
Pamela Christin Dunn
Jacquelin Poore Easter
Peter Francis Edgette
Curtis Todd Edwards
Karen Kay Elbon
Aime's Kathleen Elflein
Faye Irene Ellenburg
Janet Lynn Elliott
Michele Diane Elliott
Deborah Jeanne Ellis
Robin Annette Ellis
Stephanie Anne Ellis
Teresa Hunt Emory
Robert Ray Essington, Jr.
Susan Dawn Eubank
Joyce Anne Eure
Brigette Gayle Faggins
Victoria Leigh Fahed
John Eliot Faircloth
Courtney Ann Faris
Kathleen Tate Farley
Katherine Hope Feast
Deborah Lorraine Fesperman
Cynthia Anne Fleet
Alice R. Flora
Glenda Fontanilla Floyd
Roger Alan Floyd
Kristi Lee Foberg
Albert Lionel Foreman
Valerie Kaye Fornash
Cindy Denise Forrester
Carol Kay Francis
Sharon Kay Francisco
Sandra Lee Freeby
Neil Joseph French, Jr.
Lisa Marie Frigge
Stephen Brian Friski
Sharon Phyllis Fulgham
Kelly Hunter Fulk
Michael Scott Funderburk
Kimberly Hope Gaffos
William Patrick Gaines
Raecita Annyce Gallop
Sally M. Galvan
Robert Bruce Gantt
Christine Ann Garczynski
Joseph Francis Gardner
Debbie Lea Garland
Gregory Howland Gattis
Adrienne Michelle Gauman
Ruth Leigh Genter
Kristi Leigh George
Stephen Conrad Gibbons
Catherine Evelyn Gibby
Deanna Elizabeth Gibson
Thomas Daniel Gilbert
Sandra Nicole Giles
Betty Gilliam-Scales
Jennifer Tracy Gilson
Gina Marie Ginda
Kimberly Marie Glacken
Audrey Yvette Glasscock
Karen Lynn Godsey
David Michael Good
Connie Eloise Gormus
Todd H. Graham
Lynn Carol Graves
Jackie Alicia Green
James Michael Green
Joyce Clay Green
Tammy Lynn Greene
Bonnie Ann Grimsley
Robert Dean Grubbs
Connie Carol Gryder
Saurabh R. Gupta
Michael Scott Haas
Dennis Earl Hale, II
Denise Lynn Haley
Cline Douglas Hall
Rashel Marie Hammond
Joann Elaine Hanagan
Susanne Marjorie Hantwerker
Dawn Marie Harding
George W. Hardman, III
Agustus Hawthorne Harper
Kellie Dawn Harrell
Cheryl Deneene Harris
Reneé Jeannette Harris
Stephanie Martin Harris
William Edgar Harris
Yvonne Denodra Ross Harris
Patrick E. Hart
Douglas Lee Hartley
Jill Anne Hartt
Kimberly M. Harvey
Lanie Beth Harvey
Holly Galbreath Hash
Andrew Cole Hatch
Polly Catherine Hathaway
Marguerite Helen Hayes
Dennis Lee Heath
Donna Marie Hedge

Holly Lea Hefner
Jacqueline Carol Henshaw
Teresa Lynn Hensley
James Everette Hesler, II
Gyanneth Susan Hess
Trisha Anne Hickmott
Donald Anthony Hill
Feras Yousef Hindi
Catheren Colleen Hines
Catherine Stuart Hines
Dale White Hodges
Jeffrey Lee Hodgson
Elizabeth Owens Hoggard
Gregory Neal Holloway
Bobbie H. Holman
Lisa Holman
Heidemarie Catherine Holmes
Stephanie Lee Holmes
Joyce Elaine Holmon
Robert Phillip Hood
Christopher A. Hoover
Steven Hopkins
Christopher James Horan
Michael Patrick Horinko
Jacqueline Horsey
Angela Marie Horton
Stephen Wess Houchin
Kimberlee Ann Howells
Janet Katherin Huffman
Susan Virginia Hughes
Leslie Gayle Humphries
Martha McGuire Hundley
Robin Leigh Hunnicutt
Erik John Hunter
Shannon Sue-Mae Hurley
Rebecca Lynn Hurt
Eric William Hutzler
Darian Lee Hybl
Cristine Inzerillo
Jill Evonne Isaac
Christopher Keith Jacks
Jeffery Darnell Jackson
Vivian Leigh Ramsey James
Megan Kay Janney
Gloria Barksdale Jarrett
Kevin Michael Jefferson
Mark Andrew Jenkins
Patricia Marie Jenkins
Peggy Jo Jenkins
Julia Anne Jervis
Kimberly Renee Jeter
Alison Harris Johnston
Asia Roché Jones
Clifton W. Jones, Jr.
Raymond S. Jones
Stephanie Leigh Jones
Kimberly Elaine Justis
Suzanne Joy Kallighan
Elizabeth E. Kan
Jennifer Anne Kane
Scott Allen Kasper
Anthony Peter Katsarelis
Amy Leigh Kays
Pauline Blackwell Keeton
Lisa Lynne Kelly
John Thomas Kelsey
Robert Neal Kenny, Jr.
Maurice Amado Kessler
Michael David Kildow
Lee Andrew Kimble
Lisa Cumbea Kimbrough
Donna Marie King
Stephanie Dianne King

John Gregory Kirby
Peggy M. Kirby
Mark Allen Kirk
Teresa Marie Kliner
Katherine Townes Klotz
Frank McMillan Knott, III
Raymond Clyde Knott
Stewart Thomas Knott
Kimberly Janine Koestring
Mark Vincent Kolesha
Pamela Ann Ladd
Analisa Lage
Mitzi Potts Lail
Lori Ann Lambert
Kara RaChelle Lancaster
Nicole Christine Laningham
Kristen Elizabeth Laurilla
Janelle Nicolette Lawyer
Tracy Katharine Leach-Lewis
Darran Harvey Lee
Kristin Elizabeth Lee
Tamytha Toyota Lee
Tawanna J. Oliver Lee
Sheryl Lynn Leffer
Myra Hurley Legg
Richard Eric Lellinger
Amy Louise Lerby
Sheila Louise Lewis
Thomas Kelway Libby
Leslie Anne Ligon
James Francis Limbach
Beth Ann Lindsay
Michelle Leigh Logwood
Karen Marie Lombardo
Lisa Kay Morris Long
Suesan Deborah Lord
Troy Wilson Loveday
Stace Edward Lowman
Scott Maciejewski
Katherine Lynn MacInnis
Dominick Joseph Magarelli, Jr.
Tamara Elizabeth Mainville
Kathryn Lynn Maitland
Kimberly Ann Makuch
Kimberly Ann Marciniak
Mary Kimberly Marsh
Shawn Edward Marshall
Wendy Dale Martin
Wendy Lynn Martin
Denise Michelle Masiello
Glenda Marie Shutt Mason
Landon Rockne Mason
Tanya Ingrid Georgia Matrai
Dennis Alan May
Shari Anne May
Wesley Andrew Allen Mayton
Tammie Sue McAbee
Heather Elaine McBride
Steven Darwyn McCall
Tracy Lynn McCarthy
Kim Cherie McCluney
Tambra Annette McCraw
Valerie DelFonta McCraw
Melissa McDaniel
Tracey Dawn McGregor
Laurie Celeste McKean
Deirdre Camille McKendry
Charles Edward McKinney
Michael Ray McKinney
Christine Kelly McMurtrie
Tenera Marie McPherson
Christine Dawn Meadows

Kevin Michael Meehan
Michelle Ann Meeler
D'Nita Paige Melton
Patrick Alan Melton
Alice Putney Metts
Edward Earl Midkiff
Janet Elaine Miles
Alison Kaye Miller
Joseph R. Miller
Melissa J. Miller
Alexandra Dawn Mister
William Baine Mitchell
Joseph Lee Mitterer
Jennipher Carole Montgomery
Walter Baron Montgomery
Kelley Ann Moran
Alan Richard Morgan
Lisa Andre'a Morris
Patricia Elaine Morris
Roger Nash Morris
John Scott Morrison
Michael Paul Morrison
Barbara Ann Mountcasel
Lisa Lynn Nolen Mountcasel
Christopher Mundy
Melinda Rae Munns
Laura Nancy Muñoz
Cameron Alana Murray
Brandy Leigh Musgrove
Vicki Denise Myers
Tina Lynn Napier
Stacey Lynn Nash
Amy Leigh Neale
Karen Dianne Nelson
Kimberly Wynne Nelson
Lisa Marie Nelson
Rosemary Nelson
Robert Glenn Netherland, III
Sharon Marie Newcomb
Darrell Lee Nichols
Lisa Marie Nicklas
Kirby Anne Noble
Tracy Ann Nock
Amy Lynn Norris
Tammy Michele Nunn
Graham Robert Nunnally
Kimberly Kay O'Connor
Amelia Claire O'Donnell
Windi Carol Oehms
Mary Beth Ogden
Patricia Ruth Ogden
Stella Otway Osborne
James Palmer Owen, Jr.
Phyllis Currin Owen
Catherine Bacon Owings
Muriel Lorraine Paige
Rhonda Moniqué Paige
Peter John Pandazides
Kukrit Pantoomano
Charles Joseph Parker
David Wayne Parrish
Susan Diane Parrish
Cynthia Yvonne Paschall
Timothey A. Patrick
Nancy Susan Patterson
Shannon Marie Patterson
Catherine Denny Patteson
Marcus Lee Paxton
Andrea Lee Payne
Michelle Ranae Pearson
Vonda Kay Peatross
Suzanne Marie Pellegrino
Garland Wayne Perkins
Kelley Ann Perkins
Bobbi-Len Pethtal
Martha Mae Petry
Elizabeth Jackson Pettler
William Alexander Phifer
Susannah Jane Pinch
Jayne Graham Thomas Pinelli
Stacy A. Pingel
Kimberly Dawn Pollock
Timothy Alan Poole
Eric Edward Pories
Jessica Lane Powell
Stephanie Fielding Powell
Susan Marie Powers
Angela Montague Poythress
Ernest Kenner Price
Michael Scott Prickett
James Gilliam Puckett, Jr.
Michael Christopher Pugh
Stevan Wayne Quincy
Sara Ellen Quisenberry
Angela Johnson Radick
Thomas Lee Ragland, Jr.
Laura Anne Raiford
Alan Wayne Rapee
Jennifer Hope Ratlief
Sandra Kaye Ratliff
Carol Lynn Reeves
Steven Theodore Reinhart
Dorothy Marie Ricks
Paula Reneé Riddick
Sharon Lynn Riek
Jamie Dawn Riffle
Anne Marie Ringler
Stacy Lynn Roberts
Amy Liane Robertson
Nichole Langley Robison
Rosemarie Kathleen Romano
Tammy Renee Rose
Kristine Marie Rossi
Dianna French Routt
Mitchell Rubin
Kim Marie Smelser Rudacille
Linda Darlene Russell
Theresa Diane Saklewicz
Aimee Pressel Sarver
Sandra Lynn Saunders
JoAnn Marie Sayko
Carl Thomas Schieber
James Henry Schornagel
Bobbie Jackson Scott
Patricia Dale Seamster
JoAnne Palmore Seay
M. Courtenay Selden
Charles Bellford Shaeff, III
Brian Edward Shay
Jaime Theresa Shearls

Cynthia Newcomb Shelton
Holly Marneil Shifflett-Price
Debra Lee Shorter
Paul Singh Sidhu
Marguerite Hilary Silvera
Sadie Hawthorne Simmons
Karl Immanuel Singer
David Bruce Sisson
Mark Thomas Sisterman
Linda Gayle Slayton
Andrew Victor Smallwood
Betty Louise Smith
Deborah Ann Smith
Gregory Michael Smith
Jennifer Cheryl Smith
Julie Herndon Smith
Robin F. Davidson Smith
Shelia Mae Smith
Stephanie Suzanne Smith
Tonya Patrice Smith
Bernice Watts Smyth
Charles Joseph Sobrito, III
Steve Randall Spain, Jr.
Ashley Murray Sparks
Susan Fleetwood Spring
Dawn Miksad Stanley
Rebecca Gayle Stanley
Tina Mathews Stanley
Lucy Rebecca Starbuck
Kathryn G. Stinson
Carolyn Louise Strobel
Leigh Ann Strong
Lesley Renee Stuler
Kelly Renee Stutz
Fikria Stwodah
Khalida Stwodah
Mohammad Naweed Stwodah
Cara Noel Sullivan
Stephen Patrick Swanson
Cassie Joy Swope
Katherine Jean Sykes
Cecillia Cline Taylor
Jean Raychel Taylor
Terry Ann Tebault
Sarah Virginia Tetterton
Jonathan Drury Thackston
Jeffrey Eric Thiel
Kathryn Moore Thiel
Jeffrey E. Thomas
John Andrew Thomasson, III
James Bruce Thompson
Tammy Lynn Thompson
Belinda Faye Tignor
Holly Upchurch Tiller
Kempy Mercell Tillerson
Rebecca Lynn Todd
Maurice Eyston Tolliver
Jennifer Belshan Tomko
Dana Jeanette Tomlin
Stacy Lynn Townsend
Anissa Lynn Hamlett Trent
James Anthony Trent
Irenie T. Triarhos
James R. Tricarico, II
Dawn Truong
Yvonne Edwards Tucker
Jo Ann Tuohey
Janette Lynn Turner
Lisa Ann Tyler
Cheryl Lynn Umberger
Grace Michele VanHouten
Gianni Venturi
Elizabeth Anne Verley
Valerie Shaw Vida
Monique Carlyn Voehringer
Cheryl Ann Wagstaff
Anne Bryan Waite
Alison Marie Walek
Richard Kevin Walker
Thomas Bennett Walker
Rhonda Gaye Wall
Charleen Walters
Carolyn Ann Ward
Christopher Scott Ward
Elva Wyatt Ward
Ashley Reed Warren
Martine A. Washko
Angela Yvette Watkins
Eric Paul Watkins
Franklin Matthew Watson, II
Kelly Dixon Wawner
Carol Jean Webb
Lisa Michelle Webster
Tambrya Lynn Weddle
Kellie Susan Weisenbeck
Aaron Richard Wenzel
Bryan Louis West
Karen Michelle Westcoff
Holly Westenhoefer
Carla Jean Westerman
Mitchell Wade Wharam
Amanda Lea Whitby
Kevin Peebles Whitby
Daniel Leddy White
Nancy Morrow White
Stephanie Laphew White
Ada Allen Whitehead
Michael John Whitford
Sue Fisher Wiley
Barbara Cox Wilkerson
John Phillip Wilkerson, Jr.
Nancy Kyle Wilkinson
Catherine Rigdon Williams
Cynthia Ann Vandall Williams
Lyllie Ann Blanton Williams
Melissa Gayle Williams
Suzanne Malea Williams
Vernell Seay Williamson
Jo Ann Wills
Bryan Andrew Windley
John Conrad Wingold, IV
Laura Ann Winslow
Scott Johnson Wiseman
William Patrick Wood
Traci Lynne Woodington
Thomas Wayne Woodward, Jr.
Angela Lynnette Wright
Luther Leroy Wright, Jr.
Rachelle Patterson Wright
Joseph Edward Yaroszewski

ConGRADulations

On Making The Grade!

PERSONALLY YOURS, FROM THE U.S.S.R.

CLASSIFIED ADS FROM THE SOVIET UNION

PEN PALS
ДРУЗЬЯ ПО ПЕРЕПИСКЕ

ROMANCE
ЗНАКОМСТВА, ЗНАКОМСТВА

EXCHANGES
ОБМЕН ИДЕЯМИ, ОПЫТОМ, ВЕЩАМИ

How To Respond To An Ad

Classified ads featured in "Personally Yours, From the U.S.S.R." come from citizens across the Soviet Union.

To respond to an ad, you must fill out and send the coupon below along with $7.50 for each ad. We will mail to you a "Pen Pal" kit with the advertiser's name and address, information on how to write to the Soviet Union, an authentic Russian envelope for mailing, information on travel and visas (if you should decide to travel or sponsor a trip here), and translation services, if you should need them. You won't need to send your correspondence in Russian -- many Soviets speak English, and if they don't, they know somebody who does.

SEND: 1. Completed coupon (for each ad)
2. $7.50 check, cash or money order (for each ad)
Checks made payable to "Personally Yours"

MAIL TO: Ad Box Number (# at the end of the ad) c/o Personally Yours, From The USSR
PO Box 477
Denver, CO 80201

VA-I

Ad Box #
Your Name
Address
City ____ State ____
Zip ____ Phone# ____

CLASSIFIEDS/PERSONALS

Need a Job in the Fall?
Apply in Iler to work for the Division of Intramurals and Campus Recreation. Jobs include: Supervisor and equipment checkout for weightroom, racquetball courts, gyms/fields, aerobic fitness instructor, publicity, photographer.

SUMMER CAMP JOBS are available at resident Girl Scout camp. If you enjoy children this is the job for you! We are looking for unit leaders, unit counselors, pool staff, nature and crafts directors, cooks and kitchen workers, and nurse. Camps are located in Bridgewater and Leesburg. Pre-camp begins June 15; camp ends August 12. For an application visit your Career Placement office or call the Girl Scout Council of the Nation's Capital, 1-202-337-4300 or in MD and VA 1-800-523-7898.

Do U Like to Swim? Good!
Swim Team Interest
Meeting April 29
at 9 p.m. in Lancer Hall
Room 203.
See you there!

Small dorm size refrigerator for sale — 30.00/price negotiable. Good condition. Call Angie x3157

To the Sisters of Alpha Sigma Tau, We did it! Let's keep up the energy for next year! Two weeks until Nags Head! Have a great summer. I'll miss you all. — Tau love, Karen

To the New Sisters of Alpha Sigma Tau — Congratulations to Carolyn, Jenny, Janice, Heather and Susan. Welcome into the best sisterhood ever! — Tau love, Karen

Stacy W. –
I can't believe three years have gone by already! It seems like just yesterday we were freshmen moving in for the first time. We have been through so much since then! You have been the BEST friend – I couldn't ask for anyone better! Please remember that I am always behind you 100% in whatever you do. Keep a smile on your face and remember that you are THE COOLEST!
Love & Friendship Always!
Lisa

ATTN: STUDENTS
Faxing service will be available to students effective the first day of the fall semester. The fax machine will be authorization code driven and will be located in the Coyner Building, Computing Services Dept., Room 110. (Hours to be posted.) The fee for this service is $2.00 per fax plus the cost of the call. If you have any question, please call Rose Hurley at 2606.

Lisa –
What can I say? We've been friends for three years and you are my BEST friend. I promise I'll try and come down this summer. Remember, your the CUTEST and your beautiful and any man that doesn't know it is a damn fool.
-Love, the COOLEST

Chris –
Had a good time the other night. Are you still interested?? Maybe I'll see you back here in June!
-?

Bill –
I want you to know that I still care for you and miss you very much. You've been a big part of my life for the past six months and I don't want to lose that, or you. Can we give it one more try?? I'll miss you this summer but N.Y. isn't that far away!!!
Kerry -

Next year is going to be awesome! I wish you could've spent more (any) time with us this semester. Remember: Boyfriends come and GO but friends are for LIFE — don't neglect them.
- Love, Stacy.

Stacy W. –
I'm so glad you had a BLAST at DELTA BALL the other weekend! It's about time you went out with someone who knows how to treat you right. You deserve the best — don't settle for less.
– Lisa

Claudia –
This weekend was too great! Where are we going? New Orleans? Where is Vince's spork? Do you have the keys? Pile 'em high! "You guys better get out of the sun." Do you hear something? "Beer is Beer and Beer is food..." Hi Pamela. There's a good place for the trailer. Look dogs! Blah Blah Blah
I love you,
Michele

Jo "I love myself" Lefty. So I get 50 points for this one? By the way, I think he likes you! Walk like a champ in Texas. We'll miss you. Love from Smooth and Rough, the Happy Campings and Teddy (because Teddy knows – You are a winner!) Pnnng!! P.S. Don't always go for the stick!

Anna baby, baby – How are your worms?...

Megan "I never have any" cash, I'm gonna miss you – (I 'ont ink 'o) Give 'em hell in Salisbury! Love from your "disgustingly" messy roommate. P.S. Do you think Tina has any Q-tips?

Joanne Lefson – Please remember your ID next time. Love from Tina A.K.A. Smiley!

Dennis – Congratulations! I'm proud of you sweetheart. Love always Jan-Marie

Ann Waite – Congrats. Thanks for everything! You're a special lady! Love Jan-Marie.

To: Kacey, Nichole, Erin, Robin, Jennifer, Charlotte, Philwell, what can I say – All of you are rare and wonderful individuals – I treasure my friendships with each of you. I hope our friendships – both old and new will continue to flourish in the coming years. For those of us leaving Longwood – may we find our "bliss" and for the rest of the crew remaining at Longwood – Good luck! Looking forward to the visits next year to my "old room" – will it remain haunted? I will deeply miss the "DMV", the walks, the "fruit bunch", the laughter, and all of you! Love & Peace — Cindi.

Kristina & Estelle – You two are great! I have enjoyed the board games and the "banana" discussions! Who knows dreams may really come true! Good luck and best wishes – Cindy K.

Hey Pat! — You have a knack for coming in when we're in bed. Have you eaten only jelly beans lately ... See no evil; Hear no evil; Speak no evil. Elmo is watching you. Next year, you will have to get your own animal. It's been fun and we will miss you terribly. — The Girls of 212

To the Seniors of Zeta Tau Alpha — We want to wish you all the best. You're finally out of here so go crazy! We'll miss you all! — Zeta Tau Alpha

Shaggy — If I could save "Time in a Bottle" I would save the last 19 months I've known you. — Ann

Congratulations — To our eleven newest sisters! We are so proud of all of you! We love you! — Your New Zeta Tau Alpha Sisters

To my Hubby Vic — How about supper sometime?? Maybe we'll hit it in by 1993!! Gonna miss you. — Luv Jo

Dear Paulis — Just you wait till June. You better start filling up ... Lots and lots of love — JY weet wie!

Dear Princess and Donna Duff-D'not — Gonna miss you guys (But not as much as you're gonna miss me!!) — Love Jo

Birdie — Thanks for your "service" at the banquet. Don't forget that we are here for you next semester. We like keeping you around. — Tau Love, Chuckles

To the brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon, Congratulations on being the brotherhood of the year! The sisters of Alpha Sigma Tau.

To the Nags Head "WHARF" crew – Party for two, Bueller, Bueller, anyone?

Chrissy S: "Get the ——— out of my room! But I love you guys" Love Claudia and Michele

Danny, Jodi, Susan, Wendy and Mike – Ball was the best. You all are the greatest. Love, Michele

To all ZETA'S _ Nags Head will never be the same. Here's to another awesome ball! I love you guys! ZTA love, Chaudia V.

To all ZTA Seniors – You will be greatly missed. ZTA love, Claudia and Michele

Bash'm – "Did you hear something?" The beach was great, but is someone talking? ZTA Love, Claudia

Laura Winslow – Come live in our trailer, with our herd of dogs! ZTA love, Claudia and Michele

Heather – "It's going to be a few minutes on your fries." Pamela

To whom it may concern – Let's hang out at HARDEEs for a couple of hours, only to lock the keys in the car in another state.

Michele – Let me tell you a story ... Blah, Blah, Blah – You know the rest! I had a blast with you, roomie! Here's to next year. Love, Claudia

Third Floor Curry (F.R.E.S.H.) – Thanx to everyone who participated in the jail and car wash! Jan-Marie and Dennis

Pat Carr – Thanx for everything! Jan-Marie and Dennis

Congratulations to all graduating seniors and thanks to all the students I have worked with this past year for making my first year at Longwood such an enjoyable one. Steve Dealph

Niki, Kim, Karen, and FRITA! — "I only have one more dollar!" Make sure you get this month's PLAYGIRL. Club LeVela awaits ... those tacos were great, but the sunburn killed. SPRING BREAK was the best. I'll never forget it. — Thankx "Fronie"

Niki, Mitch, Monica, Brian, Leslie, and Sharon — "I'm thinking of a place in Panama City Beach far away from Brockport!" — that was the bus ride from HELL! But our break was great! — Fran

Ernie — Only one more summer of "Greekville, U.S.A." and you're out of here. College sure won't be the same without you. Mayberry is far better than Farmville, but before you know it we'll be true southern bells together forever. Thanks for all the memories. I love you. — Bert

"Leroy" — You big stud! Oh, I mean "wimp". Sure thought life would be a lot different here. No more Chowan days, but we'll always have our precious memories. The trio is fading, but our friendship never will. We love you. — Your Chowan Buddies

ANALISA — I am glad to see you are graduating on time. For a minute there I had my doubts. I am proud of you. Don't forget you owe me dinner! — Ginger

Joe Nagy — Love in an Elevator! What a ride! Let's do it again soon! Love — You know who

Mark Kolesha — You can be my BMOC anytime! As for wearing Bugle Boys, I'd rather know what you're wearing underneath! — A fan

Yo Trish Sheldon!
I can't believe we made it thru another year. Well, yeah I can. Just one more semester to go! P.P.C. – Are you a friend of Bill's? Ummm-every once-in-a-while! You're the best friend and roomie anyone could ask for! Be sure to come to VA Beach this summer. If not — I'll still see ya! Look out Gravelly Pt. — here we come!! Mocka Locka Pissale!
Love — your roomie Kathy-Jean!!

Don't leave me! I'm truly gonna miss you! You're awesome, a wonderful suitie and even better friend. July 4th? You know it! Daiquiri's anyone? But we don't drink! Bye, bye American Pie! But these friends are friends forever and this farewell ain't fer good! Best-o-Luck!! Don't forget about us who are still here! Try for VA Beach too!! Mocka Locka Pissale!
Love - your suitie-
Kaarin

Traci Trimface -
Another semester? Cool deal, dude! Watch out for those TV dinners! Be sure to road trip it to Va Beach this summer. Watch out for those Maryland cops, too! Mocka Locka Pissale! Have a good summer — see you next Tuesday!
Love -
Kaarin Sitterdingbutt

C.J.-
Shall we do that Little Caesar's thing? Watch out for: Rainbow crack fish, plants with holes in them and, oh-yeah — Bronco's too! How's that asphalt treatin' ya? Have a great summer and be sure to visit VA Beach too! We curfew you!!! Eagle! N-O-T, NOT!!
Love-Kaarin

Corey E. — You make a good "group leader" in Marketing Management. Let's stick together. — "You know who"

To the guy who ran for Judicial Board on the ticket w/ Johnaid Arrington, now that I can associate your face w/ the name. Expect to hear more from me this fall. — Cox Dorm

Yogi — Have a great summer and don't get in trouble with any Park Rangers! I'm sure you'll be getting lots of mail — just return the favor every once in a while. I'll miss you and I look forward to seeing your face next year. — Boo boo

Ken DeWitt — I've been watching you. You've got the cutest smile. Hope you had a great weekend. Keep smiling! I'm still watching you!! — An Admirer

DJW — These have been the happiest 2-1/2 months of my life. As far as I am concerned, you are the best! "Ek wil weet wat liefde is, en ek wil hê dat jy vir my wys!" — AH-T.

NK — "Dela" will never be the same again! Thank you for being such a special person. I'm going to miss you! — AH-T

Cuddley Bunny — Just had to get you one last time! I'm going to miss you Stax, but you know you're always welcome in N. Cunn. — Love, AH-T.

Monica — Love that new Rotunda! The paper looks GREAT! You have done an awesome job this past year!

Jen Drip — What happened to him? He ran out of gas. I'm looking forward to 3 weeks of non-stop laughing. Maybe John will come and we can be a big happy family. — Tau Love, D.K.

Philppie -
Heaven help us next semester! Are we gonna make it? Yeah. Macado's for ONE pitcher? Yeah, sure! We had a bad day! Have a good summer! Take care of Ferlow!!
Love - Kaarin

To all you seniors on second floor annex —
Kathy, Lorie, Stephanie, Joann, Peg, Carolyn and Amy. Best of luck out in the real world. I know you'll all be successful at whatever you do!! Let's plan for one more final shin-dig before graduation. Come back and visit anytime! I'll miss ya!
Love— Kaarin

To the Ultimate Party Suite — 254-255 M. Cunn. –
The Four Muskateers. Do we ever do or go anywhere alone? Naaah – can't see it! We made it through another year — that makes 3 YEARS!! We're just too cool. You guys are the greatest. When we reunite — the world better watch out! July 4th? Jimmy Buffet? Ahhh the memories! Love you guys!!!
Love - KMS

Pat Hall –
You're our hero!
Have a great summer!

To Hoper, Jamer and Sandra – I'll miss ya this summer. The beach will be waiting for you. Come see me! Love Claud

To all the girls in South Ruffner. Thanks for an awesome year. Cool Kel and Nancy

Margaret, Laura, and Bennie _ Thanks for an excellent weekend full of junk yards, antique shops, boats, junk food, people's front yards and brats like Kimberly and Marlin. Can we do it again, Please? Have a wonderful summer and if that is not possible, at least survive it because I need good friends like you to make it through next year. – Elfkin

Sharon – You're the best roomie! Thanks for putting up with me for 3 years and good luck after graduation! –Wendi

Ernie – I'm so happy we're together! Let's last the test of time. Love Wendi

Katie _ All right babe! Next year room 316. Can you stand it? Wendi

Huck Finn – I'm so glad we're friends again! Don't ever lose touch and thanks for the panda bears. Wendi

Lori – You're the best little bro and orientation roomie! – Wendi

Grandma – Anne B. Waite – you're awesome and I'm going to miss you bunches. Congrats on grad. EK love Kimmie Sunshine.

ΣK Seniors! Graduation is almost here. Love Sunshine

Thip & Anita looking forward to next year w/you. Summer here we come. Sunshine and Starlight.

Mendy you're an awesome lil sis and I'll always love ya! Sunshine

My Partners in Crime, C, K, J, and E, it's been quite a semester. We have had a blast, and a few not so fun times. But I will have to say that I have never called some people so many discussing names as I did you guys. What fun! I look forward to another semester of it! — Tau Love, D.K.

Congratulations to the 1991-92 PEER ADVISOR TEAM

Susan Atkinson	Amy Hart
Melissa Barney	Eric Haupt
John Borowiec	Steve Mobley
Sharon Butler	Scott Strader
Billy Cifers	Mark Tueting
Sherry Gatewood	Bill Wilson
Tina Gewerth

ATTENTION SENIORS:

ANTICIPATED COUNSELOR POSITION ADMISSIONS OFFICE

Longwood's Admissions Office anticipates employing an admissions counselor beginning on or about mid-July and ending in May 1992. High energy, good communications skills and active involvement while at Longwood Prerequisites for successful candidates.

Salary $1606.00 per month, no benefits, all travel expenses paid. Must be willing to work at Admissions programs on weekends and evenings.

Interested candidates should contact Bob Chonko, Director of Admissions at X2060.

Is There A Journalist Lurking Inside You?
The Rotunda Needs You!

The Rotunda, published since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, is currently accepting applications for the 1991-92 staff. Anyone interested is encouraged to apply — experience not required!

Applications available at the Lankford Information Office!

SUMMERTIME AT LONGWOOD
Summer Activities

During the summer sessions the racquetball courts, tennis courts, volleyball courts, swimming pool, and weight room will be open on a regular basis.

Coed softball games will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Two-on-two volleyball tournaments will be held on the sand courts in the evenings.

The arcade, pool hall, and bowling alley will also be open on a regular basis. The Second Annual Summerfest will be held on July 31, with Fat Ammons Band.

CLASSIFIEDS/PERSONALS

Karenina — One hundred dollars?! I'm really going to miss you this summer. Thanks for a semester of always standing by my side, catching me when I almost tripped, and lifting me when I needed a boost. I couldn't have asked for a better Vice. O.K. One hundred dollars. Thank God for Nags Head. — Tau Love, Kathy

All Alpha Taus — I am so proud of you ladies. All of our work, dedication, and love for our sisterhood did not go unnoticed. Let's keep our spirits high and carry it over through next year, too. What a group you are! — Love in AST, Kathy

Congratulations new initiates of Alpha Delta Pi. I am very proud of you. — π love and mine Trisha

Jennifer, Heather, Kristi, Erin and Amy — Thanks for being the best roommates ever! It hasn't always been easy, but it certainly has been fun! I'm going to miss ya'll this summer. Be ready for "I never" when we get back. Love — Beth

Hey Tricia — Haircut!! — Love, Your Lambda Delta Sisters

To my good luck charm... Thanks for your support... #5

Nora ... What a season. I can't wait until hockey next year. Have a safe summer. — Your chugging buddy

To the R.A. on 1st Floor Tabb — I love you!! — an admirer

Pete the Pi Kap — I've had my eyes on you all year. Looking good — better pay those fines or I'll see you again next year! — Love, I'm Just Looking

Dana Carol — You are an awesome roommate. Next year... STUBBS!

Kim Bryant and Amy Cash — Congrats "Teach". Kindergarten beware! — Love Fran and Theresa

Tom, John, and Chuck — Your full moons were the best ever on Spring Break! — Rm #429

Kay & Deb, Deb & Kay — You guys are awesome! I will really miss you over the summer - you better come visit! — Love ya, Jen P.S. "Quick, there's a spot! Let's get it!"

Social Butterfly — Does you finger still hurt? I know who will kiss it and make it feel better!!!!! Only a week more and SUMMERFEST begins! It's been fun being your roommate this year. Remember those 291 minute phone calls, the "hall project" and "the fashion no-no", and "lizard skin"? Don't forget, "if I can't check this book out will it still be there?" Have a great summer! My bologna has a first name... — Your roommate, "Sony, the innocent one""

Iesha, Cantrice, Timperia & Quantina — You guys are the best! Thanks for being so much fun. Next year will be even better! Iesha and Cantrice - Harry lives. Timperia - do the weasle. Quantina - thanks for the added culture in our lives and we will miss you. Have a great summer and keep in touch. Iesha - happy early birthday. — O.B.K.B., Gonaquicha & Tashonday

So long, So Ruff.

– #334

Smegma and Mr. Clean,
Your butt smells like applesauce.

K. and K.

Kernel:
You finally got a personal.

Love,
K. and K. and J.

To the ladies of Iota Phi Lambda Sorority, Inc. — It has been great being part of such a wonderful sisterhood. I have enjoyed every minute of it. I will miss all of you when I leave. I will also miss all of the good times (VA State, pillowfights, KTM, etc.). I love you all as my sisters. I wish the sorority continued growth in the future. — Candace

KTC — You are, by far, the most wonderful guy I've ever met. Your friendship has meant a lot to me and I'm really going to miss you this summer. South Cunn. isn't that far from North...here's hoping she goes to Tech. — The coolest girl you know.

7th Floor Frazer — Who said freshmen don't know how to have fun? It's been fun, crazy, loud, and dirty; sorta like one big "FEST"-tival. Have a great summer! — Love, Sony

Ronnie — Way to lay down those moves! We knew you had it in you. By the way about that shaving cream/whip cream incident.....PSYCHE!!!!! See ya next year! — Love, S&N

Longwood Lacrosse Team — It's been a LOT of fun chillin with you guys. (I mean that literally!) You guy have worked so hard! By the way, "Could someone pass the barf-bag, I'm a little van-sick." — Sonja

Doug R. — Just wanted to say thank you for all the times you kept me company. Whatta friend! Good luck on your exams! P.S. Nora is still gonna get you for short-sheeting her. — Love, Sony

Kit Kat — I know we didn't get to see much of each other, but the few times we talked meant a lot to me. Thank you sooo much for being there when I needed someone, and a hug. I'll miss you soo much. Good Luck with your plans! — Love always, Sonja

Todd and Tommy,
STOP FARTING!

G. I. Jen:
Good job on passing your P.T. Test!

Love, Kim and Kristin

Smegma and Mr. Clean,
I have a ball!

K.

Kelli: Congratulations on receiving the Geist scholarship! I know you deserve it. Just wanted to let you know I'm thinking about you. Thanks for all you've done... You're an awesome big sis. Good luck during exam week! DZ Love Your lil' sis

Ann: Here's to our awesome Delta Zeta pledge ma'! We're thinking about you and we want to wish you luck on your final exams. Study hard?
We love you – Laura, Becky, Amy, Amie, Michelle, Michelle, Amy, Mary, Mary, Catherine, Emily, Tracy, Meredith

To the Sister of Delta Zeta: We love you and want to wish each and every one of you "good luck" during your final exams?
ΔZ - love – Becky, Tracy, Laura, Amy, Amy, Amie, Michelle, Michelle, Mary, Emily, Meredith, Mary Catherine.

Robin – You've been an awesome roomie! I'll miss you. Good luck on exams and study hard. Love Ranch Dressing

To my Delta Zeta Rose Sister: Thank you for all the thoughtful notes you have been sending to me this past week. I can't wait to find out who you are. I know you're awesome and I know I'll love. ΔZ Love, Tracy

To my Delta Zeta Secret Sister – Well, hello out there. You have been brightening my past two weeks with those little secrets you have been sending to me. Thank you so much. I love you and can't wait to find out who you are. ΔZ Love Tracy

To my Awesome Pledge Sisters: How about them DZ sisters! They're awesome aren't they. Just wanted to let you all know how much you mean to me and wish you good luck during exams. ΔZ Love, Tracy

Kirby M – Where are you? I miss you. Let me know when you find the next Texaco because I might miss it! We need to hit the Amelia Drive-In again soon! Let's party! How about a game for anchorman? Love Jaime.

3rd Floor Wheeler — Have a great summer and good luck on exams. — The R.A.'s.

Valery — I am awaiting our meeting in the Housing Office with BREATHLESS ANTICIPATION, you Sexy Ukranian Studmuffin!! All my lust, Your Healthy, Muscular, Sensitive Olga

Cory — Hope you have a super summer. My M.I.S. buddy. We better get an "A" on this paper! — Curtis

To Corey Edwards — You put up a good race for Judicial Board. Even though you didn't win, you'll always have our vote! — 3rd floor Frazer

Polly WOG — Congrats on your new job — You will do wonderful! Can't wait to hear you sing at graduation — Ha! Ha! Should be crazy. — Love, What u smoking in there?

Bryce Davis — Friday at 9 a.m. You were seen doing the walk of shame. Didi Miss the slumber party? — Considered A Friend

Jill — You will never be "From a distance" in my heart. Thanks for all your help. — Fran

Loneranger — Roses are red, Violets are blue, You hurt your foot again. — Anonymous

Joey – I'm going to miss you. Love Vic

To the Sisters of Zeta – With graduation getting close, I wanted to let you all know how much you mean to me. You all are the best group of friends I could have asked for to spend my college years with. You've always been there for me no matter what, and have had an important and lasting impact on my life. I have so many wonderful memories of Zeta that I will cherish for a lifetime. I love you all and will miss you! Keep Zeta #1! Love Jaime

Lisa T. – Thanks for the support pledge sis! I love ya!! Looking forward to our graduation party! Love Jaime

Jaime S. — D.T.'s is looking for you. They need you to clean up the mess you made by the Railroad Tracks. — Thank you.

Jenny Sue — Hey god-mom! You are the coolest! Have a great week. — ΣK love and mine, Jen

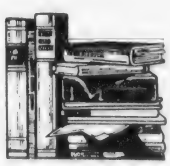
Amy — Thanks for everything. You're the greatest big sis ever. I can't wait for my weekend in Suffolk next month. I love you. — ΣK Love and mine, Jen

To Our G.I. Guy — You did a great job tapping. Hope we can do it again and always look up. — From Your G.I. Girls

Jaime S. — After this weekend, I can't wait to play "I never". — Love, J. Holmes

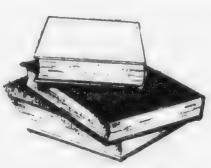
Jaime S. — Thursday night was awesome. I'm sure I'll find the key to the handcuffs soon ... — Love, Your Pen Pal

Gilda Potry — Couldn't have made it without you being there for me — Thanks. Thank goodness you are graduating — You need out of here. — Love Gingah Jar



Now accepting entries from anyone interested in submitting poetry, art, or fiction for the upcoming Guyer for the 1991/1992 school year. Please send your submissions to Andrea Sawyer Box 925 or Dr. Challender Dept. of English. Will be accepting throughout the summer. Careful consideration given to each entry.

To All Alpha Gam Seniors — Congratulations! You guys have done it. — You're out of here! Good luck in your futures and don't forget your sisters that are still here! We love you all! — Alpha Gam Love



Susan, Killee, Belinda, Milli — Congrats!! Good luck!!

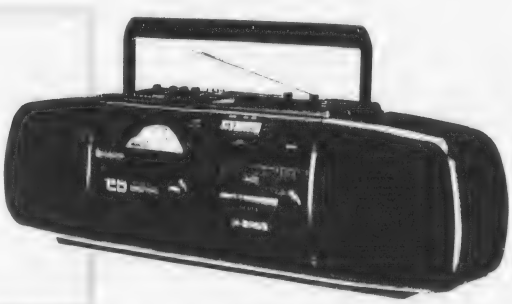
Millie and Dut, you only have 10 more days to fill your quota! Hope it's with the Epitamy, or The God! What will you do on Thursdays over the Summer?

–Later, Anne.

Sell Book$ for Ca$h

THE LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE
PHONE 395-2084

BUYBACK HOURS.....



Thursday And Friday, May 2 And 3, 9 AM - 5 PM
Saturday, May 4, 9 AM - 1 PM
Monday-Wednesday, May 6-8, 9 AM - 5 PM

Drawing For Prizes!

To be held Wednesday, May 8 at 12:00 p.m. (Longwood Students only eligible to win.)

GRAND PRIZE:
Sharp Portable Stereo Radio, Cassette Recorder with Compact disk player.

DAILY PRIZE:
Longwood College T-Shirt.

THE LONGWOOD BOOKSTORE WOULD LIKE TO THANK ALL THEIR CUSTOMERS FOR THEIR PATRONAGE OF THE PAST YEAR!!

VOL. 71, NO. 1

SEPTEMBER 16, 1991

THE ROTUNDA

LONGWOOD COLLEGE

FARMVILLE, VIRGINIA

Seniors Capped At Convocation

Dancy Delievered Powerful Message

By SHERRY GATEWOOD
Features Editor

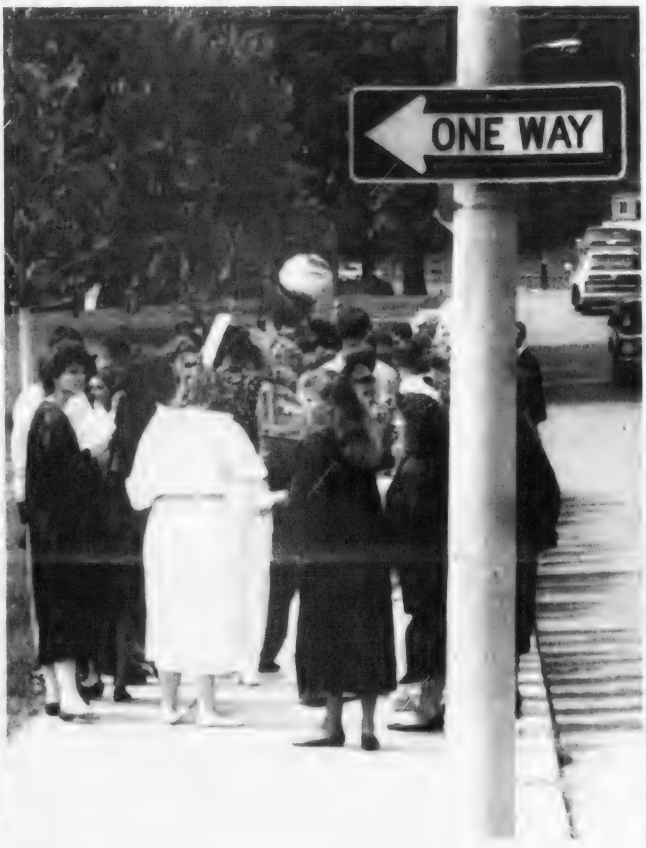
The moment these seniors had been anticipating for three years had finally arrived. It marked the official beginning of their final year at Longwood and included the Senior Capping ceremony: Convocation.

For this event, each senior chooses a little brother or sister to make them a tassel which represents their life at Longwood. Often included on the tassels are photos of embarrassing moments and reminders of other "accomplishments."

This year's guest speaker, John Dancy, is the Chief Diplomatic Correspondent for NBC News. He often travels with Secretary of State, James Baker, and has received four Emmys for journalistic excellence.

Dancy's speech, "I Am Only One, But Still I Am One," emphasized that each person can make a difference in the world.

In America, "we have a life of wealth and ease," he remarks, which we should share with those who are less fortunate than us. In comparison to the poverty, disease, and hunger that many other nations suffer from, ours is a fantasy world; "I know these things are true, I have seen them," he said.



Dancy praised the ending of the cold war and the steps toward freedom that many countries have taken. He specifically remarked upon the 1989 Czechoslovakian fight for freedom in Prague where citizens were armed with "candles, flags, and courage."

As the "old order changes, a new world emerges," and Dancy demanded that this year's seniors look past the greed and avarice that characterized the 1980's. He recommends getting involved in a public service organization, such as the Peace Corps.

Dancy concluded with an impassioned call to action, "I challenge you to live, seize the day ... in the end, die of having lived, nobody can ask for anything more."

Martha High, the Rector of the Board of Visitors advised the senior class; "don't ever rest on your accomplishments." She believes that students are in college to lay the groundwork for a career, but more importantly to "be able to think clear, logically, and well" in the years ahead."

On a more academic note, Dr. Dorrill commented on the gifts that Longwood's professors give to the student body; "an exceptional grasp" of knowledge in their respective fields, and the "gift of imparting what they know and love at Longwood."

Seniors are headed in the right direction.

PHOTO CREDIT: Judi Weller

Renovations Planned For Lancaster

By DINA M. DAWSON
News Staff

Lancaster, one of Longwood's oldest buildings, certainly has great things in store for itself in the future. The building, completed in 1938 and renovated in 1961, recently became a target for attention last March after its contents were transferred to the newly constructed library. According to Brenda Atkins, assistant to the vice president of Business Affairs, the future renovation of Lancaster is necessary, as momentarily the building can not be "used for anything" because of its room layout and structure. Currently there are approximately one billion dollars of renovations and new projects needing completion at all institutions of higher education across the state of Virginia. The one billion dollars needed to complete such renovations and projects has been divided into three allotments of three hundred million dollars each, with Longwood's renovation of Lancaster being funded by the first allotment. Ms. Atkins feels that the planned renovation of Lancaster is a realistic possibility, partially because Longwood has had no capital funding for projects for the past four years. The Longwood College Board of Visitors approved the master plan for the renovation of Lancaster in July and the next step involves approval by the General Assembly. If the General Assembly approves the renovation plans, it will then be up to the voters of the Commonwealth of Virginia to make the final decision by ballot voting in November of 1992. If Lancaster's planned renovations make it past the voters the renovations, which will cost approximately two million dollars, would start in 1993 and require 18 months to complete the job. Ms. Atkins feels the hardest part for the renovaton of Lancastr is not making it past the General Assembly but surviving the voters at the polls.

Assuming all goes well regarding the approval of the Lancaster renovation, which is included in a General Obligation Bond Package for Higher Education, the building itself will face many new changes. On the ground level students will find a potpourri of offices whose main goals center around the students themselves. For example, the Vice President of Student Affairs, the Dean of Students, Housing, Financial Aid, Career Planning and Placement, Counseling Services, and Student Development. In addition, a new entrance will be added to the ground level allowing admission to the building from the mall area. The next two floors of Lancaster would be given to the fucation

(continued on pg. 7)

John Dos Passos Prize To Be Awarded

LARRY WOIWODE, author of THE NEUMILLER STORIES and four other novels.

By BETTY BRYANT
To The Rotunda

Larry Woiwode, author of five novels all included in 'Best Books of the Year' by The New York Times, will receive Longwood College's 11th John Dos Passos Prize for Literature.

Woiwode, who lives on a sheep and quarter horse ranch in western North Dakota, will come to Longwood on Friday, Sept. 20, to receive the prize and to read from his work. The ceremonies begin at 8 p.m. in Wygal Auditorium and are open to the public.

In addition to his critically acclaimed novels, Woiwode is the author of a book of poetry and more than 40 short stories published in this country and abroad. His next novel, Indian Affairs, will be published in the spring of 1992.

The John Dos Passos prize, established at Longwood in 1980, commemorates one of the greatest of 20th-century American authors. Dos Passos lived in Virginia from 1949 until his death in 1970.

The prize, including a cash award and a medal, is given to writers who have a substantial body of significant publication and whose work demonstrates one or more of the following characteristics — an intense and original exploration of specifically American themes, an experimental quality, and a wide range of literary forms.

Jurors who selected Woiwode to receive the John Dos Passos Prize are Dr. Craig Challender, associate professor of English at Longwood and chair of the prize committee; Dr. Peter Makuck, professor of English and creative writing at East Carolina University and editor of Tar River Poetry; and Paule Marshall, a novelist who teaches at Virginia Commonwealth University and recipient of the 1989 Dos Passos Prize.

Woiwode's first novel, What I'm going To Do, I Think, was published in 1969 when the author was 28 years old. It deals with a newlywed couple and their "confrontation" with life, nature, and each other in an isolated cabin on the northern shore of Lake Michigan.

The book won a William Faulkner Award as the best first novel of the year and a notable book award from the American Library Association. It was translated into eight languages and has been dramatized on national television in Czechoslovakia.

Three subsequent novels — Beyond the Bedroom Wall, Born Brothers, and The Neumiller Stories — chronicle the history of the Neumiller family, from the German patriarch's arrival in North Dakota in 1881 through generations, migrations, and diverse careers to the present time.

The first of these Neumiller novels has an unusual family album structure. Woiwode created letters, diary entries, work records, and descriptions of family photos and incorporated them into a literary scrapbook much of it based on memories of his own childhood and family connections in a predominantly German community in North Dakota where five generations of his family have lived.

Poppa John, a shorter novel published in 1981, is set in New York City. It deals with an actor,

(continued on pg. 6)

COMMENTARY

Editorial

It has been awhile since the last Rotunda and while the paper may look the same an evolution has begun. The staff this year is working to clean up the paper and to make the paper the best that it can possibly be. This all sounds very good now, but we are serious. Steps have already been taken towards improving the paper in several areas.

First, there was a four-hour journalism seminar held for the Rotunda staff on August 23. This is a step above last year's paper, in that the people who worked on the paper, for the most part, had no training. Second, since the seminar, there have been weekly staff meetings every Wednesday night while last year there were maybe two or three meetings during the entire year. Third, and perhaps this only a triviality, but all articles submitted to the paper must be typewritten. There are envelopes on the front of the Rotunda office door for all of the different types of articles submitted, i.e. features, news, sports, etc. Last year, many articles were handwritten on notebook paper and shoved under the office door. Fourth, Ms. Amie Oliver, Assistant Professor of Art, has given her students the assignment of designing a new banner for the Rotunda. Fifth, all Rotunda staffers have been assigned a different "beat," or area of the school which they are to cover weekly for the paper. Sixth, Mr. William C. Woods, Assistant Professor of Journalism, is advising the paper this year. In addition to the help he has provided there, his journalism 210 class has become a part of the staff. Finally, the Rotunda is grateful to Ms. Brenda Atkins, Assistant to the Vice-President for Business and Legislative Affairs and Special Assistant to the President for Legislative Relations, for her continued help on the business side of the paper.

Each of these factors is a step, however small, towards a better paper. The Rotunda staff is working towards tightening up the paper, cleaning it up in every aspect. Perhaps these changes will not be evident at first, but in the weeks to come they will become more evident.

Another of the paper's goals this year is to achieve greater communication with the school community. Please feel free to call us at 2120 or to write to us at Box 1133 with your comments. We can only do so much by ourselves; we need your input.

That will do it for now. We've got a paper to put to bed. Good luck this year and welcome back to Longwood.

Christopher S. Jones
Editor

Letters To The Editor

Editor, The Rotunda,

In response to last semester's letters specifying the need for a gay and lesbian support group, we have established UNITY. UNITY is the gay/lesbian/bisexual alliance for the Longwood and Hampden-Sydney college communities.

It is UNITY's purpose to heighten public awareness to life issues and concerns of gays, lesbians, and bisexuals; to promote understanding among the heterosexuals with whom we share our lives; and to educate both campuses regarding the prejudices that are the result of homophobic behavior.

Through these efforts it is hoped that the campuses will provide a safe and supportive environment in which we can meet the challenges for our growth.

For more information about UNITY, please call 395-2552. Confidentiality is respected.

Sincerely,
UNITY

Editor, The Rotunda!

Welcome back everyone! Are you looking for an opportunity to get involved and make a real difference? Here's how! R.E.A.C.H. (Responsible Efforts Achieving Community Help) is a community service organization at Longwood that dedicates time towards helping fellow students and town residents better their lives and their community.

We are off to a great start; especially with our new officers! They are: Dana Council, president; Jennifer McDonald, vice president; Jennifer Buckley, secretary; Stephanie Harbourt, treasurer.

If you are interested in knowing more about R.E.A.C.H., you are welcome to come to our Open House/Interest meeting on Tuesday, September 17 at 7 p.m. in Conference Room II. We are looking forward to new members and new ideas! See you there!

Dana Council
President, R.E.A.C.H.

Real Diversity

By DAVID BERNSTEIN

"Diversity" is the new shibboleth of the self-appointed campus race monitors. They demand "diversity" of almost every kind — race, gender, sexual orientation, even physical ability. What these folks won't countenance, however, is diverse opinions.

As a black college student at the University of Maryland I learned this truth the hard way. As a black conservative, I was ostracized by the very people who claimed to value difference because I was, well, different. They didn't mind that I was black, of course, but College Park's politically correct student leadership seemed to prefer ideological lockstep within their "diverse" student body.

Fortunately, I was never subjected to the kind of overt intolerance that many black conservatives endure, but there was always a palpable disdain for me and my views among other minority students. One black sophomore, for example, explained to me that "white people are puttin' those ideas in your head." Another of my peers wrote in the student newspaper that black conservatives must be "neutralized" (whatever that means). Still another person once complained, "you just don't understand." It came as no surprise, then and when the president of Maryland's Black Student Union refused to work with me and the other black College Republican when we wanted to bring conservative black speakers to campus.

Like many black college students, I found the student leadership's attempts to insulate me from diverse opinions condescending and antithetical to the idea of a university education. Black collegians should learn to appreciate the rich heritage of intellectual debate and dissent that has defined the black American experience. Men like W.E.B. Du Bois, Frederick Douglass, Booker T. Washington, Malcom X, and Martin Luther King, Jr., did not share a single set of ideas. Each came to this own conclusions through study and honest reflection. If any of us hope to understand the "black thing" referred to by those popular T-shirts, we must try a little study and reflection of our own.

In 1905, W.E.B. Du Bois scolded a young black girl when he explained that, "there are, in the U.S. today, tens of thousands of colored girls who would be happy beyond measure to have the chance of educating themselves that you're neglecting." He further warned her that, "ignorance is a cure for nothing. every time a colored person neglects an opportunity, it makes it more difficult for others of the race to get such an opportunity. Do you want to cut off the chances of the boys and girls of tomorrow?"

The campus diversity mongers should ponder Du Bois' words. Each time we refuse to consider diverse opinions, we are "neglecting an opportunity" to learn. Each time a minority student leader demands "solidarity" from his peers he makes it more difficult for others of the race to get such an opportunity. And ignoring or extinguishing "western culture" in the curriculum is truly a cure for nothing.

Perhaps more important, this desire for intellectual unanimity and separation threatens to undermine more than 25 years of civil rights gains. Black Americans are closer than ever to being treated by white society simply as individuals, but now many minorities themselves assert that race is the defining characteristic of every person.

How quickly we forget that this was the very attitude that made slavery possible, that has kept apartheid alive in South Africa, and that delivered Jews in to the Holocaust. I, for one, would rather the average American did not believe that all blacks act a particular way because they are black!

Similarly, I would rather not toss aside many of the great works of science, philosophy, and literature just because their authors were white. Black collegians can understand and appreciate James Madison, John Milton, and Charles Darwin — just to mention a few examples — as well as any white student. To suggest otherwise is racism in its pristine form.

My college experience has not left me as discouraged as it might have because I believe there has been a quiet reawakening of independence among most young minorities. During the past year I have met several other young college graduates who agree that we need more genuine diversity-diversity of thought. Together we have begun a magazine, appropriately entitled Diversity, which will explore issues of race and culture free from pressures to conform to the new, self-imposed stereotype. I hope this modest effort will spark other young minorities to break free from the orthodoxy as well.

David Bernstein is the editor of Diversity magazine. Subscriptions to Diversity are available free of charge to all college students, professors, and administrators by calling (800) 225-2862.

The Political Corner

with Keith Johnson

Have you ever heard of Subic Bay? Maybe you have heard of it and its friend Clark Air Force Base. If you haven't then let me shed some light on the subject for you. Located in the Philippines there is a deep water port that is well sheltered and has the enormous task of helping to maintain the 180-vessel U.S. Pacific fleet. It is also home to many U.S. personnel and has been maintained for many years by skilled, very poorly paid Filipinos. The bases have not been a popular subject with many Filipinos simply because many of them have felt that the presence of these bases has had a negative impact on their political sovereignty. Currently the U.S. plans to abandon Clark Air Force Base and is hoping to renew its Subic Bay Naval Base Agreement for another decade with $203 million in annual aid.

This proposal has not been met with enthusiasm by the 23-member Senate which voted only a few short days ago in a closed session 12-11 in opposition. Time is running out for both the U.S. and the Filipinos since the lease for both of these facilities will expire September 16, 1991. Both Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney and President Bush have made it clear that there will be no other compromises and if the Filipinos still refuse the U.S. will leave. The big political question now is what will the U.S. do if the Filipinos refuse, and are the bases really necessary now that the Soviet Union is no longer considered a major threat. Many people I have discussed the subject with feel that the actions of the Filipinos are a good sign and that a new era of peace and tranquility are coming. Many feel we would not need these facilities since several other U.S. military bases could be upgraded to compensate for the absence of Clark and Subir. Those bases include: Guam, Singapore, Okinawa and Hawaii thus maintaining a constant presence in the Pacific. It also has been argued that in the future, relations with the Philippines may be increased due to the lack of these two areas of controversy. Communists guerrillas have offered the government of the Philippines a cease-fire in their 22 year old insurrection if the base agreement is rejected. Whatever does happen it is a distinct possibility that the deletion of these two bases may help calm some of the political turmoil that has taken place in the Philippines throughout the recent past. Only time will tell...

Keith Johnson is a senior political science major at Longwood.

OKTOBERFEST
Can You Feel The Spirit?

ROTUNDA

Box 1133
Longwood College
Farmville, Va. 23901

THE STAFF:

Executive Editor Bradley L. Owen
Editor Christopher Jones
Features Editor Sherry Gatewood
Asst. Features Editor Ann Renee Heim
Sports Editor Charlie Fultz
Photography Editor Judi Weller
Layout Design David Shoemaker
Business Manager Anita Owens
Faculty Advisor William C. Woods

ROTUNDA POLICY

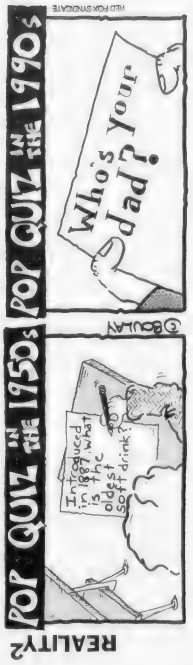
The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed or printed neatly. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is noon Thursday prior to the Monday publication date and these should be placed in the envelopes inside the Publication offices door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by 5 p.m. Sunday. All submissions become the property of The Rotunda.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College. The Rotunda is an Associated Collegiate Press award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

COMICS



We want our towels back!!

THE NAVY NUCLEAR TEAM

Get your start in nuclear power where nuclear power got started. In the U.S. Navy. The Navy operates more than half of all the nuclear reactors in the United States. Being on the Navy Nuclear Team puts you in an elite group. If you qualify, you can start in the Navy Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate Program and earn up to $30,000 before you graduate. The Navy will pay you as much as $1,300 a month plus bonuses, and you'll never have to attend a drill or even put a uniform on until after graduation.

To qualify you must meet these requirements:

- Have completed sophomore year, majoring in chemistry, science or math.
- Have a minimum 3.0 GPA.
- Have completed a mathematics sequence through integral calculus.
- Have completed one year of calculus-based physics.
- Meet the Navy's physical standards.
- Be no more than 26 ½ years old at the time of commissioning.
- Be a United States citizen.

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL

Lt. Tom Tshontikidis at 1-800-533-1657

NAVY OFFICER You and the Navy. Full Speed Ahead.

FREE

CAMPUS TRIAL PAK™

FILLED WITH VALUABLE PRODUCTS* AND OFFERS FROM:

Alka®, American Collegiate, American Express®, AT&T, Cinnamon Mini Buns® Cereal, Corn Nuts®, Exclamation Cologne, Dentyne®, Edge, Newsweek, Nutrigrain® Cereal Bar, Old Spice® Cologne, Pantene® Hair Care Products, Sea Breeze® Skin Care Products, Speed Stick®, Tylenol®, Woolite® and more!

ONE PER STUDENT

*NOT EVERY PRODUCT AVAILABLE IN ALL PACKS

AVAILABLE AT:

LONGWOOD BOOKSTORE

Thursday, September 19th

(while quantities last)

©copyright 1991 MarketSource Corporation

FEATURES

Get Dressed

By TAMMI TITCOMB

In today's society of high fashion and vogue, Longwood students have proven that they too can be stylish, yet casual and comfortable.

Unisex clothing has made its mark on campus as evidenced by the many students seen wearing Umbros, boxers, and cut-off jeans. Also popular among both sexes are sweats, Rastafari belts, rugbies and printed T-shirts. The ever popular wrinkled, rumpled look is still a Longwood favorite, usually seen on those students rushing to an 8:30 a.m. class. (These are usually the same students who follow the philosophy of No stink + No gross stain = Wearable.)

The 70's look is reappearing in the fashion industry, and Longwood students are joining in with the rest of the world in wearing the styles popular during that time. Long flowing skirts are donned by girls and tie-dyes (a 60's flashback) are usually worn with them. Birkenstock sandals, or "Jesus shoes", are a must to achieve the full 70's look. However, bell bottoms have yet to be spotted on campus.

From oversized shirts to form fitting tops, Longwood females have shown their preference for versatile clothing. Rayon, silk and spandex clothes seem to rate extremely high with the girls on campus. Diversity is the key, and college girls have shown that they all look good, whether in their short skirts, sorority jumpers, Limited shirts or faded blue jeans.

Ask any girl, bangle bracelets and dangle earrings are definitely hot! Accessories are an important part to any outfit, and though gold is still the top choice, silver has been seen sparkling more and more on campus.

Excuse me, are those Bugle Boy jeans you're wearing? Jeans are still every Longwood guys preference and according to one, Bugle Boys are the jeans to wear! It is not uncommon to see college boys in loose, oversized shirts, loud ties, Dockers and loafers. Baseball caps seem to top off any outfit. One Longwood male student said anything casual is a hit with the guys, especially if it is a bright color. Also popular on campus are Bass Bucks, Duckhead shorts and Floho sandals.

Longwood students come from all parts of Virginia and throughout the country bringing with them unique differences in style, thus making our school community a melting pot of fashion.

New Releases MOVIES

CHILD'S PLAY 3

The doll with the soul of a mass murderer is back in action, this time at a military school where his initial young victim, Andy (Justin Whalin) is a student. Some special effects are impressive. But the film has traded its original dark humor for a mean-spirited tone. Here, the vicious toy dispatches victims with an explosion, strangulation and crushing. Brad Dourif supplies the doll's voice. Perrey Reeves and Jeremy Sylvers co-star. (R) FAIR HORROR DIR-Jack Bender LEAD-Justin Whalin RT-90 mins. (Profanity)

MY FATHER'S GLORY

Charming childhood memoir based on the autobiographical recollections of French author Marcel Pagnol. Director Yves Robert deftly captures the turn-of-the-century atmosphere of the French countryside. Although the chain of events is not exciting, the film brings out the warm emotions of the close family headed by a stalwart schoolteacher father (Philippe Caubere). Julien Ciamaca is fine as the young son. The story is continued in the companion film "My Mother's Castle." In French. English titles. (G) GOOD AUTOBIOGRAPHICAL DRAMA DIR-Yves Robert LEAD-Philippe Caubere RT-110 mins.

MY MOTHER'S CASTLE

More enchanted moments from the French countryside in this continuation of Marcel Pagnol's remembrances begun with "My Father's Glory." The young son's wise and loving mother (Nathalie Roussel) now takes center stage. And the boy meets an overbearing young love interest (Joris Molinas). Director Yves Robert keeps the stream of events flowing at full throttle. Julien Ciamaca again plays the pre-teen lad with remarkable skill. In French. English titles. (PG) GOOD AUTOBIOGRAPHICAL DRAMA DIR-Yves Robert LEAD-Nathalie Roussel RT-98 mins.

THE POPE MUST DIE

Holy satire! This breezy send-up of the Catholic church hits the bull's eye. Rotund comic Robbie Coltrane plays a naive, guitar-strumming priest who is elected pontiff because of a clerical error. When installed in the Vatican, this overwhelmed pope uncovers mob corruption, shakes up the Vatican bank's "money changers" and produces laughter galore with his audacious behavior. Special blessings on Alex Rocco and Herbert Lom for fine supporting roles. A controversial yet thought-provoking farce. (R) GOOD COMEDY DIR-Peter Richardson LEAD-Robbie Coltrane RT-87 mins. (Profanity, brief nudity)

Sorority Rush Explained

By JOE HARPER
News Staff

One week ago today, sixty-eight young ladies' dreams came true. That was the number of women who accepted bids from sororities within 24 hours of having received them, according to Steven Dealph, Greek Affairs Advisor for Longwood. Dealph added that for the 145 ladies expressing interest in rush, only 97 bids were available. He hopes that these ladies "will stay interested in the spring, when more women can go through."

Rush for sororities this fall was the least structured of any fall rush to date. Dealph cites several reasons for the disappearance of Walk in the fall. First, in the fall, each sorority has a ceiling of 55 members, leaving gaps between the number of bids that individual sororities can give, while during Spring Rush, a quota is set, the same for each sorority, which streamlines rush tremendously. Secondly, an unstructured Fall Rush adds emphasis to Spring Rush because more women will be eligible, for two reasons: Second semester freshmen, the women who did not receive bids this semester, due to sororities reaching their ceiling, become eligible. In the spring, membership can exceed fifty-five. Third, Walk will be replaced by a "Pledge Presentation Banquet" during which pledges of sororities and fraternities alike will present their new members to the Greek Community.

The Pledge Presentation Banquet will be held on Tuesday, October 8, 1991. The Order of Omega tapping ceremony will be held on the same night. Applications are available from Chapter Presidents and the Greek Affairs Office.

Chamber Series Reopens

By JENNY TOLLEY

The 1991-92 Chamber Music Series will feature the Roxbury Chamber Players in six concerts, scheduled from September to April. These programs will be presented in Wygal Recital Hall on selected Tuesday evenings. The concerts will begin at 8 p.m. and are open to the public, free of charge.

The first concert was held on September 3, 1991. It featured a Mozart flute quartet and a Smetana string quartet ("From My Life"). The concert also highlighted two works commissioned by the Roxbury Chamber Players from Virginia composer, Judith Shatin.

The next concert is scheduled for September 24. David Niethamer, artistic director of the Roxbury Chamber Players and a prominent clarinetist for the Richmond Symphony and Sinfonia, will be spotlighted in this program. George Manahan, pianist and musical director/conductor of the Richmond Symphony and Sinfonia, will be a special guest. This program will include works by Brahms, Debussy, Leonard Berstein, and Joan Tower.

Members of the Roxbury Chamber Players are: David Niethamer, clarinet; Patricia Werrell, flute; Helen Coulson, violin; Bruno Nasta, violin; Maura Eileen Riffe, viola; and William Comita, cello. The ensemble formed in 1982 and receives funding from both the National Endowment for the Arts and the Virginia Commission for the Arts.

The ensemble's repertoire includes both masterpieces from the past and works by living American composers. They have commissioned and performed 10 new works and several of the composers have assisted the Players in preparing the new works for performance. For more information about the Chamber Music Series, please call 395-2499 or 395-2503.

Library Dedicated

By JENNIFER WYATT
Staff Reporter

Before a standing ovation, Martha H. LeSturgeon, former director of the Library, was presented with Longwood College's first distinguished Service Award by Martha High of the Board of Visitors as Rebecca Laine gave her roses representing each member of the library staff. Mrs. LeSturgeon had been a member of the library staff since 1948 just after she graduated from Longwood College. She has given numerous amounts of services and contributions to the college ever since her first entrance here.

On Thursday, September 5, Dr. William F. Dorrill, president of Longwood College, welcomed everyone to the Library Dedication Service after thanking the Roxbury Chamber Players for their prelude to the ceremony. He added to his opening of the dedication by giving facts as to why books and the library are important to us. Two of these facts were that books are the gates to pleasure challenging us to use our minds, and "The library is a place where the world enters from the outside to learn." An invocation by Reverend Paul F. Spraggs from Mercy Seat Baptist Church followed the welcoming of guests.

Martha High presented the new Longwood Library saying, "The new library resembles educational growth in Virginia. It represents Longwood's need and confidence for the future." The library has three times more reader space, two times more study space than the Lancaster Library had, and six miles of shelving Ms. High said, "The new library shrinks the world around us, but it expands Longwood's horizons."

Rebecca Laine, acting director of the library who has been a member since 1970, spoke in perspective of the library staff. She gave a summary of the history of the Lancaster Library and the reasons why a new library had to be built. She brought up the fact that, in the beginning, Lancaster was large, full of furniture, and had many casual areas. As the need for new books and library materials increased, the furniture was removed and the space in the library decreased. She apologized for the inconveniences the old library created. There were no facilities for bibliographical instruction or spaces available for the staff and users of the library. Materials were displaced, and the library was too far away from the high rises. "The new library makes the identity of the college stand out in its setting."

Dr. Eleanor Bobbitt, the chairman of the College Council said, "The new library is more than a building, but a place where the pulse of learning beats around campus." She also proclaimed that the library belongs in the center of the campus because it is the center of learning. It's the key to the door of the future, and it's important for us to see the academic excellence that comes out of our experiences in research and reading.

Shannon Gardner, president of the Student Government Association, thanked everyone for their contributions to the new library and confirmed on how much it was being used by the faculty and staff.

The mayor of Farmville, J. David Crute, commented on the accomplishments of Longwood College since 1839. One of its main accomplishments was the building of the Lancaster Library in 1939. He humored everyone in the audience with the fact that the clock on the library was used by parents to make sure their children were home by curfew. He was very proud to say that, "The new library welcomes us to the 20th century.

Dr. Dorrill gave special recognition to many people for their contributions and support to the college. Among these people were Dr. Greenwood, Dr. Healy, Senator Howard P. Anderson, Delegate Abbitt, former Delegate Frank Slater and Hunter Andrews. He also thanked the Prince Edward County Board of Supervisors, the Farmville Town Council, and the Board of Visitors.

The dedication was closed with a benediction by Reverend W. Allen Breckenridge, the Episcopal campus minister. A reception followed the ceremony in the library atrium.

All contributions will be placed in the Library Endowment Fund. The money received in the fund will go toward repair and replacement of current holdings, acquisitions, archival operations, and general operating support.

ZTA Chooses New Advisors

By JEN DOOLEY
To The Rotunda

The sisters of the Zeta Tau chapter of Alpha Sigma Tau are proud to announce their new advisor team, Niki Fallis and Jayne Fanshaw.

Miss Fallis is an alumna Alpha Tau from Longwood and is currently the director of the Career Planning and Placement Center. Ms. Fanshaw, who is the executive secretary of Continuing Studies, will be initiated into the sorority this semester after completing a pledge period.

The sisterhood is very excited about renewing ties with a distinguished alumna as well as welcoming an important new member into our family. We look forward to a successful and eventful year.

CANDID CAMPUS

By LISA EDMONDS
Staff Reporter

Question: In light of the absence of automated sprinkler systems in most of the residence halls, and the fire in Curry last spring, how safe do you feel in your dorm? What do you think the school should do about this situation?

"I feel safe. I think we need sprinkler systems to protect our things in case of a fire, but I think more emphasis should be put on having fire drills be taken more seriously and trying to eliminate random prank drills."

Joanne Bear
Psy./Spec. Ed. Major
Junior

"I do not feel completely safe in Curry 1000. Yes, Longwood should get sprinkler systems, because it would give the students more time to get out of the buildings safely during a fire. Unfortunately, there are no fire ladders that go to the 10th floor of the high rises."

Chris Stuart
Marketing & Management Major
Junior

"I feel very safe. I only live on second floor (Cox) so I would go out the side window to first floor platform. I do not think sprinkler systems in the third floor or fourth floor dorms, but definitely in Curry and Frazer."

Ramona C. Biller
Physical Education Major
Senior

"I do not feel safe. The school should consider putting fire extinguisher in the dorm rooms, instead of sprinklers, or at least adding more fire extinguishers on the hall."

Jennifer Kujat
Elementary Education Major
Junior

"I feel safe in the dorm, however I feel that they need to make modification to the current fire alarm system. Yes, we should have sprinkler systems because of the length of time it takes for the Farmville Fire Department to respond (referring to the Curry fire last year) and because of the large amount of money it will cost the college and students if a building is destroyed."

Andy Hughes
MIS Major
Senior

"I feel pretty safe because I'm only one floor up and if I had to I could jump. I really think that they should install sprinkler system in all of the buildings on campus."

John Nance
History Major
Sophomore

Lancer To Rock

By LAURIE MYERS
Features Staff

On September 19, The Connells will be appearing in Lancer Gym at 8 p.m.

The Connells are based out of Raleigh, North Carolina. Although their music is unique, The Connells have been classified by record stores and radio stations as progressive rock.

The Connells consist of five members including Mike Connell, David Connell, Doug MacMillan, Peele Wimberly, and George Huntley. The band began playing in 1984.

Described as "one of the south's favorite bands," The Connells have released four albums in the last six years. Their first album, Darker Days, was released in the United Kingdom and then later in the U.S.

Since Darker Days, The Connells have released Boylan Heights, Fun & Games, and most recently, One Simple Word.

The Connells have been touring sporadically since the release of One Simple Word in the fall of 1990. On this tour, the band has covered most of the east coast, the midwest, and parts of Canada.

On July 4 of this year, The Connells kicked off the opening of the Walnut Creek Amphitheater in their hometown of Raleigh. They played to a sold out crowd.

Aside from attracting a college following, The Connells have received praise from Rolling Stone magazine, as well as Musician. The band's third album, Fun & Games, remained on Billboard's top LP chart for three months.

As a Connells fan, I first became familiar with the band after Boylan Heights was released. I was dazzled by all aspects of the band including its music, lyrics, and choice of instruments and/or synthesizers.

After Boylan Heights, The Connells released Fun & Games which did very well. On this album there were several upbeat songs such as "Sal" and Saturday Nite (USA)"; however, I will not soon forget the haunting yet peaceful sound of "Lay Me Down." The entire album is worth listening to if you haven't already.

The Connells' latest album, One Simple Word, has also been successful. In my opinion, this album is as equally enjoyable as the previous three. I was especially impressed and moved by the ballad "Waiting My Turn." Other personal favorites from this album include "Set The Stage" and "The Joke."

The Connells have been busy touring, but they are working on new material. If you are unfamiliar with The Connells, this concern will be a great introduction.

Opening for The Connells on September 19 is the up and coming band Hearsay. This band consists of five members, including female lead singer Jeny Nicholson.

Based in Washington, D.C., Hearsay has been playing for two years. Hearsay won the 1990 Washington Area Music Association new band award.

With the money won from their award, Hearsay recorded their first album Triggerfish. This album is already playing college radio and also WHFS in Washington, D.C. Triggerfish has a fresh progressive sound and Nicholson's voice is straightforward and appealing.

Hearsay can be seen frequently at The Bayou, a popular D.C. nightspot.

Tickets for The Connells can be purchased in the Student Union office in Lankford. Tickets are five dollars for students and staff and seven dollars for others. This concert is presented to you by the Longwood Student Union Board.

MISS USA GETS $200,000 ON CBS-TV

1992 MISS VIRGINIA USA

NO PERFORMING TALENT

You can win fame and fortune as Virginia's representative in the nationally televised 1992 Miss USA Pageant on CBS-TV. The search for Miss Virginia is on. State finals will be Nov. 9-10 at Norfolk's Marriott Hotel. If you are single, between the ages of 18 and UNDER 27 as of Feb. 1, 1992, you may qualify. For FREE entry information, send name, address, age & phone to: Miss Virginia USA, P.O. Box 905, Silver Spring, MD. 20910: Or Call TOLL FREE: 1-800-BEAUTYS. Entries Limited. Deadline Soon.

Longwood College Student Union Board Presents...

The Connells

With Special Guests "HEARSAY"

IN CONCERT

Thursday, September 19, 1991 At 8 P.M.

IN THE LANCER GYM ON LONGWOOD CAMPUS

TICKETS: $5.00 LONGWOOD STUDENTS, FACULTY, AND STAFF
$7.00 GENERAL ADMISSION

CALL 395-2103 FOR MORE INFORMATION

Campus Calendar

Information on events should be submitted to the Student Union Office in Lankford by the Wednesday preceding the appropriate issue of the paper

Tuesday September 17	Wednesday September 18	Thursday September 19	Friday September 20	Saturday September 21	Sunday September 22	Monday September 23
Lecture: "Education in Latin America and Economic Development" by Jose Carleton Corrales. 7:30pm Wygal Auditorium	Lecture: "The Globalization of Business and Industry" by E.B. Steffey 10:30am Jarman Auditorium	It's Time to Get Going. Graduate School Preparation 1:00 pm Seminar Room, CPPC	Movie: Mortal Thoughts 9:00 pm Gold Room	Weekend Outdoor Coed VB (4-on-4)	OKTOBERFEST is just around the corner - Can you feel the spirit?	Movie: Mortal Thoughts 9:00 pm Gold Room
3-on-3 BB official's application due before meeting.	Film: "Devi--The Goddess" 9:00pm Gold Room	Concert: The Connells with special guest Hearsay 8:00 pm Lancer Gym Tickets: $5/LC students/ faculty/staff $7/general public	Awarding of John Dos Passos Prize & Reading by Larry Wolwode, 7:30 p.m., Wygal
	3-on-3 W/M EB due before meeting	Weekend Outdoor Coed VB (4-on-4) EB due before meeting
	Birthday Dinner, Blackwell Dining Hall

Get Involved In Student Education Association

By ELLEN DARDEN
News Staff

The (SEA) Student Education Association is currently preparing for the new school year with the help of their sponsor, Dr. Carolyn Cooper. Dues for SEA are $26 for the year and include: Journals from the (VEA) Virginia Education Association, Publications from the (NEA) National Education Association, and many other benefits for students once they become teachers. Last year Longgood's (SEA) chapter had 145 members and they are hoping for more this year. There are (SEA) chapters on every campus in Virginia that have an education department. Longwood College is proud to be one of the larger memberships of the (SEA). When a student joins the Student Education Association, they are also a member of the National Education Association. The majority of the members in Longwood's (SEA) chapter are elementary education members, but they are trying to recruit many secondary education majors as well. The (SEA) looks at issues that relate to beginning teachers and also provides information to aid future teachers. Past roles that the (SEA) has played at Longwood include: participating in Civility Week activities last spring, they made banners for the individual classrooms at the Elementary School Annex in Farmville, they offered tutoring sessions by Longwood students afterschool for Prince Edward County students and have also provided numerous programs dealing with the topic of education for elementary and secondary majors.

The (SEA) officers from Longwood attended a Leader Meet Conference in Lynchburg, Virginia, on September 13-15. While at this conference, chapters from all over Virginia met to be trained for particular offices such as President and Vice-President by the Virginia Education Association.

Dr. Cooper is looking forward to a successful school year and encourages all education majors to become involved in SEA. For more information, contact Dr. Carolyn Cooper at 395-2341 or Wynne Room 105A.

CLASSIFIED

HELP WANTED

EARN FABULOUS FREE SPRING BREAK VACATION—while meeting new people and earning cash. Work at your own pace. Energetic, highly motivated outgoing individuals needed. Call Bob at Campus Holidays 1-800-627-4791 between 5 p.m. - 10 p.m. CST.

COLLEGE REP WANTED — to distribute "Student Rate" subscription cards at this campus. Good income. For information and application write to: Collegiate Marketing Services, P. O. Box 1436, Mooresville, NC 28115.

WANTED: "Coppertone Spring Break Trip" student representative to promote trips to Cancun, Nassau, Barbados, Jamaica, Daytona and Orlando. Best programs available Anywhere...earn cash, free trips, plus more. Call for more information 1-800-222-4432 (9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.).

RAISE $500...$1000...$1500
FOOL PROOF FUND RAISING
For your fraternity, sorority, team or other campus organization.
ABSOLUTELY NO INVESTMENT REQUIRED!
CALL 1-800-950-8472, ext. 50

FOR RENT

MOVIES — 99¢; VCR's, $10.45 wkly.; No membership; John's Video Ctr., 392-4106

PERSONAL

To the Doctor, Messenger, Donaldbain and Solider 3. It was the candle that made her do it.

Do something good. Feel something real.

From now on in America, any definition of a successful life must include serving others. To find out how you can help in your community call 1 (800) 677-5515.

POINTS OF LIGHT FOUNDATION

Ad Council

The Great American Deli

SOUTHGATE SHOPPING CENTER
FARMVILLE, VIRGINIA
23901
(804) 392-1804

OPEN MON THRU SATURDAY 10 AM - MIDNITE;
SUNDAY 1 PM - MIDNITE

DELIVERY MONDAY-FRIDAY 1 PM - 10 PM

MONDAYS..... DOUBLES DART TOURNAMENT
TUESDAYS .....STUDENT GROUP HOSTS
WEDNESDAYS .....SINGLES DART TOURNAMENT
THURSDAYS .....LIVE MUSIC (STUDENT GROUP HOSTS)

Best Beverage Specials In Town Every Day!

'GREAT AMERICAN DECK'
Coming Soon!

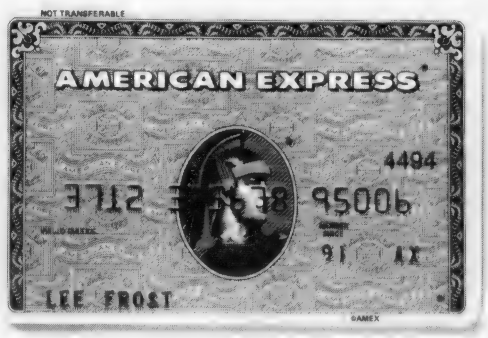
Dos Passos

(continued from pg. 1)

who portrays a Bible-quoting grandfather in a long-running television soap opera, and the trauma the actor experiences when the grandfather character "dies."

Critics have praised Wolwode for his "perfect descriptions, not a detail astray..." for "language of pure, cleanly wrought beauty," for his ability to re-create the past, and for "keenness of observation and insight into the interrelationships of time and place and character."

The author himself said, "If I were to pick out one quality to characterize my writing, it would be 'immediacy.' I like to make the reader feel tactilely if I can...and I write with a great deal of body English." Wolwode's writing career began when he was 15, with his poems appearing often in a weekly newspaper. he attended the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, while working at a television station and writing as much as possible.



In 1964, Wolwode went to New York City. His poems and stories soon began appearing regularly in The New Yorker, Harper's, Atlantic Monthly, McCall's, and others.

Wolwode was writer-in-residence at the University of Wisconsin in 1973-74, and professor and director of the writing program at the State University of New York at Binghamton from 1983 to 1988. He has presented papers, conducted workshops, and given readings at colleges, universities, and conferences throughout the U.S. and in Canada.

He received the fiction award from the American Academy and National Institute of Arts and Letters in 1980, the Cornerstone Best Book of the Year Award in 1982 for Poppa John, and several others. In 1976, the Association of American Publishers chose Beyond the Bedroom Wall as "Distinguished Book of Five Years" for presentation to the White House Library.

Previous winners of the John Dos Passos Prize, in addition to Paule Marshall, are Graham Greene, Gilbert Sorrentino, Doris Betts, Robert Stone, Russell Banks, Tom Wolfe, John Edgar Wideman, Lee Smith, and Shelby Foote.

Good news for people who shop.

Now you can use the Card for everything the Campus Bookstore sells.

Now it's easier than ever to pick up Plato, discover Proust, or even show your colors with a new campus sweatshirt. Just pay for whatever you need at the bookstore with the American Express® Card.

No American Express Card? No problem.

To become a Cardmember just complete and return one of the American Express Student Applications available at the bookstore. Once you're approved, you can enjoy added student Card privileges like discounted roundtrip airfares on Continental Airlines and great new long-distance savings with MCI.

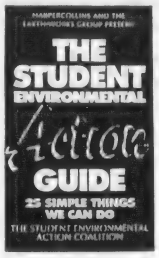
So shop your bookstore today. From classic books to classic wear, the news is ... you can use the Card for everything you buy.

Cards

Longwood College Bookstore
Ruffner Building
Store hours: Monday-Friday, 9:00 a.m -5:00 p.m.
Your Best Place to Shop!

NATIONAL NEWS

Guide For Campus Environmentalists



(CPS) — If you're interested in saving the Earth, you can start by saving your campus. So says the first environmental guidebook ever written by students for students.

"The Student Environmental Action Guide" will be published in September by the Student Environmental Action Coalition (SEAC), the largest student environmental group in the country.

The 96-page book, packed with practical "how to" information, lists of resources and tips like how to give an "eco party" (bring your own cup), draws on the research of environmentalists across the country, including members of the Natural Resources Defense Council, Greenpeace and the Environmental Defense Fund.

The pocket-size guide, printed on recycled paper, also contains stories about successful environmental efforts on the nation's campuses. For instance, students at James Madison University bought ceramic mugs to help reduce disposable waste on campus. Three-quarters of the 10,000 students purchased mugs. In another story, Mount Holyoke College students saved $4500 during an energy-saving competition between dormitories.

"Schools use large amounts of energy and generate large amounts of waste," says Chris Fox, one of SEAC's coordinators.

"The lessons we learn from making changes on campus is the first step in making other changes in the world."

The environment, according to the American Council on Education, is the number one issue among incoming college freshmen SEAC, founded in 1988, is the largest student environmental organization in the country, with members in 1500 campuses in 50 states.

The guide willbe published by Earth Works Press in Berkeley, Calif., the publishing arm of Earth Works Group, an organization of writers involved in environmental activism. Another publication by Earth Works Press, "50 Simple Things You Can Do to Save the Earth," was among 1990's top best sellers in college bookstores.

Delta Sigma Pi - Most Outstanding Chapter

Longwood College's chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, an international professional business fraternity, won several top awards at the 38th Grand Chapter Congress recently in Washington, DC.

For the fifth consecutive year, Longwood's Kappa Nu chapter was named the Most Outstanding Chapter in the South Central Region. The chapter also won the South Central Region's Community Service Award for the second year.

The South Central Region of Delta Sigma Pi includes colleges and universities in Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee.

On the national level, Longwood's chapter attained Chapter Efficiency Index Honor Roll status for the sixth consecutive year. To receive this honor, a chapter must earn 100,000 points during the academic year for their professional program, community service activities, finances, scholarship, membership, and chapter management.

This year, only 16 of 170 active Delta Sigma Pi chapters in the nation achieved Honor Roll status.

Kristine Harbour, assistant professor of accounting and adviser to Longwood's chapter, was recognized as the South Central Region's Advisor of the Year and then chosen as the National Chapter Advisor of the Year by Delta Sigma Pi's National Executive Committee.

Ms. Harbour also received the national chapter advisor award three years ago, at which time she was the first woman to be so honored.

At the Grand Chapter Congress, Ms. Harbour conducted a seminar for the Officer Training School and led the Chapter Advisors Seminar. For the past two years, she has been vice chair of the National Advisor Development Committee and is head of the committee to rewrite the national Manual for Chapter Advisors.

Tammy Warren, a business major from Falls Church, was Longwood's student delegate to the Congress.

The Kappa Nu chapter of Delta Sigma Pi has 26 student members and 11 faculty members.

Lancaster

(continued from pg. 1)

Department with the old reserve room being transformed into a community board room and the old reference room being converted into an amphitheater for classes. In addition, six new classrooms will be constructed, consisting of three general classrooms, one computer classroom, one media classroom, and a model classroom to show education majors how to construct their own classrooms in the future. The third floor would host faculty offices, including one for the Dean of The Department of Education, and another for the regional representative for the State Department of Education. The Education Department's current home, The Wynne Building, would then be taken over by the Athletic Department with renovatons planned for the future. In addition, the extra space in French, Tabb, and South Ruffer will be converted from administrative offices back to residence rooms. According to Ms. Atkins, the renovations at Longwood are all necessary since the student population has grown considerably and we are "now just starting to feel the crunch."

Education Officials Crack Down On Loan Defaults

By JARET SEIBERG
CPS WashingtonCorrespondent

WASHINGTON (CPS) — Thousands of students who planned to attend classes this fall discovered that they are ineligible for federally guaranteed loans because of their schools' high default rates.

The students are the unintended victims of a new Department of Education policy aimed at reducing loan defaults that will cost taxpayers $3 billion this year. The rule bars schools with high loan default rates from the Stafford, Supplemental Loans for Students and PLUS loan programs.

"These actions are another step in the department's ongoing plan to restore integrity and public confidence in the student financial aid programs," said Michael J. Farrell, acting assistant secretary for postsecondary education.

The policy — which became law as part of the 1990 budget deficit reduction agreement — affects students at 225 institutions, most of which are for-profit trade schools.

Some of these for-profit schools have been accused of bilking the government out of millions of dollars by arranging loans for low-income students attending their institutions. According to federal officials, these students leave the schools without a usable education. Then they default on the payments because they can't earn enough to repay the loans.

The Department of Education began proceedings July 17 to bar the 225 schools from the loan programs. More than 542,000 students failed to make payments on their loans in fiscal 1989.

Institutions with default rates above 35 percent in 1987, 1988 and 1989 and those with 1989 default rates above 60 percent will be expelled from the Guaranteed Student Loan program, the biggest financer of higher education in the nation, unless they can show that the calculated default rate is inaccurate, that the school successfully serves disadvantaged students, or that the default rate had dropped substantially in 1988 and 1989.

Schools with rates above 60 percent in 1989 also may be excluded from other financial aid programs, including Pell grants. The expulsions will occur within the next several months.

Most nonprofit colleges have default rates below 5 percent.

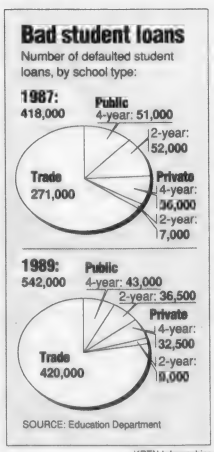
A national student lobbying group says it fears President Bush will try to expand the total expulsion from federal aid programs to students at all high default schools.

Selena Dong, legislative director of the United States Student Association, said USSA opposes the current policy and plans to fight any Bush administration plan to expand it to other aid programs.

"We agree that something has to be done about schools that are fraudulent," Dong said. "But it doesn't make any sense to punish current students for the default rates of past students."

Dong said the Bush administration has forgotten the 90 percent of students who repay their loans.

"It is true that students are being unfairly punished for something they have no control over," said Charles B. Saunders, senior vice president for governmental affairs at the American Council on Education.



Saunders said the council has always argued for a more flexible expulsion system that can target mismanaged schools.

"We have lost that battle and the department is using a simple test of default rates," he said.

Farrell has said that expulsions, combined with greater monitoring and oversight activities, are the best way to reign in the default problem.

But Dong says the default problem wouldn't exist if the department gave more grants to low-income students instead of requiring them to borrow money.

"The federal government should just accept that they have a certain level of default when they take a risk, but it's worth the risk to put a low-income student through school," Dong said.

KRTN Infographics

PRINCIPLES of SOUND RETIREMENT INVESTING

A+ AAA Aaa

Standard & Poor's

A.M. Best Co.

Moody's

BEFORE TRUSTING YOUR FUTURE TO ANY COMPANY, ASK FOR SOME LETTERS OF REFERENCE.

You put more than just your savings into a retirement company. You put in your trust and hopes for the future, too. So before you choose one, ask some questions. How stable is the company? How solid are its investments? How sound is its overall financial health?

A good place to start looking for answers is in the ratings of independent analysts. Three companies, all widely recognized resources for finding out how strong a financial services company really is, gave TIAA their top grade.

IN THE FINAL ANALYSIS, TIAA IS LETTER-PERFECT.

TIAA received A+ from A.M. Best Co., AAA from Standard & Poor's and Aaa from Moody's Investors Service. These ratings reflect TIAA's reliable claims-paying ability, exceptional financial strength, superior investment performance, and low expenses. With its guaranteed rate of return and opportunity for dividends, TIAA is one of less than ten companies, out of 2,200 nationwide, that received these highest marks.

CREF. FOUR MORE LETTERS EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW.

For further growth potential and diversification, there's the CREF variable annuity with four different investment accounts to give you the flexibility you want as you save for the future.

Together, TIAA and CREF form the nation's largest private retirement system, with over $95 billion in assets and more than 70 years of experience serving the education community. For over one million people nationwide, the only letters to remember are TIAA-CREF.

SEND NOW FOR A FREE RETIREMENT INVESTMENT KIT, including a Special Report on TIAA investments. Mail this coupon to: TIAA-CREF, Dept. QC, 730 Third Avenue, New York, NY 10017. Or call 1-800-842-2733, Ext. 8016.

THE SOUND RETIREMENT INVESTMENT KIT

Name (Please print)
Title
City State Zip Code
Institution (Full name)
Title Daytime Phone ( )
TIAA-CREF Participant Birth Social Security #
Address

CN

TIAA CREF Ensuring the future for those who shape it.

© 1991 Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association College Retirement Equities Fund.

The Fresh Alternative

COLD SUBS — HONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD

	SIX INCH	FOOT LONG
For TWICE the meat, just say "Super" ...add ...	1.00	2.00
BMT (ham, genoa salami, pepperoni, bologna)	2.99	4.29
SUBWAY CLUB (roast beef, turkey, ham)	2.99	4.49
SPICY ITALIAN (genoa salami, pepperoni)	2.79	3.89
COLD CUT COMBO (ham salami, bologna - all turkey based)	1.89	3.29
BBQ CHICKEN	3.29	4.89
TUNA	2.79	4.29
SEAFOOD & CRAB	3.49	4.99
BBQ PORK	2.79	4.29
HAM & CHEESE	2.89	4.29
ROAST BEEF	2.89	4.29
TURKEY BREAST	2.89	4.29
TURKEY & BACON DELUXE	3.29	4.89
VEGGIE	1.89	2.99

HOT SUBS — HONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD

	SIX INCH	FOOT LONG
MEATBALL (Limited Time: Special 6" $1.69)	1.99	3.49
STEAK & CHEESE (100% sirloin)	3.09	4.59
PIZZA SUB	2.99	4.29
RIB-B-Q (Our recommended choice)	3.39	5.69
Add Bacon...	.50	1.00

Free Fixin's Cheese • Onions • Lettuce • Tomatoes • Pickles • Green Peppers • Olives • Salt • Pepper • Oil • Plus On Request! Mustard • Mayonnaise • Hot Peppers • Vinegar

-COUPON-
50¢ OFF ANY 6" SUB
-OR-
$1.00 OFF ANY FOOTLONG SUB!
Good at participating stores only.!
SUBWAY
Expires 12/31/91

SUBWAY
308 S. MAIN ST.
FARMVILLE, VA.
PHONE 392-8868

SPORTS

Longwood Continues Winning Streak At Southside Classic

Led by a strong showing on defense, Longwood notched a pair of shutout victories in the 12th Southside Soccer Classic over the weekend, running its win streak to 14 straight in the event.

Ranked 20th in Division II last week, Longwood beat Catholic 1-0 Saturday and Hampden-Sydney 2-0 Sunday for a 4-1 season record.

The Lancers also beat Marymount 3-2 on the road last Wednesday, and are 2-0 in the Virginia Intercollegiate Soccer Association Eastern Division. Longwood hosts Christopher-Newport Wednesday at 3:30 in a key early season VISA Eastern Division matchup.

In other games from the Southside Classic, Hampden-Sydney beat Mount Olive 4-0 Saturday and Catholic edged the Tigers, now 3-2, dominated play in the first half which ended 0-0. Five minutes into the second period Longwood sophomore Kevin Carey rifled in a shot from about 30 yards out to put the Lancers on top 1-0. After the Tigers missed a penalty kick, Ted Doran converted a penalty shot for Longwood, sealing the issue.

Hampden-Sydney had 14 shots to Longwood's 10, but was unable to score against a defense led by all-Southside Class Trojans 2-1 in overtime Sunday.

Junior Byron Edwards scored for the Lancers on an assist from senior Mark Wolcott to provide the margin of victory over Catholic Saturday. It was Edwards' fourth goal of the season and Wolcott's third assist.

Sunday, the Lancers had a tough fight with neighboring Hampden-Sydney. The Tigers, now 3-2, dominated play in the first half which ended 0-0. Five minutes into the second period Longwood sophomore Kevin Carey rifled in a shot from about 30 yards out to put the Lancers on top 1-0. After the Tigers missed a penalty kick, Ted Doran converted a penalty shot for Longwood, sealing the issue.

sic performers Pat Temple, Jeff Chewning and Jason Casano. Temple, a senior back, was named MVP Defender for the second straight year, and all-Classic for the third year in a row. Chewning, a senior goalkeeper, lowered his goals against average to 0.86 with the two shutouts. He had 14 saves in the two games. Casano, a junior who plays back, was also a force for the Lancers.

Named to the all-Southside Classic team for Hampden-Sydney were back Dave Sommardahl, midfielder Howard Dale and Jonathan Thayer, the MVP-Forward.

Longwood, 20-4 in the Southside Classic since it began in 1980, has not lost since a 4-0 setback to Slippery Rock in the 1984 event. The Lancers are 14-0 since '84.

Bryon Edwards scores for the only goal in Longwood's 1-0 victory over Catholic University in the Southside Soccer Classic.

Lady Golfers Take Tina Barrett Tourney

Getting contributions from the entire top five, Longwood's women's golf team won the 15th Tina Barrett-Longwood Tournament Saturday and Sunday at Longwood Golf Course, shooting 310-315-625 to beat second place Methodist (635) by 10 strokes.

The 625 team score for 36 holes was the second best mark ever for a Longwood team. The school record is 608 set by the 1986 squad in the Penn State Lady Lion Tournament.

Lady Lancer 36-hole scores ranged from 154 to 161 with the whole team playing consistently both days. Senior co-captain Ami Schonauer led the way with a 75-79-154. She won a playoff for second place.

Longwood freshmen Charlaine Coetzee was fourth at 79-77-156; freshman Brenda Campbell-Harris was sixth at 76-83-159, junior Anna Radford tied for seventh at 80-80-160 and senior Sherry Evans tied for ninth at 82-79-161.

Winner of the individual race was Methodist's Allyson Greer who shot 77-72-149.

"I'm very pleased with the overall performance of the team," said Longwood coach Barbara Smith. "All five who played contributed a score (top four scores count) at least one of the two days. We played well on the back nine both days."

Also playing for Longwood as individuals were freshmen Michelle Ziats who shot 91-92-183 to finish 22nd and Stephanie Kraska 102-106-208 for 27th place. Sophomore Nikki Bone had a first round 90 before withdrawing because of illness. Coach Smith expects Bone to contribute to the team later in the season.

Longwood won't play again until the Duke University Tournament Oct. 4-6 in Durham, N.C.

Temple & Schonauer Share Player of the Week Honors

A pair of Longwood seniors, soccer player Pat Temple, and golfer Ami Schonauer sparked their teams to victory over the weekend, and have been named co-Longwood College Players of the Week for the period Sept. 8-15. Player of the Week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.

Temple, a 5-8 160-pound back, was named MVP Defender in the Southside Soccer Classic for the second year in a row, after pacing a Lancer defense which notched two shutouts over the weekend. Longwood shutout Catholic 1-0 Saturday and Hampden-Sydney 2-0 Sunday to run its win streak in the Southside event to 14-0 over the past seven years. The Lancers are 20-4 in the Classic since it began in 1980.

Also an all-Classic choice in 1989, Temple played brilliantly on defense for the Lancers both days as Longwood moved its season record to 4-1. A graduate of Millville High School, he's majoring in business marketing at Longwood.

Schonauer a co-captain for the second year, won a playoff for second place as the Lady Lancers finished first in the 15th Tina Barrett-Longwood Tournament over the weekend at Longwood Golf Course. Schonauer shot 75-79-154 to tie Methodist's Elizabeth Horton for second in the individual race. She beat Horton in a playoff to win second place outright.

Longwood, winning the tourney for the second year in a row, shot 310-315-625 to beat second place Methodist (635) by 10 strokes. Schonauer rallied on the back nine both days to post strong scores. She had a 40-35-75 Saturday as Longwood took the lead for good. Sunday she had a 43 on the front nine, but came back with a 36 for a 79 total.

Schonauer has earned National Golf Coaches Association Division II All-America honors twice and qualified for the NCAA Tournament three times. A two-time nominee for the Honda Award for golf, she had a team best stroke average of 80.7 last year. A graduate of William Penn High School, she is an elementary education major at Longwood.

AMI SCHONAUER

PAT TEMPLE

Women's Tennis Shuts Out Mary Baldwin

Longwood got its fall season in women's tennis off to a successful start Friday, blanking visiting Mary Baldwin 9-0 at the Lancer Hall Courts.

Benefitting from forfeits at number five and six singles and number three doubles, Longwood also won four singles matches and two doubles. Mary Baldwin, because of injury and illness, brought just four players to Farmville Friday.

Winners for Longwood in straight sets were Jenny Holm at No. 1, Suzie Lawman at No. 2, Melanie Saunders at No. 3 and Kimber Bear at No. 4. In doubles Holm and Lawman were winners at No. 1 and Saunders teamed with Heather Leach to take No. 2.

Longwood is scheduled to host Meredith Tuesday at 3 p.m. and Lynchburg Friday at 2:30 p.m.

Intramurals

By JOHN E. FOX

The first event of the year for Intramural and Campus Recreation was 2 on 2 Volleyball. Participation in the tournament was enormous. It started on Friday, August 30, and the tournament ended on Sunday, September 1. The final game was very close but the winners this year were Scott Glisson and Paul Parker for the men and Ana Litton and Tena Philback for the women's division.

The past weekend was also big. The tournament was co-ed softball. The turnout was so large they had to make the tournament single elimination. The tournament went smoothly and the "Turn Twos" won the tournament on Saturday. The people who were on the winning team are as follows: Mark Bibee Mark Ferguson, Brent Duffield, Leighton Carter, Steve Blood, Heather Leach, Tammi Miller, Jan Phillips, Pam Fitgerald, Anne Swartchick, Angie Sullivan, and Jerry Acheson.

The events which will be coming up are as follows:

3 on 3 Basketball M/W - Entry Blanks due: 9/17 91

Women's Flag Football - Entry Blanks due: 9/24/91

Weekend events are as follows:

Co-ed 4 on 4 Volleyball - Entry Blanks due: 9/19/91

Golf M/W - Entry Blanks due: 9/26/91

Letter From The Sports Editor

This is an open letter to the students of Longwood College. We need to open our eyes and ears to see what good things we have going for us here. Use of Iler Field, Lancer Gym, racquetball courts, weight room, and Longwood Golf Course, to name a few.

The golf course is one which I would like to address and make known to the campus a big problem that many may be unaware of or do not realize is going on. The problem is this: Longwood students have a bad reputation of going to the course and causing chaos while playing at the course. Such chaos is tearing up greens and fairways to no end and driving golf carts into anything and everything possible and not doing anything to fix what they have done. Those are just a few examples. Many more exist.

Now, you may be asking yourself, "How does Mr. Sports Editor know about this?" or "Who does he think he is telling us that such a problem exists?" Well, I have proof. I worked there this summer thru the first of September, and I saw firsthand what happens there as well as heard complaints from members of the course.

What, members of the Longwood Golf Course? Yes, Longwood has members like any other golf course across the U.S. They pay good money to play on this course. And to hear them talk about the LC students made me think.

They believe most of the students playing are hellions who do not care about anything. And to watch some of the students play golf (if you want to call it that) with reckless abandon. It bothered me to see students coming out to the course just to get drunk and rip the course to shreds. Mind you, not every student at Longwood does this. But it only takes a few to spoil it for the rest of us who enjoy playing golf for the pleasure of the game.

Bobby Baldwin and Allen Witt (and myself included) put too much time and effort in to the course to see it beat up by a few irresponsible students, and then see the college students given a stigma because of the few involved.

I hope the people who do such things realize that it ends up costing all of us because a percentage of the activity fee we pay goes to the golf course. If people keep tearing it up it will cost more to keep it in good condition.

Keep in mind that with that activity fee you can play as much golf as you would like any time you like. I do not know of a better deal than that. So remember we have something good going here with the golf course, and that maybe the next time you go and play you will remember this letter and treat the golf course accordingly.

It's the only one we have, and so let's show the responsibility that should be in all of us at this stage in our lives. We are in college now and the golf course in NOT Romper Room. It is a golf course, let's treat it that way.

Charlie Fultz
Sports Editor

Field Hockey Team Suffers Tough 2-1 Loss to SW Missouri St

The Longwood College field hockey team closed out its first week of play with a tough 2-1 loss at the hands of Southwest Missouri State in Richmond last Friday afternoon. The loss dropped coach Sandy Bridgeman's NCAA Division II squad to 0-3 after one week of intercollegiate action against Division I opponents.

The Lady Lancers had a chance to win the Southwest Missouri game, dropping a close decision after being knotted 1-1 at halftime. The Lady Bears netted a second half goal to gain the win. Longwood senior Lara Cini just missed a game-tying goal with a shot bouncing off the post.

Senior Carver Ports scored Longwood's lone goal in the contest on a penalty stroke early in the first half. Scoring goals for SWMS were Ann Wehrman and JoAnne Morgenroth. Longwood freshman goalkeeper Sara Hogan had 11 saves.

Following a season-opening 8-2 defeat to the University of Richmond last Monday, the Lady Lancers traveled to Richmond Wednesday for a night game with Virginia Commonwealth University. Playing under the lights and on astroturf, Longwood suffered an 8-2 loss to VCU, although trailing just 2-0 at the intermission.

FARMVILLE
Amusement
CENTER
MINI-GOLF * BATTING CAGES * GAME ROOM * CONFERENCE ROOM
Group and Club Discounts Available!
W. 3rd Street * Route 460 Business
Farmville, Virginia 392-1644
Catch the BUS - we're right on the Blue Line!
COLLEGE STUDENT DISCOUNTS!! $1 OFF WITH I.D.
FALL HOURS
M-Th. 3PM to 11PM
Fri. 12PM to 12AM
Sat. 9AM to 12AM
Sun. 12PM to 9PM

THE

ROTUNDA

VOL. 71, NO. 2 LONGWOOD COLLEGE FARMVILLE, VIRGINIA SEPTEMBER 23, 1991

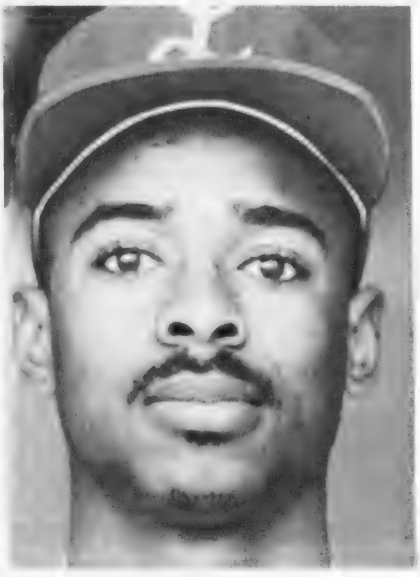
Tucker Picked For Olympic Baseball Trials

The word is getting around about Longwood junior shortstop Mike Tucker.

Lancer coach Buddy Bolding has been busy fielding calls from Major League scouts this fall and now comes word that Tucker is one of 90 players invited to attend the inaugural USA Baseball Team National Trials in Homestead, FL Nov. 1-10.

Thus begins the process of picking a 20-man United States squad to compete in the 1992 Summer Olympic Games in Barcelona, Spain. Following the November evaluation period, 40 players will be invited to attend the final spring trials in Millington, TN next June.

Tucker, a first team Division II All-American, led Longwood to a 41-8 record and a final four finish in the 1991 NCAA Division II Baseball World Series. A 6-2, 185-pound shortstop, he hit .450 with a school record 15 homers and 59 RBI last season.



"I'm just real pleased that we have a player of that caliber who might be chosen to represent his country in the Olympics," said Lancer coach Buddy Bolding. "Michael has all the assets they are looking for. I doubt there's a better overall shortstop in the country. He has the arm, the speed, bats left-handed and hits with power."

Tucker is one of eight players from Virginia colleges to be selected for the national trials. Also invited are catcher Mike Hubbard and pitcher Larry Williams of James Madison, catcher Chris Widger of George Mason, outfielder Erskine Kelly of Richmond, pitcher Brad Clontz of Virginia Tech, pitcher Matt Williams of Virginia Commonwealth and infielder Eric Owens of Ferrum.

All but Owens, who is playing for the South, will be on the East team when the November trials are held. The 90 players will be divided into five teams for the trials which will afford Olympic Coach Ron Fraser of Miami and his staff a first hand look at the players in game conditions.

The trials will be held at the Homestead Sports Complex, a new baseball facility, with a 6,500 seat stadium and five practice fields. The Cleveland Indians are to begin using the facility in 1993, according to Bob Bench of the United States Baseball Federation.

Baseball makes it debut as an official Olympic sport in Barcelona next summer with eight teams competing for the gold. The USA is the defending gold medalist, having taken the top prize at the demonstration games in Seoul, Korea in 1988.

MIKE TUCKER

Study Links Date Rape With Stockholm Syndrome

By AMY REYNOLDS

(CPS) — Date rape victims. Battered women. Hostages. Do these groups of people share certain psychological characteristics? According to a study at the University of Cincinnati, they do.

The study is one of the first to look at how The Stockholm Syndrome relates to dating. The Stockholm Syndrome is a concept that emerged years ago when researchers studied the psychological characteristics of hostages and found that they actually bonded with their captors, in spite of suffering abuse.

Previous studies at the University of Cincinnati have linked the behavior of battered women to The Stockholm Syndrome.

"A lot of women say, 'If I were battered, I'd just leave,'" says Dr. Dee Graham, a psychologist who conducted the study. "But what most battered women know is that's what gets you more severely battered or even killed. The battered woman is real aware of those contingencies, so like a hostage she develops a bond when she sees no way out."

Seeing "no way out" is perhaps the key to the psychology of the Stockholm Syndrome. "These are terrifying situations," she says. "People see their survival at stake. Dwelling on the bag gets in the way of what you need to survive....Slowly you start to distort the situation, see some good and slowly begin to bond."

After finding a connection between The Stockholm Syndrome and battered women, Graham says Cincinnati researchers decided to see how syndrome behavior might relate to dating in general.

"What's significant is that...we picked people off the street and what we found suggests that the dynamics of this are evasive and that every relationships is more or less abusive," Graham says.

Date rape is an example of the extreme result of that abuse, Graham says. On one hand, a woman might be pressured to have sex but nothing happens. But in the most extreme case, a date rape could occur.

"Pressure to have sex is normal," Graham says. But if the situation does result in a rape, "People usually deny the abuse just to cope with it."

In a look at other research, Graham found one study that reported 25 to 35 percent of young women perceived violence toward them as a sign of love. That helped spark her theory that Stockholm Syndrome behavior could be linked to dating.

Graham's study involved a random sample of 764 undergraduate women at the University of Cincinnati.

Campus Shows 'Growth Over Time'

By DINA M. DAWSON
News Staff

Thursday, September 5, recently marked a very special day at Longwood College; a day to be remembered for a very long time. It was not only a day for the senior capping ceremony, part of the annual Longwood event known as Convocation, but also brought about the dedication ceremony of the new Longwood Library. Both Convocation and the dedication of the library were two extremely successful events in getting Longwood's 1991-1992 academic year off to a great start. The dedication ceremony, which began at 3 p.m. in the library's atrium represented an extremely important event in Longwood's history, partially because of not only what the ceremony represented but as well what the new library symbolizes for the college community. According to Jean Wheeler, assistant to the President of Longwood College, the ceremony was important because it involved all factions who were tied to the library in some way. It was an important ceremony for all those "the library welcomes, represents, and involves". The dedication ceremony in planning was something that did not just come together overnight. The plans for holding the dedication program had been in the works since last spring while construction of the new library was completed about the same time, in March of this year. Mrs. Rebecca Laine, Acting Director of the library, says that the plans for constructing a new library were being talked about twenty years ago when she first came to work at Longwood. Even though the library's plans were put on hold until funding was available, Ms. Wheeler feels the new library is one thing on campus that "shows a growth over time". The message of growth over time may simple boil down to being bigger and better. When compared to the Dabney Lancaster Library, built in 1938 and remodeled in 1961, the features of the new library are quite impressive. Moved to the heart of the present campus Mrs. Laine stated that at the old library "it seemed the campus was moving away" and that the new location has brought about a "high up surge" of students using the facility. The new library has a more dependable heating and cooling system, more space allocation, study rooms which respond to the demands of the students, and group viewing rooms. One part of the library that has seen a gradual growth over time is the book collection, expanding in both size and diversity. In addition, the new library now allows bibliographic instruction, something that was not available at the old library. The new library and its features were justified as Mrs. Laine stated "you can not make a fifty year old building serve the needs of the 90's".

Another building on campus representing the theme "growth over time" is the new dormitory building, still in its construction phase. The new student housing project, designed for one hundred sixty-one beds, will be completed in April 1992 and will be ready for occupancy in the fall of 1992. Mrs. Kim Arritt, an architect here at Longwood, feels the new housing project represents a growth over time because "it is a stepping stone" as the college prepares for the future enrollment of 3,500 students. The project, which has been talked about since Mrs. Arritt arrived at Longwood in 1987, will cost $3,204,380.00 and will have a room structure, different from any of the other residence rooms here at Longwood. Each room will be equipped with its own sink, the closets will be merged together, and a bathtub, shower, and toilet will be between every two rooms. The new building will have nicer study rooms, appealing landscaping, and electronic doors that open only when approached by individuals. The idea behind the new building is to make it more like a home, with less cinder block, so "students do not feel like they are in prison", and to have less of a military style in the setup of the rooms. By having it resemble home a little more officials hope students will be encouraged to take better care of the building. The residents selected to live there will be "the chosen ones", in which Mrs. Arritt described the honor of living there in the future as "almost a reward".

Farmville Different Without Students

By KIM BRANDYBERRY
Features Staff

Have you ever wondered what the town of Farmville is like without students?

Farmville's population, without students, is 6240, according to police chief, Otto Overton. This semester Longwood has 3166 students enrolled. We make quite a difference in this small town.

Good news is that we really don't miss that much. There are few in number of things that do change over the summer. Two being traffic/parking and businesses.

According to Gerry Spates, town manager, "the biggest complaint is parking." With so many students with cars this is understandable. There are 1436 more cars here during the school year than in the summer. There were 986 student decals issued and 450 commuter decals issued this semester.

Businesses tend to suffer without our contributions in the summer. Wal Mart's assistant manager, Richard Tanner, said that they can tell when we are gone. Although he admitted a decline he did not want to comment on how much. He said that their business also comes from surrounding counties such as, Amelia, Charlotte, and Nottoway.

Subway's manager, Satish Roy, employer of four Longwood students, says that "business is naturally lower in the summer when students aren't here."

The mayor of Farmville, Mr. Crute, said that the biggest difference he sees in the summer is the decline in business.

One slight problem the town manager, Gerry Spates, also commented on was the "get acquainted period with those off campus." He said that most of the complaints from off campus partying is when we first get here.

As a whole the consensus I got from those I talked to in town are that we are missed when we are gone and enjoyed while we are here. The town manager said that, "If it wasn't for the college, I don't think Farmville would be what it was."

Escorts On Patrol

By Traci L. Hassell
Features Staff

There are an extra set of eyes to the campus police force on campus. This assistance group is referred to as the Longwood Escort Service-run primarily by Longwood students.

This organization has been active since September 1989. Andy Sadowski, one of the remaining founders, has carried the program through its various ups and downs. The year has started again and the Escort Service is looking for many volunteers to make it successful.

Continued on page 6

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
Features 3
News 4
Comics 5
Sports 6

FRESHMEN CLASS ELECTIONS!
PICK UP PETITIONS AT THE INFO DESK IN LANKFORD!
THEY ARE DUE SEPT. 29 BY 10 PM!
ELECTIONS ARE
MON., SEPT. 30 & TUE., OCT. 1.

COMMENTARY

Editorial

You wake up in the morning and you're drenched in sweat. Your fan is spinning weakly in the window, hardly producing any circulation at all. It's going to be another day of changing your clothes three or four times, showering several times and seeking refuge in such air-conditioned places as the library and various study lounges. Wait a minute – there's something wrong here.

Now, I hope nobody will take offense at this article, but it is a problem which needs to be brought out into the open. Perhaps now, when the weather is cooling off, it is a little late to be griping, but I know that many people are upset. The point of this newspaper is to express the views of the students on campus, and since the majority of students do not live in the air-conditioned high rise dormitories, it is the majority of students who are suffering.

Which brings me to my next point: This campus is concerned with treating all students equally, of course. In order to do so, however, we must stretch that idea to cover all aspects of campus life, including living conditions. Personally, I would not want to live in the high rises, but that also means I do not get air-conditioning. The fact that the students living in the older dormitories do not have this privilege is cause for concern enough, but neither are they allowed to purchase air-conditioners of their own to place in their windows. Why? Is it because they ruin the "old look" of the buildings? Is it because window units are a fire hazard? Is it because not all students could afford air-conditioners, and thus it would be unfair to those students who could not? One can have an air-conditioner only if one has a note from one's doctor stating that they have a medical condition that requires air-conditioning... Awfully skewed logic, it seems to me.

All of the students living in the older dormitories know is that they cannot have air-conditioning, and that's that. There's no reason anybody knows of to prevent students from having air-conditioning. I thought it was time somebody stepped out and questioned this mystery. I am surprised that this issue has not been brought out for debate before. We are living in the twentieth century now, and to have to live day to day in such discomfort seems wrong.

All I have done here is to bring this problem to light. What happens next is left up to the students and faculty on this campus. I only hope I have made a few people realize the gravity of this problem, and perhaps we can come to some sort of a revolution before next summer.

CHRISTOPHER S. JONES
Editor

Letters To The Editor

Editor, The Rotunda,

Parking! Parking! Parking! This one word seems to be able to stir up some sort of emotion in each of us. I'm sure you can all remember numerous occasions when you arrived back at school late after a long weekend, hopelessly searching for that one possible spot where you could park. Or maybe trying to decide if enough of your car was in the white to avoid getting a ticket. Well, with the construction of the new dorm currently in effect, there are approximately 35 parking spaces blocked off due to the construction! 35! Now, it is terrible to have to bring out a pessimistic view to progress being made to better the school, but where are we supposed to park?

Being one with a great deal of experience in dealing with parking tickets, I see this as currently a major problem. When I approach administration with concerns, I am consistently told about our alternative parking lots. Well, for the first prime parking lot, there's Wynne. Okay, let's look at the advantages to Wynne-... well, there is none! It is nothing less than tedious to have to go through the following steps in parking "up the hill:"

1. You must go to Campus Police, and wait for the Farmville Police Department to contact an available officer. (5-7 min. wait).
2. The officer on duty must follow you to Wynne.
3. Park your car.
4. Be escorted to your dorm.
5. Time approximately 10-15 min-JUST TO PARK!

And on top of all of this, there is even more of a minimum security protecting your vehicle that you are so earnestly trying to afford.

Your second available parking lot is behind Little Caesar's. Here, you must follow the same steps, although at this luxurious lot there is a security phone so that you may call Campus Police. Then- just wait in your car (by yourself) for them to arrive. The police station does have a camera set up for surveillance. Okay great! But there isn't even anyone in the Campus Police Station at all times.

The problem here is not directed towards the fine police force here at Longwood. Not by any means. They do a fine job in trying to provide us with the utmost forms of protection. The problem is one that has been approached time and time again. I just don't understand why, with the number of enrolled students increasing each year (creating more cars) that we can't seriously consider constructing a safe, secure, properly spaced parking lot.

K.C.

The Housing/Residence Life staff would like to thank all returning students for the condition that the residence halls were left in at the close of the Spring '91 semester. In comparison to previous years most of the halls were left much cleaner and free of unwanted debris.

As a result of your efforts there was a significant decrease in the number of halls charged for cleaning. We would encourage you to continue your efforts in keeping your community clean.

DAVID RETTIG
Director of Housing

Editor, The Rotunda,

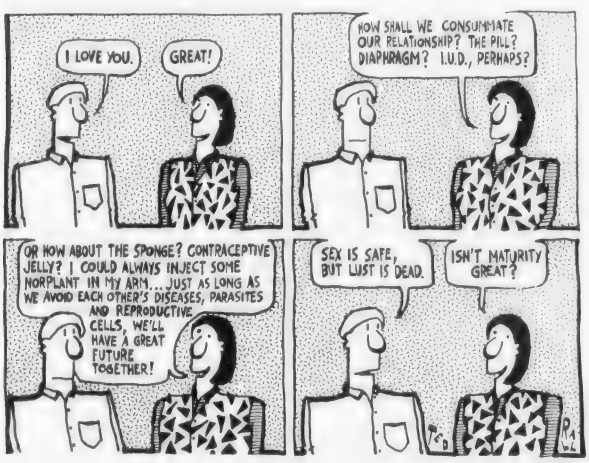
Please permit me to express my appreciation to the students and faculty of Longwood College for their many phone calls, cards, and notes following my decision last semester to resign from the Counseling Center. The kind and supportive words for both my work and my personhood will long be treasured.

It is good to know that a constant which remains at Longwood, among its students and faculty, is that the SPIRIT lives on... and on ... and on ...

I continue with each of you in the Spirit.

Dr. Marcia Shelton
Class of 1978
Adjunct Psychology

Editor, The Rotunda:



I am a sophomore female who is very disappointed with the attitude of some of the men on this campus. It seems that a great many of them are interested only in impressing their friends and having sex. I realize that not all men are, to put it bluntly, pigs, but I am disturbed at the number of guys who fail to consider that women have brains besides capable bodies.

Last semester, I was the victim of a rather rude prank. A member of a fraternity called me in the middle of the night while he was undoubtedly drunk, and asked me out. I'd never met this guy, and I was appalled at the number of personal questions he asked me. I realize that I should have hung up, but I was half asleep and out of sorts.

My point is this: I don't understand why men have to judge women by their looks. I realize that women do this too, but I am just wondering why people can't talk to one another before they write someone off as uninteresting. Everyone has their own personal positives that can add to this campus.

I chose Longwood because of the reputation it has of being a friendly campus, but from the way some of the men are acting here, I'm beginning to feel otherwise.

Sincerely,
J.T.

The Political Corner

with Keith Johnson

WILDERS AMBITIONS

Doug Wilder for President! How does these words strike you? Doug Wilder's former press secretary stated this past week that his national ambitions have become an obstacle for him especially his aptitude in leading the State of Virginia. It is hard to guess his intentions simply because he is an individual who keeps his personal plans to himself and usually does not allow even family to know of his intentions. It is a fact that Doug Wilder has had a great deal of political experience and has made a great deal of history such as being the nation's first black elected governor, winning a seat in the 1969 General Assembly, and becoming the state's first successful black Lieutenant governor in 1986. But Wilder has only been in office for 20 months and many claim he has not a chance in winning the Office of the Presidency. In choosing to run for President, Wilder would be the first native of Richmond to run for such an office, and if he was to successfully win he would become Virginia's ninth native-born president thus being the highest of any state. But obtaining the Democratic Party's nomination will not be easy since Wilder has not made many friends in the Democratic Party and he certainly has not been a friend to those in the educational fields! As lieutenant governor, Doug Wilder refused to sit idly by his superior Governor Gerald L. Baliles. Wilder and Baliles did not agree on many issues and contention could be felt between these two men from early on. He has also engaged in political disputes with Virginia's junior Senator and ex-governor Charles S. Robb and numerous General Assembly Leaders. We must consider his opposition, President George Bush who has enjoyed a great deal of popularity since the Gulf War and leads in favor by many critics. Does he really stand a chance? Wilder has made claims of completing his term of Governor which would expire in January 1994.

Many advocates of Wilder state that he would do well in the political nomination race simply because of the large number of black voters in the Democratic primaries, especially those in the Southern states. It is a political fact that Wilder has had a lot of opposition in running for past offices and has defied the odds and won but one can easily say he is going to be in for a run for his money when he must face Bush in 1992. The Democrats will choose their party's presidential and vice-presidential candidates in a convention located in New York City this coming July. It will be interesting to see what happens in the upcoming months.

Keith Johnson is a senior political science major at Longwood.

CHALLENGE JOB FAIR: SENIORS, IT'S FOR YOU!!

CHALLENGE, a once-per-year job fair for seniors, will be held this fall at the Radisson Hotel in Lynchburg on Thursday, November 14, 1991. Usually there is some confusion as to what this program is all about, so...

WHAT IS CHALLENGE?
--An award-winning job fair for seniors from nine Virginia colleges, including Longwood
--Information sharing between students and representatives from over 60 national and regional corporations and organizations
--Informational interviews and some formal interviews scheduled in advance by employers

WHY ATTEND CHALLENGE?
--To receive information about employers and job openings
--To participate impossible on-site interviews
--To have a chance to observe the competition (other students)
--To get a ""jump" on the other graduates in the job-search process

WHO CAN ATTEND CHALLENGE?
--Especially designed for the Liberal Arts & Sciences Majors
--Business and Economics Majors are also encouraged to attend
--Education and Human Services Majors are welcome if seeking alternatives to teaching or social services

CHALLENGE only happens once per year, so seniors it is now or never. According to Niki Faillis, Director of CPPC, the Fair was designed primarily to give Longwood students access to employers who would not normally recruit on campus. So farm, over sixty seniors have already signed-up. Here are comments from three past participants:

"The job fair is a wonderful idea. It gave me the chance to break the ice and take the first step towards entering the real works"

"...But most of all, the job offers were not the most important thing. I learned more about dealing with company representatives one-on-one and promoting myself"

"The job fair was a great experience.. the atmosphere was inviting, and I would recommend it highly to the seniors next year"

Seniors interested in participating in CHALLENGE should immediately come to the Career Planning & Placement Center (CPPC), 2nd Floor South Ruffner, to pick-up registration materials and instructions. Registration and resume deadline is October 10, 1991. Don't miss this opportunity!!!

Box 1133
Longwood College
Farmville, Va. 23901

THE STAFF:

Executive Editor Bradley L. Owen
Editor Christopher Jones
Features Editor Sherry Gatewood
Asst. Features Editor Ann Renee Heim
Sports Editor Charlie Fultz
Photography Editor Judi Weller
Layout Design Joe Giles
Business Manager Anita Owens
Faculty Advisor William C. Woods

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed or printed neatly. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is noon Thursday prior to the Monday publication date and these should be placed in the envelopes inside the Publication offices door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by 5 p.m. Sunday. All submissions become the property of The Rotunda.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an Associated Collegiate Press award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

Stage Set For Macbeth

By ANN RENEE HEIM
Asst. Features Editor

Rehearsals for Macbeth, the Longwood Players' first production of the semester, are well underway at Jarman Auditorium to prepare for their opening night on Wednesday, October 2 at 8 p.m.

The play is directed by Dr. Patton Lockwood who chose to direct it because, "I really have done all of the other good ones – Romeo and Juliet twice, A Midsummer Night's Dream, Othello, As you Like It, Twelfth Night twice, Taming of the Shrew, and Hamlet. It's[Macbeth] one of his best. To be honest, I had no idea what I was getting into – reading the play and directing it are two completely different things. I had no idea what a huge cast I would be dealing with."

Macbeth is a play that is considered by many theaters, but is often not done because of the level of difficulty it lends to directors.

Lockwood stated, "At Longwood I have directed 56 plays. Take Pygmalion, it's a nice play, but it's easy. Macbeth is another story. Very few people attempt it because it is so difficult, but that is what theater is all about – challenges."

One of Shakespeare's more famous works, Macbeth relays the story of an ambitious but inhibited Scottish nobleman driven by his overpowering, evil wife to murder in order to acquire the "golden round," the crown of Scotland. "MacBeth" is played by senior Anthony Tassa who was last seen in The Foreigner as the reverend "David."

The play features an abundance of swordplay and fighting created by Patrick Michael, a professional in the field of stage combat who has performed in Star Trek V, and has just completed his work on Star Trek VI. In Macbeth, Michael plays "Macduff," another Scottish nobleman who was once a comrade of Macbeth, but challenges him once he realizes the evils Macbeth had done to wrongfully achieve kingship.

Macbeth provides many freshmen with their first appearance on Longwood's mainstage. For T.C. Clarke, Nicole Despitt, Scott Joyce, Kel Morris, Shawn Plummer, Rohsoan Settle, J.J. Weise and for transfers Keith Birdsong, Jill Leffler, and Christy Wells, Macbeth will be their Longwood debut.

For the first time in two years Farmville townfolk have come to participate at Jarman. Hassel Simpson will portray Duncan, and Ralph (Rif-Raf) Haga will play the part of the comical night porter in the show.

Macbeth opens on Wednesday, October 2 at 8 p.m. and runs through Saturday, October 5. There will be a matinee showing at 10 a.m. on Friday, October 4. Admission for Longwood students is free upon presentation of a student I.D. Faculty tickets cost $3 with I.D. Senior citizen tickets are $3 and general admission cost is $5.

ATTENTION POETS

OWINGS MILLS, MD (USA) — $12,000 in prizes will be awarded this year to over 250 poets in the North American Open Poetry Contest sponsored by the National Library of Poetry. The deadline for the contest is September 30, 1991. The contest is open to everyone and entry is FREE.

Any poet, whether previously published or not, can be a winner. Every poem entered also has a chance to be published in a deluxe, hardbound anthology.

To enter, send ONE original poem, any subject and any style, to the National Library of Poetry, 5-E Gwynns Mill Ct., P. O. Box 704-PC, Owings Mills, MD 21117. The poem should be no more than 20 lines and the poet's name and address should appear on the top of the page. Entries must be postmarked by September 30, 1991. A new contest opens October 1, 1991.

New Releases

BLOOD AND CONCRETE
Offbeat and uneven comedy-mystery set among some low-life characters in a seedy section of Los Angeles. Billy Zane is a small-time thief who latches onto a troubled woman singer (Jennifer Beals). Both are connected to stolen drugs, a situation which triggers encounters with cops and gangsters. The humor is mostly forced and many characters merely fade into the background. Darren McGavin portrays an awkward detective who pursues the kooky couple. (R) FAIR COMEDY DIR-Jeffrey Reiner LEAD-Billy Zane RT-99 mins. (Profanity)

DOGFIGHT
The title refers to a cruel contest among some crude Marines who compete to find the ugliest date. And when a young corporal (River Phoenix) chooses a chubby waitress for this mean hoax, he discovers a woman of exceptional inner beauty. This poignant romance occasionally lapses, yet the story unfolds with exceptional intelligence and sensitivity. Bouquets to Lili Taylor as the sweet girl whose remarkable attractiveness is much more than physical. (R) GOOD ROMANTIC DRAMA DIR-Nancy Savoca LEAD-River Phoenix RT-94 mins. (Profanity)

FREDDY'S DEAD: THE FINAL NIGHTMARE
This sixth installment finds the vicious killer with the lethal fingernails roaming Springwood, Ohio, in search of more young victims. Shon Greenblatt plays a teen survivor from past episodes who confronts Freddy in a requisite grisly dream sequence. Other youngsters are dispatched in various ways that are predictable and tiresome by now. The screenplay, however, offers some intriguing explanations for the fiend's strange behavior. Robert Englund, as always, is in the title role. (R) FAIR HORROR DIR Rachel Talalay LEAD- Robert Englund RT-96 mins. (Profanity)

LIEBESTRAUM
Confusing, moody and rambling thriller involving a young man (Kevin Anderson) who stirs up a 30-year-old murder case when he visits his dying mother. The drama is loaded with tricky camera work and gimmicky editing that only aggravates the pointless plot. Kim Novak is seen in a thankless and dim role as the bedridden woman who utters a few incoherent lines. Pamela Gidley and Bill Pullman also co-star. (R) BORING DRAMA DIR-Mike Figgis LEAD-Kevin Anderson RT-102 mins. (Profanity, nudity)

Mini-golf Tournament Scheduled

By ANGELA BOYD
Features Staff

Fun, good times, and entertainment have hit the Farmville area. Owners Mike and Barbara Golob and Steve and Denice Govoni have made their dreams a reality.

The Farmville Amusement Center consists of one 18 hole mini-golf course, six batting cages, and over 40 video arcade games.

The Amusement Center is one of the few off campus establishments in the area which offer a discount to college students. A dollar off is given on the mini-golf games when a student ID is presented.

Other attractions include batting cages and video games. They range from fast to slow pitch softball and baseball pitches. Four of the baseball cages throw balls 30-40-60-80 mph.

Video games range from "Pole Position" to "Donkey Kong." Favorite college games "Air Hockey" and "Fooze Ball" are also there for your pleasure.

Owner, Steve Govino, said, "We plan to keep the center open year around. The business is great but we hope to see more college students here. Individuals and groups are welcome."

If walking or driving is a problem, the Farmville Blue line bus is now running directly from the college to the center.

Kim Nash, a Longwood junior, said, "It's a lot of fun. I would like to see the college student getting involved in some tournaments at the center."

On September 24 the center will hold their first Mini-golf Tournament at 7 p.m. A $50 prize will go to the lowest scorer.

Daily, weekly and monthly prizes are also rewarded to the lowest scorers. These prizes include free games, golf hats and shirts.

The Farmville Amusement Center is also planning another tournament on October 2nd. If you are good at air hockey then don't miss it!

Escorts

(Continued from page 1)

These students have given the campus police more time to perform their regular duties. They have taken over the responsibility of escorting people and are involved in crowd control for Octoberfest and Spring weekend.

As a student escort, one walks around campus or waits for campus police to signal them for a duty. An escort will lead one to the edge of campus, if there is a need to be taken to a place off campus.

All escorts are interviewed thoroughly and their backgrounds are checked. They are trained by the staff to handle various hazardous situations. Volunteers are not always males. The idea behind the service is to be helpful not intimidating.

The radios that are carried by the escorts are directly connected to both the campus and the Farmville police force. Shirts, hats, and these radios are funded jointly by the campus police and Phyllis Mable's office.

The Escort Service provides flexible hours, until 2 a.m., depending on the nights that people are most likely to be out and about. If it is absolutely necessary, they can be reached from emergency phones.

One usually hears about the student run Escort Service through networking between friends, ads, the Longwood radio station, flyers, and cards that are given at the time of service.

Campus Police urge students not to walk alone during the night hours; it is better to be safe than sorry. If one is interested in becoming a Longwood Escort or is in need of their services, they can be contacted through campus police at 2612, emergency number 2091.

MISS USA GETS $200,000 ON CBS-TV

1992 MISS VIRGINIA USA

NO PERFORMING TALENT

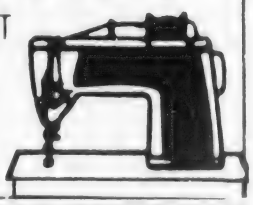
You can win fame and fortune as Virginia's representative in the nationally televised 1992 Miss USA Pageant on CBS-TV. The search for Miss Virginia is on. State finals will be Nov. 9-10 at Norfolk's Marriott Hotel. If you are single, between the ages of 18 and UNDER 27 as of Feb. 1, 1992, you may qualify. For FREE entry information, send name, address, age & phone to: Miss Virginia USA, P.O. Box 905, Silver Spring, MD. 20910: Or Call TOLL FREE: 1-800-BEAUTY5. Entries Limited. Deadline Soon.

HELP WANTED

SENIORS — come by the Career Planning & Placement Center (CPPC), 2nd Floor South Ruffner, immediately to sign-up for interviews. Some require pre-selection by employer based upon resume. You must attend an interviewing skills workshop and have a resume prepared before interviewing on-campus. Interviews are available on a first-come, first-serve basis. Additions to schedule will be announced in the Campus Bulletin.

K-Mart Apparel, Wed. Oct. 9, Manager Trainee, all majors (except Accounting & Finance).

Matthews, Carter and Boyce Accounting Firm, Thurs., Oct. 10, Accounting majors only.



F. N. Wolf, Wed., Oct. 16, Stock Broker Trainee, all majors.

Auditor of Public Accounts, Thurs., Oct. 24, Accounting majors only (pre-selection by Oct. 14).

(804) 392-8971

MAIN STREET DISCOUNT FABRICS

308 NORTH MAIN STREET
FARMVILLE, VA. 23901

UPHOLSTERY • DRAPERY • DRESS GOODS, ETC.

Betsy's

A Great Love Goes Here With A Little Gift, Get It At Betsy's

20-30% OFF

WITH STUDENT I.D.

- Large bags of pot pourri
- Furry critter statues
- Lap desks
- Wind chimes
- Rabbit statues and other items.

FREE

MAGNET

WITH A $5.00 PURCHASE!

Sunny's Cafe

HOURS:
11:30 AM - 5:00 PM LUNCH
5:30 PM - 9:30 PM DINNER

Join Us In the Blue Parrot Lounge For Monday Night Football!

HOURS: 11:30 AM - 11:00 PM
OPEN MONDAY UNTIL THE GAME ENDS.
CLOSED WEDNESDAY

PHONE 392-6825

Student Lobby Opposes Thomas' Nomination

The U. S. Student Association recently teamed with the National Abortion Rights Action League in Washington to oppose Clarence Thomas' nomination to the U. S. Supreme Court.

"There have been instances where he could've helped historically black colleges and he didn't, said USSA President Tajel Shah, as the Senate Judiciary Committee began hearings on Thomas' nomination. "Obviously, as an educational organization, that is against everything we stand for. We want everyone to have access to higher education."

The lobbying group for students also was concerned about the American Bar Association's "qualified" rating — "that's the lowest rating they've given anybody nominated," Shah said — and cited Thomas' handling of Equal Employment Opportunity commission cases that they say show he does not believe in helping people traditionally discriminated against such as homosexuals, the elderly, women and minorities.

Although dissent was scattered on campuses, Thomas' nomination was a frequent topic of discussion.

"Most people I've spoken to are against him," said Megan Thomas, a senior at the University of Minnesota and a member of University Young Women.

"We haven't really taken a stand as a group," Thomas said, "But I'm personally opposed to his nomination because it's obvious he's against a woman's right to choose. And, I oppose his views of natural law."

Clarence Thomas was questioned at length about both issues. He told Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) on Sept. 11 that he has not pre-judged the issue of abortion and did not intentionally write in support of an anti-abortion article he is claimed to have praised.

As for his well-documented view of natural law, a theory that says certain individual rights are independent of all government authority, Thomas said "the question for me was from a political theory standpoint...I would maintain that I do not feel that natural rights or natural law has a basis or has a use in constitutional adjudication."

Orlando Robinson, co-director of records for the University of Wisconsin Black Student Union said, "The way the court has gone with affirmative action and civil rights, it's turned back the other way. They're reverting back to the 1800's mindset and we see (Thomas) as another setback.

"We aren't sure if he's qualified...We think he was nominated because of his race and are concerned he's just a Republican puppet," he added.

While many are voicing opinions against Thomas, others favor him.

"So why does everybody have to bitch about the political stand of Clarence Thomas? He's conservative," wrote Iowa State Daily columnist Chris Romans. "So what? Is he qualified for the job? The (American Bar Association) even said so, and that's really all that matters. George Bush likes him and we elected George Bush to make the decision."

Political analysts expect Thomas' nomination to receive little opposition at the judiciary committee's final vote.

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

LOVE FOR SALE — Large expressive eyes, long, soft hair, cuddly, adorable CFA Registered Persian kittens & young adults. 392-5040 after 4:30 PM.

Earth Club Grows

By JENNIFER WYATT
Staff Reporter

This year Longwood College's Earth Club has kicked off the semester with an exciting and fun-filled agenda ahead of them. Starting off only their second year as a student organization, the Earth Club had been unknown and unpopular among the students on campus.

The organization's first meeting got off to a bad start this semester because the club was very unorganized, had a line of old and new officers who were unexperienced, and had no adviser. However, all of these things have changed.

During the second week of the opening of classes, John Brady was appointed as adviser to the Earth Club. He and the members of the Earth Club got together and discussed what needed to be improved within the organization and things to look forward to during the semester. The Earth Club is now very prosperous with many members who are ready and committed to their cause in keeping the planet we live on beautiful and clean. Last year they started aluminum can recycling on campus and got petitions going for center-campus recycling.

Among things that have already been accomplished this year are the establishment of committees. The Research Committee includes those members who create questionnaires and go around to different departments on campus finding what and how much garbage is being thrown away.

The Clean-Up Committee consists of members who set aside one day a month for the students on campus to get together and clean up the campus.

The Recycling Committee works with Longwood's Physical Plant and Melvin Moore, Director of the Physical Plant. Together they work to get everything they can recycled on campus.

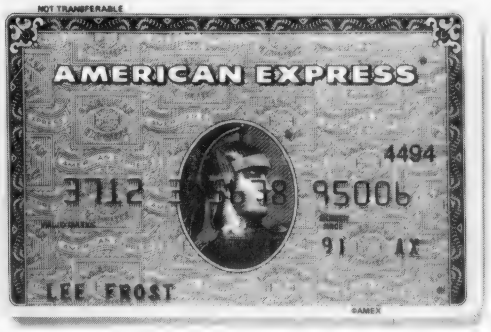
The Activities Committee is the entertainment group for the Earth Club and Longwood College's faculty, students, and guests. The goals for the Earth Club this year are to become an active organization of SEAC or The Student Environmental Action Coalition, to have a guest speaker from another college or university's Environmental organization visit Longwood, to promote an increase in recycling, and to help more students become environmentally conscious of the Earth. They are also trying to get can crushers established on all dormitory halls, but this is not definite yet.

The Earth Club has just had its first distinguished bulletin board placed in the New Smoker thanks to the help of John Brady, for his ideas and help; Melvin Moore, who built it; and Sue Sanders, for her approval of putting it up. Be sure to keep your eyes on the board for upcoming events and unbelievable environmental facts sponsored by the Earth Club's Advertising and Bulletin Board Committees. The Earth Club openly welcomes anyone who is interested in coming to its meetings or just getting involved. Meetings are held every Thursday night at 7 p.m. in the French T.V. Lounge.

Student Health & Counseling Aid Transition

By MICHELE D. HENY
News Staff

The transition from high school to college is a very trying and sometimes difficult experience. Eating and sleeping patterns are often askew during this period of adjustment. Students frequently neglect their needs for physical exercise and gain the extra "freshman fifteen." Meeting new friends and establishing new peer groups is exhausting but also rewarding. For the first time, many students will be face to face with peer pressure to drink alcohol or experiment with drugs. Students may encounter anxiety from the style of the contemporary college classroom. Longwood College understands these times of adjustment and has created services on campus to help the student adapt to his or her new lifestyle.



The office of Student Health offers confidential, low-cost services for acute and chronic problems, and preventive health care. The Self Care Unit, located in the waiting room is available for students to evaluate their own symptoms such as respiratory problems or skin rashes. Personnel are on duty to examine your health status and recommend treatment or refer you to a physician if needed. Antihistamines and ointments are distributed for a small fee. The Student Health Office is located in the Graham Building. To make an appointment or obtain office hours, call 395-2102.

The Office of Counseling Services was created for students to be able to receive mature advice about personal problems. The staff is willing to discuss any problem students are suffering from in their academic or social life. This may include depression, family problems, eating disorders, stress, sexually-transmitted diseases, or peer pressure. Wayne O'Brien is the director of this service and appointments can be scheduled at 395-2409.

The Student Health and Counseling Services will be sponsoring seminars to allow students to learn of various health problems and preventive care. On October 1st, David Kamens will address the students on the effects and preventions of the AIDS virus. Speakers can be requested and scheduled to discuss special topics in both the Student Health and Counseling Offices.

Longwood College has created these services to promote physical and emotional well-being among the college community. The Office of Student Health and Counseling Services work hand in hand to assist students in maintaining good health that is required for maximum learning. As you separate from your parents and grow more independent it is essential to learn how to care for your personal health needs and recognize the symptoms of an ailment. Students are encouraged to take advantage of these serviceable programs to ensure a successful year.

Good news for people who shop.

Now you can use the Card for everything the Campus Bookstore sells.

Now it's easier than ever to pick up Plato, discover Proust, or even show your colors with a new campus sweatshirt. Just pay for whatever you need at the bookstore with the American Express® Card.

No American Express Card? No problem.

To become a Cardmember just complete and return one of the American Express Student Applications available at the bookstore. Once you're approved, you can enjoy added student Card privileges like discounted roundtrip airfares on Continental Airlines and great new long-distance savings with MCI.

So shop your bookstore today. From classic books to classic wear, the news is...you can use the Card for everything you buy.

Cards

Longwood College Bookstore
Ruffner Building
Store hours: Monday-Friday, 9:00 a.m -5:00 p.m.
Your Best Place to Shop!

COMICS

NO EXIT by Erik Andresen

Campus Calendar

Information on events should be submitted to the Student Union Office in Lankford by the Wednesday preceding the appropriate issue of the paper.

Tuesday September 24	Wednesday September 25	Thursday September 26	Friday September 27	Saturday September 28	Sunday September 29	Monday September 30
Self-Assessment Workshop - Interests, Skills and Values: Who Am I? Career Library/ CPPC. 1:00 pm Forum: "The Life of a Conductor" with George Manahan, Musical Director of the Richmond Symphony. 1:30 pm Wygal Chamber Music Concert; David Niethamer & George Manahan. 8:00 pm Wygal Psi Chi/Psych Club Social: Anyone interested in psychology may attend. 9:30pm R/W/G Rooms	Resume Writing Workshop; CPPC. 4:00 pm Bowling - M. EB due before meeting. Flag Football - W. Practice. Rotunda Staff Meeting: Interested in working - come join us. 6:00 pm Lankford Conf. Rm. 3	Interviewing Skills Workshop; CPPC. 1:00 pm W. Ruffner 121 Holy Communion; Episcopal Campus Ministry/ Johns Memorial Church. 5:30 pm Weekend Golf. EB due before meeting. Flag Football - W. Start.	Movies: White Fang & Shipwrecked 9:00 pm Gold Room OKTOBERFEST is just around the corner - Can you feel the spirit?	Weekend Golf. Blizzard of Bucks. Loads of FUN!!! 8:00 pm Gold Room		Movies: White Fang & Shipwrecked 9:00 pm Gold Room Arm Wrestling - M/W. EB due before meeting. Bowling - M. Start.

CLASSIFIED

COLLEGE REP WANTED — to distribute "Student Rate" subscription cards at this campus. Good income. For information and application write to: Collegiate Marketing Services, P. O. Box 1436, Mooresville, NC 28115.

RAISE $500...$1000...$1500
FOOL PROOF FUND RAISING
For your fraternity, sorority, team or other campus organization.
ABSOLUTELY NO INVESTMENT REQUIRED!
CALL 1-800-950-8472, ext. 50

PERSONAL

APO Bros. — Great Job with Rush. You all are great. Hi-Ho Hi-Ho Off TO SERVICE We go! — APO Love — Linda

DION — Yo Shmag! Will the real Crunch Berry please stand up?! What's that number again? Oh yeah, 1-800-MES-SAGE. — Love ya, AMDA

P.S. Mooooo!!!

Queensryche! Guns -n-Roses! Maximum Metal, Tuesday's 6-8 p.m. Request Line 395-2475.

Two on Two Volleyball Tournament, sponsored by the American Marketing Association September 27-28-29. Men's women's and co-ed divisions. Over $300 in prizes! Sign up in the new smoker today! $5 per person. Proceeds go to the Prince Edward County Rescue Squad.

Sunshine — Have a great week. Don't stress too hard. 3 weeks till break. Let's make this our best year yet. HAPPY SENIOR YEAR. — Starlight

ADPi ALPHAS — Welcome home to AΔπ! We love you all and are glad to call you our Baby Pi's. — π love always... AΔπ Sisters

To A. pain, soldier #3, and the Doctor:

It was NOT the candle that made me do it — however after last Thursday "How now... "Brown low-SMACK! Sequence — that's reason enough! — Your Lady

Kelly — Congratulations on ADπ! You're the best roommate in the world. I love you! — Wen

Foxes are the slyest creatures on earth.

To all the Zeta pledges — You're doing a great job! Keep it up! We love you! — The Sisters

The Art Department is sponsoring a Bus Trip to Washington, D.C. Museums on Saturday, September 28 at 7 a.m. from Bedford Parking Lot. Tickets are $10 — Make Reservations with Mr. Hal Shearman, Secretary in the Art Department until Thurs. Sept. 26, 5 p.m. Return time about 8:30 p.m. Walking Shoes are recommended. For further information please call 2284. All Longwood students are invited and welcome.

The Great American Deli
SOUTHGATE SHOPPING CENTER
FARMVILLE, VIRGINIA
23901
(804) 392-1804
OPEN MON THRU SATURDAY 10 AM - MIDNITE;
SUNDAY 1 PM - MIDNITE
DELIVERY MONDAY-FRIDAY 1 PM - 10 PM
MONDAYS..... DOUBLES DART TOURNAMENT
TUESDAYS..... STUDENT GROUP HOSTS
WEDNESDAYS..... SINGLES DART TOURNAMENT
THURSDAYS..... LIVE MUSIC (STUDENT GROUP HOSTS)
Best Beverage Specials In Town Every Day!
'GREAT AMERICAN DECK'
Coming Soon!

SPORTS

Golfers Defeat Hampton

By GREG PROUTY

Longwood College's men's golf squad defeated visiting Hampton University last Tuesday at Wedgewood Country Club. The Lancers, under the direction of 12th-year head coach Steve Nelson, scored a round of 301 to Hampton's 314. Longwood's score was its best one-round score since a 300 in 1979 at Longwood Golf Course. The Lancers' best one-round score ever was a 289 at Longwood in 1989.

It was an exceptional round considering Longwood played the match without two of its top three golfers, as well as the fact that none of the team members had ever played the Wedgewood course before. The Lancers were missing two members due to class obligations, and the match was played at Wedgewood because the Longwood course was closed.

Leading the way for Longwood, now 1-0 in match play, was sophomore Jimmy Ward, firing an even-par round of 71 to take medalist honors for the match. Next were freshmen Steve Smith and Scott Westenhofer, each with a round of 76.

Also playing at Wedgewood, with scores not counting toward the match, were freshmen Jason Johnson with a 74, John Cravath 81, and sophomore Shawn Moore with an 83.

Women's Tennis Move to 3-0

Moving its record to 3-0, the Longwood women's tennis team notched a pair of wins last week, beating Meredith 9-0 Tuesday and Lynchburg 7-2 Friday. It was Longwood's first victory over the Hornets in women's tennis since a 6-3 Lady Lancer win in the spring of 1985.

"Beating Lynchburg was a good win for us," said coach Angie Coppedge. "It had been a long time since we beat them. I was pretty proud of that. The team is showing some maturity. They've gotten some experience. I hope we can keep it going."

Grabbing double wins for the Lady Lancers in singles last week were No. 2 Suzie Lawman, No. 3 Melanie Saunders, No. 4 Kimber Bear, No. 5 Heather Leach and No. 6 Jennifer Risko. All five players are unbeaten in singles for the year, while No. 1 Jenny Holm is 2-1.

In doubles, Longwood winners last week were Saunders and Leach at No. 2 (2-0 for the week and 3-0 for the year), Bear and Darcy Rodriguez at No. 3 against Meredith, and Bear and Amy Thomas at No. 3 against Lynchburg.

This week, Longwood plays at Randolph-Macon Woman's College Tuesday at 3 p.m. and hosts Christopher-Newport Saturday at 1 p.m.

Intramurals

By: JOHN FOX
Sports Staff

The intramural program is on the move this semester. Update in the sports that are going on are as follows:

2 On 2 Volleyball in the winner's bracket
Bono/Marcey
Mullin/McFarlen

also

Wright/Shards
Burres/Lacks

The finals in the Women's Bowling have been decided it is Kappa Deltas
Alpha Gamma Deltas

Men's Flag Football on Tuesday, September 17, 1991, was just like a real college football game. With all the bleachers full and the two semi-final teams on the field which were Alpha Sigma Phi and Pi Kappa Phi. The Pi Kappa team prevailed and are heading to the finals.

The upcoming events are:	Entry Blanks Due:
Arm Wrestling M/W	9/30/91
Men's Bowling	9/25/91
Women's Flag Football	9/24/91
Weekend Events:
Golf M/W	9/26/91
Co-ed Bowling	10/3/91

Platte & Ward Shine, Named Co-Players of the Week

By GREG PROUTY

Longwood College field hockey senior Theresa Platte and men's golf sophomore Jimmy Ward have been named co-Longwood College Players of the Week for the period Sept. 15-22. Both student-athletes led their teams to victory during the period. Player of the Week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.

Platte, a three-year starter for the Lady Lancers, scored her first two goals of the year Saturday afternoon as Longwood won its first field hockey game of the season 2-0 over visiting Davis & Elkins. Platte is tied for the team lead in scoring with two goals totaling four points. She leads in average goals per game, and is third in shot-percentage.

Last season, Platte finished second on the team in scoring, and led the 1989 team in shot-percentage as well. Her two goals push her career total to 11. Platte, a physical education major, helped Longwood improve to 1-4.

Ward, a graduate of Kent County High School, missed the Lancers' first tournament this fall. Last year he averaged 83.2, and he was medalist at Hampton last spring with a 77. A co-captain of his high school wrestling and baseball teams, Ward also qualified for the Maryland state high school golf tournament. He is a biology major at Longwood.

Ward's 71 Ties For Fifth-Best Ever

Ward, playing number two for Longwood this fall, shot an even-par round of 71 Tuesday at Wedgewood Country Club, leading the Lancers to a 301-314 decision over visiting Hampton University. The score ties Ward with former Longwood All-American Tim White and Ty Bordner for the fifth-best 18-hole score in Longwood history.

Ward, who like his teammates was playing Wedgewood for the first time, helped Longwood to its sixth-best one-round team score in school history.

JIMMY WARD

THERESA PLATTE

Field Hockey Team Splits Two

By GREG PROUTY

The Longwood College field hockey team gained its first victory of the season last Saturday afternoon defeating Davis & Elkins College 2-0. Senior Theresa Platte scored a goal in each half as the Lady Lancers improved their record to 1-4 under second year coach Sandy Bridgeman. Davis & Elkins dropped to 2-3 on the year.

Longwood played an aggressive game, keeping pressure on D & E from the start as the Lady Lancers controlled the game's tempo. The pressure forced the Senators to play a defensive game all afternoon, a reversal for Longwood, as the Lady Lancers usually find themselves in this situation. Turning the tables was to Longwood's liking.

"D & E came out strong," commented Bridgeman. "Once we pressured them, they sunk back and went defensive. We spread out the field and had better depth and they couldn't get it out. We played a nice game and we're very pleased."

Platte scored her first goal of the game and season at the 19:08 mark of the first half. She received a nice assist from senior Lara Cini. Following intermission, Platte knocked in another goal with 18:32 remaining, this time getting the assist from fellow senior Hollie Phelps. Freshman goalie Sara Hogan preserved the victory and recorded her first collegiate shutout with four saves in the second half, totaling seven on the afternoon.

Junior Denise Hanley fired six shots to pace the Longwood offense, barely missing on a long attempt in the second half. Junior Meyon Puent added four shots. Platte's goals were her only two shots of the day. Defensively, freshman Ashley Bolen had a defensive save, while senior Carver Ports also played well for the Lady Lancers.

Last Thursday night the Lady Lancers suffered a tough hard-fought 2-0 loss to Stanford University, ranked 20th in the nation in NCAA Division I. The game was played in College Park, MD, on a chilly, damp night under the lights. The astroturf field was wet from a day of hard rain, though it did stop during the first half. A steady drizzle fell during the second half.

Nonetheless, Longwood played its finest game of the young season, battling to a scoreless second half after falling behind 2-0 at intermission. Stanford's sophomore 1992 Olympic hopeful Sara Hallock scored both goals.

Special Note:

Our prayers and thoughts are with Dr. Barbara Smith, Longwood's women's golf coach during her recovery. As of press time, she is resting comfortably at home. Hope to see her out at the course real soon doing what she does best!

Well Wishes,
Charlie Fultz
Sports Editor

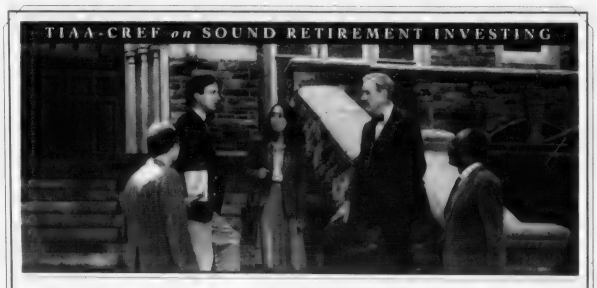
#15 Missy Moran drives down the field against Davis & Elkins to help Longwood to a 2-0 victory.

The Fresh Alternative

COLD SUBS — HONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD — SIX INCH / FOOT LONG

For TWICE the meat, just say "Super" ...add ...	1.00	2.00
BMT (ham, genoa salami, pepperoni, bologna)	2.99	4.29
SUBWAY CLUB (roast beef, turkey, ham)	2.99	4.49
SPICY ITALIAN (genoa salami, pepperoni)	2.79	3.89
COLD CUT COMBO (ham,salami, bologna - all turkey based)	1.89	3.29
BBQ CHICKEN	3.29	4.89
TUNA	2.79	4.29
SEAFOOD & CRAB	3.49	4.99
BBQ PORK	2.79	4.29
HAM & CHEESE	2.89	4.29
ROAST BEEF	2.89	4.29
TURKEY BREAST	2.89	4.29
TURKEY & BACON DELUXE	3.29	4.89
VEGGIE	1.89	2.99

HOT SUBS — HONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD — SIX INCH / FOOT LONG



MEATBALL (Limited Time Special 6" $1.69)	1.99	3.49
STEAK & CHEESE (100% sirloin)	3.09	4.59
PIZZA SUB	2.99	4.29
RIB-B-Q (Our recommended choice)	3.39	5.69
Add Bacon...	.50	1.00

Free Fixin's Cheese • Onions • Lettuce • Tomatoes • Pickles • Green Peppers • Olives • Salt • Pepper • Oil • Plus On Request Mustard • Mayonnaise • Hot Peppers • Vinegar

-COUPON-
50¢ OFF ANY 6" SUB
-OR-
$1.00 OFF ANY FOOTLONG SUB!
Good at participating stores only.!
SUBWAY
Expires 12/31/91

SUBWAY
308 S. MAIN ST.
FARMVILLE, VA.
PHONE 392-8868

TIAA-CREF on SOUND RETIREMENT INVESTING

ONE MILLION OF THE BEST MINDS IN AMERICA HAVE ALREADY CHOSEN THE BEST RETIREMENT PROGRAM.

TIAA-CREF is building a sound financial future for more than 1,000,000 people in the education and research communities. And over 200,000 retirees are now enjoying the benefits of their TIAA-CREF annuities.

LOOK FOR SECURITY, GROWTH AND DIVERSITY.

Security—so the resources are there when it is time to retire. Growth—so you'll have enough income for the kind of retirement you want. And diversity—to help protect you against market volatility and to let you benefit from several types of investments.

HERE'S WHAT YOU GET FROM TIAA-CREF.

TIAA offers you the safety of a traditional annuity that guarantees your principal plus a specified rate of interest, and provides for additional growth through dividends. For its stability, sound investments, and overall financial strength, TIAA has received the highest possible ratings from all three of the insurance industry's leading independent agencies.†

CREF's variable annuity offers opportunities for growth with four different investment accounts, each managed with the long-term perspective essential to sound retirement planning.

EXPERIENCE. PERFORMANCE. STRENGTH.

Your future is protected by the largest private retirement system in the nation. Since 1918, we have been helping build a secure future for people in education and research. We have done so well, for so many, for so long that we currently manage over $95 billion in assets.

SEND NOW FOR A FREE RETIREMENT INVESTMENT KIT, including a Special Report on TIAA investments. Mail this coupon to: TIAA-CREF, Dept. OC, 730 Third Avenue, New York, NY 10017. Or call 1-800-842-2733, Ext. 8016.

TIAA CREF

Ensuring the future for those who shape it.™

© 1991 Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association/College Retirement Equities Fund

† All Best Co.'s Superior Weiss Inc. Standard & Poor's AAA

CN

ROTUNDA

VOL. 71, NO. 3 | LONGWOOD COLLEGE | FARMVILLE, VIRGINIA | SEPTEMBER 30, 1991

Committed to the End

We Bid Farewell to Dr. Rosemary Sprague

By KIMBER SCOTT AND MARNIE TURMAN

Dr. Rosemary Sprague, often referred to as the "Lady in the Hat", died Tuesday, September 24, 1991 of smoke inhalation in a fire at her home. Funeral services were held at Johns Memorial Episcopal Church in Farmville, Saturday, September 28. Her burial was held at the Calra Episcopal Church at 2 p.m.

"The entire campus is in a state of shock and grief," said President William F. Dorrill. Flags were flown at half mast for a week in respect to her passing.

Dr. Sprague, a member of the Longwood College Faculty for 29 years will be remembered for her commitment and understanding. She arrived at Longwood in 1962. Five years later in 1967, she was named Distinguished Professor of English Emerta by the Board of Visitors. She was one of three professors to earn the title.

During her lifetime, Dr. Sprague was honored with numerous titles recognizing her commitment. "Her life centered around the college, the church, and the community," said Dr. Geoffrey Orth. In addition to Professor Emerta, she was the Corporate Representative from Longwood to the Farmville Area Branch of the American Association of University Women.

In 1990 Dr. Sprague retired from her full-time teaching. However, she remained faithful to the school by staying active with former responsibilities. Until her death, she taught one class of World Literature.

Her memory and influence will live one, through the students that she taught and her fellow colleagues. "Everyone that comes in contact with her hopes that somehow their experience with her would help to change them in someway," stated Teaching Assistant, Cathy Gaughran.

Often referred to as a Victorian Scholar, Dr. Sprague "carried herself in a way not only to bring dignity to herself as an individual, but because of that to the opinions and beliefs that she holds," stated Dr. Van Ness. She was respected by all for her understanding with students and her service to the school Her anecdotes of life helped make learning more enjoyable and remembered.

During her years at the College, Dr. Sprague published the Sesquicentennial History. Other works include Biographies of authors Robert Browning and George Eliot, "Imaginary Garden's", a study of five American Poets and nine young adult novels.

The church became an important part of her life. The Reverand Allie W. Frazier Jr. said she was a "faithful member." Her duties to the church included President of Episcopal Women, Alter Guild Chair of the Diasis, and a member of the Committee for the Centennial Commission of the Diasis. She was also one of two delegates in the Diocesan Council.

Dr. Sprague's commitment to the community was highlighted by her service in the Judith Randolph-Longwood NSDAR. In 1980, she became Chapter Regent. By 1983 she was District III Director and in 1986 became the Virginia DAR State Historian. She also served on the History of the Virginia Daughters of the American Revolution Committee, the DAR State Speakers Staff. Dr. Sprague was also Corresponding Secretary of the District III Regents Club. "In her years of service to the DAR, she never refused any request and worked well with other people," stated NSDAR member, Mrs. John M. Austin. Dr. Sprague would have been a member for 40 years in October.

"Dr. Sprague was a legend whose legacy to Longwood will be remember and appreciated for generations to come," stated Dr. Dorrill. Respected by all, she will be missed and in the months to come her value to the school will be re-emphasized as others take over her duties, stated Dr. Orth.

Dr. Rosemary Sprague: A memorial service will be held in her honor Wednesday, October 2, at 5:15pm in Jarman Auditorium.

Costs Up to Attend Longwood

By DINA M. DAWSON,
News Staff

Finding yourself in the poorhouse after paying the costs for higher education?

If you answered yes to that question, then you are not alone. This year the cost to attend Longwood for an in-state, undergraduate, residential student on the fifteen meal plan has gone from $6,168.00 to $6,594.00, an increase of 6.9 percent.

For undergraduate, residential students on the nineteen meal plan, there was a 6.7 percent increase while out-of-state undergraduate students suffered 14.5 percent and 14.3 percent price increases in total costs.

According to Rick Hurley, Vice-President of Business Affairs, there are several things that have contributed to the increase in the costs to attend Longwood. The county within which Longwood is situated has recently begun charging landfill fees, equivalent to $24,000.00 that the school must now account for. There has also been a newly passed policy requiring underground storage tank testing, which costs $10,000.00, and money is needed to support the Farmville area bus system, recently put into action.

In addition, there are some costs that the school must pay, such as food and electricity charges, that increase every year, thus attributing to the yearly increases in the prices of a higher education at Longwood.

For the past two years Longwood has seen such price increases as 6.8 percent for the academic year 1990-1991 and 5.0 percent for the academic year 1989-1990.

This year's budget reduction of $1,700,000.00 has also had its part in increasing the costs to attend Longwood, meaning that the financial support given by the state this academic year has dropped from 71 to 61 percent!

Each dollar the state gives to Longwood, the students are expected to match with thirty cents. This means that with the high dollar amounts given to Longwood by the state for new programs, more money to match the amount is expected from students and tuition, and other costs are raised.

Despite the fact that Longwood has seen increases in its costs in the past several years, Mr. Hurley does not think it will always be like that, with bouncing out of the recession and more high school graduates coming to the rescue.

By bouncing out of the recession, hopefully the state will be able to raise its amount of assistance back up to 71 percent, or maybe even higher, and as more students graduate from high school and enter college there will be more students to spread the charges among, hopefully lowering the prices of higher education.

Speaking on the subject of the future, Longwood students could see prices continue to rise if the recession does not end soon and if a new, proposed bookstore and dining hall are constructed, or any other future construction projects come through that are not funded by the state. However, the state requires the college to conduct a feasibility study, where one aspect examined is how much increase the students could afford as a result of the project that will be constructed.

With the new 1991-92 costs for in-state tuition, fees, room, and board Longwood ranks eight out of fifteen schools across the state in terms of cost in going from highest to lowest prices.

For out-of-state students, Longwood ranks nine out of fifteen once again in terms of costs when going from highest to lowest prices.

While some individuals may feel the costs to attend Longwood are somewhat expensive, Mr. Hurley adds "we focus on what's the bottom line charge to the parents". If the price increases continue, can you imagine what the costs to attend college would look like in the year 2,000?

As far as predictions go, Mr. Hurley thinks that "Virginia will have high cost institutions, state schools will always be less, and that the states will always invest in higher education to make it affordable."

High Rise Repairs Delayed

Students Caught Unprepared

By ELLEN M. DARDEN
News Staff

When Longwood students returned to school this semester, many were not prepared for the noise that awaited those who live in Frazer and Curry. The reason for the work on these two dorms is because the expansion joints in these buildings need work done to allow them to breathe and to also be more sturdy and secure.

According to David Rettig, Director of Housing, the work began during the summer, but was delayed for a short period. Because of that, construction should end either at the end of October or the first part of November.

In regards to the new windows that have been installed in Curry, they only open a certain amount for safety purposes. They have also been installed to create a more energy-efficient environment and will allow the heating and air conditioning system to work better.

David Rettig, also expects for the new dormitory to be completed and in use for the summer sessions in 1992. There are also plans in the near future to renovate the desk areas in Frazer and Curry to resemble the ones in Stubbs, Cox and Wheeler so that these areas will be more visible to the public.

Also, there are plans to do some renovation work on the Commons Room between the two high rises to make it look more attractive.

Longwood College is constantly making improvements on its campus to make it more appealing to future students as well as present ones. With these changes to help our campus grow, students should expect to see many changes take place, therefore we must take the noise, construction projects and renovations and realize that it's all being done to make a better place for everyone who is a student at Longwood.

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
Features 3
News 4
Comics 5

Rape Victims May File Civil Suit

By Eileen N. Wagner, Ed. D., J.D.

With a club at his shoulder, the cave man matter-offactly drags a woman by her hair into his cave. I must have seen this cartoon in the Sunday funnies a hundred times while I was growing up. Drawn by a man, it was supposed to be the beginning of a domestic relationship. I recognize it now: That's really rape!

Is this what women want? Or is this what men want women to expect? With images of forced sex like this one infiltrating movies, television, commercials, advertising copy and even the funny papers, it's no wonder some women don't recognize when they have been raped by an acquaintance.

Instinct Recognizes Rape

Women's minds and bodies recognize rape, however, even if their intellects have been hoodwinked. No matter what victims call nonconsensual intercourse, their instincts react to the sudden physical invasion and to the betrayal of trust. Whether they are raped by a stranger or by an acquaintance, whether they were virgins at the time or sexually experienced, whether the rape was violent or not-so-violent, these women go into shock.

The shock rape victims seem universally to experience is called "rape trauma syndrome." Other people may not see the physical or psychological suffering. The victim may go right on about her business as if nothing is wrong. In fact, the victim may deny to others and to herself that something is wrong. Despite all this denial, rape trauma syndrome causes real damage. The damage suffered by an acquaintance rape victim of violent stranger rape. No matter how hard the victim may work to hide the damage, it does not go away "if only" she can stop thinking about it. Time isn't a cure either. Some victims are surprised to find the pain they hid for years can erupt just as fresh as it was the day the rape happened.

Compensation for Dollar-Value Damages

Acquaintance rape victims should be compensated for the damage of rape trauma syndrome. Time missed from school or work, opportunities missed because of inability to concentrate, chances missed because of paralyzing fear of another attack or because of anxiety over contagious disease, medical expenses for testing and treatment, not to mention long-term counseling expenses are just some of the dollar-value damages and acquaintance rape victim must bear. Although, it's hard to put a dollar-value on pain and suffering, courts do it all the time in automobile accident lawsuits. Acquaintance rape victims should be compensated for their pain and suffering too.

Why should the perpetrator of an acquaintance rape escape without paying these damages? If someone smashes into your car, deliberately or not, you wouldn't drive away without getting an insurance carrier's name. You certainly wouldn't drive away telling yourself, "Well, it was my fault anyway. I should've known better." You wouldn't hide your wrecked car in a dark garage telling yourself, "I shouldn't have been where I was when I was, or wearing what I was, or talking like I was. Or, I shouldn't have had that drink the hour before." You wouldn't shake your head as you inspect the broken glass and crunched metal telling yourself, "I got what I deserved. If I drive a car, I've got to expect this and just accept it."

Fear of Criminal Charges

Many victims of acquaintance rape recognize their hurt, but they don't know what to do about it. They're frankly afraid of filing a criminal charge. They worry that the criminal system might "rape them again." They worry that juries will automatically blame them – and enough people do blame the victim to make it tough getting a unanimous verdict. Victims even worry that a jail sentence is just too harsh for an acquaintance – many judges would agree with that. Though laws to protect victims of rape are much more liberal than a decade ago, victims worry that the criminal standard of proof – beyond a reasonable doubt – is just too high to prove something so private as acquaintance rape – and many prosecuting attorneys would agree with that assessment, too.

Few victims of acquaintance rape know that you can sue the perpetrator for monetery damages in a civil lawsuit without involving the police at all. The standard of proof in a civil lawsuit is lower – it's called a preponderance of the evidence. A unanimous jury is not always necessary, either. Victims can also sue for money after the police are finished with the case – even if the perpetrator pleaded guilty to a lesser charge and even if the perpetrator was acquitted!

Lawyer + Evidence = Civil Lawsuit

For a civil lawsuit, all the victim needs is a lawyer and some evidence that the perpetrator touched her in an offensive manner – this is called the "intentional tort" of battery. She doesn't even have to prove she didn't consent because it's up to the perpetrator to prove – not to allege, not to imply, not to insinuate, but to PROVE – that she did consent. If you think, it's tough getting evidence to prove that a woman didn't consent just think how difficult it would be to find hard evidence that she did consent.

Best of all, with a civil lawsuit the victim doesn't have to come forward right away. The state of Virginia gives a victim two full years after it happened to file a civil lawsuit for acquaintance rape. That's plenty of time to gather evidence and to get over the initial shock. Incidentally, Virginia has no time limit for filing the criminal charge of rape. That's a fact which should make some perpetrators consider the advantages of a quick cash settlement.

Filing a civil lawsuit has some drawbacks which a lawyer can best explain after the victim relates all the facts. But a few drawbacks should not daunt victims from asking lawyers to evaluate their cases, just as we ask insurance adjusters to estimate repair costs for wrecked cars. If acquaintance rape victims demanded monetary damages in court with the same vigor that we insist on monetary damages for automobile accidents, perpetrators of sexual assault will have to get insurance or change their behavior. Insurance companies aren't likely to offer rape policies. So perpetrators will surely change their behavior and that's good for all women.

Getting the Money

Many personal injury lawyers are taking cases to get monetary damges for sexual assaults. Many lawyers will take these cases on a contingency fee – that is, the lawyer gets a percentage of the judgment or settlement. If the case is lost or dropped, the lawyer gets no fee.

A lot of people don't know that Virginia allows at least 20 years to collect a judgment from the loser of a lawsuit. A lot of people don't know that the sheriff will help the winner seize the loser's property – things like bank accounts, cars, stereo equipment, boats, stamp collections, lottery winnings, inheritances and real estate – including things that the loser received after the lawsuit. A lot of people don't know that the winner can garnish the loser's wages until the judgment is paid up and that every state – and some foreign countries – will honor the judgments of every other state. A lot of people don't know that a loser can't declare bankruptcy to avoid a judgment for a deliberate injury. To find a lawyer, you need only telephone the local bar association and ask for "lawyer referral."

When injured women start successfully hitting perpetrators of acquaintance rape in the place men understand best – their wallets, these women will be surprised to find they are not alone in suffering this wrong. Thousands of women – like myself – who have hidden their hurt out of a brainwashed sense of shame will come forward to expose the most debilitating injustice women experience in our society.

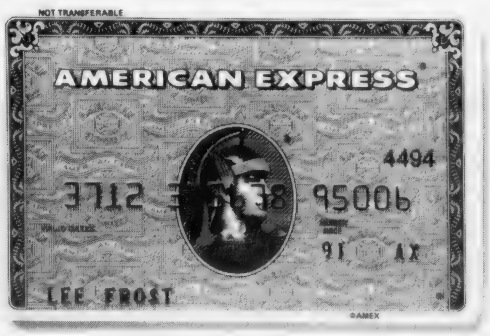
If you want more information, drop a postcard with your name and address to Dr. Eileen N. Wagner, P.O. Box 14755, Richmond, VA 23221.

HELP WANTED

FREE SPRING BREAK TRIPS to students or student organizations promoting our Spring Break Packages. Good Pay & Fun. Call CMI. 1-800-423-5264

FREE TRAVEL, CASH, AND EXCELLENT BUSINESS EXPERIENCE!! Openings available for individuals or student organizations to promote the country's most successful SPRING BREAK tours. Call Inter-Campus Programs 1-800-327-6013.

COLLEGE REP WANTED — to distribute "Student Rate" subscription cards at this campus. Good income. For information and application write to: Collegiate Marketing Services, P. O. Box 1436, Mooresville, NC 28115.



RAISE $500...$1000...$1500
FOOL PROOF FUND RAISING
For your fraternity, sorority, team or other campus organization.
ABSOLUTELY NO INVESTMENT REQUIRED!
CALL 1-000-950-0472, ext. 50

Congratulations to the Student Union Board and all those that helped with the Connells!

— FREE —
PREGNANCY TEST
All services confidential.
Same day results.
SOUTHSIDE PREGNANCY CENTER
24-HOUR HOTLINE
392-8483

Good news for people who shop.

Now you can use the Card for everything the Campus Bookstore sells.

Now it's easier than ever to pick up Plato, discover Proust, or even show your colors with a new campus sweatshirt. Just pay for whatever you need at the bookstore with the American Express® Card.

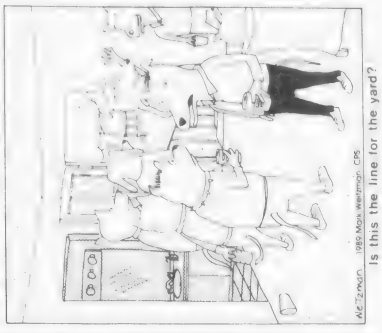
No American Express Card? No problem.

To become a Cardmember just complete and return one of the American Express Student Applications available at the bookstore. Once you're approved, you can enjoy added student Card privileges like discounted roundtrip airfares on Continental Airlines and great new long-distance savings with MCI.

So shop your bookstore today. From classic books to classic wear, the news is ... you can use the Card for everything you buy.

Cards

Longwood College Bookstore
Ruffner Building
Store hours: Monday-Friday, 9:00 a.m -5:00 p.m.
Your Best Place to Shop!



COMICS

NO EXIT by Erik Andresen

ZOO U. by Mark Weitzman

PERSONAL

KT — Let's party into the wee-wee hours this weekend!

To Cast of MacBeth — Break A Leg — Your A.D.

Basham — Seen any "buns" lately? — Zeta love, C.V. & H. R.

To THE drunk — paybacks are hell!

Aaron and Set Crew — Well done, looks good. You did quite well.

My Lady — "How came she? By that light!" "Out damn spot. Out I say." Wax burns ... stained sheets ... How now brown cow?! MOO! SPLAT! Rx —— Bed Rest ... — The Doctor

Props, house, lights, publicity, sound, make-up, running and all Crews — Excellent Jobs done by all. Your efforts are very much appreciated! The actors may have all the glory. But without the crews the show cannot go on. — Thank you for your work!

"Dreamweaver" — Had a piece lately? Pizza, that is!!

Heather R. — "You look so attractive today." — Zeta Love, C.V.

Wingfield — What's it like to have a young scam? — Zeta love, C.V., J.P. & M.M.

Leslie and Karen — Thank you and break a leg — Shannan

To the Cast and crew of MACBETH — If I'm not here next week — Break - A - Leg!! You could always kidnap me and make me see the play — PLEASE?! — Love, Sharon

Tony — No matter what happens or what the outcome may be don't forget to stay calm and don't lose your head.

Piggy: — You're the best roommate in the whole wide world! I don't know what I'd do without you... maybe go crazy?! Thanks for always being there for me. — Kermit

Proffitt — Been "Skywalking" lately? — Zeta Love, C.V.

Winkrs — Been dancing with a "Spanish" dude lately?

"IGOR" — Thanks for being there for me. You're the greatest. — "HUMPBACK"

To all the sisters of Zeta Tau Alpha — You all are the greatest and I love you all. — Zeta Love, Claudia V.

My Lady — You are right, it wasn't the candle. It was that Damn Brown cow. How now How now How now.

Pledge Nagy — Enough said! — Your buddies

To all Crews — Thank you for a job well done. — Shannan

Δ/Exxon — I love you sweetie! Thanks for everything you do for me! I believe in you so don't ever give up on yourself! Love, remember, is what you make of it. Time heals all wounds! Forever? I hope so! — K-Shyn

Michele M. — Everything will be okay. I'm here for you. I love you, Roomie. — Zeta love, Claudia

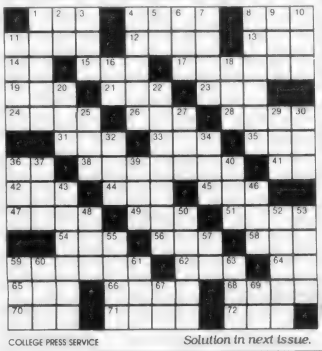
CV & MM — Next time you party during the day, try to make it through the night! — Love ya J.P.

Starlight — You-R an awesome Roomie! Thanks for surviving — a pledge scam/April Fool's Break-Up/Higgy's calls/ $5 movie jokes/ PMS/ young men/ As the Isle Turned/ Steve B.S. S.S.S. & my ever dwindling free time. Chin up- say no - Lifesafers all the way - God Bless! — Sunshine

Costumes — They look good!

Snoogums — Because you're special — U

Church — You wasn't suppose to actually try to 'Break a Leg' it is only a figure of speech. — Your A. D.



The Weekly Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

1 Inlet
4 Stupefy
8 Lift with lever
11 Fondles
12 Story
13 Meadow
14 Above
15 Heraldry abbr
17 High regard
19 Stitch
21 Once around track
23 Ocean
24 Narrow, flat board
26 Play on words
28 Short jacket
31 Obstruct
33 Pekoe
35 Declare
36 Exist
38 Experts
41 Symbol for tellurium
42 River island
44 Baker's product
45 Measure of weight
47 Walked on
49 Attempt
51 Direction
54 At present
56 Behold
58 Tiny
59 Bread makers
62 Priest's vestment
64 Sun god
65 Actor Wallach
66 Diving birds
68 Sea in Asia
70 Lair
71 Saucy
72 Unit of Portuguese currency

DOWN

1 Repulse
2 Pronoun
3 Hard-wood tree
4 Strip of leather
5 Symbol for tantalum
6 Rubber tree
7 Promontory
8 Folds
9 Female ruff
10 Sweet potato
11 Kitten
16 Spanish article
18 Golf mound
20 Small lump
22 Certain golf clubs
25 Scottish cap
27 Born
29 Grain
30 Brood of pheasants
32 Chart
34 Skill
36 Cudgel
37 Goddess of healing
39 Pose for portrait
40 Female hog
43 Gulf off Viet Nam
46 Recent
48 Female deer
50 Bread ingredient
52 Caravansary
53 River duck
55 Envelop
57 Spanish article
59 Plot of land
60 Saloon suds
61 Petition
63 Prohibit
67 Symbol for krypton
69 Concerning

COLLEGE PRESS SERVICE

Solution in next issue.

Campus Calendar

Freshman class election results will be posted on Oct. 3 in the New Smoker.

Information on events should be submitted to the Student Union Office in Lankford by the Wednesday preceding the appropriate issue of the paper.

Tuesday October 1

HIV Update by David Kamens. 1:15 pm Gold Room

Minority Student Dinner: Minority Career Day Information & Guest Speaker. 4:45 pm Virginia Room

Arm Wrestling. 10:00 pm Lancer Cafe

Tennis DBLS. EB due before meeting.

Wednesday October 2

Soccer: Mary Washington. 3:30 pm 1st Ave. Field

Rotunda Sfaff Meeting: Interested in working - come join us. 6:00 pm Lankford Conf. Rm. 3

Play: Macbeth. 8:00 pm Jarman

Mentalist Craig Karges. 9:00 pm Lancer Cafe

International Film: Nasty Girl. 9:00 pm Gold Room

Thursday October 3

Teleconference Featuring Panel of Employer Experts: The Job Interview. 6:30 pm Hampden-Sydney College (requires prior sign-up in CPPC)

Weekend Coed Bowling. EB due before meeting.

Poetry Reading by Thomas Lux. 8:00 pm Wygal

Play: Macbeth. 8:00 pm Jarman

Arm Wrestling. 10:00 pm Lancer Cafe

Friday October 4

Play: Macbeth. 10:00 am & 8:00 pm Jarman

Movie : Backdraft 9:00 pm Gold Room

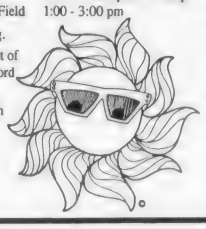
OKTOBERFEST is just around the corner - Can you feel the spirit?

Saturday October 5

Field Hockey: Cavalier Club. 11:30 am Barlow Field



Weekend Coed Bowling.

Band Concert: Moment of Silence. 8:00 pm Lankford Mall

Play: Macbeth. 8:00 pm Jarman

Sunday October 6

Greeks Campus Cleanup. 1:00 - 3:00 pm

Monday October 7

Lecture: "Changes in International Relations and Their Impact on the Security of the World" by Prvoslov Davinic. 7:30 pm Bedford

Movie : Backdraft 9:00 pm Gold Room

Indoor Soccer Officials. Application due and meeting.

Socrates Said . . .

All Good Greeks should celebrate Greek Weekend at the Lancer Cafe. Get Dirty in the Mud and then come to the Cafe to Get Down!!

Hours
MWF 11am - 10pm
T-Th 11am - 12am
SAT 11am - 10pm
SUN 11am - 7pm

SPORTS

Tennis Remains Unbeaten

Moving its record to 5-0, the Longwood women's tennis team notched a pair of wins last week, beating Randolph-Macon Woman's College 9-0 Tuesday on the road and Christopher-Newport 7-2 Saturday at home.

With just three matches left on the fall schedule, Longwood has a chance to finish with an undefeated record for the first time since 1977 spring team went 9-0. Still to come are contests at Hollins Tuesday, at Virginia Wesleyan Oct. 7 and at home against RMWC Oct. 9. Longwood's best previous records for fall women's tennis were 7-3-1 in 1976 and last year's 5-2 mark.

"We have a chance to finish unbeaten, but the Hollins match will be a tough one," said coach Angie Coppedge. "The whole team is just playing super. They get along together really well and work hard."

Grabbing double wins for the Lady Lancers in singles last week were No. 1 Jenny Holm, No. 2 Suzie Lawman, No. 3 Melanie Saunders, No. 4 Kimber Bear, No. 5 Heather Leach and No. 6 Jennifer Risko. All five players are unbeaten in singles for the year, except for Holm who is 4-1.

In doubles, Longwood two-time winners last week were Saunders and Leach at No. 2 and Bear and Amy Thomas at No. 3. Holm and Lawman were 1-1 for the week at No. 1 doubles.

Holm rallied from a 4-1 deficit in the first set to beat Amy Lawrence of Christopher-Newport 7-5, 6-1 in a hard-fought single match Saturday.

"It was a great win for Jenny," said coach Coppedge. "She worked hard to come back and win the match."

KIMBER BEAR

Bear Named Player of the Week

Senior Kimber Bear, who has a perfect record in both singles and doubles for the unbeaten Longwood women's tennis team, has been named Longwood College Player of the Week for the period Sept. 22-29. Player of the Week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.

Last week Bear got wins in singles and doubles as Longwood won 9-0 at Randolph-Macon Woman's College Tuesday and 7-2 over Christopher-Newport Saturday in Farmville. The Lady Lancers are 5-0 and Bear is 5-0 at No. 4 singles and 5-0 at No. 3 doubles, playing mostly with Amy Thomas.

Much improved over last season (she was 4-9 overall in singles), Bear has drawn praise from coach Angie Coppedge for her play.

"Kimber has come back this year with such confidence," said Coppedge. "She seems to have found herself. She's always been a good player, but now she has learned how to win. Kimber has been strong in doubles as well as singles. Even though she moved up from No. 5 to No. 4 in singles, her record this year is much improved.

"It's difficult for me to single out one player, because the whole team has played well this fall. I feel, however, that Kimber may be the most improved player from last year."

Lady Sticks Split Four on the Road

By GREG PROUTY

The Longwood College field hockey team lost a pair of games in North Carolina over the weekend as they saw their record slip to 2-6-1 on the year. Saturday, the Lady Lancers were edged by Catawba 2-1, before being shutout 2-0 by Division I Davidson on Sunday. Coach Sandy Bridgeman's squad finished its week on the road 1-2-1.

Against Catawba on Saturday, Longwood fell behind 2-0 in the opening half as Nikki Shappell and Staci Thomson scored goals for the Lady Indians. Lady Lancer junior Jenny Wuebker scored her team — leading third goal of the season after the intermission to close the deficit to 2-1. Longwood kept Catawba from even attempting a shot the second half, but was unable to close any further.

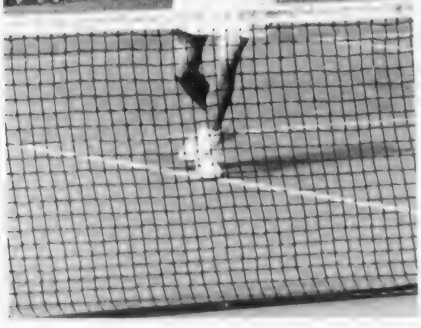
Davidson jumped ahead 2-0 early against Longwood on Sunday and the margin stood the rest of the year. Scoring goals for the Cats were Jennifer Roos and Mary Russ, with an assist from Jacquelin Ukrop. Lady Lancer freshman goal keeper Sara Hogan had seven saves in the net.

"We need to handle pressure better," commented Bridgeman. "We need to improve upon our game sense by showing more poise and maturity, eliminating senseless mental errors."

Last Thursday the Lady Lancers played to a 1-1 double-overtime tie at Randolph-Macon in Ashland. Sophomore Missy Moran scored a goal off an assist from freshman Mari Willen with just 1:08 remaining in regulation. The goal came as Longwood gambled by pulling its goalie off the field and inserting an extra offensive player with two minutes left. Neither team was able to score during the overtime periods.

Men's Golf Struggles at Greensboro

By GREG PROUTY



The Longwood men's golf team finished 18th of 21 teams of the Aubrey Apple Collegiate Invitational in Greensboro, North Carolina last Monday and Tuesday. The 7,135 yard, par-72 Bryan Park Golf Course swallowed up the Lancers during the first round of play. Longwood opened with an uncharacteristic high score of 346, before rebounding with a 317 for a two-day score of 663.

Campbell University in North Carolina won the tournament with a 302-295-597, just edging runner-up Methodist College in North Carolina, 298-300-598.

Longwood was led by sophomore Jimmy Ward with 83-77-160. Ward's play this fall has moved him into the number one position for the Lancers. Senior Jeff Smiley shot 86-79-165, junior Frank Davide 89-79-168, sophomore Shawn Moore 88-82-170, and freshman Jason Johnson fired 91-85-176.

Longwood returns to action Sunday in the 36-hole Rhododendron Classic in Pipestem State Park, West Virginia.

Jenny Holm volleys her way to a come from behind victory in the No. 1 seeds match against Christopher Newport.

Lancer Kickers Drop Two

Facing tough opposition on the road, the Longwood soccer team dropped a pair of games in the University of Southern Indiana Tournament in Evansville, IN, over the weekend, falling to Mercyhurst 2-0 Friday and host Southern Indiana 3-1 Saturday night.

Longwood, now 5-5 after three straight losses, will seek to bounce back Wednesday at 3:30 when Mary Washington visits Farmville for a Virginia Intercollegiate Soccer Association Eastern Division matchup. The game will feature the same two teams that met in the finals of the VISA Playoffs last November. The Eagles won that contest 2-1, avenging an earlier 1-0 loss to the Lancers.

In another game this week, Longwood visits Virginia Military Institute Saturday for an 11 a.m. contest.

Mercyhurst, ranked eighth in Division II last week, broke loose from a 0-0 halftime tie with a pair of second half goals to beat the Lancers 2-0 Friday. Longwood managed just five shots to the victors' 18.

Saturday night, Ted Doran scored at 29:35 on an assist from Mark Wolcott to put the Lancers on top of Southern Indiana 1-0. USI knotted the count at 1-1 on a score by Shane Gibson just 21 seconds before halftime. The host team, which out-shot Longwood 23-4, got two more goals in the second half to move its record to 5-4-1.

"We played very well against USI," said Lancer coach Stan Cieplinski. "We had a couple of mental lapses and a bit of confusion here and there but we played some of our best soccer of the season."

Intramurals

By JOHN FOX
Sports Staff

The 2 on 2 Men's Beach Volleyball finally was finished last Friday. The competition this year was extremely competitive with 25 games. The final game was a best 2 out of 3 and the final game was fierce. Chris Burres and Chris Lacks prevailed over Tom Marcey and Todd Bono. The final score of the third game was 20-18. This tournament is one of the best tournaments in the Intramural program this year.

The other side of the courts the Women's Beach Volleyball ended last week with surprise winners. Cindy Didiak and Chris Martin both Sigma Sigma Sigma's won big over all the competition in the tournament.

The Fresh Alternative

COLD SUBS — HONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD — SIX INCH / FOOT LONG

For TWICE the meat, just say "Super" ...add ...	1.00	2.00
BMT (ham, genoa salami, pepperoni, bologna)	2.99	4.29
SUBWAY CLUB (roast beef, turkey, ham)	2.99	4.49
SPICY ITALIAN (genoa salami, pepperoni)	2.79	3.89
COLD CUT COMBO (ham salami, bologna - all turkey based)	1.89	3.29
BBQ CHICKEN	3.29	4.89
TUNA	2.79	4.29
SEAFOOD & CRAB	3.49	4.99
BBQ PORK	2.79	4.29
HAM & CHEESE	2.89	4.29
ROAST BEEF	2.89	4.29
TURKEY BREAST	2.89	4.29
TURKEY & BACON DELUXE	3.29	4.89
VEGGIE	1.89	2.99

HOT SUBS — HONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD — SIX INCH / FOOT LONG

MEATBALL (Limited Time Special 6" $1.69)	1.99	3.49
STEAK & CHEESE (100% sirloin)	3.09	4.59
PIZZA SUB	2.99	4.29
RIB-B-Q (Our recommended choice)	3.39	5.69
Add Bacon...	.50	1.00

Free Fixin's Cheese • Onions • Lettuce • Tomatoes • Pickles • Green Peppers • Olives • Salt • Pepper • Oil
Plus Six Requests! Mustard • Mayonnaise • Hot Peppers • Vinegar

-COUPON-
50¢ OFF ANY 6" SUB
-OR-
$1.00 OFF ANY FOOTLONG SUB!
Good at participating stores only.!
SUBWAY
Expires 12/31/91

SUBWAY
308 S. MAIN ST.
FARMVILLE, VA.
PHONE 392-8868

© 1991 Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association College Retirement Equities Fund.

PRINCIPLES of SOUND RETIREMENT INVESTING

BEFORE TRUSTING YOUR FUTURE TO ANY COMPANY, ASK FOR SOME LETTERS OF REFERENCE.

You put more than just your savings into a retirement company. You put in your trust and hopes for the future, too. So before you choose one, ask some questions. How stable is the company? How solid are its investments? How sound is its overall financial health?

A good place to start looking for answers is in the ratings of independent analysts. Three companies, all widely recognized resources for finding out how strong a financial services company really is, gave TIAA their top grade.

IN THE FINAL ANALYSIS, TIAA IS LETTER-PERFECT.

TIAA received A+ from A.M. Best Co., AAA from Standard & Poor's and Aaa from Moody's Investors Service. These ratings reflect TIAA's reliable claims-paying ability, exceptional financial strength, superior investment performance, and low expenses. With its guaranteed rate of return and opportunity for dividends, TIAA is one of less than ten companies, out of 2,200 nationwide, that received these highest marks.

CREF. FOUR MORE LETTERS EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW.

For further growth potential and diversification, there's the CREF variable annuity with four different investment accounts to give you the flexibility you want as you save for the future.

Together, TIAA and CREF form the nation's largest private retirement system, with over $95 billion in assets and more than 70 years of experience serving the education community. For over one million people nationwide, the only letters to remember are TIAA-CREF.

SEND NOW FOR A FREE RETIREMENT INVESTMENT KIT, including a Special Report on TIAA investments. Mail this coupon to: TIAA-CREF, Dept. QC, 730 Third Avenue, New York, NY 10017 Or call 1 800-842-2733, Ext. 8016.

Name (Please print)
Address
City State Zip Code
Institution (Full name)
Title Business Phone ( )
Address (Off Campus) If you Social Security #
Date

TIAA CREF Ensuring the future for those who shape it.™

CN

Longwood College

VOL. 71, NO. 4 OCTOBER 7, 1991

Rotunda

Activity Fee Increase Serves Purpose

By DINA M. DAWSON,
News Staff

The Longwood College activity fee, charged to each full time student and collected during the payment of room, board, and tuition marks one price that the students actually have control over here on the campus.

The fee, which has increased thirty-three percent this year, resulted "in fifty thousand dollars more" to be given to student groups and clubs. Mrs. Amy Eberly, treasurer of the college, said that "usually ninety thousand dollars" per year is given to such clubs and student groups but that particular sum of money always seemed to be "just not enough to go around".

Despite the fact that the increase was not a popular idea among the college's administration, it was voted on by the students last February. The idea of increasing the fee originated with the Student Government Association and was brought to the attention of Mrs. Eberly, who serves as the advisor to the appropriations committee of that association.

The job of being the advisor was left to Mrs. Eberly by her predecessor and makes sense to her since she writes all the checks for the college from their different funds. Even though Mrs. Eberly is the advisor she has no voting privileges in the business conducted by the Student Government Association Appropriations Committee.

In addition to increasing this year from $60, to $80, the Student Government Association recommended that the fee go up to $20 more a year for the next two years.

The money from the student activity fee, which this year resulted in $150,000 is available to any SGA approved student activity group who apply for it.

Students must adhere to several guidelines in order to get a part of the money, making sure their club or organization is open to the entire student population, is beneficial to the entire student population, and conducts programs that the college community can enjoy and learn from.

Student groups who ask for more than $1,000 from the appropriations committee must appear in person before the committee describing what their group wishes to use the money for. In deciding if a particular group or club receives as much, or more, money as they were given the year before the appropriations committee makes sure that the group's financial books received a favorable audit, and that the group actually used the money they were given for those purposes reported to the appropriations committee.

This year twenty-five groups have already been given money and Mrs. Eberly says she expects the committee to hear from ten to fifteen more groups during the appeals process.

A 'big chunk of the money, over $80,000 was already given to the Student Union, who the fund was established for."

With an increase in the amount of money collected and more money that is available to clubs and organizations Mrs. Eberly says that students will be able "to choose from a better quality of speakers and clubs depending on how the groups use their money." Because of the fee students are able to get into most all programs, speakers and activities free of charge.

As far as using the fee Mrs. Eberly stated that Longwood puts on the programs for its students and that its their money "whether they use it or not."

Longwood's Future Growth Outlined

By JENNIFER WYATT
Staff Reporter

On March 15, 1989 the Board of Visitors of Longwood College approved of the college's first Strategic Plan after meeting with the college faculty and staff and the local Community Advisory Committee.

The Strategic Plan is a listed document of about 35 goals and 151 objectives that provide a framework to guide Longwood's future development and growth. Some of these goals and objectives have already been achieved, some have been added in response to new demands of Longwood, and some have been revised to fit the needs of changing circumstances concerning Longwood College itself, the economic recession, and major budget cuts.

all throughout the month of September and continuing into October, College Forums open to the public and meetings of the College Council have been formed to further review and discuss revisions to this document.

A final draft has been scheduled to be presented to the Board of Visitors on October 28, 1991.

The most important objective of Longwood College is to provide a baccalaureate and graduate degree curriculum that is distinguished by academic excellence. The college and community believes that this can be achieved by appointing faculty members committed to their teaching profession in the highest standards of promoting research and/or creative pursuits.

Among goals that have already been achieved, are the establishment of cooperative programs with other institutions of higher education and the requirement of students to fulfill General Education guidelines to promote commitment in the liberal arts.

Longwood wishes to continue as well to improve upon these two aspects of the college by establishing more varieties of professional and pre-professional programs for enrolled students.

More emphasis in the future will be placed on the need to improve the quality of students who attend Longwood College. It is hoped that the college will attract a balance in gender with greater attendance by the minority, disabled, graduate, and international students. This will create a more diverse student body. In the future, Longwood plans to increase enrollment to about 3,500 students.

By accomplishing these goals, Longwood seeks to become the best medium-sized, comprehensive college in the Virginia system of higher education and one of the best in the United States.

The college administration wishes to provide the public with a summary of the most important goals the college wants to accomplish in the next two years.

The next major planning revision has been scheduled to take place in the fall of 1994.

Goals have also been established to provide an atmosphere of individual and group development, and policies and procedures have been discussed in order to maintain students' attainment at Longwood and in the future.

Having a strong bond with public service and economic development for Virginia citizens is of vital importance. Goals are being discussed to provide more varieties of credit and noncredit Continuing Education programs.

Longwood seeks to inform as well as entertain the community inside and outside of Longwood with concerts, public lectures and plays, as well as other events; most of these dealing with cultural understanding. Longwood also seeks to improve its campus facilities to increase the involvement of community groups on campus.

Longwood is still revising new ways to focus on the total development of students through their intellectual, personal, social, and career needs and qualities. Objectives are being discussed to see that these ideas not only take place inside, but outside of the classroom and dormitories.

Student development will be enhanced as Longwood continues to utilize its predominant residential nature. It is a goal of Longwood to provide educational programming that will unify academic and living environments. The needs of students living off-campus and enrolled in graduate studies programs are also being taken into consideration as the College Council continues to settle on a final draft of goals.

Longwood seeks to provide the community with a wide range of educational, economic, library, and cultural services which will serve the college as a valuable laboratory for experiences in learning and mutual enrichment.

Proposed Bill Would Restore Student Aid Cuts

By AMY REYNOLDS

(CPS) — It's an age-old complaint among college students struck in the middle — their parents make just enough money to disqualify them for financial aid, but they need financial help.

Many students, parents and educators say they are tired of a system that favors the rich and the poor and leaves out those inbetween. Now, the problems of middle-income families struggling to educate their children have caught the attention of legislators and administrators.

And some colleges have come up with innovative programs to help students caught in the middle-class money squeeze.

On Sept. 26 the United States Student Association, a student lobbying group, convinced the House subcommittee on Postsecondary Education that middle-income families need help.

In the draft reauthorizing the Higher Eduction Act, USSA had an impact on several changes made. One of the most dramatic was the establishment of Pell Grants as an entitlement under which every eligible student can receive grant assistance.

The Higher Eduction Act is reviewed every five years, and the Pell Grant's maximum amount is recommended in advance to the Appropriations Committee.

As an entitlement, the Higher Education Committee would take the current discretionary function away from the Appropriations Committee. For example, if $5 million were the funding recommendation, $5 million would be what the Appropriations Committee would have to authorize rather than using that figure as a ceiling.

Other USSA changes in the draft included:

• Increasing authorized funding for the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant program (from $499 million to $600 million), the State Student Incentive Grant program (from $85 million to $125 million) and the College Work-Study program (from $650 million to $900 million).

• Excluding home, farm and business equities from the government's need analysis of families.

• Reducing the portion of a dependent student's income expected to go to college expenses from 70 percent to 50 percent.

• Eliminating the double-counting of students' savings.

Although the bill is only in draft stages, USSA is confident the changes will remain for the bill's final passage.

In a prepared statement, USSA president Tajel Shah says "Students have seen their educational access increasingly threatened by the erosion of grant programs and USSA is organizing to reverse this trend."

Colleges and universities across the country are doing their part as well.

Beginning in the 1992-93 school year, Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio, is offering one of the most generous aid packages on record for middle income students and their families.

Antioch offers Middle Income Assistance Program loans at zero-interest. If the loan recipient graduates, the loan is forgiven. Students can receive a maximum of $7,000 each year.

"This is the only forgivable loan program for middle income families," says Jim Mann, Antioch public relations counsel. "a number of people are doing other things like forgiving half of the loan...but I think the other pale in comparison."

Hartwick College in Oneonta, N.Y., established its Parent Aid Loan Program about eight years ago, offering low-interest, partially forgivable loans to middle income students.

Hartwick's loan program offers students a maximum of $2,000 a year during their freshman and sophomore years. If two-thirds of the loan is repaid within six months of graduation, the remaining one-third is forgiven.

Oktoberfest Events Announced

By BETTY BRYANT
To The Rotunda

Longwood will celebrate Oktoberfest and Family Day on Saturday, Oct. 12. More than 1,500 guests are expected to join Longwood students, faculty, and staff for a full schedule of events.

Programs for prospective students and their parents are scheduled from 8:30 a.m. to noon Saturday. Included are tours of the campus and informational sessions on choosing an academic major, campus life, and financial aid.

The Dick Williamson Memorial Golf Tournament begins at 10 a.m. on the Longwood golf course.

The Society of Families will have a meeting at 10:30 a.m. in Lancer Gym. All parents of Longwood students are invited to attend the meeting.

The Oktoberfest parade starts at 11:45 a.m. on Pine Street, followed by the opening of the Midway and Main Stage at noon on Lankford and Stubbs Malls.

The Faculty Art Show and the Senior Show by Julie Walther will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. in Bedford Gallery and the Showcase Gallery.

Most student organizations will have booths on the Midway offering foods, games, and a variety of mementos.

Entertainment throughout the afternoon on the Main Stage includes skits by the Longwood Players and performances by the Lancer Line drill team, the Association of Black Students' choir, and Sigma Alpha Iota and Phi Mu Alpha music fraternities. Art students will be "recreating great masterpieces on the sidewalk, in the European tradition."

The Longwood Company of Dancers will give performances at 12:30, 1, and 1:30 p.m. in the Dance Studio of Lancer Hall. The Catalinas synchronized swimming club will perform at 1 and 2 p.m. in Lancer Pool.

(continued on page 4)

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
Comics 5
Features 3
News 4
Classifieds/Personals 6
Sports 8

COMMENTARY

Editorial

SOME RANDOM NOTES ON THE DINING HALL

It seems to me that since the beginning of this year, the food in Blackwell dining hall has improved somewhat over last year. Longwood, I have always heard, has better food than many other college campuses, and based on my own experiences, I would say this was true. While Longwood food is good enough, though, it could still be better. I have talked to many students who agree with me on this issue, and I will use this two-part editorial as a sort of forum to discuss their ideas along with my own.

First of all, before I say anything about the food, I'll tackle the cutlery. Several times I have reached for utensils and found them to be dirty, with pieces of dried food stuck on them. This is not very often, but it does happen. I have found this to be the case with the trays sometimes as well. For the most part, the dining hall is very sanitary, but every now and then one will find things like this. This needs to be watched.

Second, there is the problem of the food itself. There is no way I could go through each meal that is served here and to say what is good or bad about it, (not that I am any sort of a culinary critic, anyhow), but there are several things which occur constantly and which I know bother students. Let me begin by talking about chicken. How many ways can one prepare chicken? Pretty many — chicken is served at practically almost every meal save breakfast in the dining hall. Sometimes it is good, sometimes not, but in any case, people are tired of it. There needs to be some variation. Chicken is all right one, two or even three times a week, but any more than that is pushing it. Some other problems with the food: overcooked pasta, tough meat, stale bread and cereals, mushy fruits and vegetables, and watery soup. I realize how difficult it must be to prepare three meals a day for 2,0000+ people on a limited budget, but I feel confident that most of these problems can be avoided at no expense to anyone. The chicken problem would require money, but the rest of these problems are, for the most part questions of carelessness and poor timing.

Third, there is the problem of the soda and milk machines. I think the operative word here is "temperamental." Sometimes they will work fine, and other times they might not work at all. Looking at only the soda machines for a minute, sometimes they will pour out with no problems, and other times it is almost as if they are vomiting the drinks out and they spray out all over you and the counter. And sometimes, you might get either all carbonated water or all syrup, you don't know which. This is another problem which needs to be checked as well.

This editorial is not being written to criticize anyone, only to discuss certain problems with the dining hall. As I said before, the dining hall is better this year, and people notice the effort that has been put forth to make it so. For example, the salad bar is much better. More work still needs to be done, though, if Longwood wants to keep its reputation as having some of the best campus food in the state of Virginia.

Christopher Jones,
Editor

Letter To The Editor

Editor, The Rotunda,

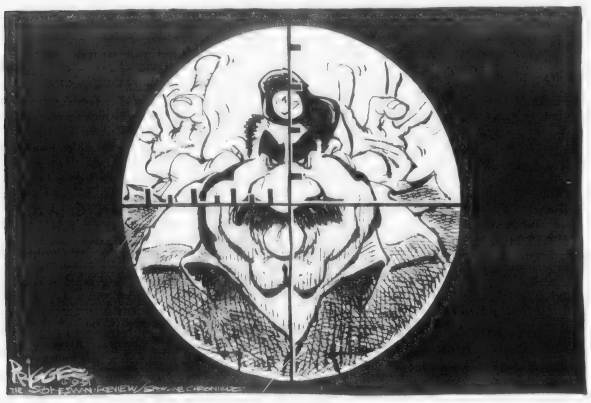
I am writing in regard to a situation that has really disturbed me. I attended Dr. Sprague's British Literature class on Thursday, September 26 to find that a replacement teacher had been assigned to instruct the class for the rest of the semester. I would like to comment on the teacher's tactless behavior concerning Dr. Sprague's death, and how she intended on carrying out the semester. It is understandable that another teacher needed to step in to finish out the semester, but it should and could have been handled in a much more sensitive and professional manner. The replacement teacher was very rude and disrespectful not only to the students but to Dr. Sprague. At one point, the teacher asked to see a copy of the quiz question that we had been assigned a couple of weeks ago. After reading it, she rudely said, "That's a quiz!" Throughout the class her behavior was so insensitive that students found themselves looking at each other in disbelief.

I realize that it would be impossible for anyone to fill Dr. Sprague's shoes, but in dealing with such a tragic situation, one certainly would not expect the replacement teacher to use such an insensitive and condescending approach as his or her tactic to gain class acceptance and respect. It was hard enough for us to deal with the loss of such a special teacher, without having to deal with a teacher who forced us to defend ourselves and Dr. Sprague's intentions.

-Name withheld by request

To Be or Not To Be. . . A Voting Member

By Erin McCay



That is the question, at least in regard to freshmen and their role in the SGA. According to the Student Government Association constitution, a first year student's role in governing should be minimal, at best. Out of nineteen possible voting positions on the SGA Senate, only four may be held by freshmen. And of those four, only one is held exclusively by a freshman.

As I understand it, the rationale behind this rule is that first-year students need time to become acclimatized to Longwood. They also need, according to some, the opportunity to establish the GPA's.

For all intents and purposes, we are all now considered adults. Why then this restriction? If it has to do with grades, please consider that it is just as possible that a senior fail to get a 2.0 and be forced to resign from SGA office as it is for a freshman. And if the problem is the lack of an established GPA, freshmen are given their midterm grades quite soon into their first semester. Couldn't these serve the same function as an established GPA, until the first semester GPA became available? One must assume that the professors who record our midterm grades did not simply create them out of midair.

As a group, freshmen comprise roughly one-fourth of the student body, and therefore provide approximately the same one-fourth of the student activity fees. I feel that we definitely deserve a greater voice in how that money is spent, in addition to having the opportunity to adequately express our views on policies that affect us. We are, as has been stressed to us constantly since Preview, adults. An integral part of maturity is making your own choices and taking your own chances, a prime example of which is balancing school, social life, and extracurricular activities. Freshmen are expected to act like adults at Longwood College. Therefore, we should be given the full rights and responsibilities accorded other adult members of the Longwood community.

Erin McCay is a first-year history major and President of the Commuter Student Association.

The Political Corner
with Keith Johnson

WHAT'S NEXT

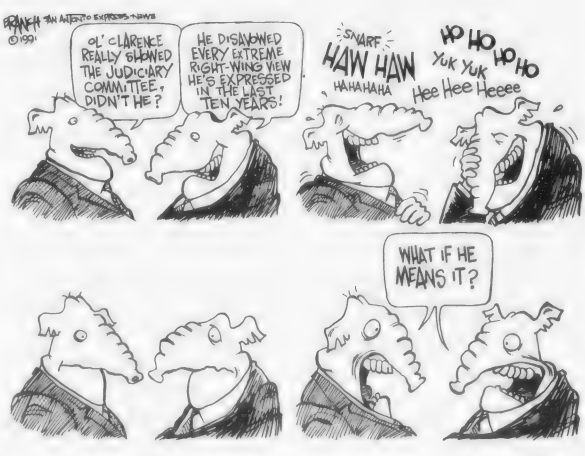
Do you know much about the Middle East?

Well, if not consider the possibility of nuclear weapons that would be capable of striking Saudi Arabian, Israeli and U.S targets. Until the Gulf War most Americans had no knowledge of the Iraqi potential for building nuclear arms. Now with the evidence supported by documents and the finding of over 1,200 pieces of equipment that were to be used in the centrifuge method of enriching uranium, most Americans see the threat that lingers still in the Middle East.

As tensions rose last week over the detainment of a U.N. inspection team for more than 4 days, many Americans like myself began to wonder if the U.S. military involvement in the Middle East had only temporarily subsided. U.S. Military officials last week claimed that more U.S. supplies and missiles still continue to be transported to the Middle East and that many U.S. spy satellites may be redirected on the region for close observation. A sizable U.S. fleet still operates in the Gulf region and many of these ships are capable of launching the deadly Tomahawk cruise missiles that are equipped with 1000 pound warheads.

It was found after close inspection by the U.N. team that Iraq definitely has been working on the creation of a reliable detonation system for nuclear weapons, and showed the possible production plans for a surface-to-surface missile that could be used as a delivery system.

The U.N. special commission suggested that a ban be placed on Iraq's nuclear power program and that any nuclear activity should be limited to medical research such as the use of isotopes. Iraq lied to the world when it claimed that it had no nuclear weapons program and many feel Iraq would lie again if given the opportunity to rebuild its nuclear energy program. Many critics claim that a nuclear energy program would be a shield for nuclear weapons research. Thus, an indefinite number of inspections of Iraqi sites has also been proposed by the commission in hopes of slowing Baghdad's intentions on completing a nuclear device.



The next question is how to effectively monitor these sites in the future and should military intervention be dismissed? How long will our presence be needed in the gulf region? It would seem that our presence in the gulf is still needed and will continue to be for several years to come.

Also, a last concern of many individuals is how far will President Bush go before taking further steps to reduce or destroy Iraq's nuclear potential? Many feel that this task could be done by air attacks; however, as Iraq's was found by the U.N. Special commission a great deal of Iraq's nuclear materials were buried in the sand throughout Iraq.

So it would seem that we are going to have to dig a little deeper if we wish to locate all of Saddam's weapons and even then how effective are we going to be?

It will be an answer only time will tell, but one that every individual in the United States should be concerned about!

Keith Johnson is a senior political science major at Longwood.

Rotunda

THE STAFF:

Executive Editor: Bradley L. Owen
Editor: Christopher S. Jones
Features Editor: Sherry Gatewood
Asst. Features Editor: Ann Renee Heim
Sports Editor: Charlie Fultz
Photography Editor: Judi Weller
Layout Design: Gregg D. Fisher
Business Manager: R. Anita Owens
Advisors: Mr. William C. Woods, Ms. Brenda Atkins
Founding Editor: Reim Skillman

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed or printed neatly. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is noon Thursday prior to the Monday publication date and there should be placed in the envelopes inside the Publication offices door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by 5 p.m. Sunday. All submissions become the property of The Rotunda.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College. The Rotunda is an Associated Collegiate Press award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

FEATURES

Ambassadors' Set the Tone

By TAMMI TITCOMB
Staff Writer

Longwood Ambassadors – who are they and what do they do?

The Ambassadors are a group of fifty-four students who volunteer their time and efforts to the college in many ways. The organization was established in the fall of 1982 for the purpose of enlisting students at Longwood to promote the general welfare of the college. The Ambassadors are affiliated with and responsible to the Vice-President of Institutional Advancement.

The Longwood Ambassadors serve as the college's official student hosts for activities throughout campus. Such activities range from providing tours of the college to perspective students and visitors to decorating the Dorrills' Christmas tree.

Each Ambassador devotes their time to giving two weekday and one weekend tour per semester. They can also be seen giving tours during Oktoberfest and Spring weekend.

Helping the Admissions Office recruit new students to Longwood is just a small part of Ambassador involvement. The organization participates in such activities as handing out programs at basketball games, helping out with the Honors Banquet and taking part in Founders Day and Homecoming events.

The Ambassadors are also in charge of Oozeball every Spring Weekend. All proceeds from this event go into a scholarship fund.

The Ambassadors also participate in the Annual Parents and Alumni Telefund Campaign. The purpose of the campaign is to raise unrestricted money for programs and scholarships.

Listening Key Goal for Peer Helpers

By LINDA CAROLE WRIGHT
Staff Writer

Students of Longwood who listen objectively, confidentially and respectfully make up the working team of peer helpers. Peer helpers received the 1990-91 Most Outstanding Organization award. Listening and helping the peer solve his problem are the key goals of peer helpers. Helpers are trained for guiding "students in working out their own problems' according to Diane Majewski, a junior peer helper. Melissa Lake, a sophomore peer helper said, "the purpose of the Peer Helper program is to improve the health and well being of young people through peer listening, education and referral."

Knowing the location of many resources on campus and having the knowledge to solve basic human difficulties, Miss Majewski said, "We have many pamphlets and brochures that serve as resources to us and other students." Miss Lake, who is in training for becoming next year's coordinator, said "We do not preach or advise or judge people, we listen to them and accept them." Peer helpers are able to deal with any problem that could arise personal, academic or social; they are willing to listen.

The helpers also work in conjunction with Counseling Services located at French first floor. If an issue is too difficult for a peer helper to handle, Miss Majewski said, "the helper will give a referral to Wayne O'Brien in Counseling."

Many activities are sponsored through peer helpers. At Christmas, the Angel tree provides opportunity for the Long wood community to give. Less fortunate families of the surrounding community receive gifts. To help out your community, look for the Angel tree in the Rotunda at Christmas time and spread a little joy.

Educational programs such as the HIV and STD program, time management, stress, study skills, ethics and decisions, and goal setting are given to inform students of "the issues of today" according to Miss Lake. These programs and more can be given to halls, small groups, and organizations. Contact peer helpers to keep students aware of the social changes and sponsor a program.

The most popular program is the HIV and STD one. It lasts an hour and gives information on all sexually transmitted diseases. A scenario of a male and female before sex is included as well as the teaching of the proper use of contraceptives. Giving out free sample and lollipops are incentives for attendance.

In order to become a peer helper a written application and oral interview are required during the fall semester. A student will train the following spring semester to become an active helper in the fall. To obtain more information contact Bill Wilson, the program coordinator or any peer helper.

The peer helpers office is located in the Rotunda next door to Phyllis Mables', the vice president for student affairs, office. Doors are open from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. The phone number is 395-2057.

Explore Spain

By ANTHONY FERRARA, JR.
Staff Writer

Does "La Costa del Sol" or Madrid sound appealing? Then why not consider the FORSPRO program? Next summer Longwood College will be offering a program, headed by Dr. Maria Silveira of the English, Philosophy, and Modern Languages department, to study at the University of Madrid for three weeks.

FORSPRO stands for Foreign Study programs and is run out of Miami. College students can choose from two "University Programs," both programs include three weeks of study at the University of Madrid in Madrid, Spain. You can choose from eight courses in such areas as: Spanish Culture and Civilization, Advanced Spanish Conversation, and The Legend of Don Juan. Each course is three credits and you can take six to nine credit hours, depending on the program that you select. Many of these classes are taught in English, and Spanish is not necessary for this trip, but it does help.

Robin Haywood, a senior Spanish major, went on the FORSPRO Spanish program during the summer of 1990 with Dr. Silveira. She says that she went not only because it is a requirement of language majors to study abroad, but because she was interested in Spain. She commented that "Spain is incredibly hot in the summertime." Robin took a Spanish culture class which was taught in English. She said overall she enjoyed the trip.

If you are a Modern Languages Major with a concentration in Spanish, then maybe you should consider this chance to study Spanish in a Spanish university. Even if you aren't a Modern Languages Major, then you can still go on this trip and broaden your education. For more information on this program, and a host of other foreign study programs, you can contact any member of the Modern Languages Department. There are several scholarships and grants available.

Spirit Leaders Stick Out

By CAROL CAMPO
Staff Writer

Who has the Oktoberfest Spirit?

With Oktoberfest just around the corner, many groups and organizations are preparing for the big weekend of events and festivities.

One group that tends to stick out are the Spirit Leaders. If you were not aware, they are the people seen dancing around every Oktoberfest wearing red and green German outfits.

These individuals are selected by members of Geist. They are not chosen on the basis of how many clubs and organizations they are involved in, but on their enthusiasm for Longwood. Six individuals from each class are selected for these positions. Taline Akseraylian, member of Geist and responsible for the Spirit Leaders, stated that the Spirit Leaders "exemplify the spirit we (Geist) wish to promote."

Along with the German dances they perform, the Spirit Leaders also work the beer garden, chalk the sidewalks with "Spirit" logos, participate in the parade and color wars and help things run smoothly throughout the weekend.

Oktoberfest will take place October 11-13. Come out and join the fun, help Geist and the Spirit Leaders carry on the Longwood tradition...SPIRIT.

Karate Club Kicks Out

By LINDA CAROLE WRIGHT
Staff Writer

Control over the mind and body with the flexibility to perform any self-defense movements make Karate an artform.

"A man that has achieved mastery of an art reveals it in every action, Samauri Maximcode of conduct" Scott Gilbert, director or Longwood's Karate Club, said. This statement is one of the many that he follows as an instructor of Karate.

Tae Kwon Do, a Korean artform of self-defense is taught by Gilbert at Longwood. He said, "Striving for perfection of character based on integrity and humility and taking responsibility for my actions builds a strong character" through the Karate discipline.

Gilbert's success at the art is a direct result of seven years of training for a second degree black belt.

He has taught for five years under certification and also teaches at Longwood. He has studied at Master Dong's studio under Jim Kennedy who taught Mr. Gilbert self-confidence and the ability to succeed. Mr. Kennedy was "a positive role model who taught classes that bonded in a fellowship of the whole striving for the next goal."

The main objective for having a Karate Club at Longwood according to Gilbert is to have "students who are willing to learn the artform and want to progress." The club was started to help students focus on a given task, deal with stress, time management and teach them self-discipline.

With the physical and mental desire to learn and push through the exercises, any student can do Karate. Gilbert said, "I can motivate people to perform, but the individual has to have the will to learn."

Any Longwood student may join the club on Mondays and Wednesdays from 8-9 p.m. for beginners and from 9-10 p.m. for advanced in the basement of Tabb. The cost is $15 for five weeks of instruction.

Karate Club does more than just exercise and workout, they are planning to conquer the ropes course this semester.

Marc Edwards said, "Karate is good exercise. I can take control of a situation and have the confidence I can deal with it."

Karate means "having control over my body" said Nellie Quesinberry.

Chip Wells said "the continous building on what I have already learned teaches me how to make goals and complete them." He wants to get an orange belt before the semester ends.

Dave Gamache's goal is to "reach for the yellow belt before graduation this December."

Guy Hazlegrove wants to "obtain greater flexibility" through Karate.

Brenda Campell Harris would like greater strength and flexibility also "to get my first belt."

A new member Marla Potts felt comfortable with the club and came to learn self-defense.

None of the Karate Club members have had to use the art in defense, but all members agreed they would be able to stop an aggressive situation if it arose.

The club takes pride in the moral codes especially, "If attacked you have the right to stop the attack using Karate so that you are safe" said Gilbert.

Betsy's

A Great Love Goes Here With A Little Gift, Get It At Betsy's

Great gift ideas priced

$1.50 - $10.50

Located across from D.T.'s on Main.

$2.00 OFF

of any purchase of $5.00 or more!

Student ID Required

THE LONGWOOD BOOKSTORE

INVITES YOU TO STOP BY FOR YOUR EVERYDAY SHOPPING NEEDS...

- TEXTBOOKS
- TRADE BOOKS
- SCHOOL SUPPLIES
- CASSETTE/CD'S
- IMPRINTED CLOTHING
- HEALTH & BEAUTY PRODUCTS
- MAGAZINES
- FILM PROCESSING
- GREEK ITEMS
- IMPRINTED MEMORABILIA
- GREETING CARDS
- COMPUTER SUPPLIES

OPEN OKTOBERFEST

SATURDAY, OCT. 12TH
10AM - 4PM

REGULAR HOURS: M-F 8AM - 5PM
PHONE 395-2084

The Fresh Alternative

COLD SUBS (HONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD)

	SIX INCH	FOOT LONG
For TWICE the meat, just say "Super" ...add ...	1.00	2.00
BMT (ham, genoa salami, pepperoni, bologna)	2.99	4.29
SUBWAY CLUB (roast beef, turkey, ham)	2.99	4.49
SPICY ITALIAN (genoa salami, pepperoni)	2.79	3.89
COLD CUT COMBO (ham salami, bologna - all turkey based)	1.89	3.29
BBQ CHICKEN	3.29	4.89
TUNA	2.79	4.29
SEAFOOD & CRAB	3.49	4.99
BBQ PORK	2.79	4.29
HAM & CHEESE	2.89	4.29
ROAST BEEF	2.89	4.29
TURKEY BREAST	2.89	4.29
TURKEY & BACON DELUXE	3.29	4.89
VEGGIE	1.89	2.99

HOT SUBS (HONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD)

	SIX INCH	FOOT LONG
MEATBALL (Limited Time: Special 6" $1.69)	1.99	3.49
STEAK & CHEESE (100% sirloin)	3.09	4.59
PIZZA SUB	2.99	4.29
RIB-B-Q (Our recommended choice)	3.39	5.69
Add Bacon...	.50	1.00

Free Fixin's Cheese • Onions • Lettuce • Tomatoes • Pickles • Green Peppers • Olives • Salt • Pepper • Oil
Plus On Request Mustard • Mayonnaise • Hot Peppers • Vinegar

COUPON

BUY A FOOTLONG AND GET ANOTHER OF EQUAL OR LESS VALUE FOR ONLY 99¢

SUBWAY

Expires 11/151/91

SUBWAY
308 S. MAIN ST.
FARMVILLE, VA.
PHONE 392-8868

Oktoberfest

(continued from page 1)

Performances in Wygal Auditorium include the Lancer Edition show choir at 1 and 2 p.m., the Jazz Band at 3 p.m., and the Concert Band at 4 p.m.

Games for children and some "special features" will be offered from 1 to 3 p.m. on Wheeler Mall. area residents are invited to bring their children and join the fun.

An International Picnic Buffet will be served on the lawn at Longwood House. The Kyle Davis Band will play in the Dell during the picnic.

The final event Saturday evening is "A Few of Your Favorite Things: A Celebration of Some of America's Best-Loved Musicals," starring Pamela Arkin and Dr. Benjaminn Middaugh. Beginning at 8 p.m. in Wygal Auditorium, this show is a benefit performance with all proceeds going to Longwood's Theatre Scholarship Fund. General admission is $5; Longwood students, faculty and staff, $3.

Ms. Arkin is a member of the theatre faculty. She has starred in more than 30 stage productions and also has appeared in films and radio and TV commercials. Before coming to Longwood last year, she pioneered a highly acclaimed "Shakespeare in the Schools" program in Alabama, sponsored by that state's Council for the Arts.

Dr. Middaugh is professor of music at the University of Montevallo in Alabama, where he teaches singing and directs the Lyric Theatre. He has sung at the White House, Carnegie Hall, and with major orchestras throughout the eastern United States. Ms. Arkin and Dr. Middaugh have performed together for some 20 years.

On Sunday afternoon, Oct. 13, Dr. Middaugh will conduct a workshop for Longwood students and area residents who are interested in musical theatre. For more information on the workshop, call Ms. Arkin at 395-2615.

Leadership Conference Set

The 7th Annual Leadership Conference at Virginia Beach will be held in November this year. The Conference dates are Friday, November 15th through Sunday, November 17th.

The conference fees have been set at $65 this year. This is $10 lower than last year. Applications received after the deadline (Fr. Nov. 1st) will be charged $75.

The theme for this year's conference is Leadership in the 21st Century. All students interested in this leadership experience should plan to attend.

Applications will be available in the Student Union and the Student Development Office next week. The last date to get applications accepted (with the late charge) is Fri., Nov. 8th.

Students Feel Budget Cuts

By DINA M. DAWSON
News Staff

Budget cuts. Two small words that have had big effects, not only here on Longwood's campus, but around the state of Virginia as well. Students have certainly begun to hear more about the subject, in addition to feeling the effects of those two small words on their checkbooks and bank accounts.

This year budget cuts resulted in the amount of state support given to Longwood to drop from seventy-one to sixty-one percent. This drop attributed to the increases in student room, board, tuition, and other fees depending on in-state or out-of-state status.

The topic of budget cuts provided the main focus at a recent meeting held over the past summer involving seventeen presidents of institutions of higher education from across the state of Virginia.

The meeting, which included Longwood's own president, Dr. William F. Dorrill, resulted in a twenty-four page report entitled "A Report and Proposals For Continued Improvement in Virginia Higher Education" The report bears the signatures of all seventeen collegiate presidents who not only attended the meeting, but who also helped write the paper adding their own ideas and proposals. In addition, the paper was signed by the Director of the State Council of Higher Education, Dr. Davies, who was responsible for bringing the group of collegiate presidents together.

The paper confronts the budget cut problem by listing the alternatives to solve it and by explaining what can be done to get institutions back on track.

The four alternatives presented in the report include getting more "money to do our work in Virginia higher education, without degrading the quality of colleges and universities, or decrease size" of the colleges and universities. A fourth alternative is to "do a little of each over the next ten years".

Even though the paper took "a good part of the summer to write", it will be presented before the next session of the general assembly.

Dr. Dorrill feels that the paper will have a positive effect in getting more money for Longwood even though we will be competing against many other Virginia institutions for state funds.

CPPC Sponsors Majors Fair

By AMY BIRINDELLI
Staff Wrtier

The Career Planning and Placement Center is sponsoring a Majors Fair this fall for all interested students. It is generally intended for students without a declared major, but other students who are interested in departments outside of their major are also encouraged to attend.

Each department will set up a table with basic information and will have a staff member on hand to answer questions. Upper class students from each department will also be available to answer questions and give advice.

The Majors Fair is an excellent opportunity for freshmen to learn more about what the Longwood academic departments have to offer.

The Majors Fair is to be held on Thursday, October 17, in the Rotunda from 12 to 1 p.m.

S-UN Attends Regional Conference

By LAURIE MYERS
Staff Writer

From September 26-29, the Student Union Board attended the National Association For Campus Activities Southeast Conference in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. Longwood sent 12 representatives.

The Student Union Board, often referred to as S-UN, is responsible for bringing entertainers, lecturers, and movies to campus. These activities are funded by part of the student activity fee included in each student's tuition.

At the Southeast regional, S-UN took part in several awards. Among these awards were honorable mention for most outstanding student delegation, and a tie with North Carolina for best state unit. There are eight states represented in the southeast regional.

When asked to comment on the conference, Joan Mason, the S-UN advisor, said "it was a great opportunity to network with other colleges and view entertainment for Longwood."

A regional conference is made up of three parts: educational sessions, cooperative buying, and showcases. Educational sessions help teach ways to improve student union programming and relations. Cooperative buying is an opportunity for several geographically close schools to contract an artist at the same time, which saves money on travel and expenses. Showcases are similar to variety shows that give 20 minute samples of college entertainers across the United States.

NACA conference help the Longwood Student Union Board to bring quality entertainment to Longwood.

Kamens Speaks on 'Living With AIDS'

By MICHELE HENY
Staff Writer

The Peer Advisors hosted David Kamens last week for his third visit to Longwood to speak on "Living With AIDS." In two lectures he reached out to over 500 students. Kamens' message was that "not everybody is infected with AID's, but everyone is affected."

Kamens was tested positive for HIV (Human immunodeficiency virus) exactly one day after his eighteenth birthday. He started speaking to college students around the country to urge them to value their bodies and realize the consequences of their choices.

For the past three years Kamens has suffered from a form of AID's called Cyto Megalovirus, which has debilitated his immune system and allowed common colds to become fatal. His medical bills totaled $50,000 last year. Medication alone was approximately $1,000 a month.

Referring to himself as an "AID's victim" is politically incorrect, according to Kamens. He admits that he made an unwise decision under the influence of alcohol and drugs and that the consequences are irreversible.

One of the stereotypes Kamens tried to combat is that AID's is a disease only among middle age homosexuals. He informed the students that "85% of persons infected with AID's are heterosexual," and that "20% of people living with AID's today were infected when they were a teenager."

AID's is a disease that is transmitted through intravenous drug use and unprotected vaginal or anal intercourse. The disease is not transferable through casual contact such as breathing the same air, shaking hands, or hugging.

Every seven minutes someone dies from the AID's virus, and someone is infected every minute. Kamens believes this issue is critical for the college community to be aware of because 1 out of every 300 college students is HIV+, and these figures are doubling every 14 months.

Students from the audience volunteered to participate in a role playing event which involved persuading a partner to practice safe sex. Bill Wilson, a peer helper who was pleased with students dialogue, commented that it takes a lot of courage for students to get up and talk about such a sensitive issue in front of their peers.

One student remarked that condoms sold in the vending machines on campus are too expensive. David responded by throwing handfuls of prophylactics to the students.

Longwood is Kamens ' favorite school to visit because he has become close friends with many ff the peer helpers. When asked why Longwood is his preferred college, David answered "it helps me stay in good spirits – we go to Macado's, hang out, and have a good time together."

Peer helpers is a program designed to provide one on one counseling for students that wish to discuss confidential problems with a peer. They also sponsor educational programs with an extended focus on STD's and HIV.

Students may contact Susan at 395-3650 to schedule appointments for counseling or educational programs.

THE ROTUNDA NEEDS YOU!

INTERESTED IN>
- Writing?
- Photography?
- Layout?
- Ad Sales - Earn $?

Come by our weekly staff meetings at 6pm in Conference Room III or call 395-2120.

The Great American Deli

SOUTHGATE SHOPPING CENTER
FARMVILLE, VIRGINIA

OPEN
M - SAT 10AM-12AM
SUN 1PM-10PM

ABSOLUTE BEST BEVERAGE SPECIALS IN TOWN!

"We Welcome All Student Groups To Host"
Live entertainment & Dart tournaments
Delivery Available M-F 1PM-10PM
CALL 392-1804

ONE MILLION OF THE BEST MINDS IN AMERICA HAVE ALREADY CHOSEN THE BEST RETIREMENT PROGRAM.

TIAA-CREF is building a sound financial future for more than 1,000,000 people in the education and research communities. And over 200,000 retirees are now enjoying the benefits of their TIAA-CREF annuities.

LOOK FOR SECURITY, GROWTH AND DIVERSITY.

Security—so the resources are there when it is time to retire. Growth—so you'll have enough income for the kind of retirement you want. And diversity—to help protect you against market volatility and to let you benefit from several types of investments.

HERE'S WHAT YOU GET FROM TIAA-CREF.

TIAA offers you the safety of a traditional annuity that guarantees your principal plus a specified rate of interest, and provides for additional growth through dividends. For its stability, sound investments, and overall financial strength, TIAA has received the highest possible ratings from all three of the insurance industry's leading independent agencies.*

CREF's variable annuity offers opportunities for growth with four different investment accounts, each managed with the long-term perspective essential to sound retirement planning.

EXPERIENCE. PERFORMANCE. STRENGTH.

Your future is protected by the largest private retirement system in the nation. Since 1918, we have been helping build a secure future for people in education and research. We have done so well, for so many, for so long that we currently manage over $95 billion in assets.

SEND NOW FOR A FREE RETIREMENT INVESTMENT KIT, including a Special Report on TIAA investments. Mail this coupon to: TIAA-CREF, Dept. QC, 730 Third Avenue, New York, NY 10017. Or call 1 800-842-2733, Ext. 8016.

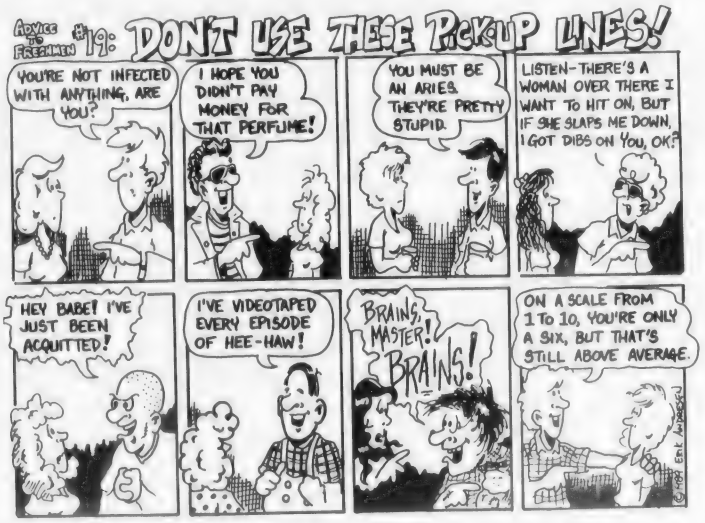
Name (Please print)
Address
City State Zip Code
Institution (full name)
Title Daytime Phone #
TIAA-CREF Participant Date of Birth (mm/dd/yy)
Social Security #

CN

TIAA CREF Ensuring the future for those who shape it.™

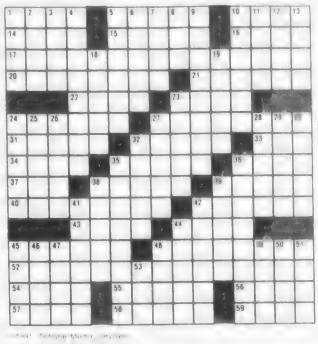
© 1991 Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association-College Retirement Equities Fund

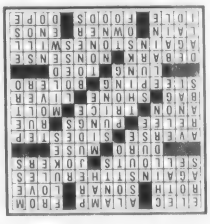
* A.M. Best Co., Inc./Duff & Phelps, Inc./Standard & Poor's Corporation/Moody's Investors Service, Inc.



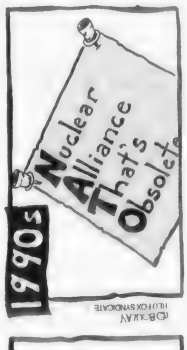
COMICS

NO EXIT by Erik Andresen



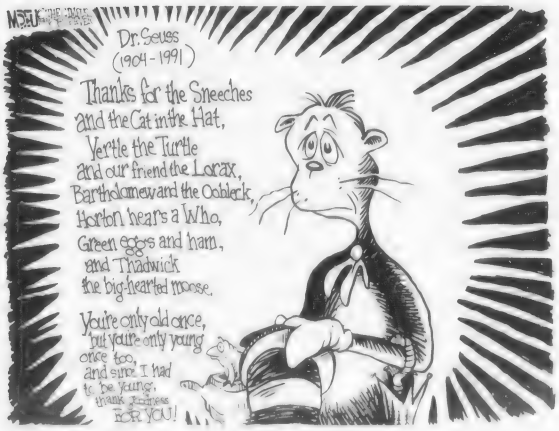


THE Daily Crossword by William Lutwiniak

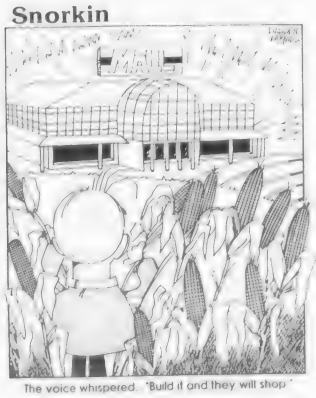


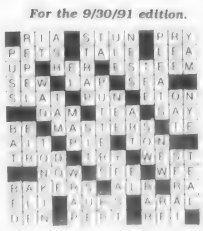
ACROSS
1 Energy source: abbr.
5 "— unto my feet"
10 Whence
14 Portnoy's creator
15 Sub's eyes
16 Amour
17 Heretical
20 Big hits
21 Comedians
22 Silver peso
23 Clio or Erato
24 Reluctant
27 Dodge
31 Biography by Freeman
32 Certain sleds
33 Wish undone
34 In a while
35 Jiffy
36 Lose feathers
37 Valise
38 Gleamed
39 Meat dish
40 Abed
42 Ravel opus
43 Breathing organ
44 — the line
45 Leave the ship
48 Inanity
52 Perforce
54 Reposed
55 Title-holder
56 Biblical name
57 Unoccupied
58 Viands
59 — out (solve)

DOWN
1 Lively times
2 Theater seat
3 List ender
4 Kids
5 Guarantee
6 Relative of bingo
7 Certain colonists
8 — jongg
9 Decide before the facts are in
10 Chancy things
11 Function
12 Completed
13 GI fare
18 Unavailing
19 Floribundas
23 Chop fine
24 Saharans
25 Bribable
26 Relative of a dirge
27 Taking to court
28 Treasure —
29 Swiss mathematician
30 Rock prefix
32 Antler
35 Calls to mind
36 Musty
38 Reject
39 Wind-blown loam
41 Miss Stritch
42 Gaffes
44 — down (softened)
45 Surreal artist
46 Hoople's expletive
47 Dip out water
48 Taboo thing
49 Sp. kid
50 Food for pigs
51 Different
53 Couple



ANSWERS





Snorkin

The voice whispered... "Build it and they will shop."

For the 9/30/91 edition.

CLASSIFIEDS/PERSONALS

HELP WANTED

FREE SPRING BREAK TRIPS to students or student organizations promoting our Spring Break Packages. Good Pay & Fun. Call CMI. 1-800-423-5264

COLLEGE REP WANTED — to distribute "Student Rate" subscription cards at this campus. Good income. For information and application write to: Collegiate Marketing Services, P. O. Box 1436, Mooresville, NC 28115.

FREE TRAVEL, CASH, AND EXCELLENT BUSINESS EXPERIENCE!! Openings available for individuals or student organizations to promote the country's most successful SPRING BREAK tours. Call Inter-Campus Programs 1-800-327-6013.

Party PIC Photographers wanted at LC. Must be eager, responsible and reliable. Car and photo skills preferred. Aspen Photo 1-800-235-5101.

RAISE $500...$1000...$1500
FOOL PROOF FUND RAISING
For your fraternity, sorority, team or other campus organization.
ABSOLUTELY NO INVESTMENT REQUIRED!
CALL 1-800-950-8472, ext. 50

SAVE $5 Off 1992 YEAR-BOOK

Get your picture taken Oct. 10 & 11 in the Prince Edward Room from 9AM-1PM & 2PM-6PM

Please write the Environmental Defense Fund at 257 Park Ave. South, NY, NY 10010 for a free brochure.

PERSONALS

Dana-Dane — Hey roomie! You're the best ever! Thanx for listening to me constantly bitch about the "other two." — CV L8ER Lizard

Julianna, Dani, Lople, and Fish, — Hey goobers! You guys are wonderful. Thanx for all the good times. — Love ya'll, the other goober

Julie — You are the best lil' sis ever. You are doing an awesome job with your pledge period. I love you! — Sigma love and mine, Liz

J.T. — Hey sexy, I'm still watching you! Have a great day. — S.A.

Jane and Anna — Congratulations on being accepted to Student Teach in Germany. — We love you, AΣA

On October 10, at 1:15 p.m. in the Student Union Conference Room 2 we, the Student Organization for Alcohol responsibility-S.O.A.R., will be having an interest meeting. We would like to invite all students interested in Alcohol education, Altonative programing, or responsible drinking.

To the Pledges of Delta Zeta Congrats on getting your big sisters. You guys are fantastic! — Love, Your Mom

AΣA Pledges — You are doing a wonderful job. Keep up the good work! — Love AΣA Sisters

MJ — Mr. Keebler is in town. — CC

RA
INFORMATION NIGHTS

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN BEING A RESIDENT ASSISTANT ??

THE SELECTION PROCESS FOR SPRING RESIDENT ASSISTANT OPENINGS IS ABOUT TO BEGIN !!

FIND OUT MORE AT:

R.A. INFORMATION NIGHT

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 13
7:00 PM
CONFERENCE ROOM II

OR

MONDAY, OCTOBER 14
7:00 PM
CONFERENCE ROOM II

FOR MORE INFORMATION CONTACT STEVE DEALPH AT 395-2118

Campus Calendar

Information on events should be submitted to the Student Union Office in Lankford by the Wednesday preceding the appropriate issue of the paper.

Tuesday October 8	Wednesday October 9	Thursday October 10	Friday October 11	Saturday October 12	Sunday October 13	Monday October 14
Lecture: Executive-in-Residence kenneth Leggett. 6:30 pm Bedford Volleyball Officials. Application due and meeting.	Guitar Duo: The Runaways. 9pm Lancer Cafe Womens' Volleyball. EB due before meeting. Rotunda Staff Meeting: Interested in working - come join us. 6:00 pm Lankford Conf. Rm. 3	S-UN Board Meeting. 1:30pm Lankford Conference Room II Mens' Indoor Soccer. EB due before meeting.	Performing Arts Series: The Richmond Ballet. 8pm Jarman Movies: What About Bob? 9:00 pm Gold Room	OKTOBERFEST! Can you feel the spirit?		Lecture: "Reunification of Germany and its Effects on the Development of Europe." by Thomas Johnson, 7:30 pm Bedford Movies: What About Bob? 9:00 pm Gold Room and Tuesday, Wednesday . . .

Hey Longwood - All the Rowdy Students are Here on Monday Nights!!

Join us for Monday Night Football - Gametime 9:00 pm

Pizza Hut EXPRESS

Lancer Cafe

Hours
MWF 11am - 10pm
T-Th 11am - 12am
SAT 11am - 10pm
SUN 11am - 7pm

It's a quicker walk home from here than anywhere off-campus!!

Complimentary Gametime Snacks

OKTOBERFEST

Saturday, October 12, 1991

8:30 - Noon	ADMISSIONS ACTIVITIES Registration & Campus Tours Academic/Campus Life Information	 Gold Room Red/White/Green Rooms
9:30, 10:30, 11:30	"Choosing A Major: Planning A Future"	Bedford Auditorium
10:30 & 11:30	"The Money Game: How to Play"	Jarman Auditorium
9:30 - 11:30	Parents and Alumni Registration	Lancer Hall
10:00	Dick Williamson Golf Tournament	Golf Course
10:00 - 2:00	Art on the Midway . . . . In the European tradition, art students will recreate great masterpieces on the sidewalk.
10:30	Society of Families Meeting	Lancer Gym
11:45	Parade	Pine Street
12:00 - 4:00	Midway & Main Stage	Lankford & Stubbs Mall
12:30, 1:00, 1:30	Longwood Company of Dancers	Lancer Hall Dance Studio
1:00 - 2:30	Career Planning & Placement Information Tent	Lankford Mall
1:00 & 2:00	Lancer Edition Performances	Wygal Auditorium
1:00 - 3:00	Children's Games	Wheeler Mall
1:00 - 4:00	Biergarten	Lancer Cafe
1:00 - 5:00	Faculty Art Show Senior Art Show	Bedford Gallery Showcase Gallery
1:00 & 2:00	Performances by the Catalinas	Lancer Pool
3:00	Jazz Band Performance	Wygal Auditorium
4:00	Concert Band Performance	Wygal Auditorium
4:30 - 6:30	International Picnic Buffet	Longwood House

(PLEASE NOTE: Dinner will not be served in the Dining Hall. Shuttle bus will run from Lankford Building to Longwood House and back, starting at 4:15 and continuing to 6:45 p.m. Faculty and staff may buy buffet tickets at the Alumni Office.)

4:30 - 6:30	The Kyle Davis Band	Longwood Dell
8:00	"A Few of Your Favorite Things: A Celebration of Some of America's Best Loved Musicals" by Dr. Benjamin Middaugh and Pamela Arkin	Wygal Auditorium

This is a benefit performance for the Theatre Scholarship Fund:
$3.00 for Longwood students, faculty, & staff; $5.00 for others.

Lady Sticks Defeat Cavalier Club

By GREG PROUTY

Longwood College's field hockey team defeated the Cavalier Club of Richmond 5-2 Saturday in an exhibition match at Barlow Field. Sophomore Missy Moran and senior Theresa Platte scored two goals each to pace coach Sandy Bridgeman's squad to victory. The Lady Lancers will carry a record of 2-7-1 into a home contest Wednesday against Wake Forest at 4:30.

Moran scored both her goals in the first half as Longwood led 2-0 at the intermission, with freshman goalie Sara Hogan getting the first half shutout with several nice saves. Longwood controlled the games tempo very effectively the opening 35-minutes.

The Lady Lancers substituted freely the second half, but still managed to build their lead to 5-0 midway through the second stanza. Platte sandwiched her goals around one by freshman Clara Mauldin. The Cavalier Club did manage two late goals against freshman goalkeeper Jen Bednarski, who had several nice saves as well.

"Our starters played very well," commented Bridgeman. "Theresa Platte and Missy Moran played especially strong games for us."

Last Wednesday Division I Radford University completely dominated play as they defeated visiting Longwood 3-0. Radford led just 1-0 at halftime, as Hogan recorded 11 saves in the net. Michelle Malebranche scored Radford's goal off an assist from Dawn Lee at the 24:16 mark. Longwood managed just two shots the entire contest, both coming in the first half.

Kokeda Sheppard and Kerstin Braun added insurance goals for Radford after the intermission, as the Lady Highlanders continued to dominate. Hogan added three saves in the second half to total 14 for the game. Senior Hollie Phelps and junior Kim Hasson paced the Longwood defense with two defensive saves each.

Through 10 games junior Jenny Wuebker leads the Lady Lancers in scoring with three goals totaling six points. Moran is among four tied with two goals each, but has an assist on the year to total five points. Junior Denise Hanley leads in shot attempts with 38, while senior Lara Cini has attempted 25. Senior Carver Ports is perfect on two penalty-stroke shots, while Wuebker's shot-percentage is next best at .30. Moran continues to lead the defense with 10 defensive saves to Ports' five. Hogan has 80 saves in the net for a save percentage of .733.

Longwood takes its last road-trip of the year Sunday afternoon facing Division I American University in Washington, D.C.

Tennis Team Fall From Unbeaten Ranks

Longwood's dream of an unbeaten season in women's tennis came to an end last Tuesday when Hollins won three singles and two doubles matches to hand the Lady Lancers a 5-4 setback on the road near Roanoke.

"It was a tough loss," said coach Angie Coppedge. "But the team played hard. I'm proud of them."

Longwood played without Heather Leach, who plays No. 5 singles and No. 3 doubles. Leach suffered a back injury last Monday and was not able to compete.

"I think if Heather had been there, we would have won," said Coppedge. "Amy Thomas filled in well for her in singles, but we missed her in doubles."

Singles winners for Longwood were Jenny Holm at No. 1, Melanie Saunders at No. 3 and Thomas, subbing for Leach, at No. 5. Saunders and Kimber Bear won their match at No. 2 doubles, but Longwood lost at No. 1 and No. 3 doubles.

Now 5-1 with two matches left, Longwood can still finish with one of its best records ever in women's tennis. The Lady Lancers play at Virginia Wesleyan Monday and wind up the fall season with a home match Wednesday against Randolph-Macon Woman's College at 3 p.m.

In Next Week's Rotunda:

How Far Will Longwood's Sports Programs Go To Win?

Lady Golfers Finish Strong At Duke Invitational

Moving up the last two days after a slow start, Longwood's women's golf team finished 10th out of 17 teams at the Duke University Fall Invitational Friday through Sunday at Duke Golf Course in Durham, N.C.

Longwood, led by senior co-captain Ami Schonauer, shot 338-328-329-995. Duke carded a 298-308-305-911 to beat second place North Carolina (918) by seven strokes. Kim Cayce of Duke won a playoff for the individual title, after shooting 71-78-75-224 to tie Wake Forest's Stephanie Neill.

Schonauer, who tied for 24th in a field of 89 golfers, shot an 81-82-77-240. Freshman Brenda Campbell-Harris was next at 84-82-81-247 to tie for 35th. Junior Anna Radford shot 86-80-85-251 for 47th place. Senior Sherry Evans had an 88-84-86-258 and freshman Charlaine Coetzee shot 87-85-88-260.

Next up for Longwood is the Penn State Lady Lion Invitational this weekend at State College, Pa. The 36 hole tournament will be played Saturday and Sunday.

Duke Invitational Team Scores: Duke 911, North Carolina 918, Wake Forest 932, Ohio State 940, Illinois 942, Florida 943, Methodist 986, Michigan State 988, Penn State 993, Longwood 995, James Madison 998, Rollins 1004, William & Mary 1007, Winthrop 1034, UNC Greensboro 1039, Coastal Carolina 1045 and College of Charleston 1047.

Longwood Kickers Drop Two

Longwood dropped a pair of soccer contests last week, falling to VMI Saturday 2-1 on the road and to visiting Mary Washington 3-1 Wednesday afternoon at First Avenue Field, dimming the Lancers' chances of making the Virginia Intercollegiate Soccer Association Playoffs.

The Lancers, now 5-7 with four straight losses, will seek to bounce back this week when they visit Shenandoah Wednesday for a 3:30 contest and travel to Pennsylvania for a pair of games next weekend. Longwood plays at East Stroudsburg Sunday at 2 p.m. and at Millersville next Monday at 4 p.m.

Saturday at VMI, coach Stan Cieplinski was forced to play without starting backs Pat Temple, Jason Casano and Jeff Bogushefsky, who were out with injuries. Senior Dave Mazzuca, and juniors T. J. Shephardson and Scott Glisson filled in well against the Keydets.

With freshman Jay Anderson getting the start at goalkeeper, the Lancers battled to a 0-0 tie at the half Saturday. The Keydets got on the board about 23 minutes into the second half, but Longwood came back to score five minutes later as Todd Dyer converted a Ted Doran pass for a 1-1 score.

The Keydets scored the winning goal with about seven minutes left against Lancer senior goalkeeper Jeff Chewning who entered the game when Anderson was shaken up.

Eagles Top Longwood 3-1

Mary Washington got two goals from Tony Trepal and one from Dodd Terry to win Wednesday's game. Terry's goal came in the first half for a 1-0 edge. Then Trepal converted early in the second half for a 2-0 lead.

Doran put Longwood on the board late in the second half when he gained brief control of a ricochet off the Eagle goalkeeper and nudged the ball just inside the goal on the left side. It was Doran's fifth goal of the season. Longwood had several chances to knot the count but was unable to convert.

Trepal put the game on ice with less than a minute to go when he deftly kicked a flyer over Chewning's head. Chewning protested that the Eagles were offside, to no avail.

The loss dropped the Lancers to 2-2 in the VISA Eastern Division. Both Mary Washington (2-0) and Christopher-Newport (3-1) are ahead of the Lancers in the VISA standings and both have beaten Longwood. Only the top two teams in each division advance to the playoffs.

Come visit the team at Tracey's "back door" Salon
20% OFF
all regular priced services with purchase of a formal gown at the Esther May Shop. (Student ID required)
•hair and makeup $25
•guy's cut $7.50 •manicure $8.50
Downtown Farmville
"Rear of Esther May Shop"
392-4559

FORMAL DRESSES
over 300 in stock
knee length to full length priced from $90 to $260
sizing free
sizes 4-44 available
sequins, taffeta, velvet,
lingerie, shoes, hose, jewelry,
gloves, and much more!
FREE alterations on full price formal wear!
Esther May
DOWNTOWN
MAIN ST.
FARMVILLE
50% Off
jewelry when you purchase a full price formal gown!
Offer good through [illegible]

FARMVILLE
AMUSEMENT CENTER
W. Third St. 392-1644
FALL & WINTER SPECIAL
MINI-GOLF
18 Holes - $2.50 or
Play All Day - $3.00
TRY OUR BATTING CAGES
Video Arcade & Snack Bar!

Inside: Oktoberfest Photos
Candid Campus
Vote For a New Banner

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
Comics 5
Features 4
News.....3
Oktoberfest 6, 7
Sports 8

OCTOBER 16, 1991

The ROTUNDA

VOL. 71, NO. 5 LONGWOOD COLLEGE FARMVILLE, VIRGINIA

Dr. Prvoslav Davinic, a United Nationas disarmament specialist, chats with a student after speaking at Longwood.

U.N. Official Discusses Peace Efforts

By TRACI HASSELL

A representative from the United Nations came to Longwood to discuss the changes of international relations and its impact on the world. There are 163 nations coorelated in the United Nations.

Prvoslav Davinic, a Yugoslavian, is the author of Nuclear Disarmament and holds an expansive list of involvement in public affairs. His country is comprised of Muslims, Catholics, and East Orthodox Christians.

Dr. Davinic came to Longwood on October 7, 1991.

On his visit to the campus, he met with two Political Science classes and held a lecture in Bedford Auditorium.

He commented, "The college is even better than I ever imagined. It is well kept and at the center of the birth of democracy." Davinic reinforced this statement by pointing out that he has seen many places, and he was not just paying compliments.

Davinic discussed the United Nations' challenges ahead and how they plan on coping with them. They have a system based on democratic principles, human rights, and respect for the different viewpoints.

They are in the process of reducing the production of nuclear power. Thus far, there have been 2,000 out of 50,000 nuclear missiles disarmed throughout the world. The China wall has been broken down, the two Germanys have united, and there is still much to look forward to in the future.

The Soviet Republics, Yugoslavia, and the African countries' problems brewing underneath the government were discussed. These problems stem from the overthrow of dictators that ultimately end in bloodshed. Davinic stated, "They love dictatorship, pushing people into field-war, and slaughtering them."

The United Nations feels positively about the processes in the world. They feel that it is not all together rosy, but through awarence, the stability will be guarded.

Davinic remarked, "It was easier 15 years ago to explain the positions of the world — who was right, who was not. There are no longer two sides. The world will survive, and at what price, remains to be seen."

The United Nations are working with the United States to make international law better. The United States is considered the leading global world power in economics, military, and national security. Many countries try to emulate our democratic system.

"Democracy is a notion and a practice based on principles that takes time to learn. Ones have their own views but must let other's views in, as well," stated Davinic.

A question was asked by a student about the United Nations views on nuclear weapons. Davinic replied, "The experience with Iraq has taught the United Nations to be tough. International communion can not tolerate any other country to hold this power."

He pointed out to the audience that Americans should be proud, and it's their responsibility to be educated to lead the world to peaceful resolutions.

Campus Police Acquire Patrol Bikes

By TRACI L. HASSELL

It is a frequent sight to see the Campus Police drive by in a patrol car. Would it be odd to see them on patrol bikes?

There are now two bikes that are in operation through Longwood's force. This innovative idea stems from the influences of other campuses across Virginia.

Virginia Tech, University of Virginia, The College of William and Mary, and Old Dominion University are amongst the campuses involved. Old Dominion started the program to enhance patrol and to get closer to buildings.

Longwood's Campus Police are hoping to have more contact with the students. Sgt. Rhodes stated, "We need to be able to get around better and prevent more crimes from occurring. This system is not designed to track down cars."

Four officers are involved in this bike program. The officers are expected to be fit, and most ride bikes on a regular basis.

The two bikes are especially used on weekends when the most activities are in progress. There is always at least one officer patrolling in a car.

The equipment that the program requires has cost Campus Police $1,200. This includes both bikes and the uniforms that the officers wear.

Computers are placed on the bikes that record distance in a shift, total distance travelled, and the time of day. These are checked regularly to show the effectiveness of the riding officers. The only way to erase the mileage is to replace the battery.

Reflectors are placed on the sides of the bright red bikes that signal the possession of the police. A retractable light can be taken off for the officers use in dark areas.

Lighter gear is worn by the officers to allow more flexible movement. The gun holder is made out of nylon instead of leather, and the badges are silkscreened. A canvas bag is carried to hold tickets and police decals are patched on both sides.

The officers wear gold shirts and burgundy helmets, deeper than the color of the bikes.

"On other campuses, students usually appreciate the operation of this program. We hope to improve relations in the process," commented Sgt. Rhodes.

The bike program established on Longwood campus is already underway. Depending on the weather, it will continue to take place up to November and will resume next semester.

Photo Credit: Judi Weller

Sgt. Andy Rhodes is one of the officers assigned to the bike patrol.

Jam-Ups Lead to New Smoker Renovations

By DINA M. DAWSON
News Staff

A majority of students have been caught in a traffic jam at least once in their lives, but have you ever experienced a student' jam?

Chances are if you make a regular habit of eating in the dining hall between 12:20 and 12:30 p.m., or between 5 and 5:15 p.m., or if you have ever just ventured by the area during meal time you know exactly what a student jam is.

In fact, the problem was so bad Longwood was forced to call in Glave, Newman, and Anderson, an architectural firm, in order to obtain solutions to the problem. Their solution; renovation of the New Smoker area.

Student jams refer to the long lines of students that block up the New Smoker area while waiting to gain access to the Blackwell Dining Hall and Rotunda Market during lunch and dinner.

Rick Hurley, Vice-President of Business Affairs, said "we have long recognized it's a problem. Students stop to look at the menu board causing people to get all jammed up"

Mr. Hurley stated the New Smoker, whose construction will begin in May after the students leave, is a current problem for two reasons; appearance and functional use. Planned for 800 students, it is not hard to see how student jams are a problem, especially with Longwood's student body now exceeding 3,000 students.

The project, which will cost approximately $200,000, is being funded by Longwood's reserve fund which is built up by charging students more money to live in the dormitories than it actually costs to live there.

The money in the reserve fund can be spent only by the Board of Visitors who voted in July to go ahead with the renovation of the New Smoker.

Even though Longwood is considering building a new bookstore and dining hall complex on campus, Mr. Hurley said that "we can't afford to ignore that space anymore" and that even if a new bookstore and dining hall are built "there will always be a need for that space".

The statistics gathered from the study conducted on January 18th of this year prove how bad the renovation of the New Smoker is needed. According to the study, the busiest time in the lunch hour for the dining hall is between 12:15 and 12:30 p.m., while for the dinner hour the busiest time is between 5 and 5:15 p.m. On the day the study was conducted, during the busiest fifteen minute time allotment for lunch, 494 students were observed going into either the dining hall or the Rotunda Market, while during the busiest dinner time slot 312 persons entered either the Rotunda Market or the dining hall.

Also, according to the study "the key to the solution is to relocate the spot where the students make their decision about their dining destination. Here the traffic can be divided into those going up to the dining hall or down to the Rotunda Market. We propose a kiosk there, just in front of the building entrance, where the student's decision is made according to the menu posted. Students then proceed to an outside stair complex which leads up or down to the dining space of their choice."

Besides solving the problem of functional use, Mr. Hurley added that the new construction will greatly improve "the appearance of the front of the dining hall."

Alcohol Awareness Week Events

Wednesday, Oct. 16:

7 p.m.-8:30 p.m. Frazer Commons Room, Ms. Phyllis Mable, Vice-President for Student Affairs. "Stand And Be Counted". Learn about alcohol related incidents and information pertaining to Longwood. Sponsor: Frazer Hall Council.

9 p.m.-11 p.m. Alternative Party Contest, Greek Social Groups. (9-10, Greeks only, 10-11 open to all students) Sponsors: Interfraternity Council, Panhellenic Council.

Thursday, Oct. 17:

12-12:45 p.m. New Smoker, Information table with posters, brochures, videotapes during lunch. Stop by for facts and materials to increase your knowledge of Alcohol Use and Abuse. VIDEO: Drinking and Driving: The Toll, The Tears. Sponsors: SOAR, Peer Helpers.

9-11 p.m. Lancer Gate/Lankford, Movie: Postcards From The Edge Sponsors: S.U.N, Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc.

Other Sponsoring Groups:

Know Your Limit Wheel Dr. Joyce Edelen's Health Education class Publicity: SOAR Association of Black Students.

COMMENTARY

Letters To The Editor

Editor, The Rotunda:

We are students here at Longwood College, and we feel, as most students do, the right to a few privileges. In our Student Union, there are four pool tables. Many times it is hard to secure a table. However, we never complained...until now. Are you aware that the general public of Farmville is allowed to use our pool tables and our bowling alleys? They aren't allowed to use the pool, the racquetball courts, or the gym, so why did the student union board members decide to "do a service to our community" by letting the pool tables/bowling alleys be of use to them? Simple — they make money off of it. Someone obviously doesn't care that the public tends to neglect the equipment, make obscene gestures with it, or harass the students while they try (and we do stress try) to play. We were informed that the students have "first priority" in obtaining a table; all we have to do is ask them to leave. However, when we tried this wonderful suggestion, we not only received harsh stares and comments like, "I'm going to take my damn time," we were also called "bitches".

Recently there have been two assaults on campus, one which led to a girl getting hit in the jaw. In each attack, which both took place the weekend of September 27-28, the attackers were identified as three black males. More than likely, these three have come on to our campus to use our facilities at one time or another. I'm sure the girl that got attacked feels better knowing that her "blow to the jaw" is helping to "serve the community."

We both work in the gym, and we have quite a bit of trouble keeping the public out. They think since they can use the pool tables, they have access to everything else. They have to be told repeatedly to leave, and they usually come back the next day. Pretty soon they are going to be allowed to hit our students, as long as it keeps the college in good relations with the citizens of Farmville.

It was concern for our fellow students which led us to write this letter. We felt the students at Longwood needed to know about this injustice. We're sure we are not the only students who worked hard to get where we are. We just don't think it is fair that students pay $6,000 a year, some of which goes toward the student union, yet not only are exposed to such rude comments and gestures as we have seen, but also risk getting assaulted. We have gone to the administration about this problem, but nothing was done about it. Maybe if they had listened to us, the two assaults could have been prevented. Nevertheless, prepare yourself; you will soon be picking up your mail at the Farmville Community Center.

Sincerely,
Kristina Burke
Estelle Willard

Editor's Note: The Student Union Board has no direct control over the use of facilities in the Student Union Building.

Editor, The Rotunda:

If you ask anyone what will be most prominent in the future, they will probably answer "computers." But anyone who takes a look at the School of Business would think otherwise. MIS does not have its own department; it is squeezed in with Accounting. There is only one professor that actually teaches the MIS classes. We MIS students don't even have a professional organization to join. Marketing majors have AMA, Management majors have SAM, and even the Accounting majors have their own club. There are also no opportunities for us to have internships or some kind of hands-on experience. We are excluded from helping in many of the computer facilities on campus as well because we are students and could get access to our grades.

Most people on campus think that this college caters to the business students. That may be so, but we seem to get buried under the pile of Accounting, Management, and Marketing majors. These people are getting opportunities...why not us.

Very Disgruntled
MIS Majors

Editor, The Rotunda:

I am writing this letter in memory of Dr. Rosemary Sprague. She was truly one-of-a-kind in more ways than one. She was not only an extraordinary teacher, but a genuinely kind and sincere lady. Although I had known her for only a short time, I feel fortunate to have had such a brilliant person touch a part of my life. I am sure I do not speak for just myself, but for other students as well.

Longwood College has suffered a tremendous loss. Dr. Sprague was appreciated and will be greatly missed. I would like to propose a thought that the new residence hall be named in honor of Dr. Rosemary Sprague.

Sincerely,
Jill Godfrey

Editor, The Rotunda:

Recently Longwood faculty were required to sign a form acknowledging familiarity with state policy on alcohol and drugs. Refusal or failure to sign apparently jeopardized the professor's pay.

There's been a good deal of whining about this, but I for one would like to go on record with a warm endorsement of the notion. For too long I've been appalled by the spectacle of my colleagues staggering into class with smack needles handing from their forearms, or swilling openly from the jugs of bourbon that litter their desks. It's well known that ignorance of the law is an excellent excuse in court; now that they're signed the loyalty oath, these dazed rascals will have no place to hide.

The suggestion that there may be some legal impropriety here draws my score as well. We're in a drug war, folks. Decent Americans who value public order aren't going to cloud the issue with questions of law.

I will admit this business of making sure that college faculty are fully informed of all state government positions — for why single out one policy issue over another? — is going to increase everybody's paperwork. I assume our mailboxes will soon be crammed daily with hundreds of memos from Richmond we'll have to sign. The necessary follow-up may well paralyze college administration. But we all have our crosses to bear.

Sincerely,
W. C. Woods
Department of English,
Philosophy, and Modern Languages

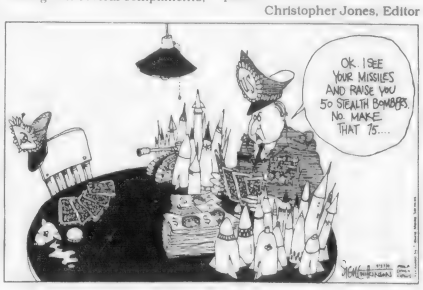
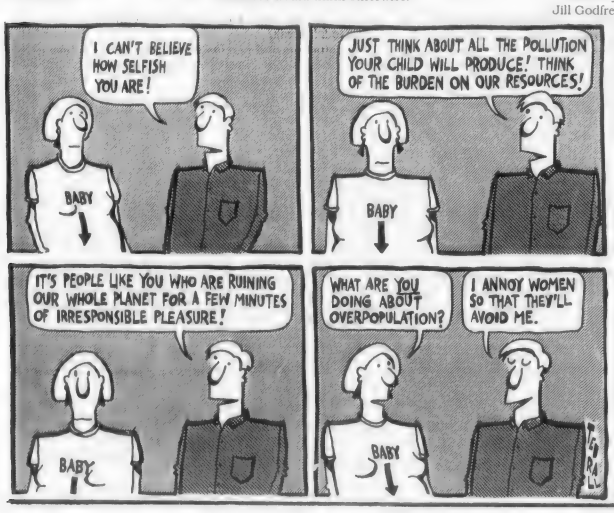
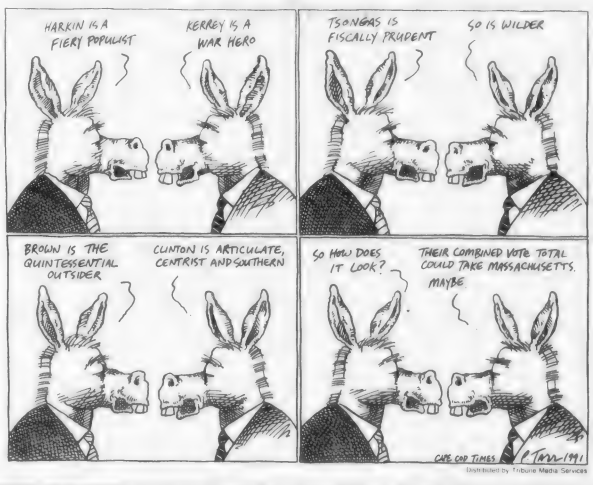
A Letter From the Editor



Since last week's editorial on the dining hall, I have run into some trouble. The editorial angered a lot of people, and the result was the invalidation of my meal card. The explanation for this was that somebody wanted to talk to me, and the only way that they could track me down was to invalidate my card. It seems to me that they could have found some other way to contact me. This has turned into nothing more than a perverted power game, myself playing the pawn.



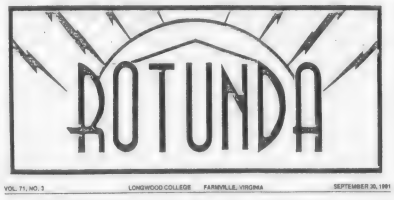
Let us view this situation more closely: We are paying $6,000 + a year to attend this college, and it seems to me that we should not be treated as underlings of the administration. Part of that $6,000 + is going to pay the salaries of those in charge, and yet we are seen by some only as young college students or people who are simply "here." We are all equals, though. We all need each other in order for the system here on campus to work. These editorials are written to help, not to criticize. When I wrote about the dining hall, I was suggesting things that need to be looked into or changed. I also paid the dining hall several compliments, but these were lost in the scramble to see the editorial as some sort of an attack.



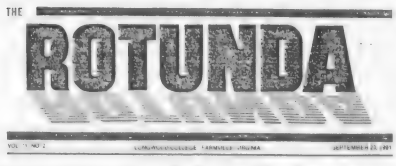
I realize that I sound bitter, but I am disgusted. I am disgusted and disillusioned. Last week's editorial was the opinion of many students on campus I thought the point of the weekly editorial was to talk about issues relevant to the campus, to bring student issues and concerns to light. Every week, though, when the newspaper comes out, people inevitably wind up hurt or disillusioned by the truth. It's funny, because the problems have been there all along, but nobody ever wanted to discuss them.

As Herbert Swope (1882-1958) once said: "The first Duty of a newspaper is to be Accurate. If it is Accurate, it follows that it is Fair." The editorial too, will probably stir up more controversy, but that is only to be expected. Once again, the point of these editorials is to bring student issues and concerns to light, and The Rotunda would be interested in hearing the opinions of both students and faculty members. We all need to work together to help make this campus a better place.

Christopher Jones, Editor



1



The Rotunda is currently taking a poll to determine which banner will become the new official banner for the paper. You may vote for the banner of your choice by: 1) mail this ballot to LC Box 1133; 2) drop this ballot in the envelope on the Publication door; or 3) write the banner number of your choice on a slip of paper and choose option 1 or 2. Please sign your ballot.

3

2

4

THE STAFF:

Executive Editor
Bradley L. Owen

Editor
Christopher S. Jones

Founding Editor
Helen Skillman

Features Editor
Sherry Gatewood

Asst. Features Editor
Ann Renee Heim

Sports Editor
Charlie Fultz

Photography Editor
Andi Weiler

Layout Editor
(open)

Business Manager
B. Anita Owens

Advisors
Mr. William C. Woods
Ms. Brenda Atkins

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda do not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administrators or trustees. Columns, letters and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is noon Friday prior to the Wednesday publication date, and items should be typed in the newspaper style. Publication affairs, such as business, letters, grievances, etc. are to be directed to Box 1133. All submissions become the property of The Rotunda.

Published weekly, since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an Associated Collegiate Press award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to room 126 in Lancaster Hall or Box 1133 or (804) 395-2133.

NEWS

Greeks Gather for Bonas' Lecture

By MICHELE D. HENY

Many brothers and sisters of the Greek Community at Longwood College gathered in the Jarman Auditorium last Tuesday to hear Gary Bonas' lecture on "Greek Life and Acquaintance Rape." Bobby Williams, the President of Inter-fraternity Council (IFC), introduced Mr. Bonas, a Sigma Phi Epsilon alumna of Villanova University.

Bonas warned his inter-fraternal brothers and sisters that "we are dinosaurs of Greek Life." In order to preserve the community, five issues must be rectified: alcohol abuse, sexism and sexual abuse, hazing, anti-intellectual perceptions, and poor minority representation.

A panel of four Greek members were selected to discuss the issue of date rape. They were read statements and asked to explain why they agreed or disagreed. Chrissie Hayes, a sister of Alpha Delta Pi, said that "rape is a crime of violence" and that there is no passion involved.

Mr. Bonas informed the students that "rape is a crime of power: what I (the assaulter) want to do is far more important than what you want to do." Charlie Martin, a brother of Pi Kappa Phi, added "passion involves more than one person" and although "there may be some lust involved, there is no love."

Sexual abuse and assault should not be tolerated by any fraternity on campus, Bonas believes, or should Sororities tolerate sisters that allow themselves to be taken advantage of sexually. He urged the Greek Community to report sexual crimes to clense the system of sexism and sexual abuse. He closed by saying "whether the Greek Community lives or dies, is in your hands."

MARK VENO

JOHN RAFFERTY, JR.

ROTC Cadets Receive Scholarships

Two Longwood College Army ROTC cadets received scholarships recently.

John Rafferty, Jr., a senior history major from Great Falls, received the United Services Automobile Association Scholarship. Mark Veno, a senior sociology major from Burke, was awarded the Pentagon Federal Credit Union Scholarship. Both are awards of $1,000.

Rafferty, a Cadet Major, completed ROTC Advanced Camp at Fort Lewis, Wash., last summer and then served as a platoon leader in the Cadet Troop Leadership Training program in Berlin, Germany. Before attending college, he served in the U.S. Army for two years. Rafferty, a member of an Army National Guard unit, wants to serve in the infantry when he is commissioned next May.

Like Rafferty, Veno is a Cadet Major, completed ROTC Advanced Camp at Fort Lewis, Wash., last summer, and serves in the Army National Guard. He would like to go into the Armor branch.

Export Developer Will Discuss 'New' Europe

The Virginia Department of Economic Development's chief European trade representative will give a lecture at Longwood College on Wednesday, Oct. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in Bedford Auditorium.

Hans U. Schetelig will discuss "the European Community 1992." His lecture is open to the public free of charge.

The European Community (EC) is an evolving economic alliance among 12 nations that will create "the largest, richest market in the world."

The process of forming this unified market, totaling some 325 million people, is leading to an unprecedented relationship among the member nations. "Europe is in transition, moving from cooperation to integration. It is evolving into a 'new' continent," Schetelig said.

Among possibilities for the future are a single European currency, a central bank, and some kind of political union. Already there is a unified Court of Justice, located in Luxembourg, that interprets EC laws and rules on legal questions pertaining to EC treaties.

Belgium, Denmark, France, Germany, Great Britain, Greece, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, The Netherlands, Portugal, and Spain are the founding members of the European Community. Other nations are asking to join the alliance.

The EC treaties are removing barriers to free trade, including customs and border controls and differences in technical and product standards, financial regulations, and taxes.

Schetelig joined the Virginia Department of Economic Development in 1977 as deputy director of the Brussels office. In 1990, he was appointed Export Development Manager for Europe.

He holds degrees from the Commercial School on International Maritime Business and the Academy for World Trade, located in Hamburg and Frankfurt, Germany.

His experience includes eight years with the American Chamber of Commerce in Germany and marketing positions with U. S., French, and German firms in Germany and France.

Schetelig is currently serving as vice-chairman of the Council of American States in Europe, an organization that coordinates trade-related projects and issues on behalf of 30 states.

His lecture at Longwood is part of the College's Opening Doors to the World" program and is co-sponsored by the School of Business and Economics.

Sociologist to Lecture On Crimes of Hate

Dr. Howard J. Ehrlich, Director of Research for the National Institute Against Prejudice and Violence, will deliver a lecture, "Crimes of Hate," on Tuesday, Oct. 22, at 7:30 p.m. in Crawley Forum on the campus of Hampden-Sydney College.

Before joining the institute, Ehrlich was a professor of sociology and director of the graduate program in social psychology at the University of Iowa. He also served one year as executive director of the Maryland Committee on Occupational Safety and Health.

Ehrlich is the author of five books including Reinventing Anarchy and The Social Psychology of Prejudice. He also is a co-founder of the Great Atlantic Radio Conspiracy, a national syndicated producer of public affairs and documentary radio. These radio programs have won nine national awards from groups like the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

The National Institute Against Prejudice and Violence is "dedicated to the elimination of violence and intimidation based on prejudice and bigotry." The institute maintains a clearinghouse of information, conducts research on the causes of ethnoviolence, and holds seminars and conferences to assist organizations.

The public is invited to attend without charge.

Freshman Class Election Results Announced

By STEPHANIE SHOEMAKER

The class of 1995's Freshman class elections were held beginning the week of September 30th. The results were as follows: President - Meredith Swiney, Vice President - Glenn Baron, and Secretary - Lori Andrews.

The Freshman class officers have one main goal for the coming year. They want to "make the Freshman class more aware of the programs that they can be involved in the school as well as the community." Their new President says that many freshmen are shy when they get here, and because of this, they don't take advantage of all of the opportunities offered to them. One major class project that the new officers are working on is one that involves the beautification of our campus. This project is still in its early stages, so the plans are still in the making.

In order to get all of the freshmen more involved in the goings on within the class, more class meetings will be held. This gives all members of the class ample opportunity to offer any suggestions. "Foremost in our goals is to make ourselves available to members of the Freshman class who want to express their concerns and ideas. Participation from the entire class will bring success to the first of our four years here at Longwood College."

Deadline for signing up for the Monthly Payment Plan for the spring semester 1992 is October 20, 1991. Applications can be obtained from Fran Wilmoth in the Treasurer's office between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The deadline will be extended to October 25th, due to fall break.

Many students and parents have found paying school expenses on a monthly basis an attractive alternative. The plan is available to any full time student.

Should you have questions about the plan, contact Fran Wilmoth at 395-2268.

— FREE —
PREGNANCY TEST

All services confidential.
Same day results.

SOUTHSIDE PREGNANCY CENTER

24-HOUR HOTLINE
392-8483

Ω

The Theta Chi Chapter of the National Order of Omega wishes to congratulate our Fall, 1991 Candidate-Initiates:

Jayne Adair	Alpha Sigma Alpha
Christine Bock	Sigma Kappa
Beth Bradley	Sigma Sigma Sigma
Christie Champion	Alpha Sigma Tau
Gina Clark	Kappa Delta
Bryce Davis	Sigma Phi Epsilon
Todd Deaver	Sigma Phi Epsilon
Beth Hedrick	Delta Zeta
Tricia McCormick	Alpha Delta Pi
Kathy McMahon	Alpha Sigma Tau
Killi Martin	Delta Zeta
Jennifer Moore	Delta Zeta
Dante Ricci	Alpha Sigma Phi
Jennifer Shipman	Zeta Tau Alpha

HONORARY:

Dr. Eleanor Bobbitt
Dr. James Jordan

Leadership

"Leadership" is a series of workshops designed to enhance the leadership abilities and effectiveness of participants.

Leadership participants should be leaders with some responsibility and knowledge about leadership and meet the needs of student leaders. Especially the challenge of leading their particular groups.

Students who attend on a regular basis will receive a certificate of achievement at the end of the series.

Attendance at the scheduled conference hours is required. Excused absences must be cleared in advance. Grades of pass/fail will be used, and early registration is required.

There are 12 chapter each session at $10 for all 11 sessions.

ALL WORKSHOPS WILL BE HELD IN CORE, RM. 1 IN THE STUDENT UNION

Unlock the Mystery of Robert's Rules

Nuts and Bolts Workshops

Leadership Ethics

G.A.M.E.S.

Planning and Goal Setting

Was it Apathy?

How To Run An Effective Meeting

Accounting For Organization Funds

Motivation

Persuasiveness

What is Your Leadership Style?

Leadership

PRINCIPLES of SOUND RETIREMENT INVESTING

A+ AAA Aaa

Standard & Poor's

A.M. Best Co.

Moody's

BEFORE TRUSTING YOUR FUTURE TO ANY COMPANY, ASK FOR SOME LETTERS OF REFERENCE.

You put more than just your savings into a retirement company. You put in your trust and hopes for the future, too. So before you choose one, ask some questions. How stable is the company? How solid are its investments? How sound is its overall financial health?

A good place to start looking for answers is in the ratings of independent analysts. Three companies, all widely recognized resources for finding out how strong a financial services company really is, gave TIAA their top grade.

IN THE FINAL ANALYSIS, TIAA IS LETTER-PERFECT.

TIAA received A+ from A.M. Best Co., AAA from Standard & Poor's and Aaa from Moody's Investors Service. These ratings reflect TIAA's reliable claims-paying ability, exceptional financial strength, superior investment performance and low expenses. With the guaranteed level of return and opportunity for dividends, TIAA is one of less than a ten companies out of 2,200 nationwide, that received these highest marks.

CREF. FOUR MORE LETTERS EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW.

For further growth potential and diversification, there's the CREF variable annuity with four different investment accounts to give you the flexibility you want as you save for the future.

Together, TIAA and CREF form the nation's largest private retirement system, with over $95 billion in assets and more than 70 years of experience serving the education community. For over one million people nationwide, the only letters to remember are TIAA CREF.

SEND NOW FOR A FREE RETIREMENT INVESTMENT KIT, including Personal Investing Worksheets, Variable Annuity Q&A Booklet, CREF Investment Allocation Guide and Special Report. Or call 1 800 842-2733, Ext. 8016.

TIAA CREF

Ensuring the future for those who shape it.

© 1991 Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association College Retirement Equities Fund

FEATURES

Habitat For Humanity Helps People

By SHERRY GATEWOOD
Features Editor

Imagine living with your family in a small cramped apartment, never having enough food to eat or blankets to keep warm in the winter. This is the plight of thousands of people living in America today.

Every day we see television commercials urging us to donate money to starving children in far away countries, but often forget that we have people in our own communities who are struggling to survive.

One organization is devoted to helping families in need. Volunteers donate their time and energy to build homes for families who are living in substandard housing. It is called Habitat for Humanity. There are approximately 150 community and college chapters across the country.

Families who are chosen as the recipients of these dwellings are required to put in 500 hours of work, called "sweat equity", on their own or another Habitat house. They must pay building costs for the house, but are charged no interest.

As Habitat for Humanity is a nonprofit organization, the proceeds on each house are used towards other projects. Not only does the family receive the physical dwelling, but also a sense of caring and fellowship from those involved in the project.

Margaret Turbyfill, director of the Wesley Foundation, would like to start a campus Habitat for Humanity chapter at Longwood. For more information please call her at 392-8089.

Also, anyone interested in volunteering to work on a Habitat house currently under construction in the Farmville area can contact Steve Keith at 392-8895.

MacBeth Unmasked

By ANGELA BOYD

Most theatres prefer performing less difficult and complex plays, but that was not the case with the Longwood Theatre, who performed Shakespeare's Macbeth Wednesday, October 2-5 in Jarman Auditorium.

The cast along with its crew proved they were more than capable of pulling off such a challenge.

Anthony Tassa did a remarkable and very effective job in his portrayal of the greedy Macbeth. Tassa's use of facial expressions conveyed a sense of hunger and desire for King Duncan's throne to the audience.

Ann Renee Heim did an outstanding and very convincing job in her portrayal of the conniving Lady Macbeth. Heim succeeds in manipulating the characters around her as well as the audience's reaction. Her vengeful ways enhance Tassa's greedy behavior.

Seyton, portrayed by Rick Codding, had great stage presence. Even though he was a servant, he appealed to the audience because he appeared to have knowledge of Macbeth's and Lady Macbeth's plans and motives.

Supporting characters David Nelson Richards as Banquo and Shawn Plummer as Malcolm, also gave fine performances.

The lighting, sets and sound effects were effective and appropriate for the atmosphere. They also added to the actor's and actresses' performances.

The costumes and makeup were also extra enhancements to the play. The witches' performances were excellent and their makeup made them look very lifelike.

Although the play was long, the fighting and constant action kept the audience's attention.

Macbeth may have been difficult to perform, but from the audience's point of view it looked simple.

Series Presesnts Richmond Ballet

By STACEY L. MORGAN
Features Staff

On Friday, October 11, The Series of the Performing Arts presented the Richmond Ballet.

The Richmond Ballet is in its eighth season. Each season the ballet performs five productions in Richmond and tours throughout Virginia and neighboring states.

The company, under the direction of Stoner Winslett, employs 22 dancers, a full administrative and production staff and operates a school that trains over 600 students each year.

The ballet performed its premiere performance of Street Songs on the Jarman stage on Friday. The Ballet's other performances included La Folia, Mobile, Pas Glazunov, and Sojourn.

Street Songs is a modern ballet that depicts city life in a somewhat comic, lighthearted manner.

La Folia is a more traditional style of dance that is somber and sentimental. It is a ballet modeled after a 14th century dance which was a response to the plague.

Mobile is modern in style. It consists of stiff, synchronized movement by three dancers which requires extreme muscle control.

Pas Glazunov is a romantic ballet of flowing movement performed by a male and female dancer. It is a traditional dance that appears to depict love.

Sojourn depicts man's quest to know the answers to life's questions such as if he is alone or not and if strength comes from within or without.

All of the ballet movements were beautifully performed. The combinations of lights, music, and dance worked together to express ideas,as easily as words might have The Richmond Ballet is, as reviewer Mal Vincent said, one of Virginia's cultural gem."

Baron and Fiege Reach Forensics Finals

Two members of the Longwood College forensic team reached the finals of a recent tournament.

Bill Fiege, a freshman from Onancock, won the prose event in the novice division, and Glenn Baron, a freshman from Richmond, placed fourth in novice poetry in a tournament Oct. 6 at George Mason University.

Other students who competed at that tournament, and in one at Howard University a day earlier, were Michele Hodge, Ginny Martin, Jon Murray, Dawn Pohl, Jason Pugh, Dawn Wilhelm and Becky Wolf. Most were competing for the first time.

Dr. Nancy Haga and Umar Hasan, of St. Mary's College in Maryland, coach the team, and Mrs. Pohl, a Farmville resident, is the team manager. The next competition will be at the College of William and Mary Oct. 26-27.

HELP WANTED

Party PIC Photographers wanted at LC. Must be eager, responsible and reliable. Car and photo skills preferred. Aspen Photo 1-800-235-5101.

POPULATION SQUEEZE CONFERENCE, October 31 — November 3, 1991, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, VA. Social and ethical implications of overpopulaton; all academic disciplines welcome. Register by October 15 with Student Pugwash USA. Info: 1-800-WOW-A-PUG, 804-221-4117.

PERSONALS

LWC Post Office — You are all doing a great job. We appreciate your work.

Karen Rish — You are a nerd — Dave

Jayne and Jami would like to thank those who helped to make this year's Kids Games a great success. We couldn't have done it without you.

Lucky — You're the greatest guy we know. Don't ever forget that. — Love, Whit and M.A.

TAD — Graduate from college and get married all in one year, 1993. What more could a girl ask for? Well this girl has got all she wants. — Susan GEIST would like to thank all who participated in the color wars, and for coming out to show their Longwood Spirit! Congratulations to the red and whites for winning the spirit games.

To all the Rugby players of Longwood College. Good luck this weekend at Ed Lee Cup.

F.A.T.S. Live!!!

Anyone interested in trying out for the Women's Basketball Team see Coach Duncan immediately in room 111 Lancer Hall or call 2559.

Mona-Mona — I love you!!! — The Original Mama-Hoochie

Robert Camus — Good Luck with those questions, study hard and keep a hold of that book!!! You doing a great job!!! — Your Secret Sig

Rico — Keep up the good work with Delta Sigma Phi. Don't forget your book!! I'll be keeping my eye on you.– Your Big Brother–Michele

Ann Nolen — U R 2 Cool! Hope U R having a great week. I can't wait to tell you who I am!!! — Love UR SERP. SIS

Kelly Kasperbauer — Your Spring 1991 pledge class still loves you. You were a great pledge dad.

Laura Flowers — Delta Sigma Phi and your Big Bro luv you!!!

The Women's Basketball Team is in need of managers. If interested see Coach Duncan immediately in room 111 Lancer Hall or call 2559.

To All Alpha Tau pledges — Congratulations on pledging the best sorority on campus! You are a great pledge class and doing a great job! — Tau Love, Karen

As Tabb Tumbles — every weekend there is a new episode. How was the Oktoberfest episode? Hope the fall break episode is an excellent exciting one! All of you are just too cool. — Nanner

G.I. Jen — How 'bout some more applesauce? — N.K.

Brenda Jackson — YA HO!! Have you checked your mail today? By the way do you ever read those papers??!! — Love your Box Mate

IN MEMORIAM . . .

Claudia Logan, Director of Financial Aid, died early Sunday morning in Richmond. Ms. Logan had been ill for several weeks.

"The Longwood community is saddened by this loss," said Phyllis Mable, Vice President for Student Affairs. "Since coming to the College in 1979, Claudia has served our students well in the effective delivery of financial aid services. Students, colleagues, and friends will sorely miss her good will and hope."

Freshman Reunited

By STACEY L. MORGAN

What are the chances of meeting someone you haven't seen since second grade? One in several thousand? What if you had attended first and second grade in Budapest, Hungary? Well, that's exactly what happened to Vicky Gold and Kendra Ward, freshmen here at Longwood.

Vicky Gold's father is in the military and was stationed in Budapest as was Kendra Ward's father who was working for the State Department.

The two young women attended first and second grade in a classroom in Vicky's apartment building with approximately three other American children.

Now, almost eleven years later, both Kendra and Vicky live in Virginia and both chose to attend Longwood, the coincidence goes still further in that both young women are in the same English 100 class.

Vicky said she thought she recognized Kendra as her friend from the past but was unsure. After a few weeks and some prompting by a friend, Vicky asked Kendra if she was indeed the Kendra Ward from Budapest.

Both young women said they were excited when they discovered one another.

Vicky said, "I was really surprised, I was shocked."

Kendra said that she thought there was "no way possible" and that she was "really excited."

The Great American Deli

SOUTHGATE SHOPPING CENTER
FARMVILLE, VIRGINIA

OPEN
M - SAT 10AM-12AM
SUN 1PM-10PM

ABSOLUTE BEST BEVERAGE SPECIALS IN TOWN!

"We Welcome All Student Groups To Host"
Live entertainment & Dart tournaments
Delivery Available M-F 1PM-10PM
CALL 392-1804

CANDID CAMPUS

Photo Credit: Lisa Edmonds

What do you think might be done to improve the parking situation on campus?

"We need a parking garage near Frazer. It should at least facilitate 500 cars (4 or 5 decks), like VCU's, with cameras, fences around the bottom, a main entrance and a parking lot attendant to watch the entrance. And have diagonal parking on one side of the street in front of Hiner which would increase faculty parking."

Damon Lindsay
Finance and Management
Senior
On Campus Student

"I think that each student should be assigned a parking space by number. When you purchase a decal, the number on that decal should be each student's ID number and then these numbers should be put on each parking space to match the number on your decal."

LaShawn Key
Sociology
Junior
On Campus student

"More parking facilities are very necessary, I think that serious consideration should be given to a parking deck being added to the campus for students which would allow faculty and staff to park closer to their offices."

Dr. William P. Brown
Department chair of Accounting and MIS
Faculty

"We are not that short of parking spaces, it's just a decision of convenience as to whether you want to walk from parking at Wynne. We do need emergency phones placed at Wynne for getting in contact with Campus Police."

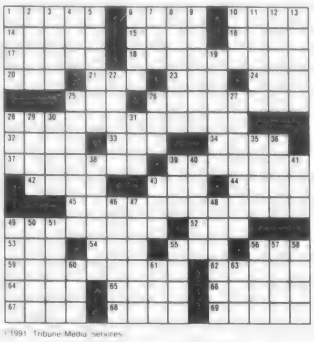
Jeff Hudson
Accounting
Senior
On campus studer

"We need more parking spaces, a parking deck would be nice. However, it would not be feasible to ask any other students not to bring cars to school, such as in the case with freshmen. Even though the parking situation is still in need of improvement, the parking situation has greatly improved in reference to past years."

Sergeant W. Oertel
Campus Police

COMICS

NO EXIT by Erik Andresen



ANSWERS:

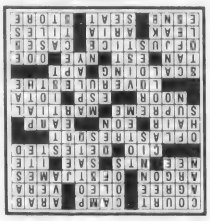
A. PROOF THAT YOU DON'T EVER MAKE FUN OF YOUR DENTIST'S HAIR.

B. CAMPUS HEALTH SERVICE IN ACTION.

C. THE TOOTH FAIRY WITH PMS.

THE Daily Crossword by Norton Rhoades

ACROSS



1 Open area
6 Recreation area
10 Beautiful horse
14 See the same way
15 Butterine
16 Actress Miles
17 A gas
18 1A —
20 Born
21 Dark periods: abbr.
23 Viscosity rating number
24 Follower: suff.
25 Union org.
26 Hated
28 1A —
32 Beard stuff
33 Long, long time
34 Sheriff Wyatt
37 — 1A
39 1A —
42 Leading money horse, 1950
43 Intuitive letters
44 Little bit
45 Scott wrote: "— 1A"
49 Burning with hot water
52 Painting, e.g.
53 Light brown
54 Founded: abbr.
55 Comic Louis
56 "— on a Grecian Urn"
59 1A —
62 Matters heard in 1A
64 Drip
65 Opera song
66 Floor pieces
67 Old slave
68 Location
69 Boutique

DOWN

1 Actor James
2 Monster
3 Push
4 Old car
5 — 1A
6 Dove sounds
7 — Landon
8 Disorders
9 Starchy food
10 A Gardner
11 Pay
12 Mountain ridge
13 Founded
19 One who mocks
22 Kind of pole
25 Wonderland author
26 Study room
27 One opposing Federalism
28 Exclamations
29 Rural deity
30 Chin. poet of old
31 Caviar base
35 Uproar
36 Byway
38 Wears away
39 College at Bozeman
40 Make — for (give the eye)
41 Papuan city
43 Work unit
46 Panoramas
47 Whole
48 Builds
49 Purloined
50 Bistros
51 Indian tree
55 Orderly
56 Fjord city
57 Forest animal
58 Being
60 Small guitar
61 Spy grp.
63 Small island

©1991 Tribune Media Services

ANSWERS

THE ROTUNDA NEEDS YOU!

INTERESTED IN:
- Writing?
- Photography?
- Layout?
- Ad Sales - Earn $?

Come by our weekly staff meetings on Wednesdays at 6pm in Conference Room III or call 395-2120.

Campus Calendar

Information on events should be submitted to the Student Union Office in Lankford by the Friday preceding the appropriate issue of the paper.

Wednesday October 16	Thursday October 17	Friday October 18	Saturday October 19
Soccer: Elon, 3:00 pm 1st Ave. Field Rotunda Staff Meeting: Interested in working - come join us. 6:00 pm Lankford Conf. Rm. 3 Lecture: "The European Community - 1992" by Hans U. Schetelig. 7:30pm Bedford Workshop. Improving Memory. 7:00pm Learning Center Conference Room	Workshop: Stress Management. 1:00pm Learning Center Conference Room S-UN Board Meeting. 1:30pm Lankford Conference Room II -ALCOHOL AWARENESS WEEK-	FALL BREAK BEGINS AFTER CLASSES.	Fall Women's Festival. 8:45am - 3:00pm Blackwell Dining Hall FALL BREAK

Wednesday October 23	Thursday October 24	Friday October 25
Classes Resume Field Hockey: Towson State. 3:30pm Barlow Field Workshop. Writing The Research Paper. 7:00pm Learning Center Conference Room Lecture: "Kane Hodder as JASON - The Man Behind the Mask." 8pm Jarman International Film: "Cinema Paradiso." 9pm Gold Room	Lecture by Joseph Baird. 1:00pm Gold Room Workshop: Oral Presentations. 1:00pm Learning Center Conference Room Concert by Joseph Baird. 9:00pm Gold Room	Contemporary Music Festival: Lectures and demonstrations, 9:00am - 6:00pm; Concert, 9:00pm Wygal Movies: Rocketeer 9:00 pm Gold Room

Announcing Longwood's newest concept in great food,

Pizza Hut Express

in Lancer Cafe!!

The Lancer Cafe invites special event programming for your campus organization any day of the week. Come & enjoy a Pizza Hut® Personal Pan Pizza on Longwood's campus in the Lancer Cafe. Call 395-2122 to schedule your event!

Hours
MWF 11am - 10pm
T-Th 11am - 12am
SAT 11am - 10pm
SUN 11am - 7pm
T&Th 7pm - 12am
(21 & over/ID required)

OKTOBERFEST

Photo Credit: Judi Weller

Dr. Beck entertained many with his authentic German outfit.

Photo Credit: Brad Owen

Kyle Davis put on quite a show at the President's house.

Photo Credit: Brad Owen

The shuttle bus quickly became packed for every trip to the President's house.

Photo Credit: Chrissie Hayes

The dunking booth proved to be a popular attraction.

Photo Credit: Brad Owen

Joyce Trent serves up some of that delicious barbecue during dinner.

Photo Credit: Chrissie Hayes

Klowns and children really get along.

Photo Credit: Chrissie Hayes

The finishing touches are applied to a masterpiece!

OKTOBERFEST

Photo Credit: Judi Weller

Lancer line struts their stuff!

Photo Credit: Judi Weller

Shooting hoops was one of the games available during Oktoberfest.

Photo Credit: Judi Weller

The Concert Choir lifts a tune on the mall.

Photo Credit: Judi Weller

Lisa and Chris, both spirit leaders, enjoyed the festivities together.

Photo Credit: Judi Weller

The Klowns show off their dancing ability!

Photo Credit: Brad Owen

Several student artists work on this large piece of sidewalk art.

Photo Credit: Judi Weller

Many organizations had successful booth sales.

Photo Credit: Chrissie Hayes

Spirit leaders join hand for a real Oktoberfest dance!

SPORTS

Tennis Team Finishes with Best Record Since '77

A hard-working coach and a determined group of tennis players have reversed the fortunes of women's tennis at Longwood College.

When Lady Lancer coach Angie Coppedge took the reins in 1988 there had been just one winning season over the previous eight years. An intense competitor in her playing days at Longwood (1982), Coppedge and her team suffered through a 6-16 mark in 1988-89.

Since that first losing mark, women's tennis has been on the way up and this fall Longwood went 7-1, the best one-season record of any Lady Lancer squad since the 1977 spring team finished 9-0. Longwood's best previous records for fall women's tennis were 7-3-1 in 1976 and last year's 5-2 mark.

Longwood is 26-18 over the past three years, 16-6 over the past two and 18-7 in the fall the last three years. Credit for the turnaround must go to Coppedge and her players.

"The team has shown steady improvement in consistency and attitude," says Coppedge. "They believe in themselves more now, and have gotten along well as a team. While it is not that important in an individual sport like tennis, it does make for happier players.

"I believe consistency is the key to this team," the coach explained. "We've won a lot of matches by wearing down our opponents with good, solid ground strokes. Our players have come from behind many times to win. If one player can be singled out, it is two-time MVP Jenny Holm, who has led the team at No. 1 for two and a half years. As team captain, she has set such a good example for the young players with her dedication."

Closing on an upbeat note, Longwood grabbed a pair of 8-1 victories in the final week of the fall season, despite the absence of an injured starter. The Lady Lancers beat Virginia Wesleyan 8-1 on the road Monday and Randolph-Macon 8-1 at home Wednesday.

Sophomore Melanie Saunders, 6-0 at No. three singles, sat out the final matches with an injury, but her absence failed to slow the Lady Lancer express.

Grabbing double wins for Longwood in singles during the final week of fall play were No. 1 Jenny Holm, No. 2 Suzie Lawman, No. 3 Kimber Bear, Jennifer Risko, who played No. 4 and 5, and Amy Thomas, who played No. 4 and 5. Freshman Darcy Rodriguez won her match at No. 6 against Virginia Wesleyan.

JENNY HOLM

SUZIE LAWMAN

Holm & Lawman Share Player of the Week Honors

Junior Jenny Holm, and senior Suzie Lawman who had 7-1 records at the No. 1 and No. 2 singles positions for the Longwood women's tennis team this fall, have been named co-Longwood College Players of the Week for the period Oct. 7-14. Player of the Week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.

Last week Holm and Lawman got a pair of single wins as Longwood won 8-1 at Virginia Wesleyan Monday and 8-1 over Randolph-Macon Wednesday in Farmville. The Lady Lancers finished 7-1, the best record ever for a Lady Lancer team in the fall season.

Holm, in her third year on the team, has a 26-19 career mark in singles while playing No. 1, and Lawman has a 30-14 record while playing No. 2. Coach Angie Coppedge says Holm and Lawman have played a key role in Longwood's recent success.

"It's very difficult to single out players, because we have many who have done well," said Coppedge. "But, Jenny and Suzie have won consistenly while playing at the top of the ladder. Jenny has also provided excellent leadership as team captain. She has set a good example for the young players with her dedication."

Co-MVP's on the team the past two seasons, Holm and Lawman are also partners at No. 1 doubles. Holm is a graduate of Menchville High School while Lawman prepped at Heritage High.

Intramurals

By JOHN FOX

The Intramural program is on the move with several sports now in progress: Women's Flag Football, Women's Volleyball, Men's Indoor Soccer, Tennis Doubles, and several weekend activities. The semifinals for most of these sports are coming up very soon so don't forget to support your favorite team.

In the past two weeks there has been several events concluded. The first event was the Women's Bowling Tournament with the Kappa Delta's winning over the Pi Girl's in a tight match which went down to the last frame.

Congratulations to the Kappa Delta's for winning their first Intramural tournament in several years.

The upcoming events are as follows: Men's and Women's Pool, October 28; Men's Volleyball, November 4.

The upcoming weekend events are as follows: Racquetball, October 31; Men and Women's 3 on 3 Basketball, November 14.

Lady Stickers Fall to American U

BY GREG PROUTY

The Longwood College field hockey team lost another close game Sunday afternoon, this time in our nation's capital city to American University. The 2-1 loss marks the fourth time this fall that the Lady Lancers have suffered defeat by just one goal. With one game remaining, Longwood's record stands at 2-9-1.

In Washington, D.C., the Lady Lancers fell behind early as Nicky Barrett opened the scoring for American 11-minutes into the game. Her goal came with an assist from Racquel Schwolow. Sophomore Missy Moran knotted the score at the 15:55 mark with her third goal of the season. Freshman Sara Hogan had seven saves in the net the opening half as the two teams were even after 35 minutes.

Longwood continued its fine play after the intermission with the score remaining the same until just :28 were left. At that point, Tracy North scored the game-winning goal for American, and once-again the Lady Lancers had to take a loss despite 'outplaying' their opposition.

"We played very well," commented second-year coach Sandy Bridgeman. "We did everything we needed to do. We made the most of our opportunities, but unfortunately came up short."

Freshman Mari Willen paced the Longwood attrack with four shots on goal, while senior Carver Ports and junior Kim Hasson led the defense with a defensive save each. Hogan finished with 10 goalkeeper saves.

Lady Golfers Blaze to 2nd Place Finish

In one of its best showings of the fall season, Longwood's women's golf team finished second out of 10 teams at the Penn State Lady Lion Invitational Saturday and Sunday at the Penn State Blue Golf Course in University Park, PA.

Longwood, led by co-captain Ami Schonauer, shot 312-322-329-963 to finish second behind host Penn State (930) and ahead of eight Division I teams. The Lady Lancers beat Michigan, Bowling Green, Dartmouth, Princeton and Rutgers among others.

While Kristin Clark of Penn State won the individual title with a 75-77-77-229, Schonauer shot 75-79-80-234 to land fourth place in a field of 66 golfers.

Freshman Brenda Campbell-Harris was next at 79-81-81-241 to place ninth. Senior Sherry Evans and freshman Charlaine Coetzee tied for 13th with scores of 246. Evans shot 77-85-84-246 and Coetzee carded an 81-81-84-246. Junior Anna Radford shot 83-81-85-249 for 22nd place.

In a somewhat unusual format, the teams played 36 holes Saturday and came back to play 18 more Sunday.

Next up for Longwood is the UNC Greensboro Tournament Oct. 21-22.

Men's Golf Defeats Alumni

By GREG PROUTY

Longwood's men's golf squad won the annual Dick Williamson Alumni match at Longwood Golf Course on Saturday during Oktoberfest, 299-319. Sophomore Jimmy Ward once-again paced the Lancers with a four-over par 73. 1990 Longwood graduate Tony Good, a former golfer and basketball player, was medalist with a 72.

Other scores for Longwood included junior Frank Davide's 74, sophomore Shawn Moore 75, and senior Jeff Smiley 77. Also playing with scores not counting toward the match were freshman Steve Smith 78, junior John Benten 79, freshman Jason Johnson 80, junior Steve Crute 81, and freshman Scott Westenhofer 85.

In father/son best-ball competition, Shawn and Wayne Moore took honors with a 68, while Shawn also won the closest-to-the-pin award hitting the ball 18-inches from the cup on number three. Ty Bordner (1987), had the longest-drive nailing one 340 yards.

October 6-7, the squad encountered inclement weather conditions in Pipestem State Park, WVA , as they participated in the Rhododendron Classic, hosted by the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. Coach Steve Nelson's team managed a sixth-place finish among 15 teams, shooting a 412-405-817.

NAIA power the University of Charleston (WVA) ran away with the tournament, blistering a 36-hole score of 375-384-759. Division I Radford University was a distant second with a 394-389-783, while Glenville State's The first day of the tournament was played in temperatures hovering in the high 30's, with winds gusting 20-30 miles per hour. The next day wasn't much better, as temperatures only rose into the 40's with winds still reaching 20 mph.

The scoring format was different as well, allowing each school six golfers, taking the top five scores each day. Most tournaments play five golfers with the top four scores counting.

Longwood was paced by Ward, 82-78-160, playing number one for the Lancers. Davide shot 84-78-162. Smith 80-83-163, Benton 83-83-166, Smiley 83-84-167, and Crute 86-83-169.

Longwood finishes its fall slate at the Hampton Invitational in Newport News October 21-22.

Soccer Squad Drops Two

Longwood's soccer team found life tough on the road again last week as the Lancers dropped contests at East Stroudsburg 4-0 Sunday and at Shenandoah 2-0 Wednesday. Now 5-9 with seven straight losses, the Lancers entertain Elon Wednesday in their final home game of the 1991 season.

Seniors Mark Wolcott, Jeff Bogushefsky, Chuck Anderson, Keith Collins, and Dave Mazzuca will be playing for the final time at home. Senior Pat Temple is questionable because of an injury in the East Stroudsburg contest.

Sunday, with Temple getting injured early in the first half and starters Todd Dyer and Ross Johnson sitting out, Longwood found East Stroudsburg too much to handle. The home team gained a 1-0 edge at the half and scored three second half goals to move its record to 8-6. Stroudsburg out-shot the Lancers 24-2.

Longwood played at Millersville (PA) University Monday afternoon.

Lancers Fall At Shenandoah

As sometimes happens in soccer, Longwood dominated the game but came up on the short end of the score Wednesday at Shenandoah as the Hornets won a Virginia Intercollegiate Soccer Association Eastern Division match 2-0.

Shenandoah, getting first half goals from George Holme and Nate Wann, held the Lancers at bay despite a 13-5 edge in shots for Longwood. Junior Byron Edwards came close to scoring for the Lancers in the second half, but his shot bounced off the net.

"We played well but we couldn't get the ball to go into the net," said Lancer coach Stan Cieplinski. "Jeff Bogushefsky turned in perhaps his best performance ever. He has a problem with his feet, but I can't keep him out of the lineup. He really wants to play."

How Far Will Longwood Go To Win?

By CHARLIE FULTZ,
Sports Editor

Headlines on the sports pages in the past couple of years tell of growing problems amongst collegiate athletic programs. The problem is rule violations in accordance with NCAA policy. Such rule violations include money given to athletes by coaching staff and recruiting violations by coaches and athletic directors. The following rules violations (and others) can really hurt a college or university's athletic program by losing scholarships for players as well as money brought in through the alumni. It is at this time that I would like to bring to the campus' attention a certain incident that happened this past summer involving a man named Rick Huckabay. Huckabay is the former head men's basketball coach at Marshall University. Two years ago the NCAA looked into apparent rules violations in the basketball program Mr. Huckabay was heading. He was forced from his job after that season, and on March 10, 1990 the NCAA determined that such violations had occurred at Marshall during his tenure and that Huckabay was the primary source of the wrongdoings. Therefore, Huckabay was put on a type of probation which stated that if he were to be hired by another NCAA school, he and that school would have to face the Committee of Infractions to see if his athletic duties at that school would be limited for a specific amount of time. The reason I bring Mr. Huckabay's name up is that Longwood College tried to hire him as an assistant basketball coach this past summer. Huckabay and Longwood representatives faced the committee, and the committee laid down certain limitations on Huckabay's duties if he were to be employed as assistant. One such limitation included that he could not engage in any recruiting until after September 1, 1992. To those who do not know, one of the assistant's biggest duties is going out scouting and recruiting new potential players. My question is: Why would Longwood want to hire a coach who has had a past filled with rule violations at another college... especially since the NCAA would be watching his and the college's back for years until he proved himself to be "clean?" Is this the price Longwood is willing to pay to get a Division I coach? It would seem to me that we should try to hire an assistant with an unmarked slate.

Do all the programs at Longwood "follow the rules" when it comes to NCAA policy? Does our college stay away from doing anything unethical? If so, I congratulate the athletic programs on a job well done. But think, hypothetically if you will, if some of the programs were no longer "toeing" the rules boundaries and were overstepping them That would cause concern in the eyes of students, faculty, and alumni to see if one of the programs were to be indicted on NCAA rules violations. If it were to happen (remember we are still thinking hypothetically) it would be devastating to the whole athletic department. Being a sports fan I hope that all of the athletic programs are "on the level." Because if even one steps over the line and gets caught, everybody suffers.

In closing, please keep in my mind that, I am not saying Longwood College's athletic programs are doing anything illegal, but what if...? Is losing money, scholarships, and potential athletes and students worth crossing the line? You make the call.

The Fresh Alternative

COLD SUBS — HONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD

	HALF 6 INCH	FOOT LONG
For TWICE the meat, just say "Super" ...add ...	1.00	2.00
BMT (ham, genoa salami, pepperoni, bologna)	2.99	4.29
SUBWAY CLUB (roast beef, turkey, ham)	2.99	4.49
SPICY ITALIAN (genoa salami, pepperoni)	2.79	3.89
COLD CUT COMBO (ham salami, bologna - all turkey based)	1.89	3.29
BBQ CHICKEN	3.29	4.89
TUNA	2.79	4.29
SEAFOOD & CRAB	3.49	4.99
BBQ PORK	2.79	4.29
HAM & CHEESE	2.89	4.29
ROAST BEEF	2.89	4.29
TURKEY BREAST	2.89	4.29
TURKEY & BACON DELUXE	3.29	4.89
VEGGIE	1.89	2.99

HOT SUBS — HONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD

	HALF 6 INCH	FOOT LONG
MEATBALL (Limited Time: Special 6"- $1.69)	1.99	3.49
STEAK & CHEESE (100% sirloin)	3.09	4.59
PIZZA SUB	2.99	4.29
RIB-B-Q (Our recommended choice)	3.39	5.69
Add Bacon...	.50	1.00

Free Fixin's Cheese • Onions • Lettuce • Tomatoes • Pickles Green Peppers • Olives • Salt • Pepper • Oil Mustard • Mayonnaise • Hot Peppers • Vinegar

-COUPON-

50¢ OFF ANY 6" SUB OR $1.00 OFF ANY FOOT-LONG SUB

Good at participating stores.

SUBWAY

Expires 12/31/91

SUBWAY

308 S. MAIN ST.
FARMVILLE, VA.
PHONE 392-8868

Longwood College

VOL. 71, NO. 6 OCTOBER 30, 1991

Rotunda

Students Form Partnership with Head Injury Survivors

Longwood College students majoring in therapeutic recreation have started a program in which they will serve as "partners" to survivors of head injuries.

Some seven students agreed recently to participate in social and leisure activities with local survivors, who desperately need companionship, said Candy Ashton-Shaeffer, instructor of therapeutic recreation (T.R.). She set up the program along with another faculty member, Don DeGraaf. The students, who volunteered as a class assignment, will be visiting the survivors this semester and in the spring.

"The program is modeled after a partners program that was started in Richmond about two years ago, but it's unique in its own right," said Cheryl Sherlock, director of family support services for the Virginia Head Injury Foundation. "That program, the first of its kind in the nation, involved community volunteers of all ages and backgrounds; this is the first to involve college volunteers. The Longwood program is unique and innovative."

Longwood's program is being arranged through the Virginia Head Injury Foundation and the Southside Virginia Head Injury Support Group, which is based in Crewe. The T.R. students have been attending meetings of the support group since last spring.

Ms. Sherlock recommends that students meet at least once a week with a survivor, and she envisions four or five survivors being involved. Two students probably will be paired with each survivor, which should be even more enjoyable for the survivors, she said.

"The students and survivors will be doing simple, normal activities: hanging out at the mall, visiting at home and listening to music or talking, going to a movie, going out for a hamburger," Ms. Sherlock said.

Severe head injuries cause lasting behavioral changes in survivors, often leading to many of their friends eventually abandoning them due to discomfort or embarrassment.

"Most have nowhere to go once they're discharged but home to their parents," Ms. Sherlock said. "Their friends usually fade away within six months to a year, leaving them with no socialization outside of their parents. Most are starved for someone to talk to, especially someone their own age."

"One brain-injured teenager in Richmond used to call our office four or five times a day, just to talk. Once the Partners program started, however, he didn't call for over a year. Also, his self-esteem improved and he started looking for a part-time job."

Survivors, often males whose injuries occur between the ages of 15 and 24, have trouble sustaining jobs and longterm relationships.

"The range of deficits is tremendous," Ms. Sherlock said. "Some appear different physically, others don't. Some but not all are in wheelchairs. Many are unpredictable. Their memory, coordination, and attention span almost always suffer."

Fifteen years ago, she said, 95 percent of head injury victims died, but today that figure has been reversed: 95 percent survive. This has created the need for new services and programs.

A partners program, among its obvious benefits, helps relieve the stress on the survivor's parents, she said. It also helps survivors develop socially in appropriate ways; because of the age at which head injuries usually occur, their social development often is affected.

The survivors who will be chosen are generally between the ages of 20 and 30, Ms. Ashton-Shaeffer said. Dawn Kiss, a physical therapist at Southside Community Hospital, will help connect the survivors and the students.

"This program will provide a fantastic opportunity," said Ms. Sherlock. "The benefit to survivors will be immeasurable, and the students will learn about the deficits of brain injuries in a hands-on, informal setting. They will be better professionals because of the experience."

Those involved with the "partners program" between therapeutic recreation students and local survivors of head injuries are (bottom, from left) students Bill Parker, Kristen Emerick, Curtis Edwards and Nicole Payne, and Evy Buzzell, mother of a survivor, and (top, from left) T.R. faculty member Candy Ashton-Shaeffer, Jane Brittingham of the Virginia Head Injury Foundation, students Lisa Savage, Colette Hughes and Tara Bowland, and T.R. faculty member Don DeGraaf and Cheryl Sherlock of the Virginia Head Injury Foundation.

Crime Reports Answer Some Questions

By TRACI HASSELL
Staff Reporter

There have been a lot of questions being asked about the recent publicized crimes. What is being done about it?

Through the Campus Security Act of 1991, the college has the duty to report the crime rates on campus. The public has the right to be aware of their surroundings.

Prospective students were asking about the campus crime before they enrolled. Thus, the Campus Police are posting the reports for the students' use.

These reports are a listing of physical assaults, robbery, and sexual attacks. They put these out as soon as the word gets to them. This is to inform the students in a timely fashion.

The Campus Police are working with the town's police force in the current assaults. Although, the behind the scenes information cannot be divulged, they do have a few leads.

They are hoping to catch the culprits in the act. The suspects are not Longwood students and could be area residents or visitors.

"There has been no one seriously injured; although any attack in a serious offense" commented Laura Haga of the Campus Police.

The crimes are happening late at night. The Campus Police do not know if it is the same group involved. They are speculating that at least a couple of the offenders are involved more than once.

The Students Escort Service is in the process of getting ID's and sweatshirts made. With their flashlights, hand radios, and whistles, they keep an eye out for the offenders. They travel in pairs and are not to jump into problems – just alert Campus Police.

Apart from the assaults, there are other crimes that have been reported to Campus Police.

During Octoberfest weekend, two cars had their windows smashed. Nothing was stolen from these cars and no evidence was left behind.

There have been a rash of harassing phone calls recently. The offenders make rude or obscene remarks and continue to do this on a regular basis. It is possible to place a tap on these phone calls, if everyone in the room consents to it.

Usually the drunk in public, underage drinking, open containers of alcohol are referred to the Judicial Board. Over fall break, two nonstudents were arrested for intoxication and trespassing in a dormitory.

No official arrests have been made dealing with drug abuse, reported rapes, or domestic disputes. "The crimes on campus haven't been that bad, apart from the physical assaults," said Haga.

There are not a lot of returns on stolen property. The biggest item stolen this year was a bicycle. Other stolen property has included items that can easily be converted to cash, such as: jewelry and stereos.

All crimes are submitted to the State Police in the Uniform Crime Report. This is done on a monthly basis revealing larceny, rapes, theft, and attacks.

It is hard for the Campus Police to determine who is a student and who is not. They are going to keep the notices coming to the students. This is to encourage the students to exercise caution and keep their eyes open at all times to possible threatening situations.

With the reports, Campus Police are hoping more students will come forward with information.

LC Shows Concern Over Its Image

By DINA M. DAWSON
News Staff

With a new library, new dormitory building, new entrances to the dining hall, and other additions that have or will take place in Longwood's immediate future, individuals can rest assured that Longwood is becoming serious about the image it projects as a college community.

To add to that list of new things that will improve the look of the campus is the new Vandalism Reduction and Beautification plan, involving the team of Mr. Rick Hurley, Vice-President of Business Affairs, Ms. Phyllis Mable, Vice-President of Student Affairs, Mr. David Rettig, Director of Housing, and Mr. Melvin Moore, Director of Buildings and Grounds. The new plan, which was actually crated last spring and was presented to the Board of Visitors in July, emerged, as Mr. Hurley stated, "because the administration had not been pleased with the amount of cleanliness around campus, especially in the dorms, particularly Frazier."

In addition to the complaints made by Longwood's administration, concerning the cleanliness of the campus, individuals visiting the campus and several college employees also submitted remarks and complaints regarding the appearance of the college.

According to Mr. Rettig, the implementation of the new plan was badly needed, especially when one considers the dollar amount of damages done to the buildings on campus over the past few semesters. At the end of the fall semester last year, $24,000.00 damage, total, was done to the dormitory buildings commons areas, with half of the money going to repair vandalized elevators and fire extinguishers that had been set off during the semester.

In addition to reducing the amount of vandalism done each semester to the college itself, members of Longwood's administration hope that the students will begin to take responsibility for the damages they cause, so that all the students on a particular floor or in a particular residence hall will not have to foot the bill for the repairs. Last year, when students left Longwood for the summer, over three hundred new doors were installed around campus in the dormitory buildings, once again due to vandalism.

While all the members involved with the Vandalism Reduction and Beautification Plan admit that things are looking better already they all agree the answer lies in trying to build pride in the students here at Longwood. If students have a high sense of pride about their campus, and in general their dormitory building, most of the administration feels that such students will be less likely then to vandalize something they are proud of, less likely to destroy it and to throw trash around on the ground. In fact the plan is built around such student pride and Ms. Mable stated that when you get right down to the issue "it's having pride in yourself and extending that outward.'

Despite the fact that the campus has improved since the plan was put into action, Longwood certainly has not reached its goal of being a showplace, something that Ms. Mable feels we should be in a few years. While the beautification of Longwood is not something that can occur overnight, with an increased response from students it can occur over the course of a few semesters.

Next week, we will examine the actions taken so far in trying to beautify Longwood and furthermore how students can help the campus reach its goal of being a future showplace.

Volunteerism Rising

By AMY THOMAS
Staff Writer

It seems America's campuses are turning out a different breed of college student. The self-absorbed party animal is out-the selfless community activist is in. Student volunteerism has become a national phenomenon. Students say the time is right, and many say they are ready to face the problems in their communities.

"I've seen the difference I can make in a little kid's life," said Gina Schaefer, a junior at Wittenberg University. "That's a lot more important than a whole lot of cash." Schaefer is a student coordinator in the Ohio schools Community Workshop.

No one is certain whether the service movement is a trend or a sign of something more permanent. Deborah Dillion, director of Wittenburg's Community Workshop, says, "I see the service movement as a revitalization movement," she said. "I see it as a cultural and social attempt to revitalize some sort of national spirit."

This fall, the Campus Outreach Opportunity League (COOL) will start 'Into the Streets," a three-year student volunteerism movement in which thousands of students nationwide meet with local agencies to discuss homelessness, AIDS, and other social issues. This movement is designed by students for students, says Julian Posada, associate outreach director of COOL. "This is the first national initiative for volunteers. We are breaking the perception that we don't care."

What are student volunteers doing here on Longwood's campus? The volunteer movement at Longwood is only about two years old. G.I.V.E. Clearinghouse, (Groups and Individuals Volunteering Efforts) was the

(continued on page 4)

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
Features 3
News 4
Comics 5
Sports 6

COMMENTARY

Letters To The Editor

Dear Students, Faculty, and Staff:

A few weeks ago, UNITY introduced itself as the gay/lesbian/bisexual student alliance of Longwood and Hampden-Sydney Colleges. We would like to take this opportunity to reiterate the purposes for our existence: we hope to heighten public awareness of gay, lesbian, and bisexual life issues; promote understanding of these issues among the heterosexuals with whom we share our lives; and lastly, we hope to educate both campuses regarding the prejudices that are the result of homophobic behavior.

UNITY would also like to thank the faculty, staff, and students for providing us with a receptive environment in which we have been able to grow and become a more productive group. Through this productivity we have also been able to communicate our presence and our purpose to the Longwood and Hampden-Sydney communities.

Once again, anyone interested in more information about UNITY should call 395-2552.

UNITY

P.S. A BIT OF TRIVIA: National "Coming Out Day" was Friday, October 11!

Dear Students,

Let me start by telling you that I am a convict in the Arizona State Prison.

I shall not, at this time, go into the reasons for me being in prison, but let me assure you that I am fully aware of the wrongs I have done in the past. Is not everyone entitled to a second chance in life?

A short resume of myself: My full name is: James Lee Brawdy, I am 35 years of age. I have brown hair and dark brown eyes. My height is, 5'7-1/2", my weight is, 157 lbs. I am of English and Indian descent, and I am single. I also have many interests.

In short, I would like to correspond with you. My letters will be of a friendly nature, for that is what I seek from outside this steel and concrete, in which I live.

Sincerely and Respectfully,
James Lee Brawdy
Arizona State Prison
P.O. Box B- #54266
Florence, Arizona
85232

Quotable:

"The punishment which the wise suffer, who refuse to take part in the government, is to live under the government of worse men."

—Plato

SGA What Exactly Do You Do, Anyway?

What is the purpose of the Student Government Association of Longwood College? The SGA constitution states that "the purpose of [SGA is] to: advance the general welfare of the student body; and to promote the cultural, intellectual, and personal development of the student body." The constitution goes on to say that they will "...promote effective self-governance, encourage individual excellence, and vigorously pursue the general will of the student body."

But does SGA fulfill its duties and obligations to the students at Longwood?

Perhaps the most obvious gauge of the SGA's effectiveness is what they achieve on behalf of the student body. For those on the SGA senate, here is Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary's definition of "achievement": "a result brought about by resolve, persistence, or endeavor." The only (dubious) achievement of the SGA so far this year has been holding Freshman Class elections – not exactly a shining example of organization. The complaints from the student body about mismanagement, as well as the haphazard and untimely manner in which the Freshman Class elections were completed should make the members of the SGA Campus Elections Committee hang their collective head in shame. We can only hope that the upcoming elections are organized in a more efficient and impartial manner.

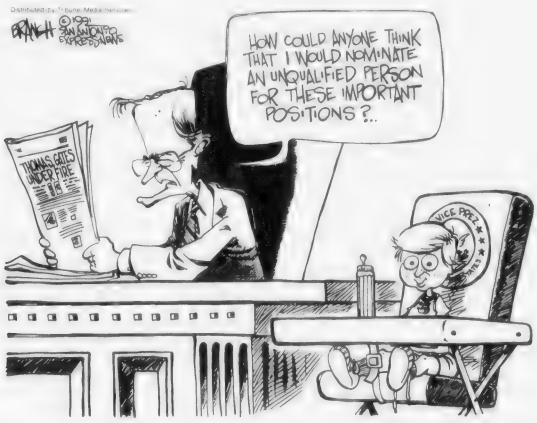
Indeed, it seems rather strange that SGA elections are run by the SGA itself. Wouldn't it be a bit more fair to have elections organized by some impartial group? Every governmental body should be constrained by a system of checks and balances – should the balance always be in SGA's favor? How effective is a government that is its own watchdog?

A ringing cry often heard in the SGA Senate room is "We must obey the constitution to the letter!" But which constitution do they wish to follow? The one that was ratified by the student body of Longwood College or the one that was submitted for publication in the student handbook? It seems that, intentionally or not, a clause was left out of the constitution submitted for publication in the handbook. After review of several copies of the student handbook for 1991-92, we were unable to locate any mention of the "Article XII: Board of Visitors" clause that was in the officially ratified version of the SGA constitution. The missing clause reads as follows:

Article XII: The Board of Visitors.

Section 1: Authority:

It is understood that this Constitution, and enactments made in pursuance thereto, are subject to the approval of the Board of Visitors of Longwood College.



We don't agree with the content of Article XII, however it is wrong to just drop an article that had been passed by the student body.

But SGA Executive Council seems none too concerned about the finer points of obeying the SGA constitution, or the Code of Virginia, for that matter. Every week the SGA Executive Council holds what they refer to as an "executive" meeting, the official purpose of which is to plan the agenda for the following "open" meeting. These "executive" meetings are adamantly closed to the public and press, which is a direct violation of the Virginia Freedom of Information Act. Chapter 21, § 2.1-344 of the Code of Virginia states that "executive" or "closed" meetings may be held for reasons such as: discussion of personnel matters; discussion on admission or disciplinary matters concerning students; and discussion of an individual's personal matters not relating to public business. Nowhere in §2.1-344 is mention made of closing a meeting whose sole purpose is to plan an agenda. Furthermore, a closed meeting may not even be called unless there "shall have been recorded in open meeting an affirmative vote to that effect by the public body holding such meeting, which motion shall state specifically the purpose or purposes ... which are to be the subject of such meeting and a statement included in the minutes of such meeting which shall make specific reference to the applicable exemption or exemptions ... The public body holding such an executive or closed meeting shall restrict its consideration of matters during the closed portions only to those purposes specifically exempted..." ("The Virginia Freedom of Information Act." (1988, c. 479.))

And it is not only Virginia law which is so blatantly trodden upon by the SGA. Rules and regulations of their own making are discarded if found to be inconvenient. Vacant positions go unfilled; apparent non-members of the Senate are allowed to make motions and vote on official matters; some members are continually absent without any official rebuke; meetings rarely follow established parliamentary procedure; this is hardly conducive to an atmosphere in which serious, productive business can be conducted.

Unless the SGA addresses these issues, as it is obligated to do, the quality of student life at Longwood can only continue to deteriorate.

The Political Corner with Keith Johnson

Do you like restrictions?

Could it be that our society imposes rules and regulations for the good of us all?

Have you ever stopped and really analyzed how many restrictions there are on our everyday lives that we take for granted?

Do you feel that the legal drinking age of 21 is too high or not high enough?

Most people could care less about it and probably are ignorant to most laws that influence their daily lives. Do you smoke? If so how do you feel knowing that you cannot smoke inside public facilities? To me this is an encroachment on my own personal rights.

The possibility of truly having a "big brother" as George Orwell described may not be too far in the future. In the last decade we have seen our flag burnt and our national pride desecrated.

What would the men buried in Arlington say if they could speak out? How would they feel knowing that they gave their lives for future generations and the hope of freedom; and yet we repay them by destroying ours and their national symbol.

We argue and struggle over the smallest issues and many of us stand back and watch and take no action in preserving our rights. Yes, that means many of you here at Longwood College!

For instance, as I write this article there are strong anti gun organizations attempting to deprive me of my constitutional right to keep and bear arms. They argue, that guns are dangerous and killers and a true evil of society. They tend to forget that firearms are like automobiles in the sense that if they are not properly maintained and treated with respect they can possibly injure or even kill. But we must remember that in the end it is people that kill people and not just guns.

In the end many of us joke and ridicule our political leaders but fail to look in the mirror and assess our own weaknesses and mistakes.

Take part in protecting your individual rights because if you don't you will look back and see that someone or some group was glad to take them away from you.

Keith Johnson is a senior political science major at Longwood.

THE ROTUNDA NEEDS YOU!

INTERESTED IN:

- Writing?
- Photography?
- Layout?
- Ad Sales - Earn $?

Immediate Opening for Layout Editor

Come by our weekly staff meetings on Wednesdays at 6pm in Conference Room III or call 395-2120.

Rotunda

THE STAFF:

Executive Editor Bradley L. Owen
Editor Christopher S. Jones
Founding Editor Helen Skillman
Asst. Features Editor Ann Renee Heim
Sports Editor Charlie Fultz
Features Editor Sherry Gatewood
Photography Editor Judi Weller
Layout Editor (open)
Business Manager Erin C. McCay
Advisors Mr. William C. Woods, Ms. Brenda Atkins

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is noon Friday prior to the Wednesday publication date and these should be placed in the envelopes inside the Publication offices door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by 5 p.m. Sunday. All submissions become the property of The Rotunda.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College. The Rotunda is an Associated Collegiate Press award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

Alumni Relive Memories

By KIMBER SCOTT
Features Staff

Traditionally Oktoberfest is a time for Longwood's alumni to return to campus and relive college memories.

How will you feel returning to Longwood as an alumni?

Derek Lilly a 1989 graduate felt, "Depressed, because I miss Longwood so much."

Carol Blount a 1989 graduate, "I feel like I want to be back because of the lifestyle. Things are easy here, unlike in the real world."

What will you miss most?

Boris Steinbach a 1989 graduate, "Feeling comfortable in a crowd."

Steve Naus a 1985 graduate, "All night escapades in Stubbs."

Judy Flanagan a 1990 graduate, "Having all of my friend's clothes to borrow."

What will you miss least?

Shannee' Bryannt a 1990 graduate, "Long lines in the bookstore."

Donna Bradshaw a 1990 graduate, "Trying to find a parking spot."

Boris Steinbach, "Silly soap opera spats that mean nothing in real life."

Sofia Pandazides a 1988 graduate, "There is nothing that I don't miss, I miss everything."

As Longwood continues to grow, the physical changes are what our alumni notice most when they return to campus. "The library and the new dorm are obviously the most evident changes" says Donna Bradshaw.

Jamie Davis a 1987 graduate states, "I am most impressed with the growth because at the time I was here Longwood made a commitment toward university status and the administration has stuck by this promise."

Longwood's alumni tend to have positive remarks about their alma mater and some good advice to the students. "Longwood was the best experience of my life" states Derek Lilly.

Shanee' Bryant states, "Make the most of the time you have at Longwood because time passes quickly and going to work is much more difficult than going to class." Steve Naus's advice to Longwood students, "Your degree and GPA will get you in the door but it is up to you to market yourself."

Are we really so anxious to graduate and be in the "real world"?

Broken Elevators Inconvenience Students

By LINDA C. WRIGHT
Features Writer

"How many flights are there?"
"Ten."
"Oh, wonderful."
"Nine to go!"
"Eight."
"Seven, how far up is this?"
"Heaven?"
"Six." huff.
"Five." huff, huff.
"Four."
"How many more?"
"Three huff. We can huff make it."
"Two to go."
"One."
"Yeah! Home zone."

How many times have you felt this way?

Broken elevators are a common inconvenience to many students on campus.

Dave Rettig, Director of Housing, said "deliberate overloading" is one cause contributing to elevator breakdown. According to Mr. Rettig, elevator breakdowns have decreased: "Last year once a week" they were out of order, but "this year it is not as bad."

Longwood has a "maintenance service contract with Shenandoah Elevator Company" and they come up "as needed" to do repairs said Mr. Rettig.

In "the Fall of 1990 it cost the college $12,000.00 for elevator damages" said Mr. Rettig. He said the bulk of the cost was a result of "panels stolen from Cox and Wheeler that cost $3200.00 each to replace." The "estimated cost for each student that semester was $5.45" said Mr. Rettig.

Last year, "there were more incidences in Frazer" of broken elevators said Mr. Rettig.

"Don't do it. If you are aware of someone who has deliberately damaged an elevator, use peer pressure on the person to encourage them to turn themself in or turn them in yourself. Take pride in where you live, don't have inconsideration for others' were suggestions from Mr. Rettig to combat this problem.

If a student discovers an elevator is not working properly or is broken down "report it to the REC so the physical plant can check it," said Mr. Rettig.

Sveboda to Give Reading

Terese Svoboda, a prize-winning poet, video artist, and translator from New York City, will give a reading at Longwood College on Monday, Nov. 4.

The reading, sponsored by Longwood's Authors Series, will begin at 8 p.m. in Wygal Auditorium and is open to the public free of charge.

Svoboda received the Iowa Poetry prize in 1990 for a book entitled Laughing Africa. A second book, All Aberration, was nominated for the American Library Association's notable book award in 1985.

In addition, Svoboda's poems have been published in Ploughshares, American Poetry Review, Southern Review, Prairie Schooner, The New Yorker, Harper's, and a dozen others. She received awards from the Poetry Society of America in 1982 and 1987.

She translated African writings for Cleaned the Crocodile's Teeth, published in 1985 by the Greenfield Press.

Svoboda was producer and writer for the PBS-TV series entitled Voices & Visions and for Oral Poetry in Performance, a five-part television series shown worldwide. She has given readings and conducted seminars and workshops for the American Academy of Poets, the Poetry Society of America, National Public Radio, the Folger Shakespeare Library, poets-in-the-schools programs in Nebraska and New York, and colleges and universities around the country.

Her art videos have been exhibited at the Museum of Modern Art, Art Institute of Chicago, USA Film Festival, and in Holland, Belgium, Finland, Denmark, and France.

Svoboda received her B.F.A. degree in writing and studio art, with honors, from the University of British Columbia and the M.F.A. in poetry from Columbia University.

Lecture Thrills Audience

By LAURIE MYERS
Features Staff

On Wednesday, October 23, Longwood was visited by one of the scariest men in America. No, not Dan Quayle, but the one and only Jason Voorhees from "Friday the 13th."

As a crowd of two hundred unsuspecting victims waited nervously in Jarman Auditorium, Jason slithered throughout the theater looking for his prey.

"Ch...ch...ch...Ah... ah... ah ... Kill.. kill...kill – Suddenly the audience saw the psychotic murderer's silhouette and his well known hockey mask. Next, there was a knock at the left door and then at the right. A stunned young lady in the front row answered the knock. At first she saw nothing, but as she turned her back, Jason grabbed her and took the girl to her death. Nothing remained but her piercing scream.

To the audience's relief, Jason soon removed his mask to reveal himself as none other than Ronald Reagan – what? In all reality, the character of Jason Voorhees is played by Hollywood stuntman, coordinator, and actor Kane Hodder.

Aside from playing Jason in "Friday the 13th" parts VII and VIII, Kane Hodder has done work in over fifty films and seventy television shows. Most recently, he worked with Steven Segal in "Out For Justice" and with Dan Ackroyd in "Nothing But Trouble."

During the lecture, presented by the Student Union Board, Mr. Hodder showed many clips from film and television which he has worked. He narrated the scenes and revealed several humorous anecdotes about his industry.

In between film clips, Kane Hodder asked for volunteers from the audience to demonstrate several stunt sequences. A question and answer session concluded the lecture.

Lancer Dancers Perform

By TAMMI TITCOMB
Features Staff

From high kicks to gyrating hips, the Lancer Dancers have shown that they have all the right moves!

Referred to also as the drill team of Lancer Line, the Lancer Dancers began six years ago with a handful of girls and has progressed to a team of 25 members with "great dancing ability."

The Dancers can be seen strutting their stuff during half-time at basketball games, on Oktoberfest and Spring Weekend and occasionally they perform at Hampden-Sydney.

According to Joi Berenguer, one of the two captains, the reason they perform is to "get people riled up at games if the basketball team is winning and to raise spirits if they're losing."

All the girls would agree that being a Dancer is fun, but, says one girl "it takes a lot of hard work." Joi agrees — "it takes a lot of stamina and energy."

Practice is held three nights a week or more if necessary for two hours each time. Performing on the team leaves the girls in top shape and gives them an aerobic workout. However, most of the girls are used to many hours of practice since a lot of them were either on their high school drill team or cheerleading squad.

Ask any Lancer Dancer, good dancing music is essential to each routine. Whether funky, jazz-like or plain out fun, each routine takes a lot of planning. The routines are choreographed by the two captains and the girls on the team help.

If you missed their Oktoberfest performance, be sure to catch the girls next at the Par-Bils Tip Off coming up in November. Behind those smiles goes a lot of hard work and well spent time, so support the Lancer Dancers and cheer them on to more dancing success!

Rules of the Road Discussed

By KIM BRANDYBERRY
Staff Writer

How much do we really know about the rules of the road in Farmville? How about jaywalking, U-turns, biking, or skateboarding? Will they cost us?

Jaywalking is considered walking across the street between intersections and walking against the light. If stopped for jaywalking the Farmville police chief, Otto Overton, suggests you say, "You didn't realize it and that you are sorry. It won't happen again." Repeat offenders are unusual.

If stopped for your first or second offense you will be issued a warning. If you are stopped again after this you will be cited and given a summons to court. the cost of court is $10. It is usually dropped but who wants to be the precedent for everyone else?

The police chief also mentioned a problem with students making U-turns on Main Street. This is prohibited on any street in the town of Farmville. There are signs throughout the town to remind you. This will also get you into court. Twelve summons have been issued in Farmville in the past year.

Bikers out there, beware. Farmville police officers will stop you for riding on the sidewalks. You are only allowed on the street with the flow of traffic. Sidewalks are for pedestrians only.

Skateboarding on the streets, sidewalks, or parking lots in the town of Farmville is also prohibited. The only area allowed for skateboarders is campus streets. The campus patrol this not the Farmville police.

Chief Overton wanted to give Longwood students fair warning on the rules of the road in Farmville. No jaywalking, no U-turns where signs are posted, no biking on the sidewalks, and no skateboarding off-campus. Of course, speed is also monitored.

Chief Overton had nothing but complimentary things to say about Longwood students. He said, "We have a nice bunch of kids up there. They work with us and all you have to do is tell them the law and they cooperate. No problems."

ARIS GALLERY
(we have moved to a new location)
To Serve You Better We Are Now Located At 233 North Main Street
We Specialize in Custom Matting and Framing
• Diplomas • Documents • Prints
• Originals • Needle Art
We Serve Both Individual and Commercial Needs
• Decor Art Consultants
• On-site Consultations
• Student Art (10% discount with college ID)
Choose from over 30,000 prints from our exclusive print books!!
• 500 Frame Styles • 365 Mat Colors
MON - SAT 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

See our line of Sorority Jewelry and other gift ideas!
Cumbey Jewelers
216 North Main Street
392-6321

Virginia Shoe Factory Outlet
• Discounted Shoes $29.95
• New line of Bucks available!
• Buffalo Creek Leather Boots
(custom designed for J. Crew and Polo)
• Complete Line of New Balance sport shoes
There's Something New... At VA. SHOE
228 Main Street

Alcohol Awareness Week Educates Students

By MICHELE D. HENY
Staff Writer

Alcohol Awareness week is a designated time on college campuses to educate students on the health and social consequences of alcohol abuse.

October 14 – 17, informative tables, videos, and lectures were available for students to learn more about the effects of alcohol on their health. Senior, Matt Sisk, said that the week was "very entertaining as well as informative."

Alcohol abuse is a major issue on campus because it lowers academic performance, causes aggressive behavior, and impairs judgement. According to the Public Health Service's Office for Substance Abuse Prevention, college students spend about $4.2 billion on alcohol substance.

Frazer Hall Council kicked off the week with a "Walk for Alcohol Awareness." Souvenirs were available and T-shirts were given out to the first 20 students that entered.

A former Alcohol and Drug Enforcement Officer, Rocky Capanigro, spoke to students Tuesday night in Wygal about the problems of alcoholism in the world today. Following the lecture, mocktails (nonalcoholic cocktails) were served.

Phyllis Mable, vice-president for Student Affairs spoke Wednesday night in the Frazer Commons Room about alcohol issues on the Longwood campus. The title of the lecture was "Stand and Be Counted."

From 9 p.m. – 11 p.m. that evening, Greeks had an "alternative party contest." This involved having a theme party along with nonalcoholic beverages.

The AΣT, ATΔ, and ZTA won the contest with a "50's Party." Alex Rodriguez said that he "enjoyed this approach to partying because you can let people see you for yourself."

Thursday evening, Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority sponsored a movie "Postcards from the Edge" in the Lancer Cafe.

A recent Roper survey reported that 53% of college students think that alcoholism is a serious problem on campus. This issue was more of a concern to students than nonviolent and violent crimes, drug abuse, and AIDS.

Another study conducted by the University of Florida found that the number of students that drink has dropped from 89% in 1981 to 80% in 1991. Jennifer Beazley believes that "students are drinking less because we are more educated and have seen these effects on the older generation."

Sociologists feel that although the decrease in alcohol consumption among college students is encouraging, the problem must not be forgotten because one in ten students will become dependent for alcohol.

CHRISTOPHER DAVIS

Davis Will Give Recital

Christopher Davis, a music education major at Longwood College, will give his senior recital on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 3, at 4 o'clock in Wygal Recital Hall.

Davis will play works for piano by Scarlatti, Mozart, Beethoven, Poulenc, and Persichetti; and works for euphonium by Pezel and Handel.

He will be assisted by Nancy Sherman, piano; Dr. Gordon Ring and William Ivie, trumpets; Brian Gresh, trombone; and Michael Lopp, tuba.

Davis studies piano with Frieda E. Myers and euphonium with Dr. Ring, both associate professors of music at Longwood.

Secretary of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia and a member of Music Educators National Conference, Davis participates in Longwood's Concert Band, Jazz Ensemble, and Camerata Singers.

His parents are Colonel and Mrs. James M. Davis, of San Antonio, Texas.

The recital is open to the public free of charge.

Graduate Program Rapidly Expanding

By KIM GILBERT

Longwood College's enrollment in the graduate program is on the rise. There are approximately 450 students enrolled in the graduate program, nine of which are fulltime students. Dr. Vera Williams, Dean of Graduate and Continuing Studies, said, "In just the last two years we have had over a 50% growth in our graduate program."

Longwood offers two degrees in the graduate program. The first, a degree of Master of Science in Education, offers ten areas of concentration. The most popular concentration is Guidance and Counseling, and the two fastest growing concentrations are Community and College Counseling and Special Education/Learning Disabilities. The second degree offered is the Master of Arts in English.

Longwood has been authorized to grant Master of Sociology degrees. Tentatively classes will be open in the fall of 1992 for this degree, if the faculty can be established.

Dr. Williams was asked what advice she would give a college student considering going to graduate school, and she replied, "I think that it is a true advantage to get a Master Degree early in your career in order to reap the full financial and intellectual benefits for a longer period of time."

Longwood College was founded in 1839, it was authorized to five baccalaureate degrees in 1916, and it was authorized to grant Master Degrees in 1955. In 1990 Longwood became a member of the Southern Counsel of Graduate Schools.

The majority of Longwood alumni would be accepted into the graduate and Continuing Studies Program, although taking the Graduate Record Examination is a requirement. Most of the courses are offered at night because the majority of Graduate and Continuing Studies students at Longwood have fulltime jobs and are parttime students. Most of the degrees can be obtained in one to two years.

The teachers of the graduate courses must hold either a degree in their discipline or a related one. Summer grants are offered to Longwood graduate faculty to perform research in their fields.

Volunteerism

(continued from page 1)

first group formed. Two Longwood students, Shawn Smith and Linda Kapel, help place student volunteers with the local agencies that need them. Deborah Hebert, Director of Student Services, is responsible for supervising these two students. Shawn and Linda also speak to students and groups about volunteer work that is available.

The other volunteer organization on campus is REACH (Responsible Efforts for Achieving Community Help). REACH is a student organization, which means they set their own goals and agenda. One of the benefits of REACH, says Ms. Hebert, is that "students can plan what they're interested in doing." REACH works in terms of short-term and long-term goals, enabling them to complete one project at a time. Right now, their short-term goal is CPR training for students, scheduled for sometime in January.

Dana Council, the current president of REACH, is leading the efforts toward the group's ongoing project, working with the area nursing homes. This includes visits and planned programs for the residents. Other projects include food and clothing drives.

Volunteer groups at Longwood are not fund raising groups. This is because, says Ms. Hebert, "agencies immediately say 'money' when you ask them what they need." Volunteer work enables students to feel like they are really contributing. The volunteer groups also only work through established agencies, to prevent students from being taken advantage of.

The GIVE office is located in West Ruffner, near the Continuing Studies office. Interested students can call 395-2397. REACH meetings are held every other Tuesday in Conference Room 3 in Lankford at 7.

Chamber Players Plan a Night

By JENNY TOLLEY
Staff Writer

On November 5, 1991, the Roxbury Chamber Players will present a program of all-American music. The program will include quintets by Allan Blank and Arthur Foote. Baritone Thomas Williams, a member of Longwood's music faculty, will be a guest in this concert. Williams will join the ensemble to perform Samuel Barber's "Dover Beach."

The performance will be held in Wygal Recital Hall at 8 p.m. It is open to the public without charge. For more information about upcoming events in the music department or this particular performance, please call 395-2499 or 395-2503.

Who's Who Named

The 1992 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges will include the names of 61 students from Longwood College who have been selected as national outstanding campus leaders.

Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory have included the names of these students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.

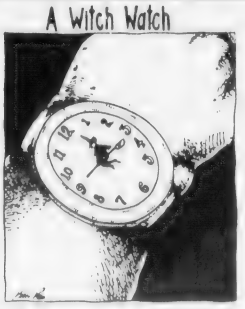
They join an elite group of students selected from more than 1,400 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

Outstanding students have been honored in the annual directory since it was first published in 1934.

Students named this year from Longwood College are: Ms. Jayne Adair, Ms. Taline Akseraylian, Mr. Walter Alford, Mr. Brian Bates, Mr. David Boyer, Ms. Angela Brame, Ms. Margaret Burgener, Ms. Sharon Butler, Ms. Jody Chamberlain, Ms. Tara Confalone, Mr. Brian Crutchfield, Ms. Caren Davis, Ms. Vivian Davis, Ms. Sarah Drewry, Ms. Ann Duncan, Ms. Lisa Edmonds, Ms. Lisa Felton, Ms. Jennifer Flowers, Ms. Kim Foster, Ms. Shannon Gardner, Ms. Sherry Gatewood, Ms. Betsy Gee, Ms. Tina Gewerth, Ms. Lisa Goehner, Mr. Edward Goforth, Ms. Tina Haight, Ms. Julie Hall, Mr. Roger Hanna, Ms. Jennifer Harvey, Ms. Dawn Jarvis, Ms. Angela Jones, Ms. Jami Lindahl, Ms. Rebecca Lythgoe, Ms. Sheri McGuire, Ms. Diane Majewski, Ms. Cathy Mapp, Ms. Kelli Martin, Ms. Becky Meeks, Ms. Laura Miller, Ms. Crystal Mitchell, Ms. Marianne Moffat, Ms. Shannon Nunnally, Ms. Anita Owens, Mr. Gary Pierce, Mr. Bradley Pomp, Ms. Jennifer Reaves, Mr. Danté Ricci, Ms. Julie Rightmeyer, Ms. Brenda Rodgers, Ms. Heather Ross, Ms. Laura Royster, Ms. Staci Sandler, Ms. Jennifer Shipman, Ms. Lori Sykes, Ms. Amy Taylor, Ms. April Titcomb, Ms. Tammi Titcomb, Ms. Traci Trim, Ms. Deborah Walker, Ms. Bobbi Wallace, Ms. Karen Watts.

Commuters Plan Upbeat Schedule

Commuter students are on the go, and in more ways than one. The Commuter Student Association of Longwood College has an upbeat schedule planned for this year, with activities that will appeal to one and all.



Coming up this Thursday is the CSA Halloween party. Co-sponsored by Lancer Cafe, it promises to be one of the best Halloween parties on Campus! It begins at 7 p.m. in Lancer Cafe on Halloween night, and will include food, music, games, and contests. This commuter-only event is sure to be enjoyed by all who attend. And if you do go, commuters, be sure to wear your costume!

Commuters will be really cooking this November 8 when we hold our pre-Spring Weekend Chili Cook-off. All commuters are welcome to bring in a pot of their favorite chili and the winner will represent the CSA at Spring Weekend. Drinks will be supplied by the CSA and the evening will also include Dictionary and Trivial Pursuit contests.

Next Spring will bring a reprise of our fun and informative "Celebrating the Commuter Experience" Fair. Many of the different facets of campus life will be represented, presenting a wealth of information to commuters.

All these activities and more are planned for commuters this year. Details on these events and on other upcoming activities can be found in future issues of The Roads Scholar, the commuter student newsletter. All in all, it is going to be a fun-filled year for every Longwood commuter!

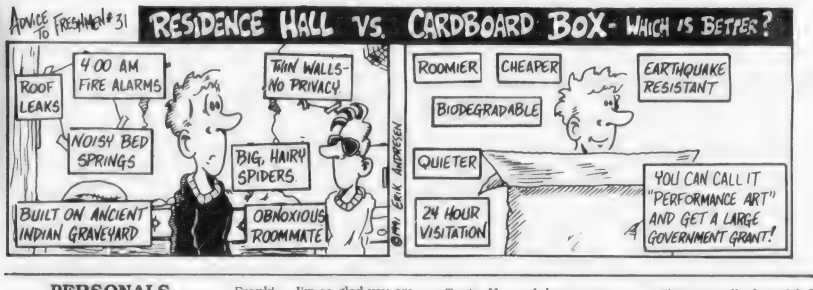
A Witch Watch

BPP, Inc

IT'S THAT TIME AGAIN!!!

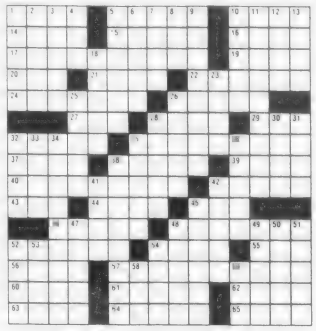
Halloween Cards and Gifts
from Recycled Paper Products, Inc.
AVAILABLE AT:
LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE
Hours: Mon.- Fri. 8-5
Phone 395-2084
We also have Halloween Balloons!

COUNTRY NOOK
119 West Third Street
392-6723
We Specialize In Fraternity And Sorority Merchandise
- Hand Crafted Paddles
- Sew on Greek Letters and Iron-on Transfers
- College and Greek Emblem Cross Stitch
- Key Chains, Bumper Stickers and Much More...



We Are Your One Stop Greek Shop
Monday - Friday 9:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m.
Saturday 9:30 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

MUSIC
FOR YOUR CELEBRATION!
GIVE THE "NIGHT ROCKERS" A CALL BEFORE YOU HAVE YOUR NEXT WEDDING, BIRTHDAY OR HOLIDAY PARTY.
We specialize in today's most popular "Rock" and "Country" music - new and old.
For more information call (D.J.) Larry at. . . .
574-6755
AFTER 5:00 P.M.



NO EXIT by Erik Andresen

THE Daily Crossword by Victor Jambor, Jr.

ACROSS
1 After awhile
5 — transit
10 Account entry
14 Pleasant
15 Without peer
16 Win by a —
17 Extra telephones
19 Fourth down play
20 Protection
21 Ring stone
22 Reasons out
24 Plantations
26 Witness stand word
27 Garden plot
28 Tipping items
29 John —
32 Strongboxes
35 Charity shows
37 Departure
38 Ball loss
39 Cote denizens
40 Gets drunk
42 Obtuse
43 Total
44 Genghis —
45 Sward
46 Rid of rodents
48 Kind of oil
52 Comedian's supplier
54 Of flying
55 Joanne of movies
56 Century plant
57 Point after 11 D
60 Ollie's pal
61 Worn away
62 In addition
63 Office phone button
64 Evaporates
65 Pipe joints

DOWN
1 Anoint old style
2 Puts the kibosh on
3 Group of eight
4 Originally named
5 Spoke with a burr
6 Pseudonym
7 Swimming spot
8 Lodge
9 Renegade
10 Computer feed
11 Gridiron score
12 Slave
13 NY nine
18 Steno pad squiggles
23 Storm or bowl
25 Backs up
26 Undealt card stock
28 Bittern's cousin
30 Wallet fillers
31 Existence
32 Bristle
33 Leaf-stem angle
34 3-pointer
35 Pay the bill
36 Pays attention
38 Intensified
41 Gumbo
42 Contributor
45 Sea nymphs
47 Correct
48 Sandbag dam
49 Roman magistrate
50 Irregularly notched
51 Sand hills
52 Deep cut
53 Palo —, Cal.
54 Not with
58 Shell man
59 Matched collection

HELP WANTED

Party PIC Photographers wanted at LC. Must be eager, responsible and reliable. Car and photo skills preferred. Aspen Photo 1-800-235-5101.

NOTICES

On Friday, November 1, the Jazz Dance Class under the direction of Ms. Tammy Tipton-Nay will present a performance "Let's Dance" at 3 p.m. in Jarman Auditorium. The performance is open to the entire Longwood College community. There will be no admission fee. Students who will be performing are: Jessica Billones, Jonathon Church, Amy Church, Terri Cooper, Nicole Daspit, Heather Eudailey, Teresa Goding, Ann Helm, Carrie Hogan, Scoot Joyce, Jill Leffler, Carrie Lushy, Kel Morris, Wendy Ragland, David Richards, Tara Towery, Christie Wells, Andy Wheeler, Adnrea Waollett, Ethan Yonker, J. J. Wiese.

The Mathematics Department is sponsoring a Mathematics Contest. There will be two levels — Level I: mathematics below calculus; Level II: calculus and above. The contests will be held Thursday, November 7 from 12:45-2:15 p.m. on third floor West Ruffner in Rooms 323 and 321. Students need to register from October 28-November 4 in West Ruffner 324. First prize at each level will be $75; 2nd prize $55 and 3rd prize $35. Plan now to participate.

PERSONALS

Hey Alphas, You're doing great! This week is gonna be really special. Keep your spirits high and know that we all love you! – π Love – The Sisters of Aδπ.

Gizzy Liz – Happy Birthday!!! – Do you regret losing it? Be careful in the "driver's seat". We love you!!! – The Funky Bunch.

To all the Alpha Tau pledges. I you you – Tau Love Janice.

Kathy & Karen – I'll try to keep the shaving cream off the curtain – Your Suitemate.

Novella — I made some BIG mistakes in our relationship, the biggest being letting our relationship end. Maybe one day I'll find enough white-out to correct the biggest mistake I ever made. — Eugene

Franki — I'm so glad you are my Lil Sis! — ΣAI Love, Rachel

Shawn — Quit lookin' at your feet pal! You won't trip, I promise. Good luck pledge.

Chicken — The forty-five minutes was great. Maybe we can do it again sometime soon. Sorry your pumpkin got plump over fall break. Chicken Jr. says "hi"! — Squirrel

Melissa — Welcome back bro! Glad to see you're feeling better. We were really worried about you and missed you too. Good luck with catching up, if you need us we're here to help you. — Love ya, Tracy and Colleen

Amy — I hope you had a happy birthday. Sorry to give you your b-day present so late, I couldn't decide what to do. Hope you like it. — Love ya, Trip

Tonia H. — I love you so much. You are such a sweetie. You're making this semester very memorable for me. You and Katie make weekends very special. Thanks for helping me on the rebound! — Love forever, "Icky"

Janice — Thanks for being such a great friend, through good times and bad. We've been through a lot together this semester. Just think of it all as a learning experience. — Love ya, Allyson

To Woody! – 701 – The name definitely fits! But that's about all that fits it! Not only are you a great slam piece but you're also my buddy and fun to hang out with. I hope things are always golden for you and I'm always gonna be here to support ya! Don't sweat the small stuff! Love Ya – Simpleton.

This is to all of my 8th Floor girls: You guys are great! Keep smiling, study hard, and let's have the Best Halloween! Love ya, Ginny.

Elyse – You are the best big sister. Thanx for everything – Janice.

Sean & JJ, my favorite youngguns: Les Bridges rules, but watch out for snail trails! Are we ever going to play Beertrek? Love you guys! Barb, "The giggler"

W - People usually drink champagne out of their shoes, not wine coolers! - S

Dave – Stop holding out on us. We want it bad!! Or we'll shoot your turkey!! – G. and C.

Jennifer Hancock – You're an AWESOME Pumpkin Pal. I can't wait til you know who I am!!!

Campus Calendar

Information on events should be submitted to the Student Union Office in Lankford by the Friday preceding the appropriate issue of the paper.

Wednesday October 30	Thursday October 31	Friday November 1	Saturday November 2	Sunday November 3	Monday November 4	Tuesday November 5
Rotunda Staff Meeting: Interested in working - come join us. 6:00 pm Lankford Conf. Rm. 3	HALLOWEEN S-UN Board Meeting. 1:30pm Lankford Conference Room II	Weekend RQball Jazz Dance Performance: 3:00pm jarman Experimental Theatre with Wayde Smyth: 7:30 pm Jarman Studio Theatre Movies: Misery 9:00 pm Gold Room	Soccer: UDC 1:00pm 1st Ave Field Experimental Theatre with Wayde Smyth: 7:30 pm Jarman Studio Theatre	Senior Recital: Christopher W. Davies, piano and euphonium; assisted by Nancy Sherman, piano, and the Brass Quintet. 4:00pm Wygal Recital Hall Experimental Theatre with Wayde Smyth: 7:30 pm Jarman Studio Theatre	Men's Volleyball: EB due before meeting Movies: Misery 9:00 pm Gold Room Pre-registration Begins Authors Series: Terse Svoboda. 8:00pm Wygal	Election Day Chamber Music Concert: Thomas A. Williams, baritone, with The Roxbury Chamber Players. 8:00pm Wygal Recital Hall Minority Career Day: All day at the Omni Hotel, Charlottesville.

FEATURE: Jen Wuebker

By KATHERINE CARICOFE
Staff Writer

Jenny Wuebker has almost completed her third season for the Longwood Field Hockey team.

Wuebker is a returning starter and forward for the Lancers. Last year, she tied for third in scoring, and had the highest shot percentage.

Jenny is a native of Fairfax, where she attended W. T. Woodson High School. There she was a member of the District Championship and the Regional Finalist teams.

Jenny is preparing her future goals by majoring in physical education. Her outside activities include coaching the Children's Swimming League and also Children's Activity Director for Shenandoah Crossing Farm and Club in Northern Virginia.

Wuebker is noted for her speed as well as quickness for the Lady Lancers. When asked what her strengths were, and how she felt she made her biggest contribution to the team, Wuebker stated that, "my strongest points lie within my love for the game. I think that dedication and commitment has gotten me where I am now."

The Lady Lancers have had a very challenging year and have proved themselves with some very close matches against strong teams. The prospects for this season have been bright with their 13 returning players, while in turn they will be losing four very prominent seniors. The Lancers are led by second year coach Sandy Bridgeman.

JEN WUEBKER

Schonauer Named Longwood College Player of the Week

Senior golfer Ami Schonauer, who shot a 75-75-150 to win the UNC Greensboro Tournament last week, has been named Longwood College Player of the Week for the period Oct. 20-27. Player of the Week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.

Schonauer's 150, which was six-over-par, ranks second only to Tina Barrett's 75-71-146 at Penn State in 1986 on the Longwood record list. Ami won the tourney individual crown by five strokes over Janet Wooten of Campbell, who shot 73-82-155.

"Ami played very well," said coach Barbara Smith. "It was definitely one of her top performances."

Sparked by Schonauer's personal-best, the Lady Lancers shot 307-319-626 to easily beat host UNCG (665) at the par-72-5, 925-yard Bryan Park Players Course last Monday and Tuesday.

Schonauer was Longwood's top golfer in four of five fall tournaments. She had eight of 13 rounds in the 70's with no score higher than 83. In addition to her showing at UNCG, Ami tied for second in the Tina Barrett-Longwood Invitational with a 75-79-154 and was fourth at the Penn State tournament at 75-79-80-234.

Schonauer has earned National Golf Coaches Association Division II All-America honors twice and qualified for the NCAA Tournament three times. A two-time nominee for the Honda Award for golf, she had a team best stroke average of 78.5 this fall. A graduate of William Penn High School, she is an elementary education major at Longwood.

Fall Player of the Week Award Winners

Sept. 1- 8 - Byron Edwards , Soccer.

Sept. 8-15 - Pat Temple, Soccer; Ami Schonauer, Women's Golf.

Sept. 15-22 - Theresa Platte, Field Hockey.

- Jimmy Ward, Men's Golf.

Sept. 22-29 - Kimber Bear, Women's Tennis.

Oct. 6-13 - Jenny Holm, Suzie Lawman, Women's Tennis.

Oct. 20-27 - Ami Schonauer, Women's Golf.

AMI SCHONAUER

Liberty Routs Lancer Booters

Division I Liberty victimized an injury-plagued Longwood defense and got four goals from Mark Sanitz Saturday afternoon as the Flames handed the Lancers one of their worst soccer defeats ever 9-1 in Lynchburg.

With veteran backs Pat Temple and Jason Casano out with injuries, the Lancers had difficulty stopping the Flames' attack. Liberty took a 3-1 lead at the half, as Alan Kidd put Longwood on the board. The host team added six more goals in the second half to complete the rout.

"The injuries to Temple and Casano are really killing us," said Longwood coach Stan Cieplinski. "With those two out, we're really hurting in the back. Liberty was able to cut through our defense pretty easily."

Liberty out-shot Longwood 22-6. The defeat was Longwood's 10th straight, dropping the Lancers to 5-12, after a 5-2 start.

This week Longwood visits Methodist for a 3:00 game Thursday in Fayetteville, N.C. and hosts District of Columbia Saturday at 1:00.

Longwood closes out its season Nov. 6 with a visit to Virginia Commonwealth.

Women's Golf Cruise To 39 Stroke Victory

Closing out its fall season on a high note, the Longwood women's golf team carded the third -best 36-hole total in school history last Monday and Tuesday in Greensboro, N.C. and won the UNC Greensboro Fall Classic by 39 strokes.

Sparked by a personal-best 75-75-150 from senior Ami Schonauer, the Lady Lancers shot 307-319-626 to easily beat host UNCG (665) at the par-72, 5, 925-yard Bryan Park Players Course. Finishing further back were Virginia Commonwealth (673), Tennessee Tech (673), Campbell (702) and Radford (971).

Only the 1986 team, which shot a 608 at Penn State, and the current squad which won the Tina Barrett-Longwood Invitational in September with a 625, have shot better for 36 holes than the Lady Lancers in Greensboro this week.

Schonauer's 150, which was six-over-par, ranks second only to Tina Barrett's 75-71-146 at Penn State in 1986. Ami won the tourney individual crown by five strokes over Janet Wooten of Campbell, who shot 73-82-155.

"Ami played very well," said coach Barbara Smith. "It was definitely one of her top performances, but we had good scores from other players as well. We're going to take a couple of weeks off and then begin to work on the weights and start getting ready for spring."

Longwood senior Sherry Evans finished third with an excellent score of 73-83-156. Evans effort was the sixth best 36-hole total in Lady Lancer history.

Junior Anna Radford was sixth with a 77-82-159; freshman Brenda Campbell-Harris was eighth with an 82-80-162 and freshman Charlaine Coetzee shot 86-82-168 to finish in the top 20. Michelle Zlats shot 89-92-181, playing as an individual.

For the fall, Longwood averaged 321.8 strokes per 18 holes as a team. Schonauer topped the individual averages with a 78.5. She was followed by Campbell-Harris at 81.1, Coetzee 82.1, Evans 82.2 and Radford 82.8.

Schonauer was Longwood's top golfer in four of five fall tournaments. She had eight of 13 rounds in the 70's with no score higher than 83. In addition to her showing at UNCG, Ami tied for second in the Tina Barrett-Longwood Invitational with a 75-79-154 and was fourth at the Penn State Tournament at 75-79-80-234.

Coetzee started the year off with an 81-77-79-237 to lead Longwood at the UNC Lady Tar Heel Invitational with a tie for 41st place in a field of 93 golfers. Coetzee was slowed by illness midway through the fall, but got her collegiate career off to an excellent start.

Campbell-Harris was Longwood's most consistent golfer behind Schonauer. Her best showing was a 76-83-159 for sixth place at the Tina Barrett-Longwood Invitational.

Evans' first round 73 at UNCG was her best 18-hole score of the fall and also her career best. In addition to finishing third at UNCG, she was ninth in the Barrett-Longwood Tournament.

Radford's 80-80-160 at the Barrett-Longwood tourney netted her a tie for seventh place and her best finish prior to the UNCG event.

Longwood, which resumes play March 9-10 at the Peggy Kirk Bell Invitational, will be pointing toward the NGCA Division II National Championship May 4-6. The Lady Lancers have won the NGCA title three of the past five years, but were runner-ups last year.

Field Hockey Team Ends With 2-1 Victory Over TSU

By Greg Prouty

The Longwood College field hockey team closed out its season with a victory last Wednesday afternoon defeating Towson State University 2-1. The Lady Lancers, under second year coach Sandy Bridgeman, dominated first half action, then withstood a second half rally by TSU to gain the win. Longwood finished its season with a deceptive record of 3-9-1.

The NCAA Division II Lady Lancers played 10 Division I opponents this fall. Additionally, Longwood had nine road games, six against Division I schools. four contests were decided by one goal, with another ending in a double-overtime tie. Considering last year's 1-10-1 mark, the squad showed considerable improvement, a direction coach Bridgeman likes to see.

"This team has become stronger as the season has progressed," commented Bridgeman. "They've started to play more as a team, and not as individuals. Now we need to work on holding our intensity better and win the close games that we are supposed to (win)."

Against Townson State, Longwood jumped to an early 2-0 advantage playing aggressively and controlling the game's tempo. Senior Theresa Platte opened the scoring at the 21-58 mark with her third goal of the season. Just 0:46 later, junior Jenny Wuebker added her team-leading fourth goal for a 2-0 lead which the Lady Lancers took to

It very well could have been 3-0 at the half, but an official ruled that an apparent Longwood goal had made contact with an opponent's stick, thus the goal was nullified.

Towson State rallied the second half, with freshman Erin Stiteler knocking in a goal with 8:23 remaining. The Lady Tigers were denied any more goals by Longwood freshman goalie Sara Hogan, who recorded 19 saves in the net. It was an outstanding performance for the first year player.

"Sara played very strong and made some big saves," added Bridgeman. "Jenny also played especially well for us. It's nice to close the season on a positive note with a win."

Closing out their Longwood field hockey careers were seniors Lara Cini, Hollie Phelps, Carver Ports, and Platte.

"They've contributed all season," commented Bridgeman. "We'll miss the leadership they've given us all year."

Wuebker finished the season as the Lady Lancers leading scorer with four goals totaling eight points. Platte and sophomore Missy Moran tied for second with three goals and an assist each for seven points. Ports and junior Denise Hanley each recorded two goals for four points, while Cini added a goal and an assist for three points and Phelps one assist for a point.

Men's Golf Ties For Third In Hampton Tourney

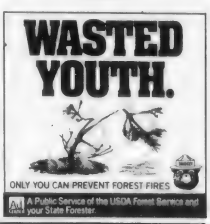
By Greg Prouty

Longwood's men's golf team finished fall play Oct. 21-22 at the Hampton Invitational in Newport News. The Lancers "A" team finished in a tie for third with Christopher Newport College among the 12 teams entered. Longwood shot 316-309-625, while CNC fired 313-312-625. Slippery Rock (Pa) University won the tournament with 36-hole score of 306-300-606, just nipping South Carolina State, 303-304-607.

Senior Jeff Smiley tied for fifth overall individually, shooting 72-79-151. His even par 72 over the Deer Run Golf Course the first day had him leading after one round. Freshman Steve Smith 79-75-154, with junior Frank Davide shooting 80-78-158. Other "A" scores were sophomores Jimmy Ward, 89-77-166, and Shawn Moore, 85-82-167. Todd Watson of Tusculum (Tenn.) College took medalist honors winning a playoff after shooting 76-71-147.

Longwood's "B" team placed ninth overall. Scores included junior John Benton's 81-80-161, freshmen Jason Johnson's 81-84-165, and Scott Westenhofer 88-85-173, and junior Steve Crute's 91-85-176. Freshman John Cravath couldn't play because of a hand injury. Coach Steve Nelson was pleased with the results.

"Overall, it was a pretty good trip," commented Nelson. "We could have played just a little bit better, but we did tie with CNC for the first time this year. We need to keep plugging away to improve for the spring season."



Ward finished fall play with the best stroke average for the Lancers, a 78-8. Smiley was just behind a 79.0, with Smith third at 79.5. Davide stood fourth at 80.1, Moore 81.5, Johnson 82.5, Westenhofer 83.5, and Crute 83.6. Cravath only played one round, shooting an 81.

Longwood's team stroke average for the fall was 316.3, the second -best seasonal stroke average ever.

Jen Wuebker drives down the field in Longwood's 2-1 victory over Towson State.

WASTED YOUTH.

ONLY YOU CAN PREVENT FOREST FIRES

A Public Service of the USDA Forest Service and your State Forester.

The Fresh Alternative

COLD SUBS — HONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD — SIX INCH / FOOT LONG

	SIX INCH	FOOT LONG
For TWICE the meat, just say "Super" ...add ...	1.00	2.00
BMT (ham, genoa salami, pepperoni, bologna)	2.99	4.29
SUBWAY CLUB (roast beef, turkey, ham) "	2.99	4.49
SPICY ITALIAN (genoa salami, pepperoni)	2.79	3.89
COLD CUT COMBO (ham salami, bologna - all turkey based)	1.89	3.29
BBQ CHICKEN	3.29	4.89
TUNA	2.79	4.29
SEAFOOD & CRAB	3.49	4.99
BBQ PORK	2.79	4.29
HAM & CHEESE	2.89	4.29
ROAST BEEF	2.89	4.29
TURKEY BREAST	2.89	4.29
TURKEY & BACON DELUXE	3.29	4.89
VEGGIE	1.89	2.99

HOT SUBS — HONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD — SIX INCH / FOOT LONG

	SIX INCH	FOOT LONG
MEATBALL (Limited Time: Special 6" - $1.69)	1.99	3.49
STEAK & CHEESE (100% sirloin)	3.09	4.59
PIZZA SUB	2.99	4.29
RIB-B-Q (Our recommended choice)	3.39	5.69
Add Bacon...	.50	1.00

Free Fixin's Cheese • Onions • Lettuce • Tomatoes • Pickles Green Peppers • Olives • Salt • Pepper • Oil Mustard • Mayonnaise • Hot Peppers • Vinegar Plus On Request

-COUPON-

BUY ONE GET ONE FREE ON TUESDAY — TWO for TUES

Get a FREE sub (same kind-same size) when you purchase a sub and a 22 oz. soft drink. Offer good at participating Subway stores on Tuesday only.

SUBWAY

EXPIRES Nov. 22, 1991

Limit one coupon per customer per visit. Not valid with other coupons or discounts.

SUBWAY

308 S. MAIN ST. FARMVILLE, VA. PHONE 392-8868

Longwood College

VOL. 71, NO. 7 NOVEMBER 6, 1991

Rotunda

Parking Problems Plague LC and Others

By PAMELA FITZGERALD
Staff Reporter

As colleges and universities enlarge and put up additional buildings, they are building on potential lots. "This takes away close-up parking", says Sue Justen, parking division manager at the University of Washington in Seattle. "As we replace surface lots with ramps and garages, they are more expensive so people are paying more" she admits.

The question is how much more. That depends on the school. Here are some yearly permit prices around the country. The University of Arizona students pay $20 for surface lots farthest from campus and $1325 for a "premium" 24 hour reserved spot.

At the University of New Mexico general student permits are $45. A reserved spot complete with your own "Reserved for (your name)" sign will cost $325. Faculty reserved spaces are $265 at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln and student reserved spots are $150 with remote lots costing $10.

The yearly permit prices at Longwood are $20 for students; $25 for full time faculty, staff, and ARA workers; $10 for student teachers; and $12.50 for parttime faculty and staff.

As the parking problems at Longwood, as well as around the country increase, the schools are incorporating a larger number of shuttle services that make for a college version of park and ride. The shuttle services are being used to make better use of remote parking areas. These services are free to the students as is our bus service, The Farmville Area Bus.

Some universities are trying to incorporate different types of transportation. One way, in Arizona, is the "U-Pass" which costs students $6 per month. This buys them a 24 hour free access to buses, emergency rides home by taxis and night security shuttle services.

Some of the statistics from the campus police department here at Longwood include 1,602 total parking spaces. 1,114 spaces are reserved for resident students including the lot behind Little Caesars. Commuter students are allotted 106 spaces, 341 for the faculty and staff, and 41 spaces for the food service workers.

Also, there were 2,427 parking decals sold including duplicates. Resident students make up 1,046 of that number; commuter students, 580; faculty and staff, 761; food service workers, 21; and there were 19 special permission freshman decals sold.

These figures don't equal out, if you place them side by side, you will see that the residents have plenty of parking spaces if they use all of the lots to total capacity. In actuality, there are approximately 68 parking spaces left over if every resident parking space is occupied by someone who bought a decal.

The commuters, on the other hand, have a reason to complain about the parking situation. With only 106 commuter parking spaces, there were 580 decals sold. This leaves approximately 474 commuters without parking spaces. Granted, not all of the commuter students are on campus at one time but this number is very high.

The faculty and staff also have a reason to complain about the parking situation. With only 341 parking spaces, there were 761 decals sold. This leaves about 420 faculty/staff without a parking space.

At this point, the college has its emphasis on building. Talks have been underway, however, about moving parking to the outer perimeters of campus but there is no decision as of yet.

Jana Davis (left), of Broadway, and Sandra Fowler, of Farmville, will give a flute and piano recital Sunday afternoon in Wygal Recital Hall.

Students Will Give Recital

Three music education majors at Longwood College will present a recital on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 10, at 4 o'clock in Wygal Recital Hall.

Sandra Dawn Fowler, pianist, will be giving her senior performance, fulfilling a requirement for her degree. She will perform compositions by Debussy, Bartok, and Schubert.

The program also will feature Jana Davis, flutist, performing works by Handel, Hindemith, and Faure. Her accompanist will be Angela Brame, playing piano and harpsichord.

Miss Fowler is president of Longwood's Camerata Singers, accompanist of the Lancer Edition Show Choir, and a member of the Music Educators National Conference (MENC). She studies piano with Frieda Myers, associate professor of music.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen H. Fowler, Sr., of Farmville, and a graduate of Prince Edward Academy.

Miss Davis is a junior, studying flute with Patricia Werrell. She is the treasurer of Sigma Alpha Iota music fraternity and vice president of the collegiate chapter of MENC. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Williams G. Davis, of Broadway.

Miss Brame, also a junior, is a member of Longwood's Concert Choir, Sigma Alpha Iota, and MENC. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. James A. Brame, III, of Dinwiddie.

The recital is open to the public free of charge.

LC Implements Vandalism Reduction and Beautification Plan

By DINA M. DAWSON
News Staff

With its new Vandalism Reduction and Beautification plan under way, Longwood is on the path to reaching its future goal as a showplace within the next couple of years.

The creation of the new plan to clean up Longwood began last April and has resulted in actions that will affect, or have already affected, not only the campus in general but the student population as well.

One complaint made by the administration here at Longwood was that the floors in the dormitory buildings did not shine like the floors in the buildings that house administrative offices. Thus, to solve the problem, an extra floor crew that works every night from 10 p.m. until 6 a.m. was hired. The crew, which goes from building to building, is responsible for continually adding extra layers of floor wax and buffing the floors in general. Hiring such workers was an important first step as Mr. Hurley added that "having shiny floors goes a long way to create an impression."

Other things that have been done recently to improve the look of the college include adding new windows to Curry and Frazier, making plans to add new ceilings and new floors in Cox and Wheeler, painting the halls in Curry and the Cunningham, making preparations for the redecoration and renovation of the commons areas in each dormitory building, attempting to improve the lighting in each dorm building, and assigning more community service hours to offenders who perform such activities as cleaning stairwells.

Ms. Phyllis Mable talked about an idea that is currently in the works saying "we are trying to build strong relations between students and housekeepers. If students are fond of the particular housekeeper responsible for their particular building, then the students might not contribute to messes that would take longer to clean up. Housekeepers may get discouraged when students trash the floor, or the bathrooms are gross. But if the students and housekeepers get together its a new energy."

In addition, a team including Mr. Rick Hurley, vice-president of Business Affairs, Ms. Phyllis Mable, vice-president of Student Affairs, Mr. David Rettig, director of Housing, Mr. Melvin Moore, director of Buildings and Grounds, Dr. Sue Saunders, Dean of Students and others plan to tour the college once a month looking to see if the cleanliness of the school, involving both the grounds and the dormitory buildings, has improved. The team also hopes to see a reduction in the amount of vandalism done to the dorm buildings here on campus, as well as cutting down on the amount of cleaning duties the staff has to perform in summer after the students leave. According to Mr. Hurley there is "one million square feet of living space and because the dormitories are usually left extremely unclean" it takes the housekeepers all summer to prepare for the upcoming year. Usually, extra housekeepers have to be hired, and the overall task is so hectic that it leaves less time for the housekeepers to prepare for the summer sessions and other conferences.

Currently, the administration is sponsoring two programs to get students involved in Longwood's plan to clean itself up. The adopt-a-spot program is currently up and running where student organizations and groups select a spot on campus and work to clean up that spot and to keep it clean throughout the year. The second program is the hall beautification contest in each building where the floor that is kept the neatest with the lowest amount of structural damage wins a prize.

Despite the fact that the plan to clean up Longwood has only been in effect for a short time, the members of the administration, responsible for bringing the plan together, admit they have already seen improvement. Mr. Hurley stated "there is a big difference. We are already getting feedback from students who say they notice a difference." In addition, Mr. Moore said that already a "slight congratulations should go to the students and that he is hoping to see a difference in the way buildings look in a year.

Aside from all the activities going on to improve the look of the college, Ms. Mable says that the answer to the problem is to "fire up students about having a better life" and that "we all need to take pride in our institution."

SAMPLE BALLOT - 11/7-11/8/91

Student Government Officers

President
__ Scott Gilsson
__ Courtney Hodges
__ Darrell A. Wells

Vice President
__ Amanda Janney
__ Seth Johnson
__ Tricia Ann Popular
__ Cheryl Swain

Treasurer
__ <None>

Communications Chair
__ Tammy Armistead

Corresponding Secretary
__ Jason Walker

Recording Secretary
__ Julie Lindsay

Student Union Board Ch'r't
__ Laurie Myers
__ John Russell

Residence Hall Assoc. President
__ David Edwards

Student Senator-At-Large
(Select only two.)
__ Cameron C. Caffee II
__ Erin McCay
__ Emily Pritchard
__ Matt Field
__ Dwayne Barton

Honor Board Member

(Select only four.)

__ Maurice Clark
__ Tara Confalone
__ William S. Hoovler III
__ Paul Parker
__ Sherry Perkins
__ Darrell Richard
__ Derick T. Richard
__ Jennifer Thompkins

Judicial Board Member

(Select only fourteen.)

__ Kimberly Ann Boucher
__ Brenda Anne Campbell-Harris
__ William "Billy" Clifers
__ Mary Katherine Dalley
__ Gwendolyn Davis
__ Tara Dieter
__ Kathy Dimarino
__ Jeff Ellington
__ Natalie Hayes
__ Shannon M. Holley
__ C.J. Maurice
__ Erin McCay
__ Justin Morris
__ Darrell Richard
__ Riley H. Ross III
__ George Schulz, Jr.
__ Robert H. Smith III
__ Jennifer Thompkins
__ Melvin "Sam" Tuck

Constitutional Amendment

Article IV: Organization
Section 1. The Student Senate
C. The membership of the Student Senate shall consist of the:
19. Eight (8) Student Senators-At-Large

__ YES
__ NO

Article V: Elections
Section 3. Qualifications for office.
D. Students running for the following offices must be at least a rising sophomore, have at least a 2.5 cumulative GPA, and be in good standing with the College
President, Vice President, Treasurer
E. Students running for the following offices must have at least a 2.0 cumulative GPA, and be in good standing with the College.
Recording Secretary, Corresponding Secretary, Student Union President, Chair of Intramurals and Campus Recreation, Commuter Student Association President, Communications Chair, Class Officers, Associate Members of Honor Board, Associate Members of Judicial Board, Eight (8) Student Senators At Large
F. Qualifications for SGA officers, not aforementioned, shall be decided by the Student Senate.

SGA Addresses Safety

By STEPHANIE SHOEMAKER
Staff Reporter

There have been several recent attacks on campus that have caused a great deal of concern among the students. Many are afraid to walk alone after dark. Part of this fear is because parts of campus are not well lit.

In the Student Government Association meeting held on October 28, 1991, a resolution was passed requesting that there be more lights put up on campus. Around Cox, the Cunninghams and the tennis courts were specific areas that were mentioned in the meeting that needed particular attention. The request was to be sent to the Physical Plant and Housing.

Aside from the dangers of being attacked, the dangers that arise from tripping or falling over objects that cannot be seen in the dark are amplified because of the lack of lighting. Some of these types of accidents are caused by the poor condition of the sidewalks on some parts of campus. Cox Dormitory and the Cunninghams were two areas that were once again mentioned. The problems with the sidewalks will also be brought to the attention of the appropriate officials.

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
Features 3
News 4
Comics 5
Sports 6

COMMENTARY

Letters To The Editor

Editor, The Rotunda:

I'm writing this letter out of concern for my safety as well as everyone else. Just recently everybody has been notified about the incidents on campus, and what is being done to stop these incidents. We are also told to walk in pairs and how there are red phones around to call directly to campus police for an escort back to the dorm or wherever you want to go on campus. This is all great to know but using these options and knowing about them are two different things.

You're probably wondering what I'm trying to say. I'm saying that the red phones are not doing what we think they do. Some students and faculty believe that once you pick up the phone, campus police will know exactly where you are and will come right away. Wrong!! When you pick up the red phone, you have to wait for someone to answer the phone (usually right away) then you have to tell them where you are, where you want to go and sometimes why you're going there. After giving all this information you are put on hold while they find a campus police officer to come pick you up. Once an officer has been found, it takes five minutes to a half hour before being picked up.

The waiting is not a problem, but when you are standing by a phone to be picked up you are taking a risk if it is more than a five minute wait. Some reading this will not believe it and others will since it has happened to them. My friend did not believe me either until one night she went with me to park my car. This is what happened:

12:25 a.m. — picked up phone, it was busy.

12:30 a.m. — finally got through and talked to someone 12:40; (we were put on hold, also).

12:40-12:50 a.m. — stood there waiting to be picked up; finally did.

During that twenty minutes, anything could have happened; plus we could have walked to our room by then!

Don't get me wrong, campus police has done a super job during my four years here. I've also have had campus police follow me, when driving around, while I found a parking space and waited for me to take me back; however, my friend and I believe that there needs to be more campus police patrolling the area. We also believe there needs to be more phones around campus that are more accessible. For instance, place phones in the parking lots of Frazer and behind Cox where they can be in a well lit area. Also, phones should be placed along Pine Street instead of having to walk around buildings, like Wygal and Hiner.

With Concern,
Tammy Heim
Linda C. Moore

Editor, The Rotunda,

I am presently incarcerated in a Florida prison. And I have no family or friends on the outside to communicate with. I am writing to you in the hopes that you will publish my letter, if this is at all possible, with further hopes that some of your readers may write to me. I am 31, white, have many varied interests, and will eagerly answer all replies.

Trusting that this letter finds you and all your readers in the best of health, and thank you.

Sincerely,
Scott Grantham
026974 (333)
Lake Corr. Inst.
P.O. Box 120099
Clermont, FL
34712-0099

The Political Corner
with Keith Johnson

Have you ever stopped and asked yourself about education?

Sure you have, but what about the problems facing education today? Today we as a society face increasing rates of teenage-pregnancy as well as the dilemma concerning the escalating use of drugs by school children. On top of this the United States has had and still continues to have large numbers of high-school dropouts.

Well, it doesn't take one long to see why and thus draw their own conclusions. For instance, drugs and that strong appeal for quick profit lure many young teenagers out of school and into the streets. One begins to also wonder if it is the schools that are in a need of reform or quite possibly many of today's parents.

I once was employed at a local toy store close to where I lived and it was there I began to see some of the problems facing society. Parents would come to the mall and drop their children off for hours without escorting them and thus the children ran throughout the mall unabated. It was not long after the parents departure that these children became severe problems. Many of these problems involved larceny, trespassing, destruction of private property and other severe offenses.

It was not long after that I began to see and hear of parents complaining about the educational system. Sure, there are problems in education but maybe we as a society should not look to the educational system to solve all of our problems. Maybe the greater problem exists in ourselves and the unwillingness of many of today's parents to spend time with their children and show some concern for their progress.

We blame our politicians and educators, but it is a problem that cannot be the result of their actions alone. It will take effort and caring by the next generation of parents and today's parents to help solve this problem. So, take time and help alleviate this problem before tomorrow becomes another dismal day.

Keith Johnson is a senior political science major at Longwood.

Quotable:

"There are hazards in anything one does, but there are greater hazards in doing nothing."

—Shirley Williams

SGA Presidential Candidates

Scott Glisson, Junior, Biology major

List other organizations or activities you are involved in. Also please note any specific honors won or office held? Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity; Rush Chairman, Rush Council; Intercollegiate Soccer; Judicial Board; Vice President of Sophomore Class; 1 st Runner up - Best Man on Campus - 1990

Why are you running for this office? Student government is an important aspect of collegiate life. It should be run firmly and confront issues seriously. I feel that I could be a strong leader on campus and represent the student body to the college faculty, administration, and Board of Visitors.

If elected what are your future goals or objectives you have to better the student body through your new office? I would face issues such as racism, getting a football team, and judicial and honor board being run by the administration rather than the students.

What do you feel is the role of the Student Government at Longwood? SGA should be an effective voice for students interests on campus. In recent years it has too often been too docile in representing students.

How would you improve the Student Government here at Longwood? SGA is in need of strong leadership and organizational skills. An effective leader would identify student concerns and would on long-term and short-term goals. A solid committee system is necessary to accomplish these goals.

Courtney Hodges, Junior, Political Science major

List other organizations or activities you are involved in. Also please note any specific honors won or office held? Resident Assistant; Alpha Gamma Delta; Co-RA Advisor to Curry Hall Council; Camerata Singers.

Why are you running for this office? I am running for this office because I am interested in having an active role in the governmental activities that take place here on campus. I am a Political Science major and I believe that it would be a good learning experience for me. I believe that the Student Government is responsible for conveying the ideas of both the faculty and students.

If elected what are your future goals or objectives you have to better the student body through your new office? I would like to increase the involvement of the students in the daily governing on campus. I plan to take organized steps to better the quality of student life. I also want to be able to represent the student body and the ideas that they have.

What do you feel is the role of the Student Government at Longwood? I believe that the role of Student Government is to communicate the student body's views to the faculty and staff of the college. I feel that Student Government is a group effort and that representation from all organizations is important. I think that cooperation between the administration and the students is the key to meeting the needs of everyone.

How would you improve the Student Government here at Longwood? In order to improve Student Government I would try to make it a more active part of everyday life on campus. I would like to see the Student Government take a more active part in community service projects. I would also like to see more activities here on campus to increase student involvement around the campus. I feel this will also increase the school spirit.

Darrell Alan Wells, Sophomore, Math and French major

List other organizations or activities you are involved in. Also please note any specific honors won or office held? Member of Alpha Lambda Delta Honorary Fraternity; Herbert R. Blackwell Scholar; Phi Kappa Phi Certificate of High Scholastic Achievement; Member of the Longwood Ambassadors; Member of the Rotunda Task Force Committee; The Dean's List.

Why are you running for this office? It seems to me that too many complaints have been lodged against the SGA to no avail. It's time for someone to put student government back on track. It's time for someone to take hold of the reins and fulfill the "general will of the student body."

If elected what are your future goals or objectives you have to better the student body through your new office? I will strive to get students more involved. That is the primary weakness of our student government. With more involvement, the entire student body will benefit because of a greater sense of unity and a more exact idea of the "student will."

What do you feel is the role of the Student Government at Longwood? The role of student government is to propose and execute legislation beneficial to the student body, present and future. This requires SGA to be Aware of student concerns as well as to inform the students of crucial issues. In short, to benefit every individual culturally and intellectually.

How would you improve the Student Government here at Longwood? First of all, I would like SGA to become more prominent on campus. In general, what student government does is a mystery to the student body. I would strive to bring SGA issues to the student body. One method would be to place flyers on the cafeteria tables. Another would be to use The Rotunda as a voice for SGA. Secondly, I would like to see SGA have more voting representation on college committees, namely the College Council. Also, I feel that SGA should restore monthly meetings between SGA leaders and the President of the college. Finally, Longwood has one of the strongest student government constitutions in the state. Let's put it to use!

SGA Vice Presidential Candidates

Amanda Janney, Sophomore, biology major

List other organizations or activities you are involved in. Also please note any specific honors won or office held? Alpha Lambda Delta - Honor Fraternity; Oktoberfest Steering Committee; Resident of Special Interest Hall; Angel Tree; Kappa Delta; New Member Panhellenic Delegate; Most Outstanding Pledge (Kappa Delta)

Why are you running for this office? I have always believed that what you get out of something is what you put into it; and I have a lot to give to Longwood to make it a better experience for myself and for others. I feel that my good judgment, logical thinking, willingness to listen to others, and my ability to communicate make me an excellent choice for this office.

If elected what are your future goals or objectives you have to better the student body through your new office. Through this office, I hope to promote awareness of campus issues and activities, encourage more student involvement in the Student Government, and foster more school spirit. If I am elected as Vice President, it is also my goal to facilitate communication between the student body and the Student Government.

What do you feel is the role of the Student Government at Longwood? I believe that the Student Government is here to act as a liaison between the students and the administration. Ideally, the Student Government is a representative group of the campus as a whole who would bring varied points of view to light before making a policy decision.

How would you improve the Student Government here at Longwood? As a result of the recent concern of many people on the status of SGA, I hope to improve SGA by working to integrate as many people as possible into the system. I feel strongly that the SGA is an asset to us, the students, and to our school. Unless we take the opportunities for participation that we are given now, we may not have this opportunity in the future.

Seth Johnson, Junior, Psychology

List other organizations or activities you are involved in and any specific honors won or office held? Honor Board: Captain, College Soccer Team; All-VISA Conference Team as Freshman; Scholarship Chairman of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Why are you running for this office? Because I feel that I have demonstrated my leadership ability on the college soccer team, I am confident that I can effectively lead an SGA which has not operated all that well during the past year.

If elected what are your future goals or objectives you have to better the student body through your new office? 1. Faculty class evaluations should be made available to students. 2. Campus beautification: Pine Street should be closed and a pedestrian mall created. More fountains are needed 3. Student representation on the college council and departmental curriculum committees.

What do you feel is the role of the Student Government at Longwood? SGA should be an effective advocate of students rights and interests to the administration, the college council, and to Board of Visitors. Too often recently it has not been a voice for students.

How would you improve the Student Government here at Longwood? I would work hard to identify student concerns, make them into long-term and short-term goals and work effectively and persistently with the college administration to get them accomplished.

Tricia Ann Popular, Junior, Elect K-4 major

List other organizations or activities you are involved in. Also please note any specific honors won or office held? Alpha Sigma Alpha - Pledge Class President Rush Chairman; Vice-President of Freshman Class.

Why are you running for this office? By holding offices in sorority and during my freshman year, I have had the opportunity to work with students and faculty. I enjoy working with people and making things successful.

If elected what are your future goals or objectives you have to better the student body through your new office? If elected, I hope to get the student body more involved. Involvement in activities I feel is important to better oneself, therefore the Longwood student body will be more unified. I also would make sure the students are kept informed and that all suggestions or opinions are welcome.

What do you feel is the role of the Student Government at Longwood? The Student Government works to plan activities on campus to provide the students with enjoyable things to do. It keeps Longwood going with its functions because the students are pleased, therefore having a positive feeling on campus. Student government also interacts with administrators to make sure everything runs smooth and successful.

How would you improve the Student Government here at Longwood? I think Student Government officers should make themselves known more. I would like to involve the students by publicizing the SGA meeting, so more students can take part. Last, encouraging faculty and student response to the actions by SGA; to make sure SGA is meeting the needs of everyone.

Cheryl Swain, Junior, Political Science major

List other organizations or activities you are involved in. Also please note any specific honors won or office held? Alpha Gamma Delta

Why are you running for this office? I would very much like to become more involved in campus activity. I would like to be able to make a difference and get things done for both students and faculty on campus. I am interested in working for the state government after I graduate from Longwood and holding an office in the SGA would give me experience in working in a governmental type position.

If elected what are your future goals or objectives you have to better the student body through your new office? I would like to see more school sponsored activities held on the weekends to get more students to stay here during weekends and to get more students involved. I would like to see students more school spirited and have a better relationship with the faculty. I would also like to see the school become more involved in community service.

What do you feel is the role of the Student Government at Longwood? I feel that the role of the Student Government is to listen to the needs of both the student body and the faculty and to work to see that their needs are met. The Student Government should work to keep the students and faculty open and responsive to each others' needs.

How would you improve the Student Government here at Longwood? I would like to make the Student Government more active and visible on campus.

Quotable:

"The people never give up their liberties but under some delusion."

—Edmond Burke

Rotunda
Box 1133
Farmville, VA
23901

Founding Editor
Helen Spellman

THE STAFF:

Executive Editor
Bradley L. Owen

Editor
Christopher S. Jones

Features Editor
Sherry Gatewood

Asst. Features Editor
Ann Renee Heim

Sports Editor
Charlie Fultz

Photography Editor
Judi Weller

Layout Editor
(open)

Business Manager
Erin C. McCay

Advisors
Mr. William C. Woods
Ms. Brenda Atkins

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is noon Friday prior to the Wednesday publication date and these should be placed in the envelopes inside the Publication offices door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due in the office door by 5 p.m. Sunday. All submissions become the property of The Rotunda.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an Associated Collegiate Press award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 392-9120.

Greeks Called to Enact Reforms

By JOE HARPER
Staff Writer

Greek life in the year 2000 will be very easy to describe. According to Gary Bonas, there won't be any — unless Greeks nationwide reform their patterns. Bonas, Greek Affairs Advisor at Villanova University, spoke to an all Greek audience addressing the future of Greek Life. He asserted five points relating to the future of Greek Life. That social Greeks are anti-intellectual and elitist are two reasons Greeks are facing tough times nationwide. The others were that Greeks abuse alcohol, haze, and are guilty of sexual abuse. Bonas spoke in depth on the subject of date-rape and Greeks' responsibilities concerning this offense.

The president of the Longwood Inter-Fraternity Council (IFC), Bobby Williams, reacted to Bonas' speech by saying that on Longwood's campus, the major concern among Greeks is alcohol abuse. Even though Williams is against the new alcohol policy, he sees that it does curb abuse at fraternity parties on campus. Other steps being taken, said Williams, are stricter ABC laws, which do aid in resolving the problem. He continued by emphasizing that is the responsibility of every Greek to resolve the situation among our brothers and sisters.

Amidst complaints from campus police that the new alcohol policy is harder to enforce than when kegs were allowed, Williams responded by saying that now more than ever it is the fraternities' responsibility to enforce it, due to IFC disciplinary stipulations. Chapters that violate the code lose chapter room privileges and must do service hours as a result.

As for Greeks being elitist, Williams doesn't think that the whole system is so but rather only individuals. He points out that every Greek on campus has friends who are not in a Greek organization.

Fraternity rush results this semester were meager, but Williams doesn't see the system slipping away. "The numbers can be taken as the Greek System not doing well, but if you look at the positive things the Greek System has done in recent years, it is hard to say that we're in danger. The Greeks play a major part in the governmental system of this campus, i.e. SGA, Judicial and Honor Board. Many members play vital positions on sports teams as well."

Fall Fashions Hit LC

By TAMMI TITCOMB
Features Writer

As this year's fall fashions hit the stores, Longwood students are quick to grab them up!

Fall Break gave students an opportunity to shop, shop and shop and shop. As they sport their new clothes, it is fairly obvious that LC students are Gap shoppers, judging from the large number of dark green, mustard and burgundy colored clothes.

Besides the typical fall colors — rust, cream, green and brown — other "not so Fall" colors are popular this season. Campus favorites include magenta, royal blue, purple and lime green.

Prints are definitely in style this season, especially with Longwood males. They look good and oh-so GQ in their dark paisley button down shirts. Whether worn with dress pants and bucks or jeans and hiking boots, this look is hot this cool season!

Question — What is "what the *?%!# am I going to wear today?" Answer — a popular expression heard every morning in each girl's dorm room. This expression is most effective if screamed at the top of one's lungs while staring disgustedly at one's closet. (If you find yourself in this situation, refer to roommates for needed clothing items.)

When girls do find something to wear, it is most likely a sweater this fall. Sweaters are very popular this time of year. Longwood girls are wearing big, bulky sweaters with leggings, short sweaters with miniskirts, and when the weather is nice, sweaters with corduroy shorts and colored hose with flats. No matter how you wear 'em sweaters are definitely in vogue this fall!

Guys are also wearing sweaters this fall, though they prefer V-necks. They are a "cool" clothing item this season according to one male here.

Males are also big fans of sweatshirts, and so are females. They are perfect to wear this season as they are nice and warm and comfy. All kinds of sweatshirts have been seen on this campus — college sweatshirts, Greek sweatshirts and sports sweatshirts to name a few.

As the leaves change and fall to the ground, colder weather is fast approaching. LC students are bundling up to beat the cold. Both guys and girls are staying warm in J. Crew and L. L. Bean jackets. Leather jackets are still popular on campus and are always in style.

Bundle up this fall (it will make your mothers happy) and for Pete's sake, go shopping if you have no *?@#%! clothes to wear!

SEA Profiled

By ELLEN DARDEN
Staff Writer

Through hard work and lots of time, this year's Student Education Association may prove to have one of the best years yet.

The SEA is currently planning new and exciting activities for each month by interacting its members with students and teachers of the local elementary and high schools.

Last Thursday for Halloween, they made ghosts out of lollipops to take and distribute to the students at one of the area's elementary schools. They are also working with the school systems to set up tutoring sessions with individual students who are having difficulty with particular subjects.

The officers for this year include: president: Kim Rudd, vice-president: Meg Toboz, secretary: Tonya Edmonds, treasurer: Bill Cifers, publicity: Jennifer McDonald and historian: Jennie Setzer. Their advisor is Dr. Carolyn Cooper who is a professor in the Education Department.

According to president Kim Rudd, the enrollment for SEA is on the rise, but they would like to have more members. The plans for SEA in the future include new t-shirts for its members, a student-teacher reception in December for the current student teachers, and at Christmas, they will be participating in the adopt-a-angel program.

SEA is also currently working with various staff members and committees on campus to establish a resource room to be used by education majors. They are very excited about this and hope that in the near future, this project can become established to aid education majors with their various education projects that require using laminating paper and overhead projectors.

Do You Know Who Ernestine Harris Is?

By ANGELA BOYD
Features Writer

You recognize who she is. You see her everyday, but you have never realized who she is. When you think of the dining hall, who do you think of? Tina right? Well, Ernestine Harris is better known as Tina The ID lady!

Tina Harris was born in the Farmville hospital on November 11, 1945. She is 46 years old, a mother of four and a grandmother of two. She has been married for 25 years. Two of Tina's children work alongside her in the dining hall.

How did she get her job? In August of 1984 Tina left her 10-year job of secretary to the director at the Central Piedmont Action Council and came back to Longwood College. Tina says, "My most favorite thing about Longwood is the students." Tina has worked her way up in the past two years. Her title: ARA Head Cashier. Her duties include checking IDs, making IDs, and she is head of the points plan. It seems Tina is at the dining hall all the time, but she works 10-7 Monday through Friday. During her free time on Saturdays Tina babysits her grandson and granddaughter. Tina also goes dancing and loves to sing. She grew up in the church and was a member of the choir as a child.

Tina graduated from Prince Edward High School in 1965 and went on to attend two years of college at Virginia State.

Tina loves living in a small town. She says, "I went to live in Pennsylvania, but after three days my grandmother had to come pick me up because I was homesick."

If Tina could get one point across to Longwood students, this would be it: "I'm not a mean person. My job requires me to require you to have your ID when you come to eat in the dining hall. I'm not your enemy. I only want to be your friend."

Why is Ernestine Harris referred to as Tina? When she was little everyone called Ernestine "Tinny." The name stuck and later it turned into Tina. Always remember Tina's famous last words, "Hey Baby, where's your ID?"

Comic Novelist is Coming Back to LC

Eric Kraft, the Boston novelist whose writing has been described as both "incredibly beautiful" and "wonderfully eccentric," will make a third visit to Longwood College next week to read from his work and visit classes where his stories are being studied.

The reading will be Monday, Nov. 11, at 8 p.m. in room 209 of the new Library at Longwood. The public is invited to attend free of charge.

Kraft is the author of The Personal History, Adventures, Experiences & Observations of Peter Leroy, a series of eight novellas published from 1982 to 1985 by a small press in Cambridge, Massachusetts. A ninth serial, entitled "The Young Tars," is so far unpublished; the author read from that story during his first visit to Longwood in 1987.

In February of 1992, Crown Publishers will bring out all nine Peter Leroy novellas in one volume, to be titled Little Follies.

The Peter Leroy stories are about growing up and are loosely based on Kraft's own childhood in Babylon, Long Island, New York. "A lot happens to Peter, and yet not much happens to him. I think life is like that for most people," Kraft said.

Critics have called Kraft "a major new humorist" who writes "bedtime stories for adults, recalling the feelings of childhood...all told through the eyes of a grown-up who makes fun without ever being mean."

WE'RE GOING CONTINENTAL AT THE LANCER CAFE!!

Continental Breakfast
from 8AM - 10AM

Coffee, Doughnuts,
Muffins, & Bagels

Late Features It's a great way to start any day!

MUSIC
FOR YOUR CELEBRATION!

GIVE THE "NIGHT ROCKERS" A CALL BEFORE YOU HAVE YOUR NEXT WEDDING, BIRTHDAY OR HOLIDAY PARTY.

We specialize in today's most popular "Rock" and "Country" music - new and old.
For more information call (D.J.) Larry at. . . .
574-6755
AFTER 5:00 P.M.

WASTED YOUTH.

ONLY YOU CAN PREVENT FOREST FIRES
A Public Service of the USDA Forest Service and your State Forester.

CANDID CAMPUS

Photo Credit: Lisa Edmonds

What do you think should be done to improve safety on campus?

"Increase the amount of police officers patrolling at night. Have more police patrol on foot and have the school provide mace for all the students. Add more street lights around the campus and more telephones for calling campus police around the campus and closer to the dorms."

Theresa Eacho
MIS
Junior

"We definitely need an increase in the number of campus police patrolling the campus. Longwood needs to offer defense classes at no cost to the students. And a 24 hour escort service providing services 7 days a week is really needed."

Cristy Mason
Psychology
Freshman

"Better lighting is needed in the parking lots. More telephones around the campus and in the parking areas. The front desk should have extended hours and hire more desk aides. Students should have 24 hour access to the front doors without having to contact campus police. And the school should offer more self-defense classes."

Robert Camus
Business Administration
Sophomore

"Several things should be done: (1) we need additional lighting in certain areas of the campus, (2) we should have security screens on the ground floor windows of the residence halls, (3) we need an escort service that is operated 7 days a week, (4) have our access control systems functioning in all the residence halls, (5) have Propguard systems installed on the secondary doors in residence halls, and (6) have the Propguard system and the fire alarm system connected in a central location (like campus police – with a 24 hour dispatcher."

David Rettig
Director of Housing

"Need more lights along streetways, more telephones around campus, more police patrolling the campus and a 24 hour escort service that runs 7 days a week. The escort service that is provided now needs to be publicized more."

Amy Geron
Accounting
Senior

NEWS

Good News Favors Seniors

By AMY BIRINDELLI
Staff Reporter

Finally, some good news for graduating seniors concerned about the road ahead of them: 77% of Longwood students who graduated in 1990 are now employed in an area directly related to their major.

This really is good news in light of the recession that's been in full force the past year. The number of people being hired has decreased because a decreasing number of people are getting promotions. Says Bill Froud of the Career Planning and Placement Center, "It's difficult for graduates to move into a position right away because the people already in those starting positions aren't moving ahead."

Last year, the Career Planning and Placement Center conducted a survey of all 1990 Longwood graduates with 49% of them responding. Their results were interesting: 82% of 1990 Education majors are now teaching full-time; 100% of Special Education majors are also teaching fulltime; and 93% of Business Administration majors are working fulltime. The majority of the alumni are now making $21,000 to 24,000 a year. This is slightly below the national average starting salary of $26,458.

Most of the Class of 1990 are working in education, medical fields, government agencies, sales, or banking and finance. These results do not correspond with a recent report on Career Movement and Management Facts which states the job categories experiencing the most growth: engineers, computer personnel and customer services representatives.

The Career Planning and Placement Center has sent out surveys for the Class of 1991 and the results of this survey will indicate if the recession is still affecting the employment rate.

To Russia With Love: Money, Modems And Blue Jeans

By KAREN NEUSTADT

(CPS) — Old blue jeans and junked computer printers may be relics to some Americans, but they are gold to Eastern Europeans as they struggle to shape a new life of freedom.

In two unusual assistance programs, one on the part of a charitable foundation in Boston, the other on the Kansas State University campus, Americans are being urged to dig into closets for old blue jeans and through storage rooms for discarded computer parts to send to 15 Soviet republics.

At Kansas State University, "Operation Blue Jeans" hopes to collect 1 million pairs of blue jeans and ship them — before Christmas — to the U.S.S.R. Team members are organizing the project as part of their semester work in business strategies.

The effort, led by faculty adviser Fred Rice, includes sending letters to small business institutes at more than 500 colleges and inviting other campuses to collect and pack up clean, serviceable jeans for mailing.

"Americans are the most generous people on the planet," says Alex Randall, who is spearheading yet another assistance effort — sending computer parts to the U.S.S.R. — for the East- West Education Development Foundation, a Boston-based charity. "They try to help the downtrodden."

Earlier this year, when former Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze accepted the first of 100 computers donated to him by Randall's organization, he remarked: "This machine will help us do great things."

Randall is zealously combing the country to find used computers, word processors, printers and office equipment for people in the U.S.S.R.

From all over the country, hundreds of pieces of used equipment are pouring into the Boston-based foundation. Many of the contributors are from companies that are moving up to more sophisticated equipment.

Among recipients have been Moscow University, the department of economics at Sofia University and the Czechoslovakian Ministry of Education.

The foundation's goal is to acquaint students with computers so they will have access to the technology when they become entrepreneurs in the future.

While American college students may not be able to contribute equipment, Randall is appealing to them to volunteer time to help transport and move equipment.

"Computer technology is free technology. It's a raw ingredient," says Randall, who spends most of his time lobbying the cause to American corporations.

Randall recently supervised a World Airways airlift of 13,000 pounds of equipment to the U.S.S.R. He cites an example of a laptop that was one of the earliest sent to Bulgaria, where a senior professor of economics is teaching students how to prepare spreadsheets.

"An American executive would just play around with this thing on an airplane, but it was a major teaching tool for this man," he said.

Randall says that outdated computer equipment often ends up in landfills. "I recently heard about a bank sending 200 computers to a landfill to be crushed. I was sick. All that equipment is recyclable. We remind people our motto is 'Pass It On.'"

For information on "Operation Blue Jeans" contact Fred Rice at FAX (913) 532-7800, or call (913) 532-5529. For information on the East-West Educattion Development Foundation, call (617) 542-1234.

Senators Propose Reform in Student Loan Program

WASHINGTON (CPS) — If two senators have their way, there could be more money and less hassle for students trying to get college loans — and when it's time to collect, the IRS can do the job.

In an unusual bipartisan proposal to overhaul federal student aid programs by U.S. Sens. Dave Durenberger (R-Minn.) and Paul Simon (D-Ill.), existing federal guaranteed student loan programs would be replaced with a new program that ties loan repayment to post-college income.

"Federal student aid programs need a fundamental overhaul," Durenburger said in introducing the "Financial Aid for All Students Act of 1991" on Oct. 22. The proposal would eliminate most of the money that the Higher Education Act promises to banks. Instead, scholarships would be offered for top students, Pell grants would be increased and loans would be granted directly to students.

The proposal follows a report by the General Accounting Office that said replacing the GSL program with direct loans could save the government $620 million to $1.47 billion a year.

The sweeping proposal, which would begin in the 1994-95 academic year, would enable students, regardless of income, to receive up to $6,500 in loans for the first two years, $8,000 for the last two years and up to $11,000 per year for graduate students.

When students complete their education, they would make payments, depending on size of income, to an education loan account through increased income tax withholding by their employer.

The Durenberger-Simon proposal is currently being offered as an amendment before the Senate Education and Labor Subcommittee, which is working on reauthorization of the Higher Education Act.

Not everyone is happy with the Durenberger-Simon proposal. Education Secretary Lamar Alexander opposed direct loan programs in a letter to U.S. Rep. William Ford (D-Mich.) earlier in October.

Alexander says the programs would increase the current federal debt by more than $10 billion per year and would eliminate risk-sharing features that the current loans system has to help insure efficient loan servicing.

Careers Night in Business Successful

By LISA EDMONDS

"Decisions, decisions, decisions! What field of business should I pursue," hung in the atmosphere as concerned business majors entered Jeffers Auditorium. Careers night in business was a night for all business majors to come and hear six speakers tell their experiences and share their knowledge on different fields in the business world. Accounting (state and public), Marketing, Management, Finance, and MIS sessions went side by side for an hour, as students chose the areas of concentration they were interested in and went to listen to a short lecture and ask questions.

The night was a success, with hundreds of students participating in the event. Knowledge in each areas of business was gained and many decisions were made as to the concentration/field in business students wanted to pursue. As Jeffers cleared, an echo of a quote from an 1989 graduate, Ricky Otey, who spoke at the event remained. "Whatever it takes..." Work hard, strive to accomplish your goals, and get what you deserve!

Community Service Given

By LISA EDMONDS

Delta Sigma Pi is the longest running organization to be involved in the Adopt-a-Highway program in Farmville. Delta Sigma Pi has been doing this community service for the past two years, four times a year. Along with Adopt-a-Highway the fraternity does numerous other community services such as: donations to charitable organizations, helping area girl scouts sell cookies, participating in the yearly Prince Edward Elementary School Haunted House during Halloween, visiting retirement homes, and raking leaves among other various activities. The fraternity wholeheartedly believes in helping their fellowman and the community.

Students Win in Forensics

Three Longwood College students, one of whom is from Farmville, won honors in a 10-team forensic tournament at the College of William and Mary recently.

Dawn Pohl, a sophomore from Farmville, won third place in after-dinner speaking. Christine Crews, a senior from Keysville, won second place in prose interpretation, and fourth place in programmed oral interpretation. Michelle Hodge, a freshman from Glen Allen, won fourth place in after-dinner speaking.

Three other Longwood students – Bill Fiege, Jason Pugh and Rohsaan Settle – competed in the Thomas Jefferson Classic Forensic Tournament Oct. 26-27 at William and Mary. The Longwood forensic team, coached by Dr. Nancy Haga, next will compete Nov. 9-10 at Appalachian State University.

Aerobic Exercise Helps

By TRACEY HASKINS
Features Staff

Aerobics is a system of exercises designed to promote the supply and use of oxygen in the body. These exercises can include bicycling, dancing, jogging, rowing, skating, swimming, and fast walking. Many people participate in aerobics programs to increase their endurance and energy and to achieve and maintain their proper weight. Regular aerobic exercise can help reduce the chances of heart disease.

A regular, vigorous program of aerobic exercises helps the body process large amounts of oxygen efficiently. The presence of oxygen in the muscle cells causes the formation of a compound called adenosine triphosphate (ATP). During aerobics, more oxygen is inhaled and passes from the lungs into the blood. More oxygen-rich blood is delivered to the muscles, creating more ATP. This increased amount of ATP produces more energy for the body.

For maximum effectiveness, individuals should perform aerobic exercises continuously for 15 minutes to an hour 3 to 5 times a week. Men and women over 35 should get a medical examination before beginning an aerobics program.

A few safety tips for aerobics are to make sure you have proper shoes and use your whole foot, not your toes. Check your pulse once before and once at the end of class. Start off slow and build your way up.

Alpha Sigma Tau Celebrates Founding

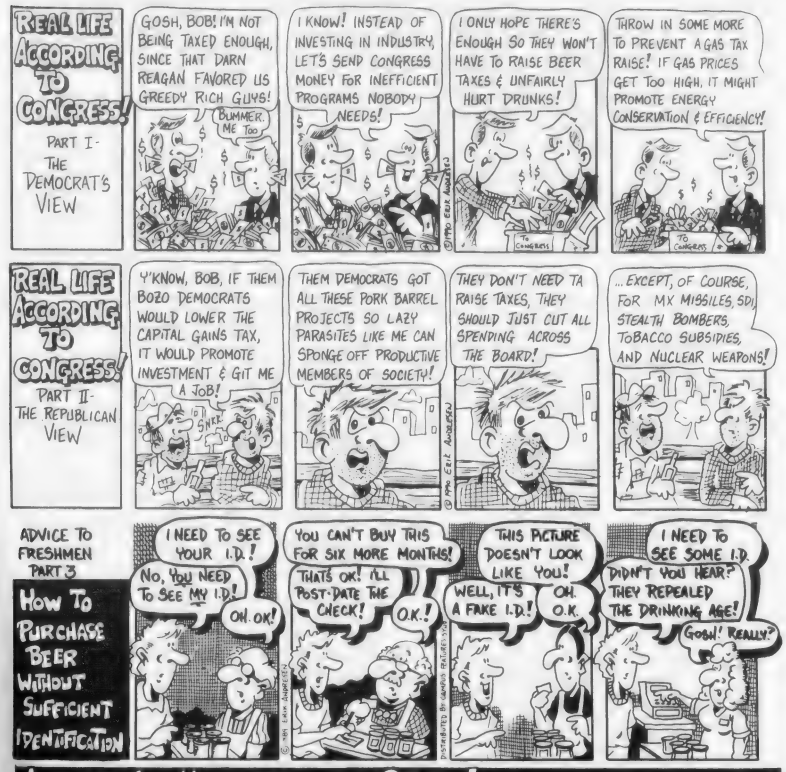
By KAREN BRANDT

AΣT Founded in 1899

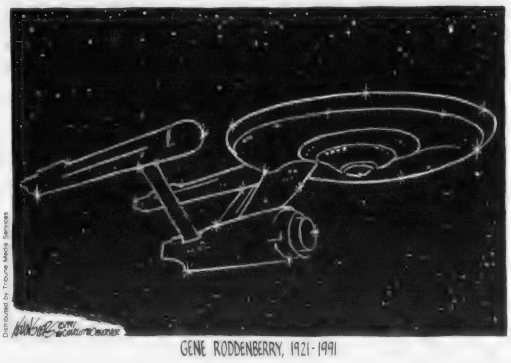
Longwood's Zeta Tau Chapter of Alpha Sigma Tau celebrated its Founder's day last weekend with a party for sisters, alumnae and pledges at the cabin on Friday, and a banquet on Saturday. The sisters wore their badges and green ribbons on Monday, because November 4, was the actual day AΣT was founded at the Michigan State Normal School in Ypsilanti, Michigan. The AΣt's spent their weekend celebrating their eight founding sisters and rededicating themselves to their sisterhood.

ORIENTAL TOUCH II
CHINESE AND AMERICAN CUISINE
EAT IN OR CARRY OUT
OPEN
MON. - SAT. 7AM- 8PM
218 Main Street
392-6260

OMNI AUTIO
Auto Stereos • Phones • Alarms • Accessories
Custom Sound installations
8705 Timberlake Road
Lynchburg, VA
(804) 237-1265
1002 E. 3rd Street
Farmville, VA
(804) 392-OMNI
Hours: M-F 10-5 & SAT 10-4



2nd Set of COLOR PRINTS FREE!
Applies to standard size prints from original rolls of 110, 126, 135 and disc C-41 process film
OFFER GOOD THROUGH NOVEMBER 15, 1991
LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE
HOURS 8-5 MONDAY-FRIDAY
PHONE 395-2084

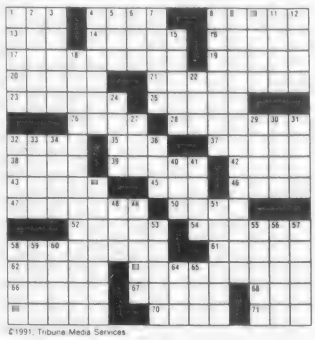


WOODEN HEART CORNER
116 N. Main St., Farmville
Cordially Invites You to A Candle Light
Christmas Open House
The Prince Edward Academy Drama Guild Will Sing Christmas Carols Dressed In Traditional Dickens Costumes
Door Prizes – Discounts
Refreshments
New Merchandise Arriving For This Open House
Friday Evening
November 8th
5 p.m. 'till 9 p.m.

The Fashion Post
Classic Clothing for Men and Women
306 North Main Street
Farmville, Virginia 392-4120

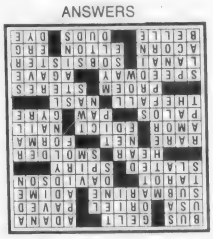
COMICS

NO EXIT by Erik Andresen



GENE RODDENBERRY, 1921-1991

THE Daily Crossword by Stanley B. Whitten



©1991, Tribune Media Services

ACROSS
1 Motor coach
4 Money
8 Turk. city
13 Brother Jonathan: abbr.
14 Bay window
16 Like most streets
17 U-boat
19 — a dozen (cheap)
20 Fortune-telling card
21 Singing John
23 Scheduled
25 Slender and tapering
26 Learn
28 Burn slowly
32 Hard to find
35 Trap
37 Pro — (following rules)
38 Love Lat. style
39 Decree
42 Fasten
43 Columbus' starting point
45 Animal foot
46 Circle
47 Miller's "After —"
50 Kicker's grp.
52 Preface
54 Cubic meters
58 Race track
61 Century plant
62 Hawaiian veranda
63 Sentimental journalist
66 Oak nut
67 A John
68 Unit of work
69 Pretty woman
70 Clothes
71 Tint

DOWN
1 Arrests
2 Normal
3 Native-born Israeli
4 Beard
5 Make a mistake
6 52 in Rhaetia
7 Inclines
8 "— star-crossed lovers"
9 Arachnid
10 Rara —
11 Captain of fiction
12 Arabian gulf
15 Moves quickly
18 Nacre
22 Energy
24 Jullander
27 Crimson or claret
29 Cart
30 Arab chieftain
31 Breathing sound
32 Entranced
33 Oriental nanny
34 Function
36 Point
40 Container
41 "— the night before..."
44 Pilchard
48 Base
49 Building contract
51 Blots
53 "— Kentucky Home"
55 Estimated
56 — so often
57 Suit material
58 Thick piece
59 Unit of length
60 Organic compound
64 Unit of heat: abbr.
65 Turf

ANSWERS

NOTICES

Dr. Samuel Proctor, pastor of the Abyssinian Baptist Church in New York City and former associate director of the Peace Corps, will be giving a public lecture on Monday, November 11 at 7:30 p.m. in Wygal. Also, if you are interested in learning Dr. Proctor's 5 p.m. dinner presentation as part of the "Evening at the Colonnades" series, please see your RA by November 6 to reserve a seat. Sponsored by Longwood United For Racial Equality (LURE) and opening doors to the world.

Attention! The Longwood College Escort Service is now in operation! Be safe, call campus police for your student escort!

COMING ATTRACTION:

Wednesday, Nov. 20 – Saturday, Nov. 23 8:00 p.m. PICNIC by William Inge.

Presented by the Longwood Players and directed by Pamela Arkin. Watch for your favorite actors and actresses:

Walter Alford, Jessica Billones, Cindy Callahan, Terri Cooper, Kim Graves, Michelle Neubeckes, Wendy Ragland, David Richards, Laura Sergeant, Joseph Servis, J.J. Weise.

FOR SALE

SCUBA EQUIPMENT FOR SALE

Brand new B.C., weight belt with weights, men's. Hardly been used. For all - $150 firm!

For info contact Keith Johnson at 223-4285 or leave message. Will meet with you if necessary.

PERSONALS

CHI, Please walk soon! — CHI Fan

CKB — You are my favorite sister/ brother/friend! — KRK

ΔΣπ Pledges are fantastic — The brothers

Maximum Metal Rocks you from AC-DC to ZZ Top! Tuesdays 6-8 p.m. 90.1 FM

Shelley Stansbury — You are awesome. — Love your Serpent Sis

Vote for the right one — C. J. for Judicial Board on Nov. 6 and 7!

Carey — You are doing a great job! Good luck in your pledge test! I'm so proud of you. — Your Secret Sister in Delta Zeta

Happy Birthday Priscilla. — Love Ernie

Mona-Mona — I love you too much! But don't touch my cat tail anymore!! — Mama Hoochie

Jem Buckley — You are a wonderful lil' bro.

Grover and D.B., L.A. — Thanks for the show. Maybe next time we can watch. — J. and E.

Sigma Kappa Pledges — You are doing an awesome job!

Robert Camus — Keep up the good work. I'm watching you!!! — Your Secret Sig

Your Vote Counts!

Make your choices for SGA, Judicial Board, and Honor Board members on Nov. 6 and 7.

— This message has been brought to you by the committee to elect DARRELL WELLS - President and AMANDA JANNEY - Vice President of the SGA.

PHILIPPE E. — Just wanted you to know that "I DIG YOUR BONES!" — Guess who?

Mike O., John C., Jimmy, DuWayne — Hang in there! It's not that bad. Just make the best of it now, next semester will be much better! 1st year is always rough, give Longwood a try.

Campus Calendar

Information on events should be submitted to the Student Union Office in Lankford by the Friday preceding the appropriate issue of the paper.

Wednesday November 6

Rotunda Staff Meeting: Interested in working - come join us. 6:00 pm Lankford Conf. Rm. 3

Faculty Colloquiu Lecture: "Puritanism and the Development of Criminological Thought" by Dr. William Burger, 7:30pm Wygal

Lecture on China: by Dr. John Peale. 7:30 pm GoldRoom

Music: The Jank Twins, 9:00 pm Lancer Cafe

Thursday November 7

S-UN Board Meeting. 1:30pm Lankford Conference Room II

Workshop: Oral Presentations. 1:00pm Learning Center Conference Room

Friday November 8

Movies: Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves 9:00 pm Gold Room

Saturday November 9

Sunday November 10

Senior/Junior Recital: Sandy Fowler, piano, and Jana Davis, flute, 4:00 pm Wygal

Monday November 11

Challenge Meeting: 5:00pm RWG Rooms (Mandatory for seniors going to Challenge Job Fair.)

Lecture: "How Can College Students Be Agents for change?" by Dr. Samuel Proctor. 7:00pm Wygal

Reading: Eric Kraft. 8:00pm Library - Room 209

Movies: Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves 9:00 pm Gold Room

Women's Indoor Soccer: EB due before meeting.

Tuesday November 12

Jazz Ensemble Concert: 8:00pm Wygal

SPORTS

Experience To Play Big Role For Lady Lancer Cagers In '91-'92 Season

By GREG PROUTY

A question mark looms over the 1991-92 edition of Longwood women's basketball. After compiling a record of 10-17 last year, ninth-year head coach Shirley Duncan, assisted by Loretta Coughlin, sees several good points concerning the Lady Lancers this year, but also must face several negatives as well.

First, the good. Longwood returns nine players, three of whom are returning starters. Additionally, the Lady Lancers have five seniors, who give the squad good leadership.

Now the bad. Longwood has lost All-American Carmille Barnette and Ann Callaham. All Barnette did was re-write the record book en route to becoming Longwood's all-time leading career scorer with 1,569 points. Last spring her number 43 jersey became only the third jersey to be retired in Lady Lancer history. Callaham was last season's third-leading scorer, as well as the leader in assists and steals.

"Obviously, we have some very big shoes to fill," commented Duncan. "But everyone returning saw lots of action last season. Our five seniors give us an experienced team."

Additionally, the Lady Lancers face a challenging schedule. Besides playing in tournaments in North Carolina and Pennsylvania, Longwood plays 10 other games on the road.

Among the returning starters are senior co-captain Salene Green and sophomore Cassie Ensley. Green, a 5-11 forward, averaged 9 points and 7.4 rebounds last year. She led the squad with 199 rebounds. A third-year captain, Green is a leader both on and off the court.

"Salene is a dedicated team member and plays with a lot of determination," says Duncan. "She has developed into a very smart player."

Ensley, a 5-6 guard, is the leading returning scorer. She averaged 11.1 points in her first season of collegiate action, as well as handing out 74 assists and making 35 steals, both second on the team. Additionally, Ensley led at the free throw line shooting 77 percent.

"Cassie is a smart, heady player who can score from outside (team-leading 41 three-pointers last season), penetrate or dish off," comments Duncan. "She's worked hard over the summer to continue her level of good play."

The third returning starter comes from among three players who split time starting a year ago. They include seniors Teresa Carter, Heather Green and Cassie Mullenix. Carter, a 5-11 center, averaged 5.8 points and 4.6 rebounds. Shooting 44 percent from the field, Carter is the leading returning field goal shooter on the team.

Heather Green, a 6-0 forward, Salene's sister, scored 4.7 points and grabbed 4.3 boards. Mullenix, a 5-10 forward, is the second-leading returning scorer (along with Salene Green), after averaging 9 points. She also grabbed 4.9 rebounds per game.

"Teresa's vastly improved and has the potential to dominate inside," says Duncan. "Heather's strength is her intensity on the court, and Cassie is a good inside/outside player, an intense competitor who hates to lose."

Other returners for Longwood include senior guard Tena Philbrick, juniors Cari Delinger and Mandy Evans, along with sophomore Ana Litton. The 5-7 Philbrick, a co-captain, averaged 5.2 points. According to Duncan, Philbrick loves the game and will run through a wall for you.

Dellinger, a 6-1 forward, showed signs of emerging last season, and could be a force around the basket. Evans, a 5-9 forward, spent last season learning the system after transferring from UNC-Greensboro. She has excellent moves around the basket and should contribute more this year.

Litton, a 5-8 guard, is the best athlete on the team. She was named Longwood Female Freshman Athlete of the Year for 1990-91. A member of the school's softball team as well, Litton has the ability to score and make steals. A good leaper, Ana went through an adjustment season a year ago, but should be improved in '91-'92.

Two newcomers to the program are Kirsten Hillgaard, and Sonia Williams, both freshmen. Hillgaard, a 6-2 center, was an All-Potomac District performer at Washington and Lee High, averaging 13.2 points, 12 rebounds, and 3.5 blocked shots per game. She has the potential to contribute right away.

Williams, a 5-4 guard, prepped at Nansemond River High, gaining All-City, and Nansemond River Athlete of the Year honors. The walk-on possesses good ball-handing skills and can be creative on offense.

Although uncertain about how this team will fare, one thing is certain for Duncan. "This team never quits," she says. "They always give their best and that's something we are proud of."

Longwood opens its season Nov. 22-23 at the Gardner-Webb Tournament in Boiling Springs, NC. The Lady Lancers face Gardner-Webb at 8:30 p.m. on Nov. 22, with the consolation and championship games to be played the next afternoon. Also participating in the tournament are North Georgia and USC-Spartanburg.

SALENE GREEN

Lancer Booters Split Pair

The Longwood soccer team broke its 11-game losing streak Saturday by just showing up.

The Lancers, now 6-13, were scheduled to play District of Columbia at 1 Saturday in Farmville, but the Firebirds failed to show up for the contest. Longwood gets a 1-0 forfeit victory.

Coach Stan Cieplinski's squad closes out its 1991 season Wednesday night at 7 in Richmond when the Lancers visit Virginia Commonwealth.

In other action last week, the Lancers suffered a tough overtime loss to Division III power Methodist in Fayetteville, N.C. Thursday. Todd Dyer put Longwood on the board in the first half which ended 1-1. After a scoreless second half and overtime period, Methodist broke through with a goal in the second overtime for the victory.

Longwood hung in the game despite being out-shot 24-2 and despite playing without starting backs Pat Temple and Jason Casano who were injured.

Tucker Leaves For Olympic Trials

Longwood junior shortstop Mike Tucker began a long journey Friday when he departed from Richmond via plane for Miami, Fla.. Tucker hopes his final destination will be the 1992 Summer Olympics in Barcelona, Spain.

Tucker is one of 90 players heading to Homestead, Fla. for the inaugural USA Baseball Team National Trials Nov. 1-10. It's the start of a process for picking a 20-man United States squad to compete in the Olympics in Barcelona. Following the initial evaluation period, 40 players will be invited to attend the final spring trials in Millington, Tenn. next June.

As if trying out for the Olympics wasn't pressure enough, the trials will also likely be viewed by scouts from all 26 Major League Baseball teams.

"It will be hog city for the scouts," says Longwood coach Buddy Bolding. "Every player they see will be a prospect. I've told Mike to just go down there and let it all hang out. They're going to want him to hit the baseball. I feel he has a chance to do well down there."

"It's a nice situation to be in," says Tucker. "I'll have a chance to really show what I can do against good competition."

Confident about his abilities, Tucker was tested by some of the best pitchers in Division II at last year's National Championship. He hit .353 with a homer, double, triple and seven RBI in five games.

"My experience at the championship should help a lot," said Tucker. "I've played against some top quality baseball players."

A first team Division II All American, Tucker led Longwood to a 41-8 record and a final four finish in the championships. A 6-2, 185-pounder, he hit .450 with a school record 15 homers and 59 RBI last season.

The 90 players will be divided into five teams for the trials which will afford Olympic Coach Ron Fraser of Miami and his staff a first hand look at the players in game conditions.

The trials will be held at the Homestead Sports Complex, a new baseball facility, with a 6,500 seat stadium and five practice fields. The Cleveland Indians are to begin using the facility in 1993, according to Bob Bensch of the United States Baseball Federation.

Tucker says the players are to report to the complex Saturday morning for a series of performance tests. After scrimmages Sunday, games will begin Tuesday.

Tucker is one of eight players from Virginia colleges selected for the trials. All the others come from Division I schools, except for shortstop Eric Owens of Ferrum, an NCAA Division III member. Tucker and the other Virginia hopefuls will be playing for the East except for Owens who will play for the South.

While Longwood's baseball season doesn't commence until February, Tucker will have plenty of school work to catch up on when he returns from Florida.

"I've talked to my professors," said the junior physical education major. "They said I could catch up on what I missed and make up tests when I come back."

Tucker is also taking a few textbooks with him to prepare for an upcoming quiz. Chances are he'll have some pretty tough tests on the baseball field as well.

Baseball makes it debut as an official Olympic sport in Barcelona next summer with eight teams competing for the gold. The USA is the defending gold medalist, having taken the top prize at the demonstration games in Seoul, Korea in 1988.

Intramurals

By JOHN FOX

The intramural program is never stopping. Several sports had ended for the year and here are the winners for these sports.

Men's Bowling ... Pi Kappa Phi

3 on 3 Basketball (Men's) ... Alpha Sigma Phi

3 on 3 Basketball (Women's) ... Alpha Sigma Alpha

Tennis Doubles (Men's) ... Mooney/Hill

Tennis Doubles (Women's) .., Taylor/Blackwell

Finally one of our weekend activities was Men's Golf Doubles. The winners were Burress/Holland both of them are Pi Kappa Phi's.

The final four teams which are left in the Women's Volleyball are Sigma Sigma Sigma, Delta Zeta, Rug Rats, and finally Tabb. These four teams are in heated competition.

The final sport still in progress is Indoor Soccer. The final three teams in A league are Phoenix, Sigma Phi Epsilon and the Crow Crushers. This tournament will be ending the middle of this week.

Congratulations to all the winners of Intramural Sports this fall. Good luck to the remaining teams in the sports in progress.

— FREE —
PREGNANCY TEST

All services confidential.
Same day results.

SOUTHSIDE PREGNANCY CENTER

24-HOUR HOTLINE
392-8483

Questions Loom For '91-'92 Men's Basketball Squad

Attempting to preview the 1991-92 Longwood College men's basketball season is like trying to figure out what's inside a Christmas present. You think there's something good in there, but you can't see through the wrapping paper to tell for sure.

The package will be opened Nov. 22-23 when Longwood hosts the ninth Par-Bil's Tip-Off Tournament. The Lancers will play West Liberty at 7 and USC Spartanburg meets Erskine at 9 p.m. in first round action.

Coach Ron Carr begins his second year at Longwood missing four of the top eight players from last year, when the Lancers finished 11-17. Longwood will begin the season with many new faces and a measure of uncertainty.

"We have a lot of newcomers, so there are a lot of question marks," says Carr. "There are several combinations we can work with, particularly on the perimeter. This seems to be a cohesive group with a good work ethic. The chemistry is good, and that's important to me."

In addition to four returning players, including starters Joe Lowe and Bryan Weaver, Carr has ten talented newcomers to work with. Five of the new players are in the 6-3 to 6-4 range, but a lack of depth in the post is a possible cause for concern.

In addition to Weaver, a 6-6 junior who averaged 6-6 points and 5.8 rebounds last season, Carr has junior transfer Jock Burns 6-5, 240, and sophomore Adam Huffman, 6-7, 190, as his post contingent.

"A lot of our success may be determined by how that group plays," said the coach. "We could be thin if someone gets hurt."

Joining Lowe as backcourt veterans are 6-3 junior Keith Crabtree, who started 11 games last season, and 6-0 sophomore Michael Druitt, a starter in nine games a year ago.

Lowe, the team's top returning scorer at 9.2 ppg., dished out 141 assists and led the teams in steals with 58. Lowe's assist total (5.0 per game) is the second-best season mark in Lancer history. Crabtree, who may swing to forward, averaged 4.3 points and 2.0 rebounds while Druitt scored 4.6 points per contest with 50 assists.

Among the newcomers, juniors Burns and 6-4 forward Chuck Laster are the most experienced. The two were starters last year at Danville (Ill.) Area Community College, the NJCAA Division II National Champion. Burns was the team's top rebounder while Laster, a co-captain, averaged 12 points and was named NJCAA all-region.

Huffman was captain and MVP on the Robert E. Lee High School state champion squad of 1990. He transferred to Longwood from Presbyterian College.

A trio of freshman guards and a sophomore forward are among the Lancer crop of newcomers. The guards are 6-3 J.B. Neill, 6-0 Jimmy Spicer and 6-4 Matt Watkins. Charles Brown, a 6-3 forward, comes to Longwood from Fayetteville State (N.C.).

Neill scored a school record 1,301 points at Eastern High. He averaged 25 ppg. his senior year and made all-conference three years. Spicer averaged 13 ppg. at North Stafford High and hit 55 percent of his 3-point field goals. Watkins made all-district two years and all-region one year at Oldham County High School.

Brown logged considerable playing time at Fayetteville State in 1989-90 before sitting out last season at Longwood. He averaged 15 points and 9.0 rebounds at Brinton High where he made second team all-district and played with Lancer guard Michael Druitt.

Also new to the squad are a trio of walk-ons. Sophomores Buddy Whitehurst and Adrian Holland and freshman Tony Wools earned spots on the squad in preseason drills. The 6-3 Whitehurst, who played at Keysville, and the 6-1 Wools, who prepped at Potomac, are guards. Holland, a 6-5 forward, is a graduate of Nansemond-Suffolk Academy. He decided to red-shirt this season.

Carr says rugged opposition could be a stumbling block for the Lancers. Among the toughest foes are Division I East Carolina and NCAA Division II playoff participant South Carolina Spartanburg.

"The schedule is the only big negative I see," said Carr. "The quality of our opponents is very strong, plus there are many games on the road. The schedule itself is just going to test us."

Despite key losses from last season and a challenging schedule, the Lancers are looking forward to the new year.

"They (the players) are a group that likes to be challenged. As a goal we've set our sights on trying to raise our level of play each time out," says Carr.

The Fresh Alternative

COLD SUBS — MONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD

	SUB UNION	FOOT LONG
For TWICE the meat, just say "Super" ...add ...	1.00	2.00
BMT (ham, genoa salami, pepperoni, bologna)	2.99	4.29
SUBWAY CLUB (roast beef, turkey, ham)	2.99	4.49
SPICY ITALIAN (genoa salami, pepperoni)	2.79	3.89
COLD CUT COMBO (ham salami, bologna - all turkey based)	1.89	3.29
BBQ CHICKEN	3.29	4.89
TUNA	2.79	4.29
SEAFOOD & CRAB	3.49	4.99
BBQ PORK	2.79	4.29
HAM & CHEESE	2.89	4.29
ROAST BEEF	2.89	4.29
TURKEY BREAST	2.89	4.29
TURKEY & BACON DELUXE	3.29	4.89
VEGGIE	1.89	2.99

HOT SUBS — MONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD

	SUB UNION	FOOT LONG
MEATBALL (Limited Time Special 6" - $1.69)	1.99	3.49
STEAK & CHEESE (100% sirloin)	3.09	4.59
PIZZA SUB	2.99	4.29
RIB-B-Q (Our recommended choice)	3.39	5.69
Add Bacon...	.50	1.00

Free Fixin's — Cheese • Onions • Lettuce • Tomatoes • Pickles • Green Peppers • Olives • Salt • Pepper • Oil
Plus On Request — Mustard • Mayonnaise • Hot Peppers • Vinegar

-COUPON-
BUY ONE GET ONE FREE ON TUESDAY
TWO for TUES
Get a FREE sub (same kind same size) when you purchase a sub and a 22 oz soft drink. Offer good at participating Subway stores on Tuesday only.
SUBWAY
EXPIRES Nov. 22, 1991
One coupon per purchase. Not good with any other promotion or discount.
SUBWAY
308 S. MAIN ST.
FARMVILLE, VA.
PHONE 392-8868

Longwood College

VOL. 71, NO. 8 NOVEMBER 13,1991

Rotunda

President and Mrs. Dorrill in the Back Parlor at Longwood House.

In Profile:

The First Couple

By KIMBER SCOTT

Dr. William F. Dorrill and Martha Dorrill, our President and First Lady, have been married for 40 years. They both attended Baylor University and married during spring break of their junior year. For their honeymoon they went to Lady Murry State Park in Oklahoma.

After graduating from Baylor, the Dorrills moved from Texas to Charlottesville, VA. Their first experience in Virginia was not a pleasant one. They were coming across Mt. Pulaski and as they were descending the mountain the car lost its breaks.

"We heard a whisper from Fuad Tawil, 'We have no breaks,' Nobody said a word, we just prayed we would make it to the bottom safely. Fuad drove all the way down honking the horn. People must have thought we were crazy."

The Dorrills have lived in a variety of locations including Australia, and China. China and the Chinese culture are very much a part of their lives. When they have dinners at their house they prefer to have a round table. "The round table is a Chinese tradition, the conversations at a round table flow in a circle creating continuous conversation rather than conversation from the head to the foot of the table," said Martha Dorrill. Dr. Dorrill states, "I used to speak Chinese fluently but I am a little rusty. If you don't continuously use a language you lose it."

Traveling internationally is something the Dorrills enjoy doing as often as possible. They plan to return to China on one of their next vacations.

The Dorrills have four children, three daughters and a son. They also have a new addition to the family, a ten month old grandson. Sticks, their dog, and Alegra, their cat, are also members of the family with a friendly and warm personality all their own. "We are very family oriented. We talk to our children at least once a week and we visit our son once a month," said Mrs. Dorrill.

Everyone in the family enjoys music. Mr. and Mrs. Dorrill used to play duets on the piano, two of their daughters play the piano, and the third daughter plays the violin. Mrs. Dorrill has played the piano since she was five. They also enjoy singing and dancing.

When the Dorrills have free time they enjoy hiking. On a free day you may find them in the Blue Ridge Mountains. At night they both enjoy reading and listening to music rather than watching T.V. Dr. Dorrill enjoys reading Civil War History novels as Mrs. Dorrill puts it, "they are his romance novels." Mrs. Dorrill said they do watch T.V. occasionally. "We watched the last game of the World Series. I am a Twins' fan and Bill is a Braves' fan. He fell asleep so I had to break the news to him the next morning. I suppose we are just like anyone else."

The Dorrils both enjoy teaching. Mrs. Dorrill taught a class in Music Appreciation one semester, and Dr. Dorrill currently co-teaches a class with Dr. Bill Harbor on International Relations.

Maintaining relationships with the students is important to the Dorrills. Dr. Dorrill believes the students view him as being "friendly." "I speak to the students as I am walking through campus and I enjoy having them out to the house for special dinners." Mrs. Dorrill said, "My favorite things about being the President's wife are the students, the old graduates, and the campus life. I enjoy the music department, the new library, and campus activities." The worst thing about being the President's wife is, "People think being the President's wife is all glamour but really it is a job. If you go into it for the social or glamorous aspect you would be disappointed, but if you really appreciate the values of the college and teaching it's wonderful."

Mrs. Carter is the lady who cleans the house. "She does a spectacular job," said Mrs. Dorrill and ARA does the cooking. Mrs. Dorrill does enjoy cooking whenever she has the time. One day when it snows don't be surprised to see a sign that reads, "Hot Chocolate and Cookies at the President's House." She likes to make homemade hot chocolate.

The President's house is in the process of being repainted. They are scraping all the old paint off of the wood and repainting. This process is going to preserve the house. The house was said to be built in 1815 and is one of Longwood's oldest original pieces of architecture.

The Dorrills enjoy living in Farmville and working with Longwood's faculty, staff, and students.

'Showplace' Efforts Continue

Hurley Details Projects

By DINA M. DAWSON
News Staff

Over the course of the last two weeks we have examined both complaints and problems regarding the beautification and amounts of vandalism prevalent on campus as well as the administration's responses to such complaints and problems; resulting in the Beautification and Vandalism Reduction Plan founded last April.

Mr. Rick Hurley, Vice-President of Business Affairs, stated that there were several other projects, that will hopefully bring Longwood closer to that goal of being a showplace.

The first of the two such projects is an official entrance way into the college that will be built next to the intersection of Main and Redford Streets, across from McDonalds, and between the physical plant and Curry dormitory building. Mr. Hurley said that "this is the area of the college that needs the most attention."

The proposed design for the new entrance way is being reviewed by the Faculty Landscape Committee. The project, which will begin in February, and hopefully will be finished by graduation, will cost around $200,000. The funds to complete the project have already been appropriated by the Board of Visitors.

The project, which is one of two official gateway entrances planned for the campus, will begin with relocating the loading dock, which belongs to the physical plant, to the back of the Barstow Building.

In addition, Longwood plans to "define its boundaries completely around the campus by planting hedges and trees". Mr. Hurley also stated that the project should "give people the feeling they have entered a special place and will improve the appearance of the campus on the east side, and will hopefully boost our pride."

A second project, currently underway that will improve Longwood's image, is the renovation of the baseball field. According to Mr. Hurley, the renovation of the baseball field was important because "the field did not measure up to intercollegiate playing standards."

The renovation, which will cost around $195,000 will involve enlarging the field, turning the field slightly to the south, adding new fences, building new dugouts, a new infield, and a seeded outfield.

The renovation of the field will be completed by graduation, however the field will not be used until the spring of 1993 so that the seeding has plenty of time to take.

The field has been designed with the possibility of a stadium addition and Mr. Hurley stated that it was "designed so when we want to move in that direction we can."

Board of Visitors Meet, Plan Changes

By JENNIFER WYATT
News Reporter

Many actions are taking place here at Longwood College in the near future. At the most recent Board of Visitors meeting on Monday, October 28, 1991, decisions were made that will change Longwood's future outlook.

The Board meeting opened up with a silence and memorial for the losses of Dr. Rosemary Sprague of the English Department and Claudia Logan, Director of Financial Aid.

The Rector, Ms. Martha W. High, stated her appreciation and thanks to everyone who was participating in the meeting. She was pleased to announce that there was a 50% increase of people that had attended Oktoberfest weekend this year.

It was announced that three faculty members have been appointed for duties by Governor Wilder: Dr. Frank Bacon, Dr. Cynthia Jones, and Dr. Nancy Vick.

Among other topics that were discussed during the Board meeting were the new telephone registration process that may be used for Spring registration and the growth of the Speech Pathology and Audiology Program at Longwood.

The telephone registration process is something new to Longwood and is under experimentation. The process may also be used in the Financial Aid Office as well as the Registrar's office.

According to the head of the department, the growth of students in the Speech and Pathology program has grown to 14 per class. Discussions were made about the upcoming nominations for the next Vice-President of Academic Affairs. Some concerns were expressed about the processes that may be used in doing this.

The College is still working to prepare students for the 21st century, especially when it comes to leadership and civility. President William Dorrill expressed his appreciation of the high enrollment and productive positive attitudes here at Longwood. The total enrollment this year is 3,305 students with 1,155 of them being commuter students making a total of 2,289 that actually take up dormitory space.

Dr. Dorrill was very pleased with the increase of full time freshmen students this semester despite the decrease in graduating high school students. There are 37 more freshmen attending this year than last year bringing about a total of 637 freshmen attending in all. The average G.P.A. this year is 2.94 with an SAT score between 800-900.

An attendant at the meeting stated that "Longwood holds more difficult requirements than other institutions, and this forces students to work harder causing them to maintain a high G.P.A."

Dr. Dorrill expects a slight increase in Longwood's growth with an improvement in the graduation rates. He wants financial aid and tuition grants to be more available to eligible students. He also hopes for a higher freshman profile.

Assistant Attorney General, Mr. Richard Kast has resigned from his position at Longwood because of upcoming responsibilities with other institutions. His duties have been turned over to Assistant Attorney Generals Caroline Lockerly and Marty Parrish.

Physical Plant staff changes were made this semester. Dave Dewald has left Longwood, and Melvin Moore has been appointed the new Director of the plant. Dr. Dorrill commended him on a fine job this semester, especially in the aspects of work he has done in concern to the state of the environment.

The Drug and Alcohol policies for faculty members have been discussed. Just recently faculty members have been required to sign a contract stating that they have seen the drug and alcohol policy form and that they will

(Continued on page 4)

SGA Election Results

Student Government Officers

President	Communications Chair	Student Senator-At-Large (select only two)
188 Scott Glisson	22 Tammy Armistead *	117 Cameron C. Caffee II
115 Courtney Hodges	Corresponding Secretary	138 Erin McCay
322 Darrell A. Wells *	22 Jason Walker *	192 Emily Pritchard *
Vice President (Runoff)	Recording Secretary	213 Matt Field *
22 Amanda Janney*	22 Julie Lindsay *	99 Dwayne Barton
22 Seth Johnson*	Student Union Board Pres.	(?? - Numerical Results Unavailable)
22 Tricia Ann Popular	174 Laurie Myers	(* - Indicates winner(s))
22 Cheryl Swain	302 John Russell *
Treasurer	Residence Hall Assoc. President
0 <None>	22 David Edwards *

Honor Board Member

(Select only four.)

109 Maurice Clark	148 Sherry Perkins	432 Derick T. Richard *
279 Tara Confalone *	431 Darrell Richard *	173 Jennifer Thompkins *
62 William S. Hoovler III

Judicial Board Member

(Select only fourteen.)

179 Kimberly Ann Boucher*	210 Jeff Ellington*	227 Riley H. Ross III*
100 Brenda Anne Campbell-Harris	146 Natalie Hayes	242 George Schulz, Jr.*
126 William "Billy" Cifers	260 Shannon M. Holley*	118 Robert H. Smith III
267 Mary Katherine Dalley*	232 C.J. Maurice*	147 Jennifer Thompkins*
174 Gwendolyn Davis*	132 Erin McCay	155 Melvin "Sam" Tuck*
208 Tara Dieter*	176 Justin Morris
211 Kathy Dimarino*	308 Darrell Richard*

Constitutional Amendment

332 YES*
45 NO

Article IV. Organization
Section 1. The Student Senate
C. The membership of the Student Senate shall consist of the 19... Eight (8) Student Senators-At-Large

Article V. Elections
Section 3. Qualifications for office.
D. Students running for the following offices must be at least a rising sophomore, have at least a 2.5 cumulative GPA, and be in good standing with the College.
President; Vice President; Treasurer.
E. Students running for the following offices must have at least a 2.0 cumulative GPA, and be in good standing with the college.
Recording Secretary, Corresponding Secretary, Student Union President, Chair of Intramurals and Campus Recreation, Commuter Student Association President, Communications Chair, Class Officers, Associate Members of Honor Board, Associate Members of Judicial Board, Eight (8) Student Senators At-Large.
F. Qualifications for SGA officers, not aforementioned, shall be decided by the Student Senate

*Highlighted areas were approved by the Student Senate, but were not placed on the official ballot by the Campus Elections Committee.

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
Features 3
News.....4
Comics 5
Sports 6

COMMENTARY

EDITORIAL

Campus beautification seems to be the catch phrase these days. It is funny that everyone is only now realizing all of the problems with this campus. Things always seem to work in cycles like this, though: One person brings up an idea and then everyone else jumps on the bandwagon. Eventually people will tire of the issue at hand and they will move onto another issue. Before campus beautification, the code words were The Environment. People began recycling, not using styrofoam and starting up such organizations as the earth club. Now there was nothing wrong with any of this, but people wanted instant results, and when they did not get them, they abandoned the idea. If one looks at this cycle, it is only natural that one will question the campus's sincerity about the issue of campus beautification.

This campus needs to be cleaned up in all respects. In Dina Dawson's article last week, "LC Implements Vandalism and Beautification Plan," she discussed some of the administration's plans to beautify this campus. The College is doing some things such as replacing the windows in Curry and Frazer, things which are so little that they don't do much to enhance the overall look of the campus. People need to think bigger: sandblasting and repainting for instance. The cement around many of the windows on campus is grungy looking, marred and worn down by the weather over the years. All of the wood around the windows on campus needs to be sanded down and repainted.

There is also the question of vegetation. Longwood needs to buy about one hundred fast growing trees and plant them all around campus. A friend of mine described the campus as "a post-Desert Storm landscape." Perhaps that is a bit extreme, but the campus is very boring and technical looking. We need more trees around Bedford, Wygal, Lancer and Wynne. That whole half of the campus, along with Curry and Frazer, has a creepy neo-1970s look about it that needs to be toned down.

And what about this new library? It is a terrific looking building, but it is the only two-tone building on campus. Since it is already there, though, there is nothing to do about it. (sic). Perhaps when the trees around the library grow up some more it will not look quite so out of place.

The insides of the dormitories need to be repainted, and that includes all of the rooms. Take a look at the entrance to Tabb from the circle. The walls are filthy and the door is cracked and scratched. How much effort would it take to repaint that small area? It is disgusting that students should have to live in such squalor. All of the Colonnades' dormitories, along with Cox, Wheeler, and the Cunninghams, need to be patched up. The high rises look like a forgotten inner-city development.

A line of communication needs to be opened between the students, administration, and faculty on this campus. Administration and faculty need students to help show them what needs to be fixed, and the students need them to get things done.

The College seems sincere in its efforts to beautify this campus, and they have made some noticeable differences thus far. However, we must not quit now. Change will be slow in coming, but we must be patient and not give up because we do not see results right away.

-CSJ-

SGA Elections - Managed or Mismanaged?

Have you kept up with your SGA elections? If so, then you're probably having the same gut wrenching, stomach churning reaction that we're having!

If you haven't, let us fill you in on some problems that were encountered concerning the elections. The first major problem that set the tone for this fiasco they called elections was the almost total lack of publicity, how many of you knew that there was an election, let alone that you could run for an office. If you didn't pass through the New Smoker on your way to class or the dining hall you probably missed the entire event. Our SGA was not able to put together a candidates forum even though several students requested it.

The second problem was created by SGA officials who refused to release election data, claiming that the publication of such information would injure candidate's feelings and discourage future participation. However, SGA officials were advised by the Office of the Attorney General of Virginia that they were required by the laws of Virginia to release election results.

As of yet, no vice-presidential data has been released except for the statement by the SGA announcing that there is to be a runoff election on Thursday, November 14. (Make sure you pass through the New Smoker or you'll probably never know it!) There were several other unopposed elections about which no numerical information has been given.

Another apparent problem with last week's elections (Nov. 6-7) concerned a proposed amendment to the SGA Constitution which was approved by a 332 to 45 vote. This amendment, dealing with the number of positions that Freshmen can run for and increasing the number of student Senators-At-Large from 2 to 8, had several vital portions taken out. The version of the amendment presented to the voters for ratification was not the amendment approved by the SGA Senate for inclusion on the November ballot. An entire portion of the amendment was removed, as were two Senate positions, which were Chair of Intramural and Campus Recreation, and Commuter Student Association President.

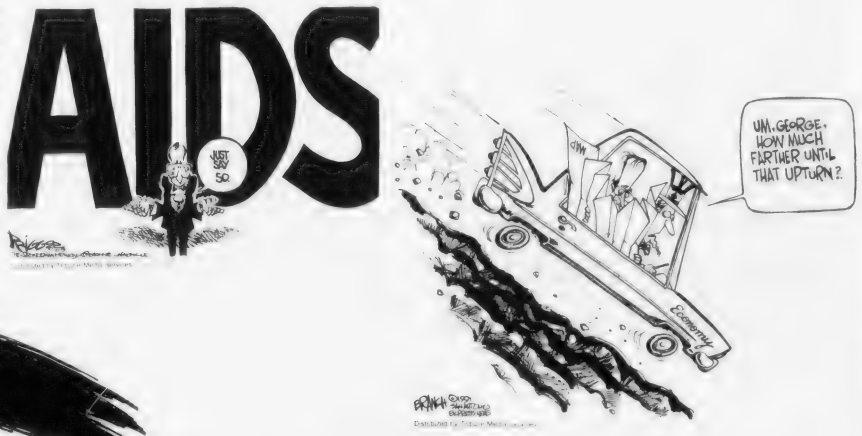
It's no wonder that students are frustrated with the ineffectiveness of our student government. These elections are characteristic of the way the current SGA has managed its affairs. Or, should we say mismanaged...

We can only hope that the next SGA elections are held in a more professional manner, and that SGA President-elect Darrell Wells can breathe new life into the nearly murdered entity we call SGA.

Executive Editor's Note: The above editorial represents the unanimous opinion of the Editorial Board.

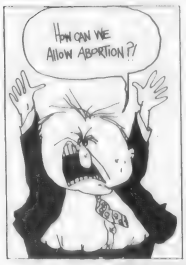
Letter To The Editor

To whom it may concern:



The Society of fraternity hereby commends six Longwood professors for their sincere and noble efforts on behalf of the college's students. The number six is the number of Founding Members of the society. On the night of November 4, 1991, six pumpkins engraved with a lowercase 'f' were placed on the front porches of the following professors: Doctors James William Jordan, Donald A. Merkle, James V. Crowl, Marvin W. Scott, Geoffrey C. Orth and Rosemary Sprague.

The fraternity soundly praises these six and urges the administration of Longwood College to do likewise.



'Since our concern was speech,
and speech impelled us
To purify the dialect of the tribe.'

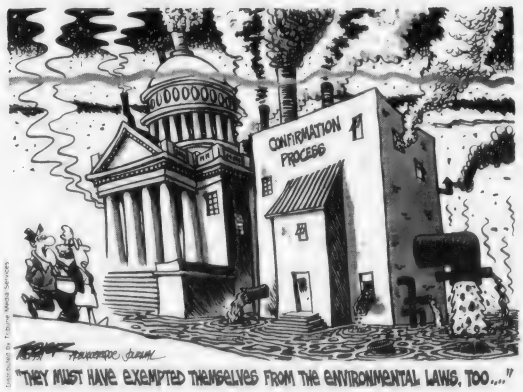
- Thomas Stearns Eliot



fraternity

Quotable:

"Governments tend not to solve problems, only to rearrange them."

—Ronald Reagan, California Governor

Quotable:

"In America the president rules for four years and journalism governs forever and ever."

—Oscar Wilde

Rotunda
Box 1133
Farmville, VA
23901

Founding Editor
Helen Skillman

THE STAFF:

Executive Editor
Bradley L. Owen

Editor
Christopher S. Jones

Features Editor
Sherry Gatewood

Asst. Features Editor
Ann Renee Helm

Sports Editor
Charlie Fultz

Photography Editor
Judi Weller

Layout Editor
(open)

Business Manager
Erin C. McCay

Advisors
Mr. William C. Woods
Ms. Brenda Atkins

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is noon Friday prior to the Wednesday publication date and these should be placed in the envelopes inside the Publication offices door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by 5 p.m. Sunday. All submissions become the property of The Rotunda.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College. The Rotunda is an Associated Collegiate Press award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

FEATURES

Animated Films Become Popular with College Crowd

By AMY REYNOLDS

(CPS) — It happened one rainy Sunday afternoon when a pair of bored college students went in search of cheap entertainment.

They ended up at a video store, perusing the shelves long and hard for Mickey Rourke's newest release at the time, "Wild Orchid."

The steamy, sexy film was checked out. A college student working at the store recommended The Little Mermaid instead.

The Little Mermaid?

You gotta be kidding.

"It's the greatest," he said. "I even cried at the end."

But, silly rabbit — er, guy — cartoons are for kids.

Or are they?

This year's re-release of the Walt Disney classic 101 Dalmatians is just one example of the never-ending popularity and recent rebirth of animation. The film grossed $55.6 million and was the seventh biggest hit of the summer.

Most notably, college students as well as children left theaters humming "Cruella Deville." The former searched record stores for the rock 'n' roll version of the song recorded by The Replacements while the latter, their tiny-tot companions, settled for the Disney version.

Disney movies aren't the only popular toons these days. Warner Brothers' Bugs Bunny and other characters will draw Saturday morning audiences, and students and adults alike have rushed video stores in recent months to rent and buy the newly released, six-volume Rocky and Bullwinkle collection.

"It's been like a one-two punch," says David McDonnell, editor of Comics Scene magazine. "You have Roger Rabbit come out — a technical masterpiece — then The Little Mermaid and Ducktails and The Simpsons on TV. All of this creates more interest."

That interest cuts across all age groups.

"We are now creating these films that don't date," says Max Howard, head of Disney's animation division in Florida. "Now there is not a generation around that hasn't grown up with animation."

Of the old animation — Looney Tunes, Bullwinkle, The Grinch and Disney classics like Fantasia — the reason for interest is primarily twofold.

First, "kids grow up with them," says pop culture professor Jack Nachbar at Bowling Green State University in Ohio.

Second, "If you look especially at Warner Brothers, what is recognized is classic humor, something like the restoration of comedy on the stage," Nachbar says.

McDonnell agrees. "Watching it now, I'm amazed at all the incredible references to then-current events and the subtle sexual innuendos."

Many of the Warner Brothers cartoons also emphasize societal messages, says Jay Wright, curator of the touring museum exhibit "That's All Folks!"

This is a parcel of our way of looking at things," he says. "Like Wile E. Coyote and the Road Runner. The message is that no matter how hard you try, you don't always win.

One near-exception to that rule, however, is Disney. Pop culture experts say the company single-handedly revived the industry with the release of Who Framed Roger Rabbit in 1988.

Disney followed Roger Rabbit with the Academy-Award winning The Little Mermaid and has high hopes for its Nov. 22 release of Beauty and the Beast. The only moderate Disney success was The Rescuers Down Under, which the company hopes will draw more attention now that it has been released on video.

Currently, select theaters around the country are still showing Fantasia, unarguably the animated classic of them all.

"I never met a college student who didn't get into Fantasia," says Dan Vebber, a senior studying art at the University of Wisconsin at Madison. "With The Little Mermaid, it's a sappy children's story, but I know a lot of women who love it. I think the guys do, too, they're just afraid to admit it."

Disney's success with The Little Mermaid helped reinforce the validity of its return to the goals of Walt Disney himself — to release one new animated film every year.

After Beauty & the Beast, Aladdin is scheduled to follow.

The new films show new character depth and attempt to prove that the simple, feel-good Disney storylines aren't just for kids.

"In Beauty & the Beast we tried to create a heroine in Belle, someone looking for life and education," Howard says. "In the past we've been accused of not giving our women characters depth."

Animator Glen Keane agrees. Keane was one of the animators who drew Ariel in The Little Mermaid and is mastermind behind the Beast in the newest Disney film.

"The challenge is to build a character, to make sure he or she is real. The older guys who did Pinocchio and Snow White wouldn've done The Little Mermaid much differently than we did," Keane says.

"We wouldn't have chosen to draw those attitudes, that heroines were supposed to be beautiful all the time," he adds. "We took a realistic approach, not the sugary-coated princess approach."

The studio also made the musical score a much greater part of the storyline in The Little Mermaid.

"Songs are an integral part of the story," Howard says. "That's what musicals and opera are — the music was key to it coming alive."

Disney has enlisted the talents of Howard Ashman and Alan Menken for Beauty & the Beast." The two won an Oscar for their work on The Little Mermaid."

Artistically, Keane credits much of the newfound Disney sophistication and its attraction to a college audience to the ages of the animators — 23 to 35 on average.

"Our interests should really reflect the interests of people our own age anyway," he says.

Keane says another drawing point (no pun intended) is that the animated characters are real. "I'm really an actor," he says. "I have to be able to draw that character and be that character. It's a real disciplined art form."

Keane, whose next project is to draw the male lead in Aladdin, expresses a great desire to continue the sophistication these artists have found.

"I don't know that we've ever done a male lead before," he says. "Generally, our men have been wimpy. But I want this guy to be real. I'd like the women in the audience to leave saying, 'Wow! I'd like to date him.'"

Photo Courtesy of The Walt Disney Company

This is a tender scene from Walt Disney's adaptation of a classic fairy tale.

Picnic to Run Next Week

By ANN RENEE HEIM
Assistant Features Editor

The Longwood Players' follow up to Macbeth, Picnic, by William Inge will open on Wednesday, November 20, and run through Saturday, November 23, curtain is at 8 p.m.

Directed by Pamela Arkin, Picnic relays the conflicts of growing up, going out, boyfriends, girlfriends, sisters, mothers, and the relationships within those relationships.

Laura Sergeant, a junior, makes her mainstage debut as Madge, an eighteen year old beauty torn between what she wants and what she should want as a teenager growing up in Kansas during the 1950's.

Alan, Madge's college boyfriend, is played by senior David Nelson Richards who was last seen as Banquo in Macbeth. A college boy with a wealthy lifestyle, Alan draws Madge in and unknowingly pushes her away at the same time.

In reflecting on his character, Richards said, "Alan is the complete innocent, the innocent bystander, he is the victim."

When Alan's one-time college friend Hal, portrayed by junior Walter Alford, comes to town, their friendship is rekindled, but on account of a flaw in Hal's character, their renewed friendship does not last.

Alford's last appearance on Jarman's stage was as Orestes in Euripides' Electra.

Other members of the cast include: sophomore Jessica Bilones, sophomore Cindy Callahan, freshman Terri Cooper, senior Kim Graves, senior Michelle Neubecker, sophomore Wendy Ragland, junior Joseph Servis, and freshman J. J. Wiese.

Picnic offers insight to anyone who has ever been involved in any type of serious relationship and exemplifies the desires of what we as people want and what our society demands of us.

Students will be admitted free with a student identification, faculty and staff tickets are priced at $3 and general admission tickets will cost $5.

Trick or Treaters Fill the High Rises

By KIM GILBERT
Features Staff

On Halloween night, the highrises were filled with many unfamiliar faces; there were 35 to 40 children dressed in costumes ready to trick-or-treat. Traditionally the Frazer and Curry buildings decorate some of their halls and invite children from the community to visit.

When the children arrived, a social was held for them in Curry Room 3. The children were then split into groups of five or six and trick-or-treated through the decorated halls.

Aaron Stanley, the Resident Education Coordinator for Curry said, "[The Halloween program for the children] provides a safe environment for children to trick-or-treat. The ages of the children are considered when the halls are decorated. The program contributes to making a stronger community and it also provides something positive for the young adults involved in organizing it to do for Halloween."

This program began approximately five years ago. The Frazer Hall Council came up with the idea of decorating the halls and inviting children to trick-or-treat there. The Curry Hall Council wanted to get their dorm involved, so they began holding the socials. Now, both dorms decorate and participation is up to the individual halls. Candy is given out to the children, but it must be factory wrapped for safety.

There has been many changes over the years concerning the Halloween event. In the past, there was no age limit on the children, but kids as old as 14 showed up. Now, the age limit is 10, and parents must accompany their children. Many of them were children of faculty and staff.

At 7 p.m. the decorated halls were judged in Curry. The sixth floor won first place, third floor won second place, and ninth floor won third place.

Many parents felt that their children were much safer coming to the campus to spend their Halloween night than going door-to-door. They hope that this annual event will continue.

STUDENTS GIVEN THE CHANCE TO BE HEARD!

All members of the Longwood College student body are invited to attend the next SGA meeting on Monday, November 18 at 6:00pm in Conference Room 1 of the Student Union. Students will be given the opportunity to present their problems, ideas, and comments to Phyllis Mable (VP Student Affairs), David Rettig (Director of Housing), and Melvin Moore (Director of the Physical Plant). Everyone should take advantage of this opportunity to air their concerns!

Farmville Profile:

Domino's Pizza

By KIM BRANDYBERRY
Features Staff

Domino's pizza anyone? No problem. Our Farmville franchise is here and ready to deliver to you in 30 minutes or less.

Have you ever heard of pizza being free if it is not delivered in 30 minutes or less? Well, there is a possibility of that happening during lunch hours in Farmville. This will hopefully work as an incentive for people to order. As of now, if your pizza is not delivered within 30 minutes, you get $3 off the regular price.

Domino's coupons everywhere! How long will they last? How long will they last? Bob Burke, manager of Farmville Domino's, says that there are still plenty to distribute. So if you do not have any or if you have used yours up, more are on the way soon. "They all expire at the end of the year, so I'll be hitting you again real soon," says Burke.

Business is still booming. Domino's has had a steady sale increase for the past three years. In fact, they broke records Halloween night. Mr. Burke assures us that "the recession has had no effect."

Competition is no problem for this pizza company. When asked, Burke explained that, "they don't have any competition because no one else delivers, with the exception of a small situation up the street." He also added that "there's a competition for those dollars."

Mr. Burke is hoping to have daily specials for the first two weeks of December, during exams. He sees what students like most and goes with that. The news of this will be distributed around campus when the time comes.

When can you call for pizza? Almost anytime you would like it. Sunday-Wednesday until 1 a.m., Thursday-Saturday until 2 p.m. Beginning December 1 and lasting until exams end you can order pizza up to 3 a.m.

Domino's is going well and ready to serve the students. The whole complexion of the business changes when we are here. Burke says that "It's the town that makes the business a business, but it is the college that makes this business fun."

Jobs Concern Graduates

By AMY BIRINDELLI
Staff Writer

Are you concerned about finding a good job after graduation?

Here are some insights given by employers who took part in the Michigan State University Recruiting Trends Survey.

The most important qualities to have are dependability, honesty and integrity, the ability to get things done, the desire to accept responsibility, and intelligence.

On a resume, the employers are looking for specific career objectives. Employers want people with the will to excel and desire for advancement. These things should all be expressed in ...ie resume.

Fifty-eight percent of the employers said that grade point average was an indicator of job performance. The more important indicators are things like prior work experiences, team player skills, and academic load for each semester.

Employers do not want people that want immediate rewards for little work. These kinds of people have too much of a concern for money and not enough of a work ethic.

To keep a job, employers say it is important to follow dress codes and take pride in your work. A positive attitude and good attendance and performance records are also important.

Literary Magazine Back in Business

By STACEY L. MORGAN
Features Staff

The Gyre, Longwood College's literary magazine, is back in business after a year out of publication due to a lack of staff.

Each spring the Gyre is involved in a literary week. The Gyre staff hopes to have the Gyre published close to literary week.

When asked what she hoped to do with the Gyre this year, Executive Editor Andrea Sawyer, said, "I would like to see this magazine leave a mark on this campus. I would really like to see a good magazine come out. I don't want a boring magazine."

Other members of the Gyre staff expressed wishes that this year's Gyre make the magazine more high profiled on campus and wishes to make this the best Gyre to date.

The Gyre and Lambda Iota Tau, the English and Modern Languages Honor Fraternity, are cosponsoring a Poetry Reading and Forum in the Gold Room of Lankford on Tuesday, November 19 at 7:30 p.m.

This program will begin with readings by Gyre contributors. These readings will be followed by an open forum at which time anyone who wishes to share their own poetry may read.

Anyone interested in contributing their work to the Gyre for consideration should send their poetry (25 lines or less), short fiction, and flat art to the Gyre, Box 925. The deadline for contributions is December 1.

Sociology/Anthropology club officers, from left.: Lara Wiatrowski, Crissie Hayes, Julie Flach, and Michele Heny.

Club Realizes Success

By MICHELE D. HENY
Staff Writer

"The club has had tremendous success this year with its tripled membership," said President of the Sociology/Anthropology Club, Julie Flach.

This year is the first that the club has had its own T-shirt. The navy blue, "We Dig People" T-shirts are popular among the club members, as well as other students, faculty, and alumnae of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology. These shirts are available for $10 in the Sociology/Anthropology Department office.

The club participated in Oktoberfest this fall selling popcorn and lemonade.

A field trip to Nelson County was arranged by Dr. Jordan and the club's officers for excavation at Monahassanough. There were twenty-eight participants that contributed in the unearthing of artifacts at this archeological site.

A representative of Habitat for Humanity came to a club meeting to explain their organizational goals for the community. Members of the club volunteered to help in constructing homes for needy families in Farmville.

Students and faculty of the club gathered for Dr. Brokenleg's lecture at Hampden-Sydney College and Dr. Burger's lecture on campus.

The club is organizing a presentation of scholarly papers by students of all majors. They also have social events planned for the spring semester such as a tubing trip on the James River.

Dr. Lee Bidwell is the advisor of the Sociology/Anthropology Club, and the current officers are: Julie Flach, President; Michele Heny, Vice-President; Crissie Hayes, Secretary; and Lara Wiatrowski, Treasurer.

Election of new officers for the 1991 school year will be at the next business meeting. Membership is open to students of all majors.

Comedian to Appear

By LAURIE MYERS
Features Staff

On November 14, the Student Union Board will present comedian Anthony Clark in the Gold Room at 9 p.m. It has been said that his impressions of friends, relatives, and people we all know create a comical world that closely reflects our own.

As a comedian, Clark has won numerous awards on the collegiate comedy circuits. He has performed at various colleges across the United States, including Longwood, where he performed in April. Nominated last year for National Comedy Entertainer of the year, it is probable that Clark will repeat the nomination again.

Aside from colleges, Anthony Clark has performed frequently in clubs and on televisions. You may have seen him on MTV's "One Half Hour Comedy Hour," or A&E's "Eventing At The Improv." For club goers, he has been seen at Carolines's, Laff Stop, and Catch A Rising Star, to name a few.

Recently, Clark has made a move towards his first love, acting. In 1990, he performed in the Tony Award winning play, The Grapes of Wrath, on Boradway. He can also be seen in the newly released Warner Brothers' film, Dogfight, co-starring with River Phoenix and Lili Taylor.

A graduate of Emerson College in Boston, Anthony Clark has made quite a name for himself in a short amount of time. According to Clark's publicity, "critics have tabbed Clark as a rising star; who is sure to make it big." If you want to be guaranteed a good laugh, be sure to catch his show Thursday night.

Phi Kappa Phi Offers Graduate Fellowships

The Longwood College chapter of Phi Kappa Phi National Honor Society is inviting applications from outstanding senior students for competitive fellowships worth up to $7,000 for first-year graduate or professional study. Fifty (50) of these prestigious fellowships will be awarded nationwide. Thirty (30) additional honorable mention awards of $500 will be made.

The criteria used in the selection process include scholastic achievement, high standardized test scores (if applicable), honors and enrichment programs, leadership and participation in university and community activities, expression of study plans and career goals, plus evaluations by faculty. Graduating seniors with superior academic and leadership records should contact the Phi Kappa Phi representative, Mrs. Melina Fowlkes, Hiner 205A, telephone 235-2379, for application forms and additional information.

Phi Kappa Phi, which was founded in 1897, has more than 250 chapters at universities and colleges throughout the nation. It is the only major national scholastic society which recognizes academic excellence in all disciplines. The Fellowship Program was established in 1932 and since then has given more than 1,200 fellowship awards and 400 honorable mention awards.

Board of Visitors Meet

(Continued from Page 1)

report any infractions by anyone on campus.

The College's 1990-91 financial statements were presented and approved. These reports were presented to the State Comptroller on November 1 for further review. The final statement will be distributed at the next Board meeting.

The tuition and fees for Summer School 1992 were approved. The rates are based on the estimated operating cost of the summer school program. These costs include: salaries, materials, and operation.

The undergraduate tuition rate will remain constant at $75 per credit hour for in-state students and $225 for out-of-state students. The registration fee will be $5, and the auxiliary services fee will be $8 per credit hour. The graduate tuition rate for Virginia students will increase from $85 to $96 per credit hour, and the out-of-state tuition fee will remain at $235. The $110 room and board rate for summer school students will increase $12. These increases have been made to support the growth of the graduate program at Longwood.

The Athletic Mission Statement that was approved by the College Council early in October was also approved by the Board of Visitors. The purpose of this statement is to expand and clarify Longwood's current articulation of the role athletics is expected to play in furthering the broader College mission. This statement follows the National Collegiate Athletic Association's principles.

Dr. Elizabeth Etheridge was awarded the "Board of Visitors Distinguished Professor of History." She is the fourth member to receive this title in Longwood's History. Among the other three are: Dr. Rosemary Sprague (English), Dr. Elizabeth Burger Jackson (Natural Sciences), and Dr. Charles H. Patterson (Education). The Board also approved the awarding of an honorary doctorate to The Honorable Howard P. Anderson. He has been recognized for his many contributions to the Commonwealth of Virginia during his 34 years of public service. He has served Longwood faithfully and has donated $16 million dollars to its cause. The award will be presented to him at the December commencement ceremonies.

President Dorrill discussed the financial and legislative status of Longwood in 1992. He agreed that the state has not started to recover from the recession. He commented that "Agency heads have been instructed to keep budget requests quite low." This may cause increases in tuition and fees in order to keep money available for higher educational budgets. Dr. Dorrill strongly disagrees with this proposal. He feels that students have suffered enough from the country's economic status. He feels that the students are the path to the future and that by increasing the tuition rates, they have little chance in being able to afford their education and enhancing their life. He plans to bring his feelings to the next meeting of the General Assembly.

The Council of Presidents and Dr. Dorrill are currently arranging a campaign to help the public express their feelings about the importance of higher education.

The Board has reviewed and are currently considering the financial reports for the spring semester of 1991-92. The Chairman of the Board's Finance Committee Mr. W.T. Thompson, III, says, "We are in good financial shape and are fortunate in considering the circumstances that exist throughout the country."

The Chairman of the Facilities and Services Committee, Linda Sydnor talked about the renovation and improvement projects that are going on or being planned for the campus. Mr. Rick Hurley, the Business and Legislative Affairs Vice-President was commended by her for his outstanding job in the organization of these projects. Because of the current renovations of Grainger, Student Housing, and the fire lane at Curry and Frazer, she stated, "It is overwhelming that so much can go on all at once." The renovation of Lancaster for faculty, student services and the building of a new education department are hoped for in the future, but not yet approved. Dr. Dorrill said, "Wynne is just too far away from the academic facilities on campus. Either we need to have it renovated somehow, or we need to move the Educational department closer to the rest of the campus." An architect claimed that the building would be better suited for athletic facilities than for what it is being used for now.

Longwood was commended for having a well-prepared Assessment Report of student outcomes for student and academic programs by the State Council of Higher Education according to Dr. Helen Stiff of the Academic and Student Affairs Committee. It has been presented as one of the best in Virginia because of its clarity, organization, substance, and description of curricular changes.

This report will be used to plant the continuing development of curriculum and instruction and to guide State Council evaluations of institutional initiative. All of the college's assessment activities also include academic programs unlike other colleges and universities.

The assessment was worked on by faculty and administration members including Dr. Edward Smith, Chairman of the Assessment Steering Committee. The main concern expressed about the report was that of graduating seniors' G.P.A.'s and what they have gained through their education at Longwood.

A wish list of Longwood's departments was presented to the Board by Mr. Louis M. Markwith, Vice-President for Institutional Advancement. He said, "The wish list provides a menu of different things that will strengthen the college and its different departments. The contributions on the list can be presented as money for the items or be the actual items themselves."

All contributions are recognized by the President's Report and the Jarman Society. Most of the money donations go into the auxiliary reserve fund. The money remains on reserve until the Board of Visitors authorizes its release for maintenance and repairs. These funds and donations are the means by which Longwood can afford its constant renovations.

The wish list was compiled in December of 1990 through the work of The Vice-President of Academic Affairs, Dr. Donald Stuart and the Deans. They are currently working on a new list that will be distributed to the Longwood College Foundation.

Many of the requests on the faculty wish list have been met during the past year, according to Ms. Norma Joyner, who represented the Longwood Foundation Board. One of their hopes for the future is to increase the amount of fundraising and to double the size of the Jarman Society.

Mr. Markwith said, "We've got to have means for fundraising, because the money cannot come out of taxes alone. There is just not enough money there to support everything that needs to be done for the college."

Among items on the wish list are computers, typewriters, laser printers, and various other materials.

Before the meeting was called into executive session, the final draft of the strategic plan by the college council was presented to the Board. SGA President Shanon Gardner said, "The students are very pleased with the future plans and changes that may take place. So far there are no complaints." Dr. Dorrill also expressed his acceptance of the strategic plan. The draft is to be reviewed by the Board and is scheduled for final approval in February of 1992.

NOTICES

Longwood College's Jazz Ensemble will give a concert on Tuesday evening, Nov. 12, at 8 o'clock in Wygal Recital Hall.

The Ensemble has 17 members, plus vocalist Lea Anne Rickard. A junior from Virginia Beach, Ms. Rickard is working toward the Bachelor of Fine Arts degree with a major in theatre education. She also performs in the Lancer Edition Show Choir and presently serves as president of that group.

Dr. Gordon Ring directs the Jazz Ensemble. Their program Tuesday evening will feature standards by Duke Ellington and Count Basie and several contemporary jazz pieces. Ms. Rickard will sing "Mind Your Love" and "A New Day for You."

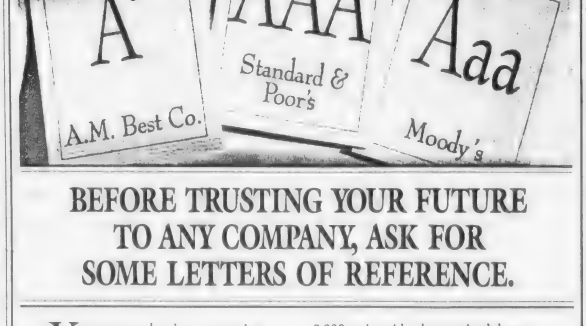
The concert is open to the public free of charge.

Attention! The Longwood College Escort Service is now in operation! Be safe, call campus police for your student escort!

COMING ATTRACTION:

Wednesday, Nov. 20 – Saturday, Nov. 23 8:00 p.m. PICNIC by William Inge.

Presented by the Longwood Players and directed by Pamela Arkin. Watch for your favorite actors and actresses:



Walter Alford, Jessica Billones, Cindy Callahan, Terri Cooper, Kim Graves, Michelle Neubeckes, Wendy Ragland, David Richards, Laura Sergeant, Joseph Servis, J.J. Weise.

FOR SALE

SCUBA EQUIPMENT FOR SALE

Brand new B.C., weight belt with weights, men's. Hardly been used. For all - $150 firm!

For info contact Keith Johnson at 223-4285 or leave message. Will meet with you if necessary.

BEFORE TRUSTING YOUR FUTURE TO ANY COMPANY, ASK FOR SOME LETTERS OF REFERENCE.

You put more than just your savings into a retirement company. You put in your trust and hopes for the future, too. So before you choose one, ask some questions. How stable is the company? How solid are its investments? How sound is its overall financial health?

A good place to start looking for answers is in the ratings of independent analysts. Three companies, all widely recognized resources for finding out how strong a financial services company really is, gave TIAA their top grade.

IN THE FINAL ANALYSIS, TIAA IS LETTER-PERFECT.

TIAA received A+ from A.M. Best Co., AAA from Standard & Poor's and Aaa from Moody's Investors Service. These ratings reflect TIAA's reliable claims-paying ability, exceptional financial strength, superior investment performance, and low expenses. With its guaranteed rate of return and opportunity for dividends, TIAA is one of less than ten companies, out of 2,200 nationwide, that received these highest marks.

CREF. FOUR MORE LETTERS EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW.

For further growth potential and diversification, there's the CREF variable annuity with four different investment accounts to give you the flexibility you want as you save for the future.

Together, TIAA and CREF form the nation's largest private retirement system, with over $95 billion in assets and more than 70 years of experience serving the education community. For over one million people nationwide, the only letters to remember are TIAA-CREF.

SEND NOW FOR A FREE RETIREMENT INVESTMENT KIT, including a Special Report on TIAA investments. Mail this coupon to: TIAA-CREF, Dept. QC, 730 Third Avenue, New York, NY 10017. Or call 1-800-842-2733, Ext. 8016.

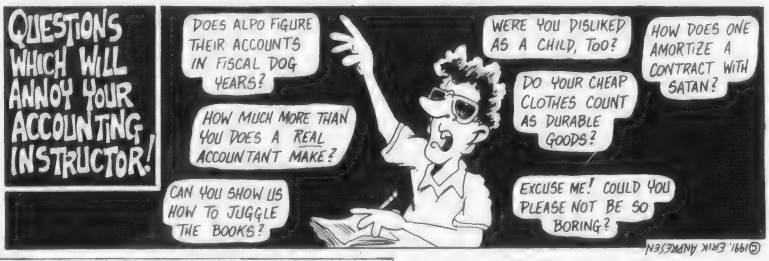
Name (Please print)
Address
City State Zip Code
Institutional Affiliation
Position Phone ( )
TIAA-CREF Participant? If yes, Social Security #

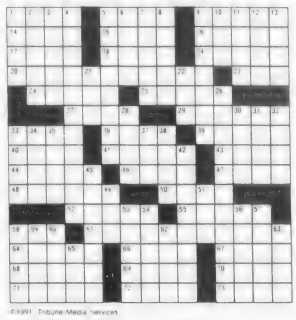
TIAA CREF Ensuring the future for those who shape it.™



© 1991 Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association-College Retirement Equities Fund.

CN

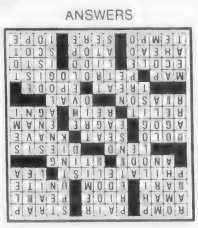
COMICS



NO EXIT by Erik Andresen

THE Crossword

By June J. Borll



ACROSS
1 Cavort
5 Duo
9 Leash
14 Chin- nurse
15 Take the bus
16 Oyster find
17 Agra dress
18 Esau's land
19 Join
20 Stamp collector
23 Meadow
24 Battery part
25 Prick
27 Give temporarily
29 Double dagger
33 Game on horseback
36 Chair
39 Rogue
40 Eagerly excited
41 Tidal bore
43 Hindu land grant
44 Ignited anew
46 Control
47 Fire deity
48 Motive
50 Ellipse
52 Regale
55 Lyric poem
58 Mercenorial item
61 Rock specialist
64 Fr. school
66 It. resort
67 Ratio words
68 Leading
69 Sleep like —
70 Glasgow native
71 Rhythm
72 Withered
73 Drink to

DOWN
1 Grate
2 Slouan
3 Cal. county
4 Linguistics specialist
5 Shun
6 Assistant
7 False gods
8 Send payment
9 Russ. satellite
10 Decade
11 Shore bird
12 Comedian Johnson
13 Request
21 Fruit drink
22 A Caesar
26 Family tree specialist
28 Precious
30 Caroled
31 Russ. name
32 Trailer
33 Young salmon
34 Curved molding
35 Ms Falana
37 Grow old
38 Musical group
42 Letter wrapper
45 Naval missile
49 Maiden name word
51 GI address
53 Map book
54 Hackneyed
56 Kind of dance
57 Bar legally
59 Pain
60 Sonnet
62 Aroma
63 Carry
65 Once around the track

©1991 Tribune Media Services

ANSWERS

PERSONALS

Mary Kaye and Donna are the coolest advisors. Oh yeah, Gut too.

Jenny and Christina for best Big Sis/Lil sis combo '92. NOT!

Christina – Your godmother loves you.

Leona – I'm sorry your paddle looks so ugly. (Is it flourescent green or black? I can't tell)

Sorry for all the personals but we love you guys

Novella – Is Part III on the way? Let's hope so because I'm never happier than when I'm with you. The pinky gesture awaits you... Eugene

ΣΣΣ is #1.

Congrats to the ΣΣΣ volleyball team for the intramural championships!

Robin H. for Snow Queen.

Longwood – We are watching. Kick the bucket over. Fraternity

BUDDY PUTTY – Listen to music manipulators Todd and Tommy every Sunday from midnight - 2 a.m. on WLCX 90.1 FM. Call (395) 2475 and make a request or be on the air. Fun, exciting and well worth listening to.

Erin –You're one special person! "B"

Janice & Vicky, you both belong to the best family.

Leona, Leona, Leona!

That was a Beckey move!

To all the ΣΣΣ pledges your secret Σ's love you. Not much longer until you find out who we are.

AMA applications are out and about – Get yours soon before they run out.

Brenda – We'll miss you when you're gone. Σ Love and ours the ΣΣΣ Sisters and pledges.

Jen – We are here for you if you have any questions. We understand if you're confused. Love your "senority " sisters!

My honey – You are the best and close to my heart. Here's to a lifetime together! Love, your Sweet

All Staffers, You've been doing a great job! Be on the lookout for a surprize soon... Exec. Ed.

Marie for elf!

Ginny and Tara for Reindeer – have a year's experience!

Bup-Bup!

Ain't got time!

Jenny dum-dum - Dudley

Ginny wanna get that tray for me?

Whitney – chicken duplins are on the way.

ΣΣΣ loves their seniors and we'll miss you guys.

Only one word – SHRIEKA!!!

ΣΣΣ Pledges – Keep up the good work. Soon you will know what the bond of sisterhood really means.

ΣΣΣ loves our Sweetheart CHRIS PARKS!!

Sherry – Just wanted you to know that you are a great Delta Zeta pledge and I can't wait to call you my sister! In DZ love - Your rose sister

Marie is cool!

Tara is cool!

The Cool Girls say Hi to all the ΣΣΣ's.

To the ΣΣΣ pledges: Good luck during Violet Week! Initiation is just around the corner. We love you all!

Kim Rudd – Your Big Sis loves you!

Robin is a loser – love your roomie

SHOULD MARIJUANA BE LEGALIZED? – Find out some good reasons why it should. Write to: H.E.M.P. 5632 Van Nuys Boulevard, Suite 210, Van Nuys, CA 94101

Longwood United for Racial Equality invites you to an "Evening at the movies" featuring "Do the Right Thing", 7 p.m. in the Lancer Cafe on November 13 and 16. Free refreshments will be served. Be there!

To all you awesome AΣA pledges! You are the best around. We love you. AΣA sisters.

ΣΣΣ loves their adopted grandma Tootsie!

ΣΣΣ would like to announce their open house is on Nov. 20 at 9. All nongreek women are invited. Freshmen are welcome.

Student Organization List

Academic

ORGANIZATION	POSITION	1st NAME	LAST NAME	ADDRESS
Accounting Club	President	Tina	Haight	Box 0458
American Marketing Assoc.	President	Kellie	Rutherford	Box 0902
Artworks, Inc.	President	Bonnie	Seers	Box 1019
Biology Club	President	Steve	Mobley	Box 0703
Chemistry Club	President	Ruth	Glover	Chemistry Dept.
Coun. for Exceptional Ch.	President	Julie	Rightmeyer	500B Buffalo St.
Delta Sigma Pi	President	Gary	Pierce	Route 2 Box 229
Fed. of St. Soc. Workers	President	Angela	Jones	Box 0574
Finance Club	President	Roger	Hanna Jr.	Box 0475
Music Ed. Nat. Conf.	President	Chris	Kelly	119 S. Bridge St.
NSSLHA	President	Serena	Danraj	Box 0263
P.E. Majors Club	President	Ramona	Billard	Box 0017
Phi Beta Lambda	President	Willie	Williams	703 Meadow Ct.
Phi Mu Alpha	President	Chris	Kelly	119 S. Bridge St.
Psychology Club	President	Todd	Haley	507 Buffalo St. 2A
Soc. for Adv. of Management	President	Cindy	Peay	Box 0895
Sociology / Anthro. Club	President	Julie	Pilgrim
Stud. Ath. Trainers Ass.	President	Tammy	Towsey	Box 1214
Student Education Assoc.	President	Kim	Rug	Box 1096

Academic Honorary

ORGANIZATION	POSITION	1st NAME	LAST NAME	ADDRESS
Alpha Psi Omega	President	David	Richards	Box 0980
Beta Beta Beta	President	Tracey	Lowery	Box 0668
Delta Phi Alpha	President	Phillippe	Emwein	Box 0493
Delta Psi Kappa	President	Tana	Philbrick	203 A Randolph St.
Kappa Delta Pi	President	Kim	Townsend	Box 1212
Kappa Pi	President	Anne	Swartchick	Box 1245
Psi Chi	President	Todd	Haley	507 Buffalo Apt.2A
Sigma Alpha Iota	President	Kim	Graves	Box 0439

Arts and Entertainment

ORGANIZATION	POSITION	1st NAME	LAST NAME	ADDRESS
Bard's Outlaws, The	Club Rep	David	Richards	Box 0980
Camerata Singers	President	Sandy	Fowler	Rt. 3 Box 243
Concert Choir	President	Susan	Curry	Box 0199
Lancer Edition	President	Lea Anne	Rickard	Box 0883
Longwood Dance Company	President	Betsy	Gee	Box 0414
Longwood Players	President	Joe	Servis	Box 1220
Student Union Board	President	Sarah	Rafetto	Box 0943
WLCX Radio Station	Gen. Manager	Nicole	Elliot	419 2nd St.

Civility

ORGANIZATION	POSITION	1st NAME	LAST NAME	ADDRESS
Assoc. of Black Students	President	Doncella	Hampton	Box 0494
LURE	Co-Chair	Lisa	Felton	Box 0438
LURE	Co-Chair	Tina	Gewerth	Box 0425

Community

ORGANIZATION	POSITION	1st NAME	LAST NAME	ADDRESS
Alpha Phi Omega	President	Dave	Gamache	Box 0362
Alternative, The	Chairperson	Emily	Pritchard	Box 1005
Earth Club	President	Norma	Pfeiffer	Box 0634
Geist	President	Tammy	Estes	Box 0374
Longwood Ambassadors	President	Bobbi	Wallace	Box1244
Peer Helpers	Coordinator	Bill	Wilson	Box 1299
REACH	President	Dana	Council	Box 0180
SOAR	Chair	Kathleen	Gray	Box 0594

Governance

ORGANIZATION	POSITION	1st NAME	LAST NAME	ADDRESS
Commuter Student Assoc.	Charperson	Erin	McCay	304 Beech St., A
Freshman Class	President	Meredith	Swiney	Box 1194
Honor Board	Chair	Shawn	Smith	Box 1057
Judicial Board	Chair	Mark	Tueting	Box 1326
Junior Class	President	Todd	Deaver	Box 0297
Senior Class	President	Brad	Pomp	Box 0893
SGA	President	Shannon	Gardner	Box 0390
Sophmore Class	President	Susan	Garst	Box 0566

Greek Life

ORGANIZATION	POSITION	1st NAME	LAST NAME	ADDRESS
Alpha Chi Rho	President	Neil	Haxel	Box 0459
Alpha Delta Pi	President	Susan	Frost	Box 0379
Alpha Gamma Delta	President	Annette	DeJarnette	Box 0390
Alpha Kappa Alpha	President	Tracie	Sumner	Box 1097
Alpha Phi Alpha	President	Mark	Smitz
Alpha Sigma Alpha	President	Sandy	Alford	Box 0008
Alpha Sigma Phi	President	Sam	Kinsley	Box 0667
Alpha Sigma Tau	President	Kathy	McMahon	Box 0733
Delta Sigma Theta	President	Melissa	Jones	Box 0504
Delta Zeta	President	Beth	Hedrick	Box 0503
Interfraternity Council	President	Bobby	Williams	110 Appomatox St.
Iota Phi Lambda	President	Alethea	Perkins	Box 0817
Kappa Delta	President	Gina	Clark	Box 0198
Order of Omega	President	Julie	Tate	Box 1075
Panhellenic Council	President	Michelle	Jackson	Box 0577
Pi Kappa Phi	President	Brad	Pomp	Box 0893
Sigma Kappa	President	Andrea	Mesick	Box 0751
Sigma Phi Epsilon	President	Hunter	Reynolds	Box 0954
Sigma Sigma Sigma	President	Nan	Nichols	Box 0831
Tau Kappa Epsilon	President	Bill	Flannagan	Box 0343
Zeta Tau Alpha	President	Laura	Wiatrowske	Box 1121

Publications

ORGANIZATION	POSITION	1st NAME	LAST NAME	ADDRESS
Gyre	Editor	Andrea	Sawyer	Box 0925
NOTONLYNEWS	Editor In Chief	Joann	Ware	Box 1352
Rotunda, The	Exec. Editor	Brad	Owen	Box 1133
Virginian, The	Editor	Angela	Boyd	Box 0105

Recreation

ORGANIZATION	POSITION	1st NAME	LAST NAME	ADDRESS
Catalinas	Captain	Sara	Hoback	Box 0577
Intramurals & Campus Rec	President	Kevin	Chalmers	Box 0176
Lady Soccer	President	Anothip	Phimmasone	Box 0916
Longwood Men's Rugby Club	President	Latzi	Baint	Box 1160
Longwood Stingrays	President	Daniel	Ellis	Box 0292

Religion

ORGANIZATION	POSITION	1st NAME	LAST NAME	ADDRESS
Baptist Student Union	President	Trent	Davis	Box 0231
Canterbury Episcopal Assn	President	Betsy	Butler	Box 0139
Chi Alpha	President	Elizabeth	Murarie	111 Appomattox St.
InterReligious Council	President	John	Mcnulis	Box 0881
Wesley Foundation	President	Scott	Barber	Box 0047

Residence Life

ORGANIZATION	POSITION	1st NAME	LAST NAME	ADDRESS
Colonades Hall Council	President	James	Mahoney	Box 0721
Cox Hall Council	President	Lou	Thompson	Box 1279
Cunningham Hall Council	President	Rhonda	Freeman	Box 0606
Curry Hall Council	President	Becky	Meiers	Box 0742
Frazer Hall Council	President	Anthony	Ferrara, Jr.	Box 0504
Residence Hall Association	President	Scott	Shader	Box 1293
Wheeler Hall Council	President	Mary	Campbell	Box 0140

Campus Calendar

Information on events should be submitted to the Student Union Office in Lankford by the Friday preceding the appropriate issue of the paper.

Wednesday November 13

Rotunda Staff Meeting: Interested in working - come join us. 6:00 pm Lankford Conf. Rm. 3

Workshop: Stress Management. 7:00pm Learning Center Conference Room.

Wrestling: Newport News Apprentice, 7:00pm Lancer Hall

Thursday November 14

Challenge Job Fair

Workshop: Exam Management. 1:00pm Learning Center Conference Room

S-UN Board Meeting. 1:30pm Lankford Conference Room II

Comedy: by Anthony Clark, 9:00 pm Gold Room

Intramurals: Weekend 3-on-3 Basketball EB due before meeting.

SGA Runoff Elections.

Friday November 15

Movies: The Silence of the Lambs 9:00 pm Gold Room

Longwood Leadership Conference Weekend Starts

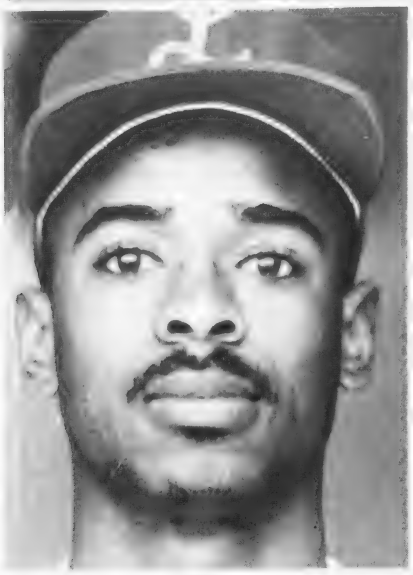
Saturday November 16

Gospel: The Cultural Unification Committee of S-UN is sponsoring "A Gospel Sing-out" featuring the Mighty Voices of Joy from Richmond, Va., The Spiritual Unlimited and the Virginia State University Choir. Reception will follow the program in the R/W/G rooms. 2pm Gold Room.

Intramurals: Weekend 3-on-3 Basketball -M/W.

Sunday November 17

Monday November 18



Movies: The Silence of the Lambs 9:00 pm Gold Room

Tuesday November 19

Summer Job Search: Start Now! 1:00pm Career Library, CPPC

SGA Inauguration Dinner: The Virginia Room.

Travelogue: "Rediscovering Mozart" 7:30pm Wygal

MIKE TUCKER

Tucker Impressive in Olympic Trials

Longwood junior shortstop Mike Tucker hit his way into consideration for the U.S. Olympic Baseball team last week.

"He had an outstanding trials," said Olympic Baseball Coach Ron Fraser. "He's among the players being considered for an invitation to our spring trials in June. He's a fine young man and he swings the bat."

Tucker hit .438, going 7-16 with a homer, a pair of triples, seven RBI and several stolen bases at the USA Baseball Team National Trials in Homestead, Fla. One of 88 players who attended the trials, Tucker and the others are hoping to win spots on the first U.S. Olympic team which will play in the 1992 Summer Olympics in Barcelona, Spain.

Though one of only a handful of non-Division I players invited to the trials, Tucker still has a chance to make the team, according to Fraser.

"I don't buy this thing about not taking a look at Division II players," said Fraser, baseball coach at Miami. "They'll get used to playing before large crowds. We'll be playing in front of 55,000 people in Cuba next summer on our exhibition tour."

The next step for the U.S. team is the spring trials at Millington, Tenn. in June. Fraser says that a decision as to who will be invited won't be made until the end of April.

Now that he's back from Florida, Tucker can turn his attention to his studies and to getting ready for the 1992 Longwood baseball season, but he won't soon forget his week in Florida. It was a week in which he rubbed elbows with people like Tommy Lasorda and Mike Schmidt, and got the chance to play baseball at the Homestead Sports Complex, a new facility with a 6,500 seat stadium. The Cleveland Indians will soon be using the complex.

"One of the highlights for me was playing in the new stadium," said Tucker.

Another highlight was an extended conversation with Lasorda.

"Lasorda was a real nice guy. He talked to me and a couple of other players in depth about some of his experiences in coaching," Tucker recalled.

Schmidt was on hand to give batting tips to the Olympic hopefuls.

Major League scouts who attended the trials told Tucker that he represented Longwood well.

"Several scouts told me they'd be coming to take a look at me in the spring," said Tucker.

Tucker played for the East team which had only a 1-3 record in the round robin competition. He played shortstop two games and second base two games. He hit a two run homer in an 11-5 loss to the North Wednesday and he went 2-4 Saturday with a triple and two RBI as the East beat the South 5-4.

A first team Division II All-American last season, Tucker led Longwood to a 41-8 record and a final four finish in the NCAA Division II championships. A 6-2, 185-pounder, he hit .450 with a school record 15 homers and 59 RBI.

Baseball makes it debut as an official Olympic sport in Barcelona next summer with eight teams competing for the gold. The USA is the defending gold medalist, having taken the top prize at the demonstration games in Seoul, Korea in 1988.

One of the gifts Tucker received in Florida was a USA Olympic Baseball hat. The Longwood junior is hoping he gets a chance to wear it in Barcelona.

Lancer Grapplers Participate in VMI Invitational

By GREG PROUTY

The Longwood College wrestling squad opens its home schedule Wednesday at 7 p.m. against Newport News Apprentice in Lancer Hall. The Lancers are under the direction of 12th-year head coach Steve Nelson. The Longwood men participated in the VMI individual tournament this past Sunday.

In Lexington, freshmen Nate Brown 118, and Ryan Stefanko 134, had fourth-place finishes to lead Longwood. Brown finished with a 2-2 mark for the day, while Stefanko went 3-2. Also wrestling for Longwood were senior Paul Rafferty, 0-2 at 118, freshman Roy Littleton, 2-2 at 150, junior Keith Goff, 2-2 at 158, freshman Bryan Hartley, 0-2 at 158, sophomore Brette Arbogast, 0-2 at 177, freshman Anthony Dickens, 0-2 at 190, and sophomore Chad Knowles, 0-2 at heavyweight.

"Nate wrestled against some tough competition and did fairly well," commented Nelson. "Ryan was a pleasant surprise. He wrestled very well in some hard-fought matches."

There were eight teams at VMI including James Madison, Virginia, Davidson, and William and Mary. According to Nelson there were some very tough wrestlers making for a powerful tournament.

Nelson expects a tough dual matching Wednesday against Newport News Apprentice. The Lancers lineup will include Brown at 118, senior Kevin Haller 126, Stefanko 134, Littleton 150, Goff or Hartley 158, senior co-captain Kevin McSherry 167 sophomore James Mauldin 177, Arbogast 190, and either Dickens or Knowles at heavyweight. Longwood will probably forfeit at 142.

Longwood was originally scheduled to participate in the Pembroke State Tournament last Friday and Saturday, but due to a rash of preseason injuries, Nelson decided to pull out of the Pembroke tourney and take his young but healthy wrestlers to VMI instead. Three-time Virginia college Division State Champion Ted Proctor, out with an ankle sprain, is the biggest early-season casualty. The senior wrestles at 167, and it's possible he'll be back next week.

Longwood will travel to Blacksburg to wrestle Virginia Tech in a dual match Nov. 20 at 7:30.

Soccer Team Falls to VCU in Finale

Longwood closed out its soccer season with a 3-0 loss to Virginia Commonwealth last Wednesday night in Richmond. The Lancers ended the season with a 6-13 mark, the team's first losing record since the 1979 season.

VCU, which concluded the regular season with an 8-9-1 mark, got two goals from Vladislav Bezbordov and another from senior Eric Dade to defeat the Lancers. Longwood was able to get just one shot on goal all evening as the Ram collected 29 shots. Byron Edwards had the Lancer shot.

Lancer freshman goalkeeper Jay Anderson notched 18 saves and reserve Justin Tribble had three saves over the last 15 minutes.

"The majority of our team played a very nice game," said Longwood coach Stan Cieplinski.

'Youth' is the Word on Longwood's '91-'92 Wrestling Squad

The 1991-92 Longwood wrestling squad begins the season this weekend at the 14-team Pembroke State Tournament with a youthful, inexperienced team. Preseason injuries have taken their toll as well.

There are 13 newcomers, 11 of whom are freshmen. Of the seven returnees, only three have considerable experience from a year ago. Injury and illness have forced seven wrestlers to the sideline, some for a couple weeks, a few for the semester, and one for the year. It could be a long winter, but 12th-year head coach Steve Nelson remains optimistic.

"It will be a rebuilding year, but I feel good about the direction of this program" commented Nelson. "This is the most talented group of freshmen we've ever had here. It will be a learning year for them, but they all have good backgrounds and should make a good transition."

Three seniors from the nucleus for this year's squad. Captain Kevin McSherry is the defending Virginia College Division State Champion at 158 pounds. His record last year was 23-12, and stands at 33-28-1 in his career at Longwood. The NCAA Division II Southern Regional runner-up also led the team in pins a year ago. Unfortunately, McSherry's been slowed by a back strain.

Kevin Haller returns at 126, after finishing last year as the Virginia College Division State runner-up at 118. His record was 10-11-1 in 1990-91, 38-38-2 in three years as a starter. The third senior, Ted Proctor redshirted a year ago after suffering rib-cartilage damage in preseason. At 167, Proctor carries a career mark of 62-27-1. He's also won three Virginia College Division State titles. This year Proctor could wrestle some at 177 as well.

"Ted and Kevin Haller have looked very good in preseason," commented Nelson.

The other returnees include senior Paul Rafferty 118, juniors Brian Jones 150, and Keith Goss 150/158, and sophomore James Mauldin 177. Rafferty was 4-6 a year ago, 6-22 in his career. Jones will miss the entire year as he's due for reconstructive surgery on a knee he injured before practice began this fall. Goss wrestled as a freshman at Longwood but didn't attend school last year, while Mauldin was 7-15 at 150.

Now for the new guys. Brette Arbogast 177, is a sophomore who transferred to Longwood from Gannon University following a commitment to the military. He is suffering from a knee injury as well. Another sophomore, Chad Knowles heavyweight, has never wrestled before.

The other newcomers are freshmen. They include Nate Brown 118, Ricky Taylor and Keith Whitehead 126, Ryan Stefanko 134, Joe Silvus and Jamie Harris 142, David Franklin and Roy Littleton 150, Bryan Hartley 158 or 167, and Mark Helberg and Anthony Dickinson 190.

Brown, slowed by a back injury, finished fifth in the state last year in class AAA, after winning both district and regional titles. Taylor, out for the semester with a back strain, finished fourth in state class A competition. Whitehead joined the team as a late recruit.

Stefanko was a district and regional champion a year ago. Silvus, slowed by a sprained ankle, is a two-time class A state champion, while Harris won the state AA title, compiling a record of 79-1 his last two years of high school. Franklin, possibly out for the semester with mononucleosis, attended Christ Church Prep School last year, winning the prep league state title.

Littleton was a district and regional runner-up a year ago after placing sixth in the state in class AAA two years ago. Hartley finished third in state AA action last year, winning the title in 1990. Helberg, currently suffering from a separated shoulder, was third in the state last year after winning the district and placing second in the AAA regional.

Highlights of the schedule this year include the Lancer Duals Feb. 2, and the NCAA Division II Southern Regionals Feb. 23, which Longwood is also hosting.

COMING SOON...

Sell Book$ for Ca$h

BRING THEM TO

LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE

Mon., Dec. 9 Thru Fri., Dec. 13, 1991

9:00 A.M. - 5:00 P.M.

395-2084

The Fresh Alternative

COLD SUBS — HONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD

	SIX INCH	FOOT LONG
For TWICE the meat, just say "Super" ...add ...	1.00	2.00
BMT (ham, genoa salami, pepperoni, bologna)	2.99	4.29
SUBWAY CLUB (roast beef, turkey, ham)	2.99	4.49
SPICY ITALIAN (genoa salami, pepperoni)	2.79	3.89
COLD CUT COMBO (ham salami, bologna - all turkey based)	1.89	3.29
BBQ CHICKEN	3.29	4.89
TUNA	2.79	4.29
SEAFOOD & CRAB	3.49	4.99
BBQ PORK	2.79	4.29
HAM & CHEESE	2.89	4.29
ROAST BEEF	2.89	4.29
TURKEY BREAST	2.89	4.29
TURKEY & BACON DELUXE	3.29	4.89
VEGGIE	1.89	2.99

HOT SUBS — HONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD

	SIX INCH	FOOT LONG
MEATBALL (Limited Time: Special 6" $1.69)	1.99	3.49
STEAK & CHEESE (100% sirloin)	3.09	4.59
PIZZA SUB	2.99	4.29
RIB-B-Q (Our recommended choice)	3.39	5.69
Add Bacon...	.50	1.00

Free Fixin's Cheese • Onions • Lettuce • Tomatoes • Pickles Green Peppers • Olives • Salt • Pepper • Oil Plus On Request! Mustard • Mayonnaise • Hot Peppers • Vinegar

-COUPON-

50¢ OFF ANY 6" SUB OR $1.00 OFF ANY FOOT-LONG SUB

Good at participating stores.

SUBWAY

Limit one coupon per customer per visit. Not valid with other coupons or discounts. Expires 12/31/91

SUBWAY

308 S. MAIN ST. FARMVILLE, VA. PHONE 392-8868

Longwood College

VOL. 71, NO. 9 NOVEMBER 20, 1991

Rotunda

Student Newspapers Report Censorship

By AMY REYNOLDS

On Dec. 15, the nation will celebrate the 200th anniversary of the Bill of Rights. Yet, after two centuries, student newspapers are still fighting to uphold their constitutional rights to a free press.

And now, a 1988 Supreme Court ruling that gave high school officials broader power to censor school-sponsored student publications has some free press advocates fearing that the same argument may be stretched to include college newspapers.

The Hazelwood v. Kuhlmeier ruling specifically referred to the censoring of student publications when they are part of a school's curriculum and when the decision to censor is "reasonably related to legitimate pedagogical concerns."

The Student Press Law Center says that's what is happening at Ohio State University.

Last month, the student newspaper, The Lantern, began publishing under protest after the school attempted to enact a policy of prior review aimed at preventing libelous stories from running in the newspaper.

The student editors said it was censorship. Three weeks later, when the policy was approved, three editors and six reporters resigned and seven editors were fired.

When I started my job, I asked what the policy was and they (the publication committee) told me there was no prior review," says former editor Debra Baker, a senior who quit because of the policy. "I asked that question before we got started (publishing this quarter), and that's what started it."

Ohio State runs its student newspaper as a laboratory for journalism classes. While most student reporters and copy editors are required to work for the paper as part of the lab, the editors and some reporters are paid by the school to run the paper. Financially, the newspaper is independent, generating revenue to run itself through advertising and giving enough money back to the school to pay for the student staff.

"Financially, we're independent, but we're not separately incorporated," Baker says.

The new policy, approved by the faculty of Ohio State's school of journalism, allows the faculty adviser of the newspaper to read stories prior to publication but does not give the adviser the power to pull a story for any reason. Any disagreement between the editor and the adviser about a story and its potential for libel is given to an outside attorney who would render a legal opinion about the story. The editor would then be forced to alter any potentially libelous parts of the story, if they exist.

The policy came about because the university feared that its ties to the newspaper would make it liable for what appears in the newspaper; hence, if someone sues The Lantern for libel and wins, Ohio State says it has to pay.

Mark Goodman, executive director of the Student Press Law Center, disagrees. He says without the prior review policy the school would not be liable. He thinks Ohio State is attempting to expand the Hazelwood ruling.

"I think it's incredibly frightening that journalism administrators would include college journalism under Hazelwood," he says. "The criticism (Ohio State is) receiving now from professionals across the country is nothing compared to what would happen if they legally tried" to get a ruling that would include college publications under Hazelwood.

Ohio State says it is just trying to avoid a costly lawsuit.

Kevin Stoner, a journalism professor at Ohio State and chairman of the publications committee, was unavailable for comment. Earlier, he said that the school was not trying to censor the paper and that the unique model underwhich The Lantern is published makes the issue a difficult one to resolve.

"Until there is a case with a newspaper very, very similar to The Lantern, I don't think we'll have a definitive answer" to the question of who is liable if a student newspaper is sued for libel, Stoner told the Associated Press two weeks ago.

The students who resigned or were fired are now deciding what they want to do about the policy. Goodman says they have grounds for a lawsuit, but Baker says the group isn't certain if it wants to pursue one just yet.

"I think the most positive move is to change" the structure of the newspaper and become independent, Baker says. "I think the best thing to do is work to fix it." She says a lawsuit is possible, however, if no resolution can be made.

The Ohio State conflict is just one of many across the country. After the Hazelwood ruling, censorship of student publications started to rise.

Publication Under Protest

t Lantern

Thursday, October 3, 1991 The Ohio State University

Editor
DEBRA BA

OPINION

Holly Goodman, man
Kim Bates, news
Melissa Myers, graphics
Rooda Ghosh
Kristen Baird
Neal Havener
Melissa Romig, editorial

Ame nt of Consti of the United Stat

"Congress
make no law ect-
ing an estab ent
of religion, hibiting the fre cise
thereof; dging
the free speech,
or of ss; or the people
ly to assem-

The Lantern runs a front-page editorial about a censorship struggle at Ohio State University.

Goodman estimates that the law center receives about 500 calls each year about the issue. Only a fraction end up in court.

"It's like termites," says Lance Helms, a University of Georgia student intern at the law center. "What you see is a fraction of what goes on."

Currently, another censorship battle is brewing at Edinboro University of Pennsylvania, where the Student Government Association decided to stop funding the newspaper's outside media services that provided editorial cartoons and columns from writers Mike Royko, Dave Barry and others.

Last week, the SGA conducted a student survey at the university cafeteria and student union asking readers what they wanted to read in the newspaper.

"As far as funding is concerned, if the students don't want (Royko, etc.), we're not going to fund it," says Tina Brooks, SGA president. The absence of the columns "would open up some pages for more news," she says.

The SGA approves the student paper's line-item budget every year because The Spectator is not independent of the university. Brook says The Spectator could not reallocate other funds to pay for the outside news service because the SGA approves each item on the paper's budget separately.

The adviser of The Spectator, Tom Stanko, says the SGA is trying to censor the paper to get more coverage of Greek events because the majority of the SGA membership is Greek.

To try to recover the funding that the SGA Budget Committee recommended to be cut, one of the student editors met with university President Foster Diebold, who said he would support the newspaper and would not approve the SGA budget without the funding for the news services.

Still, the SGA and the Spectator are arguing over the issue.

"I've never had this kind of trouble before," Stanko says.

Some examples from the previous school year.

•The University of Denver's student newspaper, The Clarion, was indefinitely shut down for printing sexist jokes on its back page, an area devoted to jokes and satire.

•The adviser of the California State Polytechnic University newspaper was fired, then later rehired, for writing an editorial critical of the school administra-

(Continued on page 4)

Date Rape Occurs Nationwide

By AMY THOMAS

When will something be done about the nation's date rape problem? It is truly a nationwide problem, occurring on all campuses, large or small, public or private.

The first national conference on Sexual Assault on Campus was held recently in Orlando, Florida. Those that attended included experts on rape, students, and those working at colleges and universities in counseling, law enforcement, and administration. The conference was sponsored by the Safe Schools Coalition, Inc., a nonprofit organization dedicated to making colleges safer places to live and work.

Just how serious is the problem at hand? Today, one in four women will be the victim of rape or attempted rape. Rape is the most underreported of any crime. About 75 percent of campus rapes involve alcohol. 100 gang rapes have been reported at colleges and universities since 1985.

Jennifer Rabold, a senior at the University of Richmond, is just one of 60 students who joined together at the conference to form the National Coalition of Students Against Sexual Assault.

The organization has several goals. It plans to develop student workshops and presentations that will be coordinated for presentation nationally, to write a newsletter, to address the issues of sexual assault among different ethnic groups, to form a network of professionals working in the field, to establish a library with information about rape, and to form a support system for rape survivors that will help them relocate to another school if their administration is not responsive.

"Students have an impact," Rabold says. "Administrators can say all they want about date rape, but students are peer counselors and they need to realize that, they need to train us. Their programs look good on paper but it's the students who carry them out." The students do agree with the experts that education is the key to prevention.

Any student interested in joining the national student coalition can write to the coordinator, Ashely Belcher, at Washington University, 6515 Wydown, Box 4290, St. Louis, MO 63105.

Final SGA Election Results

Student Government Officers

President	Communications Chair	Vice President (Runoff Election)
188 Scott Glisson	345 Tammy Armistead *	180 Amanda Janney*
115 Courtney Hodges	Corresponding Secretary	130 Seth Johnson
122 Darrell A. Wells *	347 Jason Walker *
Vice President (First)	Recording Secretary	(Denotes winner - *)
244 Amanda Janney*	364 Julie Lindsay *
152 Seth Johnson*	Student Union Board Pres.
111 Tricia Ann Popular	174 Laurie Myers
67 Cheryl Swain	102 John Russell *
Treasurer	Residence Hall Assoc. President	Judicial Board Winner
4 <None>	332 David Edwards *	Justin Morris*

Controversy Arises over Printing of Election Results

By LAURIE MYERS and KIMBER SCOTT
News Staff

In the November 13th issue of the Rotunda, the Student Government Association election results were printed, including the actual number of votes each candidate received. The printing of these numbers has caused controversy within the student body.

According to Brad Owen, the executive editor of the Rotunda, "many students look to the Rotunda for information about life at Longwood. It is the duty of the newspaper to act as a watchdog of the government, a source of information for the public, and a forum for the expression of a wide range of views. The notion that ideas and voices, no matter how objectionable or controversial they may be to the public, have the right to be heard is the basic premise of the First Amendment."

The Rotunda approached the SGA with the idea of printing the numerical results from the election. The Dean of Students and the Attorney General's office were contacted, and by law the SGA was required to provide this information to the Rotunda.

Dr. Crowl, advisor to the SGA, said "the SGA is neither for, nor against printing these numbers. We can see both sides. We wanted to make sure the SGA did what was best for the candidates and the student body."

According to Mark Tueting, the chairman of the Judicial Board," student leadership positions at Longwood are monopolized by a very small group of people. One of the greatest challenges facing our campus is the recruitment of a variety of individuals to hold offices in the Student Government. The printing of the number of votes received by candidates in the recent elections is going to negatively effect the number of students willing to run for a office. [The Rotunda] should have considered the needless potential damage [it] was going to cause to the emerging leadership pool at Longwood."

"Publishing vote counts is nothing new. The media does it all the time with national and local elections. As for those who are discouraged to run next year, it is my opinion that Longwood doesn't need people in leadership positions who let minor obstacles like this stop them," said candidate, Riley Ross, III.

Joan Mason, director of Student Activities, comments "the SGA election result numbers should be printed because they sadly reflect the number of people who really care about what is going on within the college community."

Less than one-third of the student population voted in this election. According to official SGA results, only 703 out of more than 3,000 students cast ballots.

For future elections, Shannon Gardner, current SGA president, suggests that "campaigning is important. Often students know each other by glances as they are walking on campus. Candidates need to actively let others know who they are and why they want to represent the views of Longwood students." SGA vice-president, Shannon Nunnally, adds "students do not realize the great responsibility these candidates will have when they are elected."

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
Comics 6
Features 3
News.....4,5
Sports 8

COMMENTARY

EDITORIAL

"Magic"

On Thurs., Nov. 8 an event happened that will have an effect on the world forever. Earvin Johnson, better known as "Magic" Johnson, announced his retirement from professional basketball. His reason: he had become infected with the HIV virus, the same virus that can lead to AIDS. I did not find out this until about 8:30 p.m. that night. CNN was doing a feature, and I came in in the middle of it when former Laker coach Pat Riley was speaking at the beginning of a New York Knicks game (that is the team he now coaches).

At first I did not know what had happened to cause Magic to retire. Then CNN announced the reason as I sat and wondered with amazement and fright. Even as I type this I get chills when I think about the whole incident. Here is a man who sat on one of the highest pedestals in professional sports today, and who many thought one of the most perfect individuals alive. Then we find out he has the HIV virus.

I am still shocked by this. Not that I thought Magic was a god amongst gods. But Magic Johnson? I do not know if many of you watched Arsenio Hall that night, but I did. Magic was his same old cheery self, flashing his million dollar smile, and joking as if nothing had changed. As he talked about becoming a spokesperson on the virus and on safe sex and about his "new" life, I felt the biggest lump in my throat and I'll admit, I cried. It is such a sad story, yet not an uncommon story. HIV infection as well as the AIDS epidemic is everywhere. Where we once thought it to be a homosexual or intravenous drug user's disease, it now is affecting heterosexuals and nondrug users as well. It's very scary to me, as I'm sure it is to you.

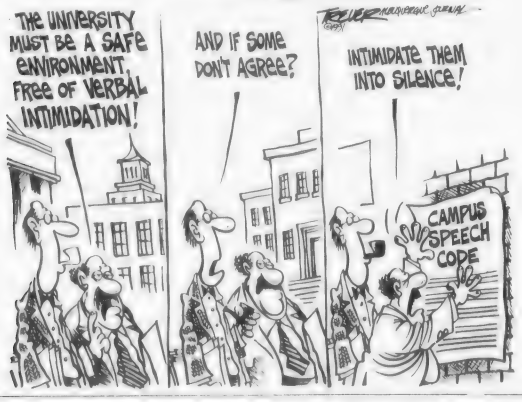
Talking with Dr. Eleanor Bobbitt the other day, I agreed with her on some things concerning the incident as a whole. God works in strange and mysterious ways, but when he does he does it to make a point. I think God may be saying that this AIDS epidemic has gone unnoticed too long, and that it is about time that some major research is done to find a cure so that millions more do not die.

I'll admit that I really did not think a lot about AIDS and HIV until Thursday night, and for the millions of those afflicted I feel so sorry for them. But let's hope that with Magic coming out like he did the research and technology needed to find a cure will be found. Not just for Magic's sake, but for the sake of the world.

CHARLIE E. FULTZ

RESPONSE

Dear Jennifer:



The Rotunda appreciates your feedback on the campus beautification editorial which ran in the November 13 issue. However, it seems that you misunderstood the editor's purpose. The editorial was not written with the intention of slamming the Earth Club or anyone else in particular. Where it says "People wanted instant results, and when they did not get them, they abandoned the idea," the people referred to is everyone on campus, not just the Earth Club.

Nobody contests how much the Earth Club has done for this campus. Last year I attended two Earth Club meetings when it was just starting up, and I was favorably impressed. You are correct when you say that the Earth Club does not exist to serve as trash police for the campus. Everyone does need to work together; that is what the editorial was trying to say. We are all at fault. Everyone could do more than they are currently doing to clean up this campus. The Earth Club has done much to make people aware of some of the problems here on campus.

The Rotunda and the Earth Club can help each other to get people more involved in beautifying this campus. There is no time for animosity or angry words; people need to take action. There is more to do than just pick up trash. The Earth Club holds meetings every Thursday at 7 p.m. in the French TV lounge. Everyone is encouraged to attend.

The Rotunda extends a formal apology to the Earth Club if it misunderstood the purpose of last week's editorial. Thank you, Jennifer, for your response and for disspelling the common myths about the inactivity of the Earth Club.

Christopher S. Jones

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free Exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

"No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of its laws."

Letters To The Editor

To whom it may concern:

I am writing this letter to the public concerning two issues. The first one is a comment written by the editor in the November 13, issue of the Rotunda about the Earth Club, and the second one deals with students attitudes here on campus concerning the duties of the Earth Club, recycling, and vandalism.

In last week's paper the editor wrote in his editorial concerning campus beautification and the environment that "People began recycling, not using styrofoam and starting up such organizations as the Earth Club. Now there was nothing wrong with any of this, but people wanted instant results, and when they did not get them, they abandoned the idea." To add to this quotation, I have also heard many students get on the Earth Club's case about being inactive.

First of all, I want to get one thing straight. The Earth Club has not abandoned the idea of making this campus beautiful and making the people here environmentally aware nor is it inactive. Maybe if you all bothered coming to some of our meetings, you all would see just how much we have done and are still continuing to do.

We have had many events occur this semester. We had a clean-up day in September in which very few people showed up, and we have promoted the signing of petitions for specific concerns. We gave out trees and promoted awareness during Oktoberfest. We've helped begin recycling on campus with the help of the Physical Plant, and we have established many events on campus to let people know who we are and what we are promoting. Just recently, Earth Club members attended two environmental conferences at the University of Colorado and the University of Virginia. Now we are working on a project to get disposable dishware out of the dining hall.

We do not expect instant results, but we do expect cooperation from our fellow peers on campus. However, it seems as if no one wishes to get involved in helping to recycle because too much trash is still being discarded into the landfill.

The second fact that I want to get straight is that of the Earth Club's purpose. At our last meeting a member said, "We are an environmental organization, not a clean-up committee." It is time that the students who are at fault in blaming the Earth Club for the lack of motivation on campus to recycle and keep the place clean understand the reality of the situation.

It is not the Earth Club's responsibility to pick up after everyone who wants to be lazy or just doesn't care about the appearance of the campus and the environment. We helped get the emotion started, but we are certainly not the only ones responsible or involved. It is everyone's duty to do their part in the beautification and environmental processes, and as for the hauling off of the aluminum cans, the Physical Plant has taken that over.

It makes me sick to look in the aluminum can bins and find food and personal hygiene products mixed in with the recycleable materials. Do you people that do this realize that people have to get in those cans and pick all that trash out? I think it is very unfair and immature. Imagine if you had to do that, I am sure you wouldn't like it. So why do you put others in the position to take on the disgusting task?

To tell you the truth, I believe anyone capable of doing this with a clear mind doesn't have a bit of common sense and doesn't belong in college. Those cans are clearly labled, and most of them have round tops to indicate that they are aluminum can bins.

The same thing goes for vandalism. Repair for this crime is expensive and the money comes right back out of your pocket and other's who can barely afford to attend college. Vandalism is senseless and unexcusable. It seems as if people are working to make the campus more ugly rather than beautiful.

What it all boils down to is that those at fault need to stop believing the Earth Club is going to do everything. You need to get involved too. If you're not willing to get involved, then keep your opinions to yourself because you don't know what you're talking about. If you do have a fact to bring up, then we most certainly are willing to listen.

Finally, Chris, if I have misunderstood what you wrote in your editorial, then I suggest that you state your opinions more clearly so that so many people don't get upset.

Jennifer Wyatt
Earth Club
Vice-President

Editor, The Rotunda,

On Thursday, November 21, from 8:30 till 9:45 a.m. Virginia's Secretary of Education, the Honorable James Dyke will be at Longwood. The Secretary will be in the Student Union Gold Room to discuss upcoming proposals by the Governor's Task Force on Substance Abuse and Sexual Assault on Virginia's College Campuses; campus civility issues, and any other topics students care to address. This is to be an informal meeting, so come on down, push up your sleeves, and let one of Richmond's key policy makers know what you're thinking.

The secretary's visit to Longwood is being sponsored by the School of Education and Human Services; coffee, juice and doughnuts are being provided jointly by the SGA and the Vice President for Student Affairs.

Please come, be heard, and bring your friends.

William R. Wilson
Peer Helper Program
Coordinator

Editor, The Rotunda,

On behalf of the Longwood wrestling team, I would like to say "thank you" to all the students, faculty, and administrators who cheered the team to victory over Newport News Apprentice Wednesday night. To those who were unable to attend, you missed an exciting match. We hope you will not miss the excitement again when the team faces Davidson College on Tuesday, December 3rd.

Steve Nelson,
Wrestling Coach

Editor, The Rotunda,

This letter is being written to, hopefully, reach all Longwood students. The "spirit" of Longwood has diminished in some ways in the past few years. This needs to be rekindled! The "spirit" of Longwood as is called, is the Entire student body. It is not just a few individuals here and there. What is asked is to take a step back- look at yourself... your involvement - academically, socially, and personally!! We would like to thank all of you who have the spirit. This has not gone unnoticed! Each and every individual is the "spirit', keep it going!!

In the blue and white SPIRIT,
CHI

Editor, The Rotunda,

The third annual Angel Tree is here. For those of you who do not know what that is, the Rotunda Christmas tree will be decorated with special angels. Each of the angels will have the name of a needy person printed on the front. These needy people are from the Farmville area and would truly appreciate some small gift for Christmas. We are just the people to give them that kind of Christmas joy.

If you would like to help one of these people, all you have to do is select one of the angel decorations and take it off the tree. Take the angel to the Peer Helper Office, located next door to Phyllis Mable's office just off the Rotunda, and check it out. Then, buy a gift of about $5, wrap it, attach the angel to the top of the gift and return it to the Peer Helper Office by Wednesday, December 4th.

The tree will be going up Thursday, November 21st and the angels will be on the tree by Friday, November 22nd. Remember, you could be the one to give a person in the Farmville area a little something to make their Christmas extremely happy.

Thank you,
Lisa Dyson

Commuter Problems Abound

By ERIN McCAY

There is a virtually forgotten group of students on Longwood's campus. This group, comprised of over 835 students, is the commuter student population. In the past, many commuter issues have been shunted aside in favor of more "pressing" issues – issues that almost always concerned traditional/residential students.

Perhaps the most important concern of commuter students is parking. Consider these figures: 106 parking spaces were allotted to commuter students in the Fall 1991 semester, and 580 parking decals were sold to those same commuter students. The absurdity of this ratio is obvious. Commuters are doing what they can to alleviate this problem. When at all possible, they walk to campus. Or if they live farther away, carpools are sometimes formed. But due to the conflicting schedules and needs of commuters, it is rarely possible to have more than one or two students per vehicle, commuters can only do so much to help themselves.

The solutions that have been proposed thus far are not acceptable. Some administrators have suggested having satellite parking lots located as far away as Wal-Mart, with a shuttle bus system to get to and from the college. For students that must use their cars in the same capacity that residential students use their dorm rooms, this option is simply not feasible. Another idea is to build a parking garage, but that is both cost-prohibitive and unrealistic.

Another problem that commuters must deal with is the lack of lounge space. The tiny area allocated for commuter use is not adequate for the number of commuters attending Longwood. Granted, commuters are told that they can study in the library or in any empty conference room, but commuters deserve better facilities that are for their own use and that are always available. It is not asking too much to want a computer, more lounge space and more lockers.

A situation that can be resolved fairly easily is the problem with commuter mailboxes. A main reason commuters are ignored is that it never occurs to most faculty and staff that there are actually students that don't have a box number in the Lankford Student Union. Many forms used by students do not even ask for an address, it is assumed that the students have a box number. Therefore we do not receive many of the announcements and information that residential students find regularly in their mailboxes. This problem can be rectified. There are plans to renovate and enlarge the current post office/mailbox area, adding quite a few new mailboxes. Why couldn't mailboxes be assigned to all students, commuter and residential? Many commuters use their current college address in the commuter student lounge, an address which consists of an unlocked wooden cubbyhole they must share with at least 5 other students. There are numerous problems with opened and stolen mail. Why shouldn't commuters have the secured mailboxes residential students enjoy?

Aren't we students of disregard too? This seems to me to be an attitude held towards commuters on many levels. There are administrators who seem to genuinely take an interest in commuters and their needs, but the majority don't even take us into consideration. It is already difficult enough for commuters to feel as if they are part of a group. Should that feeling of isolation be reinforced? The problems emphasize the differences between residential and commuter students. It seems to me that the main goal should be to make both groups united. One should not be a residential student or a commuter student. Instead, he or she should be a Longwood student, equal to every other student and sharing the same privileges and respect.

Erin McCay is a freshman History major and the president of the Commuter Student Association.

Rotunda
Box 1133
Farmville, VA
23901

Founding Editor
Helen Skillman

THE STAFF:

Executive Editor
Bradley L. Owen

Editor
Christopher S. Jones

Features Editor
Sherry Gatewood

Asst. Features Editor
Ann Renee Helm

Sports Editor
Charlie Fultz

Photography Editor
Judi Weller

Layout Editor
(open)

Business Manager
Erin C. McCay

Advisors
Mr. William C. Woods
Ms. Brenda Atkins

ROTUNDA POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration or trustees. Columns, letters, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be signed and typed. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

Any contributions should be addressed to The Rotunda, Box 1133. Deadline for articles is noon Friday prior to the Wednesday publication date and these should be placed in the envelopes inside the Publication offices door in Lankford. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by 5 p.m. Sunday. All submissions become the property of The Rotunda.

Published weekly since 1939 by the students of Longwood College. The Rotunda is an Associated Collegiate Press award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our mail box at Box 1133 or (804) 395-2120.

DR. REGINALD YANCEY

AΣA Gains New Advisor

By TRACI HASSELL
Staff Writer

Recently, a new advisor was chosen for the Alpha Chapter of the Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority.

Dr. Reginald Yancy, who has been an Associate Professor of Business since the fall of 1988, is ASA's recent Financial Advisor, as well as, the On-Campus Advisor.

All of the Business Law courses are conducted by Dr. Yancy and yet, his qualifications and accomplishments are diverse and do not end there.

Dr. Yancy was born in Raleigh, NC and has resided in Amherst County, near Lynchburg, for the better part of his life.

He acquired his undergraduate degree in accounting at Virginia State in Petersburg. Afterwards, he attended law school at Washington and Lee University.

As a lawyer, C.P.A., and professor, Dr. Yancy is dedicated to each of his positions. He has held his private law practice for 13 years and, still, is a professor four days a week for late afternoon classes. "I truly love teaching here," commented Dr. Yancy.

Dr. Yancy also stated that he is proud of his position as a member of The Board of Governors on Bankruptcy for The Virginia State Bar. As the newly instated advisor of ASA, Dr. Yancy has continued to carry out his achievements.

Longwood Company of Dancers to Perform

The Longwood Company of Dancers prepares for its concert.

The Longwood College Company of Dancers will present their fall studio concert on Thursday and Friday evenings, Nov. 21 and 22, at 7:30 in the Dance Studio in Lancer Hall.

The performances are open to everyone free of charge.

The program includes a modern ballet by Betsy Gee and Lisa Kesterson, a tap dance by Kerensa Mohney, pointe ballet by Alexandria Palamountian, and three modern dance pieces by Ricky Parham, Fran Siebert, and Michelle McKay.

The company also will perform "Space Weaving," choreographed by all of the dancers.

Other members of the Dance Company are Shannon Brooks, Kristina Burke, Cindy Butler, and Abbey Impson. Dr. Nelson Neal directs the group. Advanced modern dance students Renee Lewis and Stephanie Stevens work and perform with the company.

KΔΠ Profiled

By ELLEN DARDEN
Staff Writer

If you have a cummulative GPA of 3.25, are an education major or plan to teach any grade level, then Kappa Delta Pi is for you! Kappa Delta Pi is an honor society with undergraduate and graduate school members. Their advisor is Dr. Betty Jo Simmons.

The organization strives to recognize and promote excellence in the field of education. There are four ideals that the members strive to abide by. They consist of: service to humanity- helping people to get the best education, service to science- approach everything with an open mind, service to service- to give of yourself (time, energy, etc.) and Toil- hard work in putting forth your best effort at all times.

The current officers of Kappa Delta Pi are: President- Kimberly Townsend, Vice-President- Becky Meeks, Secretary- Jennifer Johns, Treasurer- Jami Lindahl, Program Chair- Jayne Adair and Historian- Tammi Titcomb.

They also participate in projects and events on and off campus. In past years, they have worked with the Prince Edward County Schools in going to the schools to be teacher's aides as well as participating in the school's reading program by having members go in and tell stories to the classes.

On campus, Kappa Delta Pi works with the Student Education Association on various projects. They also had a booth at Oktoberfest and participated in the Community of Civilities Week last spring.

JOAN MASON

In Profile: Joan Mason

By KIMBER SCOTT
Features Staff

Joan Mason, the Director of Student Activities and the Student Union, has been with Longwood since September 1989.

Joan was born in Pittsburgh, PA in 1960. She lived in the same house until she left for college. For her undergraduate work she attended Slippery Rock University in Slippery Rock, PA where she majored in Public Health. Her first involvement in SGA was due to her roommate. "My junior year roommate was very involved with SGA. She talked me into running for Student Government, since only six seniors were running for six senior positions I was a shoe-in. During homecoming I was in charge of the parade. This was the first time I was involved with any student activity."

On a whim, Joan decided to go out of state for graduate school. She attended Southern IL University and majored in Higher Education. "After working with the SGA at Slippery Rock, I realized that I enjoyed all aspects of puting programs together. Everything from talking to agents on the phone, working with committees, working with the publicity, and putting a program together. It was then that I decided that I wanted to do this for a living."

The first program Joan organized in graduate school was a lecture by George McGovern. "I was really impressed with just being able to meet someone like that. I still have a framed poster from the event in my office."

Joan's first job was Assistant Director of Student Activities at the University of Kentucky. She held this position from June 1984 to August 1989 when she came to Longwood.

Joan has quite a few responsibilities which fall under her title. As director of Student Activities she works with over 100 student organizations on campus and helps these organizations with programming ideas and keeps records of the advisor(s). She is in charge of the physical maintenance and upkeep of the Student Union, which is done by four staff members. Joan also works with the Student Union Board which is the major programming body on campus.

Joan's favorite program is Tom Deluca, a comedian who comes to Longwood once a year. "I booked Tom the first time when I was at Slippery Rock. I know him somewhat personally and he does such a great show."

"The most popular activities on this campus are comedians and Movie Night. The average turnout for a movie is about 150. We get first rate movies, ones which are popular with the students."

The Student Union Board is not allowed to have alcohol at any function and Joan feels this may be the reason for some poor turnouts. "It seems like from the late 80's on, it has been hard getting people to activities that aren't big and splashy on the weekends or party nights. Students don't realize that the money for these activities comes from a student activity fee each student pays."

Along with her other responsibilities, Joan advises Alpha Delta Pi and Alpha Phi Omega.

Joan enjoys spending time with her husband Sam and her two children Brianna, seven years old and Sean, ten months. "I take my family to a lot of the programs. We like to show Brianna the fun, positive activities in college. Hopefully that will encourage her to excel in high school and want to attend college."

Joan enjoys working in Farmville. "I like the smaller campus because it is easier to get to know the students. You see them over and over again. Also, with the town being small, a lot of community members take part in campus activities as well as the people on campus."

DIG the Past

By LINDA C. WRIGHT
Staff Writer

Who digs all year except in hunting season?

In his search for truth, Dr. James Jordan said archaeology is "the attempt to understand how and why the human animal has behaved both in the present as well as in the past. We are on the trail of people," Dr. Jordan said.

This past summer two sites studied in Buckingham County were Morris Field, an old Indian Camp, and the Millbrook Plantation, home of Maria Epps daughter of Thomas Jefferson.

Students dug cautiously to preserve evidence with Mason's Pointing Trowel, a thin flat instrument with a pointed end similar to the smoothing shovel a bricklayer uses. Using old paint brushes, whisk brooms and dental pics, they cleaned any artifacts they found.

Once an artifact is found it is catalogued. Students recorded how deep it was in the ground, how far it was located from other objects and how far within the digging area it was located.

Items found at Morris Site's Indian Camp were pieces of pottery, spearheads, arrowheads, flint, bones, and pieces of a large vessel container that was believed to hold corn or other grains. All tools and weapons were made from raw materials indicating the Indians were primarily hunters and gatherers.

Charred pieces of glass from a French wine bottle, evidence supporting a fire, were discovered at Millbrook Plantation. The remains of steps that once led to the cookhouse were also found. Dr. Jordan said "artifacts are the pages of our book."

Dr. Jordan was unable to pinpoint a most significant archaeological find but said "the past is alive not dead. It has been right here with us a few feet underground. The present is only a wink of time. What is most important is our past."

The search for the past and the desire to understand it, drive archaeologists to keep digging. They do not dig during hunting season for a fear of being shot. Archaeologists unveil the past to understand prehistoric life.

"I still get an electric charge everytime I pick up an artifact because I know man used it thousands of years ago," said Dr. Jordan.

Being Gay in your world

Taking the format used by other minority groups, I will try to express to you what it's like to be homosexual on your world. I don't speak for all gays-but only for myself. I am your brother, your best friend or your roommate, but I must hide it from you. You make me. Try to understand what I am feeling.

Being Gay is to be condemned by the church as sinful, by psychologists as pathological, and by the law as a criminal.

Being Gay is to live two separate lives never being able to be completely honest in either.

Being Gay is to listen to your friends talk about queers and make jokes about effeminate males as you stand there and know if they only knew the truth they would be saying the same things about you.

Being Gay is to go along with the guys as they watch the girls when you'd much rather watch them.

Being Gay is being condemned to a life of one-night stands and loneliness because society denies your humanity.

Being Gay is to awaken every morning, live everyday, and go to sleep every night fearing discovery and rejection by your friends.

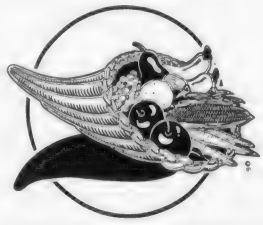
Being Gay is dating girls when you don't really want to just to maintain your cover.

Being Gay is pretending to be ignorant about homosexuality every time the topic is raised and listening to straights display their ignorance while you don't dare correct them.

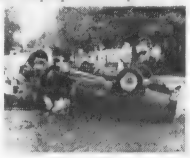
Being Gay is to know that there are many other gays around you using out the same subterfuge and that your chances for a meaningful relationship are blocked when you only see each other's masks.

Being Gay is to be extra careful about how you dress and wear your hair so no one will suspect.

Being Gay is to go to a public place with your lover and not be able to show affection.



Being Gay is to be proud of the accomplishments of Gay Liberation and yet represent the type of homosexual they must overcome to succeed.



Being Gay is hating yourself for what you are and knowing that you can't and don't want to change.

Being Gay is to try to express some of the hell of a life that is anything but "gay" and then leaving it to go it anonymous.

Anonymous, 1971

Sponsored by UNITY
395-2552

Ever Get A Pal Smashed?

TAKE THE KEYS
CALL A CAB
TAKE A STAND

FRIENDS DON'T LET FRIENDS DRIVE DRUNK

Leggett lifestyle

TRADITIONS OF GIVING

LEGGIE BEAR $12
WITH A $50 PURCHASE

• DUCKHEAD
• GUESS JEANS • USED JEANS
• LEVI DOCKERS FOR MEN & WOMEN
• FRAGRANCES • BUGLE BOY
• NIKE • REEBOK
• MARYANN'S BOUTIQUE
• SADDLEBRED

FREE GIFT WRAPPING!
HAVE YOUR LEGGETT PURCHASES WRAPPED FREE.

LEGGETT OF LONGWOOD VILLAGE SHOPPING CENTER, FARMVILLE, VA.
PHONE 392-8843 OPEN MONDAY - SATURDAY 10 A.M. - 9 P.M. CLOSED SUNDAY
Use your Leggett Charge, VISA, MasterCard or American Express

Students Fight Judicial Boards For Their Rights

By AMY REYNOLDS

(CPS) — The system stinks.

That's what students on a review board at the University of Minnesota say of the school's judicial system. They claim that the school sacrifices fairness for expediency, ignores constitutional rights of due process by giving one person the power of prosecutor, judge, jury and appeals judge, and ignores the constitutional protection against self-incrimination.

"To me, (these violations) sound like a good argument against having the university handle anything that isn't academic," says Jack Stecher, an economics graduate student serving on the committee.

Stecher isn't alone in his thinking. For years, students, faculty, administrators and other scholars have butted heads on the issue of a university's right and power to prosecute criminal cases in the campus courts.

Universities' "determination to enforce this ... rests on the premise that colleges and universities have a jurisdiction over the lives of their students that is independent of the law of the land," writes John Roche, a former member of the Johnson administration, in a recent article in National Review. "The notion that an aggrieved person believing him or herself the victim of a crime must 'keep the matter in the family' is a jurisprudential absurdity."

Frequently on the opposite side of that argument are campus judicial administrators.

William Bracewell, the former president of the Association for Student Judicial Affairs and the current head of the Office of Judicial Programs at the University of Georgia, says universities justifiably have separate jurisdiction.

"Each one of those jurisdictions has a different interest to protect," Bracewell says. Each school, like each city and state, "has a set of regulations that are right for that campus, that are right for that community."

Bracewell points to the issue of date rape as an example of why campuses need to address criminal charges in their judicial systems.

"If you talk to women, they don't want those men on campus. What if the woman has a class with the man who assaulted her? In some states, the law doesn't even include date rape" as a criminal offense, Bracewell says. "Will the institution defer to the state if the state isn't going to respond at all?"

Bracewell says schools need to address criminal complaints because they affect the university community in terms of campus safety and victims rights to get an education without interference from the people who have committed criminal acts against them.

Others disagree with the campus system's ability to handle criminal cases.

"The goal of the campus judicial system is ... primarily to protect the interest of students. The criminal justice system focuses on punishing offenders," says Carol Bohmer, a sociology professor at Cornell University and a former attorney who is a national expert on date rape. She says that because schools try to afford equal protection to both the victim and the offender, punishments often do not fit the crimes.

One problem in any discussion of how campus judicial systems should operate is the fact that virtually no two systems are the same.

"You'll find that they are anything but uniform," says Randy Bezanson, dean of the Washington and Lee School of Law and a national expert on constitutional law. "The larger universities have more elaborate processes. The smaller liberal arts schools are less elaborate and their systems are more widely varying because the whole process reflects traditions."

The systems that contrast most harshly are public and private, because public institutions must adhere to state and federal laws.

In September, Liberty University expelled three seniors for worshiping at the United Pentecostal Church, a violation of a school policy. Although the school held a hearing on the matter and granted the students appeals based on the school's rules, the students' First Amendment freedom of religion rights were ignored.

Because Liberty is a private school, it is not bound by the Constitution, so the freedom of religion element of the case wasn't relevant.

But, in Minnesota's case, the allegations against the systems, including a lack of a student's Fifth and 14th Amendment rights to due process — the right to trial by an impartial judge and jury, for example — are worthy of investigation because the school is bound by the Constitution.

"The Constitution has a special bearing because we are a public university," Stecher says.

The Minnesota students say that the school's director of the Office of Judicial Affairs, Betty Hackett, has unilateral power over a student's fate.

"Say you get a letter accusing you of a crime," Stecher says. "You go see a counselor, who is Betty Hackett. You talk to her and she makes a recommendation. She then becomes the prosecutor of your case, which goes into a closed door hearing. She is not obligated to tell you during counseling that she will be prosecuting you."

Currently, the committee reviewing the judicial system is writing two proposals for changing the system — one submitted by the students and faculty members, the other from the administration's members.

The privacy of campus judicial hearings is at issue at the University of Georgia. A student newspaper editor has filed a complaint in Fulton County court against the university, saying two incidents in which the school denied the newspaper access to hearings violated their First Amendment rights and the state's open records laws.

Red and Black editor Jennifer Squillante says the two hearings involved charges of hazing and underage drinking against two fraternities.

"Our contention is that educational records are not brought into play," Squillante says. "We're starting with (these cases) because it's the most obvious. They don't have a leg to stand on as far as the Buckley Amendment goes."

The Buckley Amendment requires universities to keep student educational records private.

"I don't think the reach of the Buckley Amendment has been resolved," Bezanson says. "Clearly, there's a conflict in some cases to the press' right for publication against the individual's right to privacy and the institution's right to maintain that privacy."

The people who will decide the outcome of these cases and subsequently will help define the scope of power in the campus judicial systems are civil court judges.

In the past, they have agreed with most scholars and students who believe that the university judicial system is well-equipped to handle questions of academic misconduct and that a university has the right to do so.

But, in regard to the question of jurisdiction over criminal offenses and the guarantee of constitutional rights, Bezanson says, "As a general rule, the college systems have been found to be consistent and the courts tend to defer to the peculiar needs of the universities and what is best suited for them."

Pictured above are seniors Shawn Smith (captain) and Jeff Firman (co-captain). Other members of the team are Abby Brandt, Missy Crouch, Tiffany Hancock, Alicia Hewitt, Kathleen Jodin, Libby Marsh, Maria Pierson, Nancy Pillow, Robert Topa, Terice Watkins, Bonnie Wood, Darrell Richard, and Jennifer Thompkins. Not available for the picture was Randy Isner.

Lancer Cheerleaders Fired-Up For Season Opener

The Longwood Lancer Cheerleaders will open their 1991-92 season with this weekend's Par Bil's Tip-off Men's Basketball Tournament. The team, consisting of ten women and five men, will be on the sideline cheering and also performing during halftime for this weekend's season opener, as well as all home games for men's basketball and some away games. They are advised by Kay Springfield of the Department of English, philosophy and Modern Languages.

The Lancer Cheerleaders look forward to the 1991-92 season and hope everyone will join them in promoting spirit and supporting the Longwood men's Basketball Team. GO LANCERS!!

Grainger Building

Reopening Scheduled

By AMY THOMAS
News Staff

Grainger, the building that has been closed since June 1990 due to lack of funding for repairs, is scheduled to reopen.

The building was closed in 1990 after the budget for repairs was cut following the replacement of the windows and the removal of asbestos.

A new renovation contract now exists, and work was begun after Labor Day. Work is scheduled to be completed in August 1992. The building should be open for classes next year. The interior of the building will be redone, and elevators and handicapped ramps will be added. Offices for the English, Philosophy, and Modern Languages and Mathematics faculty will also be housed in Grainger.

Because construction costs are much lower than they were before, money will be left over to purchase new furniture and bookshelves for the building. An office furniture company was called in to see exactly what was needed, with a certain look in mind for the over one-hundred year-old building.

Dr. Martha Cook of the English Department says, "I think we're going to try to have an overall look to the building." Dr. Cook would like to see a traditional look implemented in the interior, due to the building's rich history.

The renovation is a state project. Longwood took advantage of an opportunity to receive money from the lottery, which had previously been cut by the budget crunch. This enables the project to be completed much sooner than planned. Both the faculty and students of the affected departments eagerly await August 1992.

New Psychology Lab Opened

By CAROL CAMPO
Staff Reporter

Has anyone taken the time to notice the new Psychology Lab located next to Wynne? If you haven't, a lot has been going on.

For years, Longwood has been trying to improve and expand its Psychology Department. With the financial support from the State of Virginia Equipment Trust Fund, this has been made possible.

Every year, the State of Virginia Equipment Trust Fund sends funds to Virginia's state supported colleges and universities. Each year, they contribute the money toward a specific area. Three years ago the funds went toward computers, the following year, Natural Sciences and this year the focus is on Psychology and the Fine Arts (music, theatre, art and dance).

The Psychology department was approved for $750,000 and has received half of it this year. With the money they have received, the department ordered top-of-the-line experimental equipment and computers.

This semester, many students are frustrated with the Psychology Department because they had to pay a lab fee and the labs were not completely functional. Although the department had hoped to have the labs set up by August, most of the equipment did not arrive until late in the summer or early fall.

To be fair to the students, the Psychology Department agreed to wave the lab fees for the spring 1992 semester. Graduating students or those who took the class as an elective will not benefit from this, but on the most part, the waiver will balance things out.

During an interview, Dr. Smith, head of the Psychology department, claimed that the department is "very happy to have the lab. It provides more opportunities to the students".

In addition to the lab work, the Psychology Lab will provide the facilities for students who plan to do independent research. With regards to the psychology department, Dr. Wacker stated that "we've had excellent success in getting students into graduate schools in the past, but this (the lab) will augment the credentials of those who plan to go to graduate school for experimental psychology.

As of this point, the psychology department has received $336,000 of the $750,000. They are waiting on a decision from the General Assembly to see whether or not they will receive the remainder of the funds.

Student Newspapers

Continued from Page 1)

tion.

•A small Latino newspaper at the University of Texas was restricted by administrators to circulation only in the communications building.

•An editor at Long Island University's paper, The Seawanhaka, was arrested and had film from his camera exposed after he took pictures during a speech by controversial City College professor Michael Levin that ended in a scuffle between protestors and the police.

•This year, at the University of Illinois at Chicago, the daily newspaper, The Chicago Flame, reported on Oct. 29 that the university student government had announced a policy against taking photographs at meetings. The paper ignored the policy – at the next meeting a photographer took pictures.

The action prompted the director of campus unions to threaten his and his editor's arrests.

The Fresh Alternative

COLD SUBS — HONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD

	SIX INCH	FOOT LONG
For TWICE the meat, just say "Super" ...add ...	1.00	2.00
BMT (ham, genoa salami, pepperoni, bologna)	2.99	4.29
SUBWAY CLUB (roast beef, turkey, ham)	2.99	4.49
SPICY ITALIAN (genoa salami, pepperoni)	2.79	3.89
COLD CUT COMBO (ham salami, bologna - all turkey based)	1.89	3.29
BBQ CHICKEN	3.29	4.89
TUNA	2.79	4.29
SEAFOOD & CRAB	3.49	4.99
BBQ PORK	2.79	4.29
HAM & CHEESE	2.89	4.29
ROAST BEEF	2.89	4.29
TURKEY BREAST	2.89	4.29
TURKEY & BACON DELUXE	3.29	4.89
VEGGIE	1.89	2.99

HOT SUBS — HONEY WHEAT OR ITALIAN BREAD

	SIX INCH	FOOT LONG
MEATBALL (Limited Time: Special 6" $1.69)	1.99	3.49
STEAK & CHEESE (100% sirloin)	3.09	4.59
PIZZA SUB	2.99	4.29
RIB-B-Q (Our recommended choice)	3.39	5.69
Add Bacon...	.50	1.00

Free Fixin's Cheese • Onions • Lettuce • Tomatoes • Pickles • Green Peppers • Olives • Salt • Pepper • Oil
Plus On Request Mustard • Mayonnaise • Hot Peppers • Vinegar

-COUPON-
50¢ OFF
ANY 6" SUB
OR $1.00
OFF
ANY FOOT-LONG SUB
Good at participating stores.
SUBWAY
Limit one coupon per customer per visit. Not valid with other coupons or discounts.
Expires 12/31/91

SUBWAY
308 S. MAIN ST.
FARMVILLE, VA.
PHONE 392-8868

ANNA VAUGHAN and JAYNE ADAIR

Students to Teach in Foreign Country

By CAROL CAMPO
Features Staff

Have you ever considered student teaching in a foreign country?

For seniors Jayne Adair and Anna Vaughan, these considerations have become a reality.

Longwood is trying to follow their International Theme of "Opening Doors to the World" by expanding their student teaching program abroad.

With the help and guidance of Dr. Jessie Dillon, Jayne and Anna will be student teaching in Heidelberg, Germany for nine weeks (February 10-April 25). They will be residing at a host family's guest quarters on a military base which is made possible by the Department of Defense.

In an interview with Jayne and Anna, they were asked what they hope to gain through this experience. Anna, being a history major, stated, "I can see the world from a different perspective and visit the places I've only read about in my textbooks". Jayne, who plans to be an elementary school teacher expressed that she wants to "bring all sorts of experiences into the classroom and make them real to my students."

While living in Germany, the women plan to visit Switzerland, Austria, Italy and France.

Upon their return, Jayne and Anna plan to share their experiences through videotapes, slides, and lectures. They are hoping to get funds from the "Opening Doors to the World Grant Program" to make such a presentation possible.

In her closing statement, Jayne stated, "The doors are open, people just need to walk through them."

Interest in Forming New Fraternity Arises

By JOE HARPER
News Staff

Longwood has five recognized fraternities, but that number could change to six. According to Bobby Williams, president, IFC, over 40 men in the last year have approached the Greek Affairs Office and expressed interest in forming a new fraternity.

This issue emerged in IFC meetings more than once, hence a committee was created to explore the possibility of expansion. This Expansion Committee is chaired by Bobby Williams, and is composed of Steven Dealph, Greek Affairs Advisor; Sue Saunders, Dean of Students; one representative from each fraternity; and one representative from Pan Hellenic Council.

The first meeting was held on the 13 of November, Wednesday. At this meeting, it was decided to mail about 15 letters to National Fraternities. These letters stated Longwood's interest in expansion of Greek Life, as well as the history and status of our system.

In order for a fraternity to form a colony, the members must petition the IFC in order to be recognized and to join the council. The colony must meet constitutional (IFC's) requirements before it will be accepted, said Williams.

In order for a colony to successfully petition IFC, a three-fourths majority must be won. Williams also expressed the fact that the expansion process take time, and that it will be a while before we start seeing any new social Greek letters on campus.

Phone Registration Unveiled

By LINDA CAROLE WRIGHT
Features Staff

"What time do you have?"

"1:25."

"Great, I have to be in class in five minutes. Look at this line."

"Really? I am cutting one right now to try and get all my classes."

"I wish they would speed up registration."

TRAVIS-telephone registration and voice information system is a new process available for easier and quicker registration, and will be available to most students during registration next semester.

Jon Erikson and Rose Hurley in Telecommunications said Longwood students "always have the opportunity to register in the traditional way, but TRAVIS is a more convenient method."

Mr. Erikson said the registration "appointment times will stay for the immediate future." "TRAVIS is a trial program" said Mrs. Hurley.

TRAVIS is "voice menu-driven computerized method to register" said Mrs. Hurley. All a student needs is an "authorization code, social security number, course numbers and a telephone" to use the system stated Mrs. Hurley. Dr. James Cross Vice President of Research and Information Systems said "students will be billed a $5.00 fee for phone registration on his telecommunications bill." "A student pays the fee only if he registered successfully for at least one course," said Dr. Cross.

"If a student does not have an authorization code come get one from Telecommunications" said Mrs. Hurley.

The only students who may not use TRAVIS are those with a Stop Code or "first semester transfers or freshmen" according to Mr. Erikson.

TRAVIS may be used anytime "Monday through Friday 1 a.m. until 8 p.m. and all day on Saturday or Sunday during normal registration time by calling 395-2326", said Mr. Erikson.

Registration will still follow class order and students are "not restricted to the appointment time but to the date" stated Mr. Erikson.

Mrs. Hurley said TRAVIS is not just for registration "any student who has applied for financial aid will be able to check on the status of the aid."

TRAVIS allows "students to call from home (long distance) and avoid long waiting lines", said Mrs. Hurley.

Farmville & Longwood Police Link Arms to Solve Incidents

By TRACI HASSELL
News Staff

There is a strong connection between the Farmville police force and Longwood's campus police.

The most recent incident occurred at 10:30 p.m. last week. A call came in to Farmville alerting them of an armed robbery that took place at Fas-Mart on Third Street.

An undisclosed amount was retrieved by the three perpetrators. The closest estimate is around $60.

Farmville gave the description to Campus Police as one white male and two black males. Officer Thornton spotted a vehicle that fit the description and followed it up to High Street and First Avenue.

The male in the back seat had a gun laying beside him. They were all ordered to place their hands in front of them, and Officer Thornton contacted Farmville police.

Since there was constant communication between the two forces, Farmville arrived immediately.

Officer Griles of Farmville police took the three males into custody, who reside within the county. All three males were charged with armed robbery. The three weapons consisted of two .32 automatics and one .22 revolver.

"Goes to show the cooperation between the two departments is working. Officer Thornton was professional and did an excellent job," commented Officer Griles.

The town of Farmville is working to resolve the assaults that have been happening on campus. Their concern stems from the fact that similiar attacks have been reported in town.

Apart from the four assaults, there are two more current incidences dealt with by the police forces.

A larceny occurred with a vehicle parked behind Bedford. A window was broken and a stereo was stolen from it. Another vehicle was smashed on the driver's side by a student. This individual will most likely be charged with reckless driving.

There are numerous ways the Campus Police are in the process of alleviating these potential problems. They have brought people in to look at pictures of individuals believed to be suspects.

They have indirectly developed five suspects in the assaults. One suspect is believed to have been a victim in a shooting in town.

Lighting is being improved throughout the grounds and around dorms. They have had requests to look at the sidewalk behind Jarman. This funding may be assisted by some groups on campus.

Self defense classes are being conducted by Officer Finch. Any group that is interested in this service can contact the Campus Police office.

Chief Huskey considers the Escort Service a big help. They usually start operation at 7 p.m. every night. There have been complaints about their lack of publicity. They encourage the help of anyone that wants to make signs.

They will give escorts to males, as well as, females. Since, out of all the victims in the assaults, only one was female.

Priorities are given to incoming calls, ranging from medical needs, fights, or escorts. Thus, those of least importance may experience a wait period.

The cops riding the bicycles have been suspended to next semester due to the cold weather. "While we did have it, the officers enjoyed it. You're going to see a lot of it this spring," said Chief Huskey.

There are extra officers staffed on weekends. Normally, there are two officers on duty, which has been extended to three and as many as five.

Chief Huskey attended a meeting of the Residence Life Work Group to answer their questions. These questions concerned the lighting around campus, dispatching, the Escort Service, and vandalism.

If anyone has any suggestions in improving the security and lighting on campus, Chief Huskey and Sgt. Rhodes would be willing to hear them.

The security doors on campus are not working properly. This has been brought to Phyllis Mable's and Dave Rettig's attention.

"Good system. Idea behind it is great — get the locks working, it will be useful," commented Chief Huskey.

Greater effort is being exerted by the police forces. Through the linking together of the different systems within the two departments, Longwood can become a safer place.

Residence Hall Association Dedicated to Improving Campus Life

By SHERRY GATEWOOD

Residence hall life is an important issue for students who live on campus. The Residence Hall Association, or RHA, is dedicated to improving the quality of life on Longwood's campus.

The organization was founded two years ago by a group of students who wanted to improve conditions for students living on campus. The Residence Hall Association is composed of the organization's officers and representatives from each Hall Council. It does not take the place of each residence hall's council, but acts as a building-unifying body which contributes to activities. Also in the meetings are the advisors, Aaron Stanley, The Residence Education Coordinator in Curry and Lynnette Jennings of the Housing Office.

RHA's goals are to unite the individual hall councils, to provide information about campus issues, and to act as a link between the students and administration. "I really feel the administration needs a bridge with the students...so they will be more aware of what's going on in the residence hall," says Scott Strader, the current RHA president.

In order to reinforce this communication, the organization's president meets regularly with the Dean of Students, Sue Saunders; and the vice-president meets with David Rettig, Director of Housing. Strader adds that this has been "very effective" with the administration, but that student apathy is a more difficult issue.

RHA works closely with each Residence Hall Council to develop programs and resolve problems in the buildings. Some proposed programs this year will deal with gender roles, racial identity, and vandalism. The group also hopes to extend Curry Hall Beautification, an attempt to instill building pride in its residents, into a campus-wide contest where the residence halls compete against each other.

RHA officers are elected at large by the student body each year. The president is elected in December and all other positions are on the spring semester Student Government Association ballot. The president also acts as a member of the Student Government Association's senate. Residence Hall Association meetings are held on Wednesday nights at 9 p.m. on Conference Room 3 in the Lankford Student Union. Students are invited to attend.

Play Heightens Disability Awareness

By ANN RENEE HEIM
Assistant Features Editor

On Monday, November 25, the Learning Center will present A Horse of A Different Color written by Jane E. Jarrow, in the Rotunda at 6:30 p.m. for the student body.

1991 is officially the Year of Disability Awareness in the United States. A Horse of A Different Color introduces five disabled characters, all of which remain unnamed throughout the production. In the play, the physically challenged communicate their disabilities, acknowledging the lack of understanding that the nondisabled have.

Directing this production is senior David Nelson Richards who feels obligated to direct such a production because, as a dyslexic he has often been victimized by the insensitivity and impatience of those who cannot understand his feelings, or the frustration, often caused by his condition.

Richards cast the show himself. The characters include a paraplegic, played by senior Rick Codding; a cancer patient, played by junior Cheryl Barakey; a deaf woman, played by junior Ann Renee Heim; a dyslexic, portrayed by senior Andrew Wheeler, and freshman J. J. Wiese will play a character very familiar to him, that of a blind young man. Wiese is legally blind.

The characters remain unnamed because disabilities can happen to anyone — nature is unprejudiced. A Horse of A Different Color runs about 20 minutes and all students are encouraged to attend.

Fraternities, Sorority Investigated for Hiring Strippers

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (CPS) — Officials at the University of Virginia have put one fraternity on probation and are investigating another fraternity and a sorority in three incidents that involved male and female strippers.

The student newspaper, The Cavalier Daily, reported that Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity was placed on probation for hiring two female strippers who performed homosexual acts at a rush party.

The two other investigations involve the hiring of strippers for entertainment by a different fraternity and a sorority's hiring of a male dancer.

In a letter to students published in the newspaper, president Robert Canevari wrote, "Even when legal, a striptease performance may be offensive for the attitudes it conveys to the university community at large."

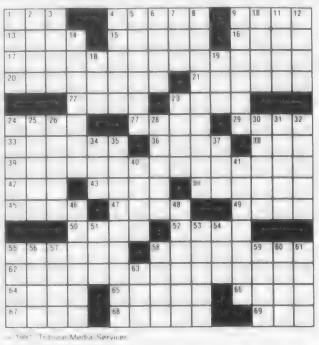
Beer Drinkers of America Education Project
PARTY Smart

PERINI PIZZA
•Subs •Tacos
•Pizza •Pasta
•Salads •Ice Cream
Tray Eppes -LIVE-
Every Wednesday
LIVE BAND-SAT. 23
Southwind
8:30pm-12am
ABC-ON

— FREE —
PREGNANCY TEST
116 N. Main St.
Mon. 9am-1pm
T&Th 2pm-6pm
All services confidential.
Same day results.
SOUTHSIDE PREGNANCY CENTER
24-HOUR HOTLINE
392-8483

Virginia Shoe Factory Outlet
CHRISTMAS SALE
•Discounted Shoes $29.95
•New line of Bucks available!
•Buffalo Creek Leather Boots
(custom designed for J. Crew and Polo)

•Complete Line of New Balance sport shoes
There's Something New... At VA. SHOE
228 Main Street

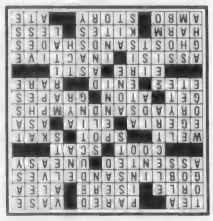


COMICS

NO EXIT by Erik Andresen

THE Crossword

By Kathryn Righter



ACROSS
1 Tisane
4 Trimmed
9 Flower holder
13 Border in heraldry
15 River to the Rhone
16 Epithet of Athena
17 Folklore creatures
20 Acquiesced
21 Restive
22 Aquatic bird
23 Begone!
24 Strengthened
27 Stain
29 Card game
33 Woman counselor
36 Lamb
38 — rule (usually)
39 Mythological creatures
42 Acquire
43 Solar deity
44 "— of Wrath"
45 Fr. seasons
47 Camelot character
49 Uncommon
50 Ireland
52 Piedmont city
55 Home of St. Francis
58 Idle
62 Wraiths
64 Damage
65 Members of the hawk family
66 Not so much
67 Church desk
68 Tale
69 Consumed

DOWN
1 Roman garment
2 Cupid
3 Vestments
4 Piebald
5 Balance sheet items
6 Peruse
7 Sea eagle
8 Subtracting
9 Gentlemen's gentlemen
10 Edison's middle name
11 Notices
12 Facile
14 Tragedy by Sophocles
18 Daughter of Cadmus
19 Alfonso's queen
23 Auctioneer's call
24 Slab
25 Heron's cousin
26 Philippine island
28 Finnish coin
30 Gr. letter
31 Son of Jacob
32 Demi-—
34 Mountain in Crete
35 Footnote indicators
37 Seaport in Scot.
40 Top grade
41 Conjugal
46 Earthquake: pref.
48 Temper
51 Advocate: suff.
53 Impudent
54 Exclamation of vexation
55 Turk. title
56 Pillowcase
57 Service tree
58 Division word
59 Notion
60 Garment
61 Being: Lat.
63 River island

— Tribune Media Services

ANSWERS

SERVICES OFFERED

Word Processing, Term Papers, Thesises, Transcriptions and Resumes typed for you. Call Devyn - 561-3124!

FOR SALE

SCUBA EQUIPMENT FOR SALE

Brand new B.C., weight belt with weights, men's. Hardly been used. For all - $150 firm!

For info contact Keith Johnson at 223-4285 or leave message. Will meet with you if necessary.

NOTICES

A.B.S. will be selling Gobblergrams for Thanksgiving on Sat., Nov. 23rd - Mon., Nov. 25th in the New Smoker. The price is $1 and includes the "Gobblergram" and small pieces of candy. So send your favorite jive turkey one!!!

Wednesday, Nov. 20 – Saturday, Nov. 23 8:00 p.m. PICNIC by William Inge.

Presented by the Longwood Players and directed by Pamela Arkin. Watch for your favorite actors and actresses:

Walter Alford, Jessica Billones, Cindy Callahan, Terri Cooper, Kim Graves, Michelle Neubeckes, Wendy Ragland, David Richards, Laura Sergeant, Joseph Servis, J.J. Weise.

Attention! The Longwood College Escort Service is now in operation! Be safe, call campus police for your student escort!

A.B.S. is sponsoring a Talent Showcase on Dec. 3rd in the Lancer Cafe at 8 p.m. There is a $2 entry fee. The entry fee and applications must be returned by Nov. 22nd. For more information, contact Donnie at 3630 or Candice at 3774. Prizes will be awarded to the best 3 acts!! Everyone is urged to participate!!

PERSONALS

The brothers of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity — Good luck with the step-show!! I'm sure you'll do great!! — Donnie

Sara – I'm sorry! – A Friend.

A.B.S. Members — Have a great Thanksgiving and don't eat too much!! — Donnie

ΔZ Pledges – Good luck this week during your Lamplightings. I will miss not having my eight baby Delta Zeta's anymore. I know that you guys are going to make wonderful sisters. – Love Mom.

LLT" – Hoping you do well on upcoming exams. My mind and heart are with you, and I'll be there for you always. My love — Q

LANCERS are #1

Chill and Woo-Woo — Congratulations on becoming members of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority! I am very proud of you!! — D-Nice

Men's Basketball: Good luck this weekend at the Par Bill's Tip-off Tournament and with the upcoming season. We're with you all the way!

MJ Later ... CMC

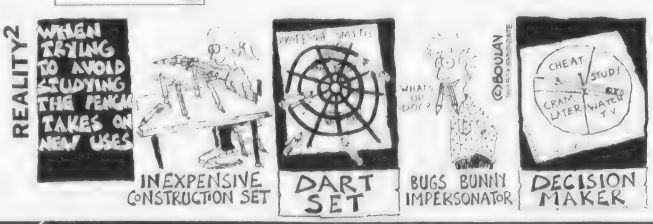
Johnail and Cassie, (my buddies) — I hope this weekend is all that you want it to be! Do good - I'll be cheering for you!! If not - I'll dis you (just joking) — Love ya tons!! D-Nice

Lancer Cheerleaders: Good luck with your first game of the season. You are all doing a wonderful job and I appreciate your dedication and hard work. Keep it up. Remember, '91 is our year! Kay

EXAMINATION SCHEDULE
FALL SEMESTER 1991

Students having three examinations on one day may take one of the examinations during a scheduled makeup period. The instructor works out the arrangements with the student.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 7	READING DAY
EXAM DAY/DATE	9 a.m.-12 p.m.	2-5 p.m.	7-10 p.m.
MONDAY, DECEMBER 9	ENGLISH 051, 100 101, CONFLICT, OR MAKEUP	M/W/F 11:30	M/W/F 9:30 M/W Classes with start times 5:30 or later & Monday Evening Classes
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 10	M/W/F 9:30	T/R 8:30	M/W/F 4:30 T/R Classes with start time 5:30 p.m. or later & Tuesday Evening Classes
WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 11	T/R 11:20	M/W/F 1:30	TR 3:55 M/W Classes with start times between 5:30 & 7:30 p.m. & Wednesday Evening Classes
THURSDAY, DECEMBER 12	M/W/F 10:30	T/R 2:30	M/W/F 2:30 T/R Classes with start times between 5:30 & 7:30 p.m. & Thursday Evening Classes
FRIDAY, DECEMBER 13	T/R 9:55	M/W/F 12:30	M/W/F 3:30 AND CONFLICT OR MAKEUP



50 Reasons To Be Thankful:

(Pick your own order)

— By Laurie Myers

1. God
2. food
3. clean water
4. shelter
5. heat
6. clothes
7. the Bill of Rights
8. shoes
9. your health
10. sanity
11. education
12. the Earth
13. Spring
14. Summer
15. Autumn
16. Winter
17. hope
18. music and art
19. changes in the Soviet Union
20. diversity
21. love
22. pets
23. Midol
24. literacy
25. friends
26. indoor plumbing
27. common sense
28. money (when we have it)
29. modern technolgy
30. dreams
31. medical insurance
32. alarm clocks
33. the fall of the New Kids
34. books
35. hugs and kisses
36. Domino's Pizza
37. family
38. talent
39. memories
40. chocolate
41. electricity
42. laughter
43. tears
44. financial aid
45. wisdom
46. mail in your box
47. democracy
48. weekends
49. youth (in body or spirit)
50. life

Everyday is Thanksgiving!

Campus Calendar

Information on events should be submitted to the Student Union Office in Lankford by the Friday preceding the appropriate issue of the paper.

Wednesday November 20

Rotunda Staff Meeting: Interested in working - come join us. 6:00 pm Lankford Conf. Rm. 3.

Workshop: Exam Management Strategies. 7:00pm Learning Center Conference Room.

Play: Picnic. 8:00pm Jarman

Intramurals: Foulshooting EB due before meeting.

Thursday November 21

Informal Discussion with Secretary of Education Dyke: Open to all! 8:30am Gold Room.

Workshop: Stress Management. 1:00pm Learning Center Conference Room

Thanksgiving Dinner. Blackwell Dining Hall

Play: Picnic. 8:00pm Jarman

Intramurals: Weekend Walleyball E-B's Due

Friday November 22

Movies: Home Alone 9:00 pm Gold Room

Play: Picnic. 10:00am and 8:00pm Jarman

Men's Basketball: Par Bill's Tip Off Tournament 7:00 and 9:00pm Lancer Hall

Saturday November 23

Men's Basketball Tournament: 7:00 and 9:00pm Lancer Hall

Intramurals: Weekend Walleyball.

Play: Picnic. 8:00pm Jarman

Sunday November 24

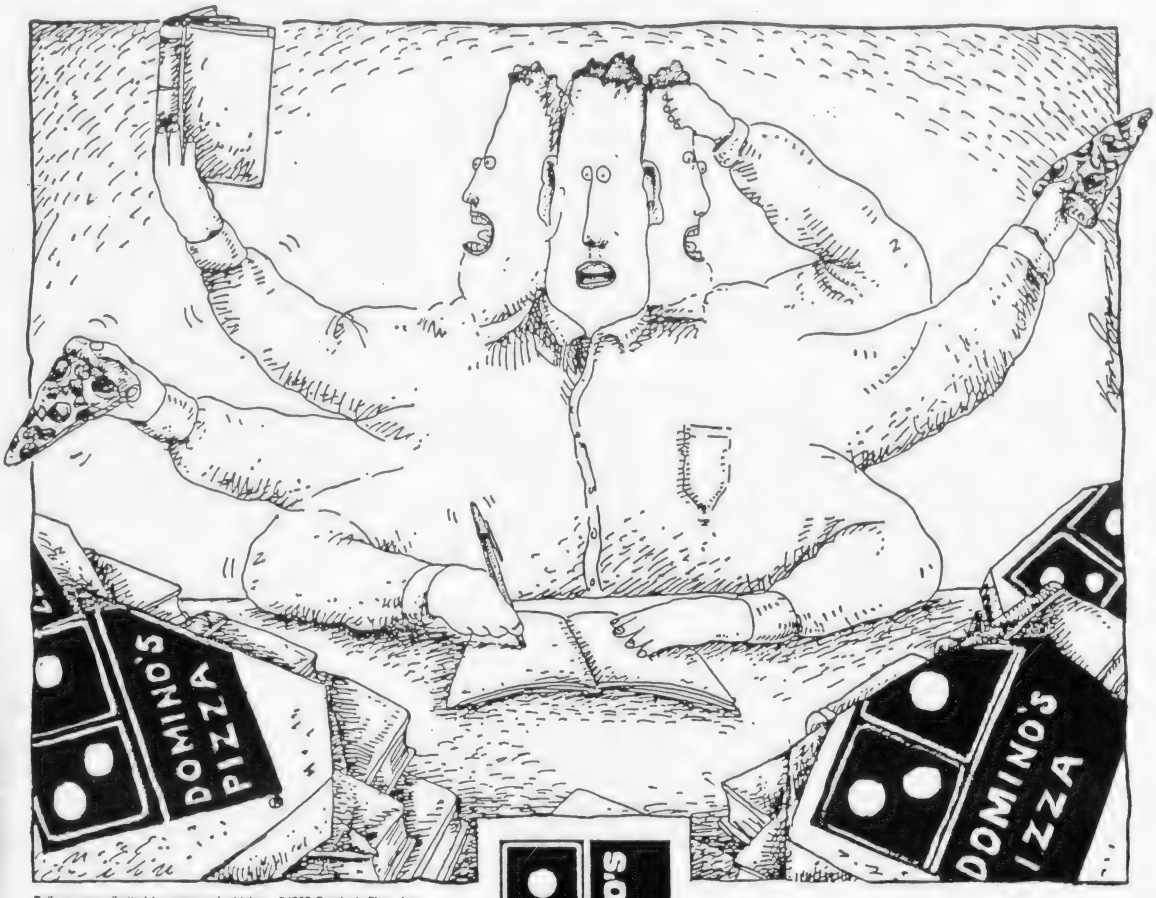
Monday November 25

Commuter Student Association Meeting: 4:30pm Conference Room 1, Lankford.

Women's Basketball: Pfeiffer College. 5:15pm Lancer Hall

SGA Meeting: 6:00pm Conference Room 1, Lankford.

Concert Band Concert 8:00pm Jarman



Movies: Home Alone 9:00 pm Gold Room

Tuesday November 26

HOLIDAY BREAK BEGINS AFTER CLASSES!!

CRAMMING FOR EXAMS?

Delivery areas limited to ensure safe driving. ©1989 Domino's Pizza, Inc.

DOMINO'S PIZZA®

IT'S TIME FOR DOMINO'S PIZZA.™

Call Us! 392-1820 Hours: 11:00 am - 3:00am Dec. 2 - Dec. 13

OPEN UNTIL 3:00 AM DURING EXAMS!

DORM WARS

Which ever floor on Longwood's campus buys the most pizzas from the Farmville Domino's Pizza store during the week of 12/2 - 12/8 wins a 25 - 50 pizza party at a time of their choosing. See your RA for details and coupons!

SPORTS

Lancers Open Season Friday In Par-Bil's Tourney

The curtain rises for the Longwood men's basketball team Friday night when the Lancers host the ninth Par-Bil's tip-Off Tournament in Lancer Hall.

Longwood makes its 1991-92 debut under second-year coach Ron Carr with a 7:00 contest against West Liberty, South Carolina Spartanburg, the pre-tournament favorite, and Erskine College square-off at 9:00. Winners will meet Saturday night at 9:00 for the championship while the losers play at 7:00.

Longwood has won three of the last five tournaments and three of eight overall. Lenoir-Rhyne won last year, handing the Lancers a 64-55 loss in the title game. Par-Bil's Food Store of Farmville is sponsoring the tip-off tournament for the ninth consecutive year.

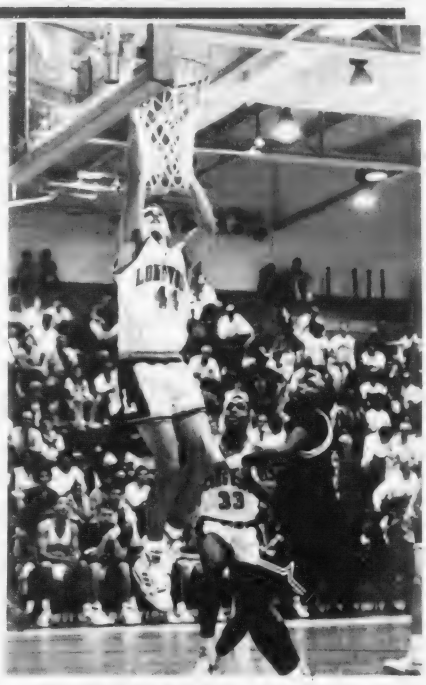
USCS Favored To Win

South Carolina Spartanburg, 26-3 last season, returns two-time All-American Ulysses Hackett. The Rifles have been ranked 10th in a preseason Division II poll which appeared recently in Basketball Times. Both Erskine, 14-15 a year ago, and West Liberty, 3-23 last season, have all five starters returning.

Longwood, with two starters and four squad members back from an 11-17, opens the season with many new faces. Coach Carr feels his team has the ability to improve on last season's 46.1 percent shooting from the floor.

"We've got more people who can shoot the ball than last year," says Carr. "I've been pleased with our teamwork, but I'm a little concerned overall with our defense. We've had a lot of breakdowns and mental lapses that have been hurting us in practice."

Carr says returning starters Joe Lowe and Bryan Weaver , plus junior college transfer Jock Burns will be on the floor when the Lancers open the season. He'll choose the other two starters from a group which includes junior Chuck Laster, sophomore Charles Brown and freshmen J. B. Neill and Matt Watkins.



Lowe, a 6-2 senior point guard, averaged 9.2 points and 5.0 assists last season. Weaver, the team captain, is a 6-6 forward who had averages of 6.6 points and a 5.8 rebounds. The 6-5, 240-pound Burns, was a starter for NJCAA II National Champion Danville Area Community College last season.

Among the top reserves will be junior Keith Crabtree and sophomores Michael Druitt and Adam Huffman. Other Lancers include freshmen Jimmy Spicer and Tony Wools and sophomores Buddy Whitehurst and Adrian Holland. Holland plans to red-shirt this season.

Carr says the early part of the season will be a real test for his ball club.

"With our season opener Friday night and a game against either Erskine or Spartanburg Saturday night we have a tough opening weekend," said Carr. "Then we face Francis-Marion in the opening round of the Lenoir-Rhyne tournament and travel to East Carolina the following Monday.

"If we can survive that stretch and another one after the Christmas break, we should be okay."

Bryan Weaver lays it up in action from last year. The Lancers season opener, the Par-Bil's Tip-off, is this Friday night at 7:00pm in Lancer Hall.

Letter from the Sports Editor

By CHARLIE E. FULTZ
Sports Editor

There comes a time in everyone's life when they must say goodbye to someone or something. Well, my time has come to say farewell to The Rotunda newspaper. Because I will be student teaching next semester I will no longer be able to fulfill the sports editor's shoes (I think I just heard some administrators stand up and holler "Hooray"). It is also time for me to thank the people responsible for helping me in my 2 1/2 years as editor.

First of all I have to thank Hoke Currie, Greg Prouty and all of the people at the Sports Information Desk for all the hard work they have put in getting the sporting information to me. I really appreciate everything you all (Southern dialect) have done for the paper. The sports page wouldn't have happened without your help.

Secondly, I would like to thank Sandra, Betty, and everyone else at The Farmville Herald for their work in making the paper a success. Sandra and her quick typing skills were there when I needed something or when I needed a quick personal (LM!). Betty, you helped me every time I needed headlines, and you both put up with so much of my bull. And the rest of the Herald staff for making my job a whole lot easier. Your help has been greatly appreciated.

Bruce Gantt, if you are still in this world somewhere, thanks for getting that snot nosed sophomore headed in the right direction two and a half years ago. Without your guidance I would have been completely lost. (Monica G., I am not forgetting you either, OK?) And to Brad Owen, thanks for standing by me when the going got a little rough this semester (you know what I am referring to here).

Thank you Paul, Gene, Eric and Bruce for being the best you can be; your music is always an inspiration.

I know I am going to get some response as I thank Tom Fletcher, Buddy Bolding, and Don Stuart for their concerns this past semester on a particular article I wrote. I thank you for keeping my life on the edge, and I really did enjoy those weeks in question. On the same note, thanks to all of the faculty, staff, administration who stood behind me during those H@#L weeks!! Without the support from you all (darn Southern dialect again), I would have been in dire straits (money aint' for nothing...). Finally, I thank The Rotunda for helping me learn that eveyone has a voice to be heard and a story to tell. That's what this paper is for. Speak out if you feel the need and if you have a legitimate complaint or just want to be heard. It's your right, USE IT (Mr. Woods, is there a point to what was said?).

I wish The Rotunda staff the best, and to everyone good luck on your upcoming exams.

Charlie E. Fultz

Wrestlers Subdue Newport News Apprentice

By GREG PROUTY

Longwood College's wrestling team opened its home schedule on a positive note last Wednesday night defeating Newport News Apprentice 32-8 in a dual match in Lancer Hall. The Lancers moved their record to 1-0, while Newport News Apprentice dropped to 1-1 on the season.

Gaining wins for Longwood were freshman Nate Brown, a 14-10 decision over Jimmy Hall at 118; senior Kevin Haller, 6-4 over Jammie Devanny at 134; freshman Joe Silvus, a 11-2 major decision over Danny Carroll; sophomore James Mauldin, an 12-4 decision over Tom Schuster; and sophomore Brette Arbogast recorded a pin over Mathew Watson.

Senior Paul Rafferty and freshman Anthony Dickens were awarded forfeit victories at 126 and heavyweight respectively. Freshman Roy Littleton lost a tough 8-3 decision to Lorenza Branch at 150, as did freshman Bryan Hartley by an identical score to Arthur Whitaker at 167. Senior captain Kevin McSherry lost a very close 7-6 decision at 158 to NNA's Chuck Worley.

"I was pleased with how the guys competed," commented coach Steve Nelson. "Our freshmen kept their composure. I was especially pleased with Joe Silvus and Bryan Hartley, and James Mauldin dominated his match after falling behind early."

Longwood returns to the mat Wednesday with a dual match against Virginia Tech in Blacksburg at 7:30 p.m.

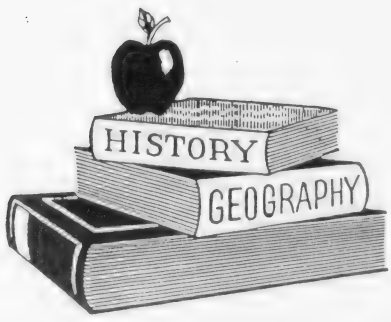
Arbogast Named Player of the Week

By GREG PROUTY

Sophomore wrestler Brette Arbogast has been named the first winter sports season Longwood College Player of the Week for the period Nov. 10-17. Player of the Week is selected by the Longwood College sports information office.

Arbogast, a natural 177-pounder, moved up in weight class last Wednesday in a dual match with Newport News Apprentice. Wrestling in the 190-pound class, Arbogast recorded the first pin of the season for the Lancers as he defeated Mathew Watson of NNA before a vocal crowd in Lancer Hall. Longwood went on to defeat Newport News Apprentice 32-8 for a record of 1-0.

The son of Clinton and Janet Arbogast, Brette attended Brentsville High School in Manassas where he was a state runner-up in wrestling. After high school he completed a stint with the military where he competed in freestyle wrestling garnering second in the nation in his division.



Arbogast briefly attended Gannon University before transferring to Longwood.

Sell

Book$

for

Ca$h

BRING THEM TO:

LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE

MONDAY, DECEMBER 9 THRU FRIDAY, DECEMBER 13

9:00 A.M. - 5:00 P.M.

Phone 395-2084

Longwood College

VOL. 71, NO. 10 FEBRUARY 5, 1992

Rotunda

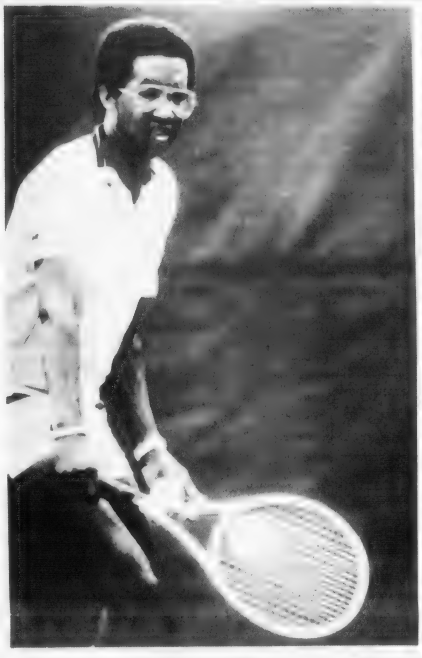
Budget Axe Hits 10-20% Tuition Hike Expected

By DINA M. DAWSON
News Staff

Someone once said that life turns on a dime, and recent actions incurred here at Longwood, as a result of another state budget cut of three percent, demonstrate the validity found in that particular statement. Just last semester an article was featured in the Rotunda, detailing for students, information of Longwood's current plans to construct official entrance ways onto the campus, the first of which was to be built between the Bristow and Curry buildings. The construction project was to cost around $200,000 and was to include the building of a second entrance way to the school in addition to having trees and shrubs planted around the edge of campus.

It was announced that all four year and community colleges within the state of Virginia had to reconstruct a new budget for this fiscal year, taking an additional three percent cut, which was to be given back to state, in hopes of helping Virginia during its current economic problems. The state also asked four year and community colleges to prepare a new budget for next fiscal year again taking a budget cut, this time at five percent.

According to a memo circulated among the employees here at Longwood, the three percent budget cut this fiscal year resulted in $319,000 to be given back to the state, roughly the estimated costs of the new entrance way construction project, excess tuition, and salary savings. According to Mr. Rick Hurley, Vice-President of Business Affairs, this was a move that "came out of the blue", especially at a time when "it seemed like the state was in good shape." Mr. Hurley also stated that the entrance way construction project was the project put on hold because "it was the most expendable project. The project of fixing the baseball field was already underway and the renovation of the New Smoker area is a project that is badly needed." However, Mr. Hurley stated that he has not lost hope in construction entrance ways to the school and that he plans to keep the architects working on the idea.



The idea of raising student tuition next semester was an alternative that was considered but Mr. Hurley stated that it was not the alternative selected because "it is not a fair thing to do to students and parents as they do not necessarily have more money, and it is not fair to tell students this is how much it costs to attend Longwood for the year and to then raise the price."

Tuition will be raised next year as the college makes out a new budget for next fiscal year, taking a five percent cut. According to Mr. Hurley, this was one of the few open alternatives for the college, as he stated that there was "no other way to cut the budget."

So far the budget has already been cut seventeen percent, fifteen people have been left unfilled, and the state has put a "freeze on hiring except of faculty." Therefore, to avoid cutting student aid, tuition will be raised from 10 to 20 percent, meaning an increase for in-state students, and more for students from out-of-state.

Mr. Hurley went on to add that the financial situation could get worse "as long as the state refuses to increase taxes," and that with the state, "there is the assumption that students and parents have the ability to pay for such increases," which he feels is "taxation without representation, and not good public policy."

As a bright note to the new budget cuts recently imposed on all four year and community colleges, Mr. Hurley added that "Longwood's ability to handle the cut shows that we are a pretty solvent institution."

ARTHUR ASHE

Ashe Features in Civility Program

Tennis star Arthur Ashe will be the featured speaker for Longwood College's second annual Civility Program.

He will speak on Wednesday, Feb. 12, at 7 p.m. in Jarman Auditorium. The public is welcome to attend free of charge.

A native of Richmond, Ashe won his first tennis championship when he was 17 — the 1960 U. S. Tennis Association's National Junior Indoor title. As a student at UCLA, he earned All-American honors and won both singles and doubles in the 1965 NCAA Intercollegiate Championships.

In 1968, while a U.S. Army officer stationed at West Point, Ashe won the first U.S. Open as an amateur, was ranked No. 1 in the world, and helped the U. S. team defeat Australia for its first Davis Cup victory in five years.

He won the Australian Open in 1970 and defeated Jimmy Connors for the Wimbledon championship in 1975, achieving top world ranking in men's tennis for the second time. Sidelined with health problems in 1977, he returned to the professional tennis tour the following year and was again ranked among the top 10.

Ashe suffered a heart attack in the summer of 1979 and underwent quadruple bypass surgery. He retired from competitive tennis in 1980 and was inducted into the International Tennis Hall of Fame five years later.

Now living in New York City, Ashe is a tennis commentator for ABC Sports and HBO's coverage of Wimbledon. He is the author of three books and an Emmy Award-winning television docu-drama entitled "A Hard Road to Glory," a chronicle of the experiences of black athletes in America. He also writes a tennis column for The Washington Post and an instructional column for Tennis Magazine.

Ashe was instrumental in founding the Association of Tennis Professionals and the National Junior Tennis League, a program that involves inner-city youth in tennis. He is chair of the Black Tennis and Sports Foundation and the Tennis Advisory Staff of Head Sports USA.

He has given much time to fundraising for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, United Negro College Fund, American Heart Association, and others. He also is an outspoken advocate of the anti-apartheid movement in South Africa.

The Civility Program was initiated at Longwood last year to focus on improving people-to-people relationships. It is sponsored by the School of Education and Human Services, in cooperation with the Office of Student Affairs, Longwood United for Racial Equality (L.U.R.E.), and many other campus organizations.

Other events on this year's schedule include a Disability Awareness Simulation by the Therapeutic Recreation Organization; the Student Appreciation Dinner at which faculty and staff members serve students; and "We Applaud Farmville Day" on Feb. 11 when students will be inviting town residents to have lunch with them.

Mary Peterson will give a lecture entitled "Alcohol, Sex, and Stress" at 1:15 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 11, in Jarman Auditorium. This program is sponsored by Longwood's Greek organizations. The speaker is associate director of campus programs and student activities at the University of Iowa. She also is executive director of the Mid-American Panhellenic Council Association and lectures nationwide on social interaction and leadership development, conflict resolution, personnel management and team building.

The Career Planning and Placement Center will sponsor "Civility in the Workplace" on Thursday, Feb. 13, at 1 p.m. in Bedford Auditorium.

"Professors Are People Day" will be Friday, Feb. 14. Longwood students are encouraged to celebrate Valentine's Day by taking a faculty member to lunch in the Dining Hall.

A Civility Workshop for students, faculty, and staff is planned for Saturday, Feb. 29. Dr. Fredrick Preston, vice president for students affairs at the State University of New York at Stony Brook, is guest speaker for the workshop.

SGA Anticipates Productive Year

By ERIN McCAY
Assistant Editor

The Student Government Association of Longwood College (SGA) is looking forward to a productive year. Under the progress-oriented leadership of new president, Darrell Wells, this year's SGA Senate is peopled by proven leaders as well as rising stars in Longwood's leadership scene.

One of the most active members of Longwood's previous SGA Senate, and now a part of the current administration, is corresponding secretary, Jason Walker. Walker gained his seat on last year's senate by becoming the freshman class president. Unlike most first year students, he immediately took a major role in the actions of the SGA. Moving beyond mere rhetoric, Walker took a hands-on approach to addressing the concerns of Longwood's student body.

One of SGA's most important victories last semester, the forcing of a decision by the college to remove the window blocks in Curry dorm, was due almost solely to Walker's tireless energy. Walker first noticed the problem last year. He found that "the windows only opened six inches — not even a window fan could fit in that small of a space," a condition that was decidedly unpleasant in un-air-conditioned Curry. Walker adds that "I took it upon myself to contact the appropriate administrators and register a complaint. We were told that they would not remove them because there was no other way to prevent objects from being tossed out of windows."

Walker, on behalf of the SGA, relentlessly pursued the issue with administrators, and he and a small committee of other SGA representatives met formally with Dave Rettig, Phyllis Mable, Melvin Moore and Rick Hurley to discuss alternatives to the window blocks. A compromise was reached, and because of the lobbying effort by Walker and the SGA, no additional window blocks will be installed, and those still in Curry are to be removed. Instead, screen blocks will be installed to prevent possible safety hazards.

SGA also successfully campaigned for more lighting on campus, an increased number of emergency telephones, and repairs to uneven and damaged sidewalks. The repairs to sidewalks, such as those currently underway beside Lancaster Library, came only after Walker took one campus administrator on a "personalized tour" wherein he pointed out "over 100 trouble spots."

New on the Student Government Association Senate is first year student Emily Pritchard. Pritchard became an active Longwood leader even before classes began. She was one of 30 students selected to become part of the New Student Leadership program, continuing a reputation for involvement stemming from her high school years. After a narrowly-lost bid for the freshman class president seat, she successfully ran for the position of SGA Senator-At Large, at the time one of four positions on the SGA Senate available to first year students. In her short time in office Pritchard has attended a national lobby day in Washington, D.C. and is a vocal supporter for students' rights. Her goal as a member of SGA is "to make students more aware of both local and national issues that effect them and to encourage participation."

The Student Government Association as a whole is trying to become more accessible to Longwood students by establishing regular office hours and setting a general meeting time and location that is convenient to more students: Thursday at 6 p.m. in Lankford Student Union, Conference Room 1. SGA plans on holding its agenda-setting executive meetings at least a day before the general meeting. Both general and executive meetings are open to the public. President Darrell Wells is also establishing a committee structure that will be used to better gain information on issues and present that information to the SGA Senate as a whole.

Some of the issues that SGA plans to address this year are: the creation of an information desk with a public, intercampus telephone in the Rotunda area of Ruffner; the removal of add/drop fees; the creation of a leadership resource center in Lankford Student Union; and the return of "Joanie on the Stonie" to its original location in the center of the Rotunda.

Remember it's 23909 Longwood

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
Features 3
News 4
Comics 5
Sports 6

COMMENTARY

Collegiate Times

Ignorance and the Resurgence of Censorship

By ROBERT LUKEFAHR and PHAEDRA WALKER

On October 28, a conservative radio host scheduled to appear at a "Pro-American Rally" hosted by students at the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee, was confronted by a mob of student protestors determined to prevent his talk. They succeeded. Armed with whistles and signs, the estimated 100 protestors screamed, chanted, blew their whistles, and threw coins, ice and other objects at the guests. Fearing further violence, the speakers left.

Unfortunately, this was not an isolated incident. Unpopular speakers have been shouted down or chased from campus at more than a dozen top-flight schools during the past few years. In addition, over the last four years, conservative student newspapers have been stolen or destroyed at more than 15 of the nation's top 25 universities. These and other examples of campus intolerance have sparked a national debate over "political correctness" and have led Time magazine writer Nancy Gibbs to conclude that "nowhere in the first Amendment more imperiled than on college campuses."

How did things get this way? After all, less than a generation ago college students were demanding more freedom of speech. The simple answer is "ignorance." College students no longer understand the historical and philosophical basis of our constitutional protections. A 1989 survey conducted for the National Endowment for the Humanities reported that less than one-half of the 700 college seniors it surveyed could correctly identify the purpose of The Federalist Papers, and more than one-third confused the words of Constitution of the Soviet Union with those of the American Constitution. As the NEH reported noted, students understanding of the Constitution is "superficial."

But instead of instituting a more rigorous program in the fundamentals of American political philosophy, most colleges and universities have allowed the emasculation of their core requirements. Another NEH survey found that a full 78 percent of colleges and universities no longer require their students to take a course in the history of Western civilization, and a staggering 38 percent require no history at all. When this diluted college curriculum is coupled with the frightful ignorance of high school graduates, the results are a predictable failure to grasp or appreciate the basic protections offered by the Bill of Rights.

Thus, to someone like Canetta Ivy, of the Council of Student Presidents, it seemed completely reasonable to say to a reporter for The New York Times in 1989, "we don't put as many restrictions on freedom of speech as we should." Ms. Ivy, and those who share her views, are bolstered by their heartfelt desire to create a more amendable environment for minority students, and the ironic notion that "intolerance" can be eliminated by refusing to tolerate unpopular speech. But, as President Bush said at the University of Michigan in May, "What began as a crusade for civility has soured into a cause of conflict and even censorship."

If the students of this generation were at all familiar with history, they would know that censoring ideas, even in the name of sensitivity, only serves to make those who hold them more radical and more determined. But absent some understanding of political philosophy and history, young people find it difficult to argue forcefully for the abstract notion of freedom.

Beyond the considerable gaps in the formal curriculum, the informal pedagogy of example — how professors and administrators act when confronted by challenges to free speech — further undermines the generation's respect for civil liberties. Many colleges contribute to the campus intolerance — or at least ratify the attitudes which lead to the suppression of free speech — by adopting speech-restricting codes. According to the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, such codes have been enforced or drafted on almost 70 percent of the nation's campuses. As Harvard Law School Professor Alan Dershowitz recently explained, American colleges are "tolerating and teaching intolerance and hypocrisy."

Another example of this repressive pedagogy at work was evident last month in the University of Wisconsin System. In a perverse affirmation of its commitment to "tolerance" over freedom, the state system is considering an appeal of the recent U. S. District Court decision which ruled UW's restrictive speech code unconstitutional. After the decision, James E. Sulton, special assistant to UW-system president, told the Chronicle of Higher Education, "Everyone seems more concerned about the theoretical abridgement of First amendment rights than about the real abridgement of rights based on racial harassment." Apparently, Mr. Sulton believes that violations of the First Amendment protections are not terribly "real."

The ignorance and misunderstanding being fostered in the twenty-something generation represents the greatest internal challenge to the nation's liberties since the American Tories aided the forces of King George. These students who would gladly circumscribe speech on campus today, will be the journalists, congressmen, and judges charged with defending this right in the next century. It is time the twenty-something generation take up the challenge John Adams issued in 1765: "Let us dare to read, think, speak, and write...let every sluice of knowledge he opened and set a-flowing." It is also time the nation's educators cast aside their own doubts about the American constitutional tradition and begin a program of remedial education in the basics of liberty.

Letters To The Editor

Editor, The Rotunda:

The members of UNITY would like to welcome everyone back for a new semester, wish you the best of luck, and welcome all new students to our campus. Also, we would like to thank the staff of The Rotunda and the Longwood/Hampden-Sydney College communities for providing such a supportive environment for us to grow.

UNITY is the gay/lesbian/bisexual student alliance of Longwood and Hampden-Sydney Colleges. Our purpose is to heighten public awareness of gay, lesbian, and bisexual life issues; promote understanding of these issues among the heterosexuals with whom we share our lives; educate both campuses regarding the prejudices that are the result of homophobic behaviour; and provide a safe and supportive environment for gay, lesbian and bisexual peoples.

Anyone interested in more information about UNITY should call 395-2552.

UNITY

Editor, The Rotunda:

The Society of Fraternity, A non-greek secret society committed to fighting ignorance at Longwood, would like to extend its congratulations to The Underground Players for their production of Sexual Perversity In Chicago and encourage more avant garde presentations.

Fraternity would like to acknowledge the birthday of the Reverend Martin Luther King Jr., since it was barely recognized by the Longwood community.

Fraternity

Editor, The Rotunda:

The Campus Police would like to remind students and faculty/staff of the following information:

Calls for information by students and other members of the Longwood community should be directed to the Info. Center at 2000. The Center's hours are: Mon.-Thurs. 8 a.m.-11 p.m.; Friday, 8 a.m. - midnight; Saturday 11 a.m.-midnight; Sunday 10 a.m. - 11 p.m. Evening calls to the Campus Police are handled by the Town of Farmville dispatcher who is not able to provide information and answer questions. The Longwood Information Center people will be pleased to assist you.

Please note that handicapped parking places are for persons with LW medical permits, Div. of Motor Vehicles handicapped permits, and/or handicapped license plates. Beginning Jan. 20, parking fines for persons parked illegally in handicapped places will be $50, plus any late fees. Handicapped parking places are needed for persons who have special challenges.

Also, a reminder to all students with overdue parking fines: payments are expected now! Seniors will be stop coded for any unpaid tickets. Undergraduates other than the senior class will receive a Stop Code if they have three or more unpaid citations. Decals are required on all vehicles using the campus. All guests must be registered with the Campus Police at the time of their visit. Guests will be held responsible for their tickets if they have not been properly registered.

Laura Haga,
Campus Police

Editor, The Rotunda:

The Rotunda report (November 13) on the October 28 Board of Visitors' meeting included enrollment numbers and an SAT score range that need to be corrected.

The total enrollment for the fall 1991 semester was 3,305 with 3,166 students at the Farmville campus and 139 students at the South Boston-Halifax Continuing Education Center. Of the 3,166 students at the Farmville campus 2,289 were in residence and 877 were commuting. Of the 3,305 total 2,973 were undergraduate and 332 were graduate students. Almost all of the graduate students commute while 81% of the full-time, degree-seeking undergraduate students live in college housing.

The average SAT score (combined verbal and math) of this year's entering freshman class was 950 with the majority of students scoring in the 900-1000 range (not the 800-900 range reported). The national average was 896 and the Virginia average was 890. Longwood freshmen scored significantly higher on the average than freshmen in both the national and Virginia high school populations.

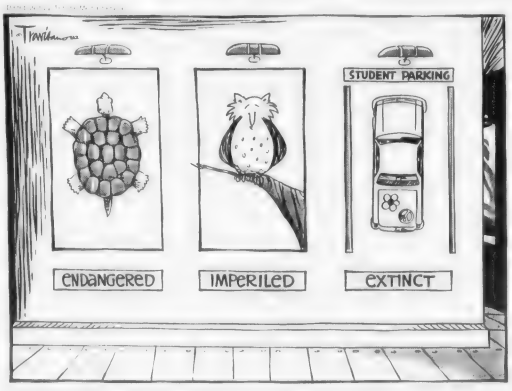
Ralph Brown,
Institutional Reseaarch Office
Robert Chonko,
Admissions Office

Editor, The Rotunda:

We, the Seven Pillars of PRINCEPS, have been assembled from all areas of the college community to form a secret society, by Longwood College's most prominent alumni leaders. This society's beginnings evolved from a common concern. This concern derives from the recognizable, diminishing leadership at this institution.

PRINCEPS exists to support, develop, and encourage leadership in the college community. We believe the promotion of leadership in the Longwood community is the highest expression of our commitment to improving the student body.

We are, and shall be, leaders in our own right. We are committed to being virtuous, vigorous leaders. Such leaders can be found in all areas of our community. We wish to seek out the best leaders to join our number.



We believe secrecy must be a part of our work. We wish to make it clear that we do not exist for self-promoting reasons. Our desire is for everyone to concentrate on our message: BE A LEADER.

The crown has long been a mark of leadership, thus we have chosen it as a part of our symbol. This crown will be visible on campus as a constant reminder of the values of leadership which all people should strive to obtain.

We did not bring ourselves into existence in order to compete with Chi, nor is it our purpose to place ourselves in an adversarial relationship with them. Our place here at Longwood College is to promote leadership. We leave it to Chi to promote spirit.

We wish to thank all the alumni, and faculty who have given so graciously to their time and money in order to finally bring PRINCEPS into the public eye.

PRINCEPS

Rotunda

Box 1133
Farmville, VA
23909

1920
Founding Editor
Helen Skillman

STAFF

Executive Editor
Bradley L. Owen

Editor
Christopher S. Jones

Features Editor
Sherry Gatewood

Sports Editor
-vacant-

Asst. Features Editor
Ann Renee Helm

Layout Editor
-vacant-

Head Photographer
-vacant-

Business Manager/ Associate Editor
Erin C. McCay

Assistant Editor
James K. Johnson

Advisors
Mr. William C. Woods
Ms. Brenda Atkins

Reporters/Assistants: Thomas D. Birchett, IV, Todd Buchanan, Catherine Byers, Michael K. Carter, Dina Dawson, Kathy DiMarino, Sarah Drewry, Lynn Gianni, Travis W. Griffin, Debra E. Mayo, Claude Monger, Christy Motley, Kimberly Mraz, Chris Mullins, Linda M. Nygaard, Kandi Pettus, Rose Ann Pitzl, Tricia Popular, R. Alex Rodriguez, Julie K. Tate, Jennifer Wyatt, and Cassandra Yellis.

EDITORIAL POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration, or trustees. Columns, letters, editorials, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be typed, signed, have a return address, and phone number. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

All contributions shall be addressed to The Rotunda, LC Box 1133, Farmville, VA 23909. Deadline for articles is 5p.m. Friday prior to the Wednesday publication date and these should be place in the envelopes inside the Publication offices door in Lankford or mailed. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by 8p.m. Sunday. All submissions become the property of The Rotunda.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College. The Rotunda is an Associated Collegiate Press and Columbia Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at (804) 395-2120 or faxed to (804) 395-2237.

Need a hand?

An IRS trained volunteer can help you with your taxes FREE. Just call 1-800-829-1040.

Students in the forensics program are (front, from left) Glenn Baron, Becky Wolf, Jenny Martin, Janice Lovell, Christy Crews and Stacey Custer, and (back, from left) John Murray, Bill Fiege, Rohsaan Settle, Jason Pugh and Michelle Hodge. Not pictured are Dawn Pohl and Dawn Wilhelm.

Forensics Team Qualifies for National Finals

Six members of Longwood's forensics team have qualified for national finals in April, bringing to 15 the number who have qualified for national completion since the squad beg a n competing only two years ago.

The students — Glenn Baron, Christy Crews, Bill Fiege, Michelle Hodge, Dawn Pohl and Rohsaan Settle — have qualified for the National Forensic Association (NFA) finals at Mankato State University in Minnesota. Ms. Baron, Fiege, Ms. Hodge and Settle are freshmen; Ms. Crews a senior; and Mrs. Pohl a junior.

Ms. Crews and Ms. Pohl are close to also qualifying for the American Forensic Association (AFA) finals at Washington University in St. Louis, also in April. One must finish in the top six of a category at least once to reach the NFA finals; one has to do so three times to qualify for the AFA finals.

"Qualifying for national finals is truly an honor because the AFA tournament recognizes the top five percent of college competitors and the NFA tournament the top 10 percent," said Dr. Nancy Haga, the team's coach.

Dr. Haga, chair of the Speech and Theatre department, is being assisted this year by Umar Hasan from St. Mary's College in Maryland, and Mrs. Pohl, the team manager. President William F. Dorrill strongly supports the forensics program.

The team competed last semester in tournaments at Howard, George Mason, Appalachian State and Towson State universities, and the College of William and Mary. The squad will compete this semester at American University, York College, St. Mary's College and again at George Mason.

Competition is held in 12 categories in three areas: oral interpretation, limited preparation speeches and public address. "The greatest benefit of forensic competition is that the student learns a lifelong skill of communicating effectively," Dr. Haga noted.

Some five students, including Ms. Crews and Mrs. Pohl, competed last year in the NFA finals at Marshall University in Huntington, West Virginia. Ms. Crews was also among three students who competed last year in the AFA finals at Pacific Lutheran University in Tacoma, WA.

The Longwood forensic team started forming in the fall of 1989, when students practiced among themselves and competed informally against a small number of schools. Official intercollegiate competition began the following spring. The team has competed against several big-name schools, such as Notre Dame, Cornell and Rutgers.

More than 100 Longwood students — including one from China and another from Australia — have participated in the forensics program.

Underground Players Debut

By ANN RENEE HEIM
Assistant Features Editor

Sexual Perversity in Chicago by David Mamet, played Thursday-Sunday, Jan. 16-19 in the studio theatre in Jarman Auditorium. The production was a definite success. It was the first production of the newly formed Underground Players, sponsored by Alpha Psi Omega, the National Dramatic Honorary Fraternity.

Directed by senior David Nelson Richards, the president of Alpha Psi Omega, the production was the first in a series of full-length plays to be performed there.

Members of the cast included junior Leslie Young, senior Michelle Neubecker, junior Jon Church, senior Andrew Wheeler, and junior Rick Codding.

According to Richards, the cast expected 150 students to come out for the show, but because of the interest it generated, the cast performed an encore performance on Sunday night to facilitate the students. Total attendance was 314 students. Unfortunately, due to the small size of the theatre, people were turned away on two of the evenings.

Sexual Perversity was later the stem for the movie ...About Last Night. Relaying a story about relationships and the perception of relationships, the show proved comical and touching.

The next Alpha Psi Omega production via The Underground Players will be William Mastrosimone's Extremities. Wheeler will direct and Codding will appear in one of the principle roles. An exhibit of dominance and victimization, Extremities deals with the violence of rape, rage, revenge and recovery. Extremities will open on Wednesday, February 5 at 7 p.m. in the studio theatre.

Wygal Hosts Chamber Concert

The Roxbury Chamber Players will present the next Chamber Music concert at Longwood College on Tuesday evening, Feb. 11, at 8 o'clock in Wygal Recital Hall.

The concert is open to the public free of charge.

The eclectic concert program includes works by three contemporary composers and Samuel Coleridge-Taylor, who died in 1912. His Quintet for clarinet and string quartet, written while he was a student at the Royal Academy of Music in London, shows his admiration for the Czech composer Anton Dvorak, particularly in the slow movement and in the "gypsy rhythms" in the final movement.

Italy: Suite for Flute and Strings is by Olga Gorelli, who was born in Italy and published her first "little pieces" when she was 10 years old. She was educated in the U.S. and has taught at Hollins College and Trenton State College. She presently lives in New Jersey and teaches privately at her home. Her compositions include orchestral and choral pieces, two operas, two dance dramas, a mass, and works for voice and various combinations of instruments.

Other works on the program are String Quartet No. 1 by Dr. George Walker, Distinguished Professor of Music at Rutgers University, and Diabolus in Musica, written in 1991 by Carson Rothrock, of Trenton, N.J.

Walker has published more than 60 works and is internationally known as a pianist, composer, and spokesperson for the contributions of black classical composers. His compositions have been performed and recorded by many of the world's major orchestras.

Rothrock has composed concert music, songs, and music for television themes, films, and commercials. He lives in Trenton and teaches instrumental music in Ewing Township, NJ.

Members of the Roxbury Players are Helen Coulson and Bruno Nasta, violins; Maura Eileen Riffe, viola; William Comita, cello; David Niethamer, clarinet; and Patricia Werrell, flute. They are professional musicians in the Richmond and Washington areas. Ms. Werrell also teaches flute at Longwood.

Substance Abuse Prevention Design Contest Announced

The Federal Office for Substance Abuse Prevention (OSAP) announces a contest for college students (including graduate students) or student organizations to create and submit alcohol prevention materials for cash prizes. The contest offers students the opportunity to have their work published and distributed nationwide, to win significant cash prizes and to develop materials that will help others. Awards will be made for: "Special Issue" campus newspaper or magazine on alcohol problems First Prize – $1,500, Second Price – $900, Third Prize – $600.

Alcohol information and prevention booklet or handbook: First Prize – $1,500, Second Prize – $900, Third Prize – $600.

Alcohol prevention poster: First Prize – $500, 9 Runners-up – $300 each.

Entries will be judged for their creativity, originality, accuracy of information, wit, impact, message retention, and overall effectiveness. Winning entries will be published and distributed nationally by OSAP and the National Clearinghouse for Alcohol and Drug Information (NCADI). Each entry must be accompanied by a cover sheet, including name and address of the college; name (s), address (es), and telephone number (s) of the student (s) or student organization; name of responsible student (for an organization); and a signed statement permitting large-scale publication by OSAP. Entries must be received by June 1. Awards will be made in the fall term of the 1992-93 academic year. There are no limits on the number of entries which can be submitted by a student, organization or college.

Send all entries to: OSAP College Contest, 11426 Rockville Pike, Suite 100, Rockville, MD 20852

For further information students should call 1-800-487-1447.

Hey Mr. D.J., Can You Spare Some Air?

By AMY REYNOLDS

(CPS) – The bands, the record companies, the marketing executives, nonprofit organizations, the student disc jockeys — they all want as much as they can.

Air. College air.

Ever since R.E.M. hit the big time via college radio, people with a variety of interests have been playing tug-of-war with college radio stations.

"Ten years ago, college radio was the new frontier," says Troy Trinkle, lead singer of the band Mere Mortals, based in Bloomington, Ind., home to Indiana University. "But now...there are promotion agencies that all they do is call (college stations) every day and bug the hell out of them" to play their records and their bands.

Those stations "don't have to sell ads, they just play what they want," Trinkle says.

College radio stations have more leeway than commercial stations because the Federal Communications Commission prohibits them from airing advertisements.

The additional air time and the notion of college radio as both a musical and educational enterprise have allowed for creative programming. College music formats feature alternative music, punk/hardcore or hard rock that hasn't hit the popular airwaves — at least, not yet.

Hence the appeal to undiscovered bands, like Mere Mortals, that have a recording they want the college audience to hear. Trinkle estimates Mere Mortals spends six or seven hours a day calling about 60 different college radio stations in six states. So far, the effort has netted results in Indiana, Ohio, Tennessee and Illinois at a half dozen stations.

"From a band's perspective, it's a necessary evil. If you can get on 30 (college) stations' lists, that will help you with the bigger (commercial) stations," Trinkle says.

After R.E.M., the Athens, Ga.-based alternative band (now fairly mainstream), made college radio playlists nationwide in the early 1980s, bands saw the potential for success in targeting college radio. But that has meant a virtual saturation of the market.

"Your disc is thrown in the studio with 200 other compact discs that no one's ever heard of," Trinkle says.

To add to the steady stream of arriving music from the bands and promotion agencies, record companies have entered the picture as well.

College radio "gets a lot of attention from record companies," says Gary Landis, vice president and director of programming for Westwood One Radio Networks. "They are now viewed as a definite area to get advanced exposure for a lot of different bands, both new bands and those ignored by the mainstream."

Greg Adamo, general manager of WSIA, the college radio station of the City University of New York College of Staten Island, agrees.

"The commercial record labels are now only sending us the things they want us to break. They are using us for marketing," he says.

Part of the reason is that college radio stations have traditionally played three or four cuts deep into an album even if those cuts haven't been individually released. That, Adamo says, cuts into the record company's profits. "They want to milk the (popular releases) for a while, he says.

College radio has not only become popular from a musical standpoint, but from an advertising standpoint as well.

Since college radio stations do not air commercials, some marketing firms are promoting slickly packaged public service announcements offered by paid sponsors that skirt the guidelines.

Adamo provides a hypothetical example — "Mary's Gas Station located at 50 Main Street reminds you to buckle your seat belt."

And now, these "infotorials" have gone national. A group called College Broadcasting System is marketing many for big-name companies and organizations like Apple Computer, Cosmopolitan Magazine and the U. S. Army.

Chuck Wolfretz, who recently acquired College Broadcasting, based in Connecticut, says about 95 percent of the programming he sends to college stations is accepted. He attributes the success of the two- to five-minute informational messages to the fact that they meet FCC requirements while at the same time meet the needs of the college radio listener.

Adamo says the announcements are commercials in disguise and take time away from valuable community organizations.

"My opinion is that there are so many more needy organizations with public service announcements," Adamo says. He points to the local Red Cross, Salvation Army, college-sponsored events like concerts and local announcements from city departments like the Depart-

(Continued on page 4)

NCCA Approves More Academic Reforms

ANAHEIM, Calif. (CPS) – Academic eligibility standards for freshman athletes will be even tougher beginning in 1995. The change is one of many approved by the National Collegiate Athletic Association at its 1992 annual convention.

The new academic requirement involves increasing an incoming student athlete's minimum grade point average to 2.5 in 13 core curriculum courses and establishing a sliding scale that balances a student's standardized test scores with his or her grade average.

For example, the scale would allow an athlete with a 2.0 to compete if he or she scored a minimum of 900 on the SAT or 21 on the ACT. If the student has less than a 2.0 grade point or scores less than 700 on the SAT or 17 on the ACT, he or she would not be eligible to play sports.

Previously, Proposition 48 stated that athletes must have a minimum 700 on the SAT or 18 on the ACT with a minimum 2.0 grade point in 11 core curriculum courses. No sliding scale existed.

Coaches of the Big East Conference had the most vocal opposition to the new rule, primarily because of a continued complaint against using standardized test scores as an eligibility cut-off device.

The NCAA President's Commission drafted the newly approved academic package.

"About six years ago when propositions 48 and 42 were approved, it was the beginning of academic reform (in the NCAA)," says Rick Evrard, director of legislative services at the NCAA. "This is just a continuation."

Other propositions approved at the NCAA convention include:

•Allowing student athletes to request information about their potential in the professional sports market without losing eligibility – as long as the student does not retain an agent.

The proposal was designed to help students deal with the business aspect of becoming a professional athlete by allowing them to seek "job advice" like other students.

Students athletes, however, cannot enter the NBA or NFL draft and retain eligibility. The Pacific-10 Conference opposed the proposition, fearing that institutions might be held liable if an athlete says he or she received bad advice from his or her university.

•Allowing coaches of major sports powerhouses to continue collecting money for product endorsements and television appearances, but requiring them to first seek permission from the schools' presidents to do so.

•Giving Division I basketball teams more leeway for playing in exhibition games during the Thanksgiving holiday.

The NCAA voted against a measure to create a new football division, Division I - AAA, for smaller Division I schools. And, the full NCAA membership agreed to officially oppose a federal mandate written into the pending Higher Education Reauthorization Act that requires the public disclosure of athletics-related revenue and expenditures at schools.

At the close of the convention, most said they were satisfied with the outcome.

"The 1992 NCAA convention has proved to be one of the most significant in recent memory," Creed Black, of the Knight Foundation Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics, said in a prepared statement. "The reforms approved ... demonstrate the renewed commitment of university presidents and athletic administrators to the integrity of intercollegiate sports and to the academic well-being of the student athlete."

Tassa Nominated for Acting Award

Anthony Tassa, a Longwood College senior, has been nominated for the top collegiate acting award in the nation.

Tassa, a veteran of the Longwood stage, is a candidate for the Irene Ryan Scholarship Award for Excellence in Acting, which is sponsored by the American College Theatre Festival (ACTF). He was nominated by an ACTF adjudicator who visited Longwood in October to see Macbeth, in which he had the lead role.

Tassa, an English major and theatre minor from Woodbridge, will go to Radford University in late January for the second level of competition. If chosen as the regional winner, he will receive a $750 scholarship and advance to national competition at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C., in April. Two national awards of $2500 each will be given.

"Just to be nominated is a very big honor," said Pamela Arkin, assistant professor of acting and voice. "A lot of famous actors and actresses have won the award."

The award is named for the late Irene Ryan, best known as Granny on "The Beverly Hillbillies." A lifelong supporter of community and educational theater, she left her estate to the ACTF.

Two other Longwood students, Amy Church and Chris Hoover, were nominated last year for the Irene Ryan Award. Miss Church competed regionally at the University of Southern Mississippi.

In the regional festival at Radford University, Tassa will compete Jan. 29 in a preliminary round, from which 16 actors will be chosen to compete in regional finals the next day. A team of judges, selected from outside the Southeast region, will choose the regional winner and one alternate.

"You have a total of five minutes to present yourself," Tassa said. "You have to do one piece by yourself, and you have to do another piece with a partner, to see how you interact. I plan to do a monologue from Cyrano de Bergerac, and for the duo category I will sing 'You and I' from the musical Chess. My partner will be Susan Curry, a music major."

He has appeared in several Longwood productions, including Midsummer Night's Dream; Pygmalion; Electra; Ah, Wilderness; The Foreigner, Journey of the Fifth Horse; and The Visit. Last summer, he appeared in three productions — Big River, a children's musical version of Robin Hood, and The Sword of Peace — at the Sword of Peace Outdoor Theater in Snow Camp, N.C.

"I've been doing theater since the fifth grade," he said. "I used to sing with my dad in an Italian restaurant, Villa Napoli, that he ran. My father sang and played guitar, my mother played drums, my uncle played rhythm guitar, and my sister, Teresa, who's a sophomore music major at Longwood, sang."

Tassa still loves music. He plays the guitar and the piano, and he is a member of the Camerata Singers. He also belongs to the Longwood Players and Alpha Psi Omega, an honorary drama fraternity.

He is a great admirer of William Shakespeare, both as a lover of literature and as an actor. He first did Shakespeare in high school, when he played Benvolio in Romeo and Juliet.

Anthony Tassa of Longwood, nominated for the top collegiate acting award in the nation.

"Ever since I read Macbeth in the 12th grade, I had wanted to do that play. I'd like to do it professionally in 10 or 15 years. I would be happy doing Shakespeare in a touring company for the rest of my life. He was a genius; his dialogue always provides clues as to how the lines should be read."

After graduating next May, Tassa plans to study acting in graduate school. His top three choices at Virginia Commonwealth University, the University of Alabama, and Michigan State University.

Golden Corral to Fund Scholarship

The Golden Corral Family Steak House of Farmville will fund the entire scholarship program for this year's Miss Longwood Pageant.

The $3,000 program includes $2,000 for Miss Longwood; $500 for the First Runnerup; $300 for the Second Runnerup; and $200 for the Third Runner-up.

Golden Corral has been associated with the Miss Longwood scholarship program since 1983.

Con Spiratos, Partner/Manager of Golden Corral of Farmville, said that his firm is "proud to be associated with this highly successful pageant, which is widely regarded as one of the best local pageants in America."

As a Miss America preliminary, the Miss Longwood Pageant is part of the world's largest scholarship program for women. At the local, stage, and national Miss America pageants, more than $5,000,000 in scholarships is awarded annually.

H. Donald Winkler, executive director of the Miss Longwood Pageant, said one of the primary purposes of the pageant is to provide "incentive, recognition, and opportunities for talented, attractive young women."

"Without scholarships," he said, "we wouldn't have a pageant. Thanks to Golden Corral, we're able to offer one of the best scholarship packages in the state, and to provide opportunities that otherwise would not be available at Longwood."

Winkler noted that some recent Miss Longwoods have made the "Top Ten" in the Miss Virginia Pageant and, as such "had the rare opportunity to perform on stateside television in prime time."

"This also brought very positive recognition to the college," he said.

This year's Miss Longwood Pageant will be held Saturday, March 7, at 8 p.m. in Jarman Auditorium.

Art Department Offers Study Tour

Longwood College's art department is offering a study tour to England, France and Italy from May 26 to June 16. It is open to students in all majors and to area residents.

Entitled Survey of Western Art in Europe, the study tour carries six undergraduate or graduate credits. Tour director is Dr. Elisabeth L. Flynn, professor of art history at Longwood.

The group will visit London, Salisbury, and Stonehenge in England; Paris Chartres, and Versailles in France; Milan, Padua, Ravenna, Florence, Pisa and Siena, Rome, Tivoli, and Ostia in Italy. On the itinerary are museums, cathedrals, theatres and opera houses, palaces, gardens, ancient ruins, and river cruises on the Thames and the Seine.

Travel arrangements are through Casterbridge Torus, of Staunton, for a minimum of 10 and a maximum of 20 participants. Cost will range from $2,775 to $3,219 (depending on the number of travelers), plus Longwood tuition for those taking the tour for academic credit.

Included in the tour package are roundtrip air fare (from and to Dulles Airport), land transportation in Europe, hotel accommodations, breakfast and dinner each day, tickets for certain sightseeing tours, and entrance fees to major museums.

Lancers

(Continued from page 6)

eventual 81-45 victory over Wingate. The 6-3 forward totaled 14 points, six rebounds, three assists and three steals.

Weaver had 11 points and nine boards and Lowe scored 12 points to back Brown. Freshman J.B. Neill hit three of six attempts from 3-point territory for nine points while Druitt had six points and seven assists. Sophomore Buddy Whitehurst came off the bench to score five points in the second half.

Lancer freshman Matt Watkins suffered a broken nose in the first half. Watkins may be able to return to action next week, but he'll have to wear a protective mask. His absence reduced the Longwood roster to nine players for the Gardner-Webb trip.

Wingate, like Gardner-Webb a member of the South Atlantic Conference, was playing without its second leading scorer, guard Kelsey Grier who was injured. Tim Galinski and Winston Parks had 10 points each to lead Wingate.

Martin Wins Mathematics Scholarship

Kelli R. Martin, a junior mathematics major from Lynchburg, has been selected to receive one of two scholarships awarded annually by the Virginia Council of Teachers of Mathematics. Any junior mathematics major enrolled in a Virginia college, who plans to teach mathematics at the secondary school level, is eligible to apply for the VCTM Scholarship.

The award will be presented to Kelli at the annual VCTM Conference. This year's conference will be held at the Omni International Hotel in Norfolk March 6-7. The keynote speaker for the awards luncheon March 7 will be Mr. Linwood Holton, former Governor of Virginia and now president of the Center for Innovative Technology.

In addition to being on the dean's list for five consecutive semesters, Kelli has found time to participate in various campus organizations. She is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta (Freshman Scholastic Honorary), Longwood Ambassadors (currently serves as president), Pi Mu Epsilon (Mathematics Honorary) currently serves as president, Longwood Student Education Association, Delta Zeta Sorority, Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities, and the Mathematics Department Curriculum Committee. Kelli is a holder of the Order of Omega Award and was recently tapped for Geist.

JMU Announces Internship Program

James Madison University is pleased to announce the opening of recruitment for the Fall 1992 and Spring 1993 International Internship positions. Designed primarily for juniors, seniors, graduate students, and recent graduates, this program offers qualified Virginia students a unique opportunity to gain professional experience on an international basis in their field of interest. Complete details and application materials are available for approximately 100 positions in 11 countries. Packets are being sent to Placement Directors, Deans, Honors Program, Presidents, and Foreign Studies Directors at educational institutions throughout the Commonwealth, and all application materials may be photocopied for use by applicants. Interested students may also request the information directly from Judy Cohen, Program Coordinator, at Paul Street House, James Madison University, Harrisonburg, VA 22807, phone (703) 568-6979 or fax (703) 568-3310.

The deadline for applications for both semesters is March 16, so would-be interns should proceed quickly.

Hey Mr. D.J.

(Continued from page 3)

ment of Transportation.

In a recent issue of the CMJ New Music Report, a college radio trade publication, Adamo voiced his opinion in a column.

"The fact that major label record companies have started to pay greater attention to college radio has caused a lot of discussion. In the same way we should not ignore it when car companies, magazines and other giant corporations start to attach their names to a service that is an important part of our programming," he wrote. "If you are happy to air "PSA's" that are designed to make money for others, then that is your decision."

All of these decisions — about bands, public service announcements, "infotorials" and the like — have made college radio much more complex for the students who work within.

To many of them, college radio is a vehicle as well — to a possible career in the radio industry.

Landis, who worked at the University of Southern California college station, KUSC, in the early 1970s, says involvement in college radio is a good first step for future disc jockeys, programmers and directors.

College radio "helped me begin to get a feel for what I did or didn't want to do" within the medium, he says. "It allowed me to hone my talents outside the classroom."

Realistically, however, Landis says college radio experience will most likely only help students get their first jobs. Still, Landis, who oversees hiring for Westwood One, says the business is a good one to pursue.

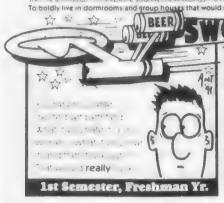
"Radio was seen as the bastard child when I was in college," Landis says. "But it's been legitimized. There are now some very handsome financial opportunities."

Do something good.
Feel something real.

— FREE —
PREGNANCY TEST
116 N. Main St.
Mon. 9am-1pm
T&Th 2pm-6pm
All services confidential.
Same day results.
SOUTHSIDE PREGNANCY CENTER
24-HOUR HOTLINE
392-8483

MONEY
FOR COLLEGE
Every student is eligible for some type of financial aid regardless of grades or parental income.
Financial Aid
Available Immediately!
Special grants program
Every student eligible
No one turned down
Simple application
Send name, address and $1 P&H fee (refundable) to:
Student Services
P. O. Box 22-4026
Hollywood, FL 33022

RESULTS GUARANTEED.

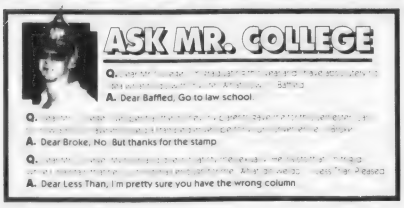


COMICS

Wild Kingdom

By Anthony Rubino, Jr.

NOTE: The following is funnier if it is read in the voice of Captain James T. Kirk of the Starship, Enterprise.



COLLEGE The final frontier. These are the voyages of the college student. Their four — or five — or even [illegible] to boldly live in dormrooms and group houses that would repulse cockroaches and vermin!!

1st Semester, Freshman Yr. 2nd Semester, Freshman Yr.

1st Semester, Sophomore yr. 2nd Semester, Sophomore Yr.

ASK MR. COLLEGE

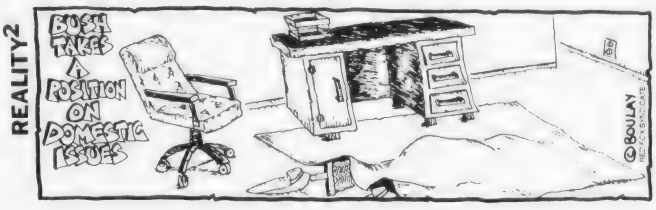
Q. [illegible]

A. Dear Baffled, Go to law school.

Q. [illegible]

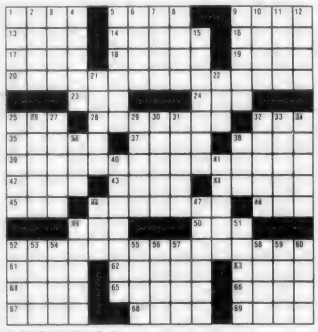
A. Dear Broke, No. But thanks for the stamp.

Q. [illegible]



A. Dear Less Than, I'm pretty sure you have the wrong column.

Spencer Green



Wolfbane

THE Crossword

By Albert J. Klaus

© 1991 Tribune Media Services

ACROSS

1 Night flyers
5 Giggle sound
9 Custody
13 Dismounted
14 City in Japan
16 Old
17 Song refrain
18 Tiberius' tongue
19 No one
20 St. George's lance did it
23 River in Eng.
24 Lamprey
25 Not neg.
28 Ornamental work
32 Opponent
35 Not as wet
37 Guide
38 Level
39 David's sling-shot did it
42 Lecher's look
43 Russ. river
44 Consent
45 Before tee
46 Secluded place
48 Goof
49 Distress signal
50 After deductions
52 Sparrow's arrow did it
61 Vicinity
62 Man-made fiber
63 Memo
64 War vehicle
65 Fr. river
66 Frosts
67 Punta del —
68 Kitchen items
69 Wagon

DOWN

1 Illegal pitcher motion
2 Russ. range
3 Cash drawer
4 Trite
5 Vise or tongs
6 Coup d'—
7 "What — God wrought?"
8 Great lake
9 Kiel is one
10 Eager
11 Divorce city
12 Paradise
15 Cook meat less thoroughly
21 Additional
22 Sp. king
25 Become confused
26 Liberates
27 Flutelike instruments
29 Nimble
30 Cheat wood
31 Two under par
32 Blaze up brightly
33 Horse opera
34 Anesthetic
36 Always to poets
38 Trifle
40 Weld
41 Subsequently
46 Caviar stuff
47 Foot joints
49 Quench
51 Quinine beverage
52 "Kiss Me —"
53 Cleopatra's maid
54 Fasting period
55 Cut short
56 — account (never)
57 Penny
58 — Raton, Fla.
59 Roman road
60 Cozy place

ANSWERS

CLASSIFIED

HELP WANTED

SPRING BREAK '92

Jamaica, Cancun from $409. Panama City Beach from $119. Earn Cash & Free Travel...Campus Reps Needed!!! Call Student Travel Services 1-800-648-4849.

RESIDENT CAMP STAFF – Assistant director, business manager, RN, kitchen staff, unit counselors and leaders, program specialist, pool director and lifeguards needed; June 13 – August 11. Two seasonal resident camps located near Harrisonburg and Leesburg, VA. Contact: Ruth Ensor, GSCNC, 2233 Wisconsin Ave., N.W., Washington, DC 20007-4187. 202-337-4300. EOE.

TRAVEL AGENT: Independent Travel Agent for G.O. Travel Inc. wants to book your Spring Break Trip, Graduation Trip or your family vacation. Cruises are our specialty. Group bookings welcome. Call Chips' Marketing & Travel at 392-4593.

NOTICES

ATTENTION FOOD BINGERS: If you have been in a cycle of gorging on food and then purging either by forced vomiting, laxatives, diuretics, continual dieting and fasting, with or without exercise, you often feel unable to break this cycle.

A group is starting soon for students struggling with this behavior pattern. If you are interested in joining us or would like further information, please call Cyndy at the Counseling Center at 395-2409.

HELP WANTED

CAMP COUNSELORS: Holiday Lake 4-H Center is accepting applications for summer camp counselors. Must be 19 years old or older. The following positions are available: Nurse/EMT., Food Service Manager, Canoeing, Horsemanship, Archery, Nature/Aquatic Science, Riflery, Outdoor/Adventure Program and Theater Arts. Salary plus room and board during week. Weekends off. Applications deadline March 1. For additional information and application contact Richard Pulliam or John Meadows at Holiday Lake 4-H Center, Route 2, Box 630, Appomattox, VA or call (804) 248-5444. An Equal Opportunity Employer.

MODELS WANTED for artists' drawing group. Male or female, no exp. nec. For further information and pay scale call 392-6190 between 4 and 8 p.m.

PERSONALS

To the significant suite – I am really going to miss you guys after I leave. Hope you all have a great senior year. Love you lots. E.S.P.N.

Environmental Consciousness is coming to Longwood Residence halls! Anyone interested in sharing a hall with other ecologically aware students, please contact Jen at 3010.

YourReal Horoscope

by Ruby Wyner-Io
A.A.B.P.-certified Astrologer

Aries: (March 21–April 19) You will continue to be the scapegoat of your friends' and family's problems. However, if you listen carefully, you will be able to manipulate and exploit them for vast personal profit.

Taurus: (April 20–May 20) Your misshapen body offends others. Wear baggy clothing and socialize at night.

Gemini: (May 21–June 21) Look for a more slowly paced day. Your spinal chord will be cleaved at the medulla.

Cancer: (June 22–July 22) A long term bout with flatulence will render you social disabled. Focus on yard work.

Leo: (July 23–Aug. 22) Any attempt you make to voice your opinion will be met with public ridicule and excommunication.

Virgo: (Aug. 23–Sept. 22) You will be damned straight to hell.

Libra: (Sept. 23–Oct. 23) Your romantic life continues on its typically dull path. Expect to spend the rest of your life completely alone.

Scorpio: (Oct. 24–Nov. 21) Matters of refrigeration will be of the utmost importance. Send a loved one a box of dried apricots.

Sagittarius: (Nov. 22–Dec. 21) While you slumber, criminals will steal every item in your home, including your water heater.

Capricorn: (Dec. 22–Jan. 19) Brighten a co-worker's day. Put on an impromptu puppet show in the employee lounge.

Aquarius: (Jan. 20–Feb. 18) Saturn will come crashing to Earth, pulverizing your house.

Pisces: (Feb. 19–March 20) Concentrate on career matters. Focus on shelf-stocking, cash-register operating, and Slurpee-machine cleaning.

On the surface, Ruby Wyner-Io's column may seem to be mere whimsical speculation. It is, however, meant to be taken as fact

SPRING WEEKEND WILL BE HELD APRIL 3, 4, & 5!

Campus Calendar

Information on events should be submitted to the Student Union Office in Lankford by the Friday preceding the appropriate issue of the paper.

Wednesday February 5

Teleconference: "Beyond the Dream IV." 1-3pm Library

Workshop: Interviewing Skills. 4pm CPPC

ISP Lecture: "The China Experience" by Dr. John Peale. 4:15pm Bedford

Rotunda Staff Meeting: Interested in working - come join us. 6 pm Lancaster B27

Thursday February 6

Women's Basketball: Va. State, 5 pm Lancer Hall.

SGA: General Meeting. 6pm Conf. Rm. 1

Cunninghams Greatest Lecture Series: "The Use of Personal Narrative in Self Discovery" by Dr. Frank Howe. 7pm 4th Floor S. Cunningham

Men's Basketball: Shepherd, 7:30pm Lancer Hall.

Intramurals: Weekend Coed VB. EB due.

Friday February 7

Saturday February 8

Workshop: Japanese Theatre/Dance by Shizumi Manale. 8:30am-5pm, Lancaster 3rd Floor

Women's Basketball: Pitt-Johnstown, 2pm Lancer Hall.

Movies: Strictly Business 9:00 pm Gold Room

Intramurals: Weekend Coed VB.

Sunday February 9

Gymnastics: Navy, 2pm Lancer Hall.

Monday February 10

TRO's Disability Awareness Simulation: 11:30am-2pm, Rotunda.

Student Appreciation Dinner: 4:30-6:30pm, Dining Hall.

Lecture: Senior Art History by Brian Crutchfield. 7:30pm Bedford

Movies: Strictly Business 9:00 pm Gold Room

Tuesday February 11

We Applaud Farmville Lunch: Noon, Virginia Rm.

Workshop: Cover Letter Writing. 1pm CPPC

Lecture: "Alcohol, Sex & Stress" by Mary Peterson. 1:15pm Jarman

Kids on the Block: 1pm Wynne Aud. 1

Chamber Music Series: Roxbury Players, 8pm Wygal Recital Hall.

Lancers Hand Gardner-Webb First Home Loss

By Hoke Currie

Longwood's men's basketball team went prospecting for a road win in Boiling Springs, N.C. Wednesday night and hit paydirt where eight other teams had come up empty this season.

Sophomore Michael Druitt and junior Keith Crabtree scored the game-clinching points in the final 13 seconds as Longwood stormed from behind to hand Gardner-Webb its first home loss of the year. The Bulldogs, now 11-7 overall and leaders of the South Atlantic Conference, were 8-0 at home heading into their matchup with the Lancers.

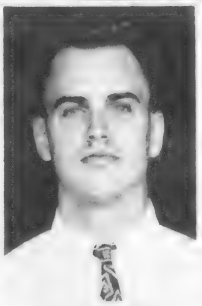
Crabtree scored a layup with 13 seconds left to put the Lancers up 64-62 and Druitt converted two free throws with seven seconds remaining for a 66-62 lead and what ended up being the final margin. The victor, coming on the heels of a 61-45 win over Wingate Monday night in Farmville, was Longwood's third straight and boosted the Lancer mark to 11-9 with eight games left to play.

Longwood hosts Lincoln Memorial Saturday at 2, Elon Monday night and Shephard next Thursday night.

Druitt scored 15 of his career high 17 points in the second half and hit nine of 10 free throws to lead the victory. He scored nine points in the final seven minutes when Longwood came back to take the victory. Bryan Weaver added 16 points (8-10 field goals) and gave Longwood its first lead of the second half at 53-51 with 5:20 left. Forward Chuck Laster who scored 13 points and pulled down five rebounds, had tied the game at 51-51 with 5:50 remaining.

Joe Lowe added eight points despite limited time caused by foul problems and Charles Brown had nine points and five rebounds. Brown had reached double figures in 11 straight games until Wednesday night.

Gardner-Webb, ahead 31-24 at the half, was led by 6-5 senior Jules Springs with 24 points. A former Oral Roberts University cager, Springs hit 10 of 17 shots from the floor in 29 minutes on the court. The Runnin' Bulldogs outrebounded Longwood 32-21, but committed 19 turnovers to the Lancers' 14.



Longwood coach Ron Carr pointed to his team's zone defense as a key to the victory, perhaps the most significant Lancer road win of the last three seasons.

"When we went to the zone late in the first half, we were able to control the tempo," said Carr. "We didn't want to get into a high-scoring game with Gardner-Webb."

The Lancers were able to execute their offense and work for high percentage shots, particularly in the second half. Longwood hit 15 of 21 field goal attempts in the final 20 minutes for 71.4 percent shooting.

It was Brown who scored 10 points in the first half Monday to key a Lancer surge which led to a 40-18 halftime lead and the

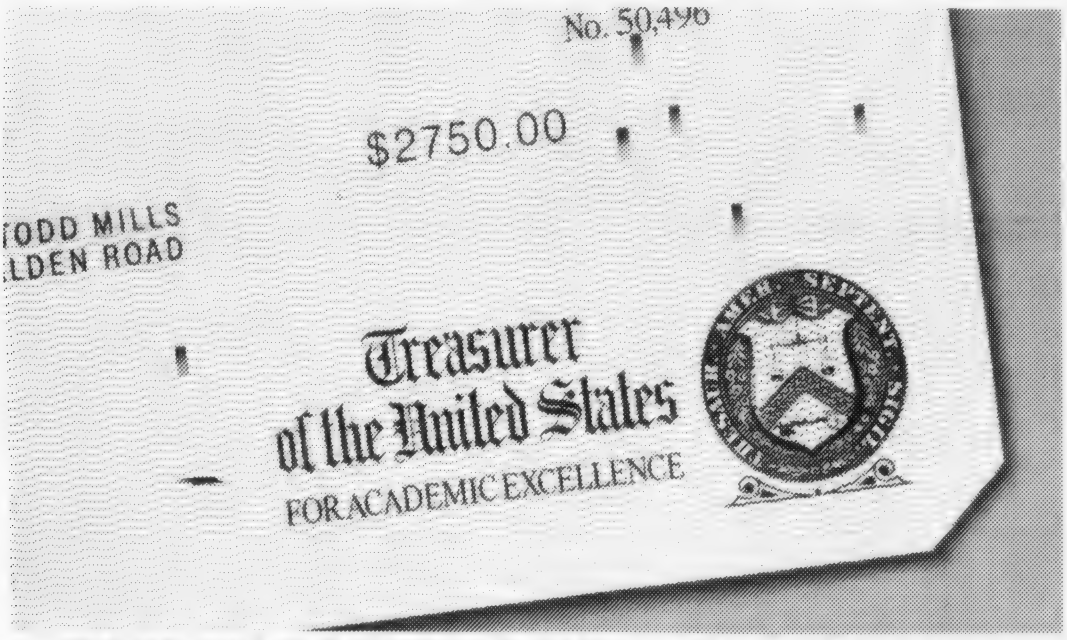
(Continued on page 4)

BRIAN WEAVER

Weaver Named Player of the Week

Junior forward Bryan Weaver, who scored 58 points and grabbed 20 rebounds in two games last week for Longwood's men's basketball team, has been named Longwood College Player of the Week.

Weaver, 6-6 and 220 pounds, is the Longwood captain. He led by example last week, scoring 31 points and grabbing 10 rebounds in an 82-75 loss at Mars Hill Monday and coming back with a record-setting showing at the free throw line Saturday night in a 79-64 victory at Newberry (S.C.). Hitting a Longwood record 17 of 19 free throws, Weaver tossed in 27 points and pulled off 10 rebounds against Newberry.



Previous records for free throws made (16) and attempted (18) were set by Kenny Ford in 1981 and Shack Leonard in 1980. Weaver hit 89.5 percent from the line at Newberry. Over the past three games, Weaver is averaging 24.7 points and 10.7 rebounds per game.

Slowed by a separated shoulder earlier this season, he's averaging 12.5 points and 6.1 rebounds for the year.

"Bryan is shooting the ball with a lot of confidence now," says Longwood coach Ron Carr. "He's getting the ball in positions where he's getting fouled. Against Newberry, it was amazing the way he always seemed to be at the free throw line."

A history major, Weaver is a graduate of Denbigh High School where he made second team all-district and all-Peninsula. He averaged 14 points, seven rebounds and three assists while playing for coach Dennis Koutoufas.

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

YOUR UNCLE WANTS TO PAY FOR COLLEGE.
BUT ONLY IF YOU'RE GOOD ENOUGH.

Army ROTC offers qualified students two-year and three-year scholarships that pay for tuition and required educational fees and provide an allowance for textbooks and supplies.

You'll also receive up to a $1000 grant each school year the scholarship is in effect. So find out today if you qualify.

LEADERSHIP EXCELLENCE

ARMY ROTC

THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

FOR MORE INFORMATION CONTACT CAPTAIN GARY WITTEKIND AT 395-2134 OR COME BY HINER 207.

Longwood College

VOL. 71, NO. 11 FEBRUARY 12, 1992

Rotunda

Bush Unveils Good News, Bad News Education Budget

By Charles Dervarics
Special CPS Correspondents

WASHINGTON (CPS) – President Bush has unveiled a budget proposing a major restructuring of federal student aid that would increase the maximum Pell Grant but finance it in part by removing 400,000 students from the program.

The president's fiscal 1993 Education Department budget would boost Pell Grant funding by $1.2 billion and increase the maximum grant from $2,400 to $3,700 a year for the neediest students. But the president would pay for the increase by reducing the number of Pell Grants and slashing other financial aid programs.

Bush's budget would provide no new funds for either Perkins Loans or State Student Incentive Grants and would cut college work-study funds by $160 million, forcing colleges and universities to increase their contributions to the program. Currently, the government provides 70 percent of work-study salaries; the proposed budget would cut that amount to 50 percent.

"President Bush's fiscal year 1993 budget confirms for the fourth consecutive year that he is no 'education president,' " said Tajel Shah, head of the United States Student Association, a lobbying group in Washington.

Shah criticized the White House for restricting access to Pell Grants during a recession.

"With 30 states in budget crises and record-high tuition increases, these proposals would slash financial aid and force many students out of postsecondary education," she said.

In presenting the budget Jan. 29, Education Secretary Lamar Alexander said the plan reflected unprecedented federal support for education. Even with the restructuring, he said, the budget proposes a 17 percent increase in student aid. "The president's budget priority is education," Alexander said.

Of the $2 billion in new money for student aid, about $1.1 billion would come through higher subsidies for Guaranteed Student Loan programs. The Education Department said it expects a 50 percent increase in loan volume this year, and the department also would raise the loan limits on several GSL programs.

The administration also proposes to broaden eligibility for Pell Grants and GSLs to include any student who takes at least one class in postsecondary education. Alexander said this policy would promote lifelong learning for adults who want or need additional education or job skills.

Elsewhere in the budget, the president proposed several new measures to combat loan defaults. One plan would force states to bear some of the financial costs of delinquent loans at schools with high default rates. Another proposal would delay loan disbursements for first-year students.

Bush and Alexander also called for a change in the definition of an "independent student" for purposes of receiving aid. Under the plan, students could call themselves "independent" only if they are at least 26 years of age or can show income large enough "to demonstrate self-sufficiency."

USSA officials opposed the default and independent student provisions. "The bottom line is that students will be hurt," said Glenn Magpantay, a New York college student and member of USSA's board of directors.

The budget plan does include one initiative likely to please all students – the right to deduct student loan interest on income tax returns. Alexander said the provision could affect up to 8 million people who have borrowed $45 billion for tuition, fees and living expenses.

In addition, students and parents could withdraw savings from Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) to help finance postsecondary education expenses, without penalty.

The president's budget also proposed $417 million for TRIO programs that offer pre-college help to disadvantaged students, a 6 percent increase from current funding. Similar to last year's budget, the administration proposed a consolidation of four TRIO programs under a new state formula grant for "Precollege Outreach."

The Bush budget now goes to the House and Senate, where lawmakers will begin work on education spending bills for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

1989 File Photo by Susan Biddle

President Bush gestures at a news conference.

The good news is that Bush wants to increase the amount of Pell Grants. The bad news is that he wants to cut students' eligibility and other financial aid programs to do it.

Finalists Selected For Miss Longwood Pageant

Ten of Longwood College's most talented and attractive students have been selected as finalists in the Miss Longwood Scholarship Pageant on March 7. The Pageant is part of the Miss America program.

The finalists were chosen from among 24 contestants in preliminary competition last December. They will compete for $3,000 in scholarships, with the winner advancing to the Miss Virginia Pageant in Roanoke in July.

"This is the most talented group of contestants we've ever had for the Miss Longwood Pageant," said H. Donald Winkler, the Pageant's producer and director. "We should have a very entertaining and exciting talent competition."

"Altogether, the contestants have 150 years of training and experience in the performing arts," he said.

He added that many of the contestants hold or have held leadership positions on campus. Four are on the Dean's List; five are in academic honoraries; three are rated nationally in forensics; others have served on the Judicial Board and the Panhellenic Council; one was recently chosen to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

"They are active, intelligent achievers who reflect the characteristics of the successful women of the 1990s," he said.

Contestants will compete in talent, interview, evening gown, and swimsuit, with primary focus on the first two categories. The contestants are:

•Christine Lynell Crews, a senior elementary education major from Keysville, who is the reigning Miss Five County Fair and Miss Q-98 Lake Country. She has studied dance 10 years and will perform a tap dance to a medley of 1920s music. She competed in both national forensics tournaments last year and is ranked among the top one percent of college forensics competitors nationally. She is a Dean's List student. Her community sponsor is First Virginia Bank.

•Teresa Louise Goding, a sophomore from Bedford who is majoring in theatre and is a Dean's List student. She's in the Lancer Edition show choir, the Longwood Players, and Sigma Alpha Iota, a music fraternity for women. Last year she was chosen to Alpha Lambda Delta, the freshman honor society. For the talent competition, she will sing "Nothing" from A Chorus Line. She is sponsored by Farmville Wholesale Electric Supply Company.

•Ann Renee Helm, a junior English major from Manassas who is listed among the top five percent of forensics competitors in the United States. She's a member of the Longwood Players; Delta Psi Omega, the German honor fraternity; and Alpha Psi Omega, the drama honor fraternity. In the talent competition, she will sing and dance a musical comedy piece, "I Can't Say No," from Oklahoma! She is sponsored by Town and Country Furniture and Appliance.

•Shannon Holley, a senior elementary education major from Virginia Beach, who serves on the Longwood Judicial Board and is a member of Kappa Delta sorority and the Panhellenic Council. She has performed with the Sheiks of Shag (formerly Bill Deal and the Rondels) in Virginia Beach and has been involved in theatrical and musical ensembles since elementary school. For the talent competition, she will sing Lee Greenwood's "God Bless the USA." Her sponsor is Haley Chevrolet, Oldsmobile, Buick.

•Cullen Johnson, a senior French major from Virginia Beach. She has lived in Italy, studied in Martinique, and is a member of the Modern Lan-

(Continued on page 4)

Extremities Reveals Rape Misconceptions

By ROSEANN PITZL
Staff Reporter

The Underground Players, sponsored by Alpha Psi Omega, performed Extremities in Jarman's Black Box Theatre last week.

Approximately 85 people showed up a night for the play which ran from Wednesday through Saturday. It was the second one to be performed by the recently founded Underground Players, and it had a dramatic effect on all who attended.

Extremities, written by William Mastrosimone, was directed by Andrew Wheeler. It was staged in one room of a small farmhouse on the outskirts of town and centered around the terrifying events that occurred in that room one day. Ann Heim played the part of Marjorie, the young woman who lives there along with her roommates Terry, played by Kate Dunnet, and Patricia, played by Jessica Lynn Billones. Rick Codding is Raul, who enters the house uninvited when Marjorie is alone and proceeds to torture her mentally, physically and sexually.

Extremities is not just about a woman who suffers an attempted rape, or about a woman who fights back. It is about rape itself and all of the emotions and misconceptions that are a part of it.

Due to the delicate nature of the play, a warning appeared on all advertisements. Wheeler reiterated them every night before the performance, stressing that it contained "adult language and themes" and may not be suitable for "sensitive audiences."

Rape counselors were on hand before, during and after every performance to answer questions and handle any situations that might arise. Pamphlets were readily available. All involved in the production took the play very seriously, and those who attended understood why.

In the opening act the frightening and real image that Heim and Codding created, caused an eerie silence to fall across the room. The audience as a whole seemed to cease breathing as Raul locked the door and walked toward Marjorie. Some flinched as he touched her, and watched, unnerved, as she screamed and fought back. The cast of Extremities used their extraordinary talent as a method of relaying information, a method that was very powerful.

Extremities dealt with many of the misconceptions that surround the crime of rape. Terry and Patricia, Marjorie's roommates in the play, have doubts about whether the attempt actually occurred because Marjorie does not appear physically hurt. Here the focus shifts to one of the underlying problems with the crime that occurs behind closed doors. It is Marjorie's word against Raul's in a society more inclined to place blame on the victim. This is evident in the play as Marjorie's roommates accuse her of "dressing loosely", thus reflecting the widely held belief that the victim "asks for it."

In the course of the play we find out that Terry is a rape victim herself, and we are forced to weight her experience with that of Marjorie. There is the sudden realization that two women who live in the same house have had these experiences and the proportions of the problem are suddenly amplified. At this point there is the haunting message that everyone is effected by this crime in one way or the other.

But perhaps the most uncomfortable and confusing feelings that Extremities uncovers is sympathy for Raul, and the belief that Raul may in a way be a victim himself.

Extremities and Sexual Perversity in Chicago, were the first in a series of 'social impact' plays that will be performed by the Underground Players this semester.

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
Features 3, 6
News.....4
News Briefs.....5
Comics 7
Sports 8

COMMENTARY

GUEST EDITORIAL

It seems to me that there is something rotten in Denmark, and I feel it is my job to inform Longwood students, faculty, alumni, and whomever to what recently occurred involving Longwood athletics.

First of all, Longwood's riding team lost its varsity status and its funding. Now it is a "club" sport. I really did not see any reason behind the riding team losing its varsity status, nor do many others as a matter of fact. But reasons will show up shortly.

Secondly Longwood's gymnastics program will be history, past tense, yesterday's news after this semester. Yes, another women's sport being axed before our eyes. Why is gymnastics gone? Before I answer that let's examine the administrative's handling of this decision. Coach Mary Lewis found out her sport was gone the same night her gymnasts did, which happened to be during practice. Coach Lewis, I believe, had no knowledge of gymnastics being killed. She knew when she got the job as head coach that the possibility was there that gymnastics might be dropped, yet she had no meetings with the people involved before the decision was rendered.

Is that the proper way to handle such a situation? NO!!! I think it is down right horrible to say the least. A lot of people are upset with these decisions because Longwood now loses two sports rich in history here. Why are they gone you ask? Next paragraph please.

FOOTBALL!!!! Yes, sports fans that word is here again. That issue did not die when students and faculty raised heck a few years ago. It was just put on the back burner until the administrators found the right time to kill a sport here and take away funds later.

Our administrators want football. WHY!?!

Longwood is not a football school nor is Farmville a football town. We've gone long enough without a team here, so why start now? To those of you who think it'll bring in money please realize that there are but a few Division I programs that are making money. We are Division II. Think we'll make tons of money?? On top of that how many more sports are we going to have to "murder" to get football here? Heck, kill'em all and Longwood WILL be a football school then.

It seems that the women's programs are more in danger than are the men's. Let us please remember that this college was all women until about 15 years ago. I'm not an activist for the women's movement, but shouldn't there be equal rights across the board. Why can't things just be like they once were?

When I entered as a freshman the athletic programs were pretty darn good. Then some coaches started leaving and the teams starting falling. Did these coaches see the light at the end of the tunnel? I'll let you make the call.

To end this, let's leave well enough alone in the athletic department. Let the coaches coach and not worry about if their program will be the next to fall. The future of athletics at Longwood is at stake. Don't burn that stake, or those involved will get burned beyond belief.

Charlie E. Fultz

Letters To The Editor

Editor, The Rotunda:

We would like to take this opportunity to thank Longwood Students for their support of the College's efforts to reduce vandalism in the residence halls. Last semester, common area vandalism charges were $4,369.70 as compared to similar charges in fall 1990 of $24,052.95. This reduction of $19,683.25 is the best possible confirmation that Longwood students are working diligently to build Longwood pride.

Several groups deserve special thanks for their efforts to reduce vandalism. Specifically, the RECs, RAs, and PAs have instituted several new efforts to make students aware of the high cost of vandalism. The Residence Life Work Group, consisting of hall council presidents and RAs, worked closely with administrators to develop a variety of programs to encourage students to stop vandalism. A number of student groups are to be congratulated for their willingness to "Adopt-A-Spot" and beautify a bit of Longwood. Finally, the fine work by Physical Plant and Housekeeping staffs has led to an improved appearance in our halls, thereby causing students to take more pride in their college homes.

Let's keep up the great work to build an even better Longwood community. If you have suggestions about additional ways to keep Longwood beautiful, please share them with us. Once again, thank-you for your fine efforts.

Sue Saunders,
Dean of Students
David Rettig,
Director of Housing

Editor, The Rotunda:

The Financial Aid Office would like to say thank you to the students, the staff from Admissions, Student Health, Student Activities, Graduate and Continuing Studies, Military Affairs, and Monthly Payment Plan for your participation in the "Financial Aid Fair." Special thanks to Longwood Bookstore, ARA Services, Phyllis Mable, Campus Security and physical plant personnel for your assistance and contributions to this event. All of you played a very important part in making this activity a success. Congratulations!

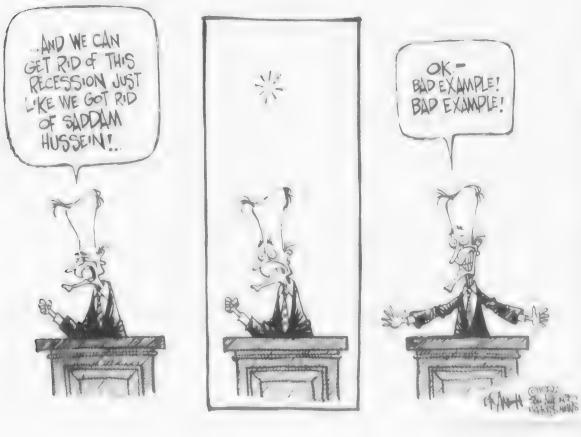
Nadine G. Garrett
Financial Aid Office

Editor, The Rotunda:

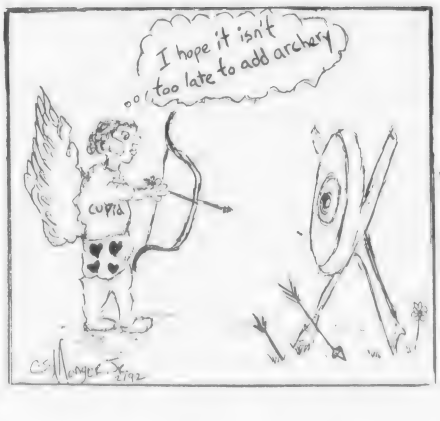
I'd like to apologize to all the students and faculty for the mistakes I made in my November 13, 1991 article covering the October 28 Board of Visitors meeting. I'd like to thank Ralph Brown and Robert Chonko for correcting my errors.

Jennifer Wyatt
Staff Reporter

Quotable:



"During the time that men live without a common power to keep them in awe... the life of a man is solitary, poor, nasty, brutish and short."



—Thomas Hobbes

Rotunda

Longwood College
Box 1133
Farmville, VA
23909

1920
Founding Editor
Helen Skillman

STAFF

Executive Editor
Bradley L. Owen

Features Editor
Sherry Gatewood

Sports Editor
-vacant-

Asst. Features Editor
Ann Renee Heim

Head Photographer
-vacant-

Associate Editor
Erin C. McCay

Assistant Editor
James K. Johnson

Business Manager
John Borowiec

Advisors
Mr. William C. Woods
Ms. Brenda Atkins

Reporters/Assistants: Thomas D. Birchett, IV, Todd Buchanan, Catherine Byers, Michael K. Carter, Dina Dawson, Kathy DiMarino, Sarah Drewry, Lynn Gianni, Travis W. Griffin, Debra E. Mayo, Claude Monger, Christy Motley, Kimberly Mraz, Chris Mullins, Linda M. Nygaard, Kandi Pettus, Rose Ann Pitzl, Tricia Popular, R. Alex Rodriguez, Julie K. Tate, Jennifer Wyatt, and Cassandra Yellis.

EDITORIAL POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration, or, trustees. Columns, letters, editorials, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be typed, signed, have a return address, and phone number. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

All contributions shall be addressed to The Rotunda, LC Box 1133, Farmville, VA 23909. Deadline for articles is 5p.m. Friday prior to the Wednesday publication date and these should be place in the envelopes inside the Publication offices door in Lankford or mailed. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by 8p.m. Sunday. All submissions become the property of The Rotunda.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an Associated Collegiate Press and Columbia Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at (804) 395-2120 or faxed to (804) 395-2237.

Longwood Opens Doors to Africa

"Africa: Coming of Age" is the theme for the third part of Longwood College's Opening Doors to the World program.

Two lectures, a film, and a concert of African music and dance are scheduled during the last half of February. These events also are part of Longwood's observance of Black History Month. They are open to the public free of charge.

Dr. Gabriel Ruhumbika, professor of African literature at the University of Dar-es-Sallam in Tanzania, will discuss "African Culture and Language" on Monday, Feb. 17, at 8 p.m. in the Red/White/Green Rooms of Lankford Building.

An author, editor, and translator, Ruhumbika has done extensive research and writing on the language and literature of the Swahili and other Bantu peoples in central, eastern, and southern Africa.

Ruhumbika received his bachelor's degree with honors in English from the University of London and his Ph.D. from the Sorbonne in Paris. His doctoral dissertation was on African theatre.

Presently a visiting professor at Hampton University, Ruhumbika has taught and lectured at a dozen other U.S. universities. He also has been a visiting professor at the University of Vaxjo in Sweden and arranged a number of cultural exchanges between Tanzania and Sweden.

A Place of Weeping, a film that deals with a woman's confrontation with deep-rooted hatred, violence, and injustice in South Africa, will be shown on Wednesday, Feb. 19, at 9 p.m. in the Gold Room, Lankford Building.

Dumisani Kumalo, a South African journalist who was forced to flee his homeland because of his reports on abuses under the apartheid system, will speak on Wednesday, Feb. 26, at 8 p.m. in the Gold Room, Lankford. His topic is "Democracy in South Africa: The Struggle Continues."

Since coming to the U.S. several years ago, Kumalo has lectured nationwide on conditions in South Africa. He has consulted with American companies doing business there and testified before various groups about the pros and cons of divestment and economic sanctions to influence the South African government.

The Ezibu Munfu African Dance Company will give a concert on Saturday, Feb. 29, at 7 p.m. in Wygal Auditorium. This ensemble of dancers and drummers will perform traditional and contemporary dances from the Old Mali Empire, Liberia, Yorubaland, and other West African societies.

Longwood's Opening Doors to the World program is partially funded by a Funds for Excellence grant from the State Council for Higher Education in Virginia. The yearlong program will conclude with a focus on Eastern Cultures in March and April.

South African journalist Dumisani Kumalo (right), shown here with Nelson Mandela, will speak at 8 p.m. on February 26 in the Gold Room of Lankford.

Students Fast For World Harvest

By SHERRY GATEWOOD
Features Editor

Each day, thousands of people in the United States and across the globe are locked in a continuous battle against starvation. Oxfam America's "Fast for a World Harvest" is a program aimed at providing food for those who are in desperate need of nourishment. Students at Longwood College have been granted an opportunity to personally aid those in need.

The Oxfam America Organization was formed in Boston, Massachusetts in 1970; as an outgrowth of the earlier Oxford Committee for Famine Relief, founded in England in 1942. The Oxfam organization sponsors a variety of programs in addition to nutritional aid; these focus on sanitation, agriculture, literacy, and job training for underprivileged individuals. There are currently six other independent Oxfam organizations around the world in Australia, Belgium, Canada, Hong Kong, Quebec, and the United Kingdom.

The Inter-Religious Council is sponsoring a program entitled "Stand Up For The Hungry." By skipping lunch in the dining hall on Thursday, February 20, students can contribute to the Oxfam hunger relief program. ARA services has agreed to donate a portion of each student's meal cost to Oxfam America.

In addition to foregoing lunch, there will be a "Stand Up For The Hungry" program at 1 p.m. at the fountain. This short meeting will serve as a reminder of the people who struggle to avoid starvation on a daily basis. Last year over three hundred members of the college community participated in this event.

There will be a sign-up table for interested students in the New Smoker during lunch until Monday, February 17. For further information, students may contact Carlisa Dudley at 395-3134.

Don't Just Stand There — Osculate Me

(CPS) — We kiss goodbye, for luck, for love, for fun, under the mistletoe, on Valentine's Day, to seal marriages and death sentences, and to show respect.

But does anyone really know how this modern-day lip connection started?

After 20 years of researching the phenomenon of kissing, Vaughn M. Bryant Jr., professor of anthropology and head of the Texas A&M Department of anthropology, could be called the nation's expert on the subject.

According to Bryant, the participants of the world's first kiss will never be known, but history does document a likely cultural starting point.

The Vedic Sanskrit texts of India, written about 1500 B.C., contained references to the custom of rubbing and pressing noses together. Bryant says anthropologists believe this sign of affection was the earliest beginning of what became lip kissing in India over the next 1,000 years.

The Greeks were the first Europeans to spread the practice of kissing, around 326 B.C. when Alexander the Great conquered parts of India. Indian culture is said to have influenced and impressed the Greek armies, Bryant says.

Although the Greeks first exposed Europe to kissing, the Romans are really credited with popularizing kissing in both Europe and the Mediterranean.

The Romans had different kinds of kisses as well — the "osculum," a kiss of friendship, and the "saviolum," the ultimate kiss of wild passion known today as a "French kiss."

The Romans are also the inventors of modern-day Valentine's Day, a holiday originally called "Lupercalia," after Lupercus, the god of flocks. "Lupercalia" was an ancient roman festival that was supposed to ensure fertility for the people of Rome and their flocks.

"It began as a springtime festivity," Bryant says. "The Romans wanted a party, but as they looked to other activities, they started feeding the Christians to the lions."

On Feb. 14, one of the Christians fed to the lions was St. Valentine, who was told to renounce his faith in God or die. Valentine's choice of death made him a martyr and a symbol.

"One story has it that because this guy, to the very end, was a nice guy, the Romans thought they should end this (springtime) period of love for him. Supposedly, Valentine died on Feb. 14," Bryant says. "Lupercalia" was celebrated on Feb. 15.

Another story has it that "we send cards today because Valentine had befriended the jailer's daughter, who was nine or 10 years old," Bryant says. "When he found out he was going to be fed to the lions, he left the girl a note to explain to her why he would no longer be around."

The holiday has since evolved as a celebration of love and romance, but Bryant says anthropologists aren't sure exactly why.

What they are sure of is that the tradition of kissing has become a longstanding sign of love and romance, just like Valentine's Day, and is therefore entrenched as one of many symbols of the holiday.

1991-92 Hunting Season Reviewed

By EDDIE MONGER
Staff Writer

The 1991-92 hunting season for deer has ended in Virginia. A record harvest of 179,777 deer was recorded. Game biologists believe that Virginia is over populated with deer and were hoping for a big harvest. Game biologist Bob Duncan said, "It would not have hurt the deer population if 200,000 to 225,000 deer had been killed." Duncan said that there was an estimated 850,000 deer in Virginia and currently 19.6 million white-tailed deer in the United States and Canada. Duncan said that Virginia ranks twelfth in the nation in regard to white-tailed deer harvest. He said that 90% of the hunters in Virginia that buy a license are deer hunters.

During the past hunting season, hunters experienced the most liberal deer season ever. There were numerous changes in game laws which allowed hunters a better chance to kill deer. The first Saturday was an either sex day, buck or doe could be killed. Hunters were allowed to shoot two deer a day. Deer did not have to be checked in at a checking station immediately, it could be delayed until later the same day. Hunters could continue hunting and try to kill another deer. In many counties, the number of days that doe could be harvested were increased. In Albemarle County, hunters could kill doe on the last twelve days of hunting season. Previously, hunters in Albemarle were only allowed to kill doe on the last six days of the season. In Buckingham, hunters could kill doe on the last six days when it had been the last three days. Duncan said that barring any emergency changes, these new laws will be in effect for the 1992-1993 hunting season.

My best day in the outdoors may have been in the middle of December. Early one morning, I went hunting with a friend. We spent several hours in the woods and never saw a deer. It was a warm day with the temperature approaching 70 degrees. We decided that instead of hunting, we should be fishing. We grabbed our fishing poles and visited the Sugar Hollow Reservoir. I cast my line out several times but didn't get a single bite. My companion worked his way downstream and out of sight. I was getting discouraged and ready to go home. Suddenly, I heard my friend shouting. I ran to see what was the matter with him. My friend had caught his first trout and was overjoyed. We stayed and fished that deep pool and caught 12 rainbow trout We didn't see any deer that day, but we had a big fish fry that night.

THE ROTUNDA WANTS YOU!

INTERESTED IN:
- Writing?
- Photography?
- Layout?
- Ad Sales - Earn $?

Come by our weekly staff meetings on Wednesdays at 6pm in Lancaster B27 or call 395-2120.

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free Exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

"No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of its laws."

Quintet Will Give Concert

The U.S. Air Force Tactical Air Command Brass Quintet will give a concert on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 16, at 4 o'clock in Wygal Recital Hall at Longwood College. The concert is free and open to the public.

The Brass Quintet is part of the Tactical Air Command Band, a 60-member band based at Langley Air Force Base.

Their repertoire includes a wide variety of chamber works spanning more than 350 years, as well as patriotic and popular pieces. Composers range from Bach and Handel to "Fats" Waller and "Jelly Roll" Morton.

Members of the Quintet are Staff Sergeant David P. Clary, trumpet and leader of the ensemble; Airman First Class James J. Zingara, trumpet; Airman First Class David M. Crites, horn; Sergeant Shawn D. Campbell, trombone; and Airman First Class William A. Smith, tuba.

The musicians are natives of five states — Maryland, Wisconsin, Missouri, Texas, and Kentucky. They have studied at some of the leading music schools in the country and with members of major orchestras nationwide.

The Quintet performs throughout the eastern U.S. and also presents music clinics on the elementary, secondary and collegiate levels.

Valentine's Day!

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 14th

Remember that SOMEONE SPECIAL . .

•BALLONS
•MUGS
•VALENTINE CARDS

LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE
HOURS 8-5 MONDAY-FRIDAY
PHONE 395-2084

Aids Message Needs To Reach College Crowd

By AMY REYNOLDS

(CPS) – Magic Johnson's message has hit home loud and clear — AIDS spares no one. Are college students getting the message?

Yes, say two researchers at Mansfield University in Pennsylvania. Immediately after Johnson said he had the disease, they conducted a survey of 612 students, asking one question: "Through which means do you think Magic Johnson contracted the HIV virus?"

About 87 percent answered "heterosexual sex."

Gale Largey, a sociology professor who conducted the survey with professor Richard Fell, thinks the reason students answered as they did was because of "the strikingly strong credibility of Johnson. They really believed Magic."

That fact is significant, Largey says, because "it's what (students) believe that impacts their behavior."

Researchers at the Kinsey Institute for Research in Sex, Gender and Reproduction at Indiana University recently concluded a 1989 study of students' sexual behavior that they are preparing for publication.

Preliminary findings show that of the 651 undergraduate students surveyed at Indiana University, 81 percent of the men and 75 percent of the women were not virgins and that students spend an average of two nights a week with their sexual partners.

It also found that 50 percent of the men and 36 percent of the women had sex with someone they just met and that on average, students had two one-night stands in 1990.

In March 1990, the Kinsey Institute published the results of a 1988 survey of 809 college students.

"The most important findings from this survey reveal that students engage in significant levels of unprotected sex, including anal intercourse; have multiple sexual partners; and have sex with partners about whose sexual history they may know little," reads the article, written by the Kinsey researchers in "Focus: A Guide to AIDS Research and Counseling."

The study notes the typical respondent was 22, white, protestant, politically moderate and from the Midwest, which means the information obtained is most likely on the conservative side.

The study also found that:

• More than 90 percent of the students were heterosexual. Of importance, researchers say, is that more than one-fifth of the heterosexual women and one fourth of the heterosexual men reported engaging in anal intercourse.

• In addition, 3 percent of the men who considered themselves heterosexual reported having anal intercourse with other men.

• On average, sexually active college women reported having about six partners, including three one-night stands; men reported an average of about 11 sexual partners, including five one-night stands.

• The type of relationship in which a person was involved at the time of the study — sexually exclusive, sexually nonexclusive or not currently in a relationship — was significantly related to some risk factors. For example, sexually active men in nonexclusive relationships reported the highest number of sexual partners — about 20. They also were more likely to engage in unprotected sex.

• Since 1980, about 25 percent of the college students surveyed said they had sex with someone from one of the 10 cities identified by the Centers for Disease Control as having the highest number of reported AIDS cases. About 30 percent of those students said they did so with a new partner.

"Given what is known about the conditions under which HIV may be most easily spread, there is cause to be concerned about heterosexual college students who engage in high-risk sexual activities," the researchers concluded.

Experts hope Johnson's campaign for safe sex will send a strong message to the college crowd. Others are joining his efforts.

In Detroit on Nov. 11, the Rev. Jesse Jackson announced his plans for a "New Attitude" movement that will try to teach behavioral change. Johnson has agreed to work with Jackson, and talk-show host Arsenio Hall has said he supports Jackson's campaign and may join his efforts to spread the word.

Name Search For New Library Underway

By KIM BRANDYBERRY
Staff Reporter

Who picks the name for the New Library? The planning is underway and students have a say in it. Professor John Carr, head of the Committee to Solicit Suggestions for Naming the New Library, has already received several suggestions.

The committee will gather suggestions from students, staff and faculty, do background work on each name submitted, and then present three to six names to the College Council as their recommendation. The council is made up of an elected group of 20 faculty/staff members. The council will present the names to the Board of Visitors. The Board of Visitors will then present the name for the new library to the public.

Professor Carr is serious about getting students' suggestions. He said that "they will have as much weight in their deliberation, as a committee, in coming up with the three to six names they will present."

What does Professor Carr need from us, as students? Our individual recommendations on a sheet of paper with a little bit of background information and justification for the person so that the committee will know where to look for additional information on him or her.

Send suggestions for the name of the new library to Professor John E. Carr III, School of Business and Economics, Hiner Building. Just drop it in the on-campus mailbox. The deadline is March 6, 1992. Professor Carr says "We have some and hope to get a whole lot more."

Freshmen Tend To Be More Liberal, Survey Shows

By JEFF GOLDFARB
CPS Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (CPS) – More students entering college today consider themselves politically liberal or far left than they have since 1977, a recent study showed.

The gradual shift in the political tendencies of college freshmen was attributed partly to disenchantment with the Republican administrations of President Bush and Ronald Reagan.

The 26th annual survey of college freshmen was conducted by the Higher Education Research Institute at the University of California at Los Angeles in conjunction with the American Council on Education.

When Reagan first took office in 1981, more incoming freshmen labeled themselves conservative than liberal. But in 1991, 25.7 percent of more than 210,000 freshmen described themselves as liberal or far left.

The last time the liberal figure was that high was in 1977, when 26 percent of the freshmen described themselves as liberal or far left. The highest percentage ever recorded was in 1971, with 38.1 percent.

The survey also showed that 20.3 percent of the 1991 freshmen described themselves as conservative or far right, while 54 percent said their politics were middle of the road.

However, it remains uncertain whether those numbers will have any tangible effect on the 1992 elections.

"It doesn't mean anything if we can't translate it into votes," said Jim Desler, assistant press secretary for the Democratic National Committee in Washington. He added: "It does give us more reason to target college students."

The statistics from the survey administered at 431 colleges and universities can be deceiving, however.

"The meanings of liberal and conservative have changed over time," said Eric Dey, associate director of the survey.

Despite an overall shift toward liberalism, students tend to be more conservative today on law-and-order issues. As an example, Dey noted that there has been more and more support for the death penalty among young people.

In other survey findings, support for a national health care plan reached an alltime high in 1991, with about 76 percent agreeing that such a plan was needed.

Optimism also seems to be rising. In the 1991 survey, fewer freshmen said they believed "an individual can do little to bring about changes in our society." Only 31.3 percent now believe that, compared with 47.9 percent in 1975.

With the changing times in Eastern Europe and former Soviet Union, Dey says that "people are more optimistic that change can occur and that they can be a part of it."

Incoming freshmen also are showing more interest in different professions. Student interest in business-related majors declined to 18.1 percent, compared with 21.1 percent in 1990, and a high of 27.3 percent in 1987.

In addition, only 15.6 percent indicated they plan to pursue a career in some field of business. Interest in law degrees decreased as well, declining for the third consecutive year, to 4.4 percent from a 5 percent high in 1988.

The career trend among freshmen is the medical profession, where interest hit its highest point since 1976, with 6.9 percent indicating a desire to become doctors.

"During the '60s, students were more altruistic than materialistic ... In the '70s and '80s that switched. Materialism hasn't receded, but we've seen a resurgence of altruism," Dey said. "Students want high-paying jobs and at the same time they want to help people out."

Other results obtained from the survey include:

•Interest in teaching careers held steady at about 9 percent.

•The percentage of students who selected their freshman colleges on the basis of low tuition jumped to 27.7 percent this year compared with 23.4 percent in 1990.

•The number of freshmen who said they will have to get a job to pay college expenses increased for the second straight year to 37.5 percent.

•The percentage of incoming freshmen who frequently smoke cigarettes increased to 11.3 percent, after declining by nearly half between 1966 and 1987.

•However, fewer students frequently, or even occasionally, drink beer, with the number at its lowest level since 1970 at 57.3 percent.

•Interest in doctoral degrees skyrocketed to a new high of 12.5 percent.

•The numbers of students who reported that their inability to find a job was a "very important" reason for attending college reached its highest point since 1982, at 7.3 percent.

Finalists Selected

(Continued from page 1)

•Kate Newman, a senior psychology major from Chesterfield. She's a member of the Psychology Club, the Longwood Players, and her residence hall council. She received First Place on the Speech Forensics Team. She has appeared in several theatrical productions. For the talent competition, she will sing Mariah Carey's hit song, "Emotions." She has studied voice for 12 years. Her sponsor is The Fashion Post.

•Heather Marie Ross, a senior speech pathology major from Richmond, who was recently selected to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. She's a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority and the Lancer Dancers. She has been a member of Longwood's Judicial Board. Her talent is a song and dance routine titled "You Can't Get a Man With a Gun" from Annie Get Your Gun. Her sponsor is The Carpet House.

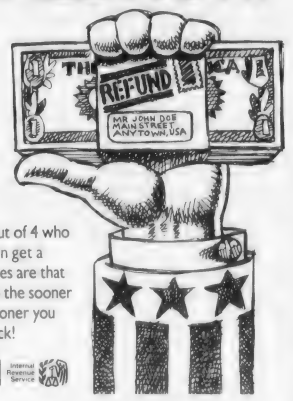
•Angela Christian Smith, a junior from Glen Allen majoring in health and physical education. She's a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority and the Student Education Association. For seven consecutive years she won the gospel category for her age group in vocal competition sponsored by the Virginia Folk Music Association. In the talent competition, she will sing the Connie Francis song, "Where The Boys Are." Her sponsor is Bishop Nissan of Crewe.

•Tara Kristin Towery, a freshman theatre major from Chase City and a member of the Longwood Players. She is performing in the Longwood production of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," Feb. 26-29. She has studied the flute for six years and will play a flute solo in the Pageant. She is sponsored by The Crown Collection.

guages Club. She has had private piano lessons for 13 years and has participated in three sessions of the Governor's Magnet School for the Performing Arts. She will play "Toccata" by Aram Khatchaturian on the piano. Her community sponsor is Andrews, Large, and Whidden.

•Jill Leffler, a junior from Colonial Heights who is majoring in theatre. She's a Dean's List student and a member of Alpha Psi Omega dramatic honor fraternity, the Longwood Players, and her residence hall council. She has appeared in numerous theatrical productions. For the talent presentation, she will perform her original monologue, with song and dance, to "I've Got the Power," by SNAP. She is sponsored by Wallace's Book Stores.

Fuller Introduces Legislation To Benefit Students



Delegate Linda T. "Toddy" Puller, a member of the Education Committee, has introduced legislation that will allow more students to participate in the Virginia Work Study Program. The current state law requires that participants be full-time students. House Bill 1046 will give state institutions the option of making the Virginia Work Study Program available to students enrolled in a degree-seeking program who are carrying a course load of at least six hours.

"As a result of budget cuts, many students can not get into all of the classes they need. If they fall below 12 credit-hours, they lose their work-study award. Alternatively, those students who do carry 12 or more credits often do not have the time to work," said Delegate Puller.

The Virginia Work Study Program allows financial aid recipients to earn their money for school by working for a non-profit organization related to their field of study. By earning money for school rather than borrowing it in the form of a student loan, the student can avoid being faced with a large debt upon graduation, and can earn valuable practical experience in their field.

Delegate Puller hopes that this legislation will make available more opportunities for students to receive financial aid. The Federal College Work-Study program has been successful in allowing participation for both full and part-time students.

IT PAYS TO FILE NOW.

Surprise... 3 out of 4 who file a tax return get a refund! Chances are that means you. So the sooner you file the sooner you get money back!

A Public Service of This Publication & Ad Council — Internal Revenue Service

MONEY FOR COLLEGE

Every student is eligible for some type of financial aid regardless of grades or parental income.

Financial Aid Available Immediately!

Special grants program
Every student eligible
No one turned down
Simple application
Send name, address and $1 P&H fee (refundable) to:
Student Services
P. O. Box 22-4026
Hollywood, FL 33022

RESULTS GUARANTEED.

NEWSBRIEF

Bus May Have Been Traveling Too Fast, Investigators Say

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (CPS) – The National Transportation Safety Board, investigating a bus crash that killed two University of Notre Dame students returning from a swim meet, says the vehicle may have been traveling too fast for road conditions.

Investigators say the driver was not under the influence of drugs nor did any mechanical problems contribute to the crash.

The accident occurred on Jan. 27 in the midst of a blinding snowstorm as the Notre Dame women's swim team returned from a meet against Northwestern University. Two freshmen died and another was seriously injured in the accident. The swim team resumed competition on Jan. 29.

Campus Police Officer Arrested In Student's Death

TOLEDO, Ohio (CPS) – A University of Toledo police officer has been charged with the murder of a 19-year-old student.

Police said they found the body of 19-year-old Melissa Ann Herstrum face-down in the snow at the university's Scott Park campus, about a mile from the university's main campus. Herstrum had been shot 14 times.

Officer Jerry Hodge, 22, was arrested Feb. 1 and charged with the murder. Police said Herstrum's roommate reported that the woman left their apartment, Jan. 26 after receiving a telephone call.

Miami Researchers Honor Nation's First Black Pilot

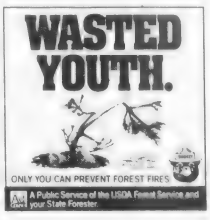
OXFORD, Ohio (CPS) – Six students at Miami University have launched a nationwide campaign to publicize the story of Bessie Coleman, the first black to become a licensed pilot in the U.S.

The students are distributing information packets about Coleman, who earned her flying license in 1921, to schools, libraries and museums throughout the country. Their goal: to get a U.S. postage stamp issued in her honor.

Coleman, born in Texas in 1893, was the 12th of 13 children. She attended flight training in France and returned to the United States to open a flying school to teach other blacks to fly.

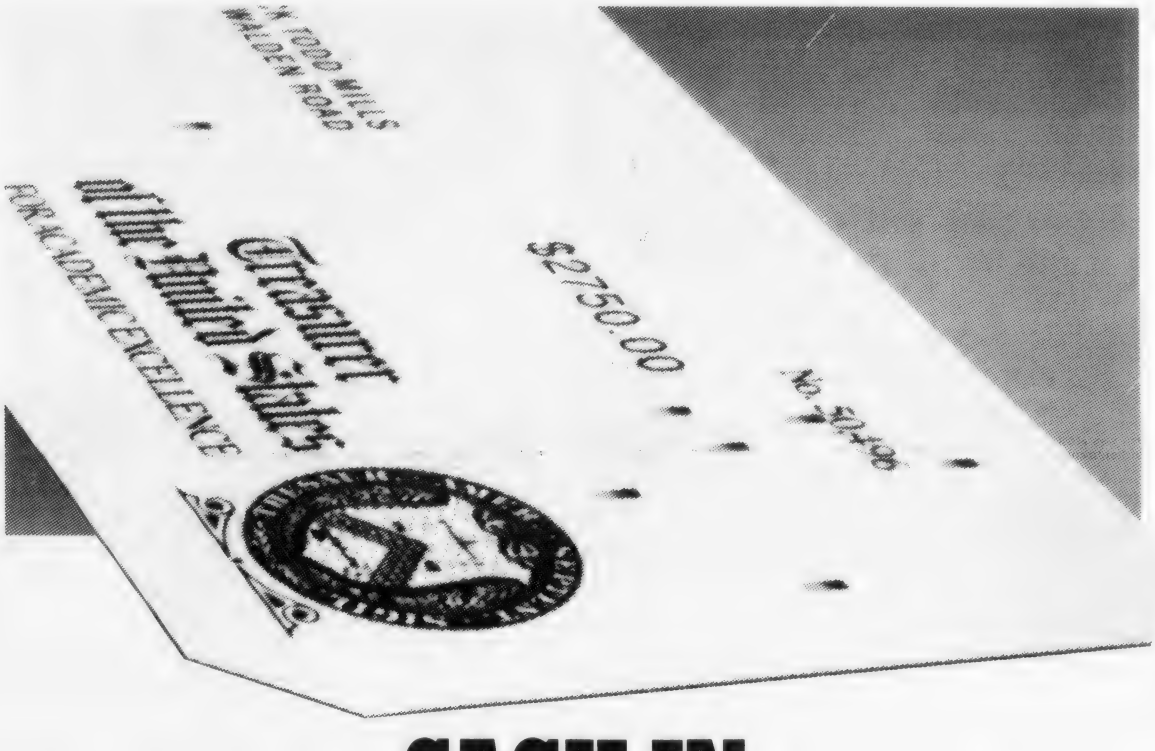
A mechanical failure on her plane caused her death during a test flight in Florida in 1926 when she was 33.

On April 30, the anniversary of Coleman's death, black aviators fly over the Chicago cemetery where she is buried and drop flowers on her grave.



According to the students, Coleman went to France because she could not find an American willing to teach a black woman to fly.

10-Year-Old Enrolls In College to Pursue Medical Degree



COSTA MESA, CALIF. (CPS) – A 10-year-old boy who plans to become a doctor is preparing to enter the University of California at Irvine to pursue a biological sciences degree this fall.

Masoud Karkehabadi, currently a student at Orange Coast College, enrolled last year when he was nine because his father wouldn't let him enroll at age seven.

Karkehabadi has maintained a 4.0 grade point average in junior college, and says he plans to use his future medical training to become a brain surgeon and find a cure for Alzheimer's disease.

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

CASH IN ON GOOD GRADES.

If you're a qualified student with good grades, apply now for a scholarship from Army ROTC.

Army ROTC scholarships pay tuition, most books and fees, plus $100 per school month. They also pay off with leadership experience and officer credentials impressive to future employers.

LEADERSHIP EXCELLENCE

ARMY ROTC

THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL CAPTAIN GARY WITTEKIND AT 395-2134
OR COME BY ROOM 207, HINER BLDG.

Sorority Walk Successful

By TRICIA POPULAR
Staff Reporter

Balloons, banners, chants, and cheers.

These are a few things you would have heard or seen Saturday, February 1 on Lankford Mall. The sororities anxiously waited to welcome their new members, while friends and family watched a traditional school event — WALK!

Spring Rush started January 26 and finished February 1. Approximately 140 girls registered to attend the scheduled Coke, Skit, Theme, and Inspirational parties.

The backbone behind this structured week was Rush Coordinator, Chrissie Hayes.

The Rho Chi's this year played a positive role. By working together and making new friends, they promoted greek unity which reflects on the Longwood community.

According to Steve Dealph, Greek Affairs Advisor, emphasis is being placed on Spring Rush because it is the only time sororities can have more than 55 members. The more rushees involved, means more openings in each sorority.

By setting quotas later (after skits), it was more representative of women still participating in rush. Although the change was more involved, a more stable quota was set. Now, sororities will probably come back next semester over the 55 ceiling and a rush week will not be necessary.

Raising the sorority quota ceiling was the next issue raised. Steve stated that Panhel can vote to raise the ceiling when all or some are at or near total (55). Steve thinks raising the total will effect chapter room space and he feels 55 is a strong number and more cooperative.

Although the week was stressful for both rushees and sororities, new friendships were made and the greek life is much stronger with these new girls. When asking Steve if the week was successful he responded, "with 87 percent of the rushees getting their first choice shows that something was done right."

College Students Feel the Flu Bug

(CPS) — Feeling achy and feivish? College students may have picked up more than presents while home for the holidays.

The 1991-92 influenza season was in full swing by the time the holidays rolled around. Outbreaks forced public school closings in some parts of the country.

Flu contracted over the winter break from sick family members or companion travelers can cause illness three to four days later...just in time for the start of the new semester.

Doctors say the only sure way to avoid the flu is to be immunized against it.

"Anyone who doesn't want the flu should get a flu shot," said Dr. Walter Gunn, epidemiologist for the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta.

The shot will offer full protection after two weeks.

"This year's flu epidemic began on the eastern seaboard and in the southeastern states," said Judy Conner, CDC's immunization program coordinator. "It now involves the entire country."

The CDC does not specifically track the flu epidemic on college campuses.

Old standbys for treatment include getting lots of rest and drinking plenty of liquids. According to Gunn, any fever lasting more than four days should be investigated by a doctor.

LSD Fast Facts:
Lysergic acid diethylamide

- ACTS: within 30-60 minutes.
- EFFECTS: last 8-10 hours, can recur.
- PHYSICAL response: dilated pupils, elevated temperature and blood pressure, increased salivation.
- PSYCHOLOGICAL response: "Good"or "bad" trip characterized by hallucinations, enhanced sensory experiences. Depression can follow.
- COSTS: between $2 and $5 per "hit."
- DOSE: .03 to .05 milligrams.

Valentine's Day Candy May Put You In a Funk

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (CPS) — Think twice about giving your sweetheart a box of candy for Valentine's Day. A Texas A&M psychologist says depression — not adoration — may result.

Dr. Larry Christiansen, who has conducted research on the link between sugar and depression, said he has found that eliminating sugar from the diets of depressed people can substantially curb their depression.

In his book "The Food-Mood Connection: Eating Your Way to Happiness," Christiansen says that dietary intervention can often determine what chemicals may be causing your case of blues.

"In terms of mood disorders, particularly depression, caffeine and sugar can have a devastating effect in terms of creating depression," said Christiansen, who has studied the diet-mood connection for the past ten years.

He points out that "individuals who feel fatigued, go to bed for eight hours and are still tired, someone who is moody, and people with ongoing headaches" are among those who may be what he terms "sugar or caffeine sensitive."

The author suggests that people eliminate both sugar and caffeine from their diets, then gradually introduce one element back into their system and watch for symptoms.

"Caffeine is not a stimulant for everyone," says Christiansen, who said he has found that people more often are sugar-sensitive than caffeine-sensitive.

Christiansen warns that withdrawal symptoms may be experienced when people drop sugar or caffeine from their diet. "They may get shaky, and the change may be gradual," although one woman told Christiansen she could "name the hour" she started feeling better after eliminating sugar from her diet.

The author is writing a book on premenstrual syndrome, which he says is directly related to a woman's diet choices during certain phases of the monthly cycle.

Many people attribute "feeling lousy" to a stressful job or marriage, when they could be suffering an underlying depression triggered by caffeine or sugar that makes them feel worse.

Steps Taken to Improve Business School

By JULIE TATE
Staff Reporter

Steps are being taken to make the Longwood College business school the best of all medium size schools in Virginia.

Longwood's business school has been competing with schools such as Radford, ODU, Mary Washington, and JMU in the past. Now these schools are competing with Longwood. Many of the competitors have business schools much larger than Longwood's.

Administrators in the school of business would like to see those students who, as freshmen, intend to major in business take all of their general education classes in their first two years and concentrate entirely on business classes the final two years.

Dr. Berkwood Farmer, Dean of the School of Business and Economics, feels that all students at Longwood College should take at least one economics class during their college careers in order to better prepare them for the working world.

Two major goals have been set forth by the Dean to the faculty in this school.

First, to equip the departments with new faculty members in the areas of marketing and finance. Qualifications for these new positions include having doctorate, having the ability to communicate effictively, possessing the ability to motivate the students to excel both in and out of the classroom, and developing a friendship with students, not just a professional relationship.

Second, the professors must keep up to date with the latest topics in their fields. By doing research and submitting articles to journals in their field of concentration each professor can stay on top of things. In turn, this knowledge is passed on to the students and then carried with them into the job market.

Research is also done by students through the Small Business Development Center. This research benefits the Southside Virginia Community. Longwood's Small Business Development Center is directed by Mr. Jerry Hughes and is the most visible and productive development center in Virginia. It meets the needs of businesses by developing a plan of action for a particular firm and helping that business become successful.

The goals set forth by Dean Farmer have been well received and steps have already been taken to insure the quality of the faculty.

MOVIES

Current Showings

THE ADDAMS FAMILY (PG-13) ANJELICA HUSTON — DELIGHTFUL RECREATION OF THE MACABRE FAMILY; PERFECTLY CAST (GOOD)

BEAUTY AND THE BEAST (G) — DISNEY MAGIC REIGNS SUPREME WITH THIS DAZZLING ANIMATED FEATURE BASED ON THE CLASSIC TALE (GREAT)

BUGSY (R) WARREN BEATTY — UNEVEN GANGSTER SAGA OF THE MOBSTER WHO INVENTED LAS VEGAS (FAIR)

CAPE FEAR (R) ROBERT DE NIRO — STYLISH FLOURISHES ADD POTENCY TO THIS REMAKE OF THE 1962 HORROR FILM (GREAT)

FATHER OF THE BRIDE (PG) STEVE MARTIN — SO-SO VERSION OF THE CLASSIC COMEDY; ORIGINAL IS BETTER (FAIR)

FREEJACK (R) EMILIO ESTEVEZ — BLAH SCI-FI ADVENTURE OF MAN TRYING TO AVOID A MEDICAL TRANSPLANT (FAIR)

FRIED GREEN TOMATOES (PG-13) KATHY BATES — ENDEARING TALE OF FEMALE FRIENDSHIP IN DEEP SOUTH (GOOD)

GRAND CANYON (R) DANNY GLOVER — FASCINATING MOSAIC FILM OFFERS KEEN OBSERVATIONS OF CONTEMPORARY SOCIETY (GREAT)

THE HAND THAT ROCKS THE CRADLE (R) REBECCA DE MORNAY — NANNY TERRORIZES A YUPPIE FAMILY; SOCKO THRILLER (GOOD)

HOOK (PG) ROBIN WILLIAMS — OVERBLOWN, LATTER-DAY VERSION OF THE CLASSIC "PETER PAN" FANTASY (FAIR)

JFK (R) KEVIN COSTNER — PROVOCATIVE, HIGHLY CONTROVERSIAL DOCUDRAMA RE-EXAMINES KENNEDY ASSASSINATION (GOOD)

JUICE (R) — UNFLINCHING LOOK AT BLACK YOUTHS INVOLVED IN CRIME; STOCK ACTION SEQUENCES LOWER IMPACT (FAIR)

KUFFS (PG-13) CHRISTIAN SLATER — SILLY, SEMI-COMEDY INVOLVING A YOUNG MAN WHO GETS REVENGE FOR HIS BROTHER'S MURDER (FAIR)

THE PRINCE OF TIDES (R) NICK NOLTE — SOUTHERN MAN BARES HIS EMOTIONAL TORMENT; VIGOROUS PERFORMANCE BY NOLTE (GOOD)

STAR TREK VI (PG) WILLIAM SHATNER — FRESH HUMOR AND GOOD SPECIAL EFFECTS ENLIVEN THIS SEQUEL IN THE STURDY SCI-FI SERIES (GOOD)

COMING ATTRACTION
WILLIAM BALDWIN WILL STAR IN "MACHINE GUN KELLY," AN UNCONVENTIONAL GANGSTER FILM ABOUT THE MOBSTER WHO WAS NEVER CONVICTED OF ROBBING A BANK AND NEVER KILLED ANYONE. COLUMBIA PICTURES WILL RELEASE.

New Releases

INTO THE SUN
Mild comic stew of elements from "Top Gun" and "The Hard Way" that halfheartedly spoofs flyboy adventures. Anthony Michael Hall stars as a self-absorbed actor who seeks some pilot experience under the guidance of an ace fighter jockey (Michael Pare). Predictably, the duo becomes embroiled in actual combat over the skies of the Middle East. Deborah Maria Moore (Roger's daughter) adds luster as the romantic interest for both men. Some combat footage perks up the pace. (R) FAIR COMEDY DIR-Fritz Kiersch LEAD-Anthony Michael Hall RT-100 mins. (Profanity)

LOVE CRIMES
Director Lizzie Borden exploits the controversial subject of men who take advantage of women in this half-baked film. Sean Young plays an assistant district attorney who goes undercover to trap a fashion photographer suspected of sex offenses. The story rarely makes much sense, it never attains dramatic force and it ends up as a monotonous diatribe. Patrick Bergin is unimpressive as the flagrant seducer and abuser. (R) FAIR DRAMA DIR-Lizzie Borden LEAD-Sean Young RT-90 mins. (Profanity, nudity)

SHINING THROUGH
Melanie Griffith transplants her "Working Girl" character to a World War II environment in this eloquent, but mildly corny, romantic adventure. She's a spunky secretary, fluent in German, who is sent to Berlin where she spies on some Nazi bigwigs. Michael Douglas plays her crusty boss and sometime lover. Romantic sparks fail to fly. Yet, the glossy, colorful screenplay, based on Susan Isaacs popular novel, offers constant fun and suspense. (R) GOOD ROMANTIC ADVENTURE DIR-David Seltzer LEAD-Melanie Griffith RT-127 mins. (Mild profanity, brief nudity)

When you give blood you give another birthday, another anniversary, another laugh, another hug, another chance.

American Red Cross
Please give blood.

Ad Council

Quotable:

"It is harder to preserve than to obtain liberty."

—John C. Calhoun

©1992 By Cinemah Syndicate College Press Service

COMICS

Wild Kingdom

By Anthony Rubino, Jr.

ASK MR. COLLEGE

Q. [illegible]

A. Dear Pissed, Beats me. Sorry about that. I was in a lousy mood that day.

Q. [illegible]

A.

Q. [illegible]

A. Dear Steamed, Try this. Stay out really late and don't tell your parents where you are. When they question you, say, "Hey. When I m away at school you never know where I am. Why do you need to know now?" At the very least this will stun them, and give you time to jump in the car and go to the beach.

Spencer Green

Wolfbane

REALITY 2

CLASSIFIED

HELP WANTED

SPRING BREAK '92 Jamaica, Cancun from $409, Panama City Beach from $119. Earn Cash & Free Travel...Campus Reps Needed!!! Call Student Travel Services 1-800-648-4849.

RESIDENT CAMP STAFF – Assistant director, business manager, RN, kitchen staff, unit counselors and leaders, program specialist, pool director and lifeguards needed; June 13 – August 11. Two seasonal resident camps located near Harrisonburg and Leesburg, VA. Contact: Ruth Ensor, GSCNC, 2233 Wisconsin Ave., N.W., Washington, DC 20007-4187. 202-337-4300. EOE.

TRAVEL AGENT: Independent Travel Agent for G.O. Travel Inc. wants to book your Spring Break Trip, Graduation Trip or your family vacation. Cruises are our specialty. Group bookings welcome. Call Chips' Marketing & Travel at 392-4593.

MODELS WANTED for artists' drawing group. Male or female, no exp. nec. For further information and pay scale call 392-6190 between 4 and 8 p.m.

CAMP COUNSELORS: Holiday Lake 4-H Center is accepting applications for summer camp counselors. Must be 19 years old or older. The following positions are available: Nurse/EMT., Food Service Manager, Canoeing, Horsemanship, Archery, Nature/Aquatic Science, Riflery, Outdoor/Adventure Program and Theater Arts. Salary plus room and board during week. Weekends off. Applications deadline March 1. For additional information and application contact Richard Pulliam or John Meadows at Holiday Lake 4-H Center, Route 2, Box 630, Appomattox, VA or call (804) 248-5444. An Equal Opportunity Employer.

HELP WANTED

Twin Lakes State Park is presently accepting applications for Maintenance Rangers, Concession Workers, and lifeguards. For more information contact Twin Lakes at (804) 392-3435 or fill out a State application form for each position desired and mail to Twin Lakes State Park, Rt. 2, Box 70, Green Bay, VA 23942. Applications will be accepted through March 1, 1992. Interviews will begin the first week of March.

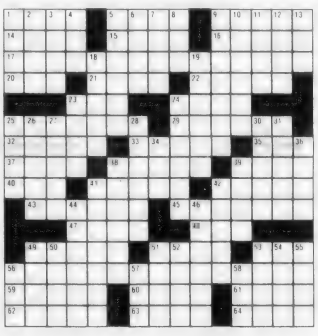
PERSONALS

Ann — What happens when you stand out in the rain too long? You get Rusty!! — Angela

Teasey — Had any good PETs lately? — Sleezy and Easy

Gruesome Twosome: SPECIAL 2 for 1 Valentine's Day only!!

Mark, John, and R.F. — Thanks for the coaching. We're finally certified... We couldn't have done it without you. — A.A. & D.

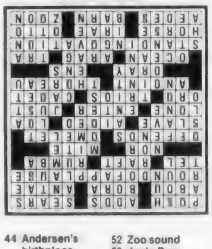


Wanted: One "baffled" P! Kap. — mmm good

Dirt Devil — Why don't you stay one weekend and clean my carpet?!

Ang — Gotta have it! — Ann

THE Crossword



by Alfio Micci

ACROSS
1 Luxurious
5 Totals
9 Chars
14 — Ben Adhem
15 Adriatic north wind
16 Pilasters
17 Actor's delight
20 Far: pref.
21 Float
22 Cuban dance
23 Partner of neither
24 Tiny sum of money
25 Displeases
29 Spanish or Western
32 Work hard
33 Lent a hand
35 Mauna —
37 Isolated
38 Stage direction
39 Fair
40 "— y plata"
41 Music for three
42 Plebe
43 Bless
45 Author of "Walden"
47 Cart
48 Navy man: abbr.
49 Bounding main
51 Limp as —
53 — la la
56 Actor's delight
59 Stand
60 Dies —
61 HRE king
62 Yellow-fever mosquito
63 Farm building
64 Kind of organism

DOWN
1 Parcel's partner
2 Orchestra member
3 Human
4 Attila follower
5 On deck
6 Discard
7 Mild expletive
8 Fool
9 Honored
10 Gloss
11 "Three men in —"
12 Tabula —
13 Bishopric
18 Idler
19 Schoolbook
23 Granular snow
24 Coy
25 Fjord city
26 Plants of a region
27 Papal vestment
28 Reason
30 Slip by
31 Where Bobby Shaftoe went
34 Jap. admiral
36 Aleutian isle
38 Verdi opera
39 Jolts
41 Harangues
42 Cuban dance
44 Andersen's birthplace
46 "Leave her to —"
49 Western Indian
50 Jokester
51 Taj Mahal site
52 Zoo sound
53 Josip Broz
54 Newspaper section
55 Presently
56 — Na Na
57 Pinpoint
58 From A —

ANSWERS

Your Real Horoscope

by Ruby Wyner-Io
H.H.B.P. certified Astrologer

Aries: (Mar. 21–Apr. 19) Your stress will peak when you accidentally run down a sidewalk full of pedestrians in a high speed chase.

Taurus: (Apr. 20–May 20) A nasty cut you get while shaving will become infected with gangrene. An amputation is likely.

Gemini: (May 21–June 21) The new moon is perfect for making resolutions that stick. Cut back on anal intrusion.

Cancer: (June 22–July 22) Swallowing a bottle of little blue pills will bring an end to those nagging financial difficulties.

Leo: (July 23–Aug. 22) A new relationship will have you walking on air, but will come to an abrupt end when you repulse your mate with your incessant nose-picking.

Virgo: (Aug. 23–Sept. 22) Ask yourself what you need to feel secure, then blow Vienna sausages at people through sections of garden hose.

Libra: (Sept. 23–Oct. 23) Emulate people in beer commercials, for they are the wisest on Earth.

Scorpio: (Oct. 24–Nov. 21) Bring friends together this weekend, then bicker with them about unsubstantiated gossip.

Sagittarius: (Nov. 22–Dec. 21) You'll acquire the ability to withstand extremely cold temperatures. Use this new power to fight crime.

Capricorn: (Dec. 22–Jan. 19) Ensure your position at the workplace. Urinate on the walls in areas that you consider your territory.

Aquarius: (Jan. 20–Feb. 18) After staring at a video display terminal for too long, you will see a ghostly image of Gavin MacLeod.

Pisces: (Feb. 19–Mar. 20) If your feet tire, ache, pain, burn, itch or perspire excessively from over-exertion, fatigue or stress, then eat them.

Astrologer Ruby Wyner-Io has counselled prominent politicians, film stars and wrestling champions with her knowledge of the stars. This, her weekly astrology column, is for common riffraff like you.

Campus Calendar

SPRING WEEKEND WILL BE HELD APRIL 3, 4, & 5!

Information on events should be submitted to the Student Union Office in Lankford by the Friday preceding the appropriate issue of the paper.

Wednesday February 12	Thursday February 13	Friday February 14	Saturday February 15	Sunday February 16	Monday February 17	Tuesday February 18
Intramurals: Ping Pong-W. EB due.	Workshop: Civility in the Workplace, 1 pm Bedford.	VALENTINE'S DAY	Entertainer: Bill Fry, 9 pm Lancer Cafe.	Concert: Tactical Air Command Brass Quintet, 4 pm Wygal.	Workshop: Job Search Skills. 5 pm CPPC	Workshop: Interviewing Skills. 1 pm CPPC
Rotunda Staff Meeting: Interested in working - come join us. 6 pm Lancaster B27	SGA: General Meeting. 6 pm R/W/G	Professors Are People Day		Black History Mime: 7:30 pm Wygal.	Women's Basketball: Columbia Union, 5:15 pm Lancer Hall.	Intramurals: Coed VB. EB due.
Guest Speaker Arthur Ashe: 7 pm Jarman.	Wrestling: Washington & Lee, 7 pm Lancer Hall	Movies: The Man in the Moon 9:00 pm Gold Room			Men's Basketball: Barton, 7:30 pm Lancer Hall.
					Lecture: African Culture & Language by Gabriel Ruhumbika, 8 pm S/W/G
					Movies: The Man in the Moon 9:00 pm Gold Room

Lady Lancers Stopped

By ALEX RODRIGUEZ
Sports Reporter

Longwood's Lady Lancers (7-15) had their two game winning streak stopped by visiting Pittsburgh-Johnstown (16-3).

Todd Croyle and Mindy Young led the scoring with 25 and 23 points respectively. Longwood's high scorers were Cassie Ensley with 15 and Mandy Evans who came off the bench to contribute 13 points for the Lancers.

The Lady Lancers played with great intensity but were outmatched by the Lady Mountain Cats who are currently ranked 11th in the NCAA Division II women's basketball poll.

The Lady Cats kept continuous offensive pressure on the Lancers by using a control offense and accurate passing to keep Longwood's defense off-balance.

Longwood's triangle and two defense was rendered ineffective by the Lady Cat's guards Mindy Young and Amy Kessler whose experience help them find the holes in Longwood's defense.

Longwood's offense was held in check by Pittsburgh-Johnstown defense. Longwood shot 41 percent for the game while the Lady Cats shot 57 percent.

The Lady Cats also took the advantage from the free throw line, converting 26 of 31 attempts for 84 percent.

The Lady Cats never allowed Longwood to establish any type of offense by cutting off the wings and denying any shooting inside the paint.

The score at the half was Pittsburgh-Johnstown 49 and Longwood 34. Longwood repeatedly reduced the lead to 13 but was unable to get any closer.

Intramurals Update

By MICHAEL K. CARTER
Staff Reporter

The Winner is...

Alpha Sigma Alpha defeated the Smooth Operators team to win the women's basketball championship.

The team of Mike Tucker, Shawn Jones, James Callaham, and Lewis Brogdon won the Schick Super Hoops basketball tournament last weekend and advanced to the Regional Festival at American University on February 9th. The top two teams at the festival will play the championship game at an NBA arena as part of an NBA game.

What's Going On...

The Men and Women's Racquetball Tournaments began play last week with 51 men and 12 women competing.

Mens basketball began its sixteen team tournament last Monday.

On Deck...

Women's Ping Pong entry blanks are due on Wednesday the 12th.

Coed Innertube Water Polo entry blanks were due on Monday the 10th with play beginning on Wednesday the 12th.

Wanted...

Aerobic Instructors are needed by the Intramural and Recreation Department to teach twelve classes a week during the coming school year. Contact 2356.

A Volleyball Officials meeting will be held on Monday, February 17th in Iler Gym.

Ensley Named Player Of the Week

CASSIE ENSLEY

Sophomore guard Cassie Ensley, who scored 64 points in three games last week for Longwood's women's basketball team, has been named Longwood College Player of the Week for the period Feb. 2-9. Player of the Week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.

Ensley's week began as she scored 23 points, including five of nine from three-point range, in leading Longwood to an 85-64 victory over visiting Virginia Union on Monday night. Thursday, Ensley hit for a career-high 26 points in a 68-63 triumph over Virginia State. She was eight of 10 from the foul line against VSU.

On Saturday, Ensley hit for 15 points and made four steals as the Lady Lancers dropped a 98-64 decision to 11th-ranked Division II power Pittsburgh-Johnstown. Ensley nailed two three-pointers, giving her 84 for her career, which ties her with former LC All-American Carmille Barnette ('91) for first on the all-time list.

Ensley's career three-point shooting percentage of .344 (84-244) is also tops on the career list, as is her career .750 mark (138-184) from the foul line.

For the season, Ensley is averaging a team-leading 14.6 points and 5.2 assists. She is shooting 45 percent from the floor, including 41 percent from three-point land, and 73 percent from the foul line. Ensley also has 50 rebounds and 49 steals, along with two blocked shots.

A 1,000-point career scorer at Albert Einstein High School, Ensley's major is modern languages at Longwood.

Lancers Record Moves to Plus Side; But Win Streak Ends

Longwood's men's basketball team moved its record to the plus side with three victories last week, but dropped a 67-60 decision to Elon Monday night to slip to 12-10. The loss put an end to a four-game Lancer win streak.

Coach Ron Carr's squad started the string of four victories with a win over Newberry 79-64 Jan. 25, and last week beat Wingate 61-45 Monday, Gardner-Webb 66-62 Wednesday and Lincoln Memorial 71-65 Saturday. The Newberry and Gardner-Webb wins came on the road. The Lancers have now won seven of their last 11 games, turning a 5-6 record into the current 12-10.

Longwood will host Shepherd Thursday night in its next action. The Rams are 16-5 and one of the top teams in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. After a trip to Wingate next Monday, the Lancers will have their last home game against Barton Monday, Feb. 17.

Monday night Michael Druitt scored a career-high 18 points with six rebounds and senior Joe Lowe had 12 points and a team-high eight rebounds, but Elon rallied from a nine-point second half deficit to take the victory. The Fightin' Christians stood 11-7 with the win.

Druitt canned 12 of 15 free throws, going 7-7 in the first half when he scored 13 points to pace a 38-34 Lancer edge. He also finished with six assists, giving him 79 for the season and an average of 3.6 per game. Lowe played well in his 26 minutes on the court, but saw limited time in the second half because of foul problems. He paced an 8-0 Lancer run which put Longwood up 48-39 with 15:06 left.

Elon, however, seized control of the contest outscoring LC 28-12 the rest of the way.

Junior Keith Crabtree came off the bench to score nine points and spark the team with his hustling style of play.

Druitt, Lowe, Weaver, Laster Pace Win Over LMU

Longwood got solid showings from four players while avenging an earlier loss to Lincoln Memorial Saturday. Lowe, Bryan Weaver and Chuck Laster combined for 26 first half points as the Lancers took a 32-22 lead at the break. LMU staged a second half comeback, pulling within 57-55 with 3:39 left in the game.

Druitt, who finished with 10 points and eight assists, scored two straight buckets and Lowe another for a 63-55 edge with 2:12 left. Lowe then combined with J.B. Neill to hit six straight free throws and ice the victory.

Lowe ended up with a season-high 19 points, while Weaver added 16 points and six rebounds and Laster 17 points and five boards. Longwood pulled off 32 rebounds to the Railsplitters' 22 to offset 22 Lancer turnovers.

For the game, Lowe hit seven of 10 shots from the floor and five of six free throws. Neill had a solid all-around game with five points, five assists and two steals.

Lady Gymnasts Fall to Navy ; Plagued By Injuries

By ALEX RODRIGUEZ
Sports Reporter

Longwood College women's gymnastics team fell to 0-5 with a lose to Navy 165.4 to 99.35.

The Lady Lancers were looking for their first win of the season against Navy but knew it was going to be difficult competing with only three gymnasts.

The Lancers were led by junior Danielle Williams who finished first in the all around competition with a score of 35.50.

Danielle Williams was very surprised about her first place finish saying, "I did not expect to do so well this early. I just went out there and had fun."

The Lady Lancers are without junior co-captain Beth Risley who is out with a knee injury, along with Marci Anzelmo and Laura Hill who were both sidelined due to illness.

Cheryl Cole and Michele Mustascio both had strong performances, but competing with only three gymnasts against Navy's six was a little too much for Longwood.

Longwood's next meet is the Towson Invitational on Feb. 16.

Wrestlers Win Fourth State Title

By Greg Prouty

Longwood's wrestling team won the 1992 Virginia College Division State Championship Sunday in Norfolk, the Lancers fourth state title in the six years of Virginia's division II and III tournament.

Longwood won with 81.5 points, followed by Virginia State with 61.25, Newport News Apprentice 56.25, Norfolk State 48, Washington & Lee 30.5, and Gallaudet with 16 points.

Longwood had four individual state champions, led by senior Ted Proctor winning his fourth state title. Proctor went 3-0 en route to the championship, with two pins prior to a title match decision at 167.

Also winning championships were senior Kevin McSherry at 158, and freshmen Nate Brown and Ryan Stefanko at 118 and 134 respectively. McSherry also got two pins on the day, with a decision in the final. Brown took a major decision in his title match and Stefanko gained an overtime decision in his championship.

"It was a good, competitive tournament," commented coach Steve Nelson. "We wrestled very hard and are pleased with the championship. Ted and Kevin looked very good, wrestling composed and in control, while Ryan and Nate were impressive as well."

Taking second was junior Keith Goff 150, and freshman Joe Silvus at 142, while senior Kevin Haller 126, finished third. Fourth-place finishes went to freshmen Bryan Hartley and David Franklin at 177 and 190 respectively.

Longwood will host a dual match against Washington & Lee Thursday night at 7 in Lancer Hall before hosting the NCAA Division II Southern Regionals Feb. 23 beginning at 12 p.m., also in Lancer Hall.

THE ROTUNDA

VOL. 71, NO. 12 | LONGWOOD COLLEGE | FARMVILLE, VA | FEBRUARY 19, 1992

Spring Breakers Swarm To Texas, California and Florida

Photo by Jim Tiller

Where's Waldo? No doubt, he's in Daytona, Cancun or South Padre Island. Welcome to Spring Break madness.

By AMY REYNOLDS

(CPD) – Holy beach assault, Batman!

It's that time of year again — when residents of beach towns across the United States and Mexico lock up their children, hide their valuables and brace themselves for an onslaught of less-than-well-behaved college students.

Chief Edward Sanders of the South Padre Island (Texas) Police Department laughed when he was asked what his officers were planning to do during Spring Break 1992 to control unruly, drunken students.

"We're going to Cancun, Mexico," he said.

So are thousands of others. Travel agents and tourism departments say the recession hasn't diminished the size of the hordes that will descend primarily on Florida, Mexico and South Padre Island, off the southern tip of Texas, this March and early April.

"Traveling hasn't been curtailed," said Stuart Himmelfarb, vice president of Roper College Track, which studies the spending habits of college students. Himmelfarb said that 40 percent of all college students said they traveled somewhere during Spring Break 1991, and 50 percent said they traveled last summer.

"We've seen a slight decline in air travel. There's a little less money to go around...but students are just finding more inexpensive ways to travel," Himmelfarb said.

"The recession hasn't had a negative impact on us," said Teresa Ogle, the marketing and sales coordinator for College Tours, which arranges Spring Break packages to Mazatlan and Cancun, Mexico. "This year we have a lot more students. There weren't as many last year because of the war."

Other travel agents agree and say that many students are opting for road trips, rather than packages that include airfare.

"We're sold out on a lot of stuff," said Sharla Shipman of Sunchase Tours, which has heavily advertised its packages in college newspapers across the country. "South Padre Island is still the most popular, but Panama Beach (FL) is really gaining in popularity."

Other popular destinations this year include Hilton Head Island off the coast of South Carolina, Steamboat Springs, Colorado, for skiing enthusiasts, and various Caribbean Island cruises. The Florida keys remain popular with Florida students, while California beaches attract students in the Northwest.

Most still consider Daytona Beach the hottest spot for Spring Break.

"Daytona is doing very well," said Raphael Marcucci, a spokesman for the Florida Department of Tourism. "And Panama City (in the Florida panhandle) has gone out of its way to attract students. The water (in the Gulf of Mexico) is still to cold to jump in, but that's not what they're here for anyway."

Marcucci said that most of Florida's coastal cities welcome the students because of the tremendous boost to the local economy, especially since Florida tourism as a whole fell for the first time in 12 years in 1991.

Many hotels, bars, clubs and parks are offering discounts to students. For example, Walt Disney World in Orlando is offering park tickets to students with an I.D. for $22 for one day (regularly $33) or for $40 for two days.

"The recession has really hurt tourism overall," Marcucci said. The state expects 39.5 million tourists in 1992, significantly less than the 40.9 million who visited in 1990, but more than the projected 39.4 million for 1991.

Although separate counts aren't kept on the number of students that descend on the state for Spring Break, Marcucci said the number is significant.

The only city discouraging visits from the Spring Break crowd is Fort Lauderdale, where strict open container and other drinking laws went into effect after wild beer riots and the deaths of some students a few years ago.

Through the 1980s, increased reports of crime and deaths due to drinking and accidents during the break has prompted all of the Spring Break hot spots to take special precautions.

On South Padre Island, the local police department encourages hotels, businesses and bars to hire additional private security. Sanders said that the Texas state alcohol agents target the area to keep an eye on underage drinkers and the state highway patrol officers concentrate their efforts on the roads to and from the island to nab drunken drivers.

"We've also met with the other police agencies from all the cities in our county for assistance if it's needed," Sanders said.

He cautioned college students to use common sense and the "buddy system" to protect themselves.

"Spring Break doesn't just bring the wholesome college students who want to have a good time," Sanders said. "Other people, thugs, are going to come over with the idea of stealing and robbing.

"What we recommend is that you buddy up with a friend, someone you can look out for, someone who will look out for you and your belongings."

Sanders added, "Use a little common sense. We promote Party Smart. Be sensible an don't get plumb out of control."

Party smart is a national alcohol awareness program that doesn't tell students "Don't drink," but rather "Drink responsibly."

Karen Oliver, who works with Party Smart and is now in Daytona to promote the program during break, said, "We are trying to help promote community-wide awareness. We stress personal responsibility."

Another organization — BACCHUS, which stands for Boost Alcohol Consciousness Concerning the Health of University Students — is also promoting responsible drinking behaviors. BACCHUS stresses the dangers of drinking and driving and is asking students to sign "Safe Spring Break Pledges" which state that students won't drink and drive, won't let friends drink and drive, will wear their seatbelts and won't get into a car with a drunken driver.

Everyone who signs a pledge is eligible to win a car from the Chrysler Corporation, which sponsors the effort.

In a different effort to protect students, university student le-

(Continued on page 4)

SGA Moves Ahead

By LYNN GIANNI
Staff Reporter

The spring semester is well on its way and so are the plans for the 1992 Student Government Association. With many important issues to be discussed this year, the SGA is looking to increase student involvement.

The focus of the February 6 meeting was to continue discussions on the plans for the SGA in 1992. President Darrell Wells suggested a committee structure in order to produce effective planning of future SGA activities.

An example of such activities will be the SGA retreat which has been rescheduled from this past weekend to February 20. The focus of this retreat will be on goal setting and how to further improvements of the SGA.

Vice President Amanda Janney has set the dates for the spring elections. The dates and locations have been set for, Wednesday April 8, 1992 in Lankford Student Union, Thursday April 9 and Friday April 10 in the New Smoker.

With the beginning of the semester comes many issues to keep the SGA busy. The SGA has been dedicated since the installment of add/drop fees to having them repealed. On February 13, 1992 the SGA invited Dr. Stuart to come their meeting in order to answer questions based on student concerns.

SGA is also taking an active role in the future of financial aid, as well as a possible votes registration drive on campus. Additionally SGA is going to discuss plans to get a ATM machine located on campus.

The role of SGA on Longwood's campus in one that is greatly increasing. Student involvement is a major concern of the members, and measures are being taken to increase this involvement. The SGA office will be open approximately twenty-four hours a week in order to increase members contact with the student body.

SGA meetings are held every Thursday at 6 p.m. in conference room 1 of Lankford Student Union and all students are welcome to attend.

CHRISTI PAGE, MISS LOUISIANA

Miss Longwood Pageant Has All-Star Cast

The Miss Longwood Pageant, a Miss America preliminary, will feature blue-ribbon entertainment and "the most talented contestants ever," according to college officials. The Pageant will be held Saturday, March 7, at 8 p.m. in Jarman Auditorium.

Ten contestants, chosen from 24 in auditions last December, will compete for $3,000 in scholarships and the right to represent Longwood at the Miss Virginia Pageant in July.

Special entertainment will include:

•The reigning Miss Louisiana, who placed in the Top Ten in the Miss America Pageant. She will serve as Emcee and sing "Amazing Grace" and "Great Balls of Fire". She will accompany herself on the piano for the latter number. She has performed in concert with Jerry Lee Lewis and in pageants throughout the United States.

•Miss Virginia 1984, Susan Parker-Potter, who will sing two of Andrew Lloyd Webber's greatest hits from Broadway shows – "Memory" from "Cats" and "The Music of the Night" from "Phantom of the Opera." She was a talent winner in the Miss America Pageant.

•The Karen Sherrill Dancers, national champions of dance entertainment, from Mooresville and Statesville, N.C. The group has won First Place for three consecutive years in national dance competition at "The Homecoming Convention of Dance." They will perform three times in the Pageant.

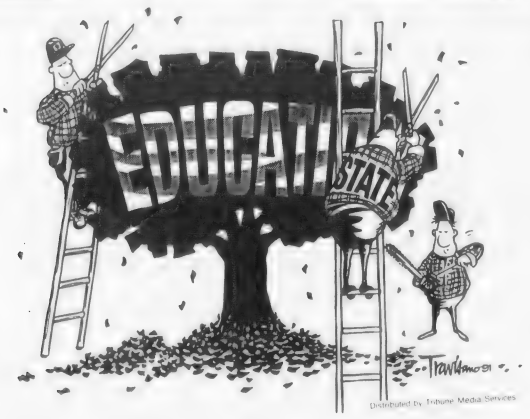
•The Longwood Lancer Edition, Longwood's song and dance troupe that entertains throughout the state.

•And Longwood's Jazz Band, which will perform Dixieland music as a prelude to the appearance of Miss Louisiana.

The Pageant's international theme, "Reach Out," will be carried out through music from the 1984 and 1988 Olympics; a backdrop of flags from ten nations; a parade of ROTC cadets carrying flags from nine other nations, along with the contestants wearing t-shirts emblazoned with flags of the same countries; and dance numbers of Caribbean, Spanish, and patriotic American music.

The contestants are: Christine Crews of Keysville, who will perform a tap dance to a medley of 1920s music; Teresa Goding, Bedford, who will sing "Nothing" from "A Chorus Line;" Anne Helm, Manassas, who will sing and dance to the musical comedy number, "I Can't Say No," from "Oklahoma;" Shannon Holley, Virginia Beach, who will sing Lee Greenwood's "God Bless the USA;" Cullen Johnson, Washington, D.C., who will play Khatchaturian's "Toccata" on the piano; Jill Leffler, Colonial Heights, who will perform an original monologue with song and dance to "I've Got the Power" by SNAP; Kate Newman, Chesterfield, who will sing Maria Carey's hit song, "Emotion;" Heather Ross, Richmond, who will perform a song and dance routine to "You Can't Get a Man With a Gun," from "Annie Get Your Gun;" Angela Smith, Glen Allen, who will sing the Connie Francis song, "Where the Boys Are;" and Tara Towery, Chase City, who will play Handel's Sonata Number 7" on the flute.

In addition to talent, contestants will compete in evening gown, interview, and swimsuit.



Tickets will be available at the door of may be obtained in advance form Longwood's Public Affairs Office or from sorority members from March 2-5. Longwood student tickets purchased in advance are $3. The cost at the Pageant is $5. Student tickets purchased in advance must be accompanied by a Longwood student ID to gain admission to Jarman.

Since the Miss Longwood Pageant is usually a sell-out, students are encouraged to buy in advance and avoid the possibility of long lines. All tickets are General Admission.

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
Features 3
News 4
Comics 5
Sports 6

COMMENTARY

Letter To The Editor

Editor, The Rotunda,

The Nineteen Hidden Polyester Lords is an organization on Longwood campus which is completely unofficial and independent of the College. Our Organization is a Brotherhood of women and men who, by techniques that are available to every person who has ever been born, have managed to elevate their awareness to the point where they have discovered quite naturally that they are buried in bullshit. We as a group have discovered some of the secrets of the Universe, all of which we will very soon bring to you.

The Nineteen Hidden Polyester Lords chooses to stay underground because historically whenever any group of intellectual people or scientists or philosophers became too prominent, they were immediately stamped out by the priests or kinds who happened to be in authority at that time. The world seems always to be under the heel of some tyrant or dictator, so rather than expose themselves to needless harassment, we simply withhold our identity and conceal our abilities from the world at large.

Editor's Note: This letter is unsigned, however we are printing it because of the message it contains, and our mission to serve as a open public forum.

ROTUNDA

Longwood College
Box 1133
Farmville, VA
23909

1920
Founding Editor
Helen Skillman

STAFF

Executive Editor
Bradley L. Owen

Features Editor
Sherry Gatewood

Sports Editor

Asst. Features Editor
Ann Renee Heim

Head Photographer

Associate Editor
Erin C. McCay

Assistant Editor
James K. Johnson

Business Manager

Advisors
Mr. William C. Woods
Ms. Brenda Atkins

Reporters/Assistants: Thomas D. Birchett, IV, Todd Buchanan, Michael K. Carter, Dina Dawson, Kathy DiMartino, Sarah Drewry, Lynn Gianni, Travis W. Griffin, Debra E. Mayo, Claude Monger, Christy Mottley, Kimberly Mraz, Chris Mullins, Linda M. Nygaard, Kandi Pettus, Rose Ann Pitzl, Tricia Popular, R. Alex Rodriguez, Julie K. Tate, Jennifer Wyatt, and Cassandra Yellis.

EDITORIAL POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration, or trustees. Columns, letters, editorials, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be typed, signed, have a return address, and phone number. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

All contributions shall be addressed to The Rotunda, LC Box 1133, Farmville, VA 23909. Deadline for articles is 5p.m. Friday prior to the Wednesday publication date and these should be place in the envelopes inside the Publication offices door in Lankford or mailed. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by 8p.m. Sunday. All submissions become the property of The Rotunda.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an Associated Collegiate Press and Columbia Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at (804) 395-2120 or faxed to (804) 395-2237.

NEWSBRIEF

Two College Administrators Resign

NEW YORK (CPS) – Two City College administrators have resigned their positions, just weeks after the release of a special mayor's report that partially blamed the college for the deaths of nine people at a celebrity basketball game in December.

The report said that police, the promoters, the evening student government association, the crowd, City College and City University all shared blame for the stampede that caused the deaths.

Jean Charles, the director of cocurricular life, and George McDonald, vice president for student affairs, have both resigned. Charles worked for City College for 13 years; McDonald worked for the school for 24 years.

In addition, another college official faces disciplinary action from the school. Charles Delaney was removed as director of security. He will work temporarily for the college's facilities office until a disciplinary hearing can be held.

'Meatout' Scheduled March 20

(CPS) – A number of celebrities, including cartoonist Berke Breathed, actor River Phoenix and singer Chrissie Hynde, have urged people to kick the meat habit – at least for a day – on March 20.

The seventh Great American Meatout is sponsored by the Farm Animal Reform Movement.

According to FARM, the purpose of the event is to alert people to "factory farming" practices and to encourage "a less violent, more wholesome diet."

More than 1.5 million Americans suffer or die from chronic diseases that have been linked to animal fat and meat, FARM says. In addition, raising animals for food wastes topsoil, groundwater and valuable grain, the group contends.

SEC To Ban Tobacco Products

(CPS) – The Southeastern Conference has announced that it will ban the use of tobacco-related products at both conference and post-season tournament baseball games, the NCAA News reports.

The ban goes into effect this season, and gives umpires the power to eject any players or coaches who violate the rule after one warning.

SEC Commissioner Roy Kramer told the NCAA News that the conference adopted the measure after reviewing results of studies that show the adverse effects of using tobacco products, particularly chewing tobacco, which is popular among baseball players.

The NCAA has a policy against the use of tobacco products by both players and coaches during NCAA championship competitions.

Head Was A Hunk – Of Roast Beef

CHICAGO (CPS) – University of Illinois at Chicago police say they've solved the mystery of an art exhibit that students say was the head of a human cadaver wrapped in plastic.

Artist Rudy Vargas originally claimed that he had stolen the head from the medical school. But, Lt. John Otomo, head of UIC investigations, said he is satisfied that Vargas' later explanation is actually the truth. Vargas now says his October exhibit was really a head that he carved out of roast beef.

Vargas told police that he made up the human head story "to add to the atmosphere of his piece," Otomo said.

Although witnesses of the exhibit at the school's undergraduate art gallery said they were convinced the head was real, Otomo said that most couldn't positively say that it was a human head.

The other reason police gave for believing Vargas' roast beef explanation is that the medical school did not report any missing cadaver heads – Contributed by the Chicago Flame

More Blacks Hold College Degrees

WASHINGTON (CPS) – The percentage of the nation's black population completing four or more years of college is increasing steadily, according to a report released by the Commerce Department's Census Bureau.

The proportion of blacks age 25 and over who hold a college degree rose from 10.7 percent in 1987 to 11.8 percent in 1989. The proportion who were high school graduates in 1989 was 64.6 percent, higher than the 1985 rate.

Players To Present Forum In Jarman

By ANN RENEE HEIM
Asst. Features Editor

The Longwood Players first production this semester is A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum which will run from February 26-29 at 8 p.m. in Jarman.

Written by Steven Sondheim, Forum is a musical comedy, and is the first one to be performed by the Players in two and a half years.

To direct the show, the theatre department asked Richmond area director Tom Width to come in to head up the action. In Richmond, Width has directed many plays and musicals, including Big River, Into the Woods, and Me and My Gal.

The cast includes many familiar faces such as Anthony Tassa, Michelle Neubecker, J. J. Wiese, Teresa Goding, and Scott Joyce.

Not all are familiar faces. Newcomers to Jarman stage are freshman Shannon Brooks, Eric Dearing, and Tara Towery. Senior Chris Kelly is another newcomer to the stage, he said this about his first stage experience, "This is a very exciting opportunity for me — I'm a music major and I don't get to do stuff like this."

With a cast of nineteen, the show provides many opportunities for students and others alike, including the community. Cast members from Farmville are Laura Bolding, Jerry Dagenhart, Ralph (Rif-Raf) Haga, Alexandria Palamountain, and Hal Sherman.

When asked about the progress of the show, Width responded, "I think it's coming along wonderfully — we're starting to add layers to the characters... it's really starting to come together."

Width also enjoys working with the students in the theatre department, as he said, "I love it! It's the ingenuity of people just starting that is appealing. The older people have jaded aspects about themselves. At this age there is nothing that cannot be done."

Members of the cast feel the same for Width. Said Teresa Goding, who plays the role of Philia, "He's wonderful. He's a great director. It's interesting to see how different directors work. I feel honored to be working with him."

According to J. J. Wiese, though they play around and have fun at rehearsals, they have all worked hard to accomplish their individual goals. About Tom Width, Wiese, who plays the "romantic" lead, Hero, said, "In his own stubborn, overbearing way he makes things exciting — but that's his job."

A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum opens on Wednesday, Feb. 26 at 8 p.m. in Jarman. Goding alluded that it will be a night full of magic as she smiled and said, "He's a magician you know."

LC Plays Significant Role In Local Community

By CHRISTY MOTTLEY
Staff Reporter

Would there be a Farmville without Longwood or a Longwood without Farmville?

No matter what your opinion, it is a fact that Longwood College plays a significant role in the local communities of Prince Edward County and Farmville, economically and culturally.

According to a recent survey, approximately one out of every five dollars spent in the Farmville area can be attributed to the presence of Longwood - faculty, staff, and students. This spending in return becomes income for local business owners and their employees.

Student spending is spread relatively evenly over several product categories, however, entertainment and groceries appear to be the most frequently purchased goods and services.

The surveyed student population of 3166 resides in the Farmville area approximately 8.2 months per year. The survey reported that each student spends on a average, $315 per month locally. Yearly this can amount to approximately $999,000.

Longwood employees, on the other hand, spend the highest percent of their income on housing in the Farmville/Prince Edward area. This is due mainly to the fact that approximately 90% of all college employees reside in the immediate area. Based on the survey, their spending habits follow the typical consumer expenditure pattern with staple items such as food, health care and clothing as the next most important areas.

According to several local business people, it is no secret that Longwood plays an integral part in their professional success. One in particular commented that his business would survive without sales from students, however, sales most likely would not be as high. The impact is greatly dependent upon the nature and type of the business

Many students also depend upon the local businesses for jobs to assist with educational expenses. The merchants also try to work with the students by offering special discounts during the fall to welcome students back.

There may not be a way to determine an exact dollar figure for Longwood's economic impact, however, it is obvious it is a major factor to the growth and economic stability of Farmville and Prince Edward County.

Longwood also offers a variety of programs and services to local residents thereby having more than just a financial impact on the community at large.

During the 1990-91 academic year, the Theater Department presented four productions. These alone attracted approximately 4,000 local people. By offering special performances aimed at local school children, approximately 8,500 attended Longwood to observe five performances.

Lancer Productions, formerly the Student Union Board, also offers programs such as dance companies, guest lecturers, musical concerts, films, and entertainers, all open to the public.

Area residents also participate in various noncredit classes including youth classes, arts and crafts, health and fitness, and recreation and general interest classes. These students range in age from 6 to 80 years years old. During the 1990-91 academic year 652 persons participated in these classes.

It is obvious that Longwood plays a role in our town, but our town also plays a role in Longwood. Farmville is a centrally located, historic area giving students the opportunity to experience more than just college life.

Longwood and Farmville are involved in a mutually beneficial relationship that will likely last for years to come.

Plagiarism and Alcohol Abuse Tops Boards' Caseload

By SARAH DREWRY
Staff Reporter

The Honor and Judicial Boards continue to hear many cases throughout the year involving students who have violated either code. Both boards hear a variety of cases, but most of the cases concern plagiarism and the irresponsible use of alcohol.

The most common Honor Board offense by Longwood students is plagiarism.

Though freshman English courses instruct students how to document information correctly, many juniors and seniors continue to be found responsible for plagiarism. Transfer students responsible for this offense claim that they are unfamiliar with the Longwood Honor Code; others see their mistake as carelessness.

As a result of their lack of knowledge or carelessness, students continue to face the sanctions of the Honor Board. These sanctions range from probation to suspension, depending on the nature and the offense.

Shawn Smith, Honor Board Chairman, urges students to ask their professor if they are unsure of how to document correctly, adding that "Guessing is not the right way."

Longwood College Style Manuals are available in the bookstore for students who may be unaware of the proper way to document.

Most Judicial Board cases involve the use of alcohol. If a student is drunk in public, harassing another or vandalizing Longwood property, he or she may be found responsible for any of these violations by the Judicial Board.

Sanctions for these violations include: for the first offense, three to nine months of probation and for the second offense longer probation, depending on the situation.

Mark Tueting, Judicial Board Chairman, encourages students who consume alcohol, to be responsible when doing so.

If a student has been placed on probation for a Judicial offense, the length of probation may be reduced. The probation reduction plan is designed for students who are freshmen and sophomores who have a lengthy probation.

If a student is on probation, he or she can not hold any office on campus. If these students have served at least one year of probation and have no further Judicial Board violations, then they are eligible for their probation to be reduced so that they can become involved in campus activities or hold SGA offices.

Applications for the probation reduction plan are available in the Student Services office.

Ashe Highlights Civility Week

By ALEX RODRIGUEZ

February 12, one of the highlights of last week's Civility Week at Longwood College was the Arthur Ashe lecture held in Jarman Auditorium.

A private dinner reception was held for former Virginia resident Arthur Ashe, prior to his lecture. In this closed forum Ashe talked about a few role models who influenced him in the ways of civility. Among those mentioned were his father, Jackie Robinson (the first Afro-American to play in the major leagues) and Oliver Hill (former Richmond lawyer and aid to former Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall.

Ashe's first point was to learn to accept cultural diversity and open educational dialogue to help better understand cultural differences.

Ashe also urged students to take advantage of the ethnic diversity found on college campuses. College campuses are an excellent forum to learn about other cultures and to discuss differences between each other.

Ashe expressed his feeling that our political leaders need to stop stigmatizing civility as a "wimp term."

A group effort needs to be taken towards civility but each individual needs to do his or her part. Civility is not a burden but an attribute expected of all people and cultures.

Ashe expressed poetically the whole theme behind Civility Week when he explained the term "Virginia Gentlemen." He stated that this term is used to express the type of behavior that is expected of all Virginians, civility towards all. When we take the responsibility of that term, then we can become the leaders of civility throughout this nation and every nation.

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

YOUR UNCLE WANTS TO PAY FOR COLLEGE. BUT ONLY IF YOU'RE GOOD ENOUGH.

Army ROTC scholarships pay tuition and provide an allowance for fees and textbooks. Find out if you qualify.

ARMY ROTC
THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL CAPTAIN GARY WITTEKIND AT 395-2134 OR COME BY ROOM 207, HINER BLDG.

LC Hosts Special Olympics

By ALEX RODRIGUEZ
Staff Reporter

Albertville was not the only town hosting Olympic games this past weekend. Longwood hosted the 1992 Special Olympic basketball competition inside Lancer gym.

Forty-nine Olympians from Prince Edward and neighboring counties participated in several events which tested their skill at dribbling, shooting, and passing a basketball. A full-court basketball game concluded the competition.

There was much excitement exhibited by the fans, volunteers, and the participants. The event was a chance for people to make new friends, for athletes to compete, and for everyone to have a good time.

There were no losers this weekend. Each athlete took home the proud feeling of successfully competing in events that people felt that they were incapable of doing.

These athletes competed, fully understanding the possibility of failure which often hinders and handicaps most athletes from competing. Their performances out on the court was evidence of what can be done if people have the courage to take a chance.

The athletes are not out there so they can be judged on artistic impression, technical merit, or how fast they finish their event. These athletes are out there to be the best that they can be, pushing each other to do their best, and all for the sake of friendly competition. It takes a special person to be able to do all of those things.

The event was a big success due to the volunteer help of many Longwood students and community members.

In Profile: The Rotunda

By KANDI PETTUS
Staff Writer

What exactly is The Rotunda about? Who writes in The Rotunda? How are these people chosen?

For some reason, students here don't know the answers to these questions, so I'm here to help.

"Who cares?" you might say. Well, now that I am a member of The Rotunda staff, I care. Last semester during registration I signed up to take an Introduction to Journalism class, but little did I know what the class entailed.

Introduction to Journalism is a class that teaches you not only how to write articles, but also how to layout and print the paper. You can even take and develop your own pictures for the articles.

The Rotunda has many different journalists, including faculty, staff, volunteers and students. This wide array of people makes The Rotunda exciting and diversified. Since every individual is unique, each has a different "beat" to cover.

A "beat" is an area or section that a person must cover weekly. For example, if your "beat" is sports, you would be required to cover various sporting events at the college. This helps the staff to concentrate solely on one subject, so we can relay the news to the school better.

I have heard many complaints about The Rotunda; in fact I have even passed out a few of them myself, but up until now I never did anything to help out the quality of the paper. The Rotunda is here for the students. It keeps us informed, aware, it makes us laugh, and makes us frustrated; this is what a good paper should do.

You don't have to be a professional writer to become a part of The Rotunda staff, you just have to be willing and able to do your part. The Rotunda can only get better with your ideas, suggestions and comments.

Please feel free to contact any of the people involved with The Rotunda (395-2120). Remember, this is your school paper, so get involved.

THE ROTUNDA WANTS YOU!

INTERESTED IN:
- Writing?
- Photography?
- Layout?
- Ad Sales - Earn $?

Come by our weekly staff meetings on Wednesdays at 6pm in Lancaster B27 or call 395-2120.

Richards Qualifies For Regional Acting Audition

DAVID RICHARDS

Longwood senior David Richards has qualified to participate in a regional acting audition, a step that should help him land a professional job after graduation.

Richards, a theatre major, will audition at the Southeastern Theatre Conference in Orlando, FL, in March. He is one of 60 amateur actors, mostly college students, who were selected from among 390 actors in auditions in Richmond last November, which were sponsored by the Virginia Theatre Association (VTA).

"Some 300 companies will be in Orlando (next month) casting for summer stock, internships and the like," Richards said. "It's a prelude, in effect, to a professional job. Almost all of the qualified auditioneers get a job."

At the VTA auditions, each actor had to do a one-minute performance. Richards portrayed a character named Jack from the play Boy's Life, and he will repeat that performance at the regional auditions.

"I never did theater until I came to Longwood," said Richards, of Richmond, who transferred from George Mason University. "My first semester, Dr. (Nancy) Haga (head of the Speech and Theatre Department) said to me, 'You will audition for Lysistrata.' She made me audition."

He had met Dr. Haga his senior year in high school when he competed in a forensics tournament at Longwood. Two years ago, after coming to Longwood, he qualified for national forensics finals, but illness prevented him from competing.

In addition to Lysistrata, Richards also has appeared in Longwood's production of Androcles and the Lion, and he had the lead in Romeo and Juliet and Pygmalion. He also had the lead in the Biloxi Blues production by the Waterworks Players.

Richards, 23, is president of Alpha Psi Omega, the honorary drama fraternity, and he has started three theater groups: the Underground Players, the Bards Outlaws, and the Deli Players.

He directed the Underground Players' production of Sexual Perversity in Chicago (on which the film About Last Night was based) in January, and he appeared in the group's production of Lone Star at the Great American Deli in Farmville.

The Bards Outlaws is a contemporary Shakespeare group; he will direct the group's production of The Taming of the Shrew in April. "All we change are the clothing and the set — we may do the play outdoors — to make Shakespeare more appealing to the modern audience."

Richards, who wants to act on Broadway, likes modern plays. "Two of my favorite playwrights are James McClure and David Mamet. I like plays that deal with social issues."

After graduating in May, he plans to move to Seattle, where theater is "really big."

LSD Makes a Comeback On College Campuses

By AMY REYNOLDS

(CPS) – LSD's kaleidoscope colors, shapes and designs – as well as its darker sides – are revealing themselves again to college students in the 1990s.

Although many thought the controversial drug died with the hippie culture of the 1960s, LSD is far from gone.

"How did LSD creep out of Bohemia into an upper-middle class frenzy? It was advertising," said Dr. Daniel X. Freedman, professor of psychiatry and psychology at UCLA, who has researched the effects of LSD on the brain since the late 1950s. "I saw LSD discovered 17 times in the popular press between 1960 and 1965. Part of it is the allure of this odd experience. There is definitely some renewed interest. I can tell you that from my telephone."

Known as one of the nation's experts on the drug, Freedman said that although LSD never went away, it is certainly back in vogue among drug users, scientists, the media, drug counselors and enforcement agents.

One user who asked to remain anonymous agreed. "LSD has definitely gone more mainstream," he said. "People are seeing the light."

At a recent national conference in San Francisco that addressed the renewed popularity of the drug, Robert Bonner of the Drug Enforcement Agency offered his reason for the upsurge.

"Kids today really have no knowledge of the adverse effects of LSD. And I'm afraid it's been said those who don't know history are doomed to repeat it," Bonner said.

Since 1938, when Dr. Albert Hofmann synthesized lysergic acid diethylamide in Switzerland, the drug has been called everything from "God in a pill" to the ultimate illusion of hell. Opinion toward the drug is still divided.

Social psychologist Lloyd Johnston, principal investigator of a University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research annual study that documents drug use among college students, said LSD was "one of the earliest drugs to fall from popularity because of concern about adverse effects such as flashbacks, bad trips, and possible neurological and chromosomal damage. However, these were concerns of an earlier generation."

That generation is the one now concerned about the growing trend of use, especially by college students, even though the increase in and overall use of LSD is certainly nowhere near epidemic proportions.

According to the most recent data released by the Michigan institute, LSD use among college students has risen from 3.4 percent in 1989 to 5.1 percent in 1991, one of the few drugs with an increase in reported use.

The percentage of all young people who ever tried the drug has dropped since 1975, the year the annual study began. In 1975, 11.3 percent reported trying LSD. That figure dropped steadily to 7.2 percent in 1986, but has slowly rebounded since, with 8.8 percent reporting experimentation in 1991.

The study shows that the typical LSD users are upper-class white males.

According to figures from the Drug Enforcement Administration, arrests and seizures of LSD have increased as well – 205 arrests for fiscal 1991, which ended Oct. 1, compared with 103 arrests in fiscal 1990.

Scientists generally agree that today's users are aware of the effects of the drug and, as a result, are more responsible.

According to toxicologists, LSD is much safer now because users tend to obtain LSD that is more pure and use it in smaller dosages than their '60s and '70s counterparts. Most people who trip socially also have an experienced user who serves as a "trip master." That person's job is to monitor a group's use of the drug and help "talk down" someone on a bad trip. One effect of the drug is a high level of suggestibility.

In 1943, discoverer Hoffmann was the first person to try the drug and report its unusual effects, which include hallucinations and enhanced sensory experiences often described as an array of colors, textures and shapes.

Scientist eventually found that LSD's molecular structure closely resembles the structure of serotonin, a brain chemical that helps control and regulate perception, mood, appetite, sleep, anxiety and depression.

Chemicals in the brain, called neurotransmitters, send information from one nerve cell to a receptor site on the next nerve cell, forming an electrochemical communications network in the brain. Serving as on-and-off switches, the different neurotransmitters affect different bodily functions.

Scientists believe that LSD stimulates the serotonin receptors, essentially increasing the user's sensitivity to sensory cues, such as colors, textures and designs, while at the same time decreasing the user's ability to evaluate them.

"The drug would change your perception so that everyday drab reality is far less important than the 'TV in the head' that captures your attention in a psychedelic way," Freedman said.

Freedman said that LSD does not create an effect that isn't already present in the brain. "You can only have a trip that's already in your head," he said.

Because the drug enhances the mental state of the user, the ensuing trip is largely determined by a person's state of mind when the drug is ingested.

"People ask scientists, 'Please, tell us something awful (about LSD) so we can tell our kids to stop fooling around with the drug,' but we can't," Freedman said. "There is no objective evidence that LSD causes physical damage to the brain."

What is known, though, is that some people experience the effects of the drug days, even years, after use a phenomenon called flashbacks. Although the drug is believed to be safe for well-adjusted users in comfortable settings, scientists say they are not advocating recreational use.

"There is no contribution to the greater good, and for some people, it's bad," Freedman said. "It's hard to manage a trip and be certain it will be successfully endured."

Some users, however, say it's worth the risk.

"Psychotropic drugs open a consciousness to awareness," said Kelly Green, who invented a drug-free toy that simulates the effects of the drug. "It literally opens your eyes to see through the gray smoke that society puts out."

Other users who have successfully maneuvered their minds through a good trip agree.

"It's a great way to escape reality," said a 23-year-old user who did not want to be identified.

Freedman said "most want to change their psychic skin and enhance new visions, new learning and new beliefs."

Scientists generally agree that the people who have bad trips are those suffering from personal problems or those who take the drug in an uncomfortable setting. They believe that the people who go berserk or try to commit suicide after taking LSD suffer from some form of mental illness.

Although some have suggested that the drug is dangerous because it is addictive psychologically, scientists have found the opposite to be true. Continued use actually builds tolerance.

Union Undergoes Changes

Rooms Renamed

By JOHN FOX
Staff Reporter

The Student Union has gone through some cosmetic changes this semester.

The first major change was taking the "gold" color and changing it to a black-cherry color. The light and dark blue stripes will be changed to a mauve and black cherry color combination.

The Gold Room itself has also undergone some changes. It no longer has rugs hanging on the walls because the fire marshall told administrators that they were violations of the fire code.

The next step in improving the Student Union is to make it look as classy as possible. According to Joan Mason, Student Union Director, they have enough money in the budget to buy new end tables, lamps, and couches.

Not only is the paint color changing, but so are the names of the rooms.

Conference Room 1 will be called the Amelia Room. Conference Room 2 will be the Charlotte Room and Room 3, will be the Lunenburg Room. The three large adjoining rooms: Red, White and Green, (R/W/G) will be called The Appomattox Room, The Buckingham Room and the Cumberland Room, (A/B/C), respectively. The main room in the student union, The Gold Room, will be renamed the Commonwealth Ballroom.

More changes coming to the Student Union will happen to the IAA room. This is the room right behind the information desk. This room, will be utilized for a Leadership Activity Meeting room. It will be equipped with computers and leadership skill videos to help campus groups with their leadership activities. The SGA has voted to fund this project.

Some new things to look for very soon will be down in the mail room. It is estimated that there will be 3,500 new mailboxes installed this summer. Shared mailboxes will become a thing of the past.

The ground floor will see also a new coat of paint to liven things up.

Another improvement under consideration is having an ATM (Automatic Teller Machine) installed in the Student Union. Students will be able to do all of their normal banking transactions at a much closer location.

Joan Mason and others on her staff feel this will be an added plus; as well as making things a little more safe and secure. It has been used at other schools and has worked very well.

Lankford Student Union will be celebrating its 25th anniversary next year and all of these proposed changes will help to make it just as enjoyable as it has been for students these past 25 years.

— FREE —
PREGNANCY TEST
116 N. Main St.
Mon. 9am-1pm
T&Th 2pm-6pm
All services confidential.
Same day results.
SOUTHSIDE PREGNANCY CENTER
24-HOUR HOTLINE
392-8483

Cafe Adds Meal Choice

By TODD BUCHANAN
Staff Reporter

If you haven't already noticed, the Lancer Cafe has introduced a new service that provides an alternative to the Longwood meal plan.

According to Bob Young, the manager at the Lancer Cafe, the February trial period for this new service has been receiving "great comments."

According to the cafe policy, any student on a 15 or 19 meal plan may obtain a cheese, pepperoni, or supreme personal pan pizza and a 20 ounce fountain drink in place of a Blackwell dining hall meal between 4 and 7:30 p.m. seven days a week.

Young, along with dining services management, hopes to break the monotony that seems to generate from dining in Blackwell all the time. They also hope to expose the Lancer Cafe as more of a student social center.

With a productive system and the purchase of a new oven and 400 new pizza pans that will produce about 10 pizzas every five minutes, the cafe has been put to the test. A line filing through the cafe and into the hallway outside can be seen regularly between 4 and 4:30 at the Student Union Building.

Though the portions of food are not large, the majority of the respondents through the cafe's suggestion box to the new service "have been satisfied," says Bob Young.

The choice is up to you.

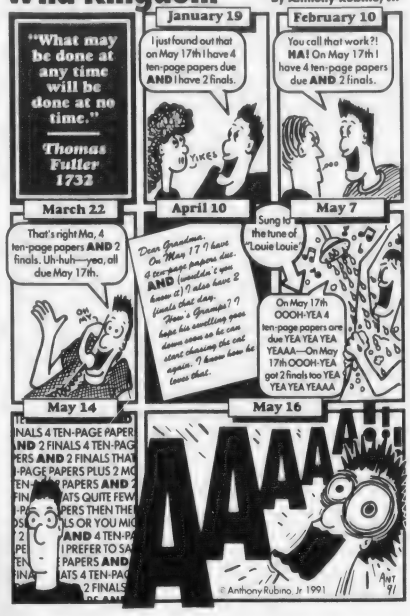
Spring Breakers

(Continued from page 1)

gal services department and area Better Business Bureau offices are cautioning students to watch for scams.

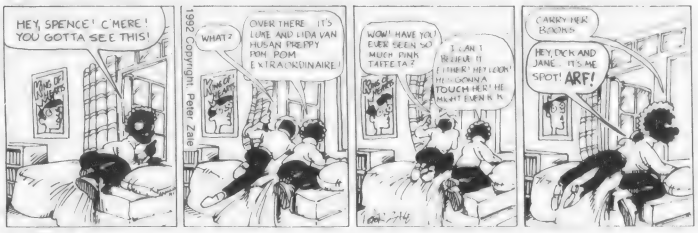
"I've been here a long time, and I've watched these things go on every Spring Break," said Thomas Betz, an attorney for Student Legal Services at the University of Illinois, in an article in the Daily Illini.

MONEY
FOR COLLEGE
Every student is eligible for some type of financial aid regardless of grades or parental income.
Financial Aid
Available Immediately!
Special grants program
Every student eligible
No one turned down
Simple application
Send name, address and $1 P&H fee (refundable) to:
Student Services
P. O. Box 22-4026
Hollywood, FL 33022



RESULTS GUARANTEED.

Learn German This Summer at URI
June 21-July 31, 1992
The Twelfth Annual German Summer School of the Atlantic at the University of Rhode Island in co-operation with the Goethe Institute Boston.
German will be the sole language of communication, and German life and culture the heart of this six week residency program on intensive language study.
You can earn up to nine undergraduate or graduate credits while living in the beautiful surroundings of our country campus, just minutes away from Rhode Island's magnificent beaches and historic Newport.
This program is ideally suited for anyone wishing to enroll in beginning, intermediate, or advanced German. Take advantage of this rare opportunity to participate in this total German language experience.
Contact:
Dr. John Grandin and
Dr. Otto Dornberg, Co-Directors
Dept. of Languages, URI
Kingston, RI 02881
Or call: (401) 792-5911
CENTENNIAL

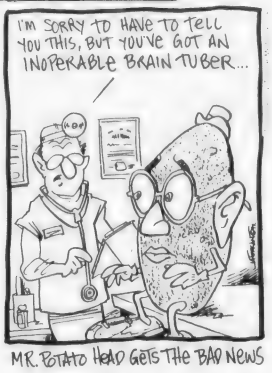


COMICS

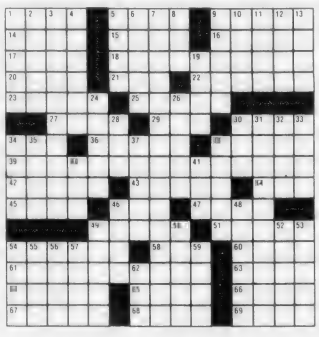
Wild Kingdom

By Anthony Rubino, Jr.

Spencer Green



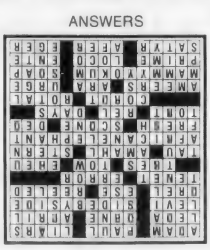
Wolfbane



Do something good.
Feel something real.

Dregs

THE Crossword



by May Mannix

ACROSS
1 Genesis man
5 Cezanne or Kline
9 Mythomaniacs
14 Mother of Castor
15 Caen's river
16 Forsythia time
17 Son of Jacob
18 Close together
20 City on the Oka
21 Direction letters
22 Staggered
23 Dogma
25 Misplay
27 Very: Fr.
29 Pull
30 Alas: Lat.
34 Gr. letter
36 Menotti character
38 Strict
39 Trunk creature
42 Novel
43 Tea fare
44 — gratias
45 Civil wrong
46 Kinsman: abbr.
47 "— of Wine and Roses"
49 Fr. landscapist
51 Relating to wheels
54 Asian notables
58 Macaw
60 Exhort
61 Capp character
63 Laundry item
64 First-rate
65 Off one's rocker
66 Heraldry term
67 Nymph chaser
68 Southwest wind
69 Ohre River to Germans

DOWN
1 Dole
2 Farm tools inventor
3 Derring-do man
4 Novelist Norman
5 False manner
6 Emerge
7 Disguised as
8 Golf's Trevino
9 Stratum
10 — dixit
11 Seed coat
12 Trip
13 Arctic taxi
19 Facial feature
24 Enlighten
26 Old Norse chieftain
28 Word for a barn
30 Old verb ending
31 Willful
32 Sea bird
33 Poetic preposition
34 A US president
35 Hairdo
37 Goose genus
38 Primitive weapon
40 Adherent: suff.
41 Terminus
46 Optimistic
48 "O, say can —"
49 Colonial newscaster: var.
50 No-fight pact
52 Marble
53 Lazar
54 Elec. units
55 Long-legged rodent
56 Give out
57 Award for TV
59 Cupid
62 Wave: Sp.

ANSWERS

CLASSIFIED

HELP WANTED

RESIDENT CAMP STAFF – Assistant director, business manager, RN, kitchen staff, unit counselors and leaders, program specialist, pool director and lifeguards needed; June 13 – August 11. Two seasonal resident camps located near Harrisonburg and Leesburg, VA. Contact: Ruth Ensor, GSCNC, 2233 Wisconsin Ave., N.W., Washington, DC 20007-4187. 202-337-4300. EOE.

TRAVEL AGENT: Independent Travel Agent for G.O. Travel Inc. wants to book your Spring Break Trip, Graduation Trip or your family vacation. Cruises are our specialty. Group bookings welcome. Call Chips' Marketing & Travel at 392-4593.

CAMP COUNSELORS: Holiday Lake 4-H Center is accepting applications for summer camp counselors. Must be 19 years old or older. The following positions are available: Nurse/EMT., Food Service Manager, Canoeing, Horsemanship, Archery, Nature/Aquatic Science, Riflery, Outdoor/Adventure Program and Theater Arts. Salary plus room and board during week. Weekends off. Applications deadline March 1. For additional information and application contact Richard Pulliam or John Meadows at Holiday Lake 4-H Center, Route 2, Box 630, Appomattox, VA or call (804) 248-5444. An Equal Opportunity Employer.

HELP WANTED

SPRING BREAK '92
Jamaica, Cancun from $409, Panama City Beach from $119. Earn Cash & Free Travel...Campus Reps Needed!!! Call Student Travel Services 1-800-648-4849.

Twin Lakes State Park is presently accepting applications for Maintenance Rangers, Concession Workers, and lifeguards. For more information contact Twin Lakes at (804) 392-3435 or fill out a State application form for each position desired and mail to Twin Lakes State Park, Rt. 2, Box 70, Green Bay, VA 23942. Applications will be accepted through March 1, 1992. Interviews will begin the first week of March.

PERSONALS

SPEEDDOG — Happy birthday! You're too sexy for Longwood!

Christina — You're the best big sis! — Luv U, RoseAnn

Alphas — You are really doing a super job. All the sisters love and support each one of you. Keep up the great work and keep smiling. — π love, The sisters of Aλπ

Aλπ Alphas — I am so proud to be your Alpha mom. You all are the best. Remember I am always here for you. — π love, Dana

Jenny — I love my granma too! — Luv, RoseAnn

YourReal Horoscope

by Ruby Wyner-lo
A A B P-certified Astrologer

Aries: (Mar. 21–Apr. 19) This is your lucky day. Mortgage your house and take out huge loans to purchase lottery tickets

Taurus: (Apr. 20–May 20) Your parents always tell you what to do. When they aren't looking, stick your tongue out at them.

Gemini: (May 21–June 21) Employment opportunities are slim. Concentrate on multiple orgasms

Cancer: (June 22–July 22) Resolve a romantic spat. Mail your mate a decaying rodent corpse.

Leo: (July 23–Aug. 22) Further your financial interests subtly. Steal from close friends only.

Virgo: (Aug. 23–Sept. 22) Seconds after you leap out of bed, a runaway cement truck will plow through your room, killing you instantly.

Libra: (Sept. 23–Oct. 23) The key phrase in your day is "chain-link fence."

Scorpio: (Oct. 24–Nov. 21) Pay heed to those whose schemes will pay you dividends. Invest heavily in pork.

Sagittarius: (Nov. 22–Dec. 21) Child-related anxieties will vanish when you sell the kids to a band of travelling gypsies.

Capricorn: (Dec. 22–Jan. 19) Lend a friend a helping hand. Sand, strip and refinish all the woodwork in your neighbor's house.

Aquarius: (Jan. 20–Feb. 18) A close call with a hydraulic pallet jack may increase your cholesterol count.

Pisces: (Feb. 19–Mar. 20) Showcase your talent for decorating pornographic birthday cakes.

Meet Ruby Wyner-lo in person at your local mall on Thursday, February 10. For a small fee, Ruby will foretell your personal future by reading goat entrails.

SPRING WEEKEND
APRIL 3, 4, & 5!

Campus Calendar

Information on events should be submitted to the Student Union Office in Lankford by the Friday preceding the appropriate issue of the paper.

Wednesday February 19

Rotunda Staff Meeting: Interested in working - come join us. 6 pm Lancaster B27

International Film: "A Place of Weeping," 9 pm Gold Room

Thursday February 20

Intramurals: Weekend Foosball. EB due.

Lancer Productions: General Meeting. 1:15 pm Conference II

SGA: General Meeting. 6 pm R/W/G

Friday February 21

Movies: Deceived 9:00 pm Gold Room

Saturday February 22

Women's Basketball: Wofford, 2 pm Lancer Hall.

Intramurals: Weekend Foosball.

Sunday February 23

Wrestling: NCAA Div. II Regionals, Noon, Lancer Hall

Monday February 24

Workshop: Cover Letter Writing. 5 pm CPPC

Movies: Deceived 9:00 pm Gold Room

Tuesday February 25

Workshop: Resume Writing. 4 pm CPPC

Former Bruton Stars Reunited At Longwood

By JENNIFER McDONALD

When Charles Brown and Michael Druitt were playing basketball together at Bruton High School in Williamsburg they never imagined that they would one day be teammates in college. Now, they are not only teammates, but two of the top players on the Longwood College basketball team.

They began their college careers at different schools, Brown opting for Fayettesville State, and Druitt choosing Longwood. The spring of 1991, however, found Charles transferring to Longwood to be reunited with his high school friend and teammate.

With four games remaining on the schedule, the Longwood Lancers have compiled a record of 13-11. One of the key ingredients making this winning record possible in the sophomore duo of Druitt and Brown.

Coach Ron Carr calls the pair two of the better players on the team."They (Brown and Druitt) are a pleasure to be around," says the coach. "Charles is one of our best athletes and an excellent defender. Michael is a hustler who plays hard and is very coachable. Both are self-motivated. I'm looking forward to having them on the team for two more seasons."

Druitt, who saw playing time in all 28 games last year, has been a constant force for the Lancers again this season, starting 17 of 24 games at point guard. He leads the team in assists with 92, and has 30 steals, which is second only to Brown's 34. He has also been a clutch free throw shooter, connecting with 76.3 percent of his shots from the charity stripe. He's averaging 6.8 points per game.

In one of his best games of the season, Druitt scored 17 points and hit nine of 10 free throws in a 66-62 win over Gardner-Webb on the road. At 6-0, 180 pounds guard, he hit the key free throws in the last two minutes to seal the win. He had a career-high 18 points, six rebounds, six assists and three steals in a 67-60 loss to Elon.

Brown Also A Key Contributor

Brown, who not only leads the Lancers in steals, but also in scoring, has definitely been a key contributor during his first season at Longwood. A starter in all 24 games, the 6-3 forward is averaging 13.5 points per game and has 323 points for the season. Many of these points came during a streak that saw Brown reach double figures in 11 straight games. Charles also leads the team in dunks with eight, has twelve blocked shots, and 123 rebounds.

In a recent win over Wingate College 67-61, Brown had 22 points, eight rebounds, four assists, two steals and two high-flying dunks.

It didn't take long for Michael or Charles to respond when asked what the highlight of the season had been for each of them thus far. They both agreed that it was the West Liberty game, the first game of the season which Longwood won 86-74. Besides being a career-high scoring night for Brown who had 25 points, it was the first time the two of them had played together since graduating from Bruton.

When asked how they felt about being teammates once again, Michael responded "It was great to be together on the court again." It was obvious from the post-game hug they shared at half court that this was a special game for both of them.

Michael and Charles were acquainted with one another as early as fourth grade, but it wasn't until they began playing junior varsity basketball together that their friendship really began. This also marked the beginning of their success on the basketball court.

Again, it was Michael at point guard, dishing out the assists, while Charles provided the scoring. The duo has many fond memories of their days at Bruton. Their best memory however, came during the 1988-89 season when Bruton beat Tabb High School, which was ranked first in the state at the time.

Shawn Jones, another member of the Bruton basketball team and a friend of Druitt and Brown, is a junior at Longwood and a member of the Lancer baseball team. Jones hit .260 and stole 15 bases in 17 attempts last season as the Lancers went 41-8 and advanced to the final four of the NCAA Division II National Championship.

Inspired by Coach Burnette

Like most athletes, Druitt and Brown have been inspired by several different people. One of these people is their high school coach, Wayne Burnette, who they claim is responsible for their aggressive style on the court. Charles also sights his mother as being a great inspiration to him. She has always encouraged him, and urged him to be a "first class athlete," showing respect to his coaches, as well as other players.

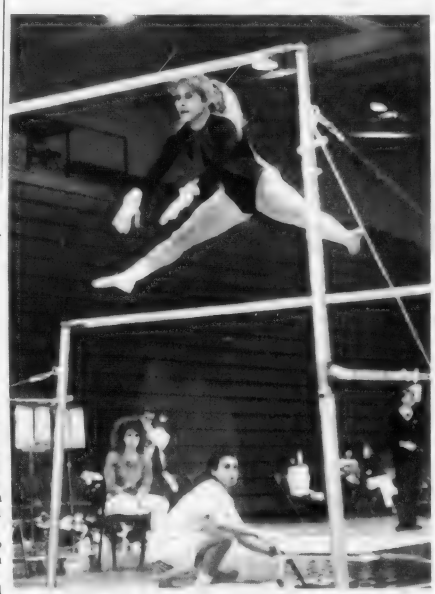
Michael has been inspired by several people, but most strongly by his family, who have always supported him greatly.

Charles Brown and Michael Druitt, whether they are viewed as friends, roommates, or teammates, can themselves be an inspiration to others. Their performances on the basketball court and their close friendship off the court prove that this is indeed a winning combination.

Williams Named Player Of the Week

DANIELLE WILLIAMS

Danielle Williams, the top all-around performer for the Longwood gymnasts the past two weeks, has been named Longwood College Player of the Week for the period Feb. 9-16. Player of the Week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.



Williams, the Lancer record-holder in all-around, had a 35.0 or better in her last two performances, including a 35.0 at the Towson Invitational Sunday.

Williams' score included a 9.05 mark on the balance beam, one of the all-time top four scores on beam for a Lancer gymnast. Last season at North Carolina she tied the school record for beam at 9.20.

While she set the all-around record at 35.55 last season, Williams had a 35.50 in a meet with Navy Feb. 9, nearly equaling the record.

"Danielle has been consistent in most of our meets," said coach Mary Lewis. "She did well for us again Sunday at Towson State."

Last season Williams qualified for USGF Division II Nationals in vaulting. A graduate of Casey County High, Danielle is majoring in physical education.

Danielle Williams swings into action on the bars at a recent home match.

Intramurals Update

By MICHAEL K. CARTER
Staff Reporter

The Winner is...

Tim Maynard beat out a field of twenty-six to win the Ping Pong Tournament last week. Chuck Anderson finished second, while Doug Rosenburg took third.

What's Going On...

The men's and women's racquetball tournament continues play this week as the field begins to wind down.

The men's basketball tournament also continues play this week.

On Deck...

Foozball entry blanks are due Thursday the 20th, with play beginning Saturday the 22nd.

Wellness Fair will be held Tuesday the 25th from 12 - 3 p.m. in the dining hall. Booths include fitness testing, aids info., relaxation techniques, sexuality, and a spring break survival kit. Prizes will be given.

Dual Superstars competition begins the 25th.

Weightlifting entry blanks are due Thursday the 27th with the competition to be held on Saturday the 29th.

Coed Volleyball will begin play on Wednesday the 19th.

Gymnasts Short-Handed At Invitational

Plagued by illness once again, Longwood's gymnastics team came up short-handed at the Towson Invitational Sunday in Towson, MD, but received solid showings from the gymnasts on hand.

Division I power and host Towson State easily won its own invitational with a school record team score of 190.20. Temple (183.85) was second, Maryland (181.55) third, Cortland State (174.15) fourth, Air Force (172.60) fifth and Longwood (98.65) sixth. Wendy Chalmers of Towson State won the all-around crown with a score of 38.05.

Because of illness, Longwood's Cheryl Cole was only able to compete in the bars competition. Her absence limited the Lancers to just two all-around performers, Danielle Williams and Laura Hill. Williams had a 35.00 all-around score while Hill had 31.90.

Freshman Michele Mustascio competed for Longwood in vaulting, beam and floor exercise. Coach Mary Lewis credited her with a no-fall beam routine.

Next up for the Longwood gymnasts in a home meet with Ursinus Feb. 29 at 2 p.m.

Lady Lancers Fall

By GREG PROUTY

Longwood's women's basketball team lost a tough 87-86 decision to Queens College in Charlotte, N.C. Saturday afternoon.

The loss sends coach Shirley Duncan's squad to a record of 7-17 with two games remaining on the schedule. Queens improved to 14-9 on the year. The Lady Lancers played host to Columbia Union on Monday night before closing out their 1991-92 campaign with a contest against visiting Wofford Saturday at 2 in Lancer Hall.

Against Queens, Longwood kept the score close throughout despite 30 turnovers and being outshot 26-9 at the foul line. It took a layup by Lady Royal guard Leslie Curtin with 0:06 remaining to deny the Lady Lancers a victory. Luck was on the hosts' side as well when Longwood missed a one plus one free throw opportunity with just two ticks left.

"It was a tough loss," commented Duncan. "On one hand, it's hard to win committing 30 turnovers, but you also expect victory when you have 10 more field goals then your opponent."

Longwood made 36 field goals compared to Queens' 26, but was whistled for 27 personals to 16 for Queens, with the Lady Royals getting 31 foul shots to the Lady Lancers' 13.

The Lady Lancers placed five players in double-figures, led by sophomore Ana Litton's 23 points. Sophomore Cassie Ensley added 20 points, including four of seven three-pointers, and six assists. Seniors Cassie Mullenix, Teresa Carter, and Salene Green contributed 15, 12, and 10 points respectively. Green also had nine rebounds, with Mullenix and Carter each grabbing eight boards. Mullenix also had five assists and three steals, with Green making three thefts as well.

Queens was paced by Shelly Leonard's game-high 28 points, while Betsy Bergdoll added 17 points, including six treys. Tricia Maynard contributed 13, and Beth Coll 12 points.

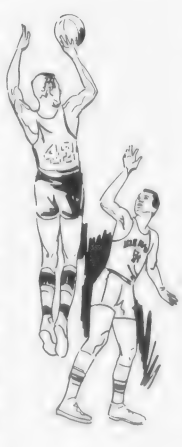
Lancers Hold Off Wingate

By HOKE CURRIE

WINGATE, N.C. – Junior Charles Brown and freshman J. B. Neill combined for 40 points and 14 rebounds to spark the Longwood men's basketball team to a 67-61 victory over Wingate last Monday night in Cuddy Arena.

The Lancers, continuing a recent trend of playing well on the road, took a 30-27 lead over Wingate at the half, went up by as many as 10 points in the second half and then held off a Bulldog rally at the free throw line. Neill, who hit 8-8 foul shots while scoring 18 points, canned six of six in the last 1:32 to help nail down the victory.

John Thurston, the Wingate head coach, yelled at his players not to foul Neill, but the Lancers were able to get the ball in his hands often in the final moments. The Bulldogs trailed by just two at 61-59 and 63-61 in the final minute-and-a-half, but the throw accuracy of Neill and Michael Druitt sealed the win for Longwood.



Neill, shooting 91.7 percent from the charity stripe, also had six rebounds, three assists and just one turnover in 40 minutes on the court. He also hit two of four 3-point shots. His second bonus shot came with 12:35 left in the game and put the Lancers up 49-39.

Brown finished with 22 points and eight rebounds, both team highs, and added a pair of dunks, four assists, two blocks and two steals. It was the kind of performance "Soup" (as he is called by his teammates) has had several times this season. The 6-3 sophomore canned eight of 16 shots from the floor. Averaging 13.5 points per game, he's Longwood's top scorer.

Also playing well for the Lancers were guard Michael Druitt, forward Bryan Weaver and swingman Keith Crabtree. Druitt played 40 minutes, scored 8 points and had just two turnovers with five assists. Weaver had nine points and seven boards, despite being outsized inside. Crabtree scored eight points and added three steals in the first half, as Longwood took the lead for good.

Longwood got beat on the boards 43-33, but made up the difference with just 11 turnovers, compared to the Bulldogs 18. The Lancers, 13-11 with the victory, were off until Monday night (Feb. 17) when Barton College visited for Longwood's final home tilt of the 1991-92 season.

Wingate, now 10-13, was led by guard Kerry Besecker with 16 points. Forward Winston Parks added 12 points and nine boards while Tim Galinski had 10 points and seven rebounds.

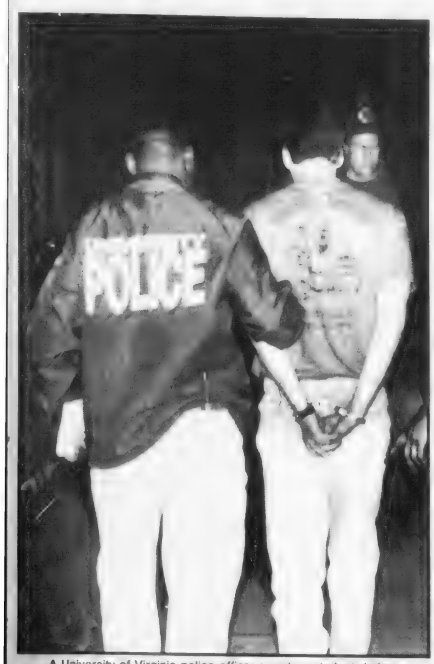
Team Travels To American University

By MICHAEL K. CARTER
Staff Reporter

One male basketball team from Longwood will compete with up to 50 other colleges and universities during the Schick Super Hoops Regional Tournament at American University on Sunday, Feb. 9, 1992.

The men's team includes Mike Tucker, Shawn Jones, James Callaham, and Lewis Brogdon.

The team advanced to the intercollegiate tournament by virtue of recently winning the Schick Super Hoops Tournament at Longwood.



The top two teams at the Regional Festival will advance to play the championship game at an NBA arena as part of an NBA game. Winning teams will receive a variety of prizes including K Swiss basketball shoes, T-Shirts, sweatshirts, Schick Slim Twin Disposable Razors, and plaques.

Schick Super Hoops, now in its ninth season, is the country's largest college recreational sports program with more than 800 schools and 200,000 students. Regional tournaments are conducted in 22 regions across the country.

THE ROTUNDA

VOL. 71, NO. 13 LONGWOOD COLLEGE FARMVILLE, VA FEBRUARY 26, 1992

Cops On Campus: What Are Their Qualifications?

1991 Fille Photo

A University of Virginia police officer arrests a student during a March 1991 drug raid at three fraternity houses.

The arrest of a University of Toledo police officer for murder causes concern about the qualifications of campus cops.

By AMY REYNOLDS
and
BRAD OWEN

For college administrators, for competent campus police officers, for students and their parents, the University of Toledo story is perhaps the ultimate tale of horror.

On January 27, University of Toledo police found the body of Melissa Anne Herstrum, a 19-year-old nursing student, face down in the snow, shot 14 times. On Feb. 1, police arrested a university police officer for the murder.

As police continued to release the details of the killing, more allegations against Officer Jeffrey Hodge, 22, have surfaced.

Although Hodge has been charged only with aggravated murder, police suspect the officer in a plethora of crimes on campus — three death threats made to female students over the telephone; two bomb threats; nine arsons over the 1991 Labor Day weekend; and a Jan. 20 shooting spree in which six shots were fired from a 9mm pistol into a women's dormitory, barely missing a sleeping student.

While the Toledo case is uncommon, it has raised a basic question of trust — how much students should have in the police officers who are hired to protect them.

According to Roger Serra, president of the International Association of Campus Law Enforcement Administrators and chief of the University of Washington Police Department, the credentials of campus police vary from state to state.

Serra says most states require basic police academy training for all officers — state, city, federal and campus. But, he says many two-year colleges and private colleges are not bound to the same guidelines.

"There are both commissioned and noncommissioned officers," Serra says. "A lot of schools use private security guards because they can't afford a regular police department. In most of the (private security) cases, they have no academy training."

According to James A. Huskey, chief of the Longwood Police Department, campus officers are required to attend at least 12 weeks of basic police school, be 21 years of age or older, and pass a rigorous day-long physical.

Huskey states that Longwood budgeted "approximately $300,000" for campus police services in the current fiscal year.

There also is the question of whether campus officers should carry guns at all.

"We should be less like the traditional police department and more like community departments in terms of our response," said Tom Evans, public safety director at Drew University in New Jersey.

"We're still serving as a police organization, but we do it without sworn authority, without weapons. I think it's very effective...we're interacting with the students so they see us as part of the community, not someone who's judging them."

"On a regular basis we get calls to assist Farmville police in cases involving shots fired," Huskey says. All Longwood officers are certified to carry handguns, and some officers shotguns. Huskey feels that the need for firearms usually occurs when responding to calls involving nonstudents on campus or assisting other local police off campus.

The lack of training and loyalty, however, has no impact on whether or not security guards can carry guns, Serra says.

'That's been a major problem at some schools'" Serra said. "For officers at the private and two-year colleges, we need to have some sort of training for them."

Still, the problems aren't isolated to private security. Hodge, a member of a university police department, was a graduate of the police academy as well as a graduate of the University of Toledo.

In the Herstrum case, police say the Toledo student stopped at an accident scene about 4 a.m. to offer help. According to police, Herstrum did not know Hodge prior to the accident. Hodge was one of several officers who found Herstrum's body after an anonymous person — whom police believe to be Hodge — called a local cab company and said he saw a taxi driver robbed at gunpoint in a campus parking garage.

The cab dispatcher called police, who didn't find the taxi but did find Herstrum's body in the area, near the Engineering Technology Laboratory Center at the University of Toledo's Scott Park campus.

Herstrum's parents released a statement following Hodge's arrest asking students to keep their confidence in university police. They "do not want to suggest that the University of Toledo police department is incompetent in any way," a family spokesman, Rev. David Bell, said in a prepared statement.

"They are especially concerned that college students at the university continue to rely on their police department for protection and assistance."

Campus police administrators say that's the right message to send, since the Toledo case was unusual. Still, other incidents have occurred.

In 1986, Katherine Hawelka, a 19-year-old Clarkson University student, was raped and killed in view of university security officers. The offices said they believed Hawelka and her attacker were engaged in a playful sexual romp.

In July, 1990, Hunter College student Stuart Wieser, 20, was stabbed and seriously injured by a dormitory security guard after reportedly instigating a petition drive to oust the guard.

Residents of the dorm complained that numerous incidents of sexual assault and abuse as well as thefts had occurred while the guard was on duty. They also told university officials that the guard assaulted two other students in separate incidents two weeks before he stabbed Wieser.

In November, 1990, a Gallaudet University student died at the hands of campus security after they tried to stop an argument between the student and a professor about a grade.

Carl Dupree, a deaf student, refused to leave, so the officers handcuffed him. A struggle ensued during which Dupree collapsed and died of asphyxiation.

The incident prompted students at Gallaudet, a university with a student population that is predominantly deaf or hearing impaired, to call for special sensitivity training of officers, especially proficiency in sign language. Many claimed that Dupree's inability to communicate with the officers when he was handcuffed contributed to his death.

A similar cry for sensitivity training for campus police was heard just a few months earlier at the State University of New York at New Paltz. In July, 1990, police mistakenly handcuffed a man who was having a diabetic insulin reaction to a wall for more than an hour.

Campus police said they thought the student, James Foster, 33, was on drugs. They also told the press that his long hair and beard influenced their judgment

According to Chief Huskey there have been no incidents of this type at Longwood.

Concerns Raised Over Fees

By LYNN GIANNI
Staff Reporter

Add/Drop fees have created quite a stir on Longwood's campus since their installment in the Spring of 1991. The Student Government Association has been dedicated to having these fees repealed since their origination.

On February 13, the SGA invited Dr. Donald Stuart, Academic Affairs VP, to attend their meeting to hear concerns of the SGA and students on the matter of Add/Drop fees. The general tone of the crowd was that the fees were not welcome at Longwood. SGA members wore buttons that read "No more Add/Drop fees," and stressed their concerns about the fees.

In speaking with Jason Walker, SGA Corresponding Secretary, he stated, "SGA wanted to prove that students were not just adding and dropping classes for any reason, there were other factors such as the advising process itself."

In presenting the administration's case, Stuart explained that the Add/Drop fees are "user fees" and they were initiated on the basis of two facts. That the number of people using the Add/Drop system had increased, therefore there was a need to increase the help in the registrar's office.

Stuart also felt that students give the advising process little concern, and that Add/Drop fees might encourage more careful registration on the part of the students.

Stuart explained that user fees are everywhere in the world after graduation, and that students should become more aware of their existence.

The money collected over the past three semesters has gone into the general fund toward the appropriated budget. The amount of Add/Drop forms processed is as follows. For the Spring of 1991, 780 students paid Add/Drop forms, and approximately 300 had fee-waived forms. For the Fall semester of 1991, 1,174 paid Add/Drop forms, and approximately 159 had fee-waived forms. This semester, 789, said Add/Drop forms and approximately 105 had fee-waived forms processed. This amounts to the collection of approximately $27,430 from students using the system.

The obvious increase in Add/Drops disproves the hope of the administration that the $10 fee would decrease their use.

One of the main arguments for supporters of Add/Drop fees was the issue of who should pay for the additional registration time spent on the part of some students. There could remain a fee so that only those that use the process would have to pay, or the fee could be dropped and the loss in funds to the school's budget would be reflected in each student's tuition.

After a lenghthy discussion SGA members with support of those students in attendance reached a decision. A motion was passed that reads: "Because of the enormous and strongly negative feelings students have about this user charge, SGA hereby resolves that the Add/Drop fee be eliminated, and any cost for the provisions of this vital academic service be added to or absorbed by general tuition budget and fees."

This motion has since been sent to President Dorrill. SGA hopes that it will become effective for the Fall 1992 semester.

In examining this issue SGA members and students discussed many options, and several questions were raised, one of these being on the advising process itself. In hearing the concerns of the students it became clear that the problem may lie in the advising process at Longwood.

Corresponding Secretary Jason Walker suggested that perhaps advisors were not doing all they could do to help students make the correct choices in classes, and that something needs to be done to correct this.

Walker is now in the process of starting a group called the "Advisor Evaluation Committee." This group will utilize funds to send out a survey to all Longwood students on the advising process and their advisor. After the surveys are complete and returned, results would then be published.

Walker explained "This committee is not out to condemn poor advisors, it's purpose is rather to educate and help them become better at advising students."

If the surveys are effective, students will be able to view the results, and determine how to better work with their advisor.

Faculty And Administrator Salaries Discussed

By DINA M. DAWSON
Staff Reporter

To dream about what one wishes to do for a living is a natural thing and deciding on an occupation inevitably leads to the question of "how much money will I earn?"

The figures recently released by the American Association of University Professors that during 1991-92 all faculty members here at Longwood make at least $24,510 per year, with the highest paid faculty members receiving $65,687 per year and the average salary being around $39,899 per year.

The salary a particularly faculty member receives is based on several factors, the first being whether the individual is a professor, associate professor, assistant professor, or instructor.

Individuals with a master's degree teaching on the collegiate level are known as instructors. Longwood instructors have a starting salary of $24,510 per year, while the average salary for an instructor at Longwood is $27,967 per year. There are some instructors here that earn up to $42,157 per year.

Faculty members with a PhD earn the titles of assistant professor, associate professor, or professor based on length of time in the profession, degrees earned, service, research and/or publications, and excellent teaching. The three different categories of professorship each have a different starting salary and higher average salaries as well.

Assistant professors have the same starting salary as instructors, $24,510 per year, with a higher average salary at $31,286 per year, while some earn up to $49,029 per year.

Associate professors start out with a salary of $31,873 per year, while the average salary for associate professors here at Longwood is $40, 428 per year. The most any associate professor makes here at Longwood is $61,464 per year.

The last category, professors, start out at $41,824 per year. The highest paid professors here at Longwood earn $65,687 per year, while the average salary for professors is $47,826 per year.

Longwood also offers a bonus

(Continued on page 4)

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
Features 3
News 4
Comics 5
Sports 6

COMMENTARY

EDITORIAL

How active a role should students take on campus? Do students attend college merely for the classes and social life?

Should the greatest decision a student makes be which fraternity to pledge or whether to major in English or History? Or should students instead learn to become adults, a process which involves more than learning facts and having fun.

Students must take control of the events that surround them.

A major way in which the skills necessary for leading a successful life after college are acquired is by becoming active in the governmental process on campus. Through interaction with administration, staff, and other students outside of the classroom, leadership, diplomacy, and critical thinking can be gained.

Also, perhaps even more important, a student can discover that he or she is no longer under the control of a parent or guardian. Instead, the student makes the important decisions of life and creates his or her own fate.

There are literally hundreds of committees on campus in which students take a voting role.

Unfortunately, this premise is not supported by everyone at Longwood College. On other campuses, student organizations similar to our Student Government Association are forces to be reckoned with. SGA representatives play a major role in almost every decision made on some campuses, including such vital issues as the hiring of faculty and the planning of course offerings.

In what light are the students of Longwood College considered?

There are many areas in which the student voice should be heard. One such area is in the hiring of new faculty. Of all the departments we were able to contact, only the History department made the student representative a voting member. While many departments included a student as a non-voting representative, some, like the Psychology Department, didn't even do that much.

The group that is most affected by the choice of faculty members is the student body! How then is it that students are not given a vote in choosing new faculty members for all departments?

This attitude is also held by some in the administration. For example, the SGA representative to the College Council is not only nonvoting, but also is not allowed to sit with other representatives to the council.

SGA must spearhead a movement to increase student influence on college procedure and policy. Without the support of our student government, all attempts to gain a more vital role for students shall be for naught.

How much longer will the students of Longwood College stand for being virtually voiceless members of the Longwood community? Deigning to allow student representation on committees is not enough. Students must be given equal (and therefore voting) stature on all committees that affect the student welfare.

SGA is not an advisory body. The Student Government Association is a governmental body which needs to be taken seriously by the administration, as we have already mentioned. However, it is only when commitment to SGA is shown by students can SGA be taken seriously.

ERIN McCAY
Associate Editor

BRADLEY OWEN
Executive Editor

Letters To The Editor

Editor, The Rotunda,

I am writing concerning the article "SGA Anticipates Productive Year". It states that "the forcing of a decision by the college to remove the window blocks in Curry dorm, was due almost solely to (Jason) Walker's tireless energy." I would like to comment that Frazer Hall Council also did work so that the new windows being installed in Frazer are being installed without the window blocks.

Their was a petition gathered by Renee Dubosky, Wendy Stone, Sonja Bethea, Nora Lamb, and Mary Beth Joplin. This petition contained over 250 signatures of Frazer residents. Although this petition was never actually presented to college administrators, I did mention it to Sue Saunders at a Residence Life Work Group meeting last semester.

Being president of Frazer Hall Council, I felt that I should address this issue. I did bring it up at a Residence Life Work Group meeting. The issue was discussed and that is when I mentioned the petition. I was informed at that meeting that SGA had developed a subcommittee to deal with the issue.

Frazer Hall Council did express their concerns about this issue and I feel that that should be noted. Although the petition was never actually used, I would like to thank these Frazer residents for their time and effort.

Anthony Ferrara, Jr.
President
Frazer Hall Council

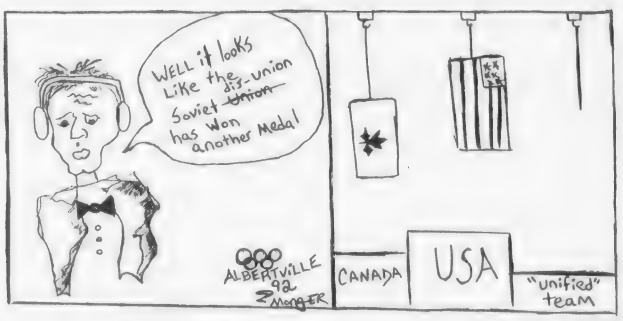
Editor, The Rotunda,

As many of you may already know, March is Music In Our Schools Month. This is an annual national observance and the theme this year is "Make Music, America!" Music Educators National Conference has been a long time supporter of Music In Our Schools Month and is responsible for producing special promotional materials, coordinating projects, and communicating ideas to support state and local MIOSM celebrations.

The Longwood College chapter of MENC is sponsoring several events in support of MIOSM. The first is the World's Largest Concert on March 5 at 1 p.m. scheduled for viewing in the Longwood Library. The next event is a presentation by Loeulla Prutsman, the Southeastern music consultant for Macmillan/McGraw-Hill. This takes place on March 24 at 7 p.m. in Wygal Building, Longwood College, Room 105. Our group is also working on an American Musicale, in cooperation with Phi Mu Alpha and Sigma Alpha Iota, to be presented on March 28 in the Wygal Auditorium (the time has yet to be decided). Everyone is invited to participate in and attend any of the above events.

We encourage the community of Farmville, including the Longwood College campus, and the outlying areas to emphasize the value of music education. Music contributes to young people's development through heightened skills in listening, reading, self-expression, and creativity. All of the arts enhance the morale and quality of the education of our children. Music is a dominant force in American life and culture, and enables citizens to communicate with one another. Furthermore, it connects us to our history, traditions, and our heritage.

Throughout March and the rest of the year, we would like for you to attend musical events in our area, talk to a present or future music teacher or observe a class to see what is happening in our music programs. Remember that music affects all of us in our creative development, self-discipline, critical thinking, cooperation, coordination, and self-expression. Music Does Make the Difference! And don't forget... Make Music, Americal



Jana D. Davis
President, Longwood
chapter of MENC

BUSH MEETS TREE

ALL NEW! HIGHLY-EFFECTIVE! ANTI-SMOKING PATCH

ROTUNDA

Longwood College
Box 1133
Farmville, VA
23909

1920
Founding Editor
Helen Skillman

STAFF

Executive Editor
Bradley L. Owen

Features Editor
Sherry Gatewood

Sports Editor

Asst. Features Editor
Ann Renee Heim

Head Photographer

Associate Editor
Erin C. McCay

Assistant Editor
James K. Johnson

Business Manager

Advisors
Mr. William C. Woods
Ms. Brenda Atkins

Reporters/Assistants: Thomas D. Birchett, IV, Todd Buchanan, Michael K. Carter, Dina Dawson, Kathy DiMarino, Sarah Drewry, Lynn Gianni, Travis W. Griffin, Debra E. Mayo, Claude Monger, Christy Mottley, Kimberly Mraz, Chris Mullins, Linda M. Nygaard, Kandi Pettus, Rose Ann Pitzl, Tricia Popular, R. Alex Rodriguez, Julie K. Tate, Jennifer Wyatt, and Cassandra Yellis.

EDITORIAL POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration, or trustees. Columns, letters, editorials, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be typed, signed, have a return address, and phone number. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

All contributions shall be addressed to The Rotunda, LC Box 1133, Farmville, VA 23909. Deadline for articles is 5p.m. Friday prior to the Wednesday publication date and these should be place in the envelopes inside the Publication offices door in Lankford or mailed. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by 8p.m. Sunday. All submissions become the property of The Rotunda.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an Associated Collegiate Press and Columbia Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at (804) 395-2120 or faxed to (804) 395-2287.

NEWSBRIEF

Student Found Stabbed To Death

BERKELEY, Calif. (CPS) – University of California at Berkeley police have no leads in the slaying of a young woman whose body was found in a student government office.

A janitor discovered the body of Berkley student Grace Rualo Asuncion, 20, in the fifth floor Filipino-American Alliance office in Eshleman Hall. Police said they believe Asuncion was stabbed several times in the neck with a pair of scissors, a letter opener or a knife – they say they have not yet recovered the weapon.

The woman's acquaintances told police she attended a meeting of the Filipino-American Alliance at 5 p.m. on Feb. 7. Other members left after the meeting , but Asuncion stayed in the office alone. Police say a janitor found her body at 9:20 p.m.

Police have increased security in the building and say they will review campus security measures.

"It scares me that this crime was so random. I fear for my safety. No one's safe," an unidentified student who works in Eshleman Hall told the campus newspaper, The Daily Californian.

The Filipino-American Alliance is part of the school's student government office.

Snowball Fight Turns Aggressive

MOSCOW, Idaho (CPS) – Two University of Idaho students were arrested after a five-hour free-for-all degenerated into "the worst snowball fight in several years," police said.

Police officers were called in to break up the melee, which included attacks on two school officials – James Bauer, director of housing, and Bruce Pitman, dean of Student Advisory Services – who were bombarded with snowballs and thrown to the ground when they tried to intervene.

"After the fight, we found snowballs with batteries and rocks inside of them, and there was a lot of serious aggression," Moscow Police Chief Dave Cameron said.

The school newspaper, The Argonaut, reported that the snow began flying about 9 p.m. Jan. 22 on Greek Row, when a few fraternities apparently began pelting other houses with snowballs and rallying more people to join. Within an hour, scores of people were involved.

Then the mob made its way to the university dormitories and confronted resident hall advisers and the two school officials, police said.

"There were a few moments early on when the attitudes of the participants were very meanspirited," Cameron said.

Two students – Bradley Selvig, 20, and George Yarbrough, 26 – were arrested and charged with unlawful assembly to disturb the peace.

University Rejects Condom Machines

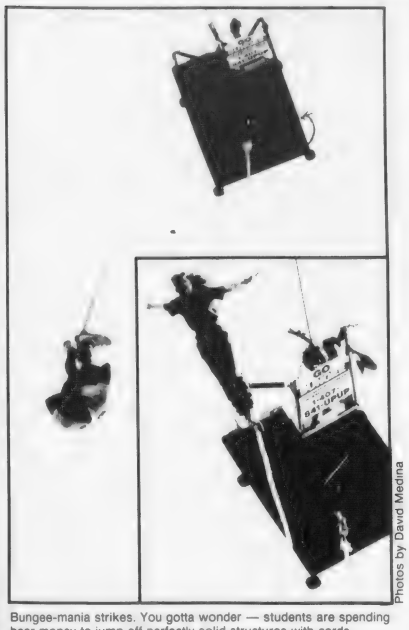
MURFREESBORO, Tenn. (CPS) – Middle Tennessee State University administrators have rejected a student government resolution to install condom machines in every campus residence hall.

Dr. Robert C. LaLance, vice president for Student Affairs, decided to nix the resolution approved by the Student Government Association in October 1991.

"This has nothing to do with being prudish or backward," LaLance told the student newspaper, Sidelines.

"It was not a disagreement in subject, but in method to serve the students on health-related issues with health services," he said. "There is an appropriate place providing for this need."

The resolution stated that condom machines would provide protection from unwanted pregnancy and sexually transmitted diseases.



"We're going to try to put it through again," said Toby Gilley, speaker of the SGA Senate. "With AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases, I don't see how any measure could be enough."

Do you want to save your floor for the 1992-93 academic year?

See your Hall Council President, Resident Assistant, or Residence Education Coordinator.

Schedule for Saved Floor Process
Spring 1992

presentations to Hall Council.

Photos by David Medina

Bungee-mania strikes. You gotta wonder — students are spending beer money to jump off perfectly solid structures with cords attached to their ankles.

Taking A Dive: Students Seek Thrill Sports

By AMY REYNOLDS

(CPS) — Whatever happened to golf?

These days, college students are taking a walk on the wild side, trading their tennis rackets for bungee cords, their golf clubs for parachutes.

And a new area of research shows that these young adventurers aren't your run-of-the-mill sports enthusiasts, either.

"It's called sensation-seeking," says Warren Hopkins, a psychology professor at the University of Richmond. "It's the inclination of some people to seek out thrills and adventures to avoid boredom. ...It's a personality trait. Some people can sit and sit and sit. Some people can't."

The most popular of the adventure sports is also the newest — bungee jumping. What began as an age-old ritual practiced by natives of Pentecost Island in the South Pacific has emerged as the ultimate thrill sport of the 1990s.

"In a split second, I felt mortal terror and, I thought, "I'm going to hit the ground and die,'" Modesto Junior College reporter Sheila Hehner wrote in a first-person story about her bungee experience off a bridge. "I looked into the face of death and lived to tell about it."

That seems to be a popular sentiment. The first jumpers in the South Pacific jumped to show the courage to face death. Every spring, villagers collected vines, wove them together and tied them around the ankles of young men who would climb high wooden towers and leap off. In addition to showing their courage, successful jumps were said to bring a plentiful yam harvest.

The focus of the sport changed and earned its modern-day roots in 1979, when members of Oxford University's Dangerous Sports Club attached bungee cords to their ankles and jumped off the Golden Gate Bridge in tuxedoes and top hats after reading about the native land jumpers.

In 1987, John and Peter Kockelman of Palo Alto, Calif., helped spread the craze by jumping off bridges and river gorges in the Sierras. In 1988, they formed Bungee Adventures, one of the first legal bungee jumping locations in the country.

A controversial sneaker advertisement in the 1990s that showed two men bungee jumping from a bridge — one of whom dangled safely from the cord in his Reeboks, the other who presumably tumbled to his death after slipping out of his alternative brand sneakers — brought the craze to national attention.

"Right now, all of America is being introduced to the sport," says Jesse Webb, marketing director for Go Bungee, Inc., a licensed bungee jumping site in Orlando, Fla.

And although the appeal of the sport to most is the psychological thrill of facing death and surviving, those who work within the industry say that's a misconception.

"If you're jumping at a licensed site, you're safe," Webb says. Go Bungee, Inc. has taken precautions to make sure no accidents occur, he says, including the use of a "stunt pillow," basically a large airbag underneath the jumper "just in case," the maintenance and replacement of bungee cords and use of multiple harnesses.

"It's just as safe as walking around," says Rob Simpson, a Valencia Community College student waiting to jump at the site. His friend, also a student and first-time jumper, agreed, and explained why he would soon hurl himself 150 feet off a crane.

"I'm just always looking for a different rush. It's that feeling of being free, like a bird," Troy Goldman says. "I'm nervous watching these guys, but the butterflies make it better."

Webb and others say the only real risk in the sport is assumed by those who jump illegally off bridges and gorges, mostly because they tend to use a "shock cord" — nylon climbing ropes bound and covered with nylon. Shock cords stop as far as they stretch, so they have more breaking potential and more potential to cause injury because they don't rebound as smoothly as a bungee cord, described by Webb as a "high-tech rubber band."

To date, only one person has died bungee jumping in the United States — an instructor fell 70 feet during a demonstration off a hot air balloon in October when his cord unhooked from his harness. Other deaths have been reported in Australia, New Zealand and Germany as well as France, where the sport has since been banned.

Still, enthusiasts say increased safety precautions and licensing have made the sport one of the safest in the adventure category. Up-to-date comparisons and statistics about adventure sports are difficult to find, but according to a 1987 Safety Council report, hang gliding has a death ratio of eight of 7,000, while skydiving has a 28-to-115,000 ratio. Bungee jumping's ratio is believed to be much lower, although statistics aren't readily available.

"I'm more comfortable (bungee jumping) than skydiving, because I know this is safe," says 22-year-old jumpmaster Scott Hargis. "With skydiving, you only get two chances."

Still, skydiving remains one of the highest-rated adventure sports around for those who can afford it.

The trend in skydiving for those who can't afford the expensive certification process is tandem jumping. Tandem jumping involves hooking the inexperienced jumper to a professional jumper with a harness.

Bill Booth came up with the idea in 1984. The Federal Aviation Association hasn't approved the sport yet because it violates an important, existing rule.

According to FAA guidelines, every skydiver must have two parachutes — a main and a reserve. For tandem jumpers to adhere to that rule, four parachutes are needed, but in actuality only two parachutes are used, both worn by the professional. The novice's insurance is the harness.

The FAA has established an experimental testing program for tandem jumping, which basically allows people to skydive with a pro if they sign a legal waiver.

Other adventure sports popular with college students are outdoor wilderness adventures, such as white-water rafting and rock climbing.

One of the country's best known adventure-based organizations is Outward Bound USA.

"Outward Bound programs are based on the belief that overcoming difficult but surmountable challenges increases a student's self-esteem and self-confidence," according to program information. "It uses challenging outdoor activities to teach students more about themselves and how to realize their potential."

Programs like Outward Bound feature numerous activities like canoeing, caving, rock climbing, rappelling, mountain climbing, white-water rafting, kayaking and dog sledding.

Roxbury Players Present Concert

Dr. Paul Hesselink, harpsichordist, and Thomas Williams, baritone, will join the Roxbury Chamber Players to present a concert on Tuesday evening, March 3, at 8 o'clock in Wygal Recital Hall, Longwood College.

The concert is part of Longwood's Chamber Music Series and is open to the public free of charge.

The program features works by three giants of the Baroque Period (1600-1750). First on the program is Handel's Trio Sonata in C Minor, Op. 2, No. 1. Handel wrote nine sonatas called trios, but these works actually require four performers — two treble parts, the "continuo" of the bass line, and keyboard.

Thomas Williams is the vocalist for Kanarienvogel Kantate (The Canary Cantata) by Telemann. Written about 1737, the work is a tragi-comedy on the killing of a canary by a cat.

Concluding the program will be J. S. Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 5. It is one of the six great concertos written during Bach's "happy years" (1717-1723) when he was Kapellmeister (chapel master) of Prince Leopold of Anhalt-Cothen. The work is a "concerto by groups" in which the strings (violin, viola, and cello) engage in conversation with a solo violin, flute, and harpsichord. The interweaving of soloists and strings results in a sonorous texture of great beauty.

Members of the Roxbury Players are: Helen Coulson, violin; Natalie Jankowski-Trainer, violin; Maura Eileen Riffe, viola; William Comita, cello; and Patricia Werrell, flute.

The ensemble has had a summer residency in Delaware County, New York each year since its founding in 1982. They perform masterpieces from the past but also feature works by living American composers, including 10 new works which they commissioned and premiered.

Williams has been a member of Longwood's music faculty since 1978. He has performed with the Richmond Symphony, Southwest Virginia Opera, and James River Chamber Opera, and in numerous recitals, oratorios, and musical theatre productions.

Hesselink came to Longwood in 1966 and is presently chair of the Department of Music. He is well-known throughout Virginia and beyond as an organist and harpsichordist. He was guest harpsichordist with the Roxbury Players during the summer residencies in 1984 and 1985.

KΔ Hosts Walk-A-Thon

By KATHY DIMARINO
Staff Reporter

Philanthropy is a group or organization to which sororities and fraternities give their support through donations of time and money. March 8, 1992, notes an important day for the Kappa Delta philanthropy. On this day the Kappa Deltas will be hosting a walk-a-thon in honor of the National Prevention of Child Abuse and the Patrick Henry Boys Plantation. This "plantation" is a home designed for underprivileged and homeless boys from ages of 5 to 17.

The walk will begin at 2:30 p.m. and will consist of a five mile route throughout the Farmville area. Beginning in front of the Student Union and continuing up to Wal-Mart and back throughout the neighborhoods, the Kappa Deltas are expecting for a large turn-out.

There will be an entry fee of two dollars per person which will go directly to these philanthropies as well as to door prizes for the participants of the walk.

Twenty percent of these proceeds will go to the National Prevention of Child Abuse, while the other 80 percent will go to the Patrick Henry Boys Plantation, the Kappa Delta's local philanthropy located in Brookneal.

The walk-a-thon is part of the annual Shamrock Project of the Kappa Deltas and is a mandatory event for the sorority nationwide. This project is a one day event in which Kappa Deltas across the country participate in a variety of fund-raisers which are donated to both local and national philanthropies of each chapter. March 14 is this year's designated fund-raising day, but Longwood's chapter chose March 8 because spring break begins after classes on March 13.

Last year the sorority donated over $600 to the boys home from doughnut sale proceeds.

Participation in the walk-a-thon is open to anyone who wishes to do so. There will be information booths as well as a sign-up sheet in the New Smoker next week.

Waterworks Players Provide Opportunity

By CHRISTY MOTTLEY
Staff Reporter

Professional acting is an unrealistic goal, believes Michelle Hodge, although, one she would be willing to pursue given the right opportunity.

Michelle, a freshman English major, is actively involved in Farmville's local theatre group, the Waterworks Players.

Last December Michelle happened to notice the marquee sign denoting the auditions for Annie. Michelle walked in, did an impromptu reading, and landed the role of Warbuck's secretary.

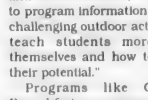
According to Michelle, college has opened many acting doors. "In high school I was told that I couldn't act or sing and ended up with parts in the chorus," she commented, "but when I auditioned for Annie they asked where and how I had learned to sing and act. I was excited about the opportunity."

Just recently Michelle had her second debut with the players. This time playing as Elma Duckworth, the naive waitress in William Inge's romantic comedy, Bus Stop, Michelle was given the opportunity to show her acting ability. "I enjoyed playing both roles but each was very different," she stated. "Playing a variety of roles, I feel will give me a chance to improve my acting skills and show my diversity."

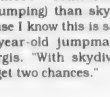
With 21 credit hours this semester, Michelle keeps busy regardless of acting. Practices, however time consuming, do add a lot of work to an already packed schedule; they are held Sunday through Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. for the weeks prior to the opening performance. As Michelle commented it does take up a lot of time but it's a fun experience she wouldn't want to give up.

Performances generally run for four nights during two consecutive weekends. Depending on the nature of the play, several matinee performances may be available to give more children the opportunity to view the play.

There's more to the acting than just hard work. Michelle stated that she enjoys sitting around and socializing with other actors after practices as well as at the cast party.



In addition to majoring in English, Michelle plans to double major or minor in drama. "I feel that if acting opportunities don't appear, I will always have teaching to fall back on," she said.

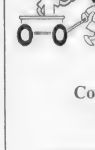


Preferring roles of young women around her own age, Michelle hopes to land a role in Longwood's Importance of Being Earnest. If not, watch for Michelle in the Waterworks Players next production, Fiddler on the Roof.

Longwood was also represented in Bus Stop by Brian Howell, a freshman theatre major and Bob Hayden, a geography and earth science professor.

Do something good.
Feel something real.

NEED A SUMMER JOB . . .



LIKE TO WORK WITH CHILDREN

THEN . . .

Consider working in a Summer Camp.

Talk with Camp Directors from camps throughout the east coast at Longwood's

CAMP INTERVIEW DAY
WEDNESDAY, MARCH 4

9:30 TO 3:00 in the Gold Room
Lankford Student Union

PERINI'S PIZZA

•Subs •Tacos
•Pizza •Pasta
•Salads •Ice Cream

LIVE BAND-SAT. 29
Crossfire
Classic Rock & Roll

ABC-ON

ROTC Students Attend Training Expedition In Vermont

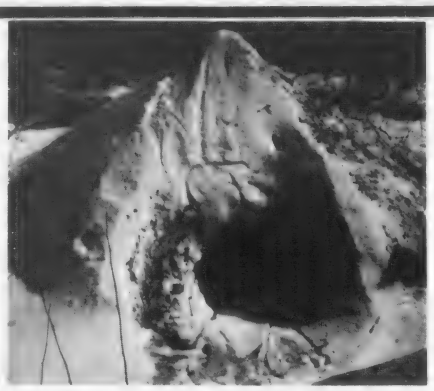
By JULIE TATE
Staff Reporter

ROTC members recently attended the Frosted Gold training expedition from Feb. 7-9 at Norwich University in Norwich, Vermont.

The following students from Longwood and Hampden-Sydney Colleges completed the training: Wendy Crosby, Dave Haugh, Shawn Lockhart, Matt Ranson, Sarah Raffetto, Anderson Sale, and Mark Tueting.

The purpose of the expedition was to teach cold weather survival skills, leadership skills, and to instill confidence in each members own abilities.

Several school participated in the training with origins ranging from the northeastern United States to the mid-atlantic states. Longwood and Hampden-Sydney were the most southern schools in attendance. There were approximately 100 ROTC cadets who took part in the three day series of events.



The five Longwood and two Hampden-Sydney ROTC students drove a college bus to Richmond where they met up with cadets from the University of Richmond. The three schools proceeded to Richmond International Airport where they boarded a C-130 military transport aircraft to Vermont.

The group arrived at the university at 3 p.m. on Friday where they were issued equipment such as snowshoes and tents. They then moved to the training area. Once in this training area a campsite was set up, chores began, and everyone slept in their artic tents.

The next morning cold weather classes began. These classes taught the cadets winter terrain movement techniques, how to build fires, and how to set up and build shelters out of wood and snow. The classes started at 7:30 a.m. and ended around 5 p.m.

After a well deserved nights sleep in handmade ice structures, the cadets broke camp and returned to the Norwich campus. Brunch was served in the university dining hall, all equipment was turned in, and the cadets returned to Virginia.

Dave Haugh summed up his experience by saying, "The trip was better than last year because it actually snowed and we were able to build the ice caves. The survival skills were beneficial because they could one day save my life. Hopefully, I will never have to use them. I did learn one thing and that is I hate extremely cold weather. The food was good, though."

Pictured above is one of the wood and snow shelters built by the ROTC students. Pictured on the left is an ROTC cadet on his way to the training site.

LC Student Diagnosed With Meningitis

By BRADLEY OWEN
Editor

"It's been reported to the appropriate health authorities that a Longwood student has been diagnosed with bacterial meningitis," said Dr. Sue Saunders, Dean of Students.

"[The College] has held discussions with members of the student's residence hall floor. The members of the residence hall floor have been given the opportunity to obtain a prescription for preventative medicine from the college physician," Saunders said.

Meningitis is an inflammation of the membranes that cover the brain and spinal cord that usually results from infection by a variety of micro-organisms. The organisms that cause meningitis are transmitted by direct contact including coughing, sneezing, and exchange of body fluids. The main symptoms are fever, nausea and vomiting, severe headache, dislike of light, and a stiff neck.

According to Saunders, the college physician, health center, and other administrators have been through in educating those people in close contact with the affected student.

"We're pleased that the affected student seems to be progressing well. At this point we see no cause for alarm," said Saunders.

According to an Associated Press story appearing in today's Richmond-Times Dispatch, a Radford University freshman, Thomas Hamlett, died Monday at Radford Community Hospital, of meningitis.

Longwood officials stated that no other cases of the disease have been reported.

Bloodmobile Set

A bloodmobile will be held on campus March 24 and 25.

The bloodmobile is open to all Longwood faculty, staff and students, as well as to anyone in the community. It will be from noon to 6 p.m. both days in the Gold Room of Lankford.

The event is sponsored by Geist, an honorary leadership society, which hopes to receive a total of 140 units of blood. The blood is given to the Appalachian Division of the American Red Cross, which is based in Roanoke.

Organizers prefer that persons donating blood register between March 2 and 5 from noon to 6 p. m. in the New Smoker, but that is not necessary, said Susan Pendleton, a Geist vice president. For more information, call 395-3650.

GIVE ANOTHER CHANCE. GIVE BLOOD.
American Red Cross

Lecture On Haiti Set

John Ivie, a retired Foreign Service officer who served in Haiti until retiring last August, will speak Feb. 27 at Longwood on "Social Conditions in Haiti."

The lecture is at 7 p.m. in Bedford Auditorium.

Ivie, who lives in Fort Worth, Texas, served in Haiti for two years. He left shortly before the Sept. 30 military coup that toppled the government of Jean-Bertrand Aristide, the first popularly elected Haitian leader. More than 15,000 Haitians have since fled their country.

Ivie also served in Panama, Brazil, Taiwan, Japan, the Azores and Chad during his 31-year Foreign Service career. His son, Will, is a junior at Longwood.

The lecture is sponsored jointly by the Sociology Club and the International Studies Program.

Runs Announced

The FAB (Farmville Area Bu proudly announces special "Red-Line" midnight runs Friday and Saturday evenings. Effective immediately, FAB will provide direct commuter service between Longwood and Hampden-Sydney College and visa-versa during the hours of 11 p.m.-2 a.m.

A brief stop will be made at Hardees which will enable students to pick-up those late evening, last minute munchies.

Be smart, don't drink and drive...

Ride "The Bus."

Salary Concerns

(Continued from page 1)

for those faculty members who complete their doctorate after being hired.

A second factor in the salary that an faculty member receives is the school in which the individual teaches.

Individuals teaching in the School of Business and Economics are the highest paid among faculty members. Those serving in the School of Education and Human Services have a higher starting salary when compared to those in the School of Liberal Arts and Sciences. On the other hand, the average salaries and maximum salaries that are paid to faculty members are higher for those serving in the School of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Similar to the categories of professors, there are also two categories of administrative positions here at Longwood.

Those individuals serving in the first tier of administrative positions, without them the college could not function on a daily basis, have a starting salary of $22,000 per year and an average salary of $44,592 per year. The most money paid to administrative personnel is $80,549 per year.

Those individuals serving in second tier of administrative positions, which are not imperative to the college's existence on a daily basis, earn anywhere from $14,351 per year to $37,847 per year.

Longwood coaches start out at $15,000 per year and can make up to $50,597 per year, while librarians serving in the college environment earn between $26,471 per year and $44,592 per year.

The public at large might now conclude that those individuals working here at Longwood are well paid employees, and while that may be true there are some pitfalls that the public needs to be aware of.

For Longwood employees the last phased salary increase of roughly three percent was July 1, 1990. At that time, a two percent increase was suggested and granted to employees on December 1 of that same year. However, individuals hired on July 1, 1990 received a two percent cut in pay in December, a move which affected about 15 employees here at Longwood.

Despite the fact that there was no salary increase for the 1991-1992 fiscal year, 13 bonuses were given from a money pool to outstanding professors who exhibited great efforts and achievements here at Longwood.

Continuing this long without a salary increase can be quite hard, yet Mr. Rick Hurley, vice-president of Business Affairs, added that there has been "no lag in productivity," that "the morale here at the school has been good" and that Longwood "is getting early signals that there may be a salary increase within the next year in the two to three percent range."

Sherrill Dancers To Perform

One of the nation's most entertaining dance companies, the Karen Sherrill Dancers, will perform at the Miss Longwood Pageant on Saturday, March 7.

The group has won first place for three consecutive years in national dance competition at "The Homecoming Convention of Dance." They have performed at the past three Miss Longwood Pageants.

The dancers will open the pageant with a number especially created to relate to this year's international theme, "Reach Out." Later in the show, they will perform their national award-winning piece, "Good Vibrations," and an international medley to Caribbean, Spanish, and American music.

The dance company is made up primarily of North Carolina college and high school students. Among them, they hold or have held 30 pageant titles. Six of the 11 members have been dancers for both the Miss North Carolina and Miss South Carolina Pageants.

The company consists of dancers from the Academy of Dance Arts in Mooresville and Statesville, N.C. They are under the direction and choreography of Karen Brown Sherrill, the academy's owner. Ms. Sherrill is assistant choreographer and a former dancer for the Miss Virginia and Miss North Carolina Pageants. She has been Carolina Dogwood Queen and a dance instructor at Mitchell College. The company's assistant director, Tammy Blankenship, is dance captain for the Miss North Carolina Pageant and the assistant choreographer for the Miss Mississippi Pageant.

Other Miss Longwood guest performers and celebrities will be announced shortly.

Tickets for the pageant will be available at the door or may be purchased in advance at the Public Affairs Office, Room 269, East Ruffner. The cost: $5 for adults; $3 for children under 12.

Ten contestants, chosen from 24 in preliminaries last December, will compete for the Miss Longwood title, $3,000 in scholarships from Golden Corral Family Steak House, and the right to represent Longwood in the Miss Virginia Pageant in July.

WASTED YOUTH.
ONLY YOU CAN PREVENT FOREST FIRES.
A Public Service of the USDA Forest Service and your State Forester.

Jury Acquits One In Frat Drug Raid

CHARLOTTESVILLE, (CPS) — A jury has acquitted one of 12 University of Virginia students charged with dealing drugs after federal, state and local police agencies raided three fraternity houses in March 1991.

On Feb. 13 a jury found James A. Carter II not guilty after his defense attorney argued that Carter was unfairly trapped by a paid government informant.

The drug charges stemmed from a March 1991, bust at three fraternity houses — Tau Kappa Epsilon, Delta Upsilon and Phi Epsilon Pi. The houses were seized after the raid, the first time that the government has taken a fraternity house as property connected to drug money.

Carter's arrest came about because he sold two bags of cocaine, each containing about 1 gram, to an undercover Charlottesville police officer on Feb. 19, 1991, in his apartment.

During Carter's trial, Carter's attorney said that the 20-year-old student from Newport News, didn't use drugs until December 1990, when he was under academic pressure during final exams.

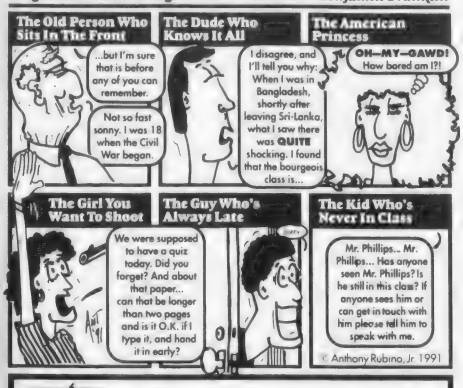
A police informant, Tamir Noufi, offered Carter cocaine, telling him that it would help him stay awake, Carter's attorney William Fears said. Carter first refused, then later testified that he trusted Noufi and brought cocaine for him after Noufi repeatedly pestered him about it.

Police paid Noufi about $2,000 for helping them nab the fraternity members for selling drugs. He received about $150 for his work with Carter, police said.

Carter was the last of the 12 to go to trial for the drug accusations. His case was the only one that ended in an acquittal.

MONEY FOR COLLEGE
Every student is eligible for some type of financial aid regardless of grades or parental income.
Financial Aid Available Immediately!
Special grants program
Every student eligible
No one turned down
Simple application
Send name, address and $1 P&H fee (refundable) to:
Student Services
P. O. Box 22-4026
Hollywood, FL 33022
RESULTS GUARANTEED.

Learn German This Summer at URI
June 24-July 31, 1992
The Twelfth Annual German Summer School of the Atlantic at the University of Rhode Island in co-operation with the Goethe Institute Boston.
German will be the sole language of communication, and German life and culture the heart of this six week residency program on intensive language study.
You can earn up to nine undergraduate or graduate credits while living in the beautiful surroundings of our country campus, just minutes away from Rhode Island's magnificent beaches and historic Newport.
This program is ideally suited for anyone wishing to enroll in beginning, intermediate, or advanced German. Take advantage of this rare opportunity to participate in this total German language experience.
Contact:
Dr. John Grandin and
Dr. Otto Dornberg, Co-Directors
Dept. of Languages, URI
Kingston, RI 02881
Or call: (401) 792-5911
CENTENNIAL



COMICS

Wild Kingdom

By Anthony Rubino, Jr.

CLASSMATES

"Tim was so learned that he could name a horse in nine languages: so ignorant that he bought a cow to ride on."—Benjamin Franklin

ASK MR. COLLEGE

Q. Dear Mr. College: I have a ten page paper due next week and there's no way I'll be able to finish more than seven pages in time. Oh Mr. College what should I do?!!! Stupified

A. Dear Stupified, Go ahead and finish the first seven pages of the paper, ending the last page in mid sentance as if there should be a page following it. Then hand the paper in as if nothing is wrong. Your professor will assume the last few pages were lost. By the time he or she asks you about it, you'll have had time to finish the last three pages.

Q. Dear Mr. College: Whenever I paste down pictures from magazines the glue gets all over my hands. When I try and wipe it off it causes shading. Any suggestions much?

A. Dear Ichy, You need to write to "Ask Mr. College" Happens all the time.

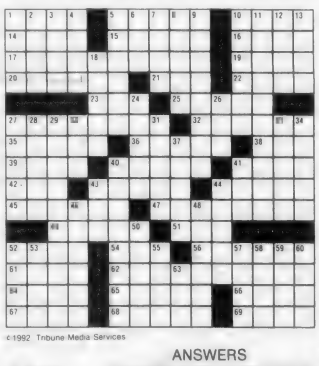
Spencer Green

Wolfbane

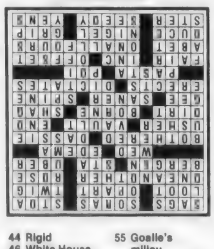


Need a hand?

An IRS-trained volunteer can help you with your taxes. FREE. Just call 1-800-TAX-1040.

THE Crossword

by Peter G. Snow



c-1992 Tribune Media Services

ACROSS
1 Droops
5 Shore birds
10 Where Greek met Greek
14 Sway
15 Painting style
16 Branch part
17 Reciprocally
19 Billy or Pete
20 Norwegian seaport
21 Depot: abbr.
22 "Deutschland — Alles"
23 Married
25 Watery swelling
27 Troubled
32 Small animal
35 Seat
36 Safe
38 Finale
39 Gossip
40 Transported
41 Carpet type
42 Opposite of haw
43 More lucid
44 Book part
45 Builds
47 Commands
49 Macaroni e.g.
51 Hawaiian dish
52 State show
54 Bus. abbr.
56 Compensate
61 Aid a criminal
62 Creeping
64 Title for Mussolini
65 Actor Bruce
66 Valise
67 Suffix for old or young
68 Shabby
69 Urges

DOWN
1 Definitely not a natty dresser
2 First class
3 One on the move
4 Party type
5 Oklahoman
6 Choose
7 Bleacher sounds
8 Mountain ridge
9 Hedge
10 Plays a banjo
11 Double
12 Seine tributary
13 Ripening agent
18 More recent
24 Breed of cattle
26 Consume
27 Yield
28 Willow or dogwood
29 Type of suit
30 — up (angry)
31 Ventured
33 Silly
34 Rims
37 Take apart
40 Bulwarks
41 Resort of a sort
43 Thoroughfares: abbr.
44 Rigid
46 White House name
48 With dispassion
50 "Tomorrow" singer
52 Crazes
53 Adjoin
55 Goalie's milieu
57 Old-fashioned one
58 Certain
59 Ireland
60 Recipe abbr.
63 Guided

ANSWERS

CLASSIFIED

Want to go to DAYTONA BEACH over Spring Break Cheap? Call Michelle for details! 392-9478

HELP WANTED

Twin Lakes State Park is presently accepting applications for Maintenance Rangers, Concession Workers, and lifeguards. For more information contact Twin Lakes at (804) 392-3435 or fill out a State application form for each position desired and mail to Twin Lakes State Park, Rt. 2, Box 70, Green Bay, VA 23942. Applications will be accepted through March 1, 1992. Interviews will begin the first week of March.

CAMP COUNSELORS: Holiday Lake 4-H Center is accepting applications for summer camp counselors. Must be 19 years old or older. The following positions are available: Nurse/EMT., Food Service Manager, Canoeing, Horsemanship, Archery, Nature/Aquatic Science, Riflery, Outdoor/Adventure Program and Theater Arts. Salary plus room and board during week. Weekends off. Applications deadline March 1. For additional information and application contact Richard Pulliam or John Meadows at Holiday Lake 4-H Center, Route 2, Box 630, Appomattox, VA or call (804) 248-5444. An Equal Opportunity Employer.

PERSONALS

Attention ALL NON-GREEK MALES: TAU KAPPA EPSILON FRATERNITY invites you to our RUSH PARTY on THURSDAY, FEB 27 from 7 to 8 p.m. in the TKE Chapter Room.

PERSONALS

Tau Kappa Epsilon will be having their 4th Annual "Safe Sex Party" on Feb. 29th; and a limited number of T-shirts are available from any Teke member. Get yours before they're gone!

To The Pledges of Zeta Tau Alpha — You guys are the BEST! We love you! — The sisters of ZTA

Megan M. — Look at the BREEZE!! ZTA love — Claudia V.

To the "P" Club — Nice Buzz! — Love, C.V.

Marie Walker — Your white violet sister loves you.

Michele McKnight — Would you like that on the rocks? ZTA love — C.V.

TKE RUSH PARTY! — Feb. 27th, 7 to 8 p.m. TKE Chapter Room!

Chrissy Smith — You're an awesome friend and sister! ZTA love — C.V.

To all Key-West-bound Zetas — 22 days!! But who's counting?!

LeaAnne — You did a great job with ball, few could have done as well as you did! Have fun at KD! — CM

John F. — Don't you 'Love to Hate' dancing with the floor!

NOTICES

PUNT, PASS, & KICK COMPETITION
Saturday, February 29, 1992
1:00 p.m. Iler Field
Entry Fee: $1.00
Prizes For Each Event!
Total Yards Grand Prize Awarded!
All Longwood College Students Welcome.
Show up or contact Chuck Anderson at 395-3386.

ATTENTION FOOD BINGERS: If you have been in a cycle of gorging on food and then purging either by vomiting, laxatives, diuretics, continual dieting and fasting, or exercise, you often feel unable to break this cycle.

IF YOU ARE INTERESTED in joining a group for students struggling with this behavior pattern or would like further information please call Cyndy at (395-2409) in the Counseling Center.

YourReal Horoscope

by Ruby Wyner-lo
A.A.B.P.-certified Astrologer

Aries: (Mar. 21–Apr. 19) While attending a hockey game, a wayward puck will sail over the Plexiglas wall and put out one of your eyes.

Taurus: (Apr. 20–May 20) Watch cable-access television all week to find out how you can win a zillion dollars.

Gemini: (May 21–June 21) Now is the time to buy the humidifier you've coveted for so many years.

Cancer: (June 22–July 22) When your pet is outside, ice and snow will get stuck between the pads of its paws. This should be removed with a trowel.

Leo: (July 23–Aug. 22) Your mate has been sleeping with others behind your back. Run around in circles clutching your head.

Virgo: (Aug. 23–Sept. 22) While scuba diving in the Fiji Islands, rabid dolphins will attack you and eat you.

Libra: (Sept. 23–Oct. 23) All the Christmas presents you gave out last year have been returned or hocked.

Scorpio: (Oct. 24–Nov. 21) You'll find true happiness under an antique chair at a swap meet.

Sagittarius: (Nov. 22–Dec. 21) Work no longer gives you the satisfaction you crave, so a lifestyle change is in order. Become a goldfish.

Capricorn: (Dec. 22–Jan. 19) You will eat an apple pie and it will be very delicious.

Aquarius: (Jan. 20–Feb. 18) During your daily grooming, a Q-tip will become lodged in your ear, bursting your tympanic membrane.

Pisces: (Feb. 19–Mar. 20) Get back to nature. Drink yourself into a mind-numbing stupor, then go snowmobiling through virgin countryside.

Ruby Wyner-lo will lecture on the healing power of crystals at the Community Center this Saturday at 3:30 p.m. She will also demonstrate the ancient Aztec method of foretelling the future. A sacrificial audience member will be asked to volunteer.

©1992 by Onion Features Syndicate

Campus Calendar

SPRING WEEKEND
APRIL 3, 4, & 5!

Information on events should be submitted to the Student Union Office in Lankford by the Friday preceding the appropriate issue of the paper.

Wednesday February 26

Intramurals: BADM DBLS M/W. EB due.

Rotunda Staff Meeting: We need you - come join us! 6 pm Lancaster B27

Play: "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," 8pm Jarman

Lecture: "Democracy in South Africa--The Struggle Continues" by Dumisani Kumalo. 8pm Gold Room

Thursday February 27

Intramurals: Weekend Weightlifting. EB due.

Lancer Productions: General Meeting. 1:15 pm Conf. II

SGA: Open Meeting. 6 pm Conf. I

Play: "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," 8pm Jarman

Lancer Productions: Musician Mike Rayburn. 9pm Lancer Cafe

Friday February 28

Play: "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," 10am & 8pm Jarman

LP Movie: Not Without My Daughter. 9:00 pm Cafe

Saturday February 29

Civility: Workshop with Dr. Preston. 10am-5pm Lankford

Intramurals: Weekend Weightlifting.

Gymnastics: Ursinus, 2pm Lancer Hall.

Dance: Ezibu Munto African Dance Company. 7pm Wygal

Play: "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," 8pm Jarman

Sunday March 1

Monday March 2

Intramurals: Spades. EBdue

Workshop: Interviewing Skills. 5 pm CPPC

Lecture: Betty Mahmoody, author of Not Without My Daughter. 8pm Gold

LP Movie: Not Without My Daughter. 9:00 pm Cafe

Tuesday March 3

Workshop: Job Search Skills. 1 pm CPPC

Intramurals: Wallyball. EB due

Concert: Roxbury Chamber Players with Paul Hesselink, harpsichord, and Thomas Williams, baritone. 8pm Wygal Hall

Baseball Lancers Start

Longwood baseball coach Buddy Bolding and his predominantly veteran team will have a hard time topping last season, but the Lancers plan to give it a try starting Feb. 26 in Florence, SC.

Longwood, which went 41-8 and advanced to the final four of the NCAA Division II Championship last spring, has been ranked high in preseason polls. Next week the Lancers will get a chance to prove they deserve the ranking. Longwood opens with a single game at Francis Marion College in Florence, SC. The Lancers will spend four additional days in South Carolina (Feb. 26-March 1) before returning home to host SUNY-Binghampton March 6 at 3 o'clock.

As Bolding considers his team's prospects he has several questions to answer. How will not having a real "home field" affect the season? How will being moved to the North Atlantic Region impact on postseason chances? And, will several young players come through to make up for the loss of four key seniors from the 1991 squad?

"We're going to have a good baseball team," he says. "It's going to be interesting to see how things piece together. We have considerable talent. I've just got to make sure all the parts go in the right place."

With construction of a new "Lancer Field" currently underway, the 1992 edition of Longwood baseball will play its home games at Golubic Stadium in nearby Crewe, and at Prince Edward County High School in Farmville. A home twinbill against Wofford will be played at Halifax County High School in South Boston. The new field will be ready for the 1993 season.

Longwood will be competing with teams from the always strong Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference for a berth in the NCAA Division II PLayoffs. The Lancers will first have to qualify for the North Atlantic Regional Tournament to have a shot at returning to the national championship.

Bolding can count on 12 veteran players as he looks ahead to the start of the season.

Seniors Scott Abell and Chris Porter and junior All-American Mike Tucker will lead a group of hitters which could be the best ever at Longwood. Last year the trio accounted for 153 RBI and 29 home runs as the Lancers set a team mark for homers in a season with 74. Abell hit .366, Porter .402 and Tucker .450.

In addition to Abell, Porter and Tucker, who will play catcher, right field and shortstop, respectively, Bolding can count on third baseman Terry Taylor, first baseman-DH Todd Bowman, left field Shawn Jones, center fielder John Hutzler, switched from second base, pitchers Kyle Weaver, Chris Mullins and Wayne Weaver, plus sophomore first baseman Bill Martz and Billy Reeves.

Abell, Kyle Weaver and Taylor will serve as tri-captains for the year. Last season Taylor hit .329 with 44 RBI and eight homers. K. Weaver was 9-1 with an e.r.a. of 4.87. After going 2-0 with a 3.50 e.r.a. in the Division II Championship last May. K. Weaver is the leader of the pitching staff.

"He's the dean of the staff," says Bolding. "Kyle has already picked up on his responsibilities as pitching captain."

Mullins was 5-1 and W. Weaver 1-0 and both saw action in the championship. Bowman and Martz combined for 16 homers and 56 RBI between them last season. Martz may also see increased time on the mound. He was 3-0 in three appearances with an e.r.a. of 2.21 last season.

Back on the team after a year's absence is junior pitcher Wyatt Flippen, a graduate of Patrick Henry High. A left-hander, Flippen was 1-1 with a 2.62 e.r.a. and five appearances in 1990. Bolding feels that he will be one of Longwood's top pitchers this season.

A strong group of recruits will also battle for playing time. Rookie pitchers include left-handers Mark Simon and Bart Van Zoest, and righthander John Daniel. Freshman Jeff Toms, outfielder Brian Bassett, infielder Chris Tyson and catchers Ray Roddy and Ben Fischoff have also been impressive.

Bolding expects the season's early lineup will be manned mostly by veterans. Newcomers who should start are Toms at second base and Bassett at designated hitter. The coach says that Tyson will see time in the infield or at DH as will Martz and Reeves.

Longwood will likely field another offensive powerhouse. Bolding feels the key to the season rests with the pitching staff.

"Kyle Weaver and Wyatt Flippen will do the job for us," said the coach. "The key will be how much pitching help we get from Mullins, van Zoest, Wayne Weaver, Martz and the others. Losing Dennis Hale and Matt Carlisle from last year's staff leaves a big hole to fill. We'll have to see if someone steps forward."

McSherry, Proctor Named Co-Players of the Week

By GREG PROUTY

Senior wrestlers Kevin McSherry and Ted Proctor, who both won NCAA Division II Southeast Regional individual titles Sunday, have been named Longwood College Co-Players of the Week for the period Feb. 16-Feb. 23. Player of the Week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.

A First Colonial High product, McSherry is a two-time Virginia College Division State Champion. He earned his first trip to the Nationals with a default victory over Pembroke State's Mark Brady in the finals of 150-pound weight class at the SE Regionals, hosted by Longwood in Lancer Hall. McSherry earlier pinned Norfolk State's Cory Walton in 1:30. The Division II Nationals will take place March 6-7 at Northern Colorado University in Greeley, Colo.

KEVIN McSHERRY

TED PROCTOR

McSherry is 15-5-1 on the year, 48-33-2 in his career. He placed second at the James Madison Invitational, and third at the Washington & Lee Invitational, wrestling 158 at both.

Proctor received a first-round bye into the 167-pound championship, where he pinned PSU's Jeff Cashion in 2:17. The victory gives Proctor his second appearance in the Nationals, as he qualified at 150 during the 1988-89 season.

Proctor, named the SE Regional's outstanding wrestler, now has a 17-6 record on the year, 79-33-1 for his career. He ranks second on the all-time win list at Longwood, behind Tim Fitzgerald's (1982-86), 84-38-1 mark. Proctor has won four state titles, and also won a 167-pound title at W & L this year. Proctor prepped at Osbourn High.

"Kevin and Ted wrestled very well," commented coach Steve Nelson. "This is the best I've ever seen Ted wrestle, and Kevin looked impressive as well in dropping down a weight class."

Longwood Downs Barton In Home Finale

By CHRIS MULLINS
Staff Reporter

Longwood's men's basketball team moved its record to 14-11 in last week's home finale 76-72 win against Barton College.

The win gave Longwood an overall series edge of 9-8 over Barton, which was Atlantic Christian College prior to a name change two years ago.

Longwood's pressure man to man along with Charles Brown's 23 points spurred the fourteenth Lancer win. The Lancers and the Bulldogs played even basketball for the first 13:45 of the first half, with both teams shooting rather sluggish. Although, after Coach Ron Carr called a timeout with 6:15 to play in the first half, the Lancers came out and dominated the remainder of the half. They went on a 14-5 run, including a half ending 8-0 run, that was capped in the final seconds by Matt Watkins' steal and successful layup. In the run Michael Druitt, eight points, had back to back layups following steals, and Charles Brown had a pair of short jumpshots to help him finish with eleven points and five rebounds at the half. The first half was slow and physical, although only ten fouls were called.

Following the final performance of the year by the Lancer Line, Longwood came out and stepped up the defensive tenacity. Extremely solid defensive play came from Druitt, Chuck Laster, and reserve Keith Crabtree, all of whom combined for six steals. The Barton shooting percentage fell in the second half, and finished with a 42% shooting, opposed to Longwood's 58%.

Barton (11-17) was led by senior center Bob Rhodes and senior guard Daniel Coluin, each of whom had 13 points.

Longwood was fortunate that their 0-5 shooting from the three-point line and their 4-11 shooting at the three-point line did not hurt them as much as it could have. The Lancers' effort was extremely solid, and they came away with their 109th win at Lancer Hall, against only 40 defeats, for a home winning percentage of .732. Longwood finished the season with a 7-4 mark, including the Par-Bil's Tip-off Tournament title.

LC 2nd In Wrestling Region

By GREG PROUTY

Longwood's wrestling squad hosted the 1992 NCAA Division II Southeast Regional tournament Sunday finishing second among the four teams competing in Lancer Hall.

Pembroke State (N.C.) University won the regional with 88.25 points, with the Lancers second at 63.75, Virginia State University third with 55.25 and Norfolk State University fourth at 40 points. PSU will send six wrestlers on to the Division II Nationals at Northern Colorado University in Greeley, Colorado. March 6-7, while Longwood had three qualify for nationals, VSU also with three, and NSU two national qualifiers.

Longwood's three national qualifiers are seniors Kevin McSherry (150), Ted Proctor (167), and freshman Ryan Stefanko (134). Freshman Nate Brown (118) is a second-alternate to the nationals.

McSherry took an injury default victory over PSU's Mark Brady in the finals after leading big through two periods. Proctor, named the regional's outstanding wrestler, pinned PSU's Jeff Cashion in 2:17 of the finals. While Stefanko lost 9-3 to PSU's Dan Willis in the finals, he earned a trip to Colorado as a wild-card entrant. Brown was pinned by PSU's Duane Wilson in 2:32 of his title match.

"Kevin and Ted wrestled very well," commented coach Steve Nelson, who was named the tournament's outstanding coach. "This is the best I've ever seen Ted wrestle, and Kevin looked impressive as well in dropping down a weight class. Ryan and Nate both wrestled hard, solid matches."

Others wrestling for LC included senior Kevin Haller; third at 126, freshmen Cory Winar; third at 142, Bryan Hartley; fourth at 158, David Franklin; third at 177, Anthony Dickens; third at 190, and sophomore Chad Knowles fourth at heavyweight.

Longwood has a triangular match at Davidson Feb. 29 with Campbell before Nelson & Co. journey west to the rockies for the Nationals.

Lady Lancers Lose Finale 71-65

By GREG PROUTY

Longwood's women's basketball team closed out its 1991-92 campaign dropping a 71-65 decision to visiting Wofford Saturday afternoon in Lancer Hall.

Coach Shirley Duncan's squad finishes with a record of 8-18, while Wofford improved to 16-9.

On Saturday, Longwood fell behind 4-0 early before rallying to a 14-8 advantage at the 13:53 mark of the first half on a basket in close by senior Salene Green off an assist from sophomore Cassie Ensley. The Lady Terriers, however, climbed back on top 16-14 with 9:30 remaining in the stanza. The two teams played even the rest of the half with the Lady Lancers holding a 35-32 lead at the intermission on two free throws by senior Heather Green.

Wofford led 55-50 with 12:16 remaining in the contest before Longwood rallied to knot the score at 57-57 on a free throw by senior Teresa Carter. Sophomore Ana Litton added two hoops, including a three-pointer, during the run. The Lady Lancers extended their lead to 61-57 on a steal and layup by senior Mandy Evans at the 7:36 mark.

Longwood went cold from the field at that point and the visitors rallied to grab the lead for good at 62-61 with 4:27 remaining on a three-point play by Betsy Ownbey. Two Litton free throws had LC within 66-65 with 1:11 left but it was as close as the Lady Lancers could get.

"It was a very disappointing loss," commented Duncan. "But when you can't put the ball in the basket it's tough to win. That's been the story of our season."

Litton led Longwood with 14 points and six steals. Carter and S. Green each closed out their careers with 12 points, with Carter also grabbing 11 rebounds. WC was led by Brenda Jackson's game-high 18 points and 15 rebounds.

Litton closes out the year with a team-leading 14.9 points per game average. Ensley is next with an average of 14.7, and senior Cassie Mullenix finishes with an average of 10.2 points. Carter finishes as the team rebounding leader with an average of 8.0 rebounds per contest, while S. Green averaged 9.3 points and 6.3 rebounds.

Ensley averaged 5.1 assists and had 59 steals on the year, while Litton had a team-leading 70 steals. Ensley's 95 career three-pointers also tops the LC career list.

Schonauer Has Hole In One In Rock Hill

In an early tune-up for the spring season, Longwood's Ami Schonaur (York, Pa.) fired a hole-in-one on the first day of play at the Winthrop Invitational Golf Tournament in Rock Hill, S.C. The tournament, held under wet conditions at the Country Club of Rock Hill Monday and Tuesday, featured men's and women's golf teams from several southern schools.

Schonauer's ace, the first of her career and the first by a Lady Lancer golfer since the mid-1980's, came on the number-six hole, a 165-yard par-3. The Lady Lancer senior used a 5-iron to record the hole-in-one, according to Longwood coach Barbara Smith.

While Schonauer had the ace, it was freshmen Brenda Campbell-Harris (Somerset West, South Africa) and Charlaine Coetzee (Durbanville, Cape Town, South Africa) who led the Longwood women's squad to a second place finish out of seven teams. Longwood shot 329-322-651 for second behind Division I Central Florida (320-316-636).

Campbell-Harris shot an 80 - 80-160 for sixth place in a field of 37 golfers, while Coetzee was close behind at 82-81-163 to tie for ninth. Schonauer was 13th at 81-84-165, while Anna Radford (Kent, England). 89-79-168, and Sherry Evans (Jonesville), 86-82-168, were in a four-way tie for 15th.

Longwood's next action is March 9-10 at the Peggy Kirk Bell Tournament in Orlando, Florida.

Team Standings: Central Florida 636, Longwood 651; Winthrop 665, James Madison 682, Campbell 699, Tennessee Tech 701, Charleston Southern 751.

Lancer Golfers Have Slow Start

On the men's side, Longwood got its spring season off to a slow start with an eighth place finish in a field of Division I teams. Winthrop shot 308-296-604 to win the competition. The Lancers, who had a poor first day of play, scored a 340-323-663.

Competing for Longwood were: Jimmy Ward (Chestertown, Md.), 84-79-163; Frank Davide (Monroe, N.Y.), 81-83-164; John Benton (Vienna), 87-78-165; Jeff Smiley (Palmyra), 88-83-171; and Shawn Moore (Fredericksburg), 88-89-177.

The Lancers will play next March 12 when they visit Newport News Apprentice.

Team Standings: Winthrop 604, Campbell 606, Tennessee Tech, 624, Winthrop (2) 628, Central Florida 630, Virginia Commonwealth 632, Charleston Southern 639, Longwood 663.

SPECIAL ED., PSYCHOLOGY, OR RECREATION MAJORS

We have the perfect summer job for you...

CAMP VIRGINIA JAYCEE

A summer camp for the mentally retarded
Blue Ridge, Virginia.

Come to the booth at the Summer Camp Day
March 4, 10-3 to apply.
Or Call (703) 947-2972
MAILE SHEERAN, DIRECTOR

THE ROTUNDA

VOL. 71, NO. 14 | LONGWOOD COLLEGE | FARMVILLE, VA | MARCH 4, 1992

The 10 finalists for the title Miss Longwood College were selected from 24 contestants in preliminary competition last December. The finalists are (from left): front row — Shannon Holley and Teresa Goding; second row — Kate Newman, Jill Leffler, and Heather Rose; third row — Cullen Johnson, Angela Smith, Ann Renee Heim, Christine Crews, and Tara Towery. The Pageant will be held Saturday, March 7, at 8 p.m. in Jarman Auditorium.

Senate Approves Expanded Student Aid

By CHARLES DERVARICS
Special CPS Correspondent

WASHINGTON (CPS) — The Senate approved a major expansion of student financial aid through the 1990s, but dropped a popular provision that would convert the Pell Grant program into an entitlement.

Senate leaders decided not to bring up the entitlement issue for a vote, fearing that a defeat could ruin prospects for the entire bill. The idea still survives in a House student aid bill, although it also faces opposition because of cost concerns.

Pell Grants would receive automatic funding as an entitlement, thereby avoiding the annual appropriations process that often leaves the program short of its authorized funding level.

Student groups expressed anger with the Senate's vote Feb. 21.

"We are outraged that the Senate did not take this opportunity to give all Americans the ability to obtain a postsecondary education," said Tajel Shah, president of the United States Student Association.

"This sends a message to America's hard-pressed students and families that a postsecondary education is only accessible to those fortunate few with the means to afford skyrocketing tuition," Shah said.

Other student advocates expressed surprise at the news, but acknowledged that budget constraints made it difficult for senators to support the measure. "It's a tough economic and budgetary time," said Michelle Stent, vice president for government relations at the United Negro College Fund.

Should the House approve a Pell Grant entitlement later this year, the issue would go to a House-Senate conference committee for final resolution.

Despite inaction on the entitlement, the bill approved by the Senate would extend programs under the Higher Education Act for another seven years. It would increase the maximum authorized Pell Grant from $3,100 to $3,600 by 1994. The bill proposes annual increases in subsequent years to bring the grants to $4,800 by 1999. Nearly 3.8 million students receive Pell Grants.

Traditionally, actual appropriations have trailed those authorization levels. Current funding permits a maximum Pell Grant of $2,400.

The bill also would broaden access to Pell Grants by making more middle-income families eligible for the program. Income eligibility for a family of four would increase from $30,000 to $42,000.

In addition, the Senate plan would raise the limits of many student loan programs. Maximum limits under Guaranteed Student Loans would increase from $2,625 to $3,000 a year for first- and second-year students. The limit for juniors and seniors would jump from $3,000 to $5,000 annually, and the maximum for graduate students would increase from $7,500 to $9,000.

The Senate plan also would make it easier for families to apply for financial aid by providing a single needs analysis for all programs. The bill also would eliminate home equity as a consideration when determining financial need for families with incomes below $50,000 a year.

Elsewhere in higher education, the bill would increase funding for programs to recruit and train future teachers. In addition, it would provide more funds for pre-college outreach programs, particularly for disadvantaged youth.

Similar to the fate of the Pell Grant entitlement, the Senate also agreed to defer action on another controversial issue — replacing the current student loan system with direct loans administered by individual colleges and universities.

Under the plan, colleges would take over the duties of banks in processing and administering loans, with the Education Department in the principal oversight role.

Financial aid officers generally split ranks on the direct loan issue. Some argue that it would help schools by giving them more control over the loan process. Others said it could cause havoc in the system at a time when most colleges are facing budget cutbacks.

The idea isn't dead yet. Supporters of the direct-loan concept intend to bring their case before the Senate when it considers tax-cut legislation later this year.

Security: How Serious Are You?

By KIM BRANDYBERRY
Staff Reporter

How serious are students about the security doors? Not serious enough as Pam Lea, REC of Stubbs, Cox, and Wheeler, found out on February 17th at around 1:45 a.m. in her Cox apartment.

That morning Lea heard someone banging on her back door. Thinking it could be someone that had seen something going on or an RA, she went to the door. She preceded to ask who it was to which the perpetrator answered, "Mike." Lea thought it was Mike Herndon, Frazer's REC, and opened the door. She was surprised to open it to a stranger.

Allegedly, the stranger was Percy Perkins. He is a5 ft. 8 in., medium complexion black male from Buckingham County. That evening he reeked heavily of alcohol. Lea thought she recognized him but was not sure.

Perkins asked for Jake Owens. Lea told him that he did not live there. The man insisted that someone told him Jake Owens; room 16. Lea opened her door a little over a quarter of the way to look at the room number to her backdoor, which was 16. She told him again that Jake did not live there. Lea saw him trying to look in her apartment. This is where she made a mistake.

Perkins asked Lea if she lived there alone. Lea said "that out of stupidity she said, yeah." At that point the man took a step closer and said, "What about some pussy?"

Lea slammed the door and not remembering must have thrown the slide lock on. She ran in the living room and called the campus police. An officer arrived within minutes. Lea said "as I was pushing the door he pushed against it. For one second, it had to be one of the scarest moments in my life, the door stopped. Someone had to win." She went on to say that "God and I decided I was going to win."

Perkins left the building and jumped in a car and drove around without his headlights on. He then ran a stop sign. Officer John Thompson spotted the car and proceeded to follow it. When Thompson put his lights on, Perkins tried to elude him but took a corner too fast and ended up on an embankment beside the Bedford Art Building. Perkins got out of his car and tried to run but was caught.

Officer Thompson and a Prince Edward Deputy Sheriff brought Perkins over to Cox where Officer Buddy Campbell was getting a police statement from Lea. She positively identified the perpetrator when asked. He was then taken to jail.

How did Perkins get into Cox? He told officers that he banged on the door of Cox a couple times and that a student who was in the lobby reading used their key to let him in. Lea Lea says, "She doesn't know." She met with residents of Cox on Monday evening, February 17th to inform them of the incident. She is more than willing to talk with any floor, any building, any organization on what happened to her.

Lea met with the Commonwealth Attorney both that Monday and Tuesday. At first the Attorney was going to try for attempted rape. He has since decided not to push that but Perkins is going to be tried on all of the driving violations which included: DUI, driving in an unsafe manner, resisting arrest or eluding a police officer, and driving under a suspended or revoked license.

Perkins already had on his record a commission of a felony with firearms and a lot of robbery charges. "Mr. Perkins has a pretty notorious record, I guess," says Lea. The trial date set for Perkins is April 13, here in Farmville.

Since this incident Lea has been more cautious about her actions. Lea says that, "He has taken away some of my freedom." One way to prevent this from happening again is to get serious about the security doors. Lea commented that "We have to watch out for one another. That's what community is all about."

Forum Reviewed

By ROSEANN PITZL
Staff Reporter

The Longwood Players presented their first production of the semester last week with the musical A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum.

Guest director Tom Width, of Swift Creek Mill Playhouse in Colonial Heights directed the Roman slapstick which attracted one of the biggest opening night audiences Jarman has had in the recent past.

The script called for the Music, Theatre, and Art departments to pool their talents as well as individuals of the Farmville community. The cast included members of the National Dramatics Honor Fraternity Alpha Psi Omega and the National Music Honor Fraternities Phi Mu Alpha and Sigma Alpha Iota. Also included in the cast of nineteen were Longwood graduate Jerry Danhart, Farmville resident and theatre veteran Ralph Haga and Lauren Bolding a Buckingham County High School junior. The impressive stage design called on the talent of the set crew, Kappa Pi and Artworks Inc.

Forum caught the audience and kept them with a powerful orchestra lead by Donald Trott, which accompanied the voices of the cast quite effectively. Although some vocals were lost to those who sat in the back rows, the musical was generally well received, and the audience as a whole kept up with the fast-paced slapstick rhythm which is a vital part of the humor in this Roman comedy.

Tom Width described the play in the Farmville Herald as, "a complex marriage of music, farce, and burlesque." "It is considered by many to be the perfect musical comedy, "he stated and those in attendance agreed, attributing the success of Forum to its gifted cast.

A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, based on the book by Burt Shevelove and Larry Gelbert, is a spoof of the Roman comedy with all its heroes, slaves and courtesans. J.J. Wiese plays Hero, the budding young man of twenty two falls in love with Philia, performed by Teresa Goding, a lovely, virginal courtesan. Unfortunately she has already been sold to 'the captain' Miles Gloriosus, played by Anthony Tassa. With the help of his cunning slave Pseudolus, performed by Scott Lynwood Joyce, and his panicky household servant Hysterium, performed by Daniel Ellis, he is able to get the girl using schemes which succeed or backfire in rapid succession. This helped create the frantic atmosphere that is slapstick.

In this entertaining confusion the classic characters of Roman drama are revealed to us and mimicked: the studly hero, the not too bright heroine, the pompous soldier, scheming slave, domineering wife, dirty old man and lewdly seductive courtesan. With their trained voices the performers struck the audience with their roles full force. With their voices the cast had the power to make the audience feel anything. That night they wanted us to laugh, and we did.

Other acts that will cross the Jarman stage in April include Two Japanese Theatre Productions and the The Importance of Being Earnest.

Projects Seek To Improve LC's Image

By DINA M. DAWSON
Staff Reporter

The future; a period of time capable of bringing about changes in us all. Currently five projects are in the works here at Longwood, seeking to improve the college's image over the course of the next two semesters.

The baseball field, at the moment, is ready for renovation and the price to complete the work on the field was first estimated to cost $259,000.00. However the cost was later negotiated down to $220,000.00 and Mr. Rick Hurley, Vice-President of Business Affairs stated that the work on the field would begin "towards the later part of March."

Mr. Hurley also stated that "the renovation of Grainger was going faster than expected." Originally it was thought that classes would resume in Grainger in the Spring of 1993 but the date has been pushed up to the Fall of 1992.

The new resident hall, complete with air conditioning and a sink in each room, will open in June and be ready for the first group to stay there. The first group to use the new dorm will be individuals this summer participating in the Elderhostel program. In addition, the first schematic design, depicting the trees, shrubs, low walls for sitting on, and the fountain which will be placed outside the new dorm has been prepared.

Bids for renovation of the New Smoker are due March 24th and work on that area will begin May 14th. Bidding refers to the process in which construction companies turn in estimates of how much a particular project will cost. The company selected to do the work is the one offering the lowest bid, as well as the company that is the most "responsible and responsive." Currently bids are also out for the renovation of the Post Office, with plans to modernize that area and to add more mailboxes. Bids for that project are due March 17th with renovation beginning, hopefully soon after the date the bids are due.

Lastly, Longwood remains hopeful about being able to carry on with the official entrance way project whose plans are still on hold at this moment, due to budget considerations.

AXP Gives Money To Library

The academic success of Alpha Chi Rho (AXP) fraternity members is good news for the Longwood Library.

AXP recently presented a $200 check to the library to be used for purchasing new books, and last year the fraternity gave $100. Whenever members of an AXP chapter have an overall grade-point average higher than the GPA of all men on a campus, the fraternity's national education foundation gives money — beginning at $100 and increasing by $100 annually — to the chapter, which is donated to the library for new books, said Dr. Geoffrey Orth, AXP's academic adviser.

Last year and this year, Longwood Library officials showed AXP members the "Outstanding Academic Books" list, which is compiled annually and covers all fields, and the students selected the books to be purchased, said Rebecca Laine, acting director of the library.

"We're very appreciative of this effort," Mrs. Laine said.

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
Features 3
News 4
Comics 5
Sports 6

COMMENTARY

EDITORIAL

The obligation of faculty and administration to include students on all decision-making committees is unquestionable.

However, when students are given the few meaningful committee positions available to them, a majority fail miserably.

This is not due to a lack of insight into the problems being discussed. Nor is it because of the student's failure to offer viable suggestions and solutions. Instead, they fail simply by not attending those committee meetings to which the student has been invited to participate.

How can the student body reasonably expect adequate representation if their chosen representatives don't bother to speak on the student's behalf?

According to one student member of a campus committee, nonstudents on her committee can hardly believe that a student has shown enough dedication to attend all meetings.

Should faculty and administration be shocked when a student takes an active role in campus policy and decision making? Or should such committed students be the norm?

Students have a right to be on all campus decision-making committees. But we also have a duty to fulfill our obligations to the student body and to ourselves. We cannot be respected and valued if we don't bother to even show up.

OPINION

Stop Vandalism

How bad is it going to get Longwood? How much more are you going to take, how much money are you willing to lose? Consider these questions when you decide to vandalize or let someone else vandalize this campus.

Sure, it is the fun thing to do when you are drunk and want to score some attention. Breaking windows, chairs, desks, dressers, mirrors, beds, doors, setting off fire extinguishers and spraying them in the halls and trashing study lounges are only a few examples of vandalism here at Longwood. I see evidence of this everyday and especially after the weekends when the broken articles are thrown into the halls. Of course this adds to the beauty of the hall and gives others a chance to add to the destruction. Once in the hall, give the furniture a week and nothing will be left of it. When the furniture movers come and move the rubble, they have to piece it back together as good as possible to take into the storage room. Have you gotten away with anything? Not! They simply take the room number down and bill that room. What if the furniture cannot be fixed in the near future and you need a new dresser to replace the one you trashed? Too bad, put your clothes on the floor and live with your mistake. Or perhaps you would like to contribute some more money to rebuild or buy a new dresser?

Hey Longwood, we are here to learn what we want to do for the rest of our lives. The majority of us here have mentally passed middle and high school and are ready to move on to better things; what about the rest? Are you ready to become adults yet?

Jason Hanchey
Longwood Freshman

Letter To The Editor

Editor, The Rotunda,

We are concerned about the recent trend towards the increasing number of secret societies on Longwood's campus. Three in particular have been brought to the attention of students and faculty by letters to the editor of The Rotunda. they are as follows; The Society of fraternity, The Nineteen Hidden Polyester Lords, and Princeps.

In the November 13, 1991, issue of the newspaper, The Society of fraternity recognized six Longwood College professors for "their sincere and noble efforts on behalf of the college students." On the evening of November 4, 1991, they placed six pumpkins on the front porches of the houses of these faculty members. Although their motive was honorable, we would like to ask how they appointed themselves to act on behalf of the student body.

How many students were consulted as to their views of the qualifications of these professors? We are not saying that they were not deserving of this honor, just questioning the means of the society's decision making process.

The Nineteen Hidden Polyester Lords made themselves evident in the February 19, issue of The Rotunda. This "unofficial and independent" group do not make their purpose clear. They describe themselves as having "discovered some of the secrets of the Universe" which they will soon reveal to the uninformed public. They claim to remain secret at the risk of being "stamped out by the priests or kings who happen to be in authority at that time."

Not only was their message unclear, but their stance on society was negative. One of these views is that "the World seems always to be under the heel of some tyrant or dictator." If they feel this way, what are they doing about it? What is the point of their "secret" organization?

In contrast, the third organization, Princeps, clearly states the motive for their formation in the February 5, issue of the paper; "Princeps exists to support, develop, and encourage leadership in the college community." They are addressing a serious concern, as the Longwood leadership pool is a small one. However, that does not mean that interest is lacking. When certain organizations select new members, those who are already involved in other activities usually get chosen first. Often it is difficult for students to break into this system.

The Seven Pillars of Princeps use the crown as their symbol and have painted this on the sidewalks of our campus. Although they say they do not wish to "compete with Chi," they are doing just that. This group is taking away from the spirit of Chi by copying their means of recognition.

Their reason for existence is justified, but how are they furthering their cause? If students want to attain leadership on campus, how is Princeps supporting them? Instead of painting crowns on sidewalks, they could sponsor leadership workshops or distribute literature.

Signed: S. G. and A. H.

NEWSPAPER IN EDUCATION WEEK
MARCH 2-6, 1992

NEWSBRIEF

Song Earns Secret Service Scrutiny

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (CPS) — A parody rap song titled "How I Killed George Bush" is on the charts with a bullet as far as the Secret Service is concerned.

A local record store clerk told the Minnesota Daily that a Secret Service agent came into the store and asked him questions about the song, which also is the title of E Krupz's debut album. The Secret Service declined comment.

On Feb. 11, the newspaper quoted a University of Minnesota student who co-founded the rap group as saying the song was not meant to be a political statement.

"We were trying to play off the themes in rap music," Andrew Knighton said. "It's sort of a mockery of the ambiguity and rhetoric that shrouds rap music. It was a parody."

The lyrics include the lines, "To be all I can be/ I'll kill the p l e z,/cause the Sedition Act/don't mean a thing to me."

The album's promotional fliers show the president's picture underneath the words "President Bush Slain."

68 Students Arrested In Fee Fight

BERKELEY, Calif. (CPS) — A day-long rally protesting a proposed 22 percent fee hike culminated in a student occupation of the University of California at Berkeley library. Police arrested 68 students on trespassing charges.

Campus police in riot gear initially blocked students from entering the Moffitt Library, but shortly before the 10 p.m. closing Jan. 31, 200 students were allowed to enter the building while 300 others remained outside in support, the University of California at Davis newspaper reported.

"We're optimistic that if we can get all the campuses to take action and get the students mobilized, we stand a real good chance of getting some change," Tim Yeung, a student senator at Berkeley, told the newspaper. "That's our main goal right now."

Five students from the Berkeley campus held a five-day hunger strike to protest the fee increase, the newspaper reported.

Minnesota Student Faces Charges

MINNEAPOLIS (CPS) — Police say a University of Minnesota student who is facing robbery and burglary charges from an October crime and burglary charges from an October crime may also be involved in a residential robbery that netted more than $1.2 million in jewelry and cash.

Arthur Wendell Ness, a 24-year-old sociology student, was arrested Jan. 21 for his alleged involvement in an attempted robbery of an Edina, Minn., home on Oct. 30. The county prosecutor charged Ness with attempted aggravated robbery, burglary and aggravated assault for allegedly threatening and struggling with a woman who lived in the home.

Now, the FBI and Minneapolis specialists who have been working with Edina police say that Ness is one of six people they believe to be responsible for a Nov. 22 robbery of another Edina home in which a group of robbers threatened a 15 year-old girl at gunpoint to open the family safe.

Police say Ness is in the Hennepin County jail on $100,000 bail. No charges have been filed in the November crime. Ness was scheduled to appear in court on the other charges in late February.

Turner Plans 24-Hour Cartoon Network

ATLANTA (CPS) — Yabba dabba do. Viewers nationwide soon will have access to Fred Flintstone and other animated character on a 24-hour basis.

Cable king Ted Turner has announced plans to start the Cartoon Network, featuring Yogi Bear, the Flintstones, the Jetsons and Popeye among others, on Oct. 1.

Turner said Turner Broadcasting System Inc.'s vast stock of animated features will keep start-up costs down.

TBS Inc. bought the Hanna Barbera library for $320 million last year, and Turner also owns the MGM film library which includes "Tom & Jerry" cartoons. In all, TBS has 38,000 half-hour blocks of cartoons.

Turner says his research shows that the Cartoon Network will reach a potential audience that includes a large number of adults.

OPINION

Pro-Choice

By ERIN McCAY
Associate Editor

Picture a society wherein the government has control over certain fundamental rights that every member of society should enjoy. Information is deliberately withheld from individuals. And the desires of one narrow-minded group could foreseeably become law.

No, it's not the plot for George Orwell's 1984. And its not some communist country. Instead, it is America today.

What? Not this beacon of freedom and democracy we call the United States! You must be describing the former Soviet Union.

Well, I'm not. I am referring to the United States in regard to its treatment of one of the most important issues of our time: the freedom of a woman to choose.

Abortion is a volative subject. Most politicians (and Supreme Court nominees) avoid giving an opinion on this topic. But it is not an issue that can be ignored.

Abortion is a dirty word. The women who choose to have one, regardless of the reason, are seen by a vocal and hurtful few as tainted. "Give the child up for adoption," a bewildered, pregnant, fifteen year old is told by anti-abortion groups. "It is a sin to destroy one of God's gifts," is the advice to a rape victim.

No woman undergoes an abortion for fun. The reasoning behind having an abortion could be anything; ignorance ("No, I will not let my child learn about sex outside of the home," trumpets many an unknowing grandparent-to-be), incest, or rape. Or even, after much soul searching, a decision that bringing a child into the world would hurt both the child and the mother.

Why then, when a woman visits a federally funded clinic is she not even offered abortion as an option? "I don't want my taxes used to propogate such sinful information," some may say. Well, I don't really care to have my tax dollars pay for stealth bombers.

If a woman does choose to have an abortion, she must cross through lines of good religious folk who hurl abuse and obscenities as she tries to enter the abortion clinic. No woman who has undergone the physical and emotional shock of a legal abortion should have to endure being called a murderer and whore as she leaves the clinic.

It may be against my personal beliefs to have an abortion. I might counsel my pregnant daughter to have the child, depending on her age and situation. But I would also fight to preserve the right to choose what I do with my body, as well as struggle to keep such rights for other women. No man, woman, religious group or government has the right to make moral and ethical decisions for me. If there is a supreme deity, it created me with free will and I'll be damned if I let anybody take away my freedom to make decisions.

ROTUNDA

Longwood College
Box 1133
Farmville, VA
23909

1920
Founding Editor
Helen Skillman

STAFF

Executive Editor
Bradley L. Owen

Features Editor
Sherry Gatewood

Sports Editor

Asst. Features Editor
Ann Renee Helm

Head Photographer

Associate Editor
Erin C. McCay

Assistant Editor
James K. Johnson

Business Manager

Advisors
Mr. William C. Woods
Ms. Brenda Atkins

Reporters/Assistants: Thomas D. Birchett, IV, Todd Buchanan, Michael K. Carter, Dina Dawson, Kathy DiMarino, Sarah Drewry, Lynn Gianni, Travis W. Griffin, Debra E. Mayo, Claude Monger, Christy Mottley, Kimberly Mraz, Chris Mullins, Linda M. Nygaard, Kandi Pettus, Rose Ann Pitzl, Tricia Popular, R. Alex Rodriguez, Julie K. Tate, Jennifer Wyatt, and Cassandra Yellis.

EDITORIAL POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration, or trustees. Columns, letters, editorials, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be typed, signed, have a return address, and phone number. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

All contributions shall be addressed to The Rotunda, LC Box 1133, Farmville, VA 23909. Deadline for articles is 5p.m. Friday prior to the Wednesday publication date and these should be place in the envelopes inside the Publication offices door in Lankford or mailed. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by 8p.m. Sunday. All submissions become the property of The Rotunda.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an Associated Collegiate Press and Columbia Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at (804) 395-2120 or faxed to (804) 395-2347.

PERINI'S PIZZA

•Subs •Tacos
•Pizza •Pasta
•Salads •Ice Cream

LIVE BAND-Fri. & Sat.
Harrison & Davis
Classic Rock and Country

ABC-ON

New Local Hotspot - The Creamery

Fitzhugh Boosts Farmville Social Scene - Again

By CHRISTY MOTTLEY
Staff Reporter

While a student at Longwood, Jason Fitzhugh always thought about opening a bar or night club in the Farmville area. Believing that Farmville's social scene needed a boost, as a first step Fitzhugh helped to open The Great American Deli, more commonly known as The Deli.

Step two began when owners of the old Farmville Creamery building, brothers Jimmy, Don, and John Gantt approached Fitzhugh with an idea. The idea being to open a lunch counter in the upstairs portion of the Creamery building. This would help them in attracting other businesses to the available office space in the building as well as provide an opportunity for Fitzhugh to capitalize and turn a once fleeting thought into a reality.

The Creamery officially opened January 24. Just recently the full service menu was implemented, thus expanding their services. They are now serving breakfast and lunch from 7:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday and dinner from 4:30 to 9 p.m.

According to Fitzhugh, The Creamery has plans of offering various types of entertainment to appeal to both the local customers and Longwood and Hampden-Sydney students. During the week they plan to offer more for the student population, but on weekends a combination to also attract the local crowd.

For its first stab at the entertainment angle, the house band, "Beluga Whale" played to a capacity crowd of approximately 300 people. "The opening was real exciting and we were pleased," stated Fitzhugh. "As long as people support The Creamery we'll be able to offer bigger and better events."

Fitzhugh did point out that with such a successful opening, he had already begun to work on scheduling more acts.

As for upcoming events, The Creamery has planned the following for the beginning of March:

Wednesday, March 4 – DJ night

Thursday, March 5 – "Beluga Whale", house band

Friday, March 6 – special afternoon hours (unofficial happy hour) 4:30-6:30 with live acoustic with Troy Eppes

Saturday, March 7 – "Southwind", a local country group

Fitzhugh commented that he hopes to introduce new genres of music into the Farmville scene. One possibility being Jazz or Blues entertainment, possibly debuting during Sunday Brunch which is served from 10:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. He also mentioned the possibility of having some dinner theater, comedy acts and even the Deli Players.

When asked about The Creamery's impact on DTs Fitzhugh stated that The Creamery's main goal is to provide quality entertainment, not necessarily to take their place. However, with more competition, they are likely to reassess their standards.

"Even with the recession hitting Farmville a little later than other areas," stated Fitzhugh, "Creamery sales have been right on target as to what was expected."

With the goal of providing Farmville with «quality entertainment, once the word gets around, Fitzhugh hopes The Creamery will be considered the place to be.

Chinese Acrobats And Magicians Will Perform In Jarman

The Chinese Golden Dragon Acrobats and Magicians of Taipei will present their unique brand of family entertainment on Tuesday, March 10, at 8 p.m. in Jarman Auditorium at Longwood.

The show is sponsored by Longwood's Series of Performing Arts and the Opening Doors to the World program. General admission tickets are $6; discount tickets for senior citizens, youth under 18, and Longwood employees are $4; Longwood students free with ID.

Tickets may be obtained in advance at the Longwood Information Center in the Lankford Building. Any remaining tickets will be available at the box office in Jarman on Tuesday evening.

The show features the Chang family, one of the leading touring groups in China and Taiwan, in a beautifully choreographed program of balancing, juggling, comedy, magic, and dance. The colorful show is enhanced by elaborate costumes made of silk and hand embroidered.

The performers continue a proud tradition that began with the Han Dynasty more than 2,000 years ago in China. Acrobats, dances, and magicians entertained the imperial courts and soon became the star attraction for ceremonial carnivals and theatre for the masses.

Danny Chang, who has performed in more than 45 countries, is the show's producer and director. He has received two "Distinguished Skill in Performance" awards from the Chinese Ministry of Education and the International Faith and Goodwill Medal from Taiwan's Coordination Council for North American Affairs.

In the U. S., his touring group won the Outstanding Performance Award from the National Association for Campus Activities (NACA) in 1988, 1989, and 1990.

In addition to their performing activities worldwide, the Chang family directs the National Institute for Acrobatic Training in Taipei. Some 200 youngsters, age eight to 17, are chosen each year by national auditions to attend the institute. They study academic subjects half of each school day and train with their acrobatic coaches the other half.

Commentary

Drugs: Legalize or Not

By THOMAS D. BIRCHETT, IV
Staff Writer

George Edward Rust, III hosted a call-in radio show on WLCX 90.1 FM on Thursday, February 28, from 10:30 p.m. to 12. The topic was drug legalization.

Of the approximately 20 calls received, only four were opposed to the legalization of drugs. The rest of the callers supported the legalization of marijuana and some even supported the legalization of all or most drugs.

In general those that opposed legalization felt that recreational drug use is morally wrong and that it is harmful and addictive to the individual. Some even felt that drug legalization would increase crime, making drugs indirectly harmful to the general public. Callers also argued that legalization would encourage drug use by making drugs more accessible.

Other callers did not feel this way. They argued that drug legalization would stimulate the economy, help the environment and reduce crime.

According to some callers, if Americans could grow, produce, and regulate drugs that are currently being grown and produced in other countries, then American money could remain in the U. S., reducing or even eliminating the need for many currently imported drugs. It would also help farmers, create jobs, and cut down on money spent on the costly Drug War.

One caller stated that "...drug use is a victimless crime." Like prostitution, alcohol consumption, and sodomy, drug use only directly affects the individual involved, who can become aware of the dangers through education and readily available well researched information.

Some callers replied by saying that drug use indirectly causes crime. But those that favored legalization argued that while drugs (like guns, cars, movies, music, etc.) can indirectly cause or encourage crime, it is the individual that is responsible for the crime — not the drug use.

Most of the callers in favor of drug legalization mentioned the benefits of legalized hemp/marijuana. According to Jack Herer, author of The Emperor Wears No Clothes, hemp/marijuana can be used to make food, clothing, paper, lighting oil, fuel, paint and varnish among other things. As a matter of fact it was used in the U. S. to make many of these until it was banned in 1937.

Jack Herer has researched the plant and collected information about it, including a 1942 film created by the U.S. Department of Agriculture which encouraged farmers to grow hemp/marijuana for "wartime use." There uses included making clothes and parachutes.

It was pointed out by one caller that hemp/marijuana could save our environment. For example, in the U. S. Department of Agriculture Bulletin No. 404, it was reported that one acre of hemp/marijuana would produce as much pulp for paper in 20 years as 4.1 acres of trees in that same time period and would use less than one-fourth of the polluting chemicals that were needed for tree pulp. In addition, it was reported that natural hydrogen peroxide could replace the toxic chlorine bleach needed.

Not only can marijuana be used to make paper, it can also be used to make methanol, a fuel what is safer for the environment. This fuel can be made in the U.S. which would create more jobs and decrease and even end dependence on foreign oil. If this practice had already been in use, the Gulf War could have been prevented.

Herer feels that hemp/marijuana would still be used for all of these reasons today had it not been for the greed of Hearst Paper Company, DuPont, and DuPont's chief financial backer, Andrew Mellon. Just after the invention of a practical hemp pulp-paper process was invented DuPont had patented a process to make plastics from oil and coal and a sulfur/sulfite process to make wood pulp-paper.

William Randolph Hearst (famous for beginning "yellow journalism" tactics which helped ignite and fan the Spanish-American War) used these tactics to give hemp/marijuana a bad name. Though alcohol-related crime was much more frequent and deadly than any other drug-related crime, his newspaper carried marijuana crimes on the front page as opposed to the alcohol-related crimes on the back pages. It also carried racial stories linking marijuana with "lazy Hispanics" and "Negroes and their anti-white music (jazz)."

Hemp/marijuana was and is important because it is the strongest, most durable, longest-lasting natural soft-fiber that exists, and it has many other uses which would make it America's largest cash crop. Even the original draft of our own United States Constitution was written on hemp/marijuana paper!

According to the Campus Voice News (Vol. 4, Issue 6), which is posted in various places around campus including the wall across from the post office, there are a growing number of supporters of drug legalization. These include astronomer Carl Sagan, ultra-conservative William F. Buckley, author-artist William S. Burroughs, and musician-artist Jello Biafra, who is interviewed.

Biafra cites as evidence that drug legalization and de-criminalization have been successful in Europe as a way of fighting addiction. He feels that addiction can be fought best by providing drugs to addicts by prescription through educational government programs. Biafra also criticizes the Drug War as drugs were just a little cheaper, now would they?"

Even Abraham Lincoln said in 1840, "Prohibition will work great injury...for it goes beyond the bounds of reason in that attempts to control man's appetite by legislation and makes a crime out of things that are not crimes."

Heart of VA Festival Eagerly Awaited

By CHRISTY MOTTLEY
Staff Reporter

Farmville's favorite weekend is the Heart of Virginia Festival. In its final stages of preparation, the seventeen member committee looks forward to another captivating and entertaining festival.

The Heart of Virginia Festival is sponsored by Prince Edward County, the Town of Farmville and the Farmville Chamber of Commerce. Each year during the first weekend of May, over 15,000 people enjoy the arts and crafts, live music, art shows, fireworks, sporting events, and food of all kinds.

The Festival was founded in 1977 to foster a sense of community awreness of the arts and crafts of the Central Virginia region. The Festival combines shopping and entertainment with a children's carnival and various cultural exhibits. You cannot only find local arts and crafts but also exhibitors from throughout the Commonwealth and even some neighboring states.

This year's festivities will begin Friday, May 1 at Wilck's Lake with an outdoor, "bring your own picnic and lawn chair" concert by several local musicians. Batteaux (18th century river boats) rides will also take place.

Saturday, May 2 events, concerts and activities will occur all day long in downtown Farmville and other parts of town.

Even before the Festival opening cermonies, athletic events will already be underway. The Heart of Virginia 10K and 1K Races are presented by Southside Community Hospital and sponsored by Gran Prix Market & Car Washes, Central Virginia Cabinet, The Carpet House-The Paint Center, and Little Caesar's. The gun will soud at 8:30 a.m. for the 10K at Hampden-Sydney College near the Tiger Inn and end at Jarman Auditorium on the Longwood campus. Runner divisions are as follows: 14-19, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49, and 50 and over.

The 1K Fun Run for Kids will also begin at 8:30 a.m. but will start at Southside Community Hospital and end at Jarman Auditorium. The fun run is restricted to kids 8-13 years of age.

Downtown activities will commence with the opening ceremonies and flag-raising at 10 a.m. on the steps of the Prince Edward County Courthouse located on Main Street. The Festival will continue all day in the downtown area encompassing Main Street and High Street up to Griffin Boulevard.

The Outdoor Art Show will take place around Longwood's Rotunda and Colonades and usually features over 50 artists on exhibit. These exhibits will be judged and awarded monetary prizes.

Beginning around 4 p.m., games, food and entertainment move to the Longwood Golf Course in preparation for the grand finale. An outdoor music concert will be held until dark when a spectacular fireworks show will take place to mark the ending to the festival.

For additional information concerning the Festival, call the Festival Hotline at 395-2744 or the Farmville Chamber of Commerce at 392-3939.

ST. PATRICKS DAY
GREEN CELEBRATION!

TKE Hosts
Lancer Cafe

Thursday, March 12
8pm-Midnight

Pizza & Drink!
Chicken Wing
Buffet!

ABC-ON
ID Required

ROTC Students Jump & Travel During Exercise

By JULIE K. TATE
Staff Reporter

A rappelling and land navigation exercise took place on Saturday, February 22 in Nottoway County.

Approximately 49 people participated in the all day event. The participants included MS 1,2,3, and 4s. MS 1s and 2s are students who take beginning leadership courses and are interested in the ROTC program. MS 3s and 4s are juniors and seniors already involved in the ROTC program and who have signed contracts to become active in the army or the reserves.

The MS 4s who attended the exercise include: John Rafferty, William Johnson, Mark Veno, Josh Diamond, Sean Morris, and Dwayne Bowyer (H-SC).

The group met behind Hiner at 7 a.m. and were issued a Meal Ready to Eat (MRE). Transportation was originally scheduled from Fort Lee, but plans fell through. Transportation was then provided by Longwood College and several individuals who volunteered their own cars.

Everyone met at Fort Pickett located in Blackstone, Virginia. The officer in command, Captain Wittekind, then gave instructions. The MS 3s and 4s demonstrated to the MS 1s and 2s how to tie a swiss seat.

At the same time, the rappell masters, Sergeant Ramsey and James Herzpg, set up safety ropes. Once the ropes were in place, two lines were formed and each person's swiss seat was inspected to ensure safety. Each person then took turns rappelling off of a 60 ft. tower.

After each person went twice, those interested in rappelling off of a helicopter skid got the opportunity. This simulation was used as a practice exercise to qualify those who wish to rappel out of a real helicopter later in the semester. A person must have rapelled from the practice helicopter skid at least 30 days prior to rapelling from the actual helicopter. The difference between rapelling off of a tower and rapelling from a helicopter is that there is no wall and more freedom of movement.

The exercise then came to a close as the ropes were disassembled by the commanding officer and the MS 3s and 4s. The MS 1s and 2s preformed a "police call" which consisted of sweeping the area to make sure the site was left as it was when they arrived. During this part of the exercise everyone learned how to rapell and belay successfully.

The land navigation exercise was the last part of the training. Everyone traveled to a different site for this exercise.

The MS 1s and 2s were placed into groups and were given a leader. A few of the MS 4s served as leaders while the remaining went out on a course designed especially for them.

Using a terrain map and a compass, each team member was to find points in the woods denoted with flags or markings and to find their way back to the starting point. After each person returned the exercise was completed.

Each person learned several valuable skills in this exercise as well. They developed such skills as map reading, how to tie various knots, and how to use a compass.

The purpose of this full day of training was to qualify those who would like to rappel from the helicopter in a few weeks and to give each MS 3 hands on experience in land navigation.

Lancer Productions Attends NACA Conference

By EDDIE MONGER
Staff Reporter

Lancer Productions representatives attended a conference in Dallas, Texas held February 18-23, 1992. The conference was sponsored by the National Association of Campus Activities. The conference also had participants from Canada and Puerto Rico.

Those attending from Lancer Productions included Joan Mason (Director of Student Activities), John Russell (President), Donnis McMullan (Vice President), Laura Llewellyn (Backdoor Chairperson), Riley Ross (Mainstage Chairperson), and Laurie Myers (Chairperson of the Lecture Committee).

The purpose of the conference was to help groups program for next semester and to exchange ideas with other colleges.

Representatives attended educational sessions at the conference. Agents and advisors provided information about interesting and exciting things to do on campus. They also spoke on how to promote ideas and lower publicity costs.

Additionally, they viewed bands, comedians, lectures, magicians and movies.

What kinds of new and interesting ideas were exchanged at the conference?

John Russell was impressed with Fish Football. Russell said that Fish Football involves getting a dead fish and wrapping masking tape around the middle of it. Teams are comprised of eight players and the game is played like regular football. Donnis McMullan said, "You have to make sure you tape the fish up good so the guts don't fly out." Fish Football may become a part of Spring Weekend.

Laura Llewellyn got a chance to do some Velcro jumping. She put on a big suit with velcro on the back. Next, she jumped on a trampoline and stuck onto a board — just like on Letterman.

The group from Longwood did find time to visit some of the local tourist attractions. They visited John F. Kennedy's assassination site, Reunion Tower, and the Hard Rock Cafe.

— FREE —
PREGNANCY TEST
116 N. Main St.
Mon. 9am-1pm
T&Th 2pm-6pm
All services confidential.
Same day results.
SOUTHSIDE PREGNANCY CENTER

24-HOUR HOTLINE
392-8483

Stringent Requirements Set For New Hall

By JENNIE FENNELL
Staff Reporter

Rumors are flying about what the standards are to live in the new residence hall, dubbed "Academic Residential Community." Who? Why? Is there a particular GPA requirement? What about modern facilities? Which gender, or is it both? An interview with Lynette Jennings from the Housing Department helped reveal some answers to these mysteries.

The new dormitory can house 160 academically successful students. In order to be considered, each student must have a minimum 2.75 GPA. Those with 3.5 and above will be considered first. Only rising sophomores, juniors, and seniors are eligible. Each of the four floors will be coed. Applications are currently available in Housing.

What are some of the advantages of living in this new building? Because it is the first residence hall constructed in twenty years, innovative, modern features have been included.

Each room is fairly large, (about 14' w x 19'1 x 9' h) and only double rooms are available. All of the rooms are air conditioned, and elevators have been installed. In a a style similar to hotels, sinks are inside the rooms, so there is only a toilet and a bathtub in each connecting bathroom (which four people will share).

Every hall has a kitchen, and glass sitting lounges have been built on both ends of the halls as well. Another aspect is that the building will feature the security system.

A wing is reserved for people involved in the Honors Program, and there is also a floor for graduate students in the fifth year Education Program.

Before applying, each person must decide whether or not he or she is willing to sacrifice such present-day conveniences as community bathrooms, humid rooms due to the lack of air conditioners, and possibly decrepit walls and window sills. For those who may be ready for a change of scenery, applications are due in the Housing Office by Friday, March 13.

Order of Omega Sponsors 'New Member Academy'

By JULIE K. TATE
Staff Reporter

The second annual Greek New Member Academy was held this year on February 23 in the newly renamed Appomattox, Buckingham, and Cumberland rooms.

The academy was sponsored by the Order of Omega greek leadership honor society. Each new member or "pledge" of the fraternities and sororities were invited to attend. The purpose of the all day event was to inform the new members of their role in the greek community. They also interacted with other new members in hopes of developing positive relationships outside of their own organization.

The day began at noon with a welcome from Marianne Moffett, vice president of the order, and Julie Tate, president. Each person was then placed into one of ten groups. The game "Upset the Fruit Basket" was played. This served as an icebreaker and helped everyone to get to know one another.

Sue Saunders, Dean of Students, then gave a very informative speech on "Your Challenge as New Members." She taught each person that being in a situation that is unfamiliar to us, such as pledging, may be considered to some as a crisis. To the Chinese the word crisis has a whole new meaning. The symbol for crisis in this language is a combination of two other symbols, challenge and opportunity, and that a crisis in the context of pledging should be viewed according to this meaning.

Following her speech Ms. Saunders also took part in a panel discussion along with Dr. Jim Jordon, Joyce Trent, and Dr. Wayne Tinnell. The discussion centered around the perceptions of greeks by the faculty and staff. Many views were expressed by the audience and the faculty, staff, and students learned a great deal.

Refreshments were then served and followed by a video on "Demythologizing the Animal House Myth." This video gave everyone a chance to see that the movies don't always depict fraternity and sorority life correctly and that it isn't just one big party. The narrator told the new members of the many good things greek organizations do. They give thousands of dollars and volunteer countless hours to various charities and community service organizations.

Immediately following the video each president gave a brief description of their respective organizations. Ms. Tate spoke on the Order of Omega and Jennifer Moore, also an Order of Omega member, spoke on the Panhellenic Council. Mike MacFarlane talked about the Interfraternity Council and Regina Lampkin closed by giving information on the Black Greek Council.

Steve Dealph presented a very informative explanation of what greek values should be and what they meant to him as an undergraduate. He shared personal examples of what greek life was like for him. Steve is a member of Order of Omega and advisor of the Theta Chi Chapter here at Longwood. He is also the Greek Affairs Coordinator and a member of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity.

To round off the day each of the ten groups formed their own fraternity. The groups made up their own letters, colors, purpose, motto, values, coat of arms, and symbol. Each group then presented their fraternity to the entire audience by holding up drawings of their coat of arms. Explanations were given for why they chose what they did.

Each new member who participated in the academy received a certificate and became more aware of what greek life at Longwood is like.

4th Annual Body Building Contest Here

The 4th annual Body Building Contest at Longwood will be on Monday, March 9, at 8 p.m. in Jarman Auditorium.

Student body builders will compete for the "Mr. Longwood" and "Ms. Longwood" titles.

Guest posers for the event are James Walker, current holder of the AAU "Mr. Virginia" title, and Mark Zito, a winner in the 1991 Culpeper Open.

The Body Building Contest is sponsored by the Physical Education Majors Club and Longwood's Intramurals and Campus Recreation program. Stephen Hemschoot and Kim Chapman are co-chairs of the event, with assistance from faculty advisers Dr. Nelson Neal and Carolyn Callaway.

General admission is $3; Longwood students, faculty, and staff, $2.

SPRING BREAK SALE!

Just in time for Spring Break '92, arrive with style in the latest fashions from the Longwood Bookstore. Choose from T-shirts, shorts, or sweatshirts for those cool Spring Break nights.

A GREAT SELECTION OF CLOTHING REDUCED

TAKE AN EXTRA
20% OFF
OUR ALREADY LOW SALE PRICE CLOTHING!

Example of Savings:
Sweatshirt Reg. 29.95 SALE 21.95
-Extra 20% -4.39
YOUR COST $17.56

Watch for new Spring/Summer fashions arriving now!

SALE GOOD THROUGH FRIDAY, MARCH 13, 1992

LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE
OPEN 8-5 Mon.-Fri.
395-2084

COMICS

Wild Kingdom

By Anthony Rubino, Jr.

Stuff We Think When The Alarm Goes Off

What to tell your professor when you blow off class	What NOT to tell your professor when you blow off class
1. "A distant relative died and I had to go to the funeral." —GOOD (But, be sure you make up the relative, because if you use a real person and that person dies than you'll feel really bad.)	1. "I died." —BAD (Not only will this create immediate suspicion, but it is very difficult to prove.)
2. "I was very very ill." —GOOD	2. "I was very very ill because I washed down a bottle of tequila with a bottle of vodka and spent most of the night projectile vomiting." —BAD (Too much detail.)
3. "While off campus visiting my sick grandmother I got a flat tire." —GOOD	3. "Your lectures are so boring they make me want to run from your classroom screaming and slit my wrists." —BAD (Honest, but bad.)

Spencer Green

Wolfbane

PERSONALS

Good luck to the Lacrosse team on their game this Thursday. Trisha, we hope you have a good game. πLove, the Sisters of AπΔ

Dr. Hlad – You've got Sean Connery beat by a long shot this year. Your fan club.

Claudia – Since you always write others personals, we thought you might want one:

CSY – Ice cubes and bananas aside. (Yes, I know you stole our idea!), the sun will come out tomorrow. Smiles

Kristin – One day soon we'll party together, or do lunch or something! Hope the sun is shining on your side of town – CB

Claudia V – Have a great day. You're the best. ZTA love, Chrissy

Susan H. , Heather R., and Jen M. – Congrats on becoming orientation leaders! We are so proud of you. Your ZTA Sisters

Jen D. – Congrats to the new R.A.! You will be great. Your ZTA Sisters

Congratulations to the Longwood Baseball team on their wins down south. Keep up the great job. Love, the sisters of AΔπ

Hey Alphas – You are doing an awesome job. Keep up all the hard work. We love and support each one of you. πLove, the Sisters of Aπ Δπ

AΔπ Alphas – I am so proud of each one of you. You are doing a great job with your Alpha period. Keep smiling and have fun. π Love, Dana

Heather Ross – Happy 22nd birthday. Good luck with Miss Longwood. You will be a knock out. Keep smiling. πLove, the Sisters of AπΔ

NOTICES

ATTENTION FOOD BINGERS: If you have been in a cycle of gorging on food and then purging either by vomiting, laxatives, diuretics, continual dieting and fasting, or exercise, you often feel unable to break this cycle.

IF YOU ARE INTERESTED in joining a group for students struggling with this behavior pattern or would like further information please call Cyndy at (395-2409) in the Counseling Center.

ATTENTION ALL LONGWOOD STUDENTS

The Department of English, Philosophy and Modern Languages will offer language placement exams on the following dates: (Please note that enrolling in 201 or 202 language courses requires the appropriate Placement Exam score or having completed the PREREQUISITE. The prerequisite for 201 is 102 and the prerequisite for 202 is 201.)

Placement exam:

Tues., March 24 – FRENCH PLACEMENT EXAM – Lancaster 113

Wed., March 25 – GERMAN PLACEMENT EXAM – Lancaster 113

Thurs., March 26 – SPANISH PLACEMENT EXAM – Lancaster 113

The department also strongly recommends that you do not put off completing your language requirement. Your placement score will be calculated for you before you pre-register for Fall semester 1992 classes.

If you have any questions please contact the Department of English, Philosophy and Modern Languages at 395-2155 or Dr. Moore at 395-2180.

YourRealHoroscope

Special Guest Astrologer: "Grizzly" Al Grodin Proffesional Hide Tanner

Aries: (Mar. 21–Apr. 19) You should focus on tanning hides without using the toxic chemicals commercial tanneries use.

Taurus: (Apr. 20–May 20) Friends will compliment your vegetable tanning skills as you steep tannic acid from oak and hemlock bark.

Gemini: (May 21–June 21) To relieve tension at work, butcher and skin a full-grown moose.

Cancer: (June 22–July 22) Relationships are highlighted. Create a fox pelt for your mate.

Leo: (July 23–Aug. 22) You may find it's time to clean–or even replace—your fleshing beam.

Virgo: (Aug. 23–Sept. 22) The odor and greasy, bloody residue of your home-tanning work will cause friction with family members.

Libra: (Sept. 23–Oct. 23) Your carelessness may cause you to accidentally tear the skin of a hide by pulling too hard while skinning. Use your pocket knife to scrape away the membrane that still adheres to the skin.

Scorpio: (Oct. 24–Nov. 21) Your resourcefulness will allow you to make beautiful, decorative skins out of small rodents such as squirrels, voles, or even mice.

Sagittarius: (Nov. 22–Dec. 21) The blisters, cuts and sore muscles resulting from hide-tanning work will net you the sympathy of others.

Capricorn: (Dec. 22–Jan. 19) Stress experimentation. Try making an Indian buckskin.

Aquarius: (Jan. 20–Feb. 18) Before stretching and drying your next hide, tell someone close to you to help you hand-wring it.

Pisces: (Feb. 19–Mar. 20) Finances are a big concern now. Avoid ruined hides by over-soaking in brain-tanning fluid.

"Grizzly" Al Grodin is a Wisconsin-based hide-tanner. Ruby Wynerlo will return next week. Call 1-900-RUBY-IQ to hear your personal horoscope, followed by an ultrasonic, hypnotic tune that will render you a drooling vegetable

©1992 by Orion Features Syndicate

SPRING WEEKEND
APRIL 3, 4, & 5!

Campus Calendar

Information on events should be submitted to the Student Union Office in Lankford by the Friday preceding the appropriate issue of the paper.

Wednesday March 4

Softball: Louisburg, 2:30pm Armory Field.

Rotunda Staff Meeting: We need you - come join us! 6 pm Lancaster B27

Lecture: Nikki Giovanni...on Civility. 7pm Lancer Hall

Thursday March 5

Intramurals: Weekend BB-M/W. EB due

Graduate School Preparation: 1pm CPPC.

Lancer Productions: General Meeting. 1:15 pm Conf. II

Lacrosse: Mary Washington, 4pm, 1st Ave. Field.

SGA: Open Meeting. 6 pm Conf. I

Friday March 6

Baseball: SUNY-Binghampton, 3pm. PECHS Field

Gymnastics: Radford, 7pm. Lancer Hall

LP Movie: Little Man Tate. 9:00 pm Gold Room

Saturday March 7

Intramurals: Weekend Basketball.

Baseball: Christopher-Newport, 2pm. Golubic Stadium in Crewe

Monster Piano Concert: 2:30pm Wygal

Miss Longwood Pageant: 8pm Jarman.

Comedy: The Phillips Brothers. 9pm Lancer Cafe

Sunday March 8

Baseball: SUNY-Binghampton(2), Noon. PECHS Field

Mens's Tennis: IUP, 1pm. Lancer Courts

Junior Recital: Susan Curry & Tammy Leaf, 4pm. Wygal

Monday March 9

4th Annual Body Building Contest: 8pm. Jarman

LP Movie: Little Man Tate. 9:00 pm Gold Room

Tuesday March 10

Workshop: Cover Letter Writing. 1 pm CPPC

LP Series of Performing Arts: Chinese Golden Dragon Acrobats & Magicians, 8pm. Jarman

SPORTS

Baseball Starts 6-2

Scoring 66 runs and batting .347 as a team, Longwood got its 1992 baseball season off to a successful start last week, winning six of eight games on a road trip to South Carolina.

Ranked 10th in this week's "Collegiate Baseball" Division II poll, the Lancers open their "home" slate of games this week. Friday at 3 p.m., Longwood will play SUNY-Binghampton in a single game at Prince Edward County High School. Saturday at 2 p.m. the Lancers host Christopher-Newport at Golubuic Stadium in Crewe and Sunday, LC returns to the Prince Edward field to play Binghampton in a twinbill starting at noon.

Last week Longwood split a pair with Francis Marion Thursday, winning 11-10 and losing 3-2; swept Morris (11-1 and 14-3) Friday and Benedict (10-4 & 12-4) Saturday; and split a pair with an improved Allen squad Sunday. The Lancers beat Allen in the opener 6-3, but lost the nightcap 9-0, the first time LC has been shut out since February, 1991.

While disappointed with Sunday's loss, Lancer coach Buddy Bolding said he was pleased with his team's start.

"We found out a lot about ourselves on this trip," said Bolding. "I'm extremely pleased with the play of our freshmen. Jeff Toms and Chris Tyson did a marvelous job and our young pitchers came through as well. Mike Tucker also had an excellent first week both with his bat and defensively."

While Tucker had an excellent opening week with a .429 batting average, 10 runs, 13 RBI, three homers, two doubles and a triple, it was Tyson, playing designated hitter and second base, who emerged as the early season batting average leader.

Starting all eight games, Tyson got off to a torrid start with 14 hits in 24 at-bats for a .583 average. The freshman added three doubles, four runs and five RBI. Toms, another freshman starter in left field and the Lancer lead-off batter, also started strong with a .333 average, a double, a homer, six runs and five RBI.

Toms' emergence helped to make up for the absence of junior John Hutzler, who had been penciled in for the lead-off spot and center field. Hutzler is out indefinitely, after suffering an off-the-field head injury before the season began.

Junior Shawn Jones has been moved to the center field post. Jones had two homers, drove in five runs and stole six bases in six attempts last week.

In all, nine Lancers are hitting .300 or higher. Chris Porter, .364, Scott Abell, .321, Todd Bowman, .391, Brian Bassett, .333, Bill Reeves, .333, and Ray Roddy, .333.

Junior Terry Taylor is second behind Tucker in RBI with nine and Abell is next with eight. Abell also collected four doubles and tied Tucker for the team lead in runs with 10.

Among the more notable pitching achievements of the week were a five-inning no-hitter by sophomore Wayne Weaver in an 11-1 win over Morris Friday, and a 12-strikeout showing by freshman lefthander Mark Simon Saturday in a 12-4 victory over Benedict. Simon tied a Lancer record for strikeouts in a game which is shared by four other pitchers.

Following are game-by-game summaries of last week's action.

Longwood 6,0; Allen 3,9

NAIA member Allen got its first victory over Longwood after 11 straight defeats in Sunday's nightcap. The Lancers got eight hits (two each from Toms, Porter, Tyson and Tucker), but were unable to cash in numerous scoring changes. Allen collected 11 hits off Lancer starter and loser Kyle Weaver.

In the first game Wyatt Flippen tossed a four-hitter and struck out five to help Longwood get the win. Solo homers by Bowman and Jones and a pair of hits and RBI from Tucker paced the Lancer attack. Chris Mullins picked up a save with an inning of scoreless relief.

LONGWOOD 10, 12; BENEDICT 4, 4

Former teammates at West Springfield High School, sophomore Bill Martz and freshman Mark Simon went the distance on the mound as Longwood swept Benedict. Martz struck out seven in the opener, allowing five hits. Simon fanned 12 in the second game, tying a Lancer record for strikeouts in a game.

Jones and Toms hit two-run homers for Longwood in the opener and Tucker, Tyson and Bowman had two hits each in the nightcap. Tucker had a double, a triple and three RBI.

Longwood 11, 14; Morris 1,3

Wayne Weaver's no-hitter in the first game and a solid showing by freshman Bart van Zoest in the second game were pitching highlights of Friday's twin killing. Weaver allowed one unearned run and walked two. He's the sixth Lancer pitcher to throw a no-hitter. Van Zoest whiffed seven Morris batters in the second game, allowing just four hits in five innings.

Hitting headers included Tucker with a two-run homer, Bowman with three hits and Porter with four in the first game. Taylor drove in six runs in the nightcap with a double and a homer and Tyson went 3-3.

LONGWOOD 11, 2; FRANCIS MARION 10, 3

Bill Reeves drove in Taylor with the winning run in the top of the 11th inning as Longwood won its season opener. Homestanding Francis Marion rallied for two unearned runs in the bottom of the seventh in the nightcap to take a 3-2 win.

In the first game Tucker and Abell had three-run homers as an estimated 12 major league scouts looked on. Freshmen Toms and Tyson got three hits each in their college debut. Kyle Weaver, who relieved starter Wyatt Flippen, picked up the victory.

Tyson and Abell had two hits each in the second game, but Chris Mullins took the loss when the Patriots rallied in the bottom of the seventh.

Longwood holds an 8-6 edge in the all-time series between the two teams.

All American Cini Ready For Lacrosse

By GREG PROUTY

Longwood's lacrosse team is excitedly optimistic about its upcoming 1992 season.

A big reason for the optimism is centered around senior two-time United States Women's Lacrosse Coaches Association Division II All-American Lara Cini. A Three-time team Most Valuable Player as well, Cini has 68 career goals to rank third on the all-time list at LC. A tri-captain this spring, Cini will lead the offense from her third home position.

"Lara is an important key for us," commented coach Sandy Bridgeman. "Her presence on the field will cause opponents to double-team her a lot, creating fouls which will result in additional scoring opportunities for us."

Cini led last year's team with 24 goals and three assists while missing one contest. She's looking forward to her senior campaign as well.

"We have a full squad this year and an improved defense," commented Cini. "I'm looking forward to us doing well."

Cini was a sixth-team selection at last spring's U.S. National team tryouts, which is the base for the World Cup squad. Competing in Maryland at the National Tournament, Cini's team finished with a 4-1 record. She says she's looking forward to this year's tryouts.

"I'm working real hard to improve and hope to do better at the tryouts and tournament this year," said Cini.

A good year by Cini should move her into second on the all-time career goals scored list at LC. Sue Groff ('86) tops the list with 188, while Julie Dayton ('81) is next with 93. Dayton was recently named head field hockey coach at the University of Virginia. Both Groff and Dayton have been members of the U. S. National team and Dayton has played on the World Cup squad as well.

LARA CINI

Cini has also played four years of field hockey at Longwood, starting all four years. She was selected Co-Rookie of the Year in that sports in 1988. In addition, Cini was named Longwood's 1988-89 Freshman Female Athlete of the Year.

The Lady Lancers begin lacrosse action with a contest against Mary Washington on March 4.

Women's Tennis Team Ready For Spring

By MISSY KENNEDY
And
COACH ANGIE COPPEDGE

After having the best fall season in 16 years with a record of 7-1, the Longwood women's tennis team is looking forward to a great spring.

The team opens play March 12 at Randolph-Macon College in Ashland. With many players returning from the fall as well as some promising new additions, Coach Angie Coppedge is pleased with the 1992 Lady netters.

Leading the team will be two-time MVP Jenny Holm who will be team captain and play number one seed. Two years of experience has paid off for Holm. She is hitting the ball well and her confidence is very high. Coppedge says she is a true leader. Holm finished the fall season with a singles record of 7-1 and is 26-19 in her career at Longwood.

Sophomore Melanie Saunders finished the fall with a record of 5-0. Saunders is an all-around athlete and her tennis skills have dramatically improved in two seasons with the squad. A probable starter at the number two position, Melanie improves with every match.

Senior Kimber Bear will certainly add strength to middle of the ladder. She seems well in control of her game now and has proven to be a very tough player. Bear has an excellent serve and strong groundstrokes. She finished the fall with a record of 7-1.

Senior Heather Leach is the real veteran of the team, having played all of her four years at Longwood with the exception of the one semester when she was out with an injury. A strong player overall, Heather was 4-0 in singles and 5-0 with Saunders at No. 2 doubles in the fall.

Sophomore Jennifer Risko possesses one of the finest records ever at Longwood, 17-4 in singles over two years. She completed the fall at 6-1. Risko's consistency is endless as she wears down her opponent in the role of the "human backboard."

Sophomore Amy Thomas is a very tough player with a keen competitive spirit to add to her strong baseline game. She also gives the team more depth. Thomas had a fall record of 3-0.

The Lady Lancers can also count on returning freshman Beth Williams, Michelle Conner, and Darcy Rodriquez. These players are gaining experience and will be a valuable asset to the team in the future.

The Lady netters also have some promising newcomers. Junior Shawn Evans is a very strong doubles player. Transfer sophomore Donna Hawland shows great promise and will undoubtedly help the squad. Freshman Jennifer Haines is hitting the ball well and shows good consistency on her groundstrokes.

Coach Coppedge is pleased with the spring team. "I think we have a bright outlook with so many returning players and the addition of some promising newcomers. We had a great fall season and I am confident that we can keep it going. Best of all, my players are a great bunch to work with."

Gymnasts Improve, But Fall To Ursinus

Longwood's gymnasts outperformed visiting Ursinus in every event Saturday afternoon, but the Lady Lancers came up on the short end of the overall team score as the visitors took a 150.50 to 131.90 victory in Lancer Hall.

All four of Longwood's gymnasts had all-around scores of 30.65 or better, but Ursinus used its superior depth to take the win. The visitors were able to count five individual scores in each event to the Lady Lancers' four.

Junior Danielle Williams had a 35.10 all-around score to top the meet. She won vaulting with an 8.7, bars with a 9.0, and beam with an 8.6. Sophomore Laura Hill, who had a 33.75 all-around score, won floor with an 8.85, just beating Williams' 8.8.

Longwood senior Cheryl Cole had a 32.30 all-around, while freshman Michele Mutascio scored a 30.65.

"The girls looked really good overall," said Longwood coach Mary Lewis. "We had our best bars set of the season. Despite being hit by injury and illness, I've seen individual improvement in every meet. Michele Mutascio is really coming along."

Longwood hosts Radford Friday night at 7:00 in its final home appearance of the season. The Lady Lancers will finish the year on the road, competing at William & Mary Sunday, at N.C. State March 13 and at James Madison for the Virginia State Championships March 15.

Grapplers Sweep Tri-Match

By GREG PROUTY

Longwood's wrestling squad traveled to North Carolina Saturday sweeping victories over Davidson and Campbell en route to setting a new school mark for wins in a season.

Coach Steve Nelson's Lancers defeated host Davidson 37-9 before edging Campbell 27-19. Longwood finishes the season with a dual match record of 10-4, topping the previous marks of 9-4 ('86-87), and 9-8 ('87-88).

Leading the way for Longwood with double wins were seniors Evan McSherry and Ted Proctor, along with freshmen Bryan Hartley and David Franklin.

McSherry gained two pins on the afternoon wrestling at 150, Proctor a decision and forfeit at 167, Hartley two decisions at 177, and Franklin a pin and forfeit at 190. McSherry and Proctor both will be participating in the NCAA Division II National Championships at Northern Colorado University in Greeley, Colorado this Friday and Saturday. Proctor is currently ranked eighth in Division II at 167 with a record of 19-6, the highest ranking ever for a Lancer at this point in the season. McSherry's record stands at 17-5-1.

Joining McSherry and Proctor in the rockies will be freshman Ryan Stefanko. Stefanko, wrestling at 134, split his matches on Saturday and will carry a record of 17-10 to Colorado. Freshman Nate Brown is a second alternate for the Division II finals. Brown also split at Davidson and sports a record of 14-14.

"I was pleased with our efforts Saturday," commented Nelson. "We're excited about taking three young men to the nationals."

Others wrestling Saturday included freshman Keith Whitehead, 1-1 at 126; senior Kevin Haller, 1-1 at 134; along with freshman Joe Silvus 1-1 with a pin at 158; and Anthony Dickens, 0-2 at heavyweight.

Proctor has a career record of 81-33-1, second on the all-time list at LC. He'll have an outside shot at Tim Fitzgerald's ('86), record 84-38-1 mark. McSherry is 50-33-2 for his career, and Haller closes out his LC career, and Haller closes out his LC career with a record of 54-45-3.

Coach Nelson and his three wrestlers are scheduled to leave Richmond Wednesday morning and return next Sunday night from Colorado.

Leggett

19.99 SPECIAL VALUE

TAKE YOUR PICK OF CATALINA JRS® 1-PC. & 2-PC. SWIMSUITS AT TERRIFIC PRICES

Enjoy the sun and surf this season in a flattering new swimsuit. A. 1-pc. solid tank suit with high-cut legs, of sleek nylon/Lycra® spandex is available in your choice of bright colors, for juniors's sizes 5-13. B. 2-pc. triangle suit of nylon/Lycra® spandex, available in a variety of bright colors, juniors's sizes 5-13.

COUPON

10% DISCOUNT
ALL LONGWOOD STUDENTS

On summer knit tops, shorts and regular priced swimwear excluding special value items. Student ID & this Leggett coupon required.

OFFER EXPIRES MARCH 30th

LEGGETT OF LONGWOOD VILLAGE SHOPPING CENTER, FARMVILLE, VA.
PHONE 392-8843 OPEN MONDAY - SATURDAY 10 A.M. - 9 P.M. CLOSED SUNDAY
Use your Leggett Charge, VISA, MasterCard or American Express

BUY 1-GET 1 For 99¢

Buy any sub or salad and a medium drink. Get a second sub or salad (of equal or lesser price) for only 99¢. Offer good at Putney Square Subway only.

SUBWAY

Expires March 31, 1992
Limit one coupon per customer per visit. Not valid with other coupons or discounts.

SUBWAY

Putney Square Shopping Center
308 S. Main St.
Farmville, Va.
392-8868

$1.00 OFF/50¢ OFF

Any footlong sub $1.00 OFF
or
Any 6" sub 50¢ OFF

Offer good at Putney Square Subway only.

SUBWAY

Expires March 31, 1992
Limit one coupon per customer per visit. Not valid with other coupons or discounts.

THE ROTUNDA

VOL. 71, NO. 15 LONGWOOD COLLEGE MARCH 25, 1992

2nd Student Diagnosed With Meningitis; Vaccination Clinic Held On Campus

Large Turnout Demands Another Clinic

By BRADLEY OWEN, Editor

Longwood students returned to classes on Monday, March 23, and were informed that another classmate had been diagnosed with meningococcal meningitis.

The first Longwood student became ill the third week of February, was hospitalized, has recovered and returned to campus. The second case was reported to the administration on the afternoon of Friday, March 13, as students and faculty were leaving for spring break. At last report, that student was still hospitalized but is recovering.

The State Health Department and the college decided to offer immunization injections to residential students at a special clinic on Tuesday, March 24.

Use of the vaccine is generally reserved for control of outbreaks of meningococcal meningitis. The occurrence of two cases at Longwood may be coincidental and is not considered by state health officials to be evidence of an outbreak. However, because the two cases do represent a higher than expected incidence of the disease, officials are taking the added precaution of recommending the vaccine for residents of the two dormitories (South Ruffner and South Cunningham) in which the affected students reside. The vaccine will be available to other students on campus who want to receive it.

The administration decided to send letters to residential students only because the Health Department did not consider the risk factor for faculty, staff, and commuter students high enough to warrant immunization for those groups. However, bulletins were released on campus Monday.

The immunization clinic was held in the Lankford Student Union on Tuesday, March 24, from 10 a.m. until approximately 5:30 p.m. The health department in consultation with the administration decided to order 1,000 doses of the specially prepared vaccine. The college had refused to acknowledge that it knew the amount of doses ordered at an informational meeting held Monday night.

Dr. Brenda W. McCarter, of the local health department, said "Longwood students are health conscious," This statement proved to be true when by 2 p.m. 950 doses had been given and registration was put on hold with hundreds of students waiting to receive the vaccine.

McCarter stated that she "had anticipated 100-200 leftover doses," and that "the turnout has exceeded my expectations." As tension grew among the waiting students an additional amount of vaccine was located at nearby Lynchburg College. "We have ordered and are having delivered to this campus, by state police relay, 300 additional doses," stated McCarter. The extra vaccine arrived at approximately 4:45 p.m.

Because of the shortage of available vaccine a selective registration process was established at the clinic. McCarter said, "We are targeting students from South Cunningham and South Ruffner because we identified those (students) as being at the highest risk ... and we want to get them vaccinated today."

McCarter then said, "We are going to register every student today, based on the numbers we are going to order additional vaccine and hold another immunization clinic next week."

The second immunization clinic is scheduled for Tuesday, March 31, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Lankford Student Union. The cost is still $16.

Other members of the Longwood community who were assigned a low risk and initially denied access to the vaccine will be allowed access at the second clinic. Commuter students, faculty, and staff have been requested to sign up before 2 p.m. on Friday, March 27. Commuters may call 395-2685; faculty and staff may call 395-2010; and unregistered residential students may register in the health center. The State Health Department still does not consider commuter students or faculty and staff as high-risk groups and has not recommended the vaccine for them.

Some students were agitated by the administration's handling of the entire situation.

Erin McCay, Commuter Student Association President, said, "I am outraged at the almost total lack of regard for the health and welfare of the commuter population of Longwood College. We received no information about the meningitis cases. We commuters will no longer stand for being treated like second class citizens."

SGA President Darrell Wells stated that "Though the school may have begun with good intentions, they failed to properly inform the student, thus creating anxiety and chaos. I have never seen such confusion in all my life. I feel that the State Health Department and Student Health Services handled their end well. However, I feel that with regard to the administration involved in the decision making process, many mistakes were made, such as their decision as to the content and wording of the letters sent to students and their families, as well as the failure to notify all members of the Longwood community. With a little more effort on the part of the administration, much confusion could have been avoided. I know that they believe that this was the best way to handle this situation, but I feel that the resulting chaos speaks for itself."

The main symptoms of meningitis are fever, nausea and vomiting, severe headache, dislike of light, and a stiff neck. The vaccine usually takes one to two weeks to become effective.

In regard to any additional cases, Dr. McCarter said "We will complete an epidemeological investigation trying to find common denominators with the other cases, and then based on those findings we will take appropriate action.

No additional cases had been reported as of press time.

Financial Aid Increase May Help

By CASSANDRA YELLIS
Staff Reporter

As tuition rates increase, there is a general concern as to whether or not financial aid will increase as well. There may be help on the way for students who are Virginia residents and qualify for financial aid.

Each year, Longwood College, along with all of Virginia's state supported schools, is given an appropriation of money for student aid from the state. This appropriation is based upon the student body's unmet financial need. When tuition is raised, the unmet need increases, which raises the appropriation given.

However, this does not necessarily mean that more students will receive financial aid. For the 1992-1993 school year, the state added extra funds to the appropriation already set. According to Karen Schinabeck, the Assistant Director of Financial Aid here at Longwood, approximately $640,000 has already been appropriated for next year. Along with this money, $500,000 more will be added for student need. However, Schinabeck says "It is not just a gift dropped on us," for if the applicant pool increases, there will be no real significant change in financial aid money awarded. It must be kept in perspective. If the general applicant pool is about the same, a majority of awards may increase between $800 to $1,000, giving smaller increases to applicants who turn in their application later.

Schinabeck also stressed that this money is set aside only for those that are eligible. To obtain eligibility, a student must file an FAF form and be determined as having a financial need based on the results. Secondly, the student must be a resident of Virginia because the money is set aside for in-state students only. The student must also be taking enough credit hours to be considered a full-time student. Eligibility requirements will remain the same as they have in the past.

Before Schinabeck can make the financial aid awards, which are usually awarded in May, she must figure out the unmet financial need of all the students who are eligible. The extra $500,000 will be added to the other aid funds available and award amounts then decided.

It will not be known exactly how much of an increase students will receive in their individual awards, or if it will increase at all. It is true however, that Longwood College has been given more money to work with, and many can benefit from it. Schinabeck says "We are very appreciative that the state set aside separate funds. We expect the extra money to possibly help students so borrowing will not increase as greatly as it could have without it."

LC's Expansion Projects Have Pluses and Minuses

By CHRISTY MOTTLEY
Staff Reporter

The past, having existed or taken place in a period before the present; the future, an expectation of what is going to happen.

Longwood began at a time when women were not supposed to pursue higher education. Incorporated as a "female seminary" under the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Virginia, by the spring of 1842, Longwood was ready for operation. By this time, one acre of land on High Street had been purchased from George Whitfield Read, and one building had been completed.

In an effort to raise $300,000, the incorporators issued shares of stock at $100 a piece, a very modest sum by today's standard, a substantial amount in the 1800s. Enough money was raised to construct the one building and provide the other necessary items to start a school.

In 1860 by expanding the curriculum, the Seminary became the Farmville Female College. It changed on April 7, 1884 from private to public status when the Commonwealth of Virginia purchased the property. At this time the Farmville College became the first state institution of higher education for women in Virginia.

After progressing through a series of name changes – the State Female Normal School at Farmville to the State Teachers College at Farmville – the "female seminary" became Longwood College in 1949 and went coeducational in 1976.

Since its beginnings, Longwood has continuously been expanding, not only in name and curriculum, in preparation for the future. However, some Farmville residents are not happy with one of the present expansion projects.

According to Mrs. Vera Allen, Farmville resident and owner E.B. Allen Funeral Home, "Longwood's expansion projects have moved my home and business once, and I, unfortunately, foresee this happening again." When Mrs. Allen was first married she and her husband moved to a home on Madison Street which had been his childhood home, (presently the location of the physical plant).

After residing in this home for close to 15 years Longwood purchased her home and business, for a "small sum" and she moved to her present location at 704 Griffin Boulevard. She has lived at this location for 24 years, and has seen a lot of changes. Mrs. Allen recalls the building of Lancer Gym, Lankford and the high rise dorms.

Race Street has recently been purchased in order for the new dorm to be built. This most recent expansion project, according to her, is causing some animosity among local residents. According to Mrs. Allen, a lot of homes which were destroyed were first homes. "It took those people a long time to get those homes, since most were first homes financed through FHA loans," she stated. "Longwood is paying a little more now for the property, however, it doesn't make up for the lost home and the anxiety." Mrs. Allen continued by saying that there is no desirable locations for these people to go. "These people are upset and with good reason. They do not know where to go or what to do."

Up to this point, almost all expansion has been in a southerly direction. Mrs. Allen is a member of an advisory council specifically involved with Longwood's expansion project. The committee has suggested on several occasions, and hopes, that the expansion will turn in a northerly direction. However, Mrs. Allen feels that this is most unlikely since some of Farmville's most historic homes are located in this area.

The residents of Griffin Boulevard and the surrounding area are not happy with the inevitable prospect of Longwood buying up their streets; however, they do see that the expansion is needed in order for Longwood to handle the prospective influx of students and to prepare for the future.

Longwood may have only started small – on one acre of land – but now the campus stretches out, encompassing a major portion of the downtown area.

Student Elections Set

By LYNN GIANNI
Staff Reporter

It's that time of year again on Longwood's campus — it's time for students to decide who they want to represent them for class offices, Honor Board, Judicial Board, and in Student Government. Elections are set for April 8th in the Student Union and April 9th and 10th in the New Smoker.

The hope of the Student Government Association (SGA) is that there will be a great deal of student involvement in the selection of offices at hand. These offices include the President, Vice-President, and Secretary for the rising Sophomore, Junior, and Senior classes as well as seats on both Honor and Judicial Board.

Vice-President of SGA, Amanda Janney, is in charge of organizing the elections. Janney has planned several events to give the students an opportunity to learn more about the candidates before the election.

On April 6th, at 6 p.m. in the Virginia Room, there will be a forum in which the candidates for President and Vice-President from each class will have five minutes to give a speech and answer questions from the student body. SGA hopes there will be a large turnout by the student body to support the candidates.

(Continued on page 5)

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
Features 3, 4
News.....5
News Briefs.....6
Comics 7
Sports 8

COMMENTARY

Commentary

Breaking The Silence

I am as much a minority on Longwood's campus as any Black, Oriental, Indian, or Hispanic. I am a lesbian and I feel as oppressed and isolated as other minorities on this campus must feel. But, I can easily hide that fact because I effortlessly blend in with the majority on campus, on account of not looking "different." Most people would say that I'm lucky because I can just fit right in, and if I have to feel the way I do, to just keep it to myself (never talk about it, write about it, or, God forbid, act on these feelings) and I'll be fine.

I am a very feminine young woman, with long wavy hair. I wear earrings and make-up, and enjoy wearing everything from lingerie to dresses. I enjoy being a female immensely and take pleasure in looking like one – which destroys the myth that all lesbians are dykes, who have short hair, a muscular build, play sports and never wear make-up, jewelry or dresses. Not all lesbians are masculine and athletic. Some of us are quite feminine, like myself, and others are neither very feminine or masculine, but just in between. There are black lesbians, Jewish lesbians, Hispanic lesbians, and Asian lesbians too, all of which are different from each other and the white American lesbian. However we all share the same sexual preference, which unites us all as one.

I should consider myself lucky that I look so "normal" and blend in so easily on campus, but most of the time it is a curse. Because I am so feminine looking, most people (male and female) assume that I have a boyfriend. Female friends of mine ask me about my current and past boyfriends and tell me about theirs. I have had experiences with males in the past, and therefore have stories to tell, but for the remainder of experiences I have to share, I must share the gender from female to male and I am tired of it.

One couldn't think that just changing a simple word such as "she" to "he" would make much of difference. It makes all of the difference in the world to me, though, because I can never fully indulge my friends with all the details, the many thoughts and feelings that accompany those experiences, and receive the feedback and support that I need – because those experiences were with another female. A relationship between two lesbians is very different from a friendship between two straight females, and even more different from a relationship between a male and a female. I am sick and tired of pretending that all my relationships have been with males, tired of giving my past girlfriends male names as a cover when I talk about them, tired of coming up with names of straight bars and clubs so I can tell my roommate and friends where I'm going Friday and Saturday night, when I'm really going to a gay club.

On the other hand, I am afraid to confide my gay identity in anyone straight on campus in fear that I would lose all my friends, and be alienated and isolated as someone "bad", "sick" or "different." Sadly enough, my fears are not to unrealistic. I have listened to my friends and fellow classmates cheerfully make jokes about homosexuals and also seriously discuss their hatred of us, announcing that they wouldn't want anything to do with "one", and that they hope we will all die of AIDS.

Other people talk about how open-minded and accepting of diversity they are, but I strongly suspect that if they found out that their roommate, suitemate, or classmate were gay, they wouldn't be able to handle it. It utterly depresses me knowing that the friend I stayed up all night with – talking, laughing, watching TV and eating pizza with – wouldn't even look at me, much less acknowledge my presence with even a simple "Hi" tomorrow if they were to find out I'm gay. It sounds drastic, but it is a reality, and it has happened to many a gay person in the past who has come out in a predominantly straight situation.

My sexual orientation is a big part of me. I own it and take pride in it, but it becomes very hard to keep that pride going and remain self confident when every day of my life I have to deny that part of me and pretend it doesn't exist. It does exist, dammit, and I sometimes feel like running up and down the halls, yelling, "I'm gay, and proud of it!" but I can't. Most straight people condemn homosexuals as though we all are mentally deranged murderers. Homosexuals are actually very honest, moral, sensitive, and caring human beings and we deserve the same rights as anyone else. We just want to exist with heterosexuals in peace so we can get on with our lives.

I am anxiously awaiting the day when people will no longer be discriminated against based on their gender, race, sexual preference, or ethnicity. I hope I won't have to wait much longer ...

This article was submitted by UNITY (395-2552).

Letters To The Editor

Editor, the Rotunda:

This letter is on behalf of the Society of fraternity, and we wish to address the letter sent by two "concerned" individuals. Our selection of the six professors during the month of November was solely the decision of fraternity. We have never appointed ourselves as voices of the student body, nor shall we ever do so. We perform acts because we see them as needed. Our decision making process is, and shall always be, democratic. If the individuals who wrote the letter contest our decision over the specific professors selected, it would be logical for them to commend whomever they please. We, as individuals and as a group, are able to commend whomever we please, for whatever reason we see fit.

If the logic in the letter pertains to our actions, it must then also apply to CHI. Who makes the decisions over commendations for that organization? It is most certainly not by any sort of organized student vote, nor by any type of student poll. If fraternity is to be attacked, then CHI must also be. Tradition does not make an organization immune to criticism.

The individuals who wrote the letter appear to be concerned for the waning existence and purpose of CHI. It is quite possible that they are members of CHI who have disguised their names to make it appear as though the student body is concerned.

Fraternity respects and encourages the existence of other organizations, such as CHI and Princeps, if they have a valid purpose and respect our existence. We see that each of these have different purposes, and motives for their existence. Fraternity, however, is separate from the administration and therefore, a voice of the student body much more than CHI.

Also, if the individuals writing the letter possessed even minimal intelligence, they would see the important message and humour behind the 19 Polyester Lords. Look beyond the obvious, please.

Fraternity

Editor, The Rotunda:

I don't want to seem extremely picky, but I have a complaint about the library. Most everyone can agree with the statement that the shelving system is perplexing. On Sunday, March 1, 1992, their system was made even more unmanageable. For some unknown reason, all the computers that contain call numbers, authors, and titles of books were down. The absurd thing about this was that they had no hard copy back-up. So, the books were inaccessible. My question is: why is there no backup system in case of an emergency such as this one? Wake up Longwood, computers are not infallible.

Sincerely, but a little disgusted,
Kendra Hipkins

Editor, The Rotunda:

Bravo! Ms. McCay. It's nice to know that there is still at least one other person at Longwood, in Virginia, in America even, that still believes in freedom. The bottom line is simple folks — it makes no difference whether you believe in Abortion or not — it's a freedom — you can believe what you like. Just remember, if you let one freedom fall then it's merely one step away from losing another, and who's to say that the next freedom to fall won't be your freedom to believe, to decide, to choose.

My fellow students, you are here to learn, to enlighten your mind, and to strengthen your social skills as part of society — so for Pete's sake use some of that sense to realize what's happening. Take the time—whether you like it or not—get involved in government—local, state, and federal...VOTE!!!

While the forum is open, I commend the secret societies on their futile attempts at countering the conformity of society. Though look at yourselves — you're no different than the form you protest. It's just like the childish games of "Look, I'm in a club and you're not—Ha, Ha!"—Grow up. All of you (Fraternities, Sororities, Secret Societies), EVERYONE is equal when judgement day comes. You can only be superior to yourself — no one else.

Sincerely,
K. Wagner,
Junior

Editor, The Rotunda:

Last year BYOB (Bring Your Own Beer) guidelines were developed by a committee of fraternity and sorority members and college staff members in order to allow Longwood's Greek Organizations to sponsor parties without violating their national risk management policies. According to their national risk management policies, fraternities and sororities may not 1) purchase alcohol with chapter funds or through "slush" funds, 2) purchase or use kegs of beer, or 3) have open parties; parties must be by invitation only and limited to a guest list.

While we have been able to inform our Greek members about these guidelines we have not been able to inform all the other students who attend these parties and need to be aware of them. The guidelines are as follows:

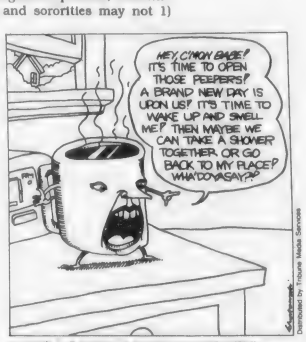
1. Only 12 ounce cans will be permitted. No bottles.

2. No more than one 12 ounce can of beer per hour per person may be brought into the event. (i.e. 4 cans of beer for a 4 hour party)

3. The organization sponsoring the event will be responsible for providing two people (checkers) to check identifications outside the event entrance.

a. Checkers will be responsible for taking all alcohol brought into the event and placing it in the bar area. These people will then give the owner of the beer one ticket for each beer brought to the event.

b. Checkers will mark those of the legal drinking age with a number. The same number will be placed on each beer ticket the guest receives.



c. Checkers will mark those who are not of the legal drinking age in such a way that may be easily identified.

4. The organization sponsoring the event will be responsible for providing at least two people (servers) to monitor the bar and distribute alcohol only to those guests who have a number on their hand and a beer ticket with a corresponding number.

5. The organization sponsoring the event will be responsible for providing at least two people (monitors) to monitor the event to assure that only those who are old enough are consuming alcohol.

On behalf of the fraternity and sorority presidents, I would like to ask for the student body's support in adhering to these guidelines and assisting our Greek Community in providing a safer environment for all our students. If anyone has questions about these guidelines, they may contact me in the Greek Affairs Office at 395-2118.

Steven B. Dealph
Greek Affairs Coordinator

WHAT IT'S LIKE TO WAKE UP TO A FRESH CUP OF COFFEE...

LIBRARY HOURS, MARCH 23 - MAY 6, 1992

Monday - Thursday ..... 8 A.M. - 12 Midnight
Friday ..... 8 A.M. - 5 P.M.
Saturday ..... 10 A.M. - 5 P.M.
Sunday ..... 1 P.M. - 12 Midnight

LIBRARY HOURS DURING EXAMS

Friday, May 1 ..... 8 A.M. - 12 Midnight
Saturday, May 2 ..... 9 A.M. - 12 Midnight
Sunday, May 3 ..... 1 P.M. - 12 Midnight
Monday, May 4 - Wednesday, May 6 ..... 8 A.M. - 12 Midnight

LIBRARY HOURS, MAY 7 - MAY 17, 1992

Monday - Friday ..... 8 A.M. - 5 P.M.
Saturday, May 9 & 16 ..... CLOSED
Sunday, May 10 & 17 ..... CLOSED

THE SUB WILL BE OPEN UNTIL 2 A.M. WHEN THE COLLEGE IS IN SESSION.

SUMMER HOURS WILL BE POSTED AT A LATER DATE.

ROTUNDA

Longwood College
Box 1133
Farmville, VA
23909

1920
Founding Editor
Helen Skillman

STAFF

Executive Editor
Bradley L. Owen

Features Editor
Sherry Gatewood

Sports Editor

Asst. Features Editor
Ann Renee Helm

Head Photographer
R. Alex Rodriguez

Associate Editor
Erin C. McCay

Assistant Editor
James K. Johnson

Business Manager

Advisors
Mr. William C. Woods
Ms. Brenda Atkins

Reporters/Assistants: Thomas D. Birchett, IV, Todd Buchanan, Michael K. Carter, Dina Dawson, Kathy DiMarino, Sarah Drewry, Tina Gewerth, Lynn Gianni, Travis W. Griffin, Debra E. Mayo, Claude Monger, Christy Mottley, Kimberly Mraz, Chris Mullins, Linda M. Nygaard, Kandi Pettus, Jennifer Phillips, Rose Ann Pitzl, Tricia Popular, R. Alex Rodriguez, Julie K. Tate, Jennifer Wyatt, and Cassandra Yellis.

EDITORIAL POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration, or trustees. Columns, letters, editorials, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be typed, signed, have a return address, and phone number. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

All contributions shall be addressed to The Rotunda, LC Box 1133, Farmville, VA 23909. Deadline for articles is 5p.m. Friday prior to the Wednesday publication date and these should be place in the envelopes inside the Publication offices door in Lankford or mailed. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by 8p.m. Sunday. All submissions become the property of The Rotunda.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an Associated Collegiate Press and Columbia Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at (804) 395-2120 or faxed to (804) 395-2237.

Student Volunteered For Archeology In The Andes

A small piece of gray-black stone is the only souvenir Tammy Johnson brought home from her sixteen days in the Andes Mountains in Chile.

Johnson, an anthropology major at Longwood College, said her souvenir is no ordinary rock. It is obsidian, a natural glass forged in the heat of ancient volcanoes in the high Andes Mountains.

And obsidian is an important clue for archeologists studying the peoples who lived in South America centuries before Spanish explorers arrived on the continent.

Johnson went to Chile on Jan. 6 to join a team of volunteers assisting with an archeological-zoological-botanical project called "High Andes Traders."

Archeologists believe that as early as 8000 B. C. native people of Chile were traveling in llama caravans between the mountains and the ocean, using natural resources from both land and sea and trading with other peoples along their routes. The caravan network probably continued with little change for thousands of years.

The project, Johnson worked with "is trying to link those trade routes from the central mountains to the coast," she said.

Ancient people valued obsidian highly. "Thin flakes of the material are transparent," Johnson noted, "and they learned how to make mirrors with it."

The sources of obsidian are lava flows high in the Andes Mountains, but pieces of the material, with markings indicating human use, have been found on the coast and at various points between. Archeologists are documenting the source locations and obsidian samples found elsewhere to help them trace the ancient trade routes.

The "High Andes Traders" project is endorsed and funded by the Precolumbian Art Museum and National Museum of Natural History in Santiago, Chile; the Grants Department of the Childean government; and Earthwatch, a global organization of citizens and scientists dedicated to studying and preserving the environment, endangered animal and plant species, and the cultural heritages of peoples around the world.

Johnson flew to Santiago (Chile's largest city with a population of two million) and then traveled four hours by train to Talca. The last leg of her journey was another four hours by bus to the project site on the Maule River in the foothills of the Andes.

"We lived in little shacks built as temporary housing for workers at a nearby hydroelectric plant," she said. "We had showers but no stoves. We used Bunsen burners for cooking and slept on the floor in our sleeping bags."

January is midsummer in Chile. "It was so beautiful," Johnson said. "Temperatures in the middle of the day were 95 to 100 degrees, too hot to work in the field. We took a two-hour break at midday and swam in the river, which originates from a glacier and is so clear and fresh that we could drink from it, too. Then we worked again from about 2 o'clock until 7 in the evening."

She added that many Chileans who live in the area "came by our camp to visit and socialize in the evenings."

Johnson studied Spanish in high school and at Longwood, but says she was surprised at how well she could communicate in the language. "What hampered me most was not knowing the body language and social customs of the Chileans," she said.

TAMMY JOHNSON

Her team was the fourth group of volunteer workers on the project, which will continue for a year or more. Team members were from Canada, the U.S., and Chile.

Now a junior at Longwood, Johnson came to the College planning to major in psychology. She changed her major after participating in Longwood's Archeology Field School last summer, working at a prehistoric Indian site on the Appomattox River under the direction of Dr. James Jordan.

She learned about the Chilean project last fall when her father sent her a booklet on Earthwatch programs. With Dr. Jordan's approval and help, her 16 days in the Andes have become part of a semester-long independent study on South American archeology, for which she will receive three academic credits.

"Traveling and trying to understand other people have always been important in my family," Johnson said. "My grandparents have traveled all over the world, and my parents took my sister and me across the United States when we were small children."

She added that she intends to "explore and understand how other people live in order to make a better decision about how I want to live."

Johnson and her sister, a student at Howard Community College in Maryland probably will spend next summer in Hawaii with a cousin who lives there. "I hope to work on an archeological project in Hawaii," she said. "I understand such jobs are plentiful there."

She also hopes to return to Chile and continue archeological studies there, perhaps as an exchange student at the University of Chile. And she is looking for opportunities in other parts of the world.

"I want to go everywhere!" she said.

Johnson is the daughter of Tom and Jill Hart Johnson, of Laurel, Maryland.

Students Outgrow The Pain Together

By ROSEANN PITZL
Staff Reporter

College is a time of self-exploration. It is a time when individuals take grand steps in the discovery of who they are. During the process of planning for the future students often realize how events in their past have shaped them. This is a struggle for most, but it can be an even bigger struggle for those who were abused as children.

Cyndy Bergstrom Devlin of the Longwood Counseling Center has started "Outgrowing the Pain" for this reason. "Outgrowing the Pain," a phrase she borrowed from the title of a book she uses with the group, is open to anyone who was abused physically, emotionally, or sexually as a child. Devlin believes in group therapy because she feels that talking to other "survivors" helps the abused feel less isolated. Isolation often manifests where abuse has taken place because neither the parents nor the child is able to deal with the problem. For this reason "no talk rules," as Devlin refers to them, are formed. Once they arrive at college, the young adult, with more distance from the family, can more readily deal with the events in their past.

Devlin, who worked in a child abuse center for 15 years, has a strong background in dealing with the problems of abuse. She stresses that a major step in the healing of those who were abused is helping them realize that they are not at fault. This can be difficult but it is made easier thanks to the books that are now widely available on the subject.

It is difficult to guess the number of people who have been victims of physical, emotional, and sexual abuse because it thrives in silence. But estimates are fairly high. Looking at the figures one might think that abuse is becoming "normal," but Devlin states that is never "healthy." She also believes that until the victim faces what has happened and they 'put it in front of them' they will never be able to put it behind them and truly be "survivors."

"Outgrowing the Pain" meets on Mondays in the Counseling Center Conference Room in French. If you are interested contact Cyndy Bergstrom Devlin at 395-2409 or stop by. An appointment will be made for an interview so you can get a feel for the group and background information. Or if you would rather, individual counseling can be arranged. All services are free and completely confidential.

Mahmoody Talks About Cultural Differences

By EDDIE MONGER
Staff Reporter

Betty Mahmoody, author of Not Without My Daughter, gave a lecture on Monday, March 2, in the Gold Room. Mahmoody talked about her experiences in Iran and how Iranian and American cultures are different.

Mahmoody is an American who married an Iranian. In August of 1984, Ms. Mahmoody, her husband and her daughter went to Iran for a two week vacation.

On August 3, Ms. Mahmoody stepped off of the plane and faced culture shock and hot weather. Mahmoody said, "There wasn't anything that could have prepared me for that day." She saw women who were veiled in black and armed men with rifles in the streets. Mahmoody said she was exposed to primitive customs. When she got out of a car, they slaughtered a lamb in front of her and she had to step over it to get in the house.

While on vacation, Mahmoody's husband reaffirmed his Muslim faith. He decided that the family would remain in Iran. Ms. Mahmoody said, "My two week, culture shock vacation turned into a nightmare." Her husband told her that she could not go home and that she would be in Iran until she died. Ms. Mahmoody's two year struggle for freedom had begun.

Iranians do not enjoy the same freedoms as Americans. Mahmoody said that she saw teenaged boys playing volleyball. They were taken away at gunpoint because congregating was against the law. People were put on trial for thinking against the government. Mahmoody told of a newsperson who wouldn't say things about America that he knew were not true. She said his tongue was cut out and he bled to death.

Ms. Mahmoody said that women in Iran did not have any rights. It is acceptable for husbands to beat their wives. If a husband and wife get a divorce, the husband will get custody of the children.

Many people in Iran were friendly to Ms. Mahmoody. She met people who wanted to help her escape. They offered her money and risked their lives to assist her.

Eighteen months after the ordeal began, Mahmoody managed to escape with her daughter. She fled through the mountains of Iran and into Turkey.

Mahmoody said, "Cultural differences do exist and we will never have world peace until we recognize these differences. We should not try and impose ourselves on others."

Heart of VA 10K Race Offers Competitive Event

By CHRISTY MOTTLEY
Staff Reporter

Football. Baseball. Volleyball. Soccer. Sporting events are loved by all, and the 1992 Heart of Virginia Festival offers an athletic event that promises to be exciting and competitive.

The Heart of Virginia 10K Road Race is presented by Southside Community Hospital and sponsored by Little Caesar's, Gran Prix Market and Car Washes, Central Virginia Cabinet, and The Carpet House - The Paint Center.

The gun will sound at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, May 2, at Hampden-Sydney College. In previous years, the course has taken a turn down First Avenue to end at the Old Farmville High School. However, in order to better incorporate the race with the Fourteenth Annual Festival, the finish line has been moved to Jarman Auditorium on the Longwood College campus.

The course which is a straight stretch from Hampden-Sydney to Farmville, is mostly flat and usually produces some good times. During the 1991 race, Richard Ferguson of Charlottesville crossed the finish line with a time of 32:24 capturing the overall men's title. Whereas Diane Pardue of Boydton captured the women's overall title with a time of 47:38.

Transportation will be provided in the morning at 7:45 a.m. from Jarman to Hampden-Sydney and again after the race. Cost to enter the race is $10 on or before April 20 or $12 after the deadline and on race day.

Runner divisions are as follows: 14-19, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49, and 50 and over. Trophies will be presented to the top three overall men and women finishers of the 6.2 mile race. Medallions will be awarded to the top three male and female finishers in the above listed divisions.

This year will mark the introduction of two new events, a 1K Fun Run for Kids, and a Team Run category. The kids run will begin at 8:30 a.m. from Southside Community Hospital and also end at Jarman. Cost is $8. Awards will be presented to the top three overall male and female finishers. Children must be 8-13 years of age and have written permission from a parent or guardian.

This new event is geared as a fun activity to encourage children who may be interested in the sport of running but have not yet had the opportunity to pursue this interest. For the first year, the committee hopes that 25 children will participate.

To compete in the Team Run category, teams must consist of a minimum of three runners. All team members must participate on an individual basis. Cost will be $5 per team. Awards will be presented to the top three teams based on the lowest cumulative times of top three participants.

In addition to race awards, there will be random prize drawings for items generously donated by local businesses. A Heart of Virginia 10K t-shirt will be given to the first 100 participants. Each runner will also receive promotional samples and other goodies.

This race is organized by the Southside Community Hospital Department of Community Relations. Should you have any questions or would like an entry form, please contact them at 392-8811, extension 426.

The Heart of Virginia festivities will begin Friday, May 1 with batteau boats and children's entertainment at Wilck's Lake. The events will continue through Saturday with arts and crafts and live entertainment in downtown Farmville concluding with the annual fireworks display at the Longwood Golf Course.

You've got time to get in shape. Start now and you too can be a part of this exciting and competitive event.

Gyre To Hit Stands Soon

By THOMAS D. BIRCHETT
Staff Reporter

Longwood's literary magazine, The Gyre, is currently in the beginning stages of layout. The staff hopes to have this year's edition published and available during Literary Week, March 22nd-27th.

Due to the large number of submissions and the limited amount of time that the staff has had, publication may be delayed slightly. The Gyre should be out no later than the first week of April.

There were over 100 submissions of fiction, poetry, and flat art received. According to Andrea Sawyer, Gyre editor, final selection was based on the overall effect created by the work.

The staff was broken into three selection committees: one each for poetry, fiction, and art. Each of these committees voted on each work seperately. Disputes over works that could not be solved within committees were settled by a vote of all staff members.

Sawyer admitted that she and her staff were impressed with the quality of most of the submissions which made it difficult to narrow it down. The final selection consisted of fifty-two poems and seven prose and fiction works.

Because submissions were not requested until late in the semester, Sawyer and the staff felt they did not have the time needed to get the magazine published by Literary Week. For this reason, they have decided to begin accepting submissions of fiction, poetry, and flat art immediately in preparation for the Gyre's next issue. Submissions should be sent to: The Gyre, Box 925, Longwood College and should include a return address.

In order to celebrate the publication, The Gyre, along with Lambda Iota Tau, is organizing a student reading scheduled for Friday, March 27th in Wygal at 8 p.m. with a reception following. All students and faculty are invited to attend. Any students interested in reading should contact Sawyer at 395-3178.

GIVE Seeks To Help Community

By SARAH L. DREWRY
Staff Reporter

GIVE Clearinghouse (Groups and Individuals Volunteering Efforts) is a volunteer organization that is constantly seeking new applicants. The primary purpose of GIVE is for individuals to contribute their services to Longwood and to the Farmville community.

Students who wish to gain experience in their majors are encouraged to take advantage of the opportunity to use their talent and knowledge in a helpful way. There is a need for elementary education majors to tutor children and to work with underprivileged children. English majors may want to help with the literacy program, and those with a talent for acting could participate in skits. There are over thirty areas that you can become involved in regardless of your major.

Larger projects, such as adopt-a-highway and building (or Habitat for Humanity) need an entire group's help. GIVE encourages Greek organizations or other clubs on campus to apply for these service projects.

Applications are available at Student Services.

WLCX Hosts Live Interview With Unity

By DEBRA E. MAYO
Staff Reporter

On the evening of Thursday, March 12, WLCX 90.1 FM hosted a live call-in and interview show with two members of Unity. Questions were posed by both hosts, Tommy Birchett and George Rust, and the listeners who called.

Out of the 40-50 calls received at the station very few were negative. The majority of callers were supportive of the efforts of Unity. There were a select few who chose to show their immaturity and use derogatory names over the air towards the guests.

The two guests from Unity were David, of Hampden-Sydney, and Robin from Longwood. David is the student coordinator for the group at H-SC and is also very active outside of the campus.

One caller, without knowing that Unity received no money from SGA, thought it was unfair that Unity received funding yet IFC (Inter-Fraternity Council) did not. This remark sparked several more calls about the funding issue.

It was relayed to the guests and caller, by another caller, that IFC does not receive money because they are selective in their membership. The fact that Unity is selective, in that they do not allow non-gay members to be in the group, was brought up.

Another topic that was discussed with the callers was the reaction by students and administration at the two campuses regarding the presence of Unity.

Robin said that at Longwood the students haven't really given any feedback, other than to write names on or tear down the flyers that they post. Robin also said that the administration wants to know specifics, mostly, who is in the group. She also feels that the administration is not very pleased by the fact that such a group is present on the campus.

According to David, Unity is the organization for sexual minorities at H-SC and Longwood. It is here to provide a safe and supportive environment for its members. It is designed to provide a place for sexual minorities to talk about concerns and issues in the life of gays, lesbians and bisexuals.

David said that at H-SC the attitude is "that it doesn't go on, or if it does we don't want to know about it." The faculty members however, have been very supportive of his efforts.

Quite a few calls came in about the funding of the group. The callers wanted to know if Unity received money from SGA. Robin explained that they do not receive funding, but that is because they have not asked for any. To receive an allotment from SGA the organization must submit a list of officers and Unity does not have officers. They also wish to keep the names of their members to themselves at this time.

One caller felt that the flyers that Unity posts around campus push the group on the students. Robin and David explained that all their lives the heterosexual lifestyle has been pushed on them. The group is not trying to push themselves, rather let the students know some facts about a lifestyle that is in need of positive recognition.

The show proved interesting and informative. The calls didn't stop coming during the entire two hours. Most callers were very supportive and objective in their views. The guests thanked the callers for their support.

To get in touch with members of Unity, the phone number for their voice mail is 395-2552.

WLCX gladly welcomes comments about any of their shows and you can direct your comments to 395-2475, in care of the hosts.

After hearing the reactions of the callers on that evening the impression received is that the students of Longwood react with mixed feelings about the presence of Unity, but that they are trying to understand the need for the group.

Dining Hall Survey Planned

By TODD BUCHANAN
Staff Reporter

It's time to let the dining services here at Longwood know how much you like, or dislike for that matter, the job they've been doing so far, and also to let them know most of all how the food quality has been. After all, they'll just go on making assumptions about the dining hall if they don't receive any suggestions from the people who eat there.

In late March, the Longwood Dining Service will be administering a customer satisfaction survey to the users of Longwood's services. The survey will be done in hopes of identifying dissatisfactions with any aspect of the dining services here at Longwood.

According to John Brady, the dining service's food service director, the survey will in the end "only benefit the people using the dining services." In this respect, the dining administration expects generally sincere responses to the survey.

To boost motivation for participation in the survey, there will be three cash prizes awarded throughout the duration of the survey period. There will be ten, fifteen, and twenty-five dollars cash prizes, respectively.

Miss Longwood Pageant Scenes

Shannon Holley, 1st runner-up, pours her heart into "God Bless The USA."

Miss Longwood, Cullen Johnson (2nd from right), with (from left) 3rd runner-up Ann Helm, 1st runner-up Shannon Holley, and 2nd runner-up Jill Leffler.

Amy Church plays out her part during the 'Beach Scene' set.

Christi Page, Miss Louisiana, wows the audience with her singing talent.

In Profile:

Joyce Trent

By KANDI PETTUS
Staff Writer

The Student Union does many things to help support our school. They bring live entertainment to campus and organize Spring Weekend. But it takes many different people working together to get these things done. One of which is Mrs. Joyce Trent.

Joyce is the secretary to the director of Student Activities Union. She has worked in this department for eight years and has been employed by Longwood College for 22 years.

Some major events that she deals with are contracts for entertainers. She has assisted in bringing entertainers such as Bruce Hornsby, The Connells, Stephen Wright, The Bangles and many more. Not only does she get them here but she keeps them feeling welcome and happy during their stay. All of the cooking for the bands and performers are done by her personally.

Joyce's other duties include answering the phone for information and scheduling the use of the rooms in Lankford, such as; weddings, proms, meetings, and receptions. She also trains students on the IBM and Macintosh for use in the Student Union.

Joyce works with many different departments in the college. When organizing Spring Weekend she must go through Continuing Studies first. This process insures the use of the grounds surrounding the building. Maintenance in the building is done through the Physical Plant. Joyce is also in charge of renting out equipment. Camping gear, refrigerators and sound equipment may be rented through her.

Joyce expressed that the best part of her job was "dealing with the students." She feels very privileged to be on a one to one basis with many of them.

Not only is Joyce involved with the Student Union she is also the advisor for Kappa Delta Sorority. She has been their advisor for 14 years and says she will continue to be as long as she is needed.

Joyce is originally from Lunenburg County and now resides in Rice. She has a son who is 11 years of age and attends Prince Edward Academy. She is a member of the Rice Volunteer Fire Department Ladies Auxiliary and has served as president for the last eight years. She is very involved in her work with the Pisgah Baptist Church. She has been the director of the Vacation Bible School for the last four years, and sings in the choir. She is a charter member of the Ladies Auxiliary and sings in the Rice Community Chorus.

Mrs. Joyce Trent is not only an outstanding member of her community but an asset to Longwood. She was commended for her dedication by CHI in April 1974 and 1989. She was also named Outstanding Greek Advisor of the Year for 1988-89.

Fitness Trail Supporters Still Hopeful

By LYNN GIANNI
Staff Reporter

Are you ever bored with the usual jog around campus or town? Well, Campus Intramurals thinks there may be another option. Director of Intramurals, Carolyn Callaway, has been trying for quite some time to get a fitness trail on Longwood's campus.

This fitness trail would consist of 10 stations at various places on campus and would allow students to jog on a lighted path. Supporters of this trail feel this will be a perfect addition to the campus.

Vice-President of Intramurals Joe Collim feels very strongly about this fitness trail, and he does not understand about this fitness trail, and he does not understand why this is a problem. In speaking with Joe he explained that this trail would not only benefit the avid joggers at Longwood, but the entire campus community as well.

The hope of the Campus Intramurals is that this trail could be used by aerobic fitness classes, intercollegiate teams in preseason, the Walk Program, and even town use. The most important issue to supporters is that this would provide a safe, and convenient place to jog.

Even though the Campus Intramurals has received support from the Student Government Association (SGA), various students and key administrators, they still are faced with several roadblocks. The main arguments against the fitness trail is that it will be unattractive and the school's plans to build a track at Longwood that students would have access to use.

Administrators have also suggested that perhaps a fitness trail would be better suited if located by the soccer field off campus. Campus Intramurals rejects this idea because they feel it defeats the original purpose of the trail to provide an on campus alternative in exercise.

The Campus Intramurals faced similar problems when the two volleyball courts were trying to be placed in front of Stubbs dorm. Collim explained these courts have become a part of Longwood's campus and are widely used. He feels the fitness trail would also become an integral part of Longwood.

The particular fitness trail that the Campus Intramurals is looking into would cost approximately $3450 and the trail would be guaranteed for ten years by the manufacturer. Because of the cost, Intramurals is trying to get the school to finance the trail.

Collim and other students involved in the Intramurals department are going to continue pushing to get this trail on campus through student petitions.

Students Form Hemp Awareness Group

By THOMAS D. BIRCHETT, IV
Staff Reporter

Would you like to help save our planet? Our economy? Would you be willing to put aside your prejudices and spend a few minutes educating yourself to do it? The Organization for the Development of Hemp Awareness has been created here on campus to give you these opportunities.

An interest meeting was held on Friday, March 6, 1992. There were ten people in attendance. One was a guest from Delaware who is a member of Freedom Fighters, a national hemp awareness group.

The goal of the organization is to educate the public with facts about the hemp/marijuana plant and seed and the various uses they have and how they can benefit society.

President and co-founder George Edward Rust, III stated, "We do not advocate smoking marijuana. The purpose of our group is to educate not only Longwood, but the entire Farmville area about the environmental and economic benefits that marijuana can bring to this country. We hope that through this kind of education we are able to provide the public with the knowledge to make an informed decision about solving two of our inevitable problems in this nation — those two problems being an environment that is a one-time shot and an economy that is falling apart."

The group is currently writing to H.E.M.P. (Help End Marijuana Prohibition), B.A.C.H. (Business Alliance for Commerce in Hemp), and N.O.R.M.L. (National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws) for more information. They are also writing to our local Congressman asking him if he is aware of the benefits that hemp/marijuana can bring and if he has an opinion on the issue.

Anyone with questions about the group and those interested in attending the next meeting should contact Rust at 395-4047.

Student Elections Set

(Continued from page 1)

A major issue of this election will be commitment. SGA membership requires a strong commitment on the part of the officer, and the hope is that newly elected members will be serious about their role as a campus representative.

The officers will not only represent the students on a class level but also as a member of the SGA. As a member, these individuals will serve on committees that work to better Longwood College. Other responsibilities include weekly SGA office hours and the will to help out SGA in any way.

SGA members represent the students; therefore support in choosing these leaders is very important. If there are any questions about the elections, students can call the SGA office located in Lankford Student Union at 395-2111.

Safe Sex A Phone Call Away Thanks To 'Condom Men'

INDIANA, Pa. (CPS) – Students who find themselves in, well, romantic emergencies at Indiana University of Pennsylvania can just pick up the phone and, voila: there's a Condom Man at the door.

In rain, sleet or snow, the Condom Men promise quick, confidential delivery. All they ask is that you call at a reasonable hour.

Darryl Landfried, Scott Overbeck and John Reiter, who make up the board of directors and act as deliverymen for the thriving company, say business is hot.

"We're an alternative to the drugstore," Overbeck said.

In order to deter prank calls, the Condom Men ask for the caller's name, phone number and address, then they call the number back.

Overbeck reports that student response has been strong and that 85 percent of the condom requests are from women.

"We were very surprised by that fact," said Overbeck, who noted that his business doesn't advertise, and has relied only on features in The Penn, the student newspaper.

Overbeck said the trio's membership in the Association of College Entrepreneurs sparked their interest in forming the Condom Men, which has been so successful that they are thinking about expanding to other campuses.

"There's a good markup on condoms, though I would rather not tell you what," Overbeck said.

most widely used nationally by counselors and others who are addressing the concerns and needs of male secondary victims. The book includes the following points:

The Condom Men stock includes glow-in-the-dark condoms, which Overbeck describes as "a kind of vibrant yellow," keychains with condoms tucked inside, and discreet matchbooks "so you won't be embarrassed if it falls out of your purse."

Valentine's Day saw a rush on cupids with condoms hidden inside.

"Really, there's more demand for run-of-the-mill condoms," Overbeck said.

He said the company is downplaying the exotic protection items and selling more "standard," or high-quality, latex, condoms.

The Condom Men, who get high marks from local health agencies and AIDS support groups, can answer most questions dealing with sexually transmitted diseases and provide literature on safe sex practices if requested.

Overbeck recalls his first delivery with amusement.

"It was raining very hard. A girl had called. When I got there, I soaking wet, there was a poster on the door instructing me to slip the condom under the door. She slipped the money back. She was either extremely embarrassed – or unclothed."

Overbeck's parents, described by their son as conservative, found out about his unusual entrepreneurial operation about an hour before he was making a local television appearance as one of the Condom Men.

"I had to tell them. It was a necessity. They were fairly supportive," he said.

Most people call for condoms at a reasonable hours, said Overbeck, except for a recent call at 4 a.m.

"I told them to go to the drugstore," he said.

Men's Roles Ignored In Helping Rape Victims

(CPS) – They are perhaps the most important people in the lives of a recovering rape victim – and, unfortunately, they are usually the most neglected people in the healing process.

Men.

Fathers, boyfriends, brothers, husbands, male friends – men close to women who have been raped not only play a critical role in the victim's recovery, but face personal obstacles themselves as secondary victims.

"Men have a special role, and ironically they're often the ones left out," said Alan McEvoy, a sociology professor at Wittenberg University in Ohio and one of the nation's leading researchers of secondary victims of rape.

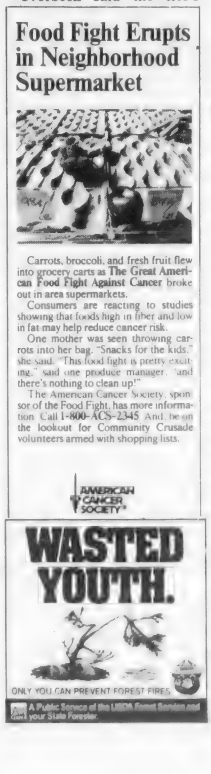
McEvoy said that a recent study he conducted shows that only 12 percent of rape crisis centers offer support services or support groups for men who are secondary victims of the crime.

"They make a critical difference," McEvoy said. "Time after time, victims say that their male significant other had the most impact on them" following the rape. "Like it or not, men are a part of the recovery process."

In his book "If She Is Raped," McEvoy and coauthor Jeff Brookings deal with some of the problems secondary victims face and how they can help the women they love through the aftermath of rape.

McEvoy's book is the one

•Many men falsely believe in rape myths – for example, the belief that the victim is partially responsible for the rape, or that the sexual act of the rape is the same as "making love." The book encourages men to completely disregard previous misconceptions about rape.



•Most men initially respond to rape with "intense anger and a strong desire to seek revenge." Although such feelings are completely normal, the book encourages men to control their anger because it simply adds an unnecessary emotional burden to the victim.

•Immediately following a rape, men should do several things — don't accuse or judge the victim or suggest in any way that she enjoyed the experience; reassure her that she is not responsible for the rape; and, because sexual assault robs women of a sense of control, men should allow women to decide what happens next – such as telling friends and family or pressing criminal charges.

•"Males often pass through a series of phases similar to those of the victim's Rape Trauma Syndrome," the book writes in a section on the impact of rape on men. "Included here are feelings of shock, confusion, intense anger and feelings of guilt and self-blame for 'failing to protect' a loved one. As a result, males also need to achieve resolution of the incident." The book strongly suggests that men talk about their feelings with a trusted friend and seek counseling. McEvoy said campus ministries as well as rape crisis centers are helpful.

McEvoy said men are often reluctant to seek help at rape crisis centers because many are called "women's centers" and because men generally "have a hard time showing emotional vulnerability."

"But this is not just a woman's problem, it's a male's problem as well as a female problem," McEvory said.

Study Shows Students Least Likely To Vote

(CPS) – A survey shows that college-age voters are the least likely to vote, but have the highest expectations of government.

Gregory Markus, a political science professor at the University of Michigan and a research scientist at the school's Institute for Social Research, bases that finding on a 1990 study the institute conducted on U.S. political attitudes.

The 1990 National Election Studies, one of the most comprehensive surveys on political beliefs in the country, noted that only 44 percent of people aged 18 to 24 were registered to vote and fewer than one in five reported voting in the November 1990 elections.

Only one in eight reported following news about government and public affairs "very closely" and 45 percent of 18- to 24-year olds said they "never" discuss politics with friends or family.

"Many of them regard themselves solely as the clientele of government, unencumbered by any 'romantic' notions such as civic duty or societal obligation," Markus concluded. "In their conception of citizen as 'customer,' citizenship comprises obeying laws and paying taxes, period. In return, government provides services demanded by the 'customer.'"

When compared to their older counterparts, the study showed that one in three Americans over the age of 34 follow government and public affairs very closely and that 79 percent of the same age group are registered to vote.

Markus concluded that, "Older citizens vote, while young ones, for the most part, do not. The results are predictable. Two of the largest items in the national budget – Social Security and Medicare – are programs whose primary beneficiaries are the elderly."

He adds, "To be sure, there is no guarantee that if young Americans start voting in greater numbers governmental priorities would change overnight. It is a virtual certainty, however, that unless the young take a more active role in determining who gets what, they will only get what's left."

NEWSBRIEF

University of Illinois Offers Students Free Vaccinations Against Meningitis

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (CPS) – The University of Illinois isn't taking chances after two students died last year of meningitis that resulted from a bacterial infection.

The Daily Illini reports that about 18,000 students have received free vaccinations for the bacteria that can cause meningitis, an inflammation of the lining of the brain, or blood infections.

So far this year, five University of Illinois students and a student at neighboring Parkland College have been infected by the bacteria.

According to the Centers for Disease Control, people are at risk of picking up the bacteria if they have recently had a viral infection or if they've been living in crowded surroundings.

Want A Small Pet? Here's One That's Sure To Drive Your Roommate Crazy

SAGINAW, Mich. (CPS) – Need some luck during finals week?

No problem – buy a cricket.

J'Aimee Products has just introduced its "Little Chirper" cricket cage – complete with cricket food, feeding dishes, grass carpeting and an "informative booklet that includes a sex chart to assist in identifying the sex of your pet cricket."

The company quotes Charles Dickens' "Cricket on the Hearth": "To have a cricket on the hearth is the luckiest thing in all the world."

To have a cricket in a dorm room works just as well, they say – and some might argue that the cricket's chirping may work better than caffeine or over the-counter "stay awake" drugs for those who need to pull an all-nighter.

The cages cost less than $10 and crickets cost about 10 cents at most pet stores.

Son Of Former Phillies Pitcher Acquitted of Date Rape Charge

PHILADELPHIA (CPS) – A jury has acquitted the son of a former Philadelphia Phillies pitcher accused of raping a Temple University student last September.

Mark McGraw, 19, son of Tug McGraw, maintained in court that his accuser consented to sex after she invited him to her apartment.

According to the victim, she did invite McGraw to her apartment and did go to bed with him, but didn't consent to sex. She told the jury that she fell asleep, then was awakened to find her overalls pulled below her knees and McGraw on top of her.

After the "not guilty" verdict was read, the woman appeared on a local television station, her identity shielded, and said she was happy she took the case to court.

"He knows what happened in the bedroom and I know what happened in the bedroom..." she said. "I have great peace of mind knowing that it will be more difficult for him to do this to another woman."

McGraw told reporters outside the courthouse that he was ready to get on with his life and that the trial should not have progressed as far as it did.

He maintained that he engaged in consensual sex with the 20-year-old woman, but stopped when she told him to.

NCAA Checks Athlete's Legal Fees

TAMPA, Fla., (CPS) – The National Collegiate Athletic Association is investigating whether a former University of South Florida basketball player accused of rape and battery received discounted legal fees.

The NCAA has asked the school to respond to a report that says Marvin Taylor received special benefits in the form of discounted legal services from an athletic booster who represented him in court.

Chancellor Charles Reed recently told the Florida Board of Regents that he didn't believe an NCAA violation had occurred.

According to NCAA rules, student athletes should be treated no differently than other students.

Last month, University of South Florida President Frank Borkowski apologized for the school's mishandling of rape allegations against Taylor. A Board of Regents inquiry revealed that Taylor continued to play despite allegations he had raped, harassed or battered six women.

The report charged that top university administrators knew of the charges and withheld information to allow Taylor to continue to play.

The school's athletic director recently resigned under pressure.

Medical Study Says Drug Users Don't Tell Truth About Habits

CHICAGO (CPS) – Drug users often don't tell the truth about their habit, says a study published in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The co-authors charge that the nation's drug problem is far worse than reported.

Researchers compared users' urine tests with answers on questionnaires and found that nearly three-quarters of those found to be using drugs denied doing so in the previous three days.

The study reflected that 39 percent of 415 men seen at an Atlanta clinic tested positive for cocaine.

Sally E. McNagny, coauthor of the study and a professor of medicine at Emory University School of Medicine, says the findings prove that President Bush's war on drugs is vastly underestimating the drug problem in the U.S.

The Bush administration has used interviews, a method that is highly inaccurate according to McNagny's study, to assess the nation's drug use.

"The federal agencies used the National Household Survey in 1988 and 1990 to assess the drug situation in the country, using a self-reporting method. I don't think they are reliable," she said.

Freshman Charged With Hacking

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (CPS) – The Florida Department of Law Enforcement has arrested a Florida Community College freshman for allegedly tampering with a company's computer network.

Thomas Harkey Jr. turned himself in Feb. 25 after police traced a Dec. 15 breach in the computer system of Cardinal Distribution Inc., an Ohio-based pharmaceutical company.

FDLE agents accused Harkey of randomly dialing 800 numbers to find another computer link, then breaking the computer's access codes and inserting his own. The computer breach shut down Cardinal's Buffalo office for two days. Agents said the foul-up cost the company $25,000.

Harkey faces felony and misdemeanor charges in connection with the computer breach, as well as misdemeanor charges of making and possessing materials for counterfeiting driver's licenses and unauthorized possession of a driver's license.

Brown Calls For Department of Educaton To Be Abolished

By JEFF GOLDFARB
CPS Washington Correspondent

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of profiles on the presidential candidates and their views on higher education.

WASHINGTON (CPS) – While he was governor of California, Edmund G. "Jerry" Brown claims he accomplished a great deal with regard to higher education.

During his administration, which started in 1972, Brown nearly doubled the funding for state universities and community colleges, and tripled money devoted to equal opportunity programs.

"I called for higher standards in high school, requiring three years of math and two years of science for graduates, with even more stringent requirements for the college bound," he said in a statement from his campaign office. "This led the California State and University systems to raise entrance requirements in math."

Now that he is running for the Democratic presidential nomination, the former governor has vowed to abolish the Department of Education.

"It is massive bureaucratic waste," he said. "It educates no student."

Brown said the savings from eliminating the department "should be returned to the states to improve classroom instruction."

Brown also said federal grants to college students are better than loans.

"What we're seeing is almost an invisible disease that is turning students into long-term, almost lifelong, debtors," he said.

In response to a United States Student Association questionnaire, Brown said he supported raising the maximum Pell Grant to $4,500 and expanding eligibility for Pell Grants to students from families with incomes between $30,000 and $50,000.

"As a nation we ought to make the commitment that anyone who can make the grade and fulfill the academic requirements ought to get the financial assistance to attend," he said.

In order to generate funds for increased grants, Brown told USSA he would "institute a flat tax and amnesty, cut government spending and shift funds, including substantial funds currently budgeted for the military, to education."

Also in the USSA survey, Brown said he would support House Resolution 271 and Senate Resolution 236, which ask President Bush to rescind the Department of Defense policy barring lesbians, gays and bisexuals from military service.

Because students frequently utilize the military as a means to pay for college, the issue has come to the forefront on campuses nationwide.

Brown advocates the introduction of sophisticated technology to the classroom. "There ought to be a computer on every student's desk in America," he said.

— FREE —
PREGNANCY TEST
116 N. Main St.
Mon. 9am-1pm
T&Th 2pm-6pm
All services confidential.
Same day results.
SOUTHSIDE PREGNANCY CENTER

24-HOUR HOTLINE
392-8483

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

START YOUR CLIMB
TO CAREER SUCCESS THIS SUMMER.

Apply now for six weeks of Army ROTC leadership training. With pay, without obligation.

You'll develop the discipline, confidence and decisiveness it takes to succeed in any career. And you'll qualify to earn Army officer credentials while you're completing your college studies.

LEADERSHIP EXCELLENCE

ARMY ROTC
TWO-YEAR PROGRAM

THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL
CAPTAIN GARY WITTEKIND AT 395-2134 OR COME BY ROOM 207, HINER BLDG.

COMICS

Wild Kingdom

By Anthony Rubino, Jr.

TYPES OF DADS

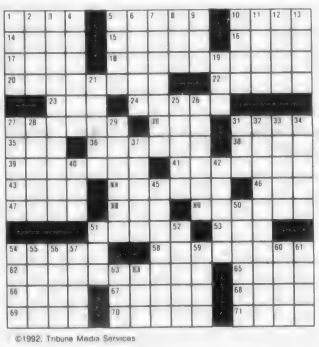
"When I was a boy of 14, my father was so ignorant... But when I got to be 21, I was astonished at how much he had learned in 7 years."—Mark Twain—

THINGS DADS SAY WHILE PAYING BILL

Turn that Damn music down!
Don't make me come over there!
You'll do it, and you'll like it!
Don't talk to your mother like that!
What do I look like? A bank?!
Oh God, please just take me now!!
Wipe that smirk off your face!
Go get me an aspirin.
Never mind what I do, just do what I say!
Tell mommy to fix me a little drink.
This is going to hurt me a lot more than it's going to hurt you

SNAP

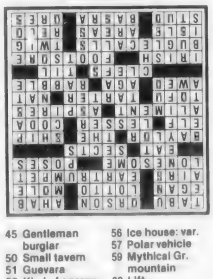
Spencer Green



Wolfbane

THE Crossword

by James R. Burns



©1992 Tribune Media Services

ACROSS
1 Forbidden
5 Comedian Bean
10 Pequod's skipper
14 Actor Richard
15 Relative of beano
16 Hidden spy
17 Affectations
18 Hearing aid of old
20 Desolate
22 Attitudes
23 Corrode
24 Denominations
27 Waco university
30 Article
31 Send off
35 Mischievous child
36 — Antilles
38 Musical ending
39 Food
41 Is ambitious
43 Soybean product
44 More caustic
46 Writer Hentoff
47 Greatly impressed
48 Turk. title
49 "— in Arms" (Roberts)
51 F and G
53 Sesame
54 Coffee or stew
58 Hiking tyro's condition
62 Tattoo and reveille
65 Offshoot
66 — of Man
67 Open spaces
68 Make over
69 Wall support
70 Iraqi port
71 Smelters' materials

DOWN
1 Fresh-water duck
2 Exchange premium
3 Sheriff Andy Taylor's deputy
4 Break open
5 Oil prefix
6 Ranges freely
7 Roads
8 Baseball Mel
9 Correlative
10 Shot and shell
11 Social dances
12 Away from wind
13 Stakes
19 Raises
21 Crept quietly
25 Defraud
26 More concise
27 Blessed woman
28 Grant as true
29 Kind of car
31 School subj.
32 Forestry mariner
33 Model
34 Fake jewelry
37 Produce
40 Kids' pie ingredient
42 Brooklyn institute
45 Gentleman burglar
50 Small tavern
51 Guevara
52 Kind of energy
54 Sacred bird of Egypt
55 Reddish-brown
56 Ice house: var.
57 Polar vehicle
59 Mythical Gr. mountain
60 Lift
61 Selves
63 Hackney
64 Macaw

ANSWERS

NOTICES

ATTENTION ALL LONGWOOD STUDENTS

The Department of English, Philosophy and Modern Languages will offer language placement exams on the following dates: (Please note that enrolling in 201 or 202 language courses requires the appropriate Placement Exam score or having completed the PREREQUISITE. The prerequisite for 201 is 102 and the prerequisite for 202 is 201.)

Placement exam:

Tues., March 24 – FRENCH PLACEMENT EXAM – Lancaster 113

Wed., March 25 – GERMAN PLACEMENT EXAM – Lancaster 113

Thurs., March 26 – SPANISH PLACEMENT EXAM – Lancaster 113

The department also strongly recommends that you do not put off completing your language requirement. Your placement score will be calculated for you before you pre-register for Fall semester 1992 classes.

If you have any questions please contact the Department of English, Philosophy and Modern Languages at 395-2155 or Dr. Moore at 395-2180.

NATIONAL COLLEGE POETRY CONTEST

open to all college & university students desiring to have their poetry anthologized. Cash prizes will be awarded the top five poems. Deadline: March 31. For further information send SASE to: International Publications, PO Box 44044-L, Los Angeles, CA 90044.

NOTICES

FOR SALE

19" COLOR TV – Cable ready– In good condition. Only $95. Call 395-3260 if interested.

HELP WANTED

Applications are now available for Summer Conference Supervisors and Desk Aide Positions. Applications are available in the Dean's of Students Office. For more information, contact Steve Dealph at 2118 or Mike Herndon at 2514.

NOTICE

The Library wishes to notify students that Record Blocks for Fall Registration are being posted. These record blocks involve unresolved overdue fines and lost book charges for the period March 1991 – March 1992. Students must take fine receipts to the Treasurer's Office to clear record blocks before Registration on March 30, 1992.

ATTENTION FOOD BINGERS: If you have been in a cycle of gorging on food and then purging either by vomiting, laxatives, diuretics, continual dieting and fasting, or exercise, you often feel unable to break this cycle.

IF YOU ARE INTERESTED in joining a group for students struggling with this behavior pattern or would like further information please call Cyndy at (395-2409) in the Counseling Center.

Live interview with Dr. Woods Thursday, March 26th from 8 10 p.m. Calls will be accepted. Studio Line: 395-2475.

PERSONALS

Melissa N. — I heard you like "bird" watching N hump days! — Big Brother

ΔΣπ Pledges — Congratulations to all the Delta Sigma Pi Pledges: Mary Boswell, Becky Bradford, Carol Cooper, Karen Damper, Todd Evers, Scott Moore, Maria Pierson, Joe Reynolds, Stephanie Stephens, Jarred Wainwright, and Dean Farmer. You are all doing a great job, keep up the good work and don't stress!!!! — Love the Brothers of Delta Sigma Pi Fraternity

PERSONALS

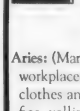
SubGenius Church of Plaid Broadcast every Monday at Midnight. Three hours of TOTAL SLACK.

Lori — Glad to see you made it back to Longwood safely. — J and T

Andy and Sharon — Stop playing and hook up. — The love connection

ΑΣπ Pledges — Good luck with pledging and keep up the good work! — Your Pledge Mom

J. T. — You've got the awesomest B.B.O.C. — 1st North Ladies



ATTENTION SENIORS

Longwood's Admissions Office anticipates employing an admissions counselor beginning on or about mid-July and ending in May 1993. High energy, good communications skills, and active involvement while at Longwood are prerequisites for successful candidates.

Salary $1606.00 per month, no benefits, all travel expenses paid. Must be willing to work at Admissions programs on weekends and evenings.

Interested candidates should submit a resume to:
Dr. Judy, Vogt,
Associate Director of Admissions
Longwood College

YourRealHoroscope

by Ruby Wyner-lo
A.A.B.P.certified Astrologer

SubGenius Church of Plaid Broadcast every Monday at Midnight. Three hours of TOTAL SLACK.

Aries: (Mar. 21–Apr. 20) You will master the pipe organ and land a job at England's largest Catholic church. Wear dark socks.

Gemini: (May 21–June 21) Your friends will comment that your personable warmth and sense of humor remind them of Milton Berle.

Cancer: (June 22–July 22) The cry of the ptarmigan will awaken you from sleep, moving you to lust for birds, chickens, and other land fowl.

Leo: (July 23–Aug. 22) The U.S. Bureau of Weights and Measures Secretary will call you with a special assignment.

Virgo: (Aug. 23–Sept. 22) Your "Hägar the Horrible" impression will induce howling laughter from friends, family and clergy.

Libra: (Sept. 23–Oct. 23) The loud heavy metal music your neighbor plays on his hi-fi is his way of telling you, "I'm happy! I'm happy!"

Taurus: (Apr. 20–May 20) You will master the pipe organ and land a job at England's largest Catholic church. Wear dark socks.

Gemini: (May 21–June 21) Your friends will comment that your personable warmth and sense of humor remind them of Milton Berle.

Cancer: (June 22–July 22) The cry of the ptarmigan will awaken you from sleep, moving you to lust for birds, chickens, and other land fowl.

Leo: (July 23–Aug. 22) The U.S. Bureau of Weights and Measures Secretary will call you with a special assignment.

Virgo: (Aug. 23–Sept. 22) Your "Hägar the Horrible" impression will induce howling laughter from friends, family and clergy.

Libra: (Sept. 23–Oct. 23) The loud heavy metal music your neighbor plays on his hi-fi is his way of telling you, "I'm happy! I'm happy!"

Scorpio: (Oct. 24–Nov. 21) Your workplace stress. clothes and run around the office yelling, "I'm happy! I'm happy!"

Sagittarius: (Nov. 22–Dec. 21) An expensive palm reading will reveal that you are dumb.

Capricorn: (Dec. 22–Jan. 19) Leave an obscene message on Crispin Glover's answering machine.

Aquarius: (Jan. 20–Feb. 18) A meteor will fall to earth and destroy all life on the planet. It will later be discovered to have been your fault.

Pisces: (Feb. 19–Mar. 20) You will live forever. Stock up on word-search books.

In step with modern times, Ruby Wyner-lo's astrological predictions are generated with the help of her personal computer, which analyzes data gathered via modem from astronomical observatories from all over the world. This personal information concerning your life is sold to direct-mail companies.

Campus Calendar

SPRING WEEKEND
APRIL 3, 4, & 5!

Information on events should be submitted to the Student Union Office in Lankford by the Friday preceding the appropriate issue of the paper.

Wednesday March 25

Lacrosse: Oberlin, 4pm, 1st Ave. Field.

Rotunda Staff Meeting: We need you - come join us! 6 pm Lancaster B27

Thursday March 26

Intramurals: Weekend Mixed DBLS BADM. EB due.

Resume Writing: 1pm CPPC.

Lancer Productions: General Meeting. 1:15 pm Conf. II

Lacrosse: Plymouth State. 3pm, 1st Ave. Field

SGA: Open Meeting. 6 pm Conf. I

Friday March 27

LP Movie: 101 Dalmations & Jungle Book, 9:00 pm Gold Room

Saturday March 28

Intramurals: Weekend Mixed DBLS BADM.

Women's Tennis: Averett, 1pm, Lancer Courts

Lacrosse: Guilford, 1pm, 1st Ave. Field

Sunday March 29

Baseball: Wofford (2), Noon, Halifax Co. High School in South Boston

Faculty Recital: Thomas Williams, baritone, 8pm, Wygal.

Monday March 30

Business Lecture: William G. Reynolds, 7:30 pm, TBA

LP Movie: 101 Dalmations & Jungle Book, 9:00 pm Gold Room

Tuesday March 31

Clinic: Meningitis Vaccine Part II. 10am-4pm, Lankford.

Baseball: Onconta State (2), 1pm, Golubic Stadium in Crewe.

Lecture: Pianist Judith Radell on Women Composers. 1:15pm. Concert 8pm, Wygal..

Men's Tennis: Ferrum, 4pm, Lancer Courts.

SPORTS

Barbara Smith Retiring

Dr. Barbara Smith, one of the top collegiate women golf coaches in the country, will retire as coach of Longwood's NCAA Division II women's team at the end of the current year.

"It's time," said Dr. Smith. "There are lots of reasons. I've got a ton of things I want to do. I'd like to have time to start playing golf again, myself."

The dean of Longwood coaches, Dr. Smith has been both coach and teacher at the Farmville college for 25 years. Two years back Dr. Smith led Longwood to the National Golf Coaches Association Division II National Championship for the third time in four years. The current Longwood team is also rated number one in Division II.

The three tourney titles are just another feather in the cap for Dr. Smith, who has been named LPGA "Coach of the Year" twice in the '80's. Dr. Smith first gained the honor in 1983, and she won it again for 1989.

In addition to the NGCA titles, Dr. Smith has led Longwood to 135 victories in 25 years while winning almost every honor available to collegiate women's golf coaches. She is past chair of the NCAA Women's Golf Committee and served as a member of the committee for six years. She has also served on the National Small College Committee.

The NCAA's Mid-Atlantic East Region Coach of the Year in 1987, Dr. Smith was a co-coach with the victorious United States team in the U.S.-Japan golf competition in December, 1986. She was the first coach outside the Division I ranks to be picked to work with the U.S. team in Japan. She was previously chosen Mid-Atlantic Region Coach of the Year in 1985.

Her record of success has been consistent over the years. Longwood has finished first, second or third in national tournaments nine of the past 11 seasons. LC golfers have been named All-American 25 times in that same span and 11 Lady Lancers have qualified for national tournament play on an individual basis. LC golfers have been named to national All-Academic teams 7 times.

Dr. Smith's best golfer Tina Barrett, now in her fourth year on the LPGA tour, has won more than $200,000. Barrett credits Dr. Smith with helping her develop confidence and consistency and still consults with her for golf tips and advice.

An LPGA rules official, Dr. Smith is a member of the LPGA Teaching Division, Class A, and is LPGA teaching professional at Longwood Golf Course. She received the Longwood College Board of Visitors Distinguished Service Award in 1972 and was named Longwood Female Coach of the Year in 1979 and again in 1987 and 1988.

Dr. Smith earned her B.S. degree from Limestone College, her M.A. from the University of North Carolina and her doctorate from UNC Greensboro. She was the first Limestone graduate to earn a doctorate in physical education.

Men's Tennis Team Struggles After Hilton Head

By ALEX RODRIGUEZ
Sports Reporter

Longwood men's tennis team dropped its third match of the season, losing to King's College of Pennsylvania on March 13.

This was Longwood's third match since returning from Hilton Head, S.C. where it travelled to prepare for the opening of the season. The trip to Hilton Head was designed to take advantage of the good February weather that Hilton Head has compared to Farmville. The team practiced for three days, before ending the trip with an exhibition match with Low Country Technical College who were ranked fourth nationally among community colleges.

The trip allowed the players to tune-up their game and practice on different types of playable surfaces. It also allowed them to develop some consistency to better their singles and doubles game. Coach Stan Cieplinski viewed the trip as a great success, citing the amount of practice, match-play, and work that was accomplished by the team. He was very optimistic about this season saying "the team has more depth than last year", which hopefully will result in more victories.

Longwood returned home to open their season with a match against local rival Hampden-Sydney. The match ended in a 7-0 loss for the Lancers but the match was more evenly contested than the score proved to show. Longwood lost several close matches. Hunter Reynolds and Russ Bolen both lost in the third and final set and James Whitetree lost in two tiebreakers 7-6(7-5), 7-6(7-5). The match was called due to darkness with the score incomplete at 7-0 and Longwood leading in two out of the three doubles matches. The team was upset with the loss but was happy with the competitive play it exhibited.

Longwood's next match was with Indiana (Pa.). The Lancers played much better but still found themselves on the short end of the scorecard, losing 5-4. The score was much improved over last year's when Longwood was only able to muster up one win. Coach Cieplinski was happy with the match but said, "We need to get more wins in singles competition and stop relying on doubles to pull us through." Longwood wins came from James Whitetree 6-2, 6-2 and Brian Hill 6-4, 6-4. In doubles, wins came from Chris Healing and Russ Bolen 7-5, 6-4 and Hunter Reynolds and Joel Subido 6-4, 6-4.

Longwood went on spring break losing another match to King's College 9-0. Longwood was unable to adapt to the windy conditions and showed a little impatience when it came to key points in the match. Overall, the team has vastly improved over last year's team. Coach Cieplinski is pleased with the doubles play and feels if they can capture a few more singles matches, the victories will soon follow. Longwood's next match is against Newport News on the 27th of March.

Litton Named Player of the Week

ANA LITTON

Sophomore center field Ana Litton, who battled .429 with a home run and two runs batted in, has been named Longwood Player of the Week for the period March 1-March 8. Player of the Week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.

Litton, team most valuable player last season, went 3-7 in a doubleheader against UNC Greensboro last Tuesday. She hit a home run in the first inning of the nightcap as well as a run-scoring single in the fourth inning of an 8-4 loss. Longwood dropped the opener 8-0 as Litton collected a single.

In a game against Louisburg Junior College on Wednesday, Litton contributed a single, RBI, and a run scored as the Lady Lancers won a thrilling 7-6 decision in nine innings.

"I'm real pleased with Ana's transition from basketball to softball," commented coach Loretta Coughlin. "She's been ve effective, both offensively ar defensively. Ana has picked u where she left off last season."

Last spring, Litton hit .3 with a school-record eight do bles. She also added 19 ru and 14 RBIs. basketball player as well, Litt was Longwood's 1990-91 Fema Freshman Athlete of the Year.

A sociology major, Litton a tended James Wood High Sch in Winchester.

Lady Lancers Sweep Eastern Mennonite

Longwood's softball team swept a doubleheader from visiting Eastern Mennonite Monday afternoon by scores of 15-5 and 12-2, as both games ended in the sixth inning due to the 10-run rule at Farmville's Armory Field.

Coach Loretta Coughlin's squad carried a record of 3-2 into a Wednesday afternoon doubleheader at Lynchburg College beginning at 2:30.

In the first game, EM jumped to an early 4-1 lead after three innings before Longwood exploded for 10 runs in the bottom of the fourth in gaining the 15-5 triumph. The Lady Lancers sent 13 batters to the plate, gaining their 10 earned runs on eight hits.

Senior Cassie Mullenix, junior Jen Brady, and freshman Becky Condrey singled to load the bases. Freshman designated hitter Kirsten Reller then singled to drive in Mullenix and Brady. Classmate Lorri Payne singled to score Condrey followed by sophomore Ana Litton's single scoring Reller. After a walk to freshman Mari Willen, senior Chris Gronke singled driving in Payne.

Mullenix reached base for the second time in the inning on a fielder's choice as Litton scored. A bases loaded walk to Brady forced in Willen. With the bases still full, Condrey promptly smacked a three-run triple to close out the Longwood outburst and an 11-4 LC advantage.

The Lady Lancers added two runs in the fifth as Willen and Gronke each singled and lat scored on a two-run single Mullenix. In the sixth, Longwo supplied two more runs Brady reached on an err ahead of a double by Condr with both scoring on a gam ending triple by Payne.

The opener saw Condrey go 4 with a triple, double, thr runs batted in, and two ru scored. Payne was 3-4 with triple, three RBI's, and two ru Willen 3-3 with two runs; a Mullenix 2-4 with two RBI's a two runs scored.

Longwood scored five runs both the second and sixth nings of the nightcap en rout the 12-2 victory. Senior La Marks paced the win going including a game-ending producing single in the six Marks scored two runs as we

Others leading the att were Gronke, 2-4 with a ho and double for three runs sc and two RBI's; Litton, 2-4 two RBI's and a run scored; Payne, 2-4 with a run sc and RBI.

"I was very pleased and pr of our pitching today," c mented Coughlin. "The wea conditions were tough, and (the pitchers) came through us."

In the opener, sophomore drea Wrenn went six inni giving up three earned run five hits with five walks a strikeout. Junior Cathy Bi pitched six innings in the se game allowing no earned on just four hits. Brown wa six and struckout two.

Lancer Links Having Rough Spring

Longwood's men's golf squad finished eighth of eight teams last Wednesday at the Slippery Rock (PA) invitational in Cairo, GA.

Coach Steve Nelson's Lancers scored a 54-hole total of 320-328-320-968 in the two-day tournament won by Troy State in a playoff over Jacksonville State. Both schools finished with 893's after regulation play.

Florida State was third, 900; South Carolina-Aiken fourth, 917; Slippery Rock 'A' fifth, 919; Florida Atlantic sixth, 922; and slippery Rock 'B' seventh, 960.

Longwood was paced by junior Frank Davide's 79-80-78-237. Classmates Steve Crute and John Benton fired 77-80-84-241 and 84-84-76-244 respectively; and sophomore Jimmy Ward a 80-84-82-246. Others participating for the Lancers included freshmen Jason Johnson (87-84-84-255) and Scott Westenhofer (87-86-85-258). JSU's Mike Butler was the individual champion with a 218.

Longwood returns to action this weekend as they play in the Camp Lejeune Marine Tournament in Jacksonville, NC Friday through Sunday.

Lady Golfers Resume Play

The Longwood women's golf team resumes spring play this week at the Peggy Kirk Bell invitational in Orlando, Fla. and the Northern Illinois Huskie Classic in Tampa, but the Lady Lancers are already looking ahead to the NGCA Division II National Championship May 4-6 in Fayetteville, N.C. LC has won the NGCA title three of the past five years, but was runnerup last year.

Longwood, second in the Winthrop Invitational Feb. 17-18, plays in the Peggy Kirk Bell event Monday and Tuesday at Tuskawilla Golf Course in Orlando. The scene shifts to Pebble Creek Country Club in Tampa Thursday and Friday for the Northern Illinois Huskie Classic.

The Lady Lancers, who averaged 321.8 strokes per 18 holes as a team in the fall, will be competing with mostly Division I teams in both tournaments.

Longwood senior Ami Schonauer topped the individual fall stroke averages with a 78.5. She was followed by freshman Brenda Campbell-Harris at 81.1, freshman Charlaine Coetzee 82.1, senior Sherry Evans 82.2 and junior Anna Radford 82.8.

Schonauer was Longwood's top golfer in four of five fall tournaments. She had eight of 13 rounds in the 70's with no score higher than 83. In addition to her showing at UNCG, Ami tied for second in the Tina Barrett-Longwood invitational with a 75-79-154 and was fourth at the Penn State Tournament at 75-79-80-234.

Lady Lancers Ranked First In Division II

Longwood is ranked first among Division II women's golf teams in the nation, according to the February NCAA Women's Golf Rankings compiled by Golfstat in Bloomington, IL.

Based on the five tournament appearances and 13 rounds of fall play, coach Barbara Smith's squad has a 28.23 formula ranking and a 15.0 low differential. Ranked behind Longwood are: Rollins, Ferris State, Hardin-Simmons, Indianapolis, Mankato State, South Dakota State, Winona State, St. Cloud State and Northeast Missouri.

Longwood, which has won the NGCA Division II Tournament three of the past five years, ranks 54th out of all NCAA women's golf teams, including Division I. LC is also ranked seventh in the Mideast District.

Schonauer is rated first among Division II individuals and teammates Campbell-Harris, Coetzee, Evans and Radford earned rankings among the top eight.

Lady Lancer Lacrosse Wins 13-4

By GREG PROUTY

Longwood's lacrosse team evened its 1992 record at 1-1 Monday afternoon with a 13-4 triumph over visiting Earlham (Indiana) College at First Avenue Field.

Seniors Lara Cini and Ellen Binswanger paced the victory with four goals each, with Cini adding two assists as well. Sophomore Anita Warford scored two goals, while junior Kathryn Caricofe, and sophomores Kim Chapman and Nora Lamb each added a goal. Chapman also contributed three assists for the Lady Lancers.

Longwood, which led 6-2 at the intermission, was led on defense by senior Alisa Bricklin's 10 ground balls and junior Denise Hanley's eight. Bricklin also drew five controls, while junior goalkeeper Barbie Partlow had four saves.

"I was very pleased with our efforts," commented coach Sandy Bridgeman. "We utilized some good playing combinations with excellent passing."

With the triumph, the Lady Lancers began a five-game swing spanning seven days. Fortunately, four of those contests are at home. Longwood will host Oberlin (Ohio) College Wednesday at 4 p.m. and Plymouth State (New Hampshire) College Thursday at 3 p.m., both games at First Avenue Field.

Lancer Wrestling Trio Stopped At Nationals

By GREG PROUTY

Longwood's dreams of having its first All-American in wrestling came to a halt at the NCAA Division II National Championships at Northern Colorado University in Greeley, Colorado.

The Lancer trio of senior's Ted Proctor, Kevin McSherry, and freshman Ryan Stefanko were all eliminated on the first day of action.

Proctor made it to the consolations at 167, where he lost 10-7 to Springfield's Jeff Butts. Earlier, Proctor defeated the number six seed, Wisconsin-Parkside's Troy Brockman 6-4 in the first round before losing 11-3 to North Dakota State's Lance Koenig in the quarterfinals.

McSherry was pinned in the first round by the number eight seed at 150, Augustana's Clayton McIlravy in 1:22. In the next round, McSherry lost a tough 6-4 overtime decision to California-Davis' Dwight Weevie.

Stefanko drew the number one seed at 134 and lost by a technical fall 17-2 to Southern Colorado's Mark Billalobas in the first round. Stefanko dropped a close 12-11 decision to Ferris State's Eric McCourt in the next round.

"Our wrestlers learned a lot this weekend," commented coach Steve Nelson. "We are very pleased with our success this season. We realize though that we have to work hard to become more competitive at this level."

Proctor closes out his career with an 82-35-1 record, second only to Tim Fitzgerald's (86) 84-38-1 record at Longwood. Proctor was a four-time state champion and two-time national qualifier.

McSherry finishes with a 50-35-2 career mark, and was a two-time state champion in addition to qualifying for the nationals. Stefanko ended his freshman campaign with a record of 17-12.

The Original

These trend-setters are genuine classics; they offer the same great look and performance they did when they were first introduced in the Fifties. They're the one you've seen so often in movies and magazines worldwide, and they provide 100% ultraviolet protection, too.

MARTIN OPTICAL COMPANY, INC.
"Third Generation of Eyecare"
110 Fourth Street
Farmville, Virginia 23901

THE ROTUNDA

VOL. 71, NO. 16 | LONGWOOD COLLEGE | APRIL 1, 1992

Photograph by John DiMauro

Academic Dishonesty: A Sign Of The Times?

By KAREN NEUSTADT

(CPS) – Fierce competition for jobs and higher grades and poor leadership models have created a fertile climate for cheating, say college and university officials who are grappling with new ways to deal with an old problem.

Worried educators say some of today's college students, exposed to a painful recession in a get-rich-quick society and numbed by scandals such as congressional check-bouncing, are asking themselves: What's wrong with cheating?

"One of the reasons that (cheating is) increasing is the perception that the students' future job opportunities are closely linked to how well they perform in terms of grades," said Robert Dorff, faculty senate chairmen at North Carolina State University.

"When pressure mounts, some feel that pressure and respond by cheating," he said, adding that today's faculty members are being urged to be more creative with testing procedures to make cheating "less enticing."

Not only is academic dishonesty growing, but there is more discussion about it than ever before. "Both of these forces are coming together and making it a more apparent problem," Dorff said.

One New Jersey student doesn't see cheating as a problem. In fact, he's making a tidy profit off of the current GPA paranoia.

Michael Moore, a Rutgers University journalism student, recently raised eyebrows with his 86-page book, titled "Cheating 101: The Benefits and Fundamentals of Earning the Easy 'AA'," that details methods of cheating, including hiding notes in the holes of torn jeans and using foot signals to convey answers on multiple choice questions.

Moore reported, in an article in "Campus Crime" (January 1992), that he has sold 1,750 copies of his book ($6 each) to students at Rutgers, the University of Maryland and Ohio State University.

Some professors say Moore's blatant effort to promote deceit has brought cheating, often an unspoken, seldom-addressed problem, into the light.

Educators often refuse to admit the amount of cheating that may be going on in their classes, said one source, and may not want to know the hard facts.

In 1987 and 1988, the American Council on Education, in conjunction with the University of California at Los Angeles asked students about their cheating habits in a comprehensive survey, "The American Freshman."

About 37 percent of the students surveyed in the fall of 1988 said they had cheated on a test in high school, an increase from about 30 percent the year before.

About 57 percent said they had copied another student's work, while about 52 percent admitted doing so the year before.

That was the last year any reference to cheating was included in the survey.

"We don't plan on bringing them up (the question) again," said Ellen Riggs, a researcher with the Higher Education Research Center at UCLA. "The general reaction from the schools were not the most positive. Some advised students not to answer the questions."

Michael Moffatt, associate professor of anthropology at Rutgers University, said his intensive study of cheating left him shocked and "in a funk?" He said he received only a lukewarm response from his colleagues.

"I found that 33 percent (of students) had been involved in considerable cheating. That means cheating in three to 25 courses with an average of eight courses, and 22 percent had never cheated in college. The "in-betweens" cheated once or twice," said Moffatt.

Moffatt's investigation included 400 Rutgers students who turned in anonymous "self-reports" on subjects such as sexuality and cheating. The results of the cheating question spurred him to write a 22-page report.

"I received a great number of graphic papers that were in many ways more shocking than the sexual self-reports. It threw me into a funk," he said.

The students' future job opportunities are closely linked to how well they perform in terms of grades... When pressure mounts, some feel that pressure and respond by cheating."

Students confided to Moffatt that they cheated to get minimal grades to survive, to get revenge on a disliked professor, or because they were angry because others performed better academically without much effort.

Moffatt said cheating often takes such an emotional and mental toll that it would be easier to study. "They are in terror of being caught," he said of cheaters. "They will fight against the accusation."

The professor said he has identified five commonly used cheating techniques from the "lookabout," where answers are borrowed from a neighbor, to "ripple cheating," which can consist of elaborate, premeditated schemes with many involved.

Cheat sheets are so common that Moffatt actually legalized them in his class. Students are allowed to bring in one 8-by-10 inch of paper with as much written on it as the space can contain. "It encourages me to not ask stupid questions," he said.

Cheating also takes other forms, such as plagiarism, paying someone to take a test or write a paper, or buying an already completed term paper.

While many campuses wrestle with the problem of cheating, students at the University of Virginia are celebrating the 150th birthday of the nation's oldest student-run honor system.

For one week, beginning March 27, students take part in a four-day conference on honor and integrity in the academic environment. The topic is discussed at luncheons, dinners, lectures and seminars.

Founded in 1842, Virginia's honor system is simple: no lying, cheating or stealing. There is only one punishment; students found guilty of an offense by juries of their peers are dismissed from the university.

While Virginia's drastic disciplinary measures may not wash on some campuses, many are tightening up their honor codes.

In 1985, when officials at the University of Delaware surveyed the student body and discovered that 78 percent admitted to cheating they immediately revamped their honor code.

Now students caught cheating receive a grade of "XF" on their transcripts. Cheating cases are evaluated by a student board, which is known to be tougher on fellow students because they see themselves as victims of cheating.

The University of Maryland also gives students an "XF" grade which remains on the student transcript for a full year. After completing a non credit six-week course on academic integrity, the students can petition to have the "X" removed.

The spotlight has been on academic integrity for the past several years.

"Officials say students seem increasingly willing to do anything to get ahead," reports an article on academic dishonesty that appeared in the Chronicle of Higher Education (Jan. 17, 1990).

"The students are frightened about the job market. They're searching for the pre-wealth curriculum. The value of money is more important to them than a code of honesty and a sense of responsibility," said Arthur Levine, chairman of the Institute for Education management at Harvard University, in the same article.

Bus Service Up; Underuse By Students Still A Problem

By TRICIA ANN POPULAR
Staff Reporter

One weekend at Hampden-Sydney College, a Longwood student was partying with her friends and having a good time.

As the evening went by, it got late and she soon wanted to head back to campus. There was only one problem. She could not find her friends or her car, and she was incredibly intoxicated. She had no way of getting back to campus until she saw the Farmville Bus. Needless to say this student got home safely and worried about her car and friends the next day. But as responsible students and responsible drinkers ask yourselves one question: What would have happened if this student did find her car?

Michael Socha was a student at Longwood College and is the backbone behind the bus system. He majored in social work and is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity. He is from New Jersey and as a student he had no access to an automobile.

He is familiar with the Longwood and Hampden-Sydney lifestyles, and in order to make them more enjoyable he helped start the bus system for the students. Socha mentioned his college experiences of playing golf and rugby, and his realization that students without cars would not like walking to the golf course or rugby field like he did, encouraged him to create the Farmville Area Bus.

The bus system began operating in August of 1990. Socha started with 18 drivers, although they were not the most professional. The system changed quickly and now the drivers go through a seminar and hands on training. The drivers combined have a total of over 8,000 accident free driving hours. Socha knows now that he has the most qualified drivers ever. In 1990, the bus transported 32,000+ people and in 1991, the buses have transported a total of 40,000+, a significant increase.

Farmville Area Bus has been cited by the Secretary of Transportation as having one of the best schedules and being the simplest to use. Socha emphasizes that the service is most important and he wants to be as accommodating as possible.

There seems to be a few questions, though. Faculty from Longwood once believed that the bus "gave the ride out (to H-SC) but there was no way back." Though at one time this was true, it is no longer correct.

Socha states that most students need be only concerned about the Red line. The Red line runs between Longwood and Hampden-Sydney. Socha stresses the regularity of the system, and notes that the only reason for any type of delay or change of route is due to construction or traffic.

Longwood College budgets the bus system $45,000 and Hampden-Sydney budgets $17,000 based on the student population at each campus. Socha wants students to take advantage of The Farmville Bus. He states that other colleges such as VA Tech, UVA, NOVA, and W&M, use the local bus system as a mode of transportation. These bus systems work into the students' everyday schedule.

He feels the bus is not put to good use because students are unfamiliar with the schedule. He gives one bit of advice, "DON'T READ THE MAP." This is what confuses students more. Be familiar with the times and the scheduled stops on the small red cards.

Socha read the a recent issue of The Rotunda and he found one thing very disturbing. A student complained about harassment from town people when walking home from DT's or Perini's. The student wrote about safety on campus, and mentioned the need for escort services and more police. Socha asks one question, "Why don't these girls get on the bus?" He states that he purposely changed the route so now the bus passes both of these locations.

There was an incident where a bus broke down in front of The Deli. The Bus driver radioed the police for assistance. The students on the bus were intoxicated. They panicked and fled before the police arrived.

Socha wants to make clear that when you are on The Bus, no one will "mess with you." You are not going to get in trouble. The Bus is there to get you home safely. When these students jumped off the bus and walked home, they ran a big risk to their life.

Finally, Socha wants to let the students know of the extra occasions where the bus can be useful. The bus takes students to Wedgewood, the Creamery, and to the cabin. He knows that there is alcohol and limited parking for sporting events, so why not take advantage of the utilities.

Socha says that he will change the route to best meet the needs of the students. He will also arrange personal transportation for a direct ride if you call. The Bus will take sororities out to Hampden-Sydney to tailgate at football games. He knows there are bands after the games, so he gives the option of taking the Red line back or arranging

(Continued on page 3)

Freshman Applications On The Rise Despite Budget Cuts & Tuition Hikes

By DINA M. DAWSON
Staff Reporter

Recent media claims have maintained that state supported schools, during the next academic year, will be admitting considerably less freshmen due to financial problems.

The stories assumed that with the increase in Virginia's financial difficulties the amount of money granted to collegiate institutions would be less in the 1992-1993 academic year than the amount granted during the 1991-1992 year. Larger state supported institutions, such as Radford and Virginia Tech, may certainly be finding validity in such a statement.

However, Longwood has found itself in a different boat when compared to other institutions within the state of Virginia. While it is true that some schools such as Virginia Tech have announced a cutback in the freshman class by 300 persons, Mr. Bob Chonko, Director of Admissions at Longwood, estimated next year's freshmen class to be "maybe 650 persons" compared to 636 freshman accepting in the fall of 1991, and 600 freshmen accepted in the fall of 1990.

It was estimated that close to 3,000 freshmen would apply to Longwood for admission next spring, and at this time the number of applicants submitted is about eight percent ahead of the number submitted at exactly this time last year.

The amount of applications submitted this year has taken the admission's house by surprise as the amount of students graduating from high schools this year was predicted to be the "smallest high school graduating class" that Virginia has seen in quite awhile, with only about 59,000 students.

The increase in the number of applicants means that "standards are taken up," raising the SAT score required for admission to Longwood as well as a student's grade point average.

Mr. Chonko says that he credits the increase of applications to the economy. With very few good jobs available, Mr. Chonko stated that people are "ducking into school and trying to buy time" and that Longwood may be popular because, despite the budget cuts, no cutbacks have been taken in any of the academic departments. Mr. Chonko also stated that he felt the ability to handle budget cuts in such a way was a sure sign of a "stable institution."

However, with the new dollar figures proposed by the House and Senate Conference Committee it appears that Longwood will again have to deal with additional budget cuts. The committee proposed that Longwood be given $175,000 next year for the purchase of a main frame computer system along with hardware and software, $38,239 for fixing the humidity problem in the Wygal Building, and $75,000 to be used for building maintenance.

The same committee also proposed several budget cuts, such as a reduction of $10,560 which will eliminate the state support for remedial education courses. According to Mr. Rick Hurley, vice-president of Business Affairs, Longwood will still continue to have classes. The state, however, will no longer continue to pay for them.

An additional budget cut of $20,000 was proposed that would effect several centers at Longwood, such as the Small Business Development Center, but that would not go into effect until the 1993-1994 academic year and a third budget cut was proposed of $11,000 which pays some of the administrative help here at Longwood.

While Longwood will suffer some budget cuts Mr. Hurley stated that we should be pleased with the amount proposed for the next academic year. If $175,000 had not been proposed for a new computer system Mr. Hurley stated that "It would have come out of our pockets and that's $175,000 the students don't have to pay."

However, students can expect costs to rise to cover the budget cuts proposed as Mr. Hurley added that "It has a bad effect on students and their families."

DAYLIGHT SAVINGS TIME BEGINS
APRIL 5,1992

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
Features 3
News 4
Comics 5
Sports 6

COMMENTARY

OPINION

Banned Skateboarding?

By TODD BUCHANAN

Picture this. You're just beginning high school and you don't know many people because you're new to the community. You mingle with different people in your classes and finally settle on a few individuals that you have something in common with. Throughout high school, you and your new-found friends become inseparable. What caused this friendship? A common hobby that you and they possessed.

Now it's time to graduate and go off to college. Unfortunately, you and your friends all seem to go in different directions, and when you finally get to college, you find yourself back at the same point you were when you began high school — no friends because you didn't know anybody, and you didn't know what to do. One thing you did have then, and you still do now, is that hobby — something you enjoy doing and that makes you happy to do by yourself. But you can't, say the cops. They tell you that what you've been doing for a better part of your life-your hobby-is illegal in this particular area. What kind of bullshit is this?

Speaking of bad raps, Hammer's not the only one that falls into this quaint little category. Skateboarders are quickly following.

Modes of transportation have always been something that Americans have been trying to improve for the longest time. What's more is that Americans have recently ganged up on this health and fitness kick thing. What better way, then, to get from here to there than on your very own skateboard. It's a good workout and it even has wheels, right!

One small problem has been causing these fitness-seeking skateboarders to go into hiding in the town of Farmville, as well as on the campus of Longwood College. That's right, skateboarding has been totalling outlawed everywhere around here! One cannot skate in the street, on the sidewalks, and for God's sake there's no skating in any parking lots, anywhere!

Understanding that from the authorities' point of view, skateboarding can be an omen from hell, they have every right to take all necessary precautions. I mean, maybe a board may slip out from beneath the toes of a fitness seeker and accidentally dismember three or four pedestrians in the immediate area — but how often is this going to happen? How many cases have you ever heard of something this tragic happening? Skateboarders may be able to find a place in town that is out of the way of the innocent pedestrian, and this would obviously lessen the chances of someone getting seriously injured — but they're not allowed to!

I have found that my dealings with the authorities on the issue of skateboarding on campus has been somewhat rhetorical in a sense. The campus cops seem to be somewhat neutral on the whole situation — they'll inform you about the law against skating, and basically give you a warning about it. The Farmville police are a totally different story. They're the ones to look out for. They'll give you a warning one day and then turn around and give you a summons to court the next day.

Let's think about this a bit. I, myself, have been victim to the restrictions put on skateboarding in this one-horse town. The funny thing is that the authorities tell me to get off my board or they'll "issue" me a summons to court. The next day I'm out, I'm told the exact same thing (sometimes even by the same slimeball)! It all just seems to go in circles.

The way I see it, and I'm sure other enthusiasts in this field will agree, is that through the youth years, skateboarding became a hobby that I became very devoted to. When I moved away to college and was told that I couldn't pursue my hobby any further because of some two-cent law, it would tend to piss me off, and as a matter of fact, I didn't stop skating — I found a place in town that I could practice at until the police found out, and then I'd move to another spot in town.

If the town of Farmville insists upon enforcing their ban on skateboarding, why not install a city-funded facility that is strictly for skateboarding. It wouldn't have to be too large, just a designated area to skate instead of tearing up this town's architectural masterpieces. NOT!!

Letter To The Editor

Editor, The Rotunda:

I feel that a commendation is due. Before Spring Break on Thursday 12, a group here on campus took what I see as a brave step. A step which shouldn't have to have been taken but in this day and time with attitudes the way they are, they had to make this step. They did it and they deserve the recognition. Unity, the group for gays, lesbians and bisexuals on Longwood and Hampden-Sydney Campuses, opened themselves up for questions and comments. This took nerve. I must say that they handled themselves quite well and in a professional manner. I wasn't able to hear the entire broadcast so my opinions are based on what I heard.

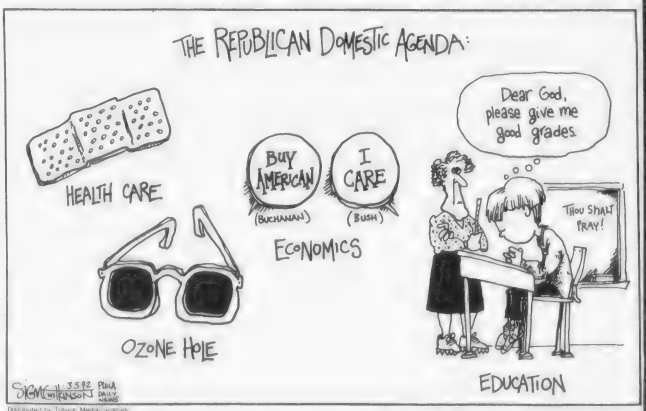
It is a shame that some of the heterosexual community is afraid of "those people" taking over. When will it be understood by some of the heterosexual community that sexual preference isn't a choice? It is a given from day one. Research shows that there could be genetic possibilities. "Those people" will never take over. In the days of Greece, young boys were taken under wing by older gentlemen. These young boys were sexual partners for these older men. The Greeks believed that sex with women was for procreation and sex with men was for recreation. One of our greatest societies was based upon bisexuality. Did "those people" take over and do away with all heterosexuals? I don't think so.

It is a disappointment that people of different sexual preference have to stay underground and hidden. Why is it so important to everyone what other people's sexual preferences are? People are people, just plain ole human beings. I've had a few people tell me their sexual preference. I didn't ask, they told me. I didn't change my attitude towards these people. So their sexual preference is different than mine, BIG DEAL! As long as they do not approach me sexually, I don't care what they do. It's their business and no one else's. There are probably a lot of people out there with nontraditional sexual preferences probably sitting right next to you in class. You never know. I just don't see why a person's sexual preference should change one's opinion? Why is it so important to everyone else? Have the heterosexuals thought about the fact that gays and lesbians find heterosexual activities a bit disgusting? These groups tolerate other sexual overtones in movies, on T.V., and in magazine ads. They tolerate it, so why can we not tolerate their attitudes?

We had civility week here at Longwood College not too long ago, but some people seemed to have missed the message. One caller asked how "you all justify your right to be gay?" Come on people! Do you justify your right to be heterosexual daily? People with nontraditional sexual preference fight prejudice every day. That's actually what this is, prejudice. A word usually associated with race will now have to be applied to sexual preference. When will it stop? At the end of the Unity members ...comments the caller said, "Well, that's an awfully gay thing for you to say." Well, sir, that was a very ignorant thing for you to say!

I heard one caller suggest that Unity, as a group, should come out of the closet when that's the only place where they are safe from prejudice, violence, and hate? People judge people enough by the color of their skin, the clothes they wear, the car they drive, or the fraternity or sorority they belong to. Why add another bump in the road?

Being a member of the campus that is neither gay nor lesbian, I feel it is time to put all our fears and prejudices aside and realize that "those people" are exactly that, people. We need to stop using derogatory terms and telling racial jokes. "Those people" have feelings just like any other person and those feelings can be trampled just as easily.



The question of the religious aspects also came up. I would like to ask that caller how many times they had participated in premarital sex? Is this not a sin from the very book you slapped in Unity's face? Think about it, you said they were sinners. NEED A MIRROR?

Unity, once again, I commend you in your attempt to educate this campus in its attitudes toward the gay, lesbian, and bisexual community. One day in my heart of hearts I would hope that ALL prejudices, not just sexual prejudices, and backwoods attitudes would be gone and each and every one of us would be able to live our lives as humans, and not people with sexual labels. Once again, I commend Unity. To the readers, thanks for listening to me while I was perched upon my soap box. Now go live your life, not someone else's and for goodness sake, BE CIVIL!

P.S. This has nothing to do with Unity but with the new campus map known as "CAMPUS AT A GLANCE." To its creators, were the music and art departments not given a visual representation because you didn't want to insult us with a cheap illustration or is it because we're so unimportant to the front of this campus that we are trying to be forgotten? Granted, we may not bring statewide titles to this campus, but we are still a part of this campus, like it or not.

A.E. Reed, III

ATTENTION STUDENTS!

The following Academic areas are offering registration using TRAVIS: (Telephone Registration and Voice Information System.) If you have any questions, call 395-2606.

1. School of Business & Economics
2. School of Graduate & Continuing Studies
3. School of Education & Human Services

The School of Arts and Sciences will utilize TRAVIS for Spring 1993 semester.

REGISTRATION/DROP-ADD WORKSHEET

After you have met with your advisor and obtained your registration materials, read the information below and work out your course schedule. You can then call the Longwood College Telephone Registration and Voice Information System (TRAVIS) and complete your registration for drop/add quickly, easily and accurately.

1. Use this worksheet to work out a preferred and alternate schedule for registration. Fill in the five-digit course call number and the nine character course I.D. for each course in the spaces provided. Refer to this section when you call TRAVIS.

PREFERRED SCHEDULE

CALL #	COURSE #	COURSE TITLE	TIME
_____	_____ _____	_____	_____
_____	_____ _____	_____	_____
_____	_____ _____	_____	_____
_____	_____ _____	_____	_____
_____	_____ _____	_____	_____
_____	_____ _____	_____	_____
_____	_____ _____	_____	_____
_____	_____ _____	_____	_____

2. Call TRAVIS 395-2326 (If you are calling outside of the 804 area code, be sure to dial 804 before 395-2326.) The system will offer on-line assistance.

3. Enter your nine-digit student ID number (social security number) upon request.
_ _ _ _ _ _ _ _ _

4. Enter your seven-digit telephone authorization code.
_ _ _ _ _ _ _

5. Once you have accessed the voice response unit, the system will list a main menu of options. (Review the selections below to be sure you understand the differences between options). The system will then request that you choose one by pressing the appropriate digit on your telephone keypad.

ROTUNDA

Longwood College
Box 1133
Farmville, VA
23909

1920
Founding Editor
Helen Skillman

STAFF

Executive Editor
Bradley L. Owen

Features Editor
Sherry Gatewood

Sports Editor

Asst. Features Editor
Ann Renee Heim

Head Photographer
R. Alex Rodriguez

Associate Editor
Erin C. McCay

Assistant Editor
James K. Johnson

Business Manager

Advisors
Mr. William C. Woods
Ms. Brenda Atkins

Reporters/Assistants: Thomas D. Birchett, IV, Todd Buchanan, Michael K. Carter, Dina Dawson, Kathy DiMarino, Sarah Drewry, Tina Gewerth, Lynn Gianni, Travis W. Griffin, Debra E. Mayo, Claude Monger, Christy Mottley, Kimberly Mraz, Chris Mullins, Linda M. Nygaard, Kandi Pettus, Jennifer Phillips, Rose Ann Pilzl, Tricia Popular, R. Alex Rodriguez, Julie K. Tate, Jennifer Wyatt, and Cassandra Yellis.

EDITORIAL POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration, or trustees. Columns, letters, editorials, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be typed, signed, have a return address, and phone number. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

All contributions shall be addressed to The Rotunda, LC Box 1133, Farmville, VA 23909. Deadline for articles is 5p.m. Friday prior to the Wednesday publication date and these should be place in the envelopes inside the Publication offices door in Lankford or mailed. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by 8p.m. Sunday. All submissions become the property of The Rotunda.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an Associated Collegiate Press and Columbia Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at (804) 395-2120 or faxed to (804) 395-2237.

The Rotunda is currently accepting applications for the position of '92-'93 EDITOR.

The applications will be available at the information desk in Lankford as of Friday, April 3.

All interested students are invited to apply.

Pianist Featured In Season's Final Chamber Music Concert

Dr. Robert Blasch, pianist, will join the Roxbury Chamber Players to present the final concert in this season's Chamber Music Series at Longwood College.

The concert will be Tuesday evening, April 7, at 8 o'clock in Wygal Recital Hall. It is open to the public free of charge.

The program features Mozart's Quartet in G Minor, K. 478 for piano, violin, viola, and cello; Sonatine by the French composer André Jolivet who died in 1974; and Quintet in D Major, Op. 51, No. 1 for flute and strings, written in 1822 by Friedrich Kuhlau.

The Mozart quartet is being performed in memory of Dr. Rosemary Sprague, a distinguished member of Longwood's English faculty for 29 years. A pianist herself, Dr. Sprague was a patron of the Chamber Music Series.

Professor of music at Longwood, Dr. Blasch has given numerous recitals at the college and directs the annual Monster Piano Concert for young pianists from around the state. He also has appeared as a piano soloist in Europe, New York, the Midwest and throughout the South. He will be playing a new Steinway piano Tuesday evening.

Members of the Roxbury Players are Helen Coulson, violin; Bruno Nasta, violin and viola; Maura Eileen Riffe, viola; William Comita, cello; Patricia Werrell, flute; and David Niethamer, clarinet.

The ensemble's repertoire includes masterpieces from the past and numerous works by living American composers. Ten new works have been commissioned and premiered by the group since its founding in 1982.

Plans are underway for the 1992-93 Chamber Music Series which is sponsored by the Department of Music. These concerts are underwritten by funds from the Longwood Arts Council and contributions by the newly formed Patrons of the Chamber Music Series.

In rehearsal for the final Chamber Music Concert of the season are Dr. Robert Blasch, pianist and professor of music, with three of the members of the Roxbury Chamber Players.

Camerata Singers Spend Spring Break On Tour

Forty-one members of the Camerata Singers spent their spring break on a tour which took them into five states and included seven performances.

The annual spring event is one the students look forward to and for the college it means recruitment and spreading the name of Longwood to many communities through music.

The performance schedule kept the singers quite busy and included stops at Main Street United Methodist Church in Waynesboro, River Road United Methodist Church in Richmond, James Monroe High School in Fredericksburg, North Hunterdon High School in Annandale, New Jersey; Mount Pleasant Presbyterian Church in Mount Pleasant, New Jersey; Northeast Middle School in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania; and Trinity Episcopal Church in Easton, Pennsylvania.

Dr. Donald Trott, director of the choir, estimated that the singers performed for a total audience of over eighteen-hundred people.

Sunday through Wednesday found the choir enjoying home stays, which means lots of good meals. Thursday and Friday found the choir in New York City which meant lots of great cultural activities. Group events included attendance at a performance of "Phantom of the Opera," a tour of Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts, and a visit to the Metropolitan Art Museum.

According to Dr. Trott, "This tour was a success in all respects. Our hosts went out of their way to make the stay enjoyable. New York is an incredible musical experience, especially for the first-timer."

Also on the trip were Mrs. Nancy Sherman, accompanist for the choir, and Dr. Bruce Montgomery.

ROTC Visible Force On Campus

By JULIE TATE
Staff Reporter

The ROTC is a visible force on Longwood College's campus. Many of us see the men and women dressed in uniform or fatigues and wonder what ROTC is all about and why they choose to take this route through college.

ROTC stands for Reserve Officers' Training Corps. It is a program offered by the Army which gives college students the chance to graduate as an officer and then serve in either the National Guard, the U. S. Army Reserve, or the U. S. Army.

ROTC or Military Science classes were first offered in 1819 at a civilian college campus in Vermont. This campus grew to become the American Literary, Scientific and Military Academy. Later it evolved into Norwich University. The ROTC students at Longwood recently attended a winter training session at this university.

The list of military colleges grew and by the 1900's over 100 colleges gave instruction in military science. Today over 300 colleges and universities in the United States are hosts for ROTC programs. Extension centers and colleges with cross enrollment number in the thousands. Longwood is an extension center and its host college is the University of Richmond. ROTC is also offered on the high school level. More than 700 high schools have junior ROTC programs.

There are many advantages to being a part of the ROTC program. It provides leadership and management training as well as practical experience. In ROTC, a student develops the qualities necessary for success in a career with the Army or in the civilian work force. The Army not only helps the student, but the students in ROTC help the Army. By having ROTC programs the Army is provided with capable, college-educated officers. This helps the Army to keep up with an ever-changing society.

There are two parts to a four year ROTC program. They are the Basic Course and the Advanced Course.

The Basic Course is taken during the freshman and sophomore years of college. In these two years a person learns the customs and traditions of the service. They also learn the different organizations in the service, military defense and history, and leadership development.

The Advanced Course is taken during the student's junior and senior years. Topics covered in this course include management, tactics, professionalism, and ethics. Leadership development is covered in this course as well. Advanced Course students must attend Advanced Camp the summer between their junior and senior years. This is a six-week training session which gives them the chance to practice what they learned in the classroom and shows each person what Army life in the field is like. All books, materials, and uniforms for both courses are furnished by the Army at no cost to the students.

The ROTC provides scholarships for two, three, and four years. These scholarships are awarded on a competitive basis to the most outstanding students who apply. Each scholarship pays for tuition, fees, textbooks, supplies, and equipment. There is also a subsistence allowance of up to $1,000 for all cadets in the Advanced Course. The Advanced Camp is also paid for by the Army.

There are a variety of organizations which are available for cadets to join. Among them are The Scabbard and Blade, which is the Advanced Course national honor fraternity and The Society of American Military Engineers, which promotes national engineering potential for defense. A variety of exchanges also occur between cadets and civic and military leaders. ROTC students also give their time to service activities and civic projects.

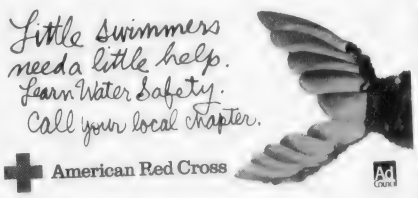
Cadets in the Advanced Course are obligated to military service upon graduation. Students receiving scholarships must serve eight years in the military. They may divide these eight years by serving two to four years on active duty and the remainder in the Reserves or eight years in the Reserves followed by three to six months on active duty. Those cadets not receiving scholarships serve three years on active duty and five in the Reserves or they may be chosen to participate in Reserve Forces Duty. If selected, they will serve from three to six months on active duty and eight years in the Reserve Forces.

Cadets get the opportunity to select a first, second, and third choice of the 22 branches of the Army. These selections include Field Artillery, Military Intelligence, Infantry, and the Corps of Engineers. Most cadets are commissioned in one of their first three choices. These assignments allow the student to practice the knowledge they have gained in college.

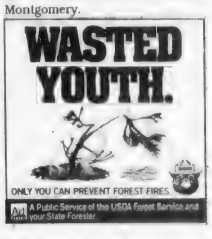
Public Affairs Office Honored

Longwood's Public Affairs Office, under the direction of H. Donald Winkler, has been honored as "the best total public relations program" in the United States among colleges and universities with enrollments between 2,000 and 5,000 students.

Winkler and his office received the Gold Award in the annual Admissions Advertising Awards Competition sponsored by the national professional newspaper in the field of student recruitment, "Admissions Marketing Report."



The award recognizes the nation's best total PR program in support of recruitment objectives. Criteria included statewide and regional news placement; the writing, editing, design, and effectiveness of recruitment publications and audio-visuals; special publications and communications that build relationships with targeted high schools; media advertising; and other PR methods and techniques.



Sharing the award, in addition to Winkler, are the following members of Longwood's Public Affairs staff: Kent Booty, assistant director for news and news photography; Betty Bryant, assistant director for news and internal communications; Donna Breckenridge, assistant director of publications and visual production; and Brenda Ferguson, administrative assistant.

"Admissions Marketing Report" also presented Winkler and Breckenridge with the Silver Award for a "Special Publication" on teacher-education recruitment, "Pop Quiz: Why Go to Longwood to Become a Teacher?" The booklet was produced in cooperation with Longwood's School of Education and Human Services and its Department of Education, Special Education and Social Work.

"Admissions Marketing Report" and the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) are the primary sponsors of national public relations competitions in the field of higher education.

Last month, CASE honored Winkler and Breckenridge with its Silver Award for "Total Publications Programs" among institutions of all sizes and types in the South.

Campus Police Take Steps To Ensure Safety

By TRAVIS GRIFFIN
Staff Reporter

Campus police are taking measures to ensure safety on the Longwood College campus.

Campus crime was rampant last semester at Longwood. Although there have not been many incidents this semester, campus police are taking the necessary precautions to ensure that Longwood students can feel safe to walk through the campus at night.

One measure being taken is the substantial amount of extra lights that are being installed all over the Longwood campus. There have been two new lights installed at the front of Wheeler and Cox. There is one new light on the west side of Jarman. There is a new light at the back of Blackwell Dining Hall. There is a new light at the north end of Curry and the south end of Frazier. There is a much needed light between Lancer Gym and the tennis courts and two new lights at the basketball courts next to ller. These new lights should help students feel safer to engage in nighttime sporting activities.

There was also an extra light installed in Tabb Circle and at the back of Wygal. They are also going to put up new lighting at the south end of Wygal and the new resident halls next semester. Campus Police are confident that all of this new lighting will discourage any attacks or other forms of criminal activity.

Another measure that campus police is taking to ensure the students' safety is cutting the shrubs, particularly those by the buildings. They feel that this will hinder anyone's ability to hide in the shrubs. They also want to have a two foot clearance from the ground on each of the shrubs. This way nobody will be able to hide without having their legs showing.

Campus police have added a public service channel to the Longwood television station for the use of the students. Any student who has any information that he or she would like to share with the general public is free to consult campus police for the use of the channel.

If any student has any questions about the new added safety measures, please feel free to contact campus police.

Bus System

(Continued from page 1)

for a specific pick-up time.

The Bus can even be used for trips to Richmond. For example, why haven't groups called to use a bus to see a concert in Richmond?

Some sororities philanthropy involves the underprivileged children of Farmville. Socha has offered The Bus as transportation for the children to and from the activity, instead of the sororities picking the children up in their own vehicles.

Socha is willing to work with students to make the system more beneficial. He encourages students to "Tell me what you want." More flyers, more advertisement, more red line cards? Just pick up the phone and tell me. I was once a student, and I know what I needed when I was at Longwood, but what do you want now?"

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

YOUR FIRST STEP TOWARD SUCCESS IS THE ONE YOU COULD TAKE THIS SUMMER.

At Army ROTC Camp Challenge you'll learn what it takes to succeed — in college and in life. You'll build self-confidence and develop your leadership potential. Plus you can also qualify to earn an Army Officer's commission when you graduate.

Army ROTC Camp Challenge. It may be just what you need to reach the top.

ARMY ROTC
THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL CAPTAIN GARY WITTEKIND AT 395-2134
OR COME BY ROOM 207, HINER BLDG.

WLCX Turns To Progressive/ Alternative Format

By DEBRA E. MAYO
Staff Reporter

WLCX 90.1 FM has changed formats.

With an expansion project in progress, the station's board members felt that it was time for a change. When the station upgrades in the fall of 1993, it will be operating with as much as 25,000 watts of power. At this time, WLCX broadcasts with a mere 10 watts of power. The upcoming upgrade was one of the main reasons for switching the station to a more standardized format.

At a special meeting, the decision to change was made. Members of the radio board, and those members of the general assembly who attended, brainstormed about the format.

The board members voted unanimously that a progressive/alternative format was the best possible choice. Those who participated in the meeting felt that because the students at Longwood are able to listen to commercial stations that offer country, top 40, classic rock and variety, progressive was the way to go.

A progressive station can not be found on the dial in Farmville and WLCX wanted to offer the students a place to hear this type of music.

The station stresses that the new progressive/alternative format is not a permanent change. This is merely a testing period to be used in helping the station to obtain music from record companies and to give the station a name that can be recognized nationally. The format will be in place for at least the rest of the semester.

Along with the change in music, you may notice that D.J.'s now have three hour time slots as opposed to the old two hour slots of earlier in the year. The station is broadcasting a full 21 hours a day, seven days a week.

The progressive format is in effect from 6 a.m. - 9 p.m. Monday through Friday. From 9 p.m. until 6 a.m. and on weekends, the station has open formatting. What does this mean? Well, basically, this is when listeners will hear nonprogressive music. D.J.'s are able to play whatever type of music they wish.

Listeners can check out the radio schedule in the New Smoker for show days and times that suit their musical taste.

The station urges listeners to call if they have requests or questions about the format change. The studio line number is 395-2475. There is also a folder for your comments and suggestions located in the New Smoker next to the radio schedule.

The station's new theme is "WLCX is the voice of Longwood moving out of the past and into the future!"

Three Students On Spring Break Overcome By Carbon Monoxide Fumes

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (CPS) — Three college students on Spring Break remained in serious condition after being overcome by carbon monoxide in their motel room.

The carbon monoxide fumes apparently seeped from a nearby boiler into the room. The three students, all from Massachusetts, were discovered March 20 by a maid at the 200-room Holiday Inn-Airport.

Rescue workers initially thought they were badly sunburned or had overdosed on drugs because their skin had turned a deep red. When a police officer collapsed, rescue workers realized that the students' color was the result of carbon monoxide poisoning.

All guests were evacuated from the motel, which will remain closed until authorities give the owners the go-ahead to reopen.

Todd Girouard, 21, of Chelmsford, Mass., was in serious condition March 23 at St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach. Kimberly Newton, 21, of Brockton, Mass., and Kirsten Madden, 20, of Groton, Mass., were in stable condition at Mercy Hospital in Miami.

Bill Clinton

Photograph by Joe Burbank

Banton Will Discuss Changes In Europe

Dr. R. Lee Banton, professor of education at Longwood College, will present first-hand impressions on changes in Europe in a lecture on Wednesday, April 1, at 7:30 p.m. in Wygal Auditorium.

The topic of Dr. Banton's lecture is "The Changing Face of Europe: Implications for Technology, Trade, and Education in the United States." The public is invited to attend the lecture free of charge.

Dr. Banton served as a delegate from the U.S. to the 13th and 14th International Conference on Schooling (1990 and 1991). He traveled in Portugal, Austria, and Hungary.

He will discuss attitudes, feelings, and concerns gleaned from European delegates to the two conferences. "The real story from educators on the front lines of European schools will shock, amuse, and sadden," he said.

Dr. Banton has been a member of Longwood's faculty since 1967. A graduate of Randolph-Macon College, he received his M.Ed. and Ed. D. degrees from the University of Virginia.

Dr. Banton has done groundbreaking research on learning disabilities, using a nuclear reactor at the University of Virginia to measure trace elements in hair samples from Virginia schoolchildren. In 1988, he received Longwood's Maria Bristow Starke Award for faculty excellence.

Past chairman of the Cumberland County School Board, Dr. Banton also has served as president of the Virginia School Boards Association. he attended President Bush's first National Summit on Education in 1989 and was appointed by Governor Wilder to the Commission on Educational Opportunity for All Virginians in 1990.

Dr. Banton served for 17 years on the board of directors of the Piedmont Planning District Commission.

Clinton Calls For New Loan Programs And Incentives

By JEFF GOLDFARB
CPS Washington Correspondent

Editor's Note: This is one in a series of profiles on the presidential candidates, focusing on their views about higher education.

WASHINGTON (CPS) — The core of Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton's higher education platform mandates that loans to college students be paid back as either a percentage of their income over time or through voluntary national public service.

In addition, Clinton wants to establish a trust fund from which any American can borrow money for a college education — a program he labels a domestic GI Bill.

To fund the additional aid, Clinton proposes reallocating the budget and pledging more money to education.

"Today only 9 percent of the budget is directed to investing in our future — education and training, child health, environmental technologies, research and infrastructure. We need to double that share and pay for it by converting resources no longer needed for defense," Clinton said in a United States Student Association survey.

As governor, Clinton increased funding for higher education institutions in Arkansas by 77.7 percent since 1983. He established a college bond program in 1991 to help parents finance their children's higher education. Under the plan, parents and others can buy short or long-term tax-exempt "college bonds."

Since Clinton took office, the percent of Arkansas' graduating high school students who attend in-state universities has risen from 38.2 percent to 51.3 percent.

The Arkansas Challenge Scholarship Program, implemented last year, allows any student who meets middle and lower-middle income guidelines to have part of their tuition paid by the state at any college or university in the state. The student, in return, must maintain a "C" average, stay off drugs and score a 19 or above on the ACT test.

"No student in good standing should be denied access to college, and grades should not be the basis for providing student aid. As President, I will introduce legislation to provide universal access to college for anyone who desires a college education."

Clinton said in a Chronicle of Higher Education survey that he wants to simplify the student-aid program "by eliminating banks from the process and making direct loans to students through their colleges and trade schools."

According to the Chronicle survey, he also said he advocated affirmative action so that "every young American will have access to a college education, no matter what their background."

Clinton said he agreed with resolutions pending in both the House and Senate that would ask President Bush to rescind Department of Defense policy prohibiting lesbians, gays and bisexuals from military service. Because many college students look to the military to help pay for college, the issue has come to the forefront.

Clinton said he supports more accurate national testing standards "that will help us measure the achievements of our students and tell us in what areas we need to make greater efforts," according to the Chronicle's questionnaire.

"However, no student in good standing should be denied access to college, and grades should not be the basis for providing student aid. As President, I will introduce legislation to provide universal access to college for anyone who desires a college education," he said.

State Police Announce Results of '91 Marijuana Eradication Program

RICHMOND – Colonel W.F. Corvello, Superintendent of the Virginia State Police, said that Virginia's 1991 domestic marijuana eradication program resulted in 30,822 fewer plants reaching the hands of drug dealers and users.

"We are extremely pleased with the result of last year's effort and the results we have been seeing since the program was initiated in 1983," Col. Corvello said.

Translated into commercial terms, the result of the 1991 eradication effort removed from the market 31,369 pounds of marijuana with an estimated street value of $32,463,000. A single plant is estimated to bear one pound of marijuana with a street value of $1,000 per pound. The higher quality sinsemilla variety produces approximately two pounds per plant with a street value estimated at $2,000 per pound.

Participating in the marijuana eradication program are the Virginia State Police, the Virginia Farm Bureau, the Virginia National Guard, the U. S. Department of Justice Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA), U. S. Forest Service, and other state and local law enforcement agencies.

The Virginia State Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation (BCI), coordinates the marijuana eradication program through its Special Investigations Division. SID also is responsible for other-related investigations.

Listed alphabetically are the counties with over 1,000 marijuana plants confiscated in 1991: Buchanan, 1,019; Dickenson, 2,464; Fauquier, 1,081; Franklin, 1,792; Henry, 1,032; Nelson, 1,234; Patrick, 1,768; Pittsylvania, 1,623; Russell, 1,280; Scott, 1,352 and Spotsylvania, 1,035.

The three cities with the highest number of plants confiscated were Chesapeake, 264; Roanoke, 566; and Virginia Beach, 231. A number of other cities had 60 or fewer plants.

Since the beginning of the program in 1983, close to 500,000 plants with a potential street value of $367.2 million have been eradicated. There have been 1,142 arrest and 260 weapons confiscated.

In Profile:

Alpha Phi Omega

By JOHN FOX
Staff Reporter

Alpha Phi Omega is a service fraternity which has four main areas to concentrate on. The four main concentrations are national, community, campus, and fraternity. Alpha Phi Omega is not under the greek system at Longwood. They are sponsored and recognized by the Boy Scouts of America.

They have six chapters in the state of Virginia. The biggest chapter in the state is at Virginia Tech located in Blacksburg. The chapter at Longwood has twenty-five active members. They have done several things for the community and the campus.

First, they have a brother program with the Ronald McDonald House. They also visit the local nursing homes, and participate in the adopt-a-grandparent program. Through the Christian Children's Fund, they have adopted a child and support this child each month with money to the family. The last accomplishment which is not yet completed is the rebuilding of a house in Farmville for some families in the area. Most of the supplies were donated, but they have provided the labor.

This fraternity is a way to get involved on this campus and help out our community. If you are interested in joining this organization they will be having rush one week after greek rush in the fall.

MUSICIANS HANDBOOK '92

Take the First Step to Getting Signed....

CONTACT:
Major Record Labels, Publishers, Clubs, Promoters, Managers, Studios, Distributors, Nationwide

Send $35.00 (check or money order) to:
A & R RECORD GUIDE
P.O. Box 88415
Los Angeles, CA 90009

LONGWOOD COLLEGE BOOKSTORE
Open 8 - 5 Monday - Friday • Phone 395-2084

CHAMPION® SHORTS

REG. $12.95
SALE $7.95

100% cotton, 2 side pockets, 1 back pocket.
Navy or white.
(While quantities last.)

SPRING WEEKEND SPECIAL HOURS:
Saturday, April 4, 10 AM - 2 PM

COMICS

Wild Kingdom

By Anthony Rubino, Jr.

"Things they do look awful c-c-cold, Yea I hope I die before I get old."—The Who Performing the 90's version of The Who classic; "My Generation",—introducing...

Other hits by THE CONFUSED

- MY BABY & ME & OUR ROCKIN' P.C.
- HIGH FIBER BLUES
- RIP-RIP WENT THE OZONE
- CABLE OH CABLE
- ROLLER BLADE BOOGIE
- JOHNNY-B-POLITICALLY CORRECT
- AIN'T TOO PROUD TO BEG
- DOUBLE DENSITY DAME
- R-E-C-E-S-S-I-O-N
- THE SAL FROM HELL
- NO GLOVE NO LOVE
- WHAT RAINFOREST?
- I AM MAN HEAR ME ROAR
- SNAKE BATTLE & NETWORK
- THE BALLAD OF TRUMP
- RIGHT AWAY MR. YAKASAMI
- FAX ME ALL NIGHT LONG
- BA BA BA BUSH

ROCK THE 90's

Spencer Green

Wolfbane

HELP WANTED

Applications are now available for Summer Conference Supervisors and Desk Aide Positions. Applications are available in the Dean's of Students Office. For more information, contact Steve Dealph at 2118 or Mike Herndon at 2514.

RESIDENT CAMP STAFF – Assistant director, business manager, RN, kitchen staff, unit counselors and leaders, program specialist, pool director and lifeguards needed; June 13-August 11. Two seasonal resident camps located near Harrisonburg and Leesburg, VA. Contact: Ruth Ensor, GSCNC, 2233 Wisconsin Ave. N.W., Washington, DC 20007-4187. 202-337-4300. EOE.

CRUISE JOBS

Cruise Lines Now Hiring. Earn $2,000+ per month working on cruise ships. World travel! Holiday, Summer and Full–time employment available. For Employment Program call 1-206-545-4155 ext. C 552

FAST FUNDRAISING PROGRAM

$1000 IN JUST ONE WEEK.

For your fraternity, sorority, team or other organization.

Plus receive a $1000 bonus for yourself!

And a FREE WATCH just for calling.

Call 1-800-932-0528 Ext. 65

MAXIMUMROCKNROLL Syndicated punk show broadcasts weekly on Monday from 4 to 5 p.m. and Tuesday from 6 to 7 p.m. on WLCX 90.1 FM!

NOTICES

FOR SALE

19" COLOR TV – Cable ready– In good condition. Only $95. Call 395-3260 if interested.

The Cunningham, Greatest Lecture Series and Opening Doors to the World present "My Passport and My Camera" with Dr. Elizabeth Flynn on Thursday, April 2 at 7 p.m., 4th floor, South Cunningham. Free refreshments available!

ATTENTION FOOD BINGERS: If you have been in a cycle of gorging on food and then purging either by vomiting, laxatives, diuretics, continual dieting and fasting, or exercise, you often feel unable to break this cycle.

IF YOU ARE INTERESTED in joining a group for students struggling with this behavior pattern or would like further information please call Cyndy at (395-2409) in the Counseling Center.

Lancer Productions Positions

April 1 – Applications available at the Info Desk and student Union Office.

April 17 – Completed applications due to Student Union by 5 p.m.

April 20 – Interviews

Live Interview With Two Representatives From A.I.I.S.
Thursday, April 2
on WLCX 90.1 FM
from
8 – 10 p.m.
Calls Will Be Accepted
STUDIO LINE: 395-2475

LIBRARY HOURS, MARCH 23 - MAY 6, 1992

Monday - Thursday ..... 8 A.M. - 12 Midnight
Friday ..... 8 A.M. - 5 P.M.
Saturday ..... 10 A.M. - 5 P.M.
Sunday ..... 1 P.M. - 12 Midnight

LIBRARY HOURS DURING EXAMS

Friday, May 1 ..... 8 A.M. - 12 Midnight
Saturday, May 2 ..... 9 A.M. - 12 Midnight
Sunday, May 3 ..... 1 P.M. - 12 Midnight
Monday, May 4 - Wednesday, May 6 ..... 8 A.M. - 12 Midnight

LIBRARY HOURS, MAY 7 - MAY 17, 1992

Monday - Friday ..... 8 A.M. - 5 P.M.
Saturday, May 9 & 16 ..... CLOSED
Sunday, May 10 & 17 ..... CLOSED

THE STOA WILL BE OPEN UNTIL 2 A.M. WHEN THE COLLEGE IS IN SESSION.

SUMMER HOURS WILL BE POSTED AT A LATER DATE.

Spring Weekend

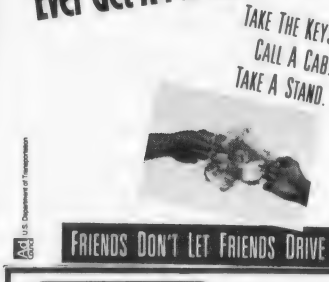
April 3 -5, 1992

Master Schedule

FRIDAY, APRIL 3

TBA	Oozeball Tournament	Stubbs Mall
Midnight	The Rocky Horror Picture Show	Lankford Mall
8:00 p.m.	B.M.O.C. Lancer Gym	Rain: Iler Gym

SATURDAY, APRIL 4



10:00 a.m. - Noon	Chili Cook-Off Competition D.J. music courtesy of WLCX	Lankford Mall
11:30 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.	Complimentary Picnic Lunch and Free Chili Tasting	Lankford Mall
12:00	Grand Opening of Spring Weekend Caricature sketches, Gyro rides, Video buttons, Juggler David van Derveer, obstacle course	Lankford Mall
12:00 - 6 p.m.	Oozeball Tournament	Stubbs Mall
12:30 p.m.	Chili Cook-Off Winners Announced	Lankford Mall
1:00 - 3:00 p.m.	Music by WLCX Radio	Lankford Mall
11:30 a.m.	Catalinas' Water Show	Lancer Pool
1:15 p.m.	Karate Club	Lankford Mall
1:30 p.m.	Lancer Dancers	Lankford Mall
3:30 - 6:00 p.m.	Band: Gillian's Fun Deck	Lankford Mall

Admissions Programs for Prospective Students:

8:30 - 9:30 a.m.	Registration	Gold Room
9:00 a.m. - Noon	Campus Tours
9:00 a.m. - Noon	Information on Admissions, Athletics, and Summer Orientation	Gold Room
9:30, 10:30, and 11:30 a.m.	"Financing Your College Education" "Student Housing & Campus Living"	Lancer Gym Wygal
12:30 p.m.	"The Black Experience at Longwood"	M. P. Miller Room, Curry

SUNDAY, APRIL 5

4:00 - 7:00 p.m.	Band: B.S.&M.	Lankford Mall

ATTENTION SENIORS

Longwood's Admissions Office anticipates employing an admissions counselor beginning on or about mid-July and ending in May 1993. High energy, good communications skills, and active involvement while at Longwood are prerequisites for successful candidates.

Salary $1606.00 per month, no benefits, all travel expenses paid. Must be willing to work at Admissions programs on weekends and evenings.

Interested candidates should submit a resume to:
Dr. Judy, Vogt,
Associate Director of Admissions
Longwood College

YourRealHoroscope

by Ruby Wyner-lo
A.A.B.P.-certified Astrologer

Aries: (Mar. 21–Apr. 19) Romance heats up when a co-worker at the firm shows interest in your mastery of the photocopier.

Taurus: (Apr. 20–May 20) Rock legend Glenn Frey will come to your house and staple a frog to the nape of your neck.

Gemini: (May 21–June 21) Reduced fat production could be due to your modified intake of walrus meat.

Cancer: (June 22–July 22) Take a vacation by riding a gondola through a nearby swamp.

Leo: (July 23–Aug. 22) Inheriting three cases of Smokey Links from a distant relative will be your ticket to stardom.

Virgo: (Aug. 23–Sept. 22) The world's singing of Diet Pepsi's "Uh-Huh" jingle will send you into a wheezing fit.

Libra: (Sept. 23–Oct. 23) A neighborhood mastiff will pee on your car. Scold it gently.

Scorpio: (Oct. 24–Nov. 21) Cheer up. Now matter how many people refuse your friendship, your mother will still let you live in her house.

Sagittarius: (Nov. 22–Dec. 21) A rotund construction worker with a caulking gun will save you from choking on an ice cube.

Capricorn: (Dec. 22–Jan. 19) Move to Idaho now, jerk.

Aquarius: (Jan. 20–Feb. 18) Good news. Your goiter will explode in an exciting display of blood and pus.

Pisces: (Feb. 19–Mar. 20) Due to recessionary cutbacks, your job as anchor for the Bullwinkle balloon in the Macy's Parade will be eliminated this year.

Ruby Wyner-lo caused a stir a few years ago for being discovered the astrological counsel to President Ronald Reagan. At taxpayer expense, she now receives an annual retirement salary of $120,000.

©1992 by Onion Features Syndicate

Campus Calendar

SPRING WEEKEND
APRIL 3, 4, & 5!

Information on events should be submitted to the Student Union Office in Lankford by the Fridgy preceding the appropriate issue of the paper.

Wednesday April 1

Dinner: Exotic Foods of the East. Blackwell Dining Hall.

Rotunda Staff Meeting: We need you - come join us! 6 pm Lancaster B27

Film: The Seven Samarai. 9pm Gold Room

Lancer Productions: Applications are available at the Info. Desk and Student Union Office for positions.

Thursday April 2

Interviewing Skills: 1pm CPPC.

Lancer Productions: General Meeting. 1:15 pm Conf. II

SGA: Open Meeting. 6 pm Conf. I

Cunninghams Greatest Lecture Series: "My Passport and My Camera" by Dr. Elisabeth Flynn. 7pm 4th Floor S. Cunningham

Lancer Edition: An Evening at Lancer Cafe. 7:30pm

Friday April 3

-SPRING WEEKEND-

Men's Tennis: Newport News, 3pm. Lancer Courts

B.M.O.C.: Sponsored by Zeta Tau Alpha at 8pm. Lancer Gym

LP Movie: The Rocky Horror Picture Show. Midnight, Lankford Mall. Rain: Iler Gym.

SEE THE FULL SCHEDULE IN THIS ISSUE. WATCH OUT FOR OUR ROVING PHOTOGRAPHERS!

BE SURE TO TRY OUR SPECIAL ROTUNDA CHILI!!

Saturday April 4

Sunday April 5

Softball: Alpha Sigma Phi's Red Cross Charity Game. Iler Field

Celebrating Books: 3pm Library Atrium

Monday April 6

Workshop: Job Search Skills. 5pm, CPPC

ISP Lecture: "Islam and the West in the New World Order" by Dr. Samir N. Saliba. 7pm Bedford

LP Movie: City Slickers. 9pm, Lancer Cafe

Tuesday April 7

LP Lecture: Hollywood Special Effects with K.N.B. EFX Group. 8pm Gold Room

Chamber Music Concert: Dr. Robert Blasch & Roxbury Players. 8pm Wygal

Defensive Lapses Hamper Lancer Baseball Team

Defensive lapses hurt the Longwood baseball team last week as the Lancers won two of five games, splitting doubleheaders with USC Spartanburg Tuesday and Wofford Sunday and dropping a single contest at Liberty Friday by a 10-4 count.

Now 14-7 and ranked 16th in Division II, according to the March 23 Collegiate Baseball poll, Longwood hosts St. Paul's Thursday at 1 p.m. at Prince Edward County High School and visits North Carolina A&T Saturday for a twinbill slated to start at 1 p.m.

Sunday at Halifax County High School in South Boston, Longwood belted Wofford 13-5 in the opener, but suffered a 10-6 setback in the nightcap as the Terriers came from behind to take the victory. Junior tri-captain Terry Taylor belted a pair of homers and drove in five runs to pace the opening game victory. Taylor had a three-run homer in the first when Longwood assumed an 8-0 lead. He added a two-run blast in the sixth.

Also homering for Longwood were Mike Tucker with his 10th and Bill Martz with his third. Jeff Toms, Chris Porter and Brian Bassett had two hits each for the Lancers. Junior pitcher Kyle Weaver evened his record at 3-3 with seven innings of work. He allowed eight hits, walked two and struck out four.

Thanks to homers by Scott Abell and John Hutzler, and RBI singles by Todd Bowman and Taylor, Longwood had a 4-2 lead over Wofford heading into the top of the sixth inning of the nightcap. The Terriers, aided by a costly Lancer error, two walks and a controversial call by the umpires, rallied to score two runs and tie the game 4-4. Lancer coach Buddy Bolding drew a rare ejection for arguing with the officials.

After Longwood failed to score despite having runners at second and third with one out, Wofford erupted for six runs in the top of the seventh to take a 10-4 lead. A 3-run homer by Lee Amick off reliever Kyle Weaver was the big blow. The Lancers got two runs in the bottom of the seventh on two bases-loaded walks, but stranded three runners as the game ended.

Longwood charged out to a 4-0 lead in the first inning, stranded seven baserunners in the first three frames and committed five errors helping host Liberty take a 10-4 win Friday in Lynchburg. Only four of the Flames' 10 runs were earned. Top hitters for Longwood were center fielder Shawn Jones who went 3-3 and Toms and Hutzler with two hits each. Bowman drove in two runs with a clutch base-hit.

Sophomore hurler Bill Martz (1-1) took the loss. Freshman pitcher Bart van Zoest was impressive in the final two innings for Longwood, allowing no hits and no runs.

Centerfielder Mike Freider hit a 3-run homer for Liberty, 10-10-1 after beating Longwood.

Softball Squad Evens Record At Mennonite

By Greg Prouty

Longwood's softball squad traveled to Harrisonburg over the weekend to participate in the Eastern Mennonite Tournament, winning one and losing two as the Lady Lancers saw their record evened at 5-5.

On Friday, Longwood defeated Catholic 20-10 in six innings before losing to the host EMC 5-0. Saturday, the Lady Lancers lost to Ferrum 6-4. Coach Loretta Coughlin's team was scheduled to face Ferrum again Monday on the road.

Senior Laura Marks paced the Catholic victory going 4-5 with a triple, three runs scored and four runs batted in, while freshman designated hitter Kirsten Reller went 3-4 including a triple, one run scored, and an RBI. Senior Cassie Mullenix was 2-4 with three runs scored and two RBI's. Junior Kathy Brown picked up the mound win.

Against EMC, freshman Mari Willen was 2-3 with a double. Brown got the loss pitching back-to-back games.

On Saturday against Ferrum, Marks was 2-4 including a double, a run scored and two RBI's, while freshman Lorri Payne also went 2-4 with a double and one run scored. Sophomore Andrea Wrenn took the loss on the mound.

Longwood will play in another tournament this weekend as they travel to Greensboro, N.C. to participate in the UNC Greensboro Tournament Friday and Saturday. The Lady Lancers will face UNC Wilmington, California, and Barton on Friday with Saturday games yet to be determined.

Cini Selected Player Of The Week

LARA CINI

Senior lacrosse All-American Lara Cini, who scored 17 goals in four games last week, has been named Longwood College Player of the Week for the period March 22-March 29. Player of the Week is chosen by the Longwood sports information office.

A three-time team MVP, Cini led Longwood to four victories last week as the Lady Lancers improved their record to 4-1, surpassing last year's dismal 1-9 mark. In a 13-4 defeat of visiting Earlham last Monday, Cini scored four goals with two assists, then added three goals and an assist during a 12-7 win over visiting Oberlin last Wednesday.

On Saturday, Cini scored six goals as LC defeated visiting Guilford 11-8 and came back Sunday to score four goals with an assist as the Lady Lancers defeated Virginia Tech's club team 13-4 on the road.

"Lara is playing incredible right now," commented coach Sandy Bridgeman. "I am very pleased with her efforts this spring."

Cini, a two-time United States Women's Lacrosse Coaches Association Division II All-American, now has 87 career goals to rank third on the all-time list at Longwood. She trails Sue Groff's ('86) 188 and Julie Dayton's ('81) 93.

A physical education major, Cini has also played field hockey for four years and was named Longwood's 1988-89 Female Freshman Athlete of the year. She attended Chichester High School in Boothwyn, PA.

Lacrosse Team On Four Game Winning Streak

By Greg Prouty, Longwood College Asst. Sports Information Director

Longwood's lacrosse squad picked up two more victories over the weekend, defeating visiting Guilford Saturday 11-8, and Virginia Tech's club team 13-4 Sunday afternoon in Blacksburg.

Coach Sandy Bridgeman's team is now 4-1 with a four-game winning streak after losing its opener to Mary Washington 7-6 on March 5. The Lady Lancers also recorded wins over Earlham last Monday and Oberlin last Wednesday. A contest with Plymouth State last Thursday was cancelled due to rain and will not be re-scheduled.

Against Tech, senior All-American Lara Cini once again paced Longwood scoring four goals. Cini now has 19 goals this spring, increasing her career total to 87. She ranks third behind Sue Groff's ('86) 188 and Julie Dayton's ('81) 93.

Also scoring goals against Tech were sophomore Kim Chapman and junior Trish Mc Cormick with three goals each; and senior Ellen Binswanger, junior Tonia Harris, and sophomore Anita Warford each with a goal.

On Saturday, Cini powered LC's victory over Guilford with six goals, while McCormick added two scores. Others scoring included Harris, Warford, and junior Kim Hasson, each with one goal.

Longwood has a week off before returning to action with games at Mary Baldwin and George Mason on April 7 and 8 respectively.

Ward Paces Golfers

Longwood's men's golf team got solid showings from several golfers and set a new school record for 54 holes while managing a third place finish in the Scarlet Division of the Camp Lejeune Marine Tournament at Paradise Point Golf Club in Jacksonville, NC over the weekend.

The Lancers, shooting 300-322-304-926 Friday through Sunday, came in just behind Pfeiffer (902) and Fayetteville State (924). Longwood's record for 54 holes was the 312-308-311-931 LC shot last season at the same event.

Leading the way for Longwood was sophomore Jimmy Ward who was seventh in the Scarlet Division with a 74-81-72-227. Ward's total is just one stroke away from Frank Davide's Lancer record for 54 holes 75-75-76-226, set at the same tournament last season.

Also for the Lancers, Steve Crute shot 74-82-78-234, Shawn Moore 78-77-79-234, Davide 77-82-76-235 and John Benton 75-84-78-237.

There were actually 34 teams at the tournament, which was split into two 17-team divisions - the Gold (upper) Division and the Scarlet (lower) Division. Nelson estimated that Longwood ended up about 18th out of the total 34 teams.

Longwood hosts Newport News Apprentice and Hampden-Sydney at Longwood Golf Course Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. in its action. The Lancers will host their own invitational next Monday and Tuesday in Clarksville, with seven teams scheduled to take part.

Christopher Mullins is a senior pitcher for the Lancers. The following article is a journal account of a recent baseball team trip. It will be published over several issues.

PART I:

Reflections Of A Road Trip

By CHRISTOPHER MULLINS
Staff Writer

Tuesday, Feb. 25

1:15 p.m. – I loaded my bags onto the bus early to avoid the rush. Every time we take a trip on the mini-bus there is a space problem, so I try to get my bags on early and get my seat ready for the long ride. I also like to get my pre-trip routine finished so I can sit back and watch the freshman load up. Every year at least one brings too many bags or forgets something. I am going to miss seeing their startled faces when one of the captains gives them a hard time for packing wrong. Loading for these road trips is always exciting because not only are we traveling, but we get to play baseball. Also, it is not too hard to get excited when you are a part of such a competitive team.

1:30 p.m. – Everyone is on the bus and ready to go. Coach Bolding has the captains do a head count, and we are ready to go. Incidentally, we get our boxed lunches, which are seemingly older than I.

6:45 p.m. – We have been traveling for about 5:15, for you math majors, with a couple bathroom breaks here and there. Following a team vote, we stopped at the South of the Border amusement mall. The team vote was unanimous. Nobody wanted to, but Coach thought it would be a good idea to let Bart Van Zoest see this tourist trap. As a team we realized how selfish we were and decided how that Coach was right. Bart is an exchange student from the Netherlands who is extremely likeable.

8:15 p.m. – We arrive at the Ho Jo Inn in Florence, South Carolina. We hurriedly unload the bus and hurl our bags in our respective rooms and promptly reboard the bus to go eat. Most of us ate at Quincy's, a team favorite.

9:00 p.m. – I arrived back at room 242 with Todd Bowman my road roommate, following the three-quarter mile walk back. For the next four hours, the team either watched TV or played video games. There was too much excitement about tomorrow's opener against Francis Marion to do anything constructive, like studying. By the way, the most watched television station is The Weather Channel, because it is raining.

Wednesday, Feb. 26

9:00 a.m. – Todd and I get a wakeup call. As always it seems, we fall back asleep. Scott Abell, our hotel suitemate if you will, wakes us up at 9:45.

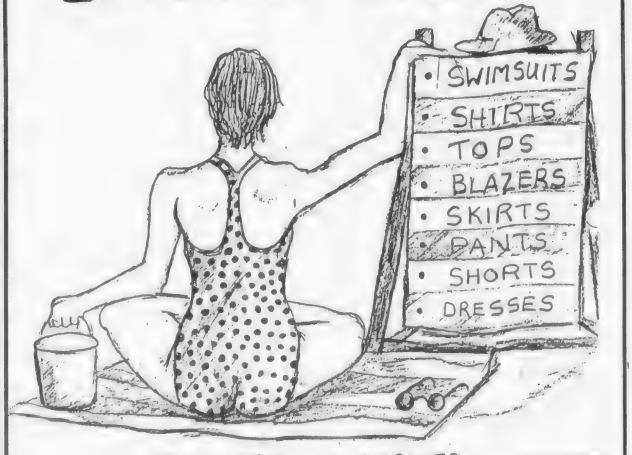
9:45 a.m. – Todd showers, then I shower and we rush off to breakfast. The bus is leaving at 10:30 for our game with Francis Marion College.

Spring Weekend
-1992-

Frisbee Giveaway

The first 100 people to buy a Personal Pan Pizza on April 4 will receive a free official Lancer Productions Spring Weekend Frisbee!!

•Offer limited to 1 per customer.



Buy any Personal Pan Pizza and receive a FREE 20oz. soda at Lancer Cafe.

EXPRESS

Offer expires 5/6/92.

1/2 PRICE
SPRING SALE

EXAMPLE
• SWIMSUITS CATALOG – $38.00
• TGIF REGULAR – $24.99
• ½ PRICE SALE – $12.49
• YOU SAVE – $25.51

TGIF OUTLET

HOURS: 10:00 AM 'TIL 6:00 PM

318 S. MAIN STREET, FARMVILLE, VA. 23901 PHONE 392-8418

THE ROTUNDA

VOL. 71, NO. 17 | LONGWOOD COLLEGE | APRIL 8, 1992

The Fine Line: Academic Freedom Or Mouthing Off?

By AMY REYNOLDS
And
KAREN NEUSTADT

(CPS) — The chairman of a black studies department, a university football coach, a gay campus minister and a philosophy professor — these four have more in common than most would think.

On the increasingly politically correct campuses of the 1990s, Leonard Jeffries, Bill McCartney, the Rev. Peter John Gomes and professor Michael Levin have found themselves in the middle of an academic freedom fight that has more faces and sides than possibly imagined.

Jeffries was the latest to feel the heat — again — when the City College Board of Trustees voted March 23 to have Edmund Gordon, a retired Yale University professor who served as the chairman of Yale's black studies program.

Although Jeffries will remain at the school as a tenured professor, he has told The New York Times he will file a lawsuit against the school over the violation of his academic freedom.

Jeffries' removal as chairman was the result of a speech he gave in July at a black arts festival. "You can't trust the white boy," Jeffries told the largely black audience. He added that Jews and the Mafia conspired in Hollywood to portray blacks unfavorably in the movies and that Jews helped finance the slave trade. Immediately following the speech, city and state government officials as well as members of New York City's large Jewish and Italian communities urged City College officials to take some kind of action against Jeffries.

Many of today's politically correct scholars argue that blatantly racist and inflammatory statements like the ones attributed to Jeffries should not be protected as academic freedom.

Others in the academic community disagree and argue that the concept of academic freedom as guaranteed by the Constitution protects the freedom of all speech, ideas and thoughts in the academic world — a place that needs to be completely free of censors to allow for intellectual growth.

Should faculty and staff be allowed to voice their opinions, no matter how repugnant those views may be? Some say yes, others no.

"If a college or university is not a forum for the exchange of ideas, then our understanding of the First Amendment in the U.S. is jeopardized," said Iris Molotsky, spokeswoman for the American Association of University Professors. "That's not to mean that there aren't some things we object to, but we don't want to restrict free speech or ideas. What we need is more free speech to say, 'Hey, we don't agree with this.'"

In one of the first rulings dealing with the head-on collision between PC movement supporters and academic freedom fighters, a U.S. District Court judge ruled in favor of Michael Levin, a philosophy professor at City College who studies race differences and has said that blacks are "significantly less intelligent than whites."

That sentiment got Levin into trouble with City College officials who formed a panel to review his research and monitored his classes. Levin sued and won.

U.S. District Court Judge Kenneth Conboy said the case pointed out the dangers of the "political correctness" movement.

"This case raises serious constitutional questions that go to the heart of the current national debate on what has come to be denominated as 'political correctness' in speech and thought on the campuses of the nation's colleges and universities," Conboy said.

The judge prohibited City College officials from conducting any further inquiries into Levin's writings or views and told the school it could not establish separate class sections in certain areas solely because of Levin's opinions.

"My court case shows that the roof won't come crumbling down on (others who conduct similar research)," Levin told CPS at the time.

But the roof has crumbled down on others openly fighting the PC tide.

A coach who became a hero for turning around a losing football team has been the center of controversy at the University of Colorado for years, making comments that have split the campus and embarrassed administrators.

Bill McCartney, known as "Coach Mac," has frequently been accused of using his position to further his Christian views against homosexuality.

The latest flap occurred in January when he called homosexuality "an abomination of Almighty God."

McCartney called a news conference on campus to express his support for a campaign to thorw out a state law that protects gay men and lesbians from discrimination in housing and hiring.

Colorado President Judith Albino, caught in the ensuing crossfire, issued a statement saying that a university "should be a place where all ideas can be aired and all people are welcomed. However, no one has the right to capture, through the force of his or her position, that public forum to promote private views."

McCartney also has been at the center of the following incidents:

- In 1984, the American Civil Liberties Union obtained a court order that stopped the coach from forcing his players to say prayers before games.
- In 1989, attempts were made to oust McCartney for publicly supporting anti-abortion marches being staged at a Boulder abortion clinic.
- In 1989, the coach raised an outcry when he said rape must include physical abuse to constitute a crime.

In contrast, at the Harvard Divinity School, a bastion of liberalism, the Rev. Peter John Gomes has found himself in the middle of a furor over his private life. Gomes has publicly professed his homosexuality.

According to Time Magazine, Gomes declared, "I am a Christian who happens as well to be gay," in front of a cheering crowd last November as he stood on the steps of Memorial Church.

The black minister's revelation touched off protests from a student group called "Concerned Christians at Harvard," which was formed to force Gomes' resignation.

While there have been some concerns raised by alumni over Gomes' position, the school administration appears to back him.

Gomes, who has served as minister of the university's Memorial Church and a Plummer Professor of Christian Morals, is well known for his popular Sunday sermons.

According to an assistant, Gomes was out of town and could respond only to written questions.

1 Million More Students May Get Financial Aid

By Charles Dervarics
CPS Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (CPS) – The House overwhelmingly approved a bill March 26 to increase the maximum Pell Grant award and allow as many as 1 million more middle-income students to participate in the program.

In a bill to reauthorize the Higher Education Act, the House voted to increase the maximum grant from $2,400 to $4,500 a year for needy students.

The bill also would extend Pell eligibility to more middle-income students with family incomes above $35,000 a year. An additional 1 million students could become eligible for grants under the bill, House aides say.

But House education leaders also dropped a controversial plan to convert the grant program to an entitlement with guaranteed funding. Some Democrats joined conservatives in questioning the cost of the plan, which was approved by the House education committee last year.

The most recent action effectively ends debate on the entitlement plan, at least for this year. The Senate already dropped its entitlement plan in February citing a lack of support.

Many student groups and educators expressed disappointment with inaction by Congress, saying an entitlement would have provided needed guarantees to low income students struggling to pay for college. As an entitlement, Pell Grants would no longer be subject to the annual appropriations process that often leaves the program short of its authorized funding level.

"We agree that this bill is a step forward, but we're disappointed that the House could not bring forward a bill that is a giant step forward," said Selena Dong, legislative director for the United States Student Association.

Dong said she expected sponsors of the entitlement to introduce a separate bill on the plan sometime in the mid-1990s.

Elsewhere in its bill, the House also authorized a pilot program of direct student loans provided through the government to colleges and universities. More than 100 schools are expected to participate in the program, congressional aides say.

Under the plan, colleges would take over the duties of banks in processing and administering student loans, with the Department of Education taking over the principal oversight role. The Bush administration has expressed opposition to this plan.

The bill also would remove equity in a home or farm as a factor in determining a family's eligibility for major student financial aid programs. In addition, it would broaden eligibility for student loan programs to include students from families earning as much as $75,000 a year.

The full House approved the bill by a vote of 365-3. The action now moves to a House-Senate conference committee that will try to resolve differences between the competing House and Senate proposals.

The Senate's bill, approved Feb. 21, also would increase the maximum Pell Grant and open up grant and loan eligibility to more middle-income students. The Senate bill, however, does not contain a pilot program with direct student loans.

Both bills would boost a federal funding for pre-college outreach programs, particularly those aimed at low-income, disadvantaged high school students.

Leaders of the two chambers will meet soon to designate conferees for the final House-Senate talks on the bill. Conferees are expected to complete the work sometime this summer.

Three LC Students To Compete In National Forensics

Three Longwood College students have qualified for national forensics competition.

Daniel Ellis, a junior from Richmond; Bill Fiege, a freshman from Onancock; and Dawn Pohl, a junior from Farmville, will compete April 16-20 in the National Forensic Association (NFA) tournament at Mankato State University in Minnesota. Only five percent of college forensics competitors qualify for the tournament.

Fiege also will compete in the American Forensic Association (AFA) tournament April 9-13 at the University of Missouri-St. Louis. Only one percent of competitors qualify for this tournament. Fiege is only the second Longwood student to qualify for both tournaments.

He will compete in persuasive speaking at the AFA tournament, and at the NFA tournament he will compete in that category as well as in prose and in duo interpretation with Ellis.

Mrs. Pohl will compete in prose and in persuasive speaking. She competed in last year's NFA tournament at Marshall University.

Elections Set; Issues Discussed In Forum

By LYNN GIANNI
Staff Reporter

Elections are set for this week and the candidates have already begun to make plans for their offices. On Monday the 6th of April candidates got together in a forum to discuss issues at hand in this election.

All were in agreement that student involvement and representation is the key to a successful student government.

Greg Crowley, a candidate for sophomore class president stated "Students don't realize the potential of Student Government Association (SGA), and I would like to see that change."

Unopposed for Senior Class President is Tara Confalone and unopposed for Vice-President is Shannon Nunnally. They have already set plans for the class of 1993. A committee is in the process of being formed that would have senior representatives from all organizations to help plan for the upcoming year.

The candidates for Junior Class President are James Maudlin and Jason Walker.

Maudlin has set goals for his campaign that focus on issues such as establishing a football team at Longwood, creating a more attractive campus, and stronger student representation on school committees.

Jason Walker is no stranger to Student Government, he was President of his Freshman class, and this year he has served as Corresponding Secretary of SGA. He feels this experience is vital and will help him better represent his peers.

Maudlin or Walker will be working with Julie Lindsay who, due to the fact she was unopposed, will be the Junior Class Vice-President.

Students will be selecting ten representatives for Judicial Board as well. The candidates for these positions are: Felicia Brown, Jennifer Davison, Joseph Fortunato, Jennifer Fox, Sharnise Hamlin, Cynthia Harper, Julie Lindsay, Michelle Lineweaver, Carl Long, Stephanie Marshall, Erin McCay, Megan Morra, Susan O'Prandy, Tricia Ann Popular, and Amanda Walton.

There are several other positions that are still vacant. If anyone is interested in serving on Student Government or on any SGA committees, they are encouraged to speak with their class representative.

The Sophomore Class will be looking to elect its leaders for the 1992-93 school year this week as well. Running for the office of President are Glenn Baron and Greg Crowley.

Baron has hopes that if elected she will be able to serve her class through committee involvement, and work on communication between administrators and students.

Crowley would like to focus his efforts on student leadership on campus. He would work to develop programs that promote awareness of Student Government.

The office of Sophomore Class Vice President is being sought by Dwayne Barton and Julia Duncan. Barton agrees with the other candidates on the issue of student involvement but he would also like to see improvements made on Longwood campus. An example of this he suggests would be better directories placed around campus to dorms and buildings.

Duncan hopes if she is selected as Vice-President of the Sophomore Class she will be able to pursue issues such as the Add/Drop Fees, and fund raising for her class.

Along with all the class offices that are being voted on this week there are several seats available on Honor and Judicial Board.

Four representatives will be chosen for Honor Board and the candidates are: Felicia Brown, Maurice Clark, Dina Dawson, William Hoovler III, Maria Pierson, Jennifer Thorton, and Amanda Wright.

CONTENTS

Commentary 2
Features 3
Spring Weekend 4, 5
News 6
Comics 7
Sports 8

COMMENTARY

OPINION

Longwood's Excellent Reputation For Teacher Education - Will It Continue?

By LINDA M. NYGAARD
Staff Writer

Longwood has become well-known throughout the state of Virginia for its excellence in teacher education. This reputation has been achieved through the dedication of qualified teachers and practical, methods courses – which in combination, have resulted in preparing creative and innovative teachers. Whether this reputation will be continued in the future has yet to be determined, due to the restructuring of the education program.

The program changes at Longwood became effective in July, 1990, following a decision which was handed down by former Governor Baliles to all state supported colleges in Virginia. Of course, this decision was not reached without giving much consideration to the long-reaching impact such changes would have on our future teachers, and children. To the contrary, Governor Baliles appointed a committee, a selected group of non - educators, to help him reach his well-informed decision.

Under the new educational program, students who wish to teach in the elementary school level, NK-8, must now major in a liberal arts or science area. Thus, the major of "Elementary Education" no longer exists, at least officially in itself. Instead, the student must sign up for the elementary education program, in addition to their liberal arts or science major.

The idea is simple – by completing a few, carefully selected education courses, the student will receive all the "basics" of teaching, and, in addition, be qualified to teach a specialty area. This sounds great, doesn't it? Some of the professors in Longwood's Education Department, who wished to remain anonymous, do not agree.

Among the educational classes that will no longer be required for elementary education certification are as follows: math methods for elementary school teachers, science methods for elementary school teachers, art education in the elementary classroom, music in the classroom, elementary school health and physical education, children's literature, grammar, public speaking, economics, and geography (30 total hours).

The only education courses which are required consist of the following: a one-credit introductory class, human growth and development, language arts, developmental reading, diagnostic teaching of reading and a class in principles of education. These 16-hours mark the end of general certification requirements.

Of course, after completing these classes, the student is allowed to take two educational practicums. These practicums, which both can be accomplished in one summer, allow the student to observe and participate in selected classrooms. Now the student is ready for the professional student teaching semester.

How can this be, I ask myself as an elementary education major, under the "old" program? Having completed each of the courses which are now cut from the program, I know firsthand of the vast strategies and methods that are explored in these classes.

With these classes no longer a part of the program, how can the student be expected to gain these critical insights into the teaching profession? I suppose it would be possible to learn some of these through trial and error in student teaching, but what about things that cannot be learned through gradual, self-discovery? Aren't these insights the very things a college education is supposed to foster?

However, there is justifiable merit in the new program, at least for middle-school teachers who plan to teach in one, departmentalized area. For instance, a student who wishes to teach fourth grade science can receive a wonderfully strong science background for this professional goal by majoring in science.

On the other hand, however, how much help will a major in astronomy – or the like – be for a kindergarten or primary teacher? Or how can a teacher with a major in psychology, for example, be expected to teach all of the major content areas in a primary school – English, math, science, music, physical education, art - without having had any individual methods courses dealing with these subjects?

Currently, Virginia is the only state, besides Texas, which has mandated this new teacher education program. Whether or not these changes will solve any of the current problems in the educational system today has yet to be proven. I hold serious doubt.

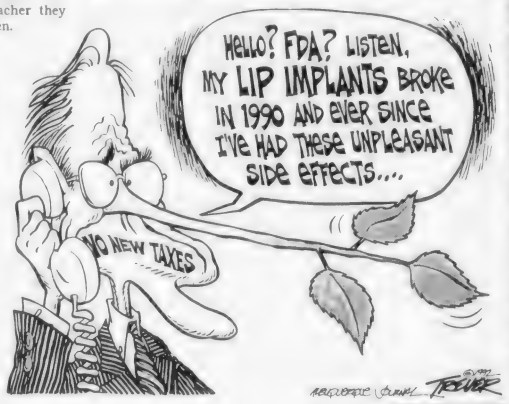
Nevertheless, this new program is now a reality which all state supported colleges in Virginia are forced to follow, at least for the time. With that in mind, doubts need to be cast aside so that educators can focus their attention to the only important issue of this entire mess – becoming the best teacher they can be, for the children.

Letter To The Editor

Editor, The Rotunda:

On the evening of March 25, I went with two friends to the Weyanoke Retirement Home. We went with the intention of doing an arts and crafts project with the residents.

When we arrived, we helped them make door decorations with a spring theme. Not only was it an enlightening experience to me, it seemed enjoyable to the men and women there as well.



After our activity was over, I played the piano for the residents. As I played, more and more people gathered to listen. Not only did it seem to make the residents happy, but I felt very content being there making music. When I left Weyanoke that evening, I had an incredible feeling of accomplishment; I made friends and was able to make a difference with my music.

I strongly encourage anyone who enjoys sharing their personal talents to visit Weyanoke a few times before they graduate. Not only will it brighten and make a difference in your life, it will brighten someone else's as well.

Cullen Johnson

ROTUNDA

Longwood College
Box 1133
Farmville, VA
23909

1920
Founding Editor
Helen Skillman

STAFF

Executive Editor
Bradley L. Owen

Features Editor
Sherry Gatewood

Sports Editor

Asst. Features Editor
Ann Renee Heim

Head Photographer
R. Alex Rodriguez

Associate Editor
Erin C. McCay

Assistant Editor
James K. Johnson

Business Manager

Advisors
Mr. William C. Woods
Ms. Brenda Atkins

Reporters/Assistants: Thomas D. Birchett, IV, Todd Buchanan, Michael K. Carter, Dina Dawson, Kathy DiMarino, Sarah Drewry, Tina Gewerth, Lynn Gianni, Travis W. Griffin, Debra E. Mayo, Claude Monger, Christy Mottley, Kimberly Mraz, Chris Mullins, Linda M. Nygaard, Kandi Pettus, Jennifer Phillips, Rose Ann Pitzl, Tricia Popular, R. Alex Rodriguez, Julie K. Tate, Jennifer Wyatt, and Cassandra Yellis.

EDITORIAL POLICY

The opinions expressed in The Rotunda are not necessarily those of Longwood College, its students, staff, administration, or trustees. Columns, letters, editorials, and cartoons represent the view of their author. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

All letters to the Editor must be typed, signed, have a return address, and phone number. The Editor and staff reserve the right to edit any material submitted for publication.

All contributions shall be addressed to The Rotunda, LC Box 1133, Farmville, VA 23909. Deadline for articles is 5p.m. Friday prior to the Wednesday publication date and these should be place in the envelopes inside the Publication offices door in Lankford or mailed. Letters, personals, etc. are due on the office door by 8p.m. Sunday. All submissions become the property of The Rotunda.

Published weekly since 1920 by the students of Longwood College, The Rotunda is an Associated Collegiate Press and Columbia Scholastic Press Association award winning newspaper. Questions or comments should be directed to our main office at (804) 395-2120 or faxed to (804) 395-2237.

NEWS BRIEFS FROM AROUND THE COUNTRY

Cafeteria Food Scam Reported

CORVALLIS, Ore. (CPS) — If you ask other students, the motive had to be financial – good taste certainly had nothing to do with it.

Police at Oregon State University have uncovered a scam involving 27 students who falsified computer records to receive free food from university food services.

Police allege that junior Reihan Ahmed Zakat, 23, who works in the student identification center, was the main instigator of the scam that netted over $25,000 worth of university food over a one year period, the school paper The Daily Barometer reported.

Police believe Zakat entered the names of 27 students, including himself, into university meal plan, when in reality they hadn't.

According to the Daily Barometer, 25 of the 26 other students have confessed and all have agreed to repay the school's food services and face criminal charges of first-degree theft or aggravated first-degree theft.

Poster Touts Skiing and Studying

STOWE, Vt. (CPS) Vermont's governor recently revealed a slick new poster with a skiing theme to recruit students to the state's 23 public and private schools.

Gov. Howard Dean displayed the poster at a press conference without apologies for its recreational slant.

The poster, which lists the state's public and private schools read: "Vermont: It's a Great Location for an Education. Want to make tracks in your field of choice? Look to Vermont."

The poster features a student reading at her desk, which has a computer on it. Behind her, colorfully clad skiers can be seen on a steep slope, and her state-of-the-art ski equipment is prominently featured.

Hood College Freezes Tuition

FREDERICK, Md. (CPS) In contrast to the national trend of skyrocketing tuition costs, fees at Hood College will be frozen for students entering the 1992-93 academic year.

For the first time in 20 years, this private college for women is holding firm on cost — tuition remains at $12,078, with room and board still at $5,675.

"It was a decision the board made to demonstrate their commitment to families paying the high cost of education," said Nancy Gillece, director of admissions.

Though Hood officials will not know how the announcement will affect enrollment for 1992-93 until the May 1 application deadline, Gillece said the feedback has been very positive.

"People appreciate this commitment," added Gillece, who said that the school is not certain how many years the freeze will last.

A subcommittee reviews costs annually and comes up with the tuition fees, she said.

ΣAE Fraternity Hit By High-Tech Burglars

URBANA, Ill. (CPS) Members of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign returned from Spring Break to find their house burglarized.

